WHERE ARE THE STUDENTS?

Despite the article some time ago which listed several record-breaking prodigies in the University, the prospects are that if the student body does not awake to a realization of what it is here for, the local chapter of Phi Beta Kappa is going to languish with the next crop of degree candidates. There was a day when in every class there was a real "scholar" to whom the ordinary ones looked for inspiration and incidentally for aid; but now such specimens if present have hidden their lights under several bushels. Not only has the species "scholar" faded away, but the number on the fatality list of "gentlemen's average" has increased almost by columns. Many a fond father will welcome home an erring son as a result of a winter of buzzarddom.

The Texan has ears enough to hear resolution after resolution the week before finals to the tune of "If I get through this time, I never will be caught napping again." But the old time spring relaxation has hit us harder than ever. The temptation to spend a week or two "recuperating" from the strenuous mental labors of cramming for finals has continued in increasing force as the days have grown longer. The Library has become a social center, a sort of tealess tea room; the campus is the scene of a continued picnic from nine to nine, or later. The question is if there were more casualties than ever before on the Dean's list last term when the flu ban was on and there were no Barton Springs trips, will the Texas have the honor roll as a space filler next fall.

The fault is of course with the individual student, as well as the student body in general. Of course there is much temptation to loaf in a library crowded with jabbering couch cooties, but it is rumored there are still left a few private rooms quiet enough for study to be possible, if difficult. We all pride ourselves on being intelligent enough to pass our courses if we just studied a little. There is not the least need for grinds; what is needed is a vacation of an hour or two a day from the labors of having a good time. A student is supposed to study once in a while.

It can be done. Try it.

TRACK TRYOUTS MEET SATURDAY

the others he stated that it was difficult to say as many of the men were not at their best and it is likely that they will improve before the next meet. The strongest events at present are the mile run, the shot put, the pole vault and the high hurdles.

D. W. Waltmon, one of the strongest members of this year's squad, has sprained his ankle and will probably be unable to join the team again this term. Coach Juneau stated this morning. Waltmon suffered his injury several days ago and it was thought at the time that it would soon recover. Later indications are, however, that it will prevent any participation for at least several weeks. The loss to the team will be understood when it is stated that Waltmon broke the Southwestern record in the broad jump and the Texas record in the high jump while on the squad last year.

Particularly good records made Saturday included the winning of the mile run by Gray, whose time was 4 min., 51 2/5 sec. This time was the best of the day, according to Coach Juneau. Gray also won the 880 yard run, making this event in 2 min., 9 4/5 sec. In the shot put, creditable showing was made by Wilcox who hurled the pill for a total of 34 feet, 8 inches. Others to reveal good form Saturday were Moss, Barren, Holbert, Brown, and Ferguson.

Coach Juneau stated that the meet with Baylor Friday promises to produce keen competition. The Bears defeated the Southwestern Pirates by a huge score, and it is highly probable that they will capture certain events from the Longhorns. One advantage is the fact that they have participated in a contest while the Texans have had only practice thus far. The meet will be held Friday afternoon on Clark Field beginning at 4 o'clock.

In the three events omitted during the preliminary Saturday following have shown up best: Moss, Ferguson, and Brown in the low hurdles; Brown in the high jump (distance 5 ft. 10 in.); and Brown, Ferguson, and Blaisdell in the pole vault. The events Saturday, in the order of their occurrence and with the winners, were as follows:

120 yard hurdle—Moss, first (only contestant).
Mile run—Gray, first; Bright, second; Primer, third; Cox, fourth; and CHAPEL NOTICE.

The first poem that Mr. Lindsay read this morning is one in imitation of a colored preacher's sermon. Several times in the poem the line "John Brown went to Palestine" appears. Each time when Mr. Lindsay came to this line he chanted it off in true darkie style, and the listeners echoed back in chorus, "What did he see in Palestine." Then would follow some wonderfully descriptive lines of John Brown's experiences in the Holy Land. Another poem was "General Booth's Entrance into Heaven." The poet's remarks about the Salvation Army are not mere opinion, but are based on his personal experience with the Army. Another on "True Love" asserted in contrast to the ordinary love poem, that love is stern. By request Mr. Lindsay repeated the little poem "The Sun says his prayers, said the fairy."

Mr. Thos. W. Currie, secretary of the University Y. M. C. A. will speak at Chapel tomorrow morning.

SUMMER CAMP IS PROPOSED FOR GEOLOGY

An advanced course in Geology comprising features of both work and pleasure is Geology 27-31 which will be offered by H. P. Bybee, adjunct professor of geology during the first session of the summer school. The course is open only to men who have had geology 1.

According to the latest plans the class will leave on about June 10 for the western part of Mason county about 150 miles west of Austin. The camping site will probably not be within fifteen miles of any town, and the men will live in camp the entire six weeks. This part of Mason county has never been mapped by geologists and part of the work of the class will be the mapping of the rocks there.

Expenses of the course will amount to practically the same as if it were given at the University.

It is probable that only about fifteen men will be allowed to go as not more than that number can be successfully handled in this particular work. Men who have had Geology 1, and are interested in taking the course are invited to call at Dr. Bybee's office, 301 Main Building, and discuss plans.

Come to Palace Barber Shop for the best service, next door to Kress.

THE EVANS ORATORICAL CONTEST: All those interested, be sure to get the date for the Evans Oratorical contest on Tuesday night, April 8, in mind and be there. The prize will be given at the Law Auditorium where the meet is to be held.

The University of Texas

through THE DIVISION OF EXTENSION TEACHING OFFERS 250 COURSES BY CORRESPONDENCE

The high-school graduate who cannot attend college is afforded an excellent opportunity for continuing his education and keeping alive his habits of study.

The high-school graduate who is going to college is furnished a chance to discover the character of college courses and lighten his freshman work. Many students fail in their first year at college because they are unable to adapt themselves to college methods. The student who feels out the situation by taking a correspondence course greatly increases his chances of success when he arrives on the ground.

The teacher may take a vacation and at the same time add to his college credits.

For catalog, write to the Division of Extension Teaching, University of Texas, Austin.

Speaking, is the author of "Extempore Speaking," "Public Speaking," "Science and Art of Debate," and "The Rhetoric of Oratory." These books are used as college and University texts.

In the field of foreign language, Prof. E. Prokosch has written "German for Beginners," "Introduction to German," "Sounds and History of the German Language," and several German reading or practice books. Prof. G. F. Hall is the author of "All Spanish Method," a text for first year Spanish, and "Poco a Poco," a similar text.

In the School of Economics, Prof. E. T. Miller is the author of "A Financial History of Texas," and Prof. A. B. Wolfe has prepared a book called "Readings in Social Problems."

GLEE CLUB MAKES BIG HIT BEFORE DALLAS AUDIENCE

Lyons ballad called "Absent," the singers went into the realm of the college song, where they were thoroughly at home. After several ditties were rendered they sang the following quatrain:

"We thank you for your kind applause
We think it is immense,
"But we're not going to sing our fool heads off,

"Because we've got good sense."
This seemed to be a challenge to the audience, because they demanded another encore.

W. E. Metzenthin, associate professor of Germanic languages in the University of Texas and director of the Glee Club, was one of the soloists. His two numbers, Fay Foster's "The Americans Come" and Neidlinger's, "Honey Town" were well received. Mr. Metzenthin has been director of the Glee Club for a number of years. In addition, he has the reputation of being "the all-around man" of the faculty, being an accomplished musician, actor, and as athlete, he has coached winning track and football teams.

SAVE TIME BY READING THE ADVERTISEMENTS

What do you want—a hat, coat, suit, a pair of shoes, gloves, a cravat? Or do you want to send flowers to someone? Or perhaps candy. Maybe you need some books or stationery.

Of course you are busy and haven't time to look in all the stores for just the article you want.

So for your convenience the merchants tell you through the advertisements just what they have. If you read them, you are sure to find the best place to buy.

No merchant would spend money advertising if his merchandise were not of good quality and fairly priced. It wouldn't pay.
