SOME ADVANCED FACTS CONCERNING BASEBALL

EASTERN TRIP MORE THAN LIKELY ABANDONED—LACK OF FUNDS THE ONLY CAUSE—SCHEDULE ALMOST MADE

TEXAS TEAMS TO BE PLAYED

This Year Manager Holliday Proposes To Make Baseball a Paying Proposition if Possible—Early Practice.

The baseball situation is in a quandary. The proposition was made to send onet team on an Eastern trip. Manager Holliday worked hard, secured the permission from the faculty to take the necessary time, and planned a satisfactory schedule which included some of the strongest colleges in the North and East. However, it was found that the guarantees given by these colleges would not cover the expenses of the trip, and that it would have to be taken at a considerable financial loss. The advantages of such a schedule were such that permission was granted the Athletic Council to allow the subscription of funds solely for the purpose of meeting the deficit that would necessarily follow. The proposition was put before the students, and altho some enthusiasm was shown, it was not of a substantial enough kind to raise the required amount, $1,250. Some money was pledged, but not enough, and interest has somewhat waned. That's where baseball finds itself at the present. The colleges with which Manager Holliday was negotiating needed answers so as to close up their schedules, and our manager was unable to close the contracts. In this way some of the offers were withdrawn.

Two other trips are open to baseball. One is to play A. & M., Tulane, L. S. U., Sewanee, Vanderbilt, Arkansas, and probably another Texas school, but necessitates an absence of twelve days, whereas the faculty allowance is only six days. Such a trip could be undertaken with little or no loss, owing to the number of games to be played, and would bring the University into competition with some strong colleges.

Another trip is contemplated, which will only include Texas colleges. Such a trip can be made with practically no financial risk, and would at the same time bring us into competition with teams that have many times demonstrated that they can play us close games. To The Texan this seems to be the most satisfactory arrangement that could be made. For years baseball as a sport has lost money, principally in preparing for and taking long excursions out of the state. With a Texas trip incurring no loss, and an economic policy at home will insure a season for baseball without a loss. To close a season with no deficit to be paid from the general athletic fund which in reality means the football surplus would be a signal triumph for Manager Holliday.

Mr. Holliday in a talk with The Texan reporter, said that he expected to make the Texas trip. He said that he proposed to stop the leakage caused by baseball if possible, and while he was disappointed in not being able to take the eastern trip, that since it had to be abandoned it was best to stick to Texas, where we could get plenty of good competition, and guarantees. It is known that members of the team, in the light of past seasons, favor the same policy.

The Texan hopes Mr. Holliday all success, and heartily endorses the position taken by him. If he can stop the loss that has been yearly bringing baseball into disrepute, and such a policy adopted by his successor in the course of a few years baseball teams can go any place they wish. Until such a time, however, The Texan favors the strictly Texas policy, and hopes to be able in a few days to print such a schedule in its columns.

INTER-SOCIETY DEBATE SATURDAY NIGHT

FREQUENTERS OF THE FORUM WILL BATTLE FOR HONORS OVER THE INITIATIVE AND REFERENDUM.

A CLOSE CONTEST IS PROMISED

In accordance with an annual custom inaugurated some years since, the Rusk and Athenaeum Literary societies will meet in joint session next Saturday night for the purpose of deciding by an inter-society debate, who shall have the honor of representing Texas in her debates with other schools this year.

The meeting will be presided over by the president of the Oratorical Association, an organization consisting of the two societies named above.

The question for debate will be: Resolved, That Texas should adopt the Initiative and Referendum; and the Rusk, represented by Messrs. Boone, Gillis, Parish and Stone will have the affirmative, while the Athenaeum, represented by Messrs. Bransford, Harris, E. L. McKinney and Tirey, will uphold the negative.

Of these speakers, only one has ever made the State team. Mr. Bransford was chosen as a member of last year's team, but owing to

IMPORTANT MEETING OF THE TRACK TEAM

ALL MEN INTERESTED IN TRACK HOLD A ROUSING ASSEMBLY IN THE GYMNASIUM THURSDAY NIGHT.

'09 PROSPECTS VERY BRIGHT

Plans For Work and Trips Discussed—Several Meets Open at This Date—Early Practice to Begin.

On Thursday afternoon, a meeting of the old men and prospects for the track team, was held in the Gym. Coach Howser, stated the object of the meeting, and a general discussion of plans for the coming season was freely indulged in. Manager Wright and Captain Callan had been busy in their respective duties and were able to report that work was progressing. The manager has given out some of the trips which he may secure if everything turns out favorably.

At the meeting it was decided to make a trip to one of the meets now under consideration. The team may go to Baton Rouge, and there have a triangular meet with Louisiana and Alabama A. & M. They have also the option of a dual meet with Vanderbilt, either at home or away from home. The third trip now under consideration is against the two strong teams of Oklahoma—Oklahoma State, and the A. & M.

Any of these trips would be of great benefit in developing the track team. Alabama A. & M., is an unknown article. We have met Louisiana several times in the past, but have been unable to find just what sort of a track team will be turned out this year. Our old rivalry with Vanderbilt is well known. We have not had a chance to meet Vanderbilt on the track for two years, and much interest would center on the outcome. We all know that both the Oklahoma teams are extremely worthy rivals. Anyone of these trips is strictly high-class, and it is hoped that the team will be able to make one of them.

The prospects in regard to material are of the first order. Among the old men back are: Callan, Ayres, Thomas, Stieler, Brownlee, Wright, Bailey, Estell, Harry Leonard, Oatman and Darter. The new men who have been reported so far are: the Harolds, who both work the weights, Daniels, a hurdler, Neece, a sprinter from Carlyle Institute; Fleming, a promising vaulter; Carsner, from Austin College; Kelley and Denison, from the Temple high school. When the season opens there will probably be many more contestants for each of the events. With these men as material to build from there is no reason why we should not be able to have a strong track team, provided—

SOUTHWESTERN CONFERENCE AT RUSTON

Y. M. C. DELEGATES GATHERED IN LOUISIANA DURING THE WEEK FOLLOWING CHRISTMAS—IMPORTANT MEN PRESENT.

FOUR DELEGATES FROM TEXAS

For the past six or seven years it has been the custom of the Young Men's Christian Association of the southwestern states, including Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, Texas and Oklahoma, to send delegates to a conference at Ruston, La., during the Holidays. These men are supposed to represent the different phases of college life and meet together each year for the purpose of

THE "CURTAIN CLUB" HAS BEEN BORN

LAST THURSDAY SAW THE FORMAL OPENING OF A CLUB THAT WILL PROVE VERY POPULAR WITH THE UNIVERSITY.

TWENTY IS MEMBERSHIP LIMIT

Work Will Be Reading and Acting—Modern Plays Read—No Tragedies or Staged Plays Acted.

The shadows of Irving and Jefferson nodded their heads in approval and wrung their spirit hands in holy glee at the proceedings of what is now the "Curtain Club" on last Thursday evening. The talk of organizing a dramatic club of some kind has been steadily given interested ears until the idea ripened—and now the embryo actors are ready for the fruit.

With Mr. Stark Young as temporary chairman, it was only a few moments till the assembly had agreed that its name should henceforth and forever be "The Curtain Club," and that its membership should be limited to twenty persons.

Then the object of the club was discussed.

It is proposed to stimulate interest along at least two lines: The study of the modern play by reading, and the study of the plays of the early English stage by acting. These will be the two lines of greatest interest to the remaining students; the "select twenty" will be benighted by having their enthusiasm broadened in other ways.

Officers of the club were chosen in the following order: Stark Young, conductor; W. A. Philippott, Jr., business manager; Ben Dyer, president; Shirley English, secretary.

The first piece to be put on the

THE WORLD BUT AS THE WORLD.

The organization of the Curtain Club will be a grateful fact to all who are interested in the Varsity's development. The name, taken as it is from one of the two theatres in Shakespeare's early London days, indicates to a certain extent the purpose and function of the club.

The plan as outlined is to follow two threads, reading and acting. The primary intention is the informal study of that body of dramatic literature which is not studied in the ordinary college courses, the modern playwrights especially. For these parts of our globe, with a few exceptions, is in Norway still; near him are Sudermann, Hyse, Maeterlinck, Sardou, Pailleron, and Scribe and the mazes of London still hide its Shaw and Jones and Pinero. There are, besides, many rather obscured sons of the theatre, like Otway and Webster, and racy scattered plays, like "The Two Angry Women of Abington," which might fall within the scope of the Club's interest.

The presentation of plays, while secondary and to a certain extent incidental, has an obvious appeal. The difference between such an experience and other sorts of college training is a notable difference. The nearest neighbor is Public Speaking. Even here the difference is fundamental, the orator speaks to his audience, the actor, not to, but for his hearers. Furthermore, the emotional range of the actor exceeds greatly the range of the speaker; and the dramatic action and interaction, the sense of a relation to a situation and to other characters, the necessity of response to varying suggestions, these belong to action, alone. Acting, too, is an opportunity for the training of the imagination, a power which psychologists regard as sadly neglected in our plan of academic education. Acting may increase or even develop the emotional capacity of the actor, his observation of detail, and his understanding of personality as a field of human interest.

Theoretically, at least, those are qualities inherent in action, as an art. However much of them await or concern amateur ventures might easily be another matter. Nevertheless the plan of the Curtain Club to present once or twice a year plays not on the professional stage plays of more or less unique interest, academic or otherwise, such a plan cannot fail to be profitable to the University both at home and abroad. In all our large colleges activity along dramatic lines ranks with other activities, and in such places as Harvard, Chicago, Columbia, Stanford and the rest, receives its share of enthusiasm and support. Why not in Texas then? At any rate, like the people who give parties, the actors themselves will enjoy the performances.

In this instance the club members have expressed themselves against "high astounding terms," and are content to "Let gorgeous tragedy In scepter'd pall come sweeping by"

indeed; and to eschew the possibility of a Booth or a Burbage lurking in their midst. No tragedies then. In the face of a Greek drama (with chorus!) at one of our Texas high schools, Julius Caesar at another, and a third Shylock the Jew mistreated still, in the face of these ambitious flights, the Curtain Club has a modest humor, and that is refreshing.

At any rate, it is an old story by now that college men cannot live by books alone. The patches of color that linger in the imprint of college days, the glowing places, are filled with friends and pipes and escapades, escapes and tangents from the solemn round of schedule, rather than with the dutiful hours. What a man learns ripens, if it ever ripens at all, in his association with other men; and what he feels adjusts itself through his relations with others.

Behold the club table, the faces of good fellows, and the smoke! Jolly evening, pleasant memory years from now. It may be that through the cloudy rings looms the form of a future dramatist. That would be a proud moment. Perhaps there will be no dramatist. If not, well, there is still the smoke and the fellowship.

MAKE TRACKS.

Some of the medical men who claim to be scientists of the first order tell us that there is no disease without its remedy; so it happens that there is nothing sick that can not be cured under scientifically ideal conditions. But without further ado: we have right in our midst a sick thing, and if we are to act with human compassion we must give first aid to the afflicted. Coming to the case, Track Athletics at the University of Texas has something that has developed into a chronic case of moneyitis which, when translated into English, means "I need the money." And, after thorough diagnosis by Coach Howser, Capt. Callan, Manager Wright and others, the patient was found to need the soothing effects of only one specific prescription, namely, the gold-cure compounded at the drug store of the Student Body.

To have a strong track team, at least three things are necessary: material, enthusiasm, and proper competition. We have the first and the last in the highest sense of the term, but only half of the second essential. Trips are what make the proper enthusiasm, and they also raise the standard of competition. But trips mean money. Heretofore Track has received a good appropriation from the football nest egg, but this balance is being reserved for a gridiron coach next year. So it is up to the students to see that the Track Team get to make at least one of the proposed trips this season. Never before has this branch of athletics asked aid of the student body; they have only received a few library deposits unsolicited from generous students.

The conservative sum of $300 is asked as the minimum amount. Now if every student would only jar loose from a few cents (or dollars, as you like) the task of raising this sum will be a small one. Accordingly, you may run on to a subscription list today, if it is the 13th.

Of course, you care to see Texas making a showing on the track and thereby hold up her past reputation with the colleges of the South and Southwest and not degenerate into the ordinary prep school variety, so do not fail to sign up when you are asked to give something. No meets can be arranged until the amount is raised, and it behooves every student to contribute as much as possible toward the $300.

One visit to our shop will prove to the most skeptical that we are leaders in our line. Burnham Bros., the Barbers, opposite Driskill Hotel.

INTER-SOCIETY DEBATE
SATURDAY NIGHT.

the calling off of the debate in which he was to take part, he was not called upon to represent Texas in any of the Inter-State contests. Mr. Bransford and Mr. Harris are the only ones of the above who have ever represented their societies in the inter-society contests, but all the speakers have had large experience in the forum, and they promise an interesting meeting to all who may come out. Mr. Tiley of the Athenaeum and Mr. Stone of the Rusk won for themselves many laurels while students at Baylor. The other speakers are too well known to Texas students to require any introduction, all being old Texas men.

This debate will decide not only the oratorical championship, but the personnel of the Texas debating teams as well. The six men who, in the opinion of the judges, are the best speakers will represent the University in her annual debates with Missouri, Colorado State and L. S. U.

The program will begin promptly at eight o'clock. The University Orchestra will furnish music, and the program will be made as short as possible, each speaker being allowed only eight minutes.

The students and the general public are cordially invited to attend. Admission free.

SOUTHWESTERN CONFERENCE AT RUSTON, LA.

learning better methods of conducting religious work among the colleges and universities and to solve problems that come up in regard to raising the moral standards of the schools. From eight to ten days are given to this Southwestern Student Conference, and the delegates are enabled to come in personal contact with leaders sent out by the International Committee of the Y. M. C. A. and discuss with them topics of vital interest to college men. Then, there are Bible and mission study classes under competent leaders, and there are open conferences for the discussion of the problems and methods of work. In addition to these are daily life-work addresses by men of ability and power.

The afternoons of the conference are devoted to athletics and the display of college spirit. Tennis, football, basketball and track work are given special attention. There are usually men enough from each state to make up good scrub teams for these different sports, and sometimes individual colleges have representatives enough to make up teams. Heretofore the University of Texas has had from six to ten men at this Conference, but this year we had only three, and so we were not able to do anything individually but went in with other colleges and helped to do something for the state as a whole.
W. E. Cox, W. A. Darter, and R. B.
Wear were our representatives, and as Dr. Jewett was there as one of the faculty members, we considered him as one of our representatives too.
Texas beat Oklahoma in football 5 to 0. Mississippi beat Louisiana and then played us two games.
The first was a tie, and the second was won by Mississippi by a score of 10 to 6. Texas did not take part in any of the other sports but tennis doubles, and in this Dr. Jewett and Wear carried off the pennant by beating every school they played, which were Louisiana State Normal, Mississippi College and Millsaps, and Louisiana State University. Oklahoma, Arkansas, and Mississippi Universities either lost or forfeited to L. S. U., and so Texas was champion by beating the others.

There were about 130 students and faculty members present, and there were some fine exhibitions of college spirit. All of the delegates ate at the Girls' Dormitory of the Louisiana Industrial Institute, and at every meal each state represented tried to outdo the others in their yells and songs. The 27 Texas boys present made "Rattle de throat," "One er zipper," "Long hey," "The Eyes of Texas," "Love Nobody but You," and some other yells sound mighty good and let the other fellows know that Texas was well represented. The friendly rivalry exhibited between the colleges tended to draw them much closer together. Our boys all came back with a much better feeling toward the A. & M., Baylor, Southwestern, Austin College, Trinity, John Tarlton, Polytechnic, and S. H. S. N. fellows than they had had before, as well as those from other states, and they seemed the same way toward us.

As leading men from all phases of college life were there, athletics, fraternity, literary society, and association men, the conference was quite a representative body of Southwestern college men, and the problems discussed and the lessons learned will tend to help all of the schools represented. All of the men present came back with a broader view of the practical and religious work to be done by college men.

The news of the death of Clifton Franklin, Law '08, is a great shock to his many friends. He passed away on the evening of the 31st at his home in San Antonio after a short illness. The Sigma Chi Fraternity, of which he was a member, will wear official mourning in memory of their departed brother.

I desire a list of all students at of whose parents is an alumnus or ed to write their names and addresses on a slip of paper and drop in that all who have not yet paid their subscriptions do so at once. This being my Senior of University work to do, as well as The Texan business to look after, and I shall greatly appreciate having you call at room 46, The Texan office, and pay your subscription immediately. I shall be in the office every morning from 9 to 11 o'clock.

The following is not only a rather clever skit from the country print shop, but it will convey "news" to all the older students; the clipping is from the Mt. Vernon (Ill.) Daily Register:

There is no doubt that the most important feeling citizen of Mt. Vernon is Joel Watson, and he is justly entitled to feel proud, as a son arrived at the Watson home, to create a new joy. Mr. and Mrs. Watson and the youngster are to be congratulated for being so closely related to one another. The young man already answers to the name of Albert Watson, Jr.

At this season of the year it is a question whether to make old clothes do till spring or buy new ones. A small sum spent for cleaning and pressing a suit or skirt will settle the question if the work is properly done, and it will be properly done if you turn it over to Curtis, who has charge of Moore & Morrison's pressing department. Their phone number is 590. Work is called for and delivered.
