Dear Henryk:

Re Yours of July 11, 1962.

Please find in my last two packages of translations the accompanying letters to you, in which I mention the number of pages from the enclosed Russian papers, which have been translated. I regret that I possess no copies of these letters, - there was no available typist to type these letters. I enclose a carbon of Mrs. Bekker to me of May 23, 1962. To the pages mentioned in it, should be now added the pages translated from Vielov's two larger papers, plus 8 pages from a smaller paper by another author (his pupil at L'vov), which is bound together with his illustrated ^{Vielov's} ¹⁹⁴⁸ monograph (fully translated).

Could you make a request to Moore about payment due for complete translations of all material requested by you? You could state ^{in it} that I have submitted to you all the translations, made from enumerated

5 Russian papers, and ^{indicate} a number of pages of Russian text translated from each. The point is I am having a difficulty in getting a stenographer for writing formal letters.

I anticipate that Roy will make a payment ~~per~~ ^{total number of} pages, on the same basis on which he evaluated my translation from the Russian paper on nautilus (and other) cephalopods at the request by Carl Teichert.

Yours sincerely
Max
