Dear Bill:

Thank you for your letter of March 31. My plans are to go to the AAPG convention at St. Louis. The Marc Twain Hotel has my reservation for St. Louis.

After the AAPG meeting, I shall probably go to Washington, D.C., to confer with a chemist at the Carnegie Institution concerning composition of the amino acids in oyster shells. Sofar, these later plans are tentative.

It will be good to have a chance to talk to you. There are many questions I have, and I would like to have a good insight in your progress.

I am not surprised you received that grant. You have many friends. Just keep putting out good work and stay modest, and you will get along.

Sonja is in Mexico City and Yetta at Scarsdale. Both are doing well.

Best regards,

B. H. Stenzel
