Dear Dr.Stenzel,

I am sorry to bother you again, but among the Cirripedes I returned to you were some curious little organisms, somewhat like my sketch. I did not know what these were, nor could I get anyone else to recognise them. Now I think they are the peduncle plates of a Cirripede; and I should like to have them again, for I would like to illustrate at least one of them. Perhaps you could allow me to keep one or perhaps two of the duplicates for there are a number of specimens.

Thanking you for the further details of the labels.

With regrets for troubling you,

Yours sincerely,

J. H. Collins.
