Two Destroyers Sunk by Japs Off Okinawa

Yanks Seize Half Of Naha Airfield In Surprise Attack

WASHINGTON, June 4. — (INS)—The Navy Department announced the loss of United States destroyers Morrison and Luce, sunk by the Japanese at Okinawa.

A Navy spokesman said that loss of life on both ships was heavy. Destroyers of this class, displacing 2,000 tons, have complements of more than 200 officers and men.

Both the Luce and the Morrison had served with the fast carrier task force of the Pacific fleet in the Philippine campaign before moving on to Okinawa last March.

More than 450 Superfortresses renewed the air war against Japan Tuesday (Japanese time) by making a third fire-bomb strike at Kobe.

They rained 3,000 tons of incendiaries on the city, which is the empire's greatest port.

First reports said Kobe was blasted from end to end.

Meanwhile, Sixth Division Marines captured half of the Naha airfield Monday as U. S. Tenth Army forces made substantial gains in all sectors on tottering Okinawa despite renewed attacks by Japanese suicide planes.

Sixth Division Leathernecks, landed strong forces on Oraku Peninsula and overran half the airfield in a rapidly organized amphibious operation.

The Naha airfield, some 350 miles south of the Japanese homeland, is the largest on Okinawa and the last remaining in enemy hands.

Churchill Says Socialism Abhorrent to Freedom

LONDON, JUNE 4.—(INS)—Prime Minister Churchill opened the radio phase of his election campaign with an attack on the labor party's socialist program and appealed to the Liberal party to support his new "national government."

The Socialist program, he declared, "is abhorrent to the British ideas of freedom."

"There can be no doubt that Socialism is inseparably interwoven with totalitarianism and the abject worship of the state," he said.

School Board Decides Not to Teach Religion

The Austin School Board, upon recommendation of its special committee on religious instruction, has decided to reject a proposal made by the Council of Churches to teach Bible courses in Austin High School.

Vets in Danger Of 'Fake' Schools

Exorbitant Fees For 'Refreshers'

A number of fly-by-night schools and colleges, designed to exploit the returning veteran who wants to continue his education and is eligible to receive $500 a year in tuition fees from the government under the G. I. Bill of Rights, have been established in various parts of the country, according to Dr. Francis J. Brown, educational consultant of the American Council on Education.

Exorbitant fees are charged for special "refresher" courses for servicemen. In some instances even reputable institutions are establishing courses for veterans at fees in excess of their standard rates for regular students.

In a circular to its members, the Association of American Colleges, representing the six hundred liberal arts colleges of the nation, warned against "fake" institutions of higher education that might be organized under the stimulus of the G. I. Bill of Rights.

Dean J. B. Edmonson of the School of Education, University of Michigan, declared that any state that failed to protect veterans against being "gypped" in their future education should be subjected to severe criticism from both educators and veterans.

Under the existing G. I. Bill, each state has the power to certify to the Veterans Administration those institutions that are qualified to give acceptable courses of study in the various educational categories. In a communication to each of the forty-eight governors, the Committee on Post-War Medical Service of the American Medical Association called upon the states to maintain high standards in approving the schools that are to go on the accredited list.

The governors were warned that certain schools that thus far had failed to obtain approval would make efforts to participate in the tuition payments of the federal government by having their names placed on the list of approved institutions.

The recommendation was made that each governor appoint an advisory committee composed of persons qualified to advise him with respect to the quality of education and training given by institutions and in the fields of medicine, dentistry, nursing, X-ray, and various laboratory techniques.

Dr. Brown pointed out that only a few of the state agencies authorized by law to approve schools that may participate in the G. I. Bill of Rights have taken their responsibility seriously. Almost none, he said, had appointed personnel and made funds available for inspection prior to approval.

An amendment to the G. I. Bill of Rights was attacked by Dr. Brown. One section of this proposed to give the Veterans Administration the sole authority to approve both a school and the courses in the case of commercial or proprietary institutions. He urged that power of approval should remain with the states. He also pointed out that any commercial school that could demonstrate that its intensive program was equivalent of a school year, even though it was only six weeks in length, could collect the $500 tuition fee.

Anything that anyone can do to emphasize the importance of eliminating fly-by-night, gyp-joint institutions, will render a worthwhile contribution to the education and training of veterans.

K. Cornell Gives Baylor Browning Miniatures

Baylor University's Browning library recently received by air mail-special a gift from Katharine Cornell—two miniatures of Robert and Elizabeth Barrett Browning on ivory, framed in gold. The paintings are by James Warren Child of London, who specialized in painting famous contemporary actors and actresses.

Miss Cornell has closely identified herself with the Brownings in the success she has made of the "Barretts of Wimpole Street" through years of presenting the play in America.

of the Brotherhood Thru Books Campaign.

John Pettit and Dick Dale, posing as Nazi Troopers demonstrated the wanton destruction of the books as has been done for the past decade in the countries of Europe. The burning of these books is emblematic of the freedom of thought and word that has been lost to the enslaved peoples of the European world. It is to replace the lost volumes of literature of science, fiction, and history to the universities which are soon to be restored.

Corrugated boxes will be placed in sorority, fraternity, and boarding houses, also in the dormitories and co-ops in which each student is given an opportunity to contribute at least one book. Each house will be visited by a student campaigner who will explain the intricate details of dropping the book in the aforesaid boxes.

A goal of 6,000 books has been set by Campaign Chairman Lucy Ruggles representing one book shared between one University student to one student of a ravaged University in Europe.

The University was chosen by the World Student Service Fund as one of the ten universities to participate in the Brotherhood Thru Books Campaign.

'Most People Have Had Polio'

Expert Says Many Gain Immunity

As the polio scare in Austin waned a little bit, Dr. Howard A. Howe, one of America's leading neurologists, wrote in Harpers, "It is believed that the vast majority of people must have had infantile paralysis and gained a practical immunity without ever being aware of it."

In the article Dr. Howe, who is head of the Poliomyelitis Research Center at John Hopkins University, advises everyone to "stop worrying—you can't keep from being exposed" in the present stage of knowledge about infantile paralysis. During epidemics the virus is so wide-spread that avoiding it would be practically impossible.

No new cases have been reported among the Navy students or in Austin. Civilian physical training classes resumed Monday morning, but physical training for Navy students will not start until the first of July.

It was not until 1907 that a Swedish investigator, Wickman, produced convincing evidence that polio is infectious. So small is the virus by which the disease is transmitted that it has not yet been visually identified.

Viewed in the large, it is usually a mild disease. During epidemics, children from ages up to ten years, at most there are two to four cases in a thousand; from ten years of age on up the rate declines sharply and from twenty years and over, about one in a hundred thousand are stricken by the disease—even in epidemics.

Prof's Find Affairs of the Heart Not Just Auricles and Ventracles

By VIRGINIA ROBERTSON

"I wonder if professors really understand what love is," remarked a student a few weeks ago after he had listened for an hour to a lecture on Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet." The student went on to say, "Professors go on and on about love affairs, but I bet they've never had any of their own."

If this student were to read Dean Taylor's book, "Fifty Years on Forty Acres," he would become well acquainted with the inside love angles of professors. Dean Taylor, who for fifty years listened to students' troubles, was also a listener and adviser to his many colleagues.

Dean Taylor tells about the domestic professor who thirty-five years ago had a tragic matrimonial affair. This professor had the earmarks of someone who knows all about girls, their ideals, their reactions, and ambitions. He had never had a love affair and he fell hard. Being a scientist, he was devoted to the dissection of earthworms, decayed fish, and dead cats; and he thought he knew all about the heart, its actions, and reactions. Finally, after teaching and writing pamphlets on zoological and biological questions, he met a specimen on the campus that was rare and the exception to the rule. She was one of his classes, and of course wanted to pass the course with a good grade. He fell for her so quickly that he forced matters to a conclusion before the examination. He even made the girl set the date, so she placed it in August.

The professor had been elected to a position in a western state and he made all the arrangements without consulting anybody. He went so far as to buy a car load of furniture, household equipment, and dishes without consulting his prospective bride. Just two days before the ceremony he started the furniture for the western state and anxiously awaited the day of the ceremony. Before he was to take the train for the bride's home he received a telegram from her mother saying: "Mary married Mr. Johnson today."

U.T. Stresses Training Of Junior College Staff

Both factual and professional training for junior college administrators and teachers was stressed at the recent meeting in Washington, D. C. of the national committee on the preparation of junior college teachers, according to Dr. C. C. Colvert, University professor and consultant in junior college education.

"The University of Texas junior college training program is in line with work being done elsewhere," Dr. Colvert said. "I found that much emphasis is given to a broad training for junior college teachers."

With the Texas-A. & M. bond issue amendment still "up in the air," the Forty Ninth Legislature will wind-up its business Tuesday morning (theoretically) after a season well-filled with legislation concerning the University.

Sine die adjournment is scheduled at 12 noon, but many well-advanced and important bills and resolutions remain undisposed of.

In conference committees—S.B. 167, the rural aid appropriation bill; S.B. 48, the secret ballot bill; S.B. 338, exemption of veterans from educational fees at state institutions.

Conference report read—H.J.R. 49, the road fund freeze amendment.

Awaiting concurrence on amendments—S.J.R. 18, the University and A. & M. bond issue amendment as amended by the House; H.J.R. 62, the veterans' land purchase amendment as amended by the Senate (the House refusing to concur).

The Texas-A. & M. bond issue amendment is "definitely hanging on the ropes," Weldon Hart of the Austin American writes that in the short time remaining, these actions would have to be taken to save it: "(1) The Senate to concur in House amendments, which seemed highly improbable, or as an alternative to ask for a conference committee; (2) the committee to meet and work out a compromise, and (3) both houses to adopt the conference report by two-thirds majorities."

Similarly rapid action will be necessary on the veterans' land purchase amendment, adopted by the Senate Monday but with an amendment which re-injected the public school fund into the picture. Senator Allen Shivers sent up the amendment requiring that bonds issued to finance the purchase of federal-owned lands for re-sale to veterans be bought by the public school fund.

And a real hot-potato, the rural aid bill, was tied up when the conferees were reported deadlocked.

Other exes killed in action on Iwo Jima are Corporal Millard F. Shaw, student in 1943-44, on March 5; Private First Class Dan Walker, 1944-45, on February 23; Private First Class Jack M. Noren, 1941-42, on March 11; and Private Warner Rox Underwood, 1938-39, on February 19.

Those killed recently in Germany include Private Glenn Harrison, 1944-45, on February 20—two days after going into combat; Earl Eugene Harvey, 1941-42, March 4; Captain Jerry Ray McDonald, 1942-43, on February 28; Staff Sergeant Loebe G. Catter on May 30; Lieutenant James O. Dick, 1936-37, on February 25; and Lieutenant James Wilson Spann, 1939-41, on April 27 after thirty-five sorties.

Naval Hospital To Be Built Here

Truman Approves $4,000,000 Project

A permanent naval hospital to be built on the edge of the Austin has been approved by President Truman. Congressman Lyndon Johnson notified Mayor Tom Miller Sunday.

Location of the site for the 500-bed hospital, to cost between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000, will be announced by the Navy soon. Mayor Miller believes the land will be among the tracts already examined by Rear Admiral J. T. Mathews, superintendent of Naval Area 4, New Orleans. Admiral Mathews has been here and has inspected four or five sites close to Austin.

The city will furnish the land, probably about two hundred acres and will extend utility services. Congressman Johnson's office indicated that construction will be started in the near future.

Congressman Johnson secured partial approval of Austin as the site of the naval hospital before he left for Europe, where he is now serving as chairman of the naval affairs sub-committee on permanent American naval bases. The project awaited the approval of the United States director of the budget and of President Truman, which have now been given, according to Congressman Johnson's message.

The Navy ruled that it required a site near a large city to afford suitable transportation and recreational facilities for the patients in the hospital.

"Our locality is well adapted for the rebuilding and restoration to health of men injured in the service of our country," said Mayor Miller in a letter to Admiral Mathews late in March.

Recreational facilities here are the best in the state, he pointed out in the same letter. "Austin is a city of homes. Many people come here to live and send their children to The University of Texas. Austin is known as the cleanest city in the state. . . . On account of its cultural advantages and beautiful location, hills and lakes, people come here to live. . . . During the life of the hospital, I pledge the co-operation of the city government and the people of Austin in making this proposed naval hospital one of the best in the country," he wrote.

It was estimated that the hospital will require a staff of more than four hundred doctors, technicians, and nurses, indicating an addition of several hundred families to Austin's permanent residents.

Delta Taus, 3rd Roberts, Dragons, Latins Win All-Year 'Mural' Titles; Moore, Kennell, Burks, Amado Top Stars

By GEORGE RABORN
Team Sports Editor

Along with the announcement that the intramural swimming meet and the softball play-offs had been postponed until next semester came the sad word that there would be no interesting Pow Wow, that annual meeting of intramural managers scheduled for June 8, intramural director Berry Whitaker announced yesterday.

Although there will be no formal presentation of awards, the latest red-hot statistics from the busy intramural office show that the Delta Tau Deltas, the 3rd Co. Roberts, the Reluctant Dragons, and the Latin-American Club all won their divisional titles by wide margins.

Highest score of all was made by the mighty, wonderfully-conditioned Delta Taus, who rolled up the tremendous total of 2,146 points and were slated to add many more in swimming. The fraternity division was so strong that the second-place aggregation, the S.A.E.'s touch football champions, had more points with 1,781 than any other divisional champion. David Dellinger and Keith Brown were the hard-working managers of these two teams.

Third highest score among all the intramural teams was compiled by the earnest Latin-Americans, who totalled 1,751 points to top the club division. Their manager, versatile Julio Amado, did a fine job.

Heading the Navy V-12 division is the 3rd Co. Roberts, (volleyball winner) guided by Maxie Bell, which made 1,694½ points. The MICA champions, the Reluctant Dragons piloted by Jack Burks, ended up with 1,401 1-3 tallies, being the weakest of the divisional champions and being outscored by all the teams already listed and also by the Kappa Sigs, A.T.O.'s, Sigma Nus, Dekes, Sigma Chis, 5th Co., Prather, and Presbyterian Club.

Also released by the intramural department was the final tabulation of points made by the leading athletes. This dope provided a surprise ending as the Delta Taus' great competitor, R. A. Manogue, was nosed out by Larry Moore of the A.A.E.'s. Manogue, who led the entire season, had 145 points to 159 for Moore. Manogue is a V-12 trainee from Cincinnati, Ohio, while Moore hails from Wichita Falls, Texas.

Barely falling short of these two star fraternity men was J. E. Kennell of the 3rd Co., Roberts, a rangy lad from Balboa Island, Calif., who totalled 144 points to finish far ahead of his Navy rivals. Jack Burks of the Reluctant Dragons, an Odessa, Texas, citizen, headed the MICA division with 123 points—and Julio Amado, a good neighbor from Panama, scored 120 markers for his Latin-American buddies.

However, both Burks and Amado were outscored by D. C. Brown of the Sigma Nus, who comes from Longmeadow, Mass., who made 137 points, and by R. L. Johnson, an A.T.O. from Seattle, Wash., who chalked up 124. Due to receive awards are the following champions in spring sports: volleyball—the 3rd Co. Roberts; tennis singles—Julio Amado of the Latin-American Club; track—Delta Tau Delta; individual track event winners—R. M. Munroe of the Delta Taus in the 120-yard low hurdles, W. C. Gallie of the A.T.O.'s in the 50-yard dash; W. L. Moore of the S.A.E.'s in the 100-yard dash;

R. L. Reed of the Delta Taus in the 220-yard dash, the Delta Tau quartets in both the 440 and 880-yard relays, W. L. Simons of the 5th Co., Prather in the shot put, J. T. Painter of the Delta Taus in the high jump, E. J. Kucera of the Phi Psis in the broad jump, and Dick Travis of the Sammies in the javelin; softball divisional champions—Pi Kappa Alpha in fraternity, 1st Co., L.C.D. in the V-12, Hutch House in the MICA, and Wesley Foundation in the club. In volleyball, 43 teams and 433 men participated; in tennis singles, there were 141 teams and 153 men; in track, 323 men from 40 teams trod the cinders; softball had the biggest turnout with 50 teams and 698 men; and swimming attracted 235 entries from 34 different teams.

It's been a great intramural year. Thanks, Mr. Whitaker.

Lieutenant John B. Riley B.B.A., '40, has recently been promoted to the rank of captain. He is a B-26 pilot and fighter commander with the 344th Bombardment Group in Belgium. Captain Riley has more than twenty-five missions to his credit and holds the Air Medal with four oak leaf clusters.

Lieutenant John T. Jones, student in 1941-42, has recently been freed from the Luckenwalde prison camp in Germany.

Captain Wayne Henneberger, who took a master's degree in engineering in 1942, has returned from active flying duty in Europe to Chantute Field, Ill., where he is a technical inspector and engineering officer for the Thirty-Fourth Reconnaissance Troop. At the time he entered the service he was engaged in engineering research at A. & M. Captain Henneberger's wife, the former Kathryn Rath, ex-student, is now with him in Illinois.

World Champ Allison Routs Doubles Team; Hickman Does It Too, Plays Again Today

By ALFONSO CORTES
The Southwest Conference doubles champions, Jack Blanton and Franklin McCarter, will defend Texas's doubles championship at the National Intercollegiate tournament which will be held at Evanston, Ill., the latter part of this month. The Longhorns won the national doubles the last two years. Coach D. A. Penick has scheduled strenuous practice for the duo for the next three weeks and that is exactly what they have been getting.

Last Friday, Colonel Wilmer Allison, former world champion played against the Steer duo, and displayed great tennis despite badly pulled leg muscle to defeat the hustling but inexperienced champs three straight sets. Bill Sayres played with him the first two sets, and the scores were 6-4, 6-1, Carrol Bost, a member of the squad, joined Colonel Allison in the last 8-6 set.

Yesterday, another Texas great John Hickman, played with Sayres against the champs, who were down, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3. John was conference singles champion during his three varsity years, 1942, '43, '44, a feat which has been accomplished by only three players in the history of the conference. In 1943, Hickman and Walter Driver won the conference doubles and did the impossible month later in bringing home the national intercollegiate double championship. Last year, Hickman and Felix Kelley ran roughshod through all opposition without losing a set and did justice to their number one national intercollegiate ranking by again winning the national intercollegiate double title.

Despite the fact that Lieutenant Hickman has played no tennis since he went to Officer's Candidate School his volleying, service and smashing were a thing of beauty, and kept McCarter and Blanton mystified.

Hickman will play again today at 4 o'clock at the Varsity tennis courts, adjacent to Memorial Stadium. Sayres, the Steer number one singles player, will furnish the opposition, and at 4:30, he and Sayres will team up again against McCarter and Blanton. Hickman will also be on hand both Wednesday and Thursday.

Vogue Says Women Must Dress to Suit Heart and Mind

The truly well-dressed woman of today needs more than clothes, according to Vogue's Sally Kirkland.

In a recent radio interview by Hedda Hopper, Miss Kirkland, one of the first women correspondents to visit the Pacific fighting front, said that the American woman has to dress her heart and mind. She believes this is going to be more important than ever when our men come home.

According to Miss Kirkland, the men at the front aren't worried about their danger. They're worried about how we're taking things back home and if we will be the same when they come back.

Since we're all buying so few clothes, a soft and simple background dress is at the top of a "must" list for the clothes to wear when that serviceman comes home.

Despite the trend towards blue jeans, crazy shirts, and all the other collegiate fads, girls still need to be feminine and to dress in a fashion suited to the responsible tasks they must take up in the coming years.

WICA, MICA Heads Installed Jointly Monday

WICA and MICA held joint installation services for their new officers Monday night in the Junior Ballroom of the Texas Union. Ike Spears gave the invocation, and Red Pope spoke on the need of a friendly campus to help build a friendly nation.

Joe Malik, 1945 president of MICA, presented Jimmy Allen with the president's spurs. Other new MICA officers to take the oath were Marvin Bowers, vice-president; Ike Spears, secretary; Tom Burchfield, second vice-president; and Henry Wyneken, publicity director.

Marjorie Darilek, 1945 president of WICA, introduced the old officers and swore-in Alice Faye Kitley as the new WICA president. Alice Faye gave the oath to Edith Rydell, vice-president; Iris Mae Campbell, secretary; Sally Hafner, treasurer; Sue Moore, historian; Aggie Kolos and Jean Ratliff, members at large; and Priscilla Chase, reporter.

Lifetime memberships in MICA were awarded Joe Malik, Marvin Wise, and Paul Rigby, seniors who have done exceptional work while in the organization.

Helen Graner, Sandy Sanders, Fran Pierce, Lorae Baker, Sue Moore, and Ruth Horak were presented WICA senior recognitions by Marjorie.

After the installations Bill Reynolds, accompanied at the piano by MICA sweetheart Mary Fern Bray, sang "Smilin' Through," "Just a Prayer Away," and "My Hero."

Mary Fern played while Betty Lee Decherd presided at the punch bowl.

Art Exhibit Has All Mediums

The sixth annual student art exhibit opened Monday in the Academic Room and in the Old Library Building complete with representative works of freshmen, sophomore, junior, and senior level.

Continuing until June 20, the exhibit includes all art mediums: charcoal, crayon, watercolor, oil, printmaking, decorative design, commercial art, and sculpture (round and relief).

"In contrast to previous exhibits, this year's does not include the entire spread of work, class by class," Donald Goodall, chairman of the Department of Art pointed out. "Instead, we are trying to show especially valued pieces of work from all levels and, thereby, make the exhibit much smaller."

Part of the faculty exhibit committee headed by Everett Spruce, instructor in art, the special student exhibit committee is directed by Alexander Masley, assistant professor of art.

The section of the exhibit in the Academic Room includes paintings and sculpture. Drawing and commercial art are in the Old Library Building.

Exhibit hours are 9 to 12 and 2 to 5 o'clock daily except for 9 to 12 Saturday.

Andrews Ends Year With Barn Dance At Barton Pavilion

Andrews Dormitory closed their semester of social events with a Barn Dance Saturday night, June 2, at Barton Springs pavilion. Moton Crockett and his twelve piece orchestra furnished the music for the affair, and Crackenridge Dormitory Cadets from San Marcos, Ex-Servicemen and dates were honored guests.

The pavilion was decorated with wagon wheels and lanterns suspended from the ceiling. One wheel, hanging in the center, and decorated with streamers of crepe paper, was appropriately called the "wishing wheel." In a corner was a swing in which everyone had pictures taken by Woody. In the opposite corner, the hat check room and punch counter bore the toast, "Here's to You and Here's to Me and shall we never disagree, but if we do, to heck with You, here's to Me!"

One of the highlights of the evening occurred when everyone joined in to learn "Skip To My Lou," with Joy Loeffler first showing how it was done.

More entertainment was furnished by Betty Klein, who sang several selections, and Gem Dudley and Bobby Goodgame who did a twirling duet.

Chaperons for the evening were Mrs. Ruth J. Kyle, Miss Helen Flinn, Mrs. R. J. Frazier, Miss Dorothy Needham, Miss Marjorie Newton, and Miss Regna Brene-man.

The dance committee included Fern Horine, chairman; Joy Loeffler and Betty Ballio, decorations; Martha Walton, invitations; and Deannie Mullins, Carolyn Leidecker, and Jimmie Jordan, posters and signs.

Surprises Keynoted Ex-Servicemen Show

The element of surprise seemed to be the keynote at the Saturday night midnight show given by the Ex-Servicemen's Club. The house was packed with excited students who got their fill of gags on and off stage by the University's top performers.

The music was by a volunteer group of students directed by Evelyn Busby. Their high spot was a professional rendition of "Trumpet Blues." Cactus Pryor kept the stage alive with his witty introductions and unexpected gags.

The chorus line went into the audience just to make things more exciting. A baby was shot for crying out of turn, girls chased ex-servicemen all over the theater, and a hunchbacked monster frightened many a co-ed by running up and down the aisles.

It was a wonderful show for a great purpose and the co-operation by all of the students made it a success. Beth Butte, the Alpha Chi Omega trio, the Curtin Club trio, Betty Klein, and many others made a hit with the theater audience.

The purpose of the show was to raise money to advertise the campaign being launched all over the state by the Ex-Servicemen. The scholarship fund will help send the returning veterans through school. Mr. Lou Novy contributed the Paramount Theater so that the money could be raised. The ticket office report was $1,000. This was only the beginning.

Mr. Keeton came to Port Arthur to take over the Gulf plant whose workers were on strike. When he arrived, however, the workers were back at their jobs.

Frantz's Music Brings in Bonds

Sell-Out Expected For Tuesday Night

With the Recital Hall of the Music Building practically full for Sunday afternoon's concert, and a complete sell-out expected for Tuesday night, the war bond sales for Dalies Frantz's concerts have been large. Ticket sales were proceeding Monday afternoon with only about fifty seats remaining from more than five hundred.

The concerts are being sponsored by Mu Phi Epsilon, honorary music fraternity, and war bond purchases for admittance may be made from its members.

Miss Lois Zabel, advanced piano student in the College of Fine Arts, will again assist Frantz Tuesday night at 8:15 o'clock. Miss Zabel will play the orchestral accompaniment to the Liszt "Concerto in E Flat," taking the place of Helen Haupt of the music faculty, who is unable to play because of an infected finger.

These are the first concerts to be played by Frantz in Austin since returning from a concert tour in the East and Midwest.

The program includes "Sona in B Flat Minor" by Chopin; "Concerto in E Flat," Liszt; "Ballad in A Flat," Chopin; "Waltz in F Sharp," Chopin; and "Polonaise in A Flat," Chopin.

Her recital will include the following numbers:

I
Prelude and Fugue in B Flat Major.....J. S. Bach

II
Sonata in G Minor, Opus 22.....Schumann

Presto
Andantino
Scherzo
Rondo: Prestissimo

III
Nocturne in C Sharp Minor, Opus 27, No. 1.....Chopin

IV
Impromptu in A Flat Major, Opus 29.....Chopin

Aria and Fugue on White Keys.....Anis Fuleihan

The University Club has not consulted its dictionary, having no dictionary to consult, on a new problem confronting the editor of the Weekly Shillelagh as to whether salmon brood rather than breed. The Shillelagh reports in its "boners department" that "the salmon runs are carefully observed for the purpose of regulating the catch in order to reserve an ample supply for brooding purposes."

A freshman wrote it, but the editor is not quite sure that it is a boner. Buy the University Club a dictionary and find the answer.

Profs Should Air Objections Before Allowing Cut Rule to Pass

In drawing up the proposed new system for counting cuts from classes, the faculty committee evidently did not consider the element of flexibility and the times in which we now live.

Various student reaction since the announcement of the plan has not been solely from those students who cut classes promiscuously and therefore want protection. It is also from older, more mature students—some of whom are graduating and therefore have no selfish interest—whose reaction is based on a consideration of the conditions peculiar to this period.

Is not this recommendation somewhat rigid for the present University program? Take the ex-serviceman, for example. These rigid recommendations seem merely to follow through on a plan very similar to the military methods from which he has been released.

The constant aim of administrators has been to help the returning veteran fit into the pattern of a university. One of the problems encountered has been the statement by veterans that certain requirements and restrictions seem trivial and unimportant when viewed through eyes that have seen ugly, crushing, and hard-hitting reality.

It is true that these men do not want to be treated any differently from other students, but this program has not taken them into consideration as a vital part of the student body who for a time have been exposed to rigid military regulations, and do not expect to find them when they return.

The provision for double-cuts before and after holidays hardly considers the trimester plan under which we operate. Under the program students are given very few days vacation during the year, hardly enough time for some of them to get home and back. Many students even remain in Austin on the three and four day vacations. So, realizing this situation, they save their classroom absences for periods around longer vacation time so they can spend a few more days at home.

If they save absences and take two or three of them before holidays and happen to have one other absence, they are immediately dropped from the rolls.

Furthermore, although the answers to the questionnaires distributed showed that 104 voted to enforce the same requirements on upperclassmen, 100 objected to imposing the same regulations on upperclassmen as on younger students. In the final recommendation, this shade of special consideration for more advanced students was not considered.

Professors can build up classroom attendance by other methods than such a rigid and inflexible penalty system for absences.

Rather than accept for enforcement—(as will be the case if 10 faculty members do not object) the recommendations of a small special faculty committee based on the answers of only 22 replies from 477 questionnaires sent out, it seems advisable that certain members of the faculty raise the questions already raised by students before allowing the system to go into effect.

Those who plan attendance penalties should consider conditions of today.

Individual consideration for promiscuous classcutters as part of a flexible over-all system would help build attendance better than the proposed plan.

Rather than shuttle aside objections by students to the plan, it might be wise for faculty members to meet to air these objections before the plan goes into effect.

Mostly Otherwise

Two poems from the Colorado Dodo:
Poor Alfred was a sorry skunk.
He couldn't talk too well,
And angry as poor Alfred got
He couldn't make a smell.

He met a hunter in the woods.
The man from him was shrinking.
"Don't worry, mitther," Alfred said;
It's only wishful thinking."

I hope that I shall never see.
Another silly parody
Upon a rhyme that had no call
To get itself in print at all.
The poem's no outstanding verse
And parodies are even worse.
Each new one only makes me
irked—
The form's so very overworked.
If man can't make good poetry,
Why should God let him try a tree?

A Red Cross worker on a remote Pacific island called up the Army command and said,

"We have a case of beri-beri here. What shall we do with it?"
Came the answer, "Give it to the Seabees. They'll drink anything."

Two newly-inducted hillbillies were taking their first train ride on the way to camp. A man came through the train selling bananas, a fruit which the hillbillies had never seen, and as other G.I.'s bought some, they decided to do likewise.

As one of the boys began stuffing a banana in his mouth, skin and all, the train entered a tunnel.

Soon an excited voice exclaimed: "Zeke, have you et your yet?"
"Not yet, Eb, why?" answered his companion.
"Well don't do it, Zeke. I took one bit and went blind."

Prof—Are you doing anything tonight, Miss Twiddle?
Miss Twiddle (hopefully)—

Why, no, professor, not a thing.
Prof—Then please try to be on time to class tomorrow morning.

Prof—Mr. Jones, please explain why all the quotation marks on your quiz paper.
Jones—Oh, that. That's just a little courtesy to the man on my right.

LET'S KEEP UP THE FIGHT

Any man or woman that has been teaching at the University for over ten years must have a very definite reason for signing that petition, particularly if the reason was not because they believed in it.

It has come to my attention that there are several "distinguished professors" being handed out and also several "research grants." It has also been brought to this writer's attention that various professors were called into Dr. Painter's office and asked to sign the petition. Was the first thought that entered the professor's head on being asked to sign, while in the president's office . . . "What will happen to me if I don't sign? Will I lose my chance for a distinguished professorship? Will I lose my research grant? or have it cut down?" Naturally some signed even though they didn't believe in it.

I call that indirect coercion and I admire the men and women that refused to sign this pe-

Official Notices

INFORMATION FOR SUMMER STUDENTS

Students expecting to be in the University this summer should begin now to make their plans. Most departments, but not all, will offer three types of courses, "A", "B", and "C". They are listed in an many sub-divisions in the Final Announcement of Courses, and you will have as much fun working out your program as you do with crossword puzzles. Hence this early information and advice:

1. Call at the Registrar's Office at once for (1) a Final Announcement of Courses for the Summer-Fall Semester, just issued; (2) a photocopy of your class record to date; (3) if you wish it, a tentative course card.
2. Study your course needs and if you want advice consult an appropriate member of the faculty. Finally list on your tentative card the courses, but not sections, you want to take and present it when you register on July 5.
3. The "A" courses run throughout semester (July-October), just as they do in other semesters, the most of them meeting three days a week. Most "B" courses meet six days a week and are completed in the Summer Term of eight weeks (July and August). The "C" courses meet mostly six days a week and are completed in the Fall Term of eight weeks (September and October). Watch, though, for variations.
4. If you are to attend the Summer Term only, register on July 5 for one, two, or three "su" courses; if the Fall Term only, register on September 1 for one, two, or three "f" courses.
5. If you are to attend the entire semester you will register on July 5 for the whole period (July-October) and your program may be made up entirely of "A" courses, or it may consist of "su" courses plus "f" courses, or it may have a combination of all three types. Figure correctly so you won't overload.

Fees

On July 5, all students will pay the regular semester fee of $25. Those taking only "su" courses may secure a refund of $7.50 after 15 days. Don't ask for the refund, though, until you are dead certain you will not stay beyond August, for if you do and then attend the Fall Term it will cost you $17.50. In other words, the semester fee is $25, the Summer Term fee is $17.50 and the Fall Term fee is $17.50. In the Summer-Fall Semester, or the Summer Term, or the Fall Term, no refund is made because of less than full work.

The Union fee becomes compulsory, by recent statute, on September 1. Therefore, all students registering in July for an "A" or an "f" course will pay the required fee of 50 cents, or if they choose they may pay $1.00 to include the optional fee of 50 cents for the Summer Term.

E. J. MATHEWS,
Registrar and Dean of Admissions.
N.B. July 5 is registration day and there is no provision for "late registration."

To students who signed for a refund on the 1945 Catalog: Please come by Journalism Building 108 for your money.

FRANKIE WELBORN,
Business Manager, Texas Student Publications.

MR. L. D. TRAGER of Pan American Refining Corporation will be on the campus Thursday and Friday, June 7 and 8, for the purpose of interviewing students who will graduate this semester. Mr. Trager is particularly interested in men and women who desire positions in personnel work. He would also like to interview students who are obtaining their degrees in Engineering. Call 917-Station 222 to make an appointment, or come by Waggoner Hall 119.

MRS. OLIVIA REED,
Principal Secretary
School of Business Administration.

ALL RESIDENCE chairmen are requested to return all questionnaires concerning scholastic dishonesty by June 8th to the Dean of Women's Office. Thank you.

DOROTHY GEBAUER,
Dean of Women.

STUDENTS who are interested in recreation will have an opportunity for some first-hand participation with the Austin Recreation Department this summer. Several men and women are needed as playground supervisors, either on a full or part-time basis. Girls are needed from 9 to 11:30 in the morning and from 5 to 9 P. M. while the men's jobs are from 3 to 10 P. M.

Since Austin's progressive Recreation Department sponsors so many activities, these workers are urgently needed. Anyone interested in one of these positions is urged to apply at the Student Employment Bureau, 101 M Main Building.

CHARLES V. DUNHAM,
Director, Student Employment Bureau.

IN ORDER that proprietors may have fair opportunity to replace any student who will not return at the end of the semester, ten days' notice in writing before the end of the semester must be given the proprietor by the student when making such a change. Failure to give such notice renders the student liable to a month's rent as a forfeiture.

Thursday, June 14, will be the final day of this semester for giving such notice.

CHARLES V. DUNHAM,
Assistant to the Dean of Student Life.

75 Feet of Signatures in 1921 Couldn't Move Campus to Lake

By LOUISE CAMPBELL

Deep within the Archives is a fat roll of yellowing paper, the edges of which are frayed and ripened to brown. It's a cumbersome old document some ten inches in diameter. If you bothered to unroll it, you'd find seventy-five feet of signatures—signatures like "Valeria Swanson Reynolds—Navasota—Grimes County" or "Thomas R. Ainsworth—Post—Garza County"—2,451 of them, attested to a petition addressed to the Thirty-seventh Legislature to move the site of The University of Texas of the Brackenridge tract on Lake Austin.

The University was cramped in those days of 1920-21 when the campus consisted of merely forty acres. During the preceding seven years attendance had increased considerably. Unsanitary, unsightly, and unsafe wooden buildings had been erected as classrooms. Only three structures were fireproof. As precautionary measures, fire-drill alarms frequently rent the academic atmosphere of the lecture rooms. Living accommodations were far from adequate. Hundreds of students were annually turned away because of lack of housing facilities. The University had reached its maximum growth in its present plant.

On January 5, 1921, the Board of Regents addressed a proposal to the Legislature, outlining a plan whereby the University might be moved—lock, stock, and barrel—to a tract of land on the Colorado river donated to the school by the late Colonel George W. Brackenridge, former Regent from San Antonio.

The proposal emphasized the absolute necessity for additional space. Lands adjacent to the present campus, it pointed out, were encumbered with residences and other buildings of no value to the University even if the property were to be condemned and purchased by the State. In addition to the bitterness of the landholders such a move might provoke, the cost, estimated at $5,000,000 for the property alone, would be prohibitive. An additional $10,000,000 was anticipated as payment for the buildings.

As an alternative, the Regents suggested that the State of Texas purchase from the University the Forty Acres with a view to locating a State Library and Supreme and Appellate Court Building on this site. With the funds from the purchase, supplemented by the endowment of the University, the school could then launch a building program on the beautiful 500-acre plot near Lake Austin Dam, part of which is now occupied by the Municipal golf course, with no additional financial outlay for property. The Scottish Rite Masonic Bodies had promised $1,000,000 for the erection of dormitories. Under the proposed plan the Forty Acres plant would continue to operate until the new one could be completed.

The results of the proposal were dynamic. University students and faculty, sparked by Daily Texan editorials, heralded the plan as momentous. Virtually every paper in the state came out in its support. Governor Hobby and Governor-elect Neff endorsed the scheme. "But, the Legislature remained adamant. Tremendous opposition had arisen in Austin, were groups of citizens, neighbors to the Forty Acres, put down a firm foot. Such a move would endanger the value of their property.

Counter-measures were introduced into both the Senate and the House of Representatives. Factions arose. Some advocated the Regents' plan, others proposed the purchase of lands adjacent to the Forty Acres. Some wanted to compromise by locating a junior college of The University of Texas on the Brackenridge tract with the continuation of the main University under its present set-up. Estimates on the funds to be appropriated for the expansion move soared and sank and soared again. Dr. Vinson, University president, debated against Sam Sparks before the Legislature.

Committee after committee considered plan after plan. "Write your Congressman" became a byphrase. Mud flew. Editorials flamed. Cartoons seared. The Daily Texan carried a front-page caricature of "Higher Education of Texas" in feminine garb. Caricaturing frantically from a top-story window as flames leaped about her, she was calling to befuddled firemen, tagged "Legislators," struggling with waterless hoses.

The student body held a mass meeting on February 1 in the Men's Gymnasium and cheered speeches by fellow students, faculty members, and other leaders in the movement. "The time to strike is now while the iron is hot," they were told; and so they agreed to draw up a petition of their own, sanctioning the proposal of the Regents, to be sent to the Legislature.

The petition, designed to record in black and white the pro and con feelings of every member of the student body, was circulated in classes the next morning.

Hulon W. Black, now director of the University Development Board, whose name led all the rest, was serving as editor of the Texan at that time. He tells how he and his colleagues with paste-pot and scissors worked the full length of the corridor on the second floor of Sutton Hall pasting together, end on end, the sheets of assenting signatures collected in the pool. The tally of names showed a twelve-to-one verdict: Move the University to Lake Austin for the benefit of present and posterity.

Battles raged for another month. The campus bore the brunt of verbal batterings, one of which compared it to a Missouri or Kansas cornfield—a disgrace to the State of Texas.

At length, on March 12, both houses of the Legislature accepted the report of the free conference committee and passed, almost unanimously, a bill appropriating $1,350,000 for the purchase of land adjacent to the University's Forty Acres, upon the assurance of a group of Austin citizens that the plan was feasible. The terri-

Three Countries Reward Grundy

Purple Heart Goes To Pilot Summers

Three Allied governments have decorated Lieutenant Thaddeus Grundy, B.A. '41, L.L.B. '42, for his part in successful major operations in the Mediterranean.

Lieutenant Grundy received the Croix de Guerre with palm from France as commander of the boat which rescued two French agents from the Island of Elba in the presence of two German E-boats.

For wounds received during action in Austria, Lieutenant Fabian M. Summers, 1939-43, has been awarded the Purple Heart. He is pilot of a B-24 and is flying with a veteran group of the Fifteenth Air Force.

Lieutenant Morris Nunnally, 1939-40, and Sergeant Robert E. Cauthen, 1941-42, are now wearing the Air Medal. Lieutenant Nunnally co-pilot of a B-24, is with a bombardment group in Italy that has participated in more than two hundred missions. Sergeant Cauthen is serving as a radio operator for a squadron of the Tenth Air Force in the India-Burma Theater.

Also wearing the Air Medal is Lieutenant Tom N. Bogel, who is now in Austin on a thirty-day leave. He has four oak leaf clusters to the Air Medal and four battle stars on his E.T.O. ribbon.

Lieutenant Charles R. Schneider, engineering student in 1940-43, has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross. This navigator of a B-17 also holds the Air Medal with four oak leaf clusters and belongs to a division which has been cited by the President.

Lieutenant William Sievert, 1940-42, is one of eight pilots in the 350th Fighter Group who received a commendation from Major General John Cannon, commanding general of the Twelfth Air Force. Lieutenant James L. Lewis, 1940-43, flew with the 493rd bombing group which has been commended by Lieutenant General James H. Doolittle.

The Presidential Unit Citation has been awarded to the 367th Fighter-Bomber Group of which Corporal William B. Dean, B.B.A. '43, is a member.

Waist gunner on a B-17 in the Eighth Air Force, Sergeant William M. Thacker has been decorated with the fourth oak leaf cluster to his Air Medal. A second oak leaf cluster has been received by Lieutenant Victor Probst, 1938-43. He is a co-pilot in the group which was cited by the President for leading the first American bombing attack on targets in Berlin.

For having honorably served more than one year with a character and efficiency rating of never below excellent, Staff Sergeant Hugh W. Beckom has recently received the Good Conduct Medal.

Lieutenant (j.g.) George Peabody, University student prior to his enlistment in the Navy in 1942, pilots a Hellcat fighter plane based on one of the Navy's big aircraft carriers now striking at the Japanese in the Pacific. The former Dallas flier has shot down a Jap fighter and a dive bomber. He also teamed with three other Hellcat pilots in knocking down a twin-engine bomber.

Captain Charles S. Evans, former University student, who once brought his Liberator bomber safely back to its English base with ten feet of a wing missing, is a veteran of more than four years in the army.

The 23-year-old pilot, who wears the Distinguished Flying Cross and the Air Medal with four clusters, has reported to Love Field, Dallas, after spending a leave in Austin.
