400 High Schools To Send Students Here Dec. 13, 14

With an expected attendance of one thousand from four hundred high schools, the first debate, speech, and drama institute ever held on the campus will begin a two-day session Friday.

From 8 until 10 o'clock there will be registration in Texas Union 311 with Jesse Villarreal and Paul Ragsdale, instructors in speech, in charge. Howard Townsend will assist in registering visitors who wish to make reservations for the various dinners to be held on Friday and Saturday night at 8 o'clock.

From 9 until 11 o'clock Friday there will be an extemporaneous discussion, and a declaration will be given. This will be held in Texas Union 301 with F. L. Winship in charge.

From 11 until 1 o'clock a debate institute program will be held in Hogg Auditorium. T. A. Rousseau will be in charge, and Mr. Ragsdale will debate Dr. E. L. DeGolyer on the proposed natural resources tax.

Throughout the afternoon there will be extemporaneous-declaration contests and college debates. At 6 o'clock the speech dinner will be given in the Women's Gym with Colonel E. O. Thompson and Dr. Homer P. Rainey as speakers.

At 8:30 o'clock the college debates will continue in Texas Union 311. Declaration contests will be held in Garrison Hall 1, and delegates will see the Curtain Club play, "Mañana Is Another Day" in Hogg Auditorium that night.

On Saturday there will be another debate institute and the college debates will continue. At 11 o'clock there will be a drama program by James H. Parke, professor of drama, in Texas Union 301. The drama dinner will be held from 1 to 2:30 o'clock as will the Intercollegiate debate dinner.

At 2 o'clock there will be high school debates in Garrison and Waggener Halls.

Rain Postpones Hobby R-Day

The R-day for students and faculty members with hobbies, scheduled for Wednesday by the Texas Union committee on hobbies, was postponed until next Wednesday because of rain, John Dashiell, chairman, said.

The committee had planned to place five boxes on the campus where those with hobbies could write their names and hobbies so that groups of like interest could get together and organize clubs.

A few names and hobbies were collected Wednesday in the Union, Dashiell said, but the general registration was put off because of the bad weather.

After the names and hobbies are collected, the various hobby groups will meet, sometime after Christmas, form clubs and plan a general hobby show to be held in the Union next spring.

Three people who have interesting hobbies will be asked to appear on Texas Quality Network January 9 in the "Reading Is Adventure" series being presented from Radio House, Dr. A. L. Chapman, director of the bureau of research in education by radio, said Wednesday.

Tau Delta Alpha to Hear J. Mabel Clark Tonight

J. Mabel Clark will speak on "Women in Professions" at the regular meeting of Tau Delta Alpha, women's honorary pre-medical society, at 7:15 o'clock Thursday night in Texas Union 309. The speaker will discuss the difficulties which a woman faces in the professional world, especially when she wants to continue her career after marriage.

Miss Clark, otherwise known as Mrs. Roger Busfield, is a former newspaper woman who has been with KNOW for the last three years. She is a commentator and director of women's activities over that station. She was recently elected to serve as editor of the Texas Federation News, a monthly magazine now published in Austin.

Zany 'Mañana Is Another Day' Is on the Beam All of the Way

3 Curtain Calls, 'Author, Author,' Breaks Precedent

BY JACK DOLPH
Texan Associate Editor

The cast of "Mañana Is Another Day" took three curtain calls, and the authors took the fourth. It was a minor breaking of precedent—since the Curtain Club takes but three curtain calls—but it was worth it. For "Mañana Is Another Day," which opened at Hogg Auditorium Wednesday, was on the beam all the way to its three-point landing.

"MANANA IS ANOTHER DAY." In Hogg Auditorium. Play by Theodore Apstein and Dwight Morris. Produced by the Curtain Club. Staged by James H. Parke. Assistant director, Sybil Bender. Stage Manager, Hortense Yarno. Production manager, Regina Cassidy. Costumes designed by Bradford White. Sets designed by Gordon Minter. Actors coached by Dorothy McLaughlin. Music arranged by Hector Calderon and Louis Feder. The cast follows:

Dora Esperanza	Harriet Samon
Anastasio	Lyman Riperton
Addie (Mrs. Arnold Davis)	Joe Ann Whitmire
Archib (Mrs. Franklin Van Knight)	Ella Bess Haygood
Miss Joan Miller	Leonora Ann Thompson
Rosario Diaz	Northa West
Pat Whitney	Duncan Whiteside
Carlos	William Grain
Lone	Beatrice Schwartz
Mrs. Gladys Gladstone	Mary Louise Ware
Alyne	Lillian Burnside
Fidencia	Martha Morgan

It certainly wasn't a classic and, it may not be art, but it was hilarious. And if the criterion of good theater isn't entertainment, then deal us out the next hand.

It was one opening night at which we heard the cry of "author, author," which brought Theodore Apstein and Dwight Morris to the stage to take a bow with the people who officiate at the first United States performance. The applause had a volume to it indicative of its complete and joyful acceptance. It was not the polite pitter-patter which Anglo-Saxons feel entertainers have a right to receive, whether good or bad, but a thunderous roar of approval in part payment for an evening well spent.

Perhaps our enthusiasm was aroused because it was one of the least Curtain Clubbish shows we have yet seen. In times past we have seen good shows at which the attitude prevailed that "the theater is so... so impahtant..." Even that couldn't ruin some of the shows which James Parke has staged, simply because the show was bigger than its pseudo-actors. We dreaded these imphatant characters, and their presence has always made us feel we were wrong in believing the primary function of the theater was to entertain. "Mañana" is free of any such moon-struck influence. Surely this can be traced to Harriet Samon, who has such a swell time being Dona Esperanza that there was no time for elevating histrionics. Miss Samon was the standard bearer around which the play See MANANA, Page 3

Chi Epsilon Initiates Eight New Members

Formal initiation was held last night in the Driskill Hotel for eight newly elected members of Chi Epsilon, national honorary civil engineering fraternity.

New members are Henry Thomas Aubel, James Robert Bisset, Robert P. Felgar, William Wayne Huff Jr., Rafael G. Negrete, Curtis Otto Schmiedes, John Weldon Simpson, and Joe Crisler Terrill Jr.

Alumni members present at the initiation were Vasil Brooks, Alfred Fuller, and Dean T. U. Taylor.

The upper one-third of the junior and senior civil engineering classes are eligible for Chi Epsilon. New members are elected annually.

Student Optimism on U.S. Staying Out of War Wanes

BY JOE BELDEN, Editor
Student Opinion Surveys of America

Although still more optimistic about the United States staying out of war than the general public is, American college students have lost some confidence during the last twelve months that we can avoid the conflict.

This is the tenor of national campus opinion today expressed through the cross-sectional samplings of Student Opinion Surveys of America. The Daily Texan is one of the 150 college newspapers co-operating in conducting these scientific polls.

The defense expansion program that this country is now witnessing will be a factor in helping to keep us out of the European conflagration, two out of every three collegians believe. Asked by Surveys' interviewers whether they "felt the enlargement of our army and navy will help to keep us out of war or draw us closer to war," these were the answers given, in percentages:

Will help keep us out . . . 67%
Will draw us closer . . . 33%

Exactly one year ago, in December, 1939, Student Opinion Surveys sampled the college world with this question: "Do you believe that the United States can stay out of the present war?" That was shortly after the German invasion of Poland and the beginning of general hostilities. The question has been repeated, and this is the comparison:

Believed we can stay out, December 1939 . . . . . 68%
Believed we can stay out, December 1940 . . . . . 63%

Cross-tabulations show that opinion among college men and among co-eds is identical. The answers in the present poll have been further broken down to make possible a study of qualified opinions. Of the 63 per cent who believe the United States will not be involved, 7 per cent attached an "if" to their answers. Most of these qualifications included the idea expressed by a University of Vermont senior, "Yes, we can say out if Britain can hold out long enough." Another opinion prevalent among students was exemplified by the comment made to the Georgia State Teachers College interviewer, "Yes, if the U. S. could get busy and eliminate spies and fifth columnists." But there were many who feel this nation has already taken too many dangerous steps. "We're already in it, for we are fighting economically for England," said a St. Edward's University sophomore.

College youth has better hopes for the international future of the country than does the average American voter. The most recent Gallup poll (November 30) on the subject reveals that although optimism is growing, a majority of 59 per cent still feels the United States will eventually have to fight. College sentiment has increased in the opposite direction, towards the pessimistic side, but a majority remains firm in the belief war will be avoided.

Gus Advises Pharmacists To Learn Soda Fountain

BY ROBERT O. BARNEY

Pharmacy colleges these days ought to include courses on soda fountain mechanics and ten different ways to cook spaghetti, philosophized Gloomy Gus Michel, columnist-sage, in a good-humored address before three hundred persons at the ninth annual College of Pharmacy banquet last night in the Texas Union.

"The trouble with pharmacy is its lack of knowledge," Mr. Michel said. "Why, most pharmacists don't know that adding a little water to their prescriptions means more profit." He concluded with a recollection of his college days, particularly the misery he caused W. F. Gidley, dean of the College of Pharmacy.

Sanford Hancock, mimic from Marlin, followed Mr. Michel on the program. Bringing rounds of applause and laughter from the guests, Mr. Hancock impersonated such celebrities as Zasu Pitts, Jimmy Fidler, Lum and Abner, Amos and Andy, President Roosevelt, and Walter Winchell.

Other numbers included a saxophone solo by Randle Tankersley and a violin solo. Highlighting the program was the audience's community sing-song version of a song composed by Miss Dorothy Jean Wager, titled "Pharmaceutical Nursery Rhyme," to the tune of "Heigh Ho, Heigh Ho."

The single solemn note of the evening came with the presentation of gold keys by the University Pharmaceutical Association to forty-five seniors graduating in June and August, 1941. Milton Skolaut, president of the association, presented them.

Favors included copies of The Unguarded Pharmacastic Revue, a four-page paper.

Toastmaster for the banquet was Durward Grant, who was assisted by L. W. Schleuse, assistant professor of pharmacy, and W. F. Gidley, dean of the College of Pharmacy.

Screwballish Pzatl, Secret Service Society, Throws Spring Informal

Pzatl—which is pronounced just like it sounds—had its spring informal at the Tower Wednesday night. The Tower's waiters were decorated in the club's colors, black and jet black, for the occasion.

Many famous bands "played" for dancing.

Members and dates brought Christmas baskets of food and presents which are to be distributed among some of Austin's underprivileged children.

Pzatl is a secret service society for girls who plan careers or marriage after they graduate or do not get a diploma.

Another December Milestone for Burdine

December is Dr. J. Alton Burdine's lucky month, especially around the first week of the month. December 9, 1940, The Daily Texan announced the appointment of Dr. Burdine to the vice-presidency of the University. The Daily Texan printed the announcement of Dr. Burdine's engagement to Miss Manon Griffith on December 8, 1931, this story preceding the former by nine years.

Library Surveys Use of Books By Students

Specific Purpose To Be Checked On Call Cards

"The University Library helps him who helps himself," Librarian Donald Coney said Wednesday, "and it cannot help him unless he is willing to help himself."

It is for the benefit of students themselves, Mr. Coney said, that the Library is asking them to co-operate in a survey of book use now being made. It is based on a new call card—one which asks for information the Library wants to know.

This new call card asks students to signify for what purposes they are checking out specific books, whether for use in connection with some course or for reading which has no connection whatsoever with school work. Students are also asked to leave their call cards at the loan desk if the books they want are not in.

These cards for unavailable books and the added information on all of the cards will give the Library an indication of the demand for any particular book, Mr. Coney pointed out; and by giving the Library that information the student will be doing himself a favor.

"If we can find out what books bear the brunt of undergraduate use," he explained, "then we can not only increase the number of copies to take care of the demand, but we can also locate these books in a place where more rapid and efficient service can be given undergraduates."

Mr. Coney pointed out that if a book is to be used for work on a term paper or anything else which has some connection with his class work, whether it is for a daily assignment or not, the borrower should write in the number of that course in the space allotted on the call card. If, on the other hand, a book is intended purely for leisure reading, he should check in the space adjacent to it.

Hardy's 100th Birthday Friday

Fletcher to Review Writer's Life

The centennial anniversary of the birth of Thomas Hardy, English novelist and poet, and known as "the last of the great Victorians," will be observed at 4:30 Friday, December 13, in the Geology auditorium with a lecture by Dr. Edward G. Fletcher, assistant professor of English.

Sponsored by the Committee on Public Lectures and Entertainments, Dr. Fletcher's lecture will include a brief survey of Hardy's life and a discussion of Hardy's accomplishment as novelist and poet.

Hardy's early natural bent was toward writing verse and essays, but at the age of 19 he was forced to follow architecture as a profession. This he did with the same success that later attended his writings. In 1865, his first short story was published, and during the next few years he was uncertain which profession—writing or architecture—to take up as his vocation.

The first of three important periods of Hardy's writing career ended about 1896 when he published "Jude the Obscure." The second period consisted of his publication of "The Dynasts" in three parts in 1904-06-08. This work is considered the greatest single achievement of Hardy's career. The third period, beginning in 1909 with "Time's Laughing-stocks," was devoted almost entirely to lyric poetry.

Layden and Goodwin To Captain '41 Team

'39 Gridders Get Letters, Awards

Daniel Led Team In Time Played

BY BILL WHITMORE

Pete Layden and J. W. (Red) Goodwin are the co-captains of the 1941 Longhorn football team.

Meeting for the last time this season yesterday afternoon at the Memorial Stadium dressing room, the Texas squad elected the new leaders, received Coach D. X. Bible's announcement of the letterman, and saw the pictures of the Florida game.

One of the most popular athletes the University has had in several years, Layden is also captain of the 1941 baseball team. The hard-running Dallas boy, who attended Adamson High School, was a unanimous choice for all-conference honors this year. He was the spear-head of the Texas attack with his sensational passing and running. Despite his lack of weight, Pete was one of the hardest driving backs in the nation. He played very little last season after being injured in the first game of the season, but came back strong this year.

Goodwin, the rugged, red-headed center, is from Amarillo, and like his many teammates who come from that hotbed of Texas high school football, he is every inch a competitor. Red was one of the great 1938 freshman team, and took over the regular center job for the varsity his sophomore year. He alternated with senior Glenn Jackson this season, and together these men gave the Longhorns some of the best center play in the conference.

Coach Bible recommended twenty-five men for varsity "T's," while fourteen reserve letters were awarded. Billy Pool received the senior manager's award, and Earl Shelton was named to succeed him next year.

Those receiving varsity letters were: V. D. Basey, Jack Crain, Donald (Bo) Cohenour, Ted Dawson, Chal Daniel, Noble Doss, Preston Flanagan, John Gill, Goodwin, Julian Garrett, R. L. Harkins, Jesse Hawthorne, Harold Jungmichel, Glenn Jackson, Malcolm Kutner, Layden, Vernon Martin, Stanley Mauldin, Ralph Park, Orban "Spec" Sanders, Mike Sweeney, David Thayer, Don Williams, Jimmy Grubbs, and Nelson Puett.

Reserve letter awards were made to Zuehl Conoly, Harry Gower, Henry Harkins, Walter Heap, Woody Johnson, Fritz Lobbries, Lewis Mayne, Roy Dale McKay, Derwood Peveeto, R. B. Patrick, Charley Richardson, Jack Seale, Wallace Scott, and Jack West.

Junior manager awards were given to Earl Shelton, Eugene Lemmon, and Gates Steen, while sophomore awards went to Sam Carr, Joe Carr, Paul Lynde, and Joe Hirsch.

Coach Bible also announced that Chal Daniel, junior guard from Longview, led his teammates in actual playing time. Noble Doss, junior halfback from Temple, was second in playing time, while Jack Crain, the famous "Nocona Nugget," was third.

A special award to the most valuable player on the team will be made at the football banquet tonight.

Last 1940 Daily Texan To Be Issued Dec. 21

The last 1940 edition of The Daily Texan will be issued Saturday, December 21, Boyd Sinclair, editor, has announced. The Texan offices will close December 22 for the Christmas holidays and the next publication of the paper will be Saturday, January 4, 1941.

Secretaries Wanted By Employment Bureau

Women graduates with secretarial and bookkeeping training or experience are wanted for interviews by the Student Employment Bureau, Dean Arno Nowotny has announced.

"We have openings we find it difficult to fill with qualified graduates," Mrs. Nella M. Dieter, placement secretary said.

Judge Crain in Dallas For Mother's Funeral

Judge Edward Crane, professor of law, is in Dallas to attend the funeral of his mother, Mrs. M. M. Crane. Mrs. Crane was a former resident of Dallas, her husband having been attorney-general of Texas several years ago.

J. W. Goodwin, Coach Dana X. Bible, and Pete Layden are pictured at the top. Goodwin and Layden were chosen to captain the 1941 football team last night. The four girls are members of Kathryn Duffy's review. They will entertain with songs and dances at the third annual football banquet, which will be held in the Texas Union tonight.

Girls' Songs and Dances To Entertain Athletes At Banquet Tonight

BY ARTHUR CARITHERS

About five hundred guests from all parts of Texas are expected to attend the third annual football banquet being given by the Ex-Students' Association tonight at 6:30 in Texas Union, John A. McCurdy, secretary said Wednesday.

Highlight of the program this year is Kathryn Duffy's Review, a variety show of songs and dances by a company of girl entertainers. Miss Duffy's review has made hits throughout the Southwest, Mr. McCurdy said.

The annual presentation of the Junior Chamber of Commerce trophy to the most valuable man to the football team will be made. "We want the program this time to center around the boys of the football and other athletic teams," he added. There are not going to be any long speeches and members of the teams will be introduced to the guests by the coaches, he said.

A local group of exes are providing the special entertainment, the Duffy Review, which will last more than an hour.

The Board of Regents, the Athletic Council, and the coaching staff will be honor guests along with the teams. Dr. J. Alton Burdine, recently elected vice-president of the University, and Mayor Tom Miller will make short speeches in honor of the team, Mr. McCurdy said.

In order that all the guests have a chance to meet the Longhorns, we are arranging to have all of the boys in the lobby of the Union by 5:45 o'clock, Mr. McCurdy said.

Arrangements for the banquet are in charge of a statewide committee of ex-students and two local committees.

Tickets are on sale at $1, and all reservations must be made by noon today, Mr. McCurdy said. Tickets may be bought at the Union, the University Co-Op, the Athletic Office in Gregory Gym, at C. & S. Sporting Goods Store, at all Austin banks, and at Ellington's Photo Company.

Longhorns Match Oklahoma A.&M. Goal for Goal Till End, Lose 42-48

Seein' Sports by Billy Sansing

Almost; Not Quite
Texas lacked one tall man of breaking a stubborn jinx Tuesday night. It so happens that Kansas University has not lost a game for three seasons.

And reports from Lawrence, Kan., after the game, said that Texas had that jinx broken until the final two minutes. But not quite. In the first place, Speedy Houpt fouled out three minutes after the second half started.

Then with six minutes left to play, Udell Moore fouled his fourth and joined Speedy on the bench.

With Houpt's height and Moore's experience and speed out of the game, the Steers broke and let Kansas slip through for a 48-45 margin.

A Smart Move
Still it is a good indication. Kansas, second ranking team in the country last year, was supposed to have an even better club this season.

And Texas came just that close against the Jayhawkers. And on their home court. Maybe Jack Gray has something up his sleeve.

Anyway, it was a good idea to go into the Middle West and face teams that are favored to beat Texas, than to stay at home and win from smaller Texas schools.

Such a program is particularly valuable for this Texas team, with reserves woefully lacking in experience.

And when Malcolm Kutner gets into shape for the maples, the situation will be further remedied.

To Pete and Red:
Texas will not lack for leadership, that's one thing I'm certain about the 1941 football season.

And here are hearty congratulations to J. W. Goodwin and Peter John Layden on their co-captaincy for next year.

It's a funny thing about Red and Pete. You usually expect a captain to be the morale builder, full of pepper, chatter, and wise cracking.

That kind of a boy is valuable. That type has an excellent example in Jimmy Grubbs and Ted Dawson, and they certainly did a fine job this year.

But Red and Pete, well, they're just not that type. Red and Pete are, without a doubt, two of the quietest boys in Hill Hall. Also, they're two of the most popular.

So, Texas will have a different type of captain. They are just as good. They just do things in a different manner.

One sports writer, criticizing Layden earlier in the year for not exhibiting more fire and pep on the field, got this reply from D. X. Bible: "Pete doesn't tell others to do things; he does them himself!"

And Red Goodwin is the same way.

No, Texas won't suffer from lack of leadership next year.

First, Longhorns Hand Florida 26-0 Beating Then Bring 'Gators Back Alive

BY PAUL MARCUS
We sorta thought they would beat them, but we surely didn't expect the Longhorns to bring the defeated 'gators back with them—but go over to Hill Hall and see for yourself. At the moment the dorm resembles an alligator farm. The way things look, we thought the victorious Texas team is going to wait until the 'gators grow up a bit and ride them back and forth to school every day.

Here is the way the whole thing started: Jack West and Ralph Park were strolling around Gainesville after the game and ran across the alligator sale; so West said to Park, one of those would look good in Jungmichel's bed tonight, but everyone had the same idea at once. The boys paid 50 cents for the man-eaters. Last night West was over telling the ball and chain about his exploits as a victorious Longhorn football player and started in on his prowess as an alligator trainer. He said that in the hotel in Florida he taught "Philbert" to turn cartwheels all in one evening. The next day Jack and "Philbert" were in the bath tub and just to show how really smart these nice, gentle pets are, this one climbed upon the back of the tub and put his paws over his eyes, hollered "whoopie" and hit the water, ker-splash! Oh well, that is the way it was told to me.

Since all good things must end, the inevitable did happen. When the boys arrived back at the dorm in Austin—"You cannot keep those things in this dormitory"—says Mrs. Griff. So the boys took them up to the roof. Alligators are not used to living without water, reasons the fellows—so they turned the fire hose on them. This seemed such a good idea to the boys that lived on third, that they turned the fire hose down on the waterers. Water, waterers, and alligators were well-watered.

They tell us alligators sleep all winter long—so Chal Daniel put his to bed in his closet. A two and a half foot youngster, well wrapped in Mrs. Griff's best blankets.

Houpt Leads Texas Scoring In Offensive Tilt

Special to the Texan
STILLWATER, Okla., Dec. 11.—The Texas Longhorns staged the greatest offensive show ever to be put on in the giant Oklahoma A.&M. fieldhouse here Wednesday night before succumbing in the final few minutes to the Aggies, 48 to 42.

For forty-seven minutes the Steers matched the Oklahomans, goal for goal, in the highest-scoring game played here since the fieldhouse was opened three years ago, the two teams counting a total of ninety points.

Sixteen times the lead changed hands. Paced by Center W. D. Houpt and Guard Thurman Hull, the Steers gunned into an early lead. Great floorwork by Captain Chester Granville and Guard Udell Moore fed the ball into Houpt for jump-and-turn shots, while Hull had a perfect eye from just back of the free throw circle.

All during the opening period the Texans carried the game, with the Aggies taking over momentarily only to have the Steers surge ahead. L. J. Eggleston, Oklahoma starting forward, was all that kept the Cowboys close during the first half as he sunk seven goals from the field.

While the crowd of 4,000 fans screamed and applauded the efforts of both clubs, the Aggies edged out a 25-24 lead just before the intermission.

Hull then grabbed the lead back for the Longhorns at the start of the final period with a long shot. However, the Oklahomans were guarding more closely, and in the

Aggies Land 4 on Longhorns' All-Opponent Team of 1941

Rice, O. U. Place Two Men Each on Eleven; Methodists' Mullenweg Beats Out Thomason

Four Texas Aggies dotted the Longhorns' 1940 all-opponent team as chosen Wednesday afternoon at the last meeting of the year.

Two Owls and two Sooners represented the other schools with more than a single entry, and one man each from T. C. U., S. M. U., and Baylor completed the team.

Surprise man in the backfield was rugged Will Mullenweg, the Methodists' mighty blocker, who ran far ahead of Jim Thomason, the Ags front back.

Joining Mullenweg were John Kimbrough, Kyle Gillespie, Texas Christian's little quarterback, and Jack Jacobs, O. U.'s mighty Creek Indian.

At ends, Baylor placed Jack Russell, the giant sophomore; Oklahoma put on Bill Jennings, the great end, mentioned on several all-Americans.

Tackles were the conceded all-Conference men, Ernie Pannell of A. & M. and Fred Hartman of Rice. Jack Anderson, another Baylor boy, barely missed the team at one of the tackle posts.

At guards, two Aggies won the toss, but T. C. U.'s Bobby Sherrod was close behind. Marshall Robnett and Charlie Henke were the Cadets. Both played fine games against Texas here Thanksgiving.

The center spot went in an easy manner to Kenneth Whitlow, Rice Institute's fighting captain.

Elimination Bouts Decide Fight Entries

The Longhorn Boxing Club will fight the San Antonio Y.M.C.A. Monday night in San Antonio in their first meet of the year. The San Antonio team will return the visit January 17.

In elimination bouts held Wednesday afternoon, Phillip Eng, featherweight, and Byron Sherrill, middleweight, won the right to go to San Antonio. Eng defeated Don Burns, and Sherrill outpointed Bill Smith. Fred Green wore Bill Shriver down in another exhibition in the 155-pound class and will battle Clair Gannon tomorrow in the final bout to decide the representative in that class.

Bill Prince, bantamweight and former Oklahoma A.A.U. champ, broke his thumb in practice Monday and will be out for the season. Jimmy Hawkins will take his place on the San Antonio trip.

Sherrill will resume his feud with Simon Luna, after losing to him in their two previous engagements between Austin and San Antonio teams. Luna took the first bout on a technical knockout in the second round and won the second on a close three round decision, after being knocked down in the second round.

Other members making the trip will be Gilbert Davis, welterweight; Munroe Smith, lightweight; and Ray Wallis, heavyweight. Davis pounded out a three-round decision over Johnny Keller of San Antonio in the bouts Wednesday night, December 4.

S.A.E. Trips K.A. on Penetrations for Fraternity Football Title

Avery Aces, Cyclops Win Other Games

BY PAUL MARABLE, JR.
Texas Sports Staff
Playing on a muddy field, Sigma Alpha Epsilon downed Kappa Alpha, three penetrations to none Wednesday afternoon to become this year's fraternity touch football champions. The penetration ruling was used to decide the game which closed in a 6-6 deadlock.
Early in the game Billy Joe Baxter, Kappa Alpha fullback, stood on his own 15-yard stripe and dropped a flat-zone pass to Right End John Reagan to set up his team's first score. Reagan ran to the 1-yard line. Center Bob Harris then took a high pass over the goal line for the touchdown. The try for extra point was short.
In the same period S.A.E. scored when Marvin Collie, left end, snagged a short pass and sprinted across the goal line. A pass for the extra point was incomplete.
S.A.E. again threatened in the closing minutes when Quarterback Jack Fant intercepted a pass on the Kappa Alpha 13-yard line. The game ended amid a flurry of passes and interceptions.
Carlyle Crowe led the Avery Aces to a 20-7 victory over the Honky Donks, throwing a touchdown pass to Harold Buttery in the opening minutes of the game.
Cyclops beat the Wiley Mongrels on penetrations as the game ended with the score tied 6-6. With the Mongrels leading 6-0, Kenneth Edmonds, Cyclops' left halfback, ran over a touchdown to even the score for his team.
In handball semi-finals, Lon Sallers and Bob Keeton, Tejas Club, beat Bayard McMahon and Tom Peckinpaugh, Kappa Sigma, 21-16, 21-19, and earned the right to play Cheldelin and Mitchell, independents, for the championship. The match will be Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock.

Bailey --

it to the housekeeper where I was living. I've never seen anyone so happy and pleased. You know, the people had very little meat in those days in Munich; usually they ate Irish potatoes."
Dr. Bailey was a student in the University from 1888 to 1891. He lived in B. Hall in 1891 along with Dr. H. Y. Benedict, late president of the University, Dr. Milton Porter, who is now professor of pure mathematics in the University, and George Pierce, one of the world's greatest radio experts.
While living in B. Hall, Dr. Bailey attracted more attention by the extent of his board bill than by scholastic attainments. With the average bill being about $100 a year, he managed to consume $139 worth of food. "And," he laughed, "food was a lot cheaper then than it is now."
Evidently he believed in extra-curricular activities, for 1892 saw him playing in the finals of the tennis matches. That was the year Dean T. U. Taylor won the championship racket. Bailey also engaged in dramatics and public speaking and helped organize the Rhizopod Society, one of the earliest dancing clubs in the University.
In 1889 T. U. Taylor, then the youngest dean, discovered James Bailey because of his brilliant work in sophomore geometry.
"I just sort of drifted into chemistry," Dr. Bailey explains. "I had been studying Latin and Greek for six or eight years, and I changed over to chemistry without much reason."
Because of his many contributions to science, Dr. Bailey is listed in "American Men of Science." Outstanding in his work was his explanation of saturation by means of criss-cross additions to conjugated systems of atomic rings. Alone, he made novocaine, salophene, novasperin, vernahuminal, adalin, and sapodin. His discovery of a method of making

Bears May Offer Harmon $20,000

Glenn Jackson Goes to Brooklyn, Don Williams To Philadelphia in Pro Grid Draft Action

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11—(INS)—Reports that the Chicago Bears' management may offer as high as $20,000 to induce Michigan's Tommy Harmon to play professional football next season were heard Wednesday after the National League club owners drafted two hundred of the nation's better collegiate gridiron performers.
The Bears' management, which begins and ends with Owner-Coach George Halas, refused to confirm the $20,000 figure. Informed that Harmon, who was drafted by the Bears, reiterated his intention of shunning professional football. Halas merely commented: "I'll talk to him in a couple of months."
While the other nine club owners watched impotently, Halas snatched such all-American prizes as Norman Standlee and Hugh Gallarneau of the Stanford backfield; Don Scott, Ohio State quarterback; Little Charlie O'Rourke of Boston College, who can do most everything with a football, and Jim Lalanne, backfield star of the North Carolina. Halas also came close to bagging Big John Kimbrough of the Texas Aggies, who made everybody's all-American. If a coin had come up tails, Halas would have had him.
Through a series of deals, the Bears went into yesterday's draft meeting with the right to first choices held by both the Philadelphia Eagles and the Pittsburgh Steelers. Halas made the Eagles draft Harmon first and then took possession.
The Steelers and the Chicago Cardinals were tied for the privilege of second choice—Kimbrough. A toss of the coin gave him to the Cardinals. If the Steelers had won the toss they would have been forced to hand over the big Texan to the Bears.
Longhorn seniors Glenn Jackson and Don Williams were selected in the annual professional football draft of college players, it was announced Wednesday.
Jackson, stellar center from Corpus Christi, was drawn by the Brooklyn Dodgers. Williams, stocky Amarillo tackle, gets first call by the Philadelphia Eagles.
Both players are undecided if they will play pro ball or not.

adrenalin synthetically greatly reduced its cost. During the World War he made commercial chemicals, the formulas for which had been known only to Germany.
Dr. Bailey, who retired in 1938 after having held every possible teaching position in the Department of Chemistry, has continued to devote his time to research in petroleum bases, work which he began in 1925. New products from the waste materials in crude oil have been the result.
In a talk before the American Chemical Society in 1937, he described a method by which East Texas oil each day could be turned into 75,000 tons of TNT almost automatically.
Dr. Bailey, who is a member of the American Petroleum Institute, Sigma Xi, honorary science fraternity, and a fellow of the Texas Academy of Sciences, likes to delve into his memories of the University when he was a student.
"You know that big oak tree outside the Physics Building? Well, that tree was planted eighteen years before I was a student here by H. C. Beck, who was in charge of the University grounds. I'd like to set up a bronze plaque beside that tree in memory of him. Old Beck was well known to the students here then, you know."
James Robinson Bailey, author of more than fifty scientific articles, may be best described by four words—friend, teacher, scientist, investigator.

revolves. Be it to her eternal credit that she was capable enough to keep it going all the time.
Since the play was written by relatively inexperienced writers, we were ready to make allowances for lack of continuity, but we needn't have been so charitable. It was tied up as neatly as a Christmas package.
The cast, very much like the thirteen men who took the Aggies apart, stand welded together as a complete entourage of stars. If one is superior, then let it be Miss Samon, since she is the leader of them all.
We were especially happy to see the cast enjoying itself. The audience felt that feeling and didn't strain to help the action along. The last act may need a little brushing up, but you can't be hepped up all the time. To lapse

Late World News

Sidi Barrani, Italy's Egyptian Base, Falls

Sidi Barrani, Italian stronghold in Egypt, was in British hands Wednesday night, reports from Cairo said. The official British communiqué announced that the base and a number of prisoners including three generals were captured.
Earlier reports of the fighting at Sidi Barrani had announced that over 6,000 prisoners had been taken.
Fighting along a two hundred mile desert front still continued, reports indicated. But observers believed that the entire Italian force in Egypt was in danger.
The Italians have held Sidi Barrani since September 17. The advance of Fascist forces to this town was the end of an Italian offensive into Egypt early this fall.

Nazi Raiders Return to England

German warplanes again roared over the English Midlands and over London Wednesday night, reports from the British capital said. These were the first raids in almost two days. Bad weather over the British Isles was believed the reason for the long absence of Nazi planes.
The usual flares, incendiaries, and high explosives were dropped on London and on Midlands towns.

Greeks Claim More Gains in Albania

Greek armies were still advancing on Fascist troops in Albania, reports from Athens said Wednesday. Fresh troops armed with long knives were reported advancing against the Italians. Greek reports also said that bad weather and British bombers had all but put Italian air bases in Albania out of order.

Texas was never out of the ball game, and as fast as the Aggies managed a two-pointer, Houpt, Moore, or Substitute Leslie Croucher matched the home team's effort.

Not until the final three minutes when an Aggie sub, Harvey Pate, entered the fray, and slipped down the backside of the court for a pair of set-ups was the game settled. Just prior to Pate's scoring, Hull retired to the bench on four personals and Houpt also left the floor. Both were given a huge ovation.

The College Press On The Nation's Press

AS LAST MONTH'S election sinks into the limbo of things historical, the Daily Princetonian comes through with the observation that "the nation's press has about as much influence over the electorate as an English nanny over a gang of dead-end kids." The campaign has been the springboard for a new flow of collegiate comment about the press, much of it uncompromising, the Associated Collegiate Press says.

The Princetonian believes that "the people no longer trust their newspapers because they sense that their newspapers are not delivering the straight news, but news adulterated and flavored with partisan bias. Unless this practice is stopped, people are going to start turning to their radios to get their news unadorned, and newspapers will be bought only for the radio programs, the comics, and Winchell."

It is "a little saddening" to the Stanford University Daily "to look back over the campaign and evaluate the place of the Fourth Estate. When, forsaking all attempts to present unbiased news coverage and to confine editorialization to the correct columns, a paper prostitutes itself before the public, it cannot fail to suffer in the final analysis. Today the vaunted 'power of the press' is seriously crippled, perhaps lost."

Hope that "the papers may have learned a lesson now, the one they should have learned when they won the war for Finland," is expressed by the Akron Buchtelite. The press, declares this publication, "led the attack on the man whom public opinion supported. Because this a democracy, that criticism and attack was their prerogative. Their abuse of it may or may not have been justified, but they are still free to defend the country from anything they believe to threaten what we tritely but honestly call 'the American way'."

The right of journalistic criticism finds further defense in the editorial columns of the Daily Reveille at Louisiana State University, which feels that "when the occasion demands, there must be criticism. If no bad news can be reported, then the readers must assume that all news is good. Assentive journalism somehow is a foreign germ that inevitably becomes democracy's cancer."

Recent attacks on the press by Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior, are answered by the Amherst Student and the Cornell Daily Sun. The Student declares that "if the secretary's criticism was aimed at the editors simply because they expressed their own views and not those of the readers, his argument is hardly valid. For if the meaning of the term 'free press' were taken to be 'strictly representative' there would be in newspapers no consistent opinion or policy whatsoever. That party pressure was exerted on the press in the past campaign is a charge worthy of every consideration. But it is equally important to realize that a majority popular opinion should not necessarily determine most newspapers' ideas. If this were so out of necessity, the real free press would be gone."

"Mr. Ickes," says the Cornell Sun, "suggests a radical doctrine, that newspapers should be created, not by the opinions of the editors, but by the opinions of the readers. Mr. Ickes is wrong, because the public is not entitled to exert unusual pressure on newspapers, any more than it can tell any merchant what prices he shall charge. Every newspaper in the United States may be in favor of an unpopular cause, but that does not mean they are wrong."

Talking Out Loud

Dear Editor:

Last night I heard Alfred Noyes, "the imposing Englishman who lectured at the University Baptist Church," and this morning I was amazed to find that his ethics are considered decadent by the Texan.

There was a day when the Texan was an organ of enlightened comment—I know because I know some of the former editors—but the biased account of Mr. Noyes' lecture certainly proves that the Texan rather than the classics is decadent.

Alright, (sic) maybe I am a Victorian, but the thing I am talking about and the thing Mr. Noyes was talking about was old when the world began and will be young when the world ends.

It seems to me that Mr. Noyes did have a cause for criticizing Mr. Wells. Mr. Wells has constantly stood for ideas which are diametrically opposite to the eternal and fundamental ideals upon which civilization is founded. On this campus we do not need criticism of these ideals.

The audience, mature but a very small per cent of it senile, seemed to me to appreciate and enjoy the entire lecture.

—GRAHAM LANDRUM.

(Editor's note: Mr. Landrum is the son of Lynn Landrum, front-page Columnist of The Dallas Morning News and editor of the Texan in 1914.)

Dear Editor:

I most heartily agree with Gerry Payne in her recent column in the Texan in which she asked that more copies of books on reserve be placed in the Library. When a student has only so much time to be used in studying for a certain course and he cannot get the required book at that time, how is he expected to do his work?

Even when the assignment is his whole time to finishing the assignment before the last minute rush starts on the books. Most students have other courses to study for, and now, term papers to prepare. Then when about half of a class of fifty starts in the Library with a determined gleam in their eyes, intent on securing one of ten copies, life doesn't seem worth living.

If the University cannot afford to buy any more books at this time, couldn't half of a class work on one assignment while the other half worked on another? In the matter of a quiz, where such an arrangement would not be practical, couldn't the professor be a little more specific about the important material in a long assignment. Some students may be able to digest a long assignment in two hours, but I need more time than that to absorb much of the assigned material. And when there is a rush, a student is lucky to even get a book.

—CARLTON PULLIN.

Dear Editor:

A bowl of roses to Dub Singleton and his dance committee: they've been doing a grand job at a thankless task.

—JAMES E. BROWN.

Dear Editor:

I should like to express my hearty disapproval of the biased, prejudiced, and misrepresented article in the Daily Texan on Tuesday, December 10, concerning Alfred Noyes' lecture. Frankly, I was rather surprised that this lecture could be so misconstrued by the writer, and I think it's effect is entirely unfair to Mr. Noyes.

Those people who did not attend the lecture will no doubt read the article and accept it as authentic. But I attended the lecture, and in the whole article the author seemed to place the periods before the end of Mr. Noyes' sentences. In other words, anything, even the Bible, can be made to seem evil and incorrect if only excerpts are taken out of it.

As to Wells versus Noyes—the fact cannot be disputed that Mr. Noyes offered a much more logical, sound, and permanent solution to the main problems of the world today than did Mr. Wells. And after made several weeks in advance, a student cannot devote all, isn't that the most important service either of them could render in a lecture?

ERNESTINE DAVIS.

(Editor's note: The Texan has no apologies to offer other than the fact that opinion is not supposed to be expressed by a news reporter. This, we feel, was done in the lead of the story. We do not disagree with the opinion, merely that it was expressed in the wrong place. Otherwise, the story was well written; at least, it created comment, both pro and anti-Noyes.)

Student Poetry

Texas 7—Texas A.&M. 0
We sang "The Eyes of Texas"
And we prayed the Gods
would hear
When we fervently reminded them
This was the Longhorn's year.

Then the Aggies raised their voices
To scoff at fickle Fate
In proud defy they hurled on high
Their battle hymn of hate.

And so the Gods were courted
By Aggies and by Steers,
And the miracle that came to pass
Will live through all the years.

For the mighty Aggie war machine
That simply could not fail
Went back to Aggie country
With a can tied to its tail.

While from the Forty Acres
There rose a mighty shout,
When Kimbrough, the Invincible,
Like Casey, had struck out.

So we sang "The Eyes of Texas"
And we ended with a cheer;
A cheer of glad Thanksgiving—
For it was Longhorn year.

This Collegiate World

By Associated Collegiate Press

Two freshmen at Eastern New Mexico College are going to class daily, thanks to friends they brought to the campus with them. The friends are two cows, Betsy, property of Glen Radcliff, and Clarice, property of Tommie Faye Slocum, a co-ed. Glen sold Betsy to a nearby farmer and thus paid his college fees. Tommie has rented Clarice to her landlord, who gives Tommie her board in return for Clarice's milk.

But don't get the idea that E.N.M.C. is a cow college—it has its horsey angles, too. It's one of the new colleges still boasting a hitching-post, and every morning two students tether their ponies just off the campus and scamper in to class. Both live on ranches a short distance across the plains.

Men about Duquesne University's campus who think they know a lot about women have been challenged. Deciding there was plenty they could learn on the subject, the Duquesne Library has provided a ten-volume encyclopedia on women—women of all races and nationalities, their psychology and temperament.

Incidentally, a book that hasn't left the Duquesne Library for two years is "College and Life." The students apparently have been too busy making college life to bother reading about it.

Austin Exes Tell Plans For Marriage

J. R. Reed of Austin has announced the engagement and approaching marriage of his daughter, Jean Teresa, to Louis F. Southerland, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Southerland of Trenton.

Miss Reed is a resident of Austin. She attended Austin High School, Ward Belmont in Nashville, Tenn., and the University. While attending the University, Miss Reed was a member of the Cotillion Club, the Junior League, and Pi Beta Phi sorority. For the past few months she has written the Looking Glass, social column in the Austin Statesman.

Mr. Southerland attended the University and was a member of Delta Chi fraternity. He is a graduate of M.I.T. in Boston, Mass. He has been in Austin for the past six years, where he is a partner with Page and Southerland architects. He is president of the Central Texas chapter of the American Institute of Architects, and is a member of the Bachelors and the Yacht Club.

B. T. U. to Present Play
"They Sit in Darkness," a play written by Dorothy Clark Wilson will be presented by the B. T. U. of the University Baptist Church at 6:30 o'clock Sunday. The program will be on the Christmas theme.

Miss Mary Watson, instructor in physical training for women, who was called to her home in Lakeland, Fla., because of the death of her mother, is expected to return to Austin, the last of this week.

J. Mabel Clark Will Review Book-of-Month

"Embezzled Heaven," by Franz Werfel, which is to be reviewed by Mrs. Roger M. Busfield, known professionally as J. Mabel Clark, Monday night, at 7:30 o'clock at the Wesley Bible Chair, deals with the problem of faith in the world today.

The author, who also wrote "The Forty Days of Musa Dagh," recently arrived in this country as a refugee from Germany. He declares that back of the chaos in the world today lies a "religious nihilism" on the part of masses of people, a "cosmic stupefying of men's minds." In the epilogue of his novel which the Book-of-the-Month Club selected for December, he deprecates the modern world's loss of faith, and declares that "The revolt against metaphysics is the cause of all our misery."

"We have to deal with a pestilence of the soul," writes the European author, who has announced his intention of becoming an American citizen. "Our souls refuse to believe any longer in their indestructibility, and hence in their eternal responsibility. The Heaven of which we have been defrauded is the great deficit of our age. Because of it our accounts cannot be balanced, either in the realm of politics or in that of economics, because everything human springs from the same source."

"Embezzled Heaven" is a novel of profound religious significance. It is a realistic story about an ignorant old peasant woman who tries to buy herself a sure place in heaven by supporting her nephew so that he may become a priest, only to discover in the end that he has defrauded her. But under the surface runs a deep symbolic meaning. It is only when the "heroine" loses her faith in her nephew that she breaks away from her materialistic outlook on life and comes to understand the meaning of true religious faith.

Miss Clark is donating her services in presenting this review for her sorority, Alpha Gamma Delta, and the proceeds will be used by the group as their contribution to the sorority's two summer camps for underprivileged children which are located in Jackson, Mich., and Welland, Ontario.

Tickets are 25 cents and may be purchased from any of the individual members of the sorority or at the door the night of the review.

Pi Phis to Dance Around Tree Friday

A fourteen foot revolving cellophane Christmas tree will form the center decoration for the Pi Beta Phi formal at the Texas Federated Women's Club Building Friday night from 9 until 12 o'clock. The other decorations will be silver and white. Barney Rapp and his orchestra will furnish music for dancing.

The chaperons will be Dr. and Mrs. Homer Price Rainey, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Rubottom, Mr. and Mrs. Arno Nowotny, Dr. H. T. Parlin, Mrs. Kathleen Bland, Miss Dorothy Gebauer, and Mrs. F. B. Conklin.

Wesleyans to Carol
Members of the Wesley Foundation plan to have a caroling tour Sunday night. Leaving the Foundation at 8:30 o'clock, immediately after church services, the group will stop at the Confederate Women's Home, 3700 Cedar, the Children's Home on Thirty-seventh Street, and homes of several individuals for brief renditions of Christmas songs.

Mr. and Mrs. Gibson R. Randle have announced the birth of a son Tuesday at Seton Hospital. Both are ex-students of the University. Mrs. Randle was Miss Sarah Margaret Blair before her marriage, and was Sweetheart of the University in 1934.

of psychology, will be the speaker at the meeting of the SOCIAL SCIENCE CLUB of the faculty to be held Friday at 6:30 o'clock in the Queen Anne Room of the Union.

The CENTURY CLUB of the University Presbyterian Church will have a "Friday the 13th" party at the Boy Scout Hut Friday night at 7:30 o'clock. The group will meet at the church at 7 o'clock. The entertainment will be under the direction of Louis Kubecka and Murray Yantis.

The UNIVERSITY CLUB will have its annual winter social in the Women's Gym from 9 to 12 o'clock Saturday night. Jimmy McCarty and his orchestra will furnish the music for the ballroom dancing. There will also be recreational and square dancing for which special music and leaders have been selected. Hosts for the social are Dr. and Mrs. O. D. Weeks, Mr. and Mrs. Lem Scarbrough, and Dean and Mrs. R. R. Rubottom.

The BAPTIST STUDENT UNION will hold its annual White Christmas on Friday "the thirteenth." This date will certainly not be unlucky for the people who ultimately receive the gifts from the tree. This is how it works: the members bring gifts which they exchange among themselves and then put in baskets for the poor; these baskets are filled with groceries and clothes bought with the collection to be taken up Friday morning for that purpose.

WEST TEXAS CLUB meets at 7 o'clock Thursday night in Texas Union 316. Ralph Charbeneau will sing.

SOUTHEAST TEXAS CLUB met Wednesday night to plan a get-together during the Christmas holidays. Members and dates will meet at the Southern Club in Beaumont on December 29. Those who wish to attend are asked to contact Bobby Sharpless, 8-5103, or Mary Bess Dorsey, 8-8041, before the holidays begin.

Morning Coffee Held for Miss Brill

Mesdames J. C. Kellam, Ray E. Lee, B. Frank White, W. T. Birdwell, and Carroll Keach entertained Tuesday morning at the Live Oak Grove with a coffee honoring Miss Idanell Brill, who will be married this month to John Connally. Mrs. J. B. Connally, mother of the bridegroom-to-be and Mrs. Arno Brill, mother of the bride-elect, poured coffee. Decorations were all white and the coffee table was laid with white fall flowers.

Those attending were Mesdames Ernest O. Thompson, Claude Wild, Gerald Mann, Everett Looney, Max Starcke, Buck Hood, C. P. Little Jr., Victor B. Jaegle, W. S. Birdwell Sr., Clay Lauderdale, E. B. Cape, Tom Miller, Dan Moody, Frank Woolsey, Homer P. Rainey, Arno Nowotny, V. I. Moore, Walter Hicks, Hal Woodward, Arno Brill, Sam Johnson, Sterling Price, George Wicker, Willard White, J. B. Connally of Floresville, Stanford Connally, John W. Pritchett, Jimmie Garrison, Trueman O'Quinn, Ben Powell Jr., Homer Garrison, Curtis Fitzpatrick, Carroll Keach, J. C. Kellam, Ray Lee, W. S. Birdwell Jr., Dan Covert, Emmett Redford, James Nash, Guiton Morgan, Webb Chewing, and T. J. McElroy, and Misses Gene Cherry, Mary Rather, Rebecca Johnson, Marjorie Ransom, Dorothy Baldrige, Ella Nora Critz, and Sheba Brill.

Dames Hear Story Of Austin at Party

The story of Stephen F. Austin was told by Mrs. M. Jones at the Christmas party of the University Dames held at the home of Mrs. K. S. DeBusk on Wednesday afternoon. The singing of Christmas carols was also part of the entertainment.

Mesdames A. A. Smith, D. S. DeBusk, R. L. Coltharp, L. L. Grossnickle, M. M. Noble, Fannie Baker, and Henry Harlin. Mrs. Jones was chairman of the party committee.

Alpha Gamma Delta Initiates
Alpha Gamma Delta sorority announces the formal initiation of Benny Greenwood Sunday morning at the chapter house, 2607 University Avenue. Martha Swanson, president of the sorority, also announced the pledging of Sue Frowine of Bowling Green, Ohio, and Mary Joe Watson of Bowie.

Simple and Chic

Perfect grooming is just as important to a co-ed as being able to give the right answer. Ann Brenton, radio actress, wears an excellent tailored suit with the new longer jacket and hand stitching. It is the kind of outfit that makes one feel well dressed in the classroom and for that dinner date after school. Jewelled clips will dress it up.

Mrs. Jack Gray Is Entertained With Reception

Mrs. T. H. McGregor and Mrs. John Payne entertained Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. McGregor with a tea complimenting Mrs. Jack Gray, the former Miss Margaret Belmont.

The house was decorated with red berries and green leaves on the mantels in the living room and library. The dining room table was laid with a centerpiece of white chrysanthemums and white candles.

Mrs. L. T. Belmont, mother of the bride, Mrs. L. W. Payne Jr., and Mrs. Raymond Hill assisted in the serving of an ice and cake.

Also Misses Jean Reed, Ellen Steck, Catherine Nash, Mary Nash, Frances Rather, Billie Schneider, Frances Hildebrand, Lucile Sharp, Judith Stenerson, Floy Robinson, Hallie Houston, Flora Louise Robinson, Mary Ellen Pope, Ann Ross, and Ann Roberdeau.

Club Benefit to Buy Books for Hospital

The annual Christmas benefit party to provide children at Brackenridge Hospital with books, will be held by the Austin Library Club Saturday night at 8 o'clock in the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. K. Brace, 2205 Shoal Creek Boulevard. Husbands and wives are invited.

This is the third Christmas party to which members of the club have donated for the book fund. The Austin Public Library will use the money to buy books for children at the hospital.

Baptists to Have Party

A kid party will be held by the young people's department of the University Baptist Church on Friday evening. Each person attending the party will bring a toy which will be put in the Christmas baskets the church is giving away.
