Dear Doctor Stenzel,
Your letter of two months ago was much more welcome than this belated reply indicates.

The remark about Corbula bed or beds was very appropriate. I know all good Shell geologists are supposed to follow Lozo to the letter and at last word he favored two Corbula beds — but I just cannot see it in the field or in theory. Another ^{resulting} good question — what is the interval between Corbula and the top of the Glen Rose? It evidently varies considerably from one county to the next. Makes it bad in flat country.

There is a rumor here to the effect that Texas' loss is Houston's gain. True? Congratulations! I understand you are to be Head of Department of Geology. I hope it proves satisfactory to you. I know Houston is getting a good break. I hope Texas is learning a lesson.
