

I, too, had some good news on April 1. The company decided that a veteran employee of seven weeks was due a raise. My pay check is $11.00 fatter now - also a new income tax bracket and no short forms.

It was nice to hear of the progress Roux and Twining are making. What are Roux' plans when you leave?

You asked about the Salenia bed - I have been living on (or just above it) it off and on since I started. However, I saw no crab claws. Or possibly those Cretaceous molds are unrecognizable to me after working with those beautiful Tertiary shells. I have worked on all the Cretaceous from Cow Creek to Esccondido in addition to Midway, Wilcox, Carrizo, Yegua, Jackson, Cataboula, and Oakville.

We have been having quite a disagreement in the office about limestones. The boss and number two man argue that all Cretaceous limestone islastic; my field partner and I disagree. The Buda particularly seems to me to be a
