Excavation of the ground for the Physics Building annex has been completed. Forms are being laid for the foundations to the addition, which will be located behind the Main Building on its north side.

$12 Million Voted For New Buildings

By BILL BARRON

Thirteen new University building projects authorized by the Board of Regents at an estimated cost of $12,784,337 are now in varying stages of planning and construction.

"Some of the construction is already under way; some will begin later this year," Charles H. Sparenberg, University comptroller, said Wednesday.

A new east wing to the Physics Building is under construction now. It will cost about $1,050,000. Expansion of the power plant including a new building and steam and power generating equipment will cost $1,500,000.

Proposed expansion of the Texas Union Building will cost about $2,356,437. A $1,000,000 addition to the Chemistry Building has been authorized also.

A new Business Administration-Economics Building and an Art Building and Museum, the latter to be financed partly by private funds, are also on the drawing board.

A proposed central, water chilling station will cost approximately $1,300,000. Remodeling of the attic, elevator, and other facilities in the Petroleum Engineering Building will cost an estimated $90,000.

Shop and storage facilities on the north side of the Service Building will cost about $25,000.

Fighting Blazes Anew in Tripoli

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Fierce fighting blazed in Tripoli Thursday as UN Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld was reported working fast to prevent Lebanon's rebellion from dragging the entire world into a crisis.

At least 10 persons were reported killed and 20 wounded in the fighting that broke out almost immediately after the secretary general ended his seven-day visit to the Middle East. An unofficial truce prevailed while he was here.

Government forces in the northern port city shelled rebels entrenched in the circling hills and demolished at least one fortified house. They used armored cars to attack roadblocks.

Skirmishes also were fought Wednesday night in the Bekaa Valley of central Lebanon.

Mr. Hammarskjöld on his departure for New York took a plea by Premier Sami Solh for an armed UN force to stop the border traffic in arms and reinforcements. Premier Solh said the UN observer teams were unable to stop it.

But Hammarskjöld said on his arrival in New York that he hoped the observers could do the job.

UT Summer Enrollment Reaches Peak of 7,703

Total enrollment for this summer is 7,703. Enrollment for the first summer session last year was 7,552.

The College of Arts and Sciences led all others in enrollment for the summer session with 1,988 as of June 25.

Group Insurance Plan Endorsed by Solons

By ROBB BURLAGE

Texan Editor

Summer Assembly Thursday night gave its endorsement to a group insurance plan presented by the Continental Casualty Company.

The appointee-filled legislative body agreed to contract with the company on a one-year trial basis. The plan, which will be optional to each student, will give accident-sickness coverage for $6 a semester per student ($14 for student and spouse and $25 for family plan).

UT Radio Station Committee Named

An Advisory Policy Committee for the University's new FM radio station has been named, Robert Schenkkan, director of radio/television, announced Thursday.

This committee, which will meet in September to decide on program plans, consists of five faculty members, five students, the director of the Union, and an Ex-Students' Association representative.

Dr. Norris G. Davis, assistant professor of journalism, will serve as chairman. Other committee members are Dr. J. A. Burdine, professor of government; Dr. L. L. Kopra, assistant professor of speech; H. Y. McCown, dean of student services; and Dr. Loren Winship, professor of drama.

Also Jack Maguire, executive secretary of the Ex-Students' Association; Jitter Nolen, director of the Union; John Watts, IFC president; Miriam Gordon, Panhellenic president; and Howard Wolf, president of the Students' Association. Two other students are to be appointed later.

"This set-up is similar to many schools throughout the country," Mr. Schenkkan said.

Howard Wolf, president of the student body, expressed his opinion concerning the lack of a student majority on the policy committee. "The new FM station is going to require student support and has been seeking student money in various organizations such as the Students' Association and Union.

"Consequently, one of the strongest selling points would be the fact that it is to be student controlled. But since this is not going to be true, I am a little bit more hesitant about doing anything positive to aid in its completion.

"Therefore, my position is if it can't be student controlled then I certainly don't believe it deserves student money, i.e., if the administration is going to run it, let the administration pay for it," Wolf concluded.

When contacted Thursday night for a statement, Mr. Schenkkan said that he had none, except that,

Fitness Weakening Due to Urbanization

—MacCarthy

By MARY SELLARS

Dr. Shane MacCarthy of Washington, D. C., executive director of the President's Council on Youth Fitness, blamed the weakening of youth fitness on unbanning of society at the opening session of a three-day state conference on "Improving Youth Fitness" Thursday evening at Kinsolving Dormitory.

"Neighborhood playgrounds are a little bit of a big answer," said Dr. MacCarthy.

He told the group of educators and recreation and health workers that playground activities are becoming too organized and carry too many restrictions. Children are prohibited from riding bicycles through them and in many cases dogs are not permitted.

He commended the work of Little Leagues, but pointed out that they take care of only a small minority of a big majority of children who need physical training and recreation.

Parental relegation of responsibility is another sign of urbanization.

"Fitness is not bought with money, but it must come from courageous and imaginative groups such as yours, Dr. MacCarthy continued.

Dr. MacCarthy recommended that we give children more love, more affection, a sense of belonging, a challenge, a responsibility, and more fun.

The conference is sponsored by The University of Texas Physical and Health Education Department in connection with the 75th Year. Co-sponsors are Governor Price Daniel's office and the Texas Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

Foreign Aid Cut $482.5 Million

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Otto E. Passman (D-La) confirmed Thursday night that a House Appropriations subcommittee has cut 482½ million dollars from foreign aid funds.

Rep. Passman, head of the subcommittee, did so indirectly in saying there has been what he termed an accurate leak of information to that effect. He blamed "the spenders and the wasters" for the leak.

Rep. Passman said reports of the subcommittee's action were "deliberately leaked to give top echelon people downtown more time to conduct their unprecedented pressure campaign for more money."

The entire appropriations committee will meet Friday to act on the subcommittee recommendations. Rep. Passman said he expected that between now and Friday persons favoring more money will "put plenty of pressure" on committee members.

will plan the details. Walter Goleman of the firm was formerly head of the school of architecture at the University. Page, Southerland, and Page of Austin are the consulting architects for preliminary plans.

The three-story building with basement will include a 12 to 16 lane bowling alley, an auditorium to seat 400 with cinemascope screen, and numerous student offices and meeting rooms.

A junior ballroom twice the size of the present International Room will be located on the second floor. The International Room will be used as a reception and party area.

The soda-fountain which will be located on the main floor will seat 534 students. Drinks and short orders will be served. For the students who want a more private atmosphere, or want to linger over morning coffee, an alcove lounge has been planned.

Let's Jump!

Folks over at Texas Union would like nothing better than for the Board of Regents to tell them to "go jump in the lake."

They've had their eye on the Bennett's Boat Docks property next to Tom Miller Dam on Lake Austin, leased by the University to private investors until December, 1959, for a number of years now.

Now, with the Student Union expanding its on-campus facilities and its horizons in general, the dream may soon become a reality.

The lakeside property could become immediately a center for water sports and recreation, boat dock space and equipment for students and faculty, and instruction for water safety and skills for the physical education departments, ROTC, etc.

Jitter Nolen, Union director, and Howard Wolf, chairman of Union Board of Directors, claim that such expansion wouldn't cost the University a cent extra. Union Board of Directors has concluded it would be completely self-supporting from dock and equipment rental.

The present owners of the property only give the University $1,800 a year for its use, according to Mr. Nolen, and, meanwhile, its potential for University use is lost.

Only two arguments heard against it are:

● Shouldn't the money spent on this development go for the oft-promised Law School-Simkins area Union annex?

Mr. Nolen says that money for the law annex will come from some of the Union fee money collected while the new building is being constructed. Its progress would not be affected, he says, and the lake project would be started from "emergency architect's fees," etc. available after the bonds are let this fall and then be completely self-supporting.

● Wouldn't the University have a real liability in such a lake spot? Isn't there a lot of danger in a place like this?

Statistics show that more students have jumped off the Tower than have died in lake accidents—furthermore, more training in water safety would help lower the toll of aquatic accidents on the lake. Of course, the University would not be held responsible for someone drowning in the city lake in the first place—no more than they are held responsible for a student being run over by an auto on Guadalupe.

If the Union is allowed to "jump in the lake" and expand its facilities to the present Bennett's site, it may be the start of an outstanding program of education-recreation in the Brackenridge Tract area—finally fulfilling the donor's wishes.

Students and faculty alike should demand that this project be given proper priority.

We hope the Regents move so that in December, 1959, the private money-making venture becomes a University educational-recreational development for the betterment of the entire community.

Don't Fret—Flex!

Governor Price Daniel went "out on a limb" Thursday night and stood for "better youth fitness" in Texas.

His Secretary of State Zollie Steakley told the Governor's concern for "fitness" at the opening of the three-day state conference on "Improving Youth Fitness."

We are pleased to see concern on a state level for youth fitness. Everything from draft board physicals to college fitness tests have shown that our youths are a soft, overweight, car-conditioned lot of pasty-faces.

But we're tired of hearing Eisenhowerian "concern" being expressed at banquets, conferences, prayer meetings, and other such centers of "agonizing reappraisals" without any tangible action to back it up.

Here at the University, for instance, there is a crying need for an intramural fieldhouse, for a vast expansion of the intramural program's physical facilities so that those who want to participate in sports will have somewhere to go and the equipment to do it with.

Expansion on all fronts is needed: including the present plans for Union expansion to the Bennett's Boat Docks-Brackenridge Tract area, lowering faculty-staff-student fees at the University-leased Municipal Golf Course, and giving just a small percentage of what's spent on our "varsity" to the entire community.

We hope there's some "muscle" put behind those words. Mr. Daniel, by you or your successor.

Bennett's—A Union Annex?

The crystal clear stream of reason is getting murky as the River Styx.

Texas politics have again assumed their old mud-slinging mold, a sickening assortment of half-truths, trial by newspaper, and voracious invective.

In an attempt to gain some insight into the meanings behind the double-meanings, The Summer Texan will garner the available facts concerning each candidate as the campaign continues. In mid-July, before the Democratic primary, the Texan will print the full slate of candidates, their answers to questions on key issues in the campaign, and what they consider their qualifications.

Meanwhile, many Texas newspapers continue their in the news columns barrage against Ralph Yarborough and push for the bow-tied Dallas millionaire-business-rancher Bill Blakely for the US Senate.

A "news story" in Sunday's Austin American-Statesman said Yarborough's campaign in the special race for the US Senate last spring drew $23,143 from labor groups headquarters in Detroit, New York, Cleveland, Washington, and Pittsburgh.

"The US House clerk's records show that big labor's help to Yarborough is part of a nationwide pattern of labor contributions to selected candidates," said Sam Wood, Fentress Newspaper reporter who wrote the "expose."

In Corpus Christi, Blakely said Reuther-Hoffa and the CIO will be the victor if the incumbent wins. And the former Senator stressed in Odessa that the choice is between "democracy and communism."

On the other side of the fence, The Texas Observer, called by one of Wood's earlier "exposes" in columns a tool of the Democrats of Texas, lashed back at Blakely.

The Observer says that Braniff Airways (principal stockholder: Bill Blakely) received approximately $1,043,000 in air mail subsidies from the federal government during the last fiscal year and is expected to receive $750,000 for 1957-58, according to Chan Gurney, vice-chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Yet, The Observer points out, Blakely is opposed to federal aid to education, including school construction and vocational and agricultural training.

We hear that some girls in woman's dorm are writing to "block leaders" in the various penitentiaries to learn about ways and means of waging "food strikes."

The reason: hash served for the third straight day.

We've Been Asked . . .

Re: Mr. Bob Greenberg's letter in last Tuesday's Summer Texan stating, "Isn't it true that the Managing Editor is the real boss at the Texan? He is not elected by the students," in reply to a Texan editorial requesting that "the persons elected to run their publications should have some say in their basic policies."

The Handbook of Texas Student Publications, Inc. outlines the responsibilities of the editor and managing editor of the Daily Texan as follows:

EDITOR: forms policies of the newspaper; in charge of production of editorial page; represents the newspaper; in charge of "public relations," suggests to the managing editor the objective news coverage needed as the foundation of editorial policy; elected by the students after approved by TSP Board as satisfying "professional requirements."

MANAGING EDITOR: head of news staff; in charge of news continuity; chairman of Texan Editorial Appointment Committee; a "professional," objective director of news-gathering; appointed by TSP Board after satisfying "professional" requirements and traditionally after gaining the editor's approval.

We have stressed in our "administration" thus far the mutual respect of our responsibilities and a "togetherness" on all things that involve the overall welfare of the Texan. We have worked together on such things as staff appointments and staff salary requests, coordination of news and editorial coverage, and developing a better staff and better morale.

There is somewhat of an "unwritten agreement" between us that when the editor is in need of front page space for an editorial or has a news suggestion, it shall generally be granted. If the managing editor has a suggestion or criticism for the editor on his editorial coverage, it is considered carefully by the editor.

The editor, as overall policy representative of the Texan, is the spokesman for the newspaper, but we both work together for the Texan's advance as the best college newspaper in America.

"I would like to talk to Mr. Wolf about this."

Mr. Schenkkan said that in soliciting and obtaining financial support for the station, each group's approval had been gained individually for the project and its operation.

Now that KTEX as a call name has been turned down by the FCC, the University has applied for the name KUT, which was the name of a former University station a few years ago.

Almost all of the money to build the station and provide equipment has come from groups affiliated with the University. Donors to the station are the Inter-Fraternity Council, Panhellenic Council, the Ex-Students' Association, the Students' Association, the "Eyes of Texas" fund, Hogg Foundation, the Junior League of Austin, and blanket tax holders for the fall term.

"We are operating on a shoe-string right now," Mr. Schenkkan commented.

Thirty-six students who are not radio-tv majors have already contacted Mr. Schenkkan to work on the station. Students who wish to serve on the station should get in touch with Mr. Schenkkan.

for equipment in mechanical engineering and $73,150 for physics laboratory equipment. Other departments in engineering and science also will use the new facilities for teaching nuclear aspects of their fields.

"With this equipment the University will be well on the way with its nuclear training program," Dr. Robert N. Little, acting physics department chairman, said.

Heretofore, nuclear training equipment has been mainly for graduate students. The new equipment will be used in early training of graduate and undergraduate students in nuclear science and engineering, Dr. Little said.

University scientists and engineers have outlined a program of 20 nuclear technology courses to parallel the increased importance of nuclear techniques in their fields. Degree programs with emphasis on nuclear technology are planned for students majoring in physics, chemistry, and chemical, civil, electrical, and mechanical engineering.

Dr. Bryon E. Short is directing the mechanical engineering courses, and Dr. Little will supervise the physics courses.

An earlier AEC grant given in 1957 provided the initial funds for the University's nuclear technology program. A third prospective grant will provide funds for a large nuclear reactor to be housed in a new engineering building.

suggestion that the managing editor be elected and be given a vote on the TSP Board as well, (1) we feel that his position calls for unusual professional competence and objectivity which is best achieved through Board appointment, and (2) our request for only the editor's vote on the TSP Board is a matter of convenience, for if we would suggest that both be given franchise on the board, then the other two student publications would request also—and this would burden the Board's effectiveness. As the editor is the policy representative of the newspaper, we feel that he is the one that should be given the vote of the board.

If Mr. Greenberg would like to know more about the functioning of the Daily Texan, we invite him to roll up his sleeves and join us in publishing together the nation's finest college daily.

Activities Booklet Sports New Look

The University Student Activities Handbook for 1958-59 has been designed for efficiency and utility. It will be smaller in size and will be illustrated with drawings rather than pictures. Its main objective is to introduce to new students the many campus organizations of the University.

This year the booklet will include complete information on the organizations compiled from questionnaires sent out to each organization.

tion by the Campus Affairs Committee. It will give the student a picture of the purpose, time and place of meetings, and other information about the clubs.

It also will contain general information on the founding and finance of the Main University; facilities available in other branches of the University; regulations, such as rulings about cars, cheating, exams, and class attendance; old traditions and customs, such as Honors Day, Swing Out, Bevo, and the origin of the school colors; an off-campus directory of churches, libraries, hotels, and special sight-seeing attractions of Austin; and an appendix which will include the Constitution of the Student Association, Student Election Code, and housing rules.

Sixteen summer appointees were sworn in at the meeting.

"These are rock-bottom rates. I don't see how they're going to make any money off of us," said Wahlquist, who made the motion for the insurance contract. "It's not completely comprehensive coverage, but it is good for our situation," he added.

Pat Harkins, representing the company, described the plan as one to provide coverage "over and above" that offered by the Student Health Center.

Students' Association President Howard Wolf and Delbert Shankel, member of the Student Welfare Committee which has been studying the insurance plan, said it is "the best group insurance plan for students available, as far as we know."

"We checked several other firms and none can approach this coverage or these rates," Shankel added.

Harkins told the Assembly that his company specializes in this type of insurance and "are recognized as leaders in the field of student health insurance."

Buildings . . .

Street, laboratory theater for the Department of Drama, and three expansion chambers to replace expansion devices in the underground steam system are also being planned.

Most of the funds for the new buildings and improvements will come from the University's Available Fund. The Union expansion will be financed largely by revenue bonds. The Art Building and Museum will be partially financed by a private fund and will be located on Twenty-third Street across from Penick Courts.

The Regents also have approved addition and alterations to the Texas Union Building, remodeling and enlarging of the library building, and construction of a warehouse-type building for Texas Western College in El Paso. Estimated cost of the Texas Western improvements is $898,000.

Sports Program Offered Daily at Women's Gym

Miss Betty Thompson, summer director of Women's Physical Education, reports that 284 students and non-students are now registered in the department's summer program. She explained that besides swimming classes, a co-educational golf course and a tennis class are also offered.

The summer swimming program provides eight children's swimming classes and four adult classes. The program is divided into two sessions of six weeks each. Classes meet a half-hour each day. A fee of $10.00 is required of children and non-student swimmers, but University students can sign up for the usual $1 physical education fee.

Miss Thompson said that four teachers are instructing the swimming classes. Two classes are offered in the afternoon for junior and senior high school girls. One of these is a junior life saving course.

Two dip hours for women students and UT staff members are offered each day in the pool of the Women's Gym. These free-swim periods are from 4 to 4:30 p.m. and 6:30 to 7 p.m. every week day.

In the swimming classes, the elementary back stroke, the back crawl, the front crawl, and the side crawl are taught. Since the classes meet daily, the average student becomes a fairly competent swimmer in six weeks, Miss Thompson said.

Besides the swimming courses, the Women's Physical Education Department is offering a co-educational golf course. The department furnishes all equipment except the golf balls. This course will be offered during the second session of summer school along with the present swimming program.

For University women, two summer sessions of PT are equal to one semester in the long term. Two courses taken at the same time will also count one long term semester.

Hospital Asks For Volunteer Student Aid

Leading songs, assisting at group games, and recreation periods are a few of the activities open to University students for volunteer service at the State Hospital and State School.

Mrs. Paula Womack, volunteer coordinator at the State hospital, says that the patients miss the help of young people during the regular recreation periods in the hospital's recreation hall.

At the State School for Retarded Children, Mrs. Beulah Pace, volunteer coordinator, explains that volunteers may work with the director of recreation in dormitories where quiet sports and group games are led. They may also act as assistants to the life guard in the school's swimming program. The children also enjoy singing, according to Mrs. Pace.

Further information may be had by calling Mrs. Womack at HO 5-6521 or Mrs. Pace at HO 5-8715.

Lawyers' Order of the Coif Chooses 17 New Members

Seventeen law graduates of the University have been made members of The Order of the Coif, the law student's Phi Beta Kappa.

Founded to encourage scholarship and advance ethical standards in the legal profession, the Order selects its members each year from the upper 10 per cent of the graduating class.

The selection this year includes Ross N. Sterling, August, '57; Edward William Barnett, Richard Paul Bogatto, James Howard Keahey, David Robert Owen, Thomas Ransom Scott, Thomas Monette Sewell Jr., and Richard Abe Williams, January, '58.

Also Allan Britt Adkins, Bill Frank Bogle, William Thomas Defelbach, Robert A. Hall, Harry Lee Hudspeth, Nicholas Johnson, Lawrence Ray Pearce, Robert Bruce Reynolds, and Barney Thornton Young, June '58 graduates.

The organization's name stems from the type of cap that members wore when the Order originated in England in the days of William the Conqueror.

'Mam'zelle' Gay, But Only Bardot

By JOHN LEE
Texan Amusements Staff

France has at least added another item to its list of staple commodities such as wine, art, and government. That item in the form of Brigitte Bardot adds a much needed quality. In "Mam'zelle Pigalle" Miss Bardot cavorts across the screen of the Texas Theater giving a wonderful display of cinemascope, technicolor, and sex.

The picture is another example of romantic comedy as done by the French and is not burdened by some of the things we Americans think are funny.

The plot is not altogether clear at the first of the picture and doesn't become clear until the climax. It tells of a Paris nightclub owner who is being framed by a ring of counterfeiters because of his past police record. While straightening out his affairs, he assigns his nightclub singer to protect his daughter, "who is just a baby," from scandalous exposure.

The singer goes to get his employer's daughter at a quaint little girls school and finds the girl "who is just a baby" is really none other than Brigitte Bardot. Some baby indeed!

From this point the picture proceeds to get very lively. It stops for a moment to let Miss Bardot reveal her talent at choreography, of which she has a considerable amount.

'Frederick' Inspires Cooper and Viewer

By JOHN IRSFELD
Texan Amusements Staff

There is something about John O'Hara's writing that makes you feel very honest and candid with yourself after you have read it.

You lose the treadmill feeling you have and yet don't acquire that fantasy-land sensation that so many writers inspire.

This feeling seems to have been included in the film "Ten North Frederick," freely translated from O'Hara's book by that name.

It is one of the few movies that Hollywood has turned loose that could be classified under the "Movies Are Better Than Ever" claim.

Gary Cooper's playing the part of Joe Chapin is nothing short of a master stroke.

Geraldine Fitzgerald, who plays Chapin's social-climber wife, does so until you want to bust her in her sassy face. Which, by the way, is quite thoroughly and dramatically done by another of the strange faces in the cast, Ray Stricklyn, who reads well the part of the son, Joby Chapin.

Second Drama Opens Monday

By BEVERLY SUE FULKES
Texan Amusements Editor

"Waltz of the Toreadors," the drama department's second summer production, promises to be an uproarious typical French farce-comedy. Opening Monday night at 8 in Hogg Auditorium and running through Wednesday, the play is directed by Dr. Frederick J. Hunter, a newcomer to the University drama staff.

The play itself is concerned with the affairs of a retired French general, a nagging wife, two daughters, and the memory of a romantic experience of 17 years before. Suddenly the girl from his memory appears . . . and you can attend the play.

Winner of the New York Critic's Circle award, the ironic, sophisticated comedy was successful on Broadway. One critic called it "a hilarious comedy with a wordy viewpoint."

"The Waltz of the Toreadors" is the second Anouilh play that Dr. Hunter has directed in Summer theater, having produced "Ring Around the Moon" at Berkeley.

Anouilh is Dr. Hunter's favorite modern playwright. The drama professor believes that Anouilh "is a serious minded dramatist, and writes enlightening as well as entertaining plays."

Dr. Hunter joined the University drama department staff as an assistant professor of drama in September 1957. Before coming to the University, he was an assistant professor at Whitman College, Walla Walla, Wash., lecturer at the University of California, Santa Barbara, and assistant professor at the University of Oregon.

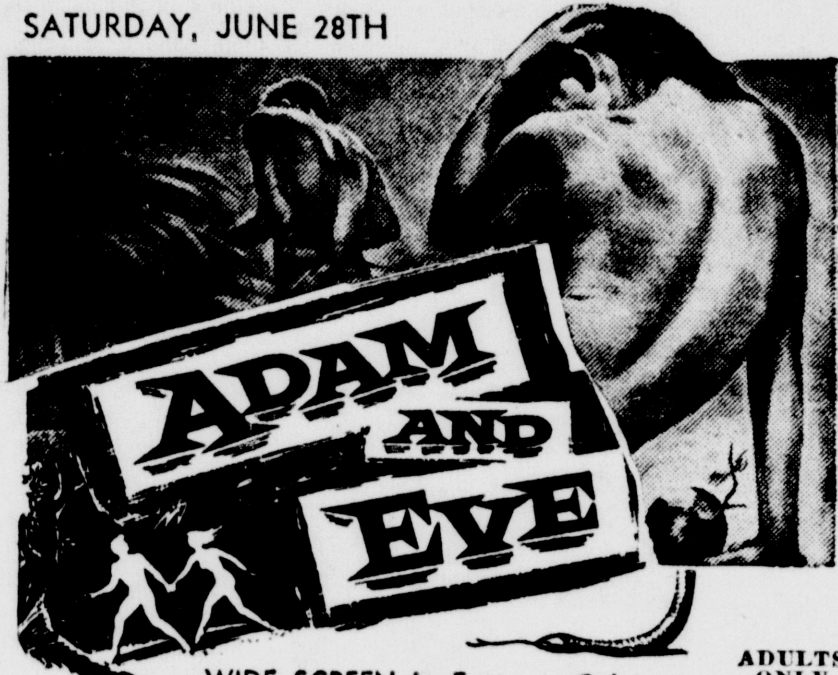

He was director-actor at the Circle Theater; actor in Green's Lost Colony, Manteo, North Carolina; and Director of Touring Summer Theater, Pacific University.

STARRING IN "WALTZ OF THE TOREADORS," the drama department's second summer offering opening at 8 p.m. Monday, are John Dobbs, General St. Pe; Bonnie Apple, Madame St. Pe; Marilyn Miller, Chislaine; and Jerry Lasater, Gaston.

Joe Gordon Hired As Indian Chief

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians fired Bobby Bragan as manager Thursday night and hired Joe Gordon, former Indian and New York Yankee second baseman and now an insurance salesman in Sacramento, Calif.

"We are making this change with the hope that there will be a general improvement in the club," General Manager Frank Lane said. The Indians lost to the Boston Red Sox 2-1 Thursday and are now 12 games behind the New York Yankees and tied with Baltimore for seventh in the American League.

The 43-year-old Gordon has been hired for the remainder of this season and all of next, Lane said. Gordon already has indicated, Lane added, that he will keep the present Tribe coaching staff of Mel Harder, Eddie Stanky, Red Kress and Bill Lobe.

Lane said he made the decision to fire Bragan because he felt "Bobby wasn't getting out of the club what he might have gotten despite injuries of key men."

Bragan took the decision well, Lane said, and was "possibly less shocked than I was."
