Dear Dr. Stenzel,

Under separate cover I am taking the liberty of mailing you six specimens of microscopic bivalves I succeeded in isolating from some rubble I managed to extract from the mouth of the specimens of Latirus singleyi Harris, which you were kind enough to send me some weeks ago. Could you by chance identify them for me? My literature on the subject is very scanty and I dread undertaking the task of research without finding out if there is an easier path.

I have also isolated some microscopic gastropods, which I shall be glad to mail you for determination if you like.

I received the copy of Gardner's bulletin and am planning to purchase various numbers of the CATALOGUE at an early date.

I managed to get hold of a copy of Hanna's : Methods in Paleontology. Lots of interesting and valuable hints on fossil collecting.

Hoping to hear from you soon, I beg to remain,

Sincerely yours,

Morris K. Jacobson
