Thursday night marked the close of the Porch Swing Contest in which the various sororities of the University have been competing for the sale of tickets to the Interscholastic League basketball series which starts this morning. At the close of the heated contest comes the announcement of Mr. Roy B. Henderson that the porch swing was to be given to the sorority selling the largest number of tickets has disappeared. Field Course Organization Is Completed

Dr. J. E. Pearce, professor of anthropology, has received a notice from Professor McCurdy of Yale that the organization of a field course in European anthropology for American students has been perfected. This course has been organized by prominent French and American universities that are interested in this field. The students in this course will be fitted to work in the archaeological fields of Western Europe, notably the famous caves of northern Spain and France where so many of the important discoveries in anthropology have been made. Many famous museums and collections of anthropological subjects will also be included.

This course offers exceptional opportunities to advance students in the subject, and is especially invaluable for those who expect to specialize in it. The plans at present are to make this a permanent course, and at any rate it will be continued for several years.

Any students that are interested in this line of work may obtain further particulars from Dr. Pearce.

AMERICAN LEGION TO STAGE BATTLE IN VARSITY CIRCUS

Historic Fight of San Jacinto Will Be Given by University Post

"The Battle of San Jacinto" will be staged on April 21 at the Varsity Circus by the University Post American Legion, pursuant to the action of the Post at its meeting last night. A committee will be named by Dr. George C. Butte, post commander, to confer with the Circus management and authorities on Texas History, to work out the details for the presentation.

The University Post is receiving applications at every meeting from students who saw service during the war and desire to affiliate with the American Legion. The first week of the spring term has been designated as Membership Week by the membership committee of the University Post, of which committee Richard N. Mather is chairman. According to Mr. Mather, efforts will be made during that week to place the name of every ex-service man in the University on the register of the post.

Joe Buckingham of Dallas was elected post historian at the meeting last night and Harry Jack of Corsicana was elected post publicity officer.

Members of the American Legion who are not now receiving the American Legion Weekly can secure the magazine regularly by communicating with the circulation manager of the paper, 627 43rd Street, New York according to Franklin Lowmyer.

Following an established policy, the University Post confines its meeting to an hour, from 7 to 8.

ASSOCIATION TO SPONSOR DANCES

Until Status of German Club Is Decided Dances Will Be Under Association

At a joint meeting of the Students' Assembly and the Social Calendar Committee held Thursday afternoon, it was officially decided that the dances of the German Club would not be placed upon the social calendar until the true status of the organization had been determined.

In all probabilities, two or three weeks will be required for this investigation to take place. For this reason, and realizing the demand of the student body for a regular Saturday night dance, the joint committee decided that a dance would be given under the auspices of the Students' Association in place of the regular German, on Saturday, March 19. The management of this affair has been entrusted to George Finlay Simmons. The funds that will be realized from this dance will be held in abeyance and turned over to the German Club as soon as the present situation is cleared up, with the completion of the investigation.

FORUM COMMITTEE WILL CONSIDER FINAL PLANS

Friday afternoon has been appointed as the meeting date of the Forum Committee which was appointed to consider the advisability of organizing a students' forum in the University of Texas. The committee will meet at 5 p. m. in the Main Building, room 157. It is essential that every member of the committee be present at this meeting as a final plan of organization will be considered. A sub-committee has been working on the plan of organization for two weeks and has prepared a report which is to be submitted to the main committee at this meeting.

The members of this committee are Professors H. T. Parlin, C. P. Patterson, and Ben F. Wright, Clyde Barnes, Hulon Black, Charles Harritt, Tom Clark, Richard Jonas, Frank Williams, Prady Cole, Robert Field, Henry S. Kelly, Hardy Hollers, Eyer Simpson, Tom Hayden, W. C. Mathis, J. P. Watson, Frank McGehee, H. R. Cox, and Misses Ruby Daniels, Jesse Mary Hill, Lois Porter, Alamarine Harris and Dorothy Broad.

WOMANS COUNCIL TO MAKE NEW RULES

Committee Will Advise New Rules for Girls' Boarding Houses

Action was taken by the Representative Board to the Woman's Council on a very important matter at the regular monthly meeting Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The necessity for this arose from the fact that the only rules governing girls living in boarding and sorority houses are quite old and out of date, and have so long failed to apply to conditions that they have ceased to be observed at all. Because of this, there has grown up a feeling among a good many girls and even among some boarding house keepers, that there are no University regulations governing the girls who live in these houses.

This condition was taken up and fully discussed by the girls, and the decision was reached that this was far from ideal, and has already caused much criticism of the University and University girls, and therefore should be remedied.

The Dean of Women has the power to make and enforce any rules that she deems necessary, but Miss Casis is an ardent supporter of Student Self Government, and it is her desire that the girls of the University should handle a matter of such vital importance themselves leaving to her the part of cooperation rather than that of arbitrary action.

After discussing the many phases of the question, the Board expressed the opinion that the girls as a whole see and feel this need, and will be glad to do anything they can to remedy the situation. Those of the present rules that are really good and applicable have suffered from being associated with those that are so useless as to be ridiculous and are not regarded in the proper light. Therefore it was decided that the best thing to do would be to discard this set of rules altogether and formulate another that will be thoroughly practicable. These rules will be neither many, long, nor complicated, but will only cover those fundamental principles of convention and good breeding that would be observed by the vast majority of the girls anyhow.

A committee was elected by the Board to confer with Miss Casis, investigate the details of the situation, and look over similar sets of rules in use at other prominent universities. They will then report to the Board, and they will decide on a course of action. The members of this committee are Katherine Cochran, Walton Gillespie, and Clifford Craig.

Exhibit Will Be Feature of Home Economics Week

One of the features of the Home Economics Week to be held at the University of Texas March 21 to 25 and to be attended by several hundred women from all parts of the state, as indicated by registration already received, will be the exhibit.

This exhibit will be found in the Home Economics Building, and will be open daily from 10 until 6 o'clock, with members of the Home Economics faculty and students of the department in attendance to explain the display and answer questions in regard to it.

The following points will be taken up by means of charts and illustrative material:

1. The Interrelation of Home and State, and their common problems.
2. The Value of Putting the Home on a Business Basis—household accounts, budgeting, and house management.
3. Housing Requirements—sanitary regulations, planning, furnishing and decoration of the home.
4. Food—cost as influenced by local production and distribution; sanitation, as protected by legislation, and nutrition.
5. Clothing—textile fibers, dyes, weaves, and methods of adulteration, selection and care of clothing; costume.
6. Education in the School and Home, including vocational home economics, literature and music for the child and the children's library.
7. Recreation—for the family and for the community.

DECISIONS FOR BOONE CONTEST ARE ANNOUNCED

Judson Francis and Birdie Grant Wins First Place in Close Race

Birdie Grant of Dallas and Judson Francis of Austin were awarded first places for women and men, respectively, in the second annual Boone contest in ex tempore speaking which was held at the Law Auditorium last night. A prize of $50 was awarded to each, due to the generosity of T. R. (Dan) Boone of Wichita Falls, a former University student. The general topic of discussion was "The Kansas Court of Industrial Relations." This subject was announced several weeks ago, thus giving the contestants ample opportunity to do much reading. Rules of the contest were that each contestant should be given a specific subject five minutes before his or her turn to speak, the specific subject being some particular phase of the general topic.

Close competition was the order of the day, so much so that a second vote was required on the part of the judges, a tie having resulted on the first vote. At a conference of the judges, it was decided that the names of those who tied on the first vote would also be announced for honorable mention. In accordance with that ruling, Erle M. Racey of San Antonio for the boys and Elsie Brown of Roswell, N. M., for the girls were awarded honorable mention.

Between the parts of the program and while the judges were deciding, the Glee Club entertained the audience with a number of selections. The club scored a great success, being called back for repeated encores. Birdie Grant, a graduate of Oak Cliff High School is a sophomore student and a member of the Alpha Phi sorority. She has been working with the Y. W. C. A. during the year, and was recently elected president of the association for next year. In addition she is taking an active part in women's athletics.

Judson Francis has long been connected with the University.

All men ready for these tumbling events may report to the track coach any morning.

ALCALDE CONTAINS MUCH OF INTEREST

Many Interesting Articles and Pictures Appear in February Issue

Many interesting articles appear in the February issue of the Alcalde. A picture of the Alamo is upon the title page and below the picture is a beautiful and inspiring poem by H. Y. Benedict.

Mr. D. A. Frank in his article, "Judge Lauch McLaurin," gives a personal sketch of the even-tempered Judge McLaurin who died December 21, 1921, after having been a professor in the Law Department for thirteen years. A picture of the late Judge accompanies the article. In the "Address of Judge W. S. Simkins at the Memorial Exercises of the Law Department, in Memory of Professor Lauch McLaurin" a review of the Judge's life and his connection with the University is given.

Mason Williams in his "Recollections of George W. Brackenridge" gives a picture of the inner life of Mr. Brackenridge. It gives his finer and poetic nature.

In an article called "Those Million Dollar Masonic Dormitories," Mr. Z. Starr Armstrong explains the move taken by the Masons to help the University by putting up dormitories for six hundred girls of the University of Texas. He points out the fact that four thousand students are crowded where there is room for only twenty-five hundred. Mr. Sam P. Cochran of Dallas started the movement and got the five Scottish Rite consistories in Texas to take it up. As it will take five years to raise the million dollars, however, Lubbock Hall and Driscoll Hall have been leased until the larger plan is materialized.

"Moving the University" is discussed. Argument against the removal by Judge Victor L. Brooks is given, and many ex-students have commented upon the question. In the "Who's Who at Texas," a brief sketch is given of Dallas Scarborough, mayor of Abilene, and an old football star of Texas. There is also a brief review of Coronel Thomas and Nancy Lee Swann, two Texas Co-Eds.

Much humor is found in "Peregrinations" and "The Murmurings of Methusalem." Several articles of interest are also found in the "Editorial." And in "Getting Along" a record of Judge Ed Overshiner of Abilene, heavy football center of 1900, and Clifford G. Beckham, another ex-student is given. Several letters from ex-students throughout the country are printed, and news of many former students can be found under "Texas Exes." The "Student Life" department is introduced with a picture entitled, "The Old Man and Banty," which shows Dean T. U. Taylor and Professor Bantel examining a paper.

Increased Recognition of Nursing Profession Is Outlined in Bulletin

In an outline of what the nursing profession means and offers, the Nurses' Training School of the Medical Department of the University, says that the political situation throughout the world is creating new demands in that field and is bringing, with the widening of the duties of nurses, an increased recognition of the profession. The Nurses' Training School is attached to the John Sealy Hospital at Galveston. It is said to be splendidly equipped for the training of young women in that profession.

Continuing, the statement which the school has just issued says: "There is a constant demand for nurses for our public schools; the Red Cross in its many and extensive forms of activity constantly needs new recruits; the army and navy offer a direct form of patriotic service; the United States health service calls for nurses; great industries ask for trained women for their first aid and welfare departments. The demand for women to occupy positions as training school superintendents and instructors is greatly on the increase. The foreign field is calling—Russia, Serbia, China as well as France and India."

SEMI-FINALS OF PREP BASKETBALL MEET HELD TODAY

All District Winners Are On Hand for Championship Games

Sixteen high school basketball teams, representing every section of the state, have arrived in Austin and are preparing to participate in the tournament of the Interscholastic League which starts at 9 a. m. this morning. These teams are the survivors of the long elimination contest in which approximately one thousand games have been played. Not only is each team the winner of the championship in its own district, but all have defeated at least one holder of the championship of another district. In other words, the teams now in Austin represent the best basketball material of all the high schools of the state, and some fast and exciting contests are expected.

Although the tournament proper does not start until this morning, a game was played Thursday afternoon between Brackenridge High of San Antonio and Kerrville to settle an inter-sectional dispute that had arisen. Brackenridge came off victorious in this contest by a score of 13 to 9.

The Gatesville High School quintet, one of the participants in the tournament, has the distinction of having a woman coach. Miss Mildred E. Watkins has been successful for many years in the coaching of boys' basketball teams. For the past six years she

SAN ANTONIO WILL NOT PLAY VARSITY

Longhorns Will Not Have Opportunity to Gore San Antonio Bears

Expectations that the San Antonio Bears would be seen in action on Clark Field today and tomorrow were disappointed yesterday when the following telegram was received by Coach Billy Disch from H. J. Benson, owner of the San Antonio club.

"W. J. Disch, Austin, Texas: Answering your wire, as games were only tentatively arranged and owing to the fact that differences between New York and Detroit clubs could not be patched up, my club will be forced to play here Saturday and Sunday. Very sorry this has caused you any inconvenience but matters are entirely beyond my control. Signed, H. J. Benson."

This telegram came as a disappointment to both University students and Austin citizens. Coach Disch's Longhorn squad has been rounding into shape in anticipation of these two pre-season games, and it was expected that both "Bus" Gillette and "Rube" Leissner would be given opportunity to go the full route against the team that Johnny Nee, manager and third-baseman of the Bears is reported to have in excellent pre-season form.

An effort is being made to arrange later dates with the same team and also with the New York Giants, who are training at the Alamo City.

UNIVERSITY EXPANSION BILL IS IN CONFERENCE

The Senate yesterday morning refused to concur in the House amendments to the University of Texas expansion bill whereby the House substituted the New Williams bill for the Senate bill, and Senator Wood of Williamson requested that a free conference committee be appointed to adjust the differences between the two houses. Senators Witt, Dudley, Dorrough, Wood, and Bledsoe were named to constitute the Senate conferees. Up to adjournment last night no agreement could be reached by the conference committee, but it was stated that a report would probably be made this morning or this afternoon at the latest.

It will be remembered that the Senate bill provided an appropriation of $1,500,000 and the purchase of 176 acres of additional land, while the House bill carried an appropriation of $1,010,000 for the purchase of 100 acres.

ENGINEER CO-ED TAKES LEAD IN RACE FOR QUEEN

Mary Helen Holden of Austin in First Place—Etta Bain, Second

Interest in the race for Queen of the Varsity Circus was keener yesterday than any time since the opening of the contest. Two sudden spurts on the part of popular girls made an essential difference in the standing of the previous day.

Mary Helen Holden, of the Engineering Department, jumped from third to first place, while Dolores Dore, who throughout the contest has been slightly down the list, made a sensational climb to second. One thousand five hundred votes came in for her alone. Etta Bain dropped to third place, while Margaret Montgomery is now fourth. Ruby Daniel dropped to fifth place.

Ballot boxes will be open tomorrow until 6 o'clock giving all an equal opportunity to have their candidates go take advantage of the votes which will be given to the girl leading in the race. It is customary to close the boxes at 3:30 in the afternoon, but for this special occasion, they will be kept open for two hours longer. The management has requested the further announcement and stress the fact that 500 votes will be given to the leader, 300 to the girl in second place, and 100 to the girl in third place. With this donation, it is anticipated that students will rally to the support of the aspirants, seeking to make their particular friend get the advantage of the offer. Some have even gone so far as to propose wagering on the girl who will be in the lead at 6 o'clock Saturday night.

During the final week the race will be suspended, and immediately after the completion of finals the contest will be opened with increased vigor. It is then expected that the students will do everything in their power to make their girl friends winners in the regal fray.

It has been requested to announce that the students definitely fix in their minds the closing date of the race. It will close Monday night, March 28, at 9:30. Ed Rather, manager of the Co-Op, will keep open that night until after the closing time of the race, so that it will be convenient to announce the Queen and to receive the last votes there.

The race yesterday stood:

Mary Helen Holden	1605
Dolores Dore	1600
Etta Bain	1383
Margaret Montgomery	1264
Ruby Daniel	1046
Gladys Rountree	1036
Mary Maud Castle	316

Nannie Lou Wynn	238
Elizabeth Harcourt	250
Allie Steil Acker	145
Eloise Carr	120
Rosa Brooke	105
Ulae Richardson	100

University spirit must be on the wane. There hasn't been a tag day on the campus for three months. Surely something should be done to remedy this untoward situation and bring us back to normal!

TITLES

A move has recently been instituted in the University of Virginia to abolish the promiscuous use of the titles "Doctor" and "Professor." It is stated that the former title will be reserved for medical men strictly and that the latter will be left to jazz-band directors, sleight of hand performers and others who have appropriated it.

Members of the faculty of the University of Virginia are said to be responsible for this move and it is stated that they have organized a society for the rationalization of the title "Doctor." Educators who subscribe to this rule will hereafter be known simply as "Mister" without any frills.

There is no doubt that the titles referred to above have been overworked. Their adoption, or rather kidnapping, by those who have no claim upon them has cheapened their meaning and has caused many educators to prefer the simple address which is applied to the layman. Every district school teacher, irrespective of his degree of education, is called by the neighborhood "Professor," and the smaller the school and the less the degree of education of the school master, the larger the district newspaper prints the title. The old stock advice given to students about addressing as "Doctor" the young instructor with a bachelor's degree may have its value. But the vast majority of college faculty members would, it is believed, prefer the omission of titles except in cases where they really are significant and carry weight and meaning.

There is a deal of justification for the application of the title "Doctor" to educators who really bear the degree, since they have earned it and are in reality as much entitled to its use as is the Doctor of Medicine. But the acquisition of the right to place "Professor" before one's name is usually not the direct result of any accomplishment on the part of the individual involved, but is acquired, if the man be a member of a college faculty, by his being given a particular position in the institution. The title was originally one of high honor but through years of misuse its dignity has fallen. It would be much more appropriate were its use reserved for those who occupy really high positions.

The use of the title "Doctor" is well were it is really deserved, and one cannot go wrong by addressing his professional acquaintances in the teaching profession as "Mister."

OAKS WILL REPLACE CAMPUS HACKBERRIES

Mr. Beck has some plants growing in little red pots in his little hot house that will not be found in any other in the whole country. They vary in height from six inches to about eighteen, and in age from one to three years. Each is just one little stem and about six or seven leaves. The general name is live oak. Mr. Beck is not carrying on any scientific investigation on the live oak, but is working on a strictly business basis, to increase the amount of shade and beauty on the campus. The experimental period passed some years ago, when it became evident that a little tree that had been nursed in a pot and then transplanted to the open was thriving. This tree is just west of the hot houses, and is sixteen years old. The slowest period of its growth is now past and it is rapidly becoming large enough to add to the appearance of that part of the campus.

Mr. Beck became interested in the live oak because the hill on which the main building is situated was originally covered with a dense live oak grove. They fell martyr to a worthless cause. During the civil war, General McGruder wanted more negroes to aid in the work of fortifying Galveston against the Yankee forces, but could not get their masters to let them go so far away. So, to get them together, he pretended to be greatly alarmed over the possibility of the approach of a Yankee force on Austin, and called them together to erect fortifications to protect the city. The site chosen for the stronghold was the hill on the campus, and the live oak grove furnished the material. After several days had been spent in felling the entire grove, the resourceful general spirited the crowd of negroes that had been engaged in the work away to Galveston one night, and the siege of Austin was over. The general got his laborers, but he prepared the way for the state to spend a goodly amount of money in later years to replace the shade that he so cheerfully destroyed. There are now only a few live oaks on the campus, and only two of them, those on the northwest corner, can compare with the ones that were cut down. Mr. Beck is very anxious to replace the hackberries that are now being planted with live oaks, for several reasons. The average life of a live oak is five hundred years, as compared with the hackberry's fifty, and it is attacked by none of the many parasites that keep the forces so busy on the hackberries.

Every little wind storm leaves a litter of broken branches to be cleared away. Then the two trees can not be compared in respect to beauty, or shade, as may be easily realized by a look at the specimen of each on the campus. The hackberries have nearly all reached their maximum growth, while the two largest live oaks have not. The little feather duster trees give little real shade, but the wide-spreading oaks give a generous amount. Then, too, the oaks remain green the whole winter, but the others shed their leaves at the first frost.

It will of course be slow work to replace the hackberries with oaks, but once an oak is started, it will outlive several generations of the weaker trees, and if the University does not migrate to the lake, the campus is due to have a change in its tree policy.

LEAGUE TO ELECT OFFICERS

Epworth League members are urged to hand in their suggestions for the officers of the League for next year sometime before Sunday March 13 to Wood Patrick, Florence May or Ruth Jackson. The officers to be elected are president, vice president, corresponding secretary, recording secretary, treasurer and Epworth Era Agent. The other members of the cabinet will be appointed by the newly elected president, according to a new ruling in the handbook of the League, adopted this last year. The suggestions and nominations will be made at the League meeting after the talk by Dr. Lee on the "Social Principles of Jesus" has been given. This talk will be the second of the series to be given by him on that subject.

LABORATORY USES MANY CHEMICALS

About $3000 is spent each school year for chemicals used in the chemistry department of the University, according to W. B. Duncan, curator of the chemical laboratories. The expense of the entire chemistry department, including the equipment for performing experiments, amounts to $25,000 or $30,000 a year.

Mr. Duncan stated that only a very small proportion of the chemicals purchased were of high value or very rare. The radio activity salts are perhaps the most rare of the chemicals used. There are in all between one and two grams of these extremely scarce salts in the laboratories, Mr. Duncan said.

Germany supplied the greater part of the chemicals prior to the beginning of the war. Since that time the United States has gradually usurped her position. At present, according to Mr. Duncan, only some $1,500 worth of materials are obtained from Germany each year, the remainder being bought in the United States. These home produced chemicals are, however, said to be much higher than those formerly obtained from Germany.

In the chemistry department this year there are 1270 students taking full courses. Of this number 800 are freshmen. The majority of the teaching staff is composed of graduates and advanced students working toward degrees.

HOUSE APPROVES BILL

Bill making it a misdemeanor for any person in the employ of corporations or persons engaged in the business of a common carrier in the State of Texas to receive any tips for the securing of preference in the handling of freight has been passed by the House of Representatives without opposition. This bill is designed to correct certain pernicious customs understood to prevail in the oil fields where the pressure of freight has been very great.

The author of this bill is Tom G. Pollard of Van Zandt, a University student and a member of the legislature for the first time.

LIBRARY RECEIVES COPY OF OLD PAPER

Captain Jay Turley of San Antonio, the well known geologist and engineer who is a student at the University, has presented to the Library of that institution a reprint copy of "The New Mexican," published at Santa Fe, N. M., and of the date November 24, 1849. The paper contains considerable interesting information concerning people and events of that early date. It gives an account of depredations committed by Apache Indians and urges that the United States Government send two thousand well mounted troops to the Territory of New Mexico for the protection of its citizens against raids by Indians. It also urges the confining of the different tribes of Indians that are a menace to the peace and security of the Southwest to certain fixed limits. Considerable space is devoted to foreign news, mostly from Cuba and Hungary. An account of the visit of the Queen of England to Ireland is given upon the first page of the paper. Very few advertisements are found in its columns.

nected with public speaking activities of the University. His most notable success in this line was his recent victory, in partnership with Jack Blacklock, over Columbia University.

Naomi Cocke of Austin opened the program with a discussion of the question, "Why is organized labor opposed to this law?" She maintained that in the eyes of organized labor, with such a court in power, the laborers would be nothing more than slaves. The right of the unions to strike would be taken away, leaving only this court as a substitute, a court that must sooner or later become mixed in politics, so that the unions would be at the mercy of parties. In their opinion strikes are better than a degraded manhood.

In response to "Will the court prevent strikes?" Ruby K. Daniel of Dallas gave an affirmative answer, using as a basis what has been done in Kansas since the court was established. The Kansas Industrial Court came into being after the great coal strike of 1919. Since then the number of strikes has been greatly diminished. If there had been such a court in Illinois, it is probable that the recent milk strike in Chicago, which caused much suffering, would have been avoided.

The winning speech by Birdie Grant of Dallas was an answer to "Will this court protect the public? If so, how?" Enforcement of the law is provided for, by the fixing of penalties (both fine and imprisonment) for violations on the part of either capital or labor. Laws grow out of needs, and this law has grown out of the need for industrial justice in that it is the purpose of the court to give justice, not only to capital and labor, but also to the general public. One of its primary purposes is to see that the public is not forgotten in labor disputes. It is an attempt toward co-operation and service in industry, rather than individualism and gain.

"Does the court unduly interfere with private enterprises?" received a negative answer from Iris Shuford of Austin. She held that problems of economic organization affect the people and that it is the duty of the government to interfere for public welfare, even though individual enterprise should be interfered with. This is not a question of private right, but of public right, and it is not undue interference with private enterprise to protect the welfare of the people.

Elsie Brown of Roswell, New Mexico, received honorable mention, the first vote of the judges having resulted in a tie, for her answer to "Is the court fair to labor?" She gave four reasons why labor will receive fair treatment: labor is not deprived of collective bargaining, it is guaranteed a fair wage, it has access to a penniless man's court, and it is given the State government in place of the strike as a weapon.

Addie Woodall of Jacksonville closed the first part of the program with "Is the court fair to capital?" The court is impartial. Labor is assured a fair wage, and capital is similarly assured a fair profit. What more within reason can capital want? In addition capital will thus keep the good will of the public, which it may lose by continual industrial fights.

Erle M. Racey of San Antonio, spoke first for the men, receiving honorable mention, since the judges' vote for the best speech in this part also resulted in a tie. His topic was "Should capital and labor be represented on the court?" He upheld the negative, saying that the result of representation would be to defeat the main purpose of the court—impartiality. Arbitration and compromise in place of real justice would be secured. The court would become a board of arbitration and not a court, and boards of arbitration have failed in Canada, Australia and New Zealand.

"How will the court function?" was explained by Francis G. Wilson of San Antonio. There must first be a violation of the law. Alleged violations can come before the court in several ways: Capital may come before the court with a grievance, labor may prevent a question, the attorney-general may start proceedings or the court may of its own accord take action.

W. Rogers Blacklock of Roscoe followed with "Is the industrial court law constitutional?" He held that it was not, since it violates those constitutional clauses which prohibit retroactive measures.

In the winning speech by Judson Francis of Austin the subject was: "Is it practical to try industrial disputes through regular courts." Disputes between man and man have long been settled by courts; it is reasonable to presume that labor disputes can be settled in a similar manner. The chief thing by which to judge is results, and the court has been successful in Kansas, as is shown by the quieting of coal mining difficulties by this court.

Jack B. Blalock of Marshall gave a negative answer to the question, "Has the court been given too much power?" The court protects the nation from hundreds of strikes. The chief sufferers from strikes are the people the basis upon which the government is founded. It is not unjust for the government to give a court the power to protect the public which is its base.

Ending the program came Frank McGehee of Weatherford in answer to "Has the Kansas industrial court bettered industrial conditions in Kansas?" He maintained that it has not. Great strikes have continued in the coal industry, the industry which called forth the establishment of the court.

The following judges officiated in both contests: Judge W. C. Pierson, of the Supreme Court; Secretary of State Staples; Assistant Attorney-General Smith; Assistant Attorney-General Beauchamp; and Mr. W. D. Shelley of Austin.

has developed winning teams in her section. During the present season her team has defeated such strong teams as Waco and Temple.

The tournament will be opened with an address of welcome by Dr. Shurter. All teams are to appear at the men's gymnasium at that hour dressed in basketball suits. A group picture will be taken, and then the first game will be played by two teams who will be determined by lot, at that time. Sixteen teams will be divided into four groups, each containing four teams. The games of Group 1 will take place at 10 a. m. In order to conserve time the halves of the two games of each group will be alternated. Games in Group 2 will begin at 11:30, while those of Groups 3 and 4 will begin at 2 p. m. and 3:30 p. m., respectively. The winners in Group 1 and 2 will engage at 7 p. m. and the winners in Groups 3 and 4 at 8:30. This game will conclude the program for the day.

At 10 a. m. Saturday morning, the winner of Group 1 will play the winner of Group 2. At 11 o'clock the winner of Group 3 will take on the victor in Group 4. At 7:45 p. m. the final game of the tournament will take place to determine the champion of the Interscholastic League. President R. E. Vinson will make the presentation of the cups and medals.

Woman Hater Succumbs To Bold Maiden

At eight o'clock last evening a woman hater of long standing gently passed away. For four years he repeatedly withstood advances of the campus vamps. For two years in France he faced the onslaught of the Hun and even engaged in the battle of Paris immune to French Madamises. After these six years of staunch indifference to the lure of feminine wiles, he allowed himself to become entangled in the clutches of a scheming bobbed-haired vixen.

The news of his fall spread like wild fire. His many friends over the campus extended their regrets to him and their congratulations to his conqueror. They assisted him in every possible means—supplying him with rouge, perfume and even sending the young lady flowers together with a most appropriate sentimental verse of poetry. More than this, he was escorted by a well organized troupe of about thirty former comrades who showed their appreciation by romantic musical selections with the accompaniment of cowbells, dishpans, etc., to the campus dormitory where the siren of his fate resided. Amid long and accelerated cheers he was ushered into the realms of another world—previously absolutely unknown to him.

Then came the mad flight of evasion. Resigned to destiny, he allowed himself to be led by the one with the abbreviated hair through the kitchen window while his escorts waited on the front steps. The fleeing couple rushing madly on—darted through the woman's gymnasium, hesitating a few minutes behind the protecting shadows of the foliage of the trees, then dashed wildly across the tennis courts to board an already fast-moving street car.

GOOD PROSPECTS FOR 1921 AGGIE QUINTET

Intercollegiate Press.

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., March 19 (Via Wireless).—The Aggie Basketball squad which clinched the 1921 Southwestern Conference Championship with the defeat of the State University at Austin last week will be minus only one of the champions when it re-enters the ring for the 1922 championship next December. Forbes, the unanimous choice of sport writers for all state honors in 1920, and again this year will be the missing man due to the fact that he is a member of the graduating class this spring.

Coach Bible will have four men who have been members of two championship teams as material for his team next season. McGarity, who has been watched with interest in the few times that he has been used as substitute during the past season, and whose two field goals in the last few minutes of play won the deciding game from the University, will be a strong contender for the forward position which will be left vacant by Forbes' graduation. Other strong material has come to the attention of Coach Bible in the freshman and reserve teams.

The Southwestern Conference Championship was won by the Aggie Wildcats with a percentage of .837, and out of twelve Conference games played the Wildcats won ten victories. Baylor gathered strength after a very poor start and ended in second place with a percentage of .667. State University was forced to third place with a percentage of .643, and Rice came fourth with .308. Southwestern Methodist University failed to win a single Conference game. The race for the pennant was a thrill from start to finish, and the decision was in the balance until the last whistle was blown.
