FACULTY ACTIVITIES

Sarah Cleveland, Scot Powe, and Raoul Schonemann spoke on "Does Social Change Come Through the Courts?" for a panel discussion sponsored by the UT chapter of the National Lawyers Guild, Oct. 16, 2001, at the Law School.

At the American Society for Legal History annual meeting in Chicago, Nov. 9-11, 2001, Michael Gagarin spoke on "Writing Athenian Law" for a session on "Law and Literacy in Ancient Greece"; and Scot Powe spoke about the relationship of the "new" political science to Supreme Court history as part of a roundtable on "Political Science and the New Supreme Court Histories."

Carl Baudenbacher spoke on Oct. 17, 2001, at a seminar in Luxembourg, organized by the EFTA Court for judges from the European Court of Justice, the EFTA Court and national courts of several EFTA States, on "Judicial Globalization: An Important Step Forward or New Wine in Old Bottles?"

Sarah Buel gave a keynote presentation to the U.S. Attorney's Office in New York City, Oct. 26, 2001, on "The Criminalization of Domestic Violence: Federal Laws and Policy." On Oct. 27, 2001, she gave a keynote presentation, "Sarah Buel on Domestic Violence: What Appellate Judges Need to Know," to the annual conference of New York State Appellate Judges.

Henry Hu was quoted in a Nov. 15, 2001, Financial Times story appearing on its web site on the role of securities analysts and possible regulatory and judicial scrutiny of this role.

Christy Nisbett spoke at The National Association of Administrative Law Judges Annual Meeting and Conference, Nov. 5, 2001, on "The Use of Logic in Legal Writing."

Steven Ratner was quoted in the San Francisco Chronicle, Nov. 4, 2001, on the legal aspects of the U.S. use of force against Afghanistan.

A letter by Louise Weinberg was published in the Austin American-Statesman on Nov. 18, 2001, at J14, captioned "New Values." Weinberg wrote that "the anger of young people in the Arab and Muslim world requires no change in American policies concerning Iraq, Israel, or Saudi Arabia. It requires strong international efforts directed toward securing education of young people in that world in useful skills and knowledge beyond rote learning of the Quran, and in more constructive values than hatred, intolerance and anger."

Ernest Young presented a paper entitled "Activism, Conservatism, and the Federalist Revival" at the Ninth Annual Ira C. Rothgerber, Jr. Conference on "Conservative Judicial Activism," Oct. 20, 2001, at the University of Colorado School of Law.
