

Deen, Brogan Called To Testify Monday In Fruitless Probe

By SAM LESTER and HARVEY GABLER

After several hundred people were turned away from the doors of the House of Representatives Monday night, it was announced that the committee investigating "isms" had postponed its last scheduled meeting before reporting to the House until this morning at 10:30 o'clock.

Dr. R. H. Montgomery, professor of economics, Dr. C. A. Timm, professor of history, and Arthur Deen, associate professor of geology are featured in the last "red" hearing. Meanwhile the committee was divided as to the reports it would make.

Unless there is more evidence of communism than has yet been brought out, Representative Carl Bergman of the committee said he would issue a report clearing the University. Representative Joe Caldwell will give a report that will not give the University a "clean slate." Manley Head suggested postponing the report to the next session of the Legislature. Monday's hearings were uneventful. The morning meeting had R. D. Thorp, chief of the Austin Police on the stand. He said that a Department of Justice agent had checked up on Harold Preece before President Roosevelt visited Austin because "he wanted to get a line on all people that were supposed to be radical."

The afternoon session was devoid of sensation. "Do you solemnly swear that the testimony you give before this committee will be the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth so help you God?" Caldwell asked.

And Albert P. Brogan, dean of the graduate school and Mr. Deen, before the committee for atheism, intoned softly in one voice, "I do—so help me God."

Mr. Deen, called first, said that he believes in a Supreme Being and that he is a member of the Methodist Church.

"Have you ever, in or out of your classes, advocated socialism or communism?" Mr. Caldwell asked him.

"I don't know what it means," he said simply. The committee excused him after a few minutes more questioning and called Dean Brogan.

"This committee is trying to find out whether atheism or communism or any other subversive beliefs are being taught or advocated in the University. Will you please state your views on atheism."

"I believe in a Supreme Being," Dr. Brogan answered. He testified that he considers some of the Bible as "symbolic and allegorical." "However, as far as I know I have never advocated nor known any professor in the University who did advocate atheism."

He said that he never discusses with his students his political beliefs and that he has never taught partisan politics. "I am a professor of philosophy and am interested in the philosophic side of questions, although the political and social angles do come up."

"I'm going to read you a principle of an organization and ask you what form of government it comes under," Mr. Caldwell said.

He read the second principle of the Progressive Democrats, on whom the committee concentrated their attention for most of the hearings. "We hold these truths to be self evident: (2) That the individual's share in these goods and services should be determined by his efforts in producing them unless he is physically or mentally unable to do productive work or unless he is specifically exempted from such work by the group."

"It seems to me that that's mainly correct," said Dean Brogan, "but it needs some qualification. That's the capitalist system as opposed to the communist. It is the theory of the profit motive."

"Well, what do you think of the effect of this principle on inheritance?"

"I think that it might be exaggerated to be construed as prohibiting a man from giving his See DEEN, page 3.

8 to Defend Roosevelt At Demo Rally

"An old-fashion Democratic round-up and rally with fireworks, speeches, 'n' everything," is how Lanier Cox, president of the University Young Democrats, describes a Roosevelt rally set for Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock at Hogg Memorial Auditorium.

Eight speakers will talk at the rally, Cox said. These include Jimmie "Cousin" Brinkley, president of the Students' Association; Tom Rouse, instructor of public speaking in the University; John McCurdy, secretary of the Ex-Students' Association; Pat Moreland of the Governor's staff; Bob Calvert, member of the House of Representatives; Judge O. S. Lattimore of the Court of Criminal Appeals; and Lieutenant-Governor Walter Woodul.

A new method will be used in presenting the speakers, Cox said. A Big Ben alarm clock will time the speeches, each speech not to exceed fifteen minutes. "If a speaker doesn't show any signs of weakening by then," Cox said, "the first whistles of the alarm will increase to shouts."

As a pre-rally feature, there will be a fireworks display in front of the auditorium at 7:15 o'clock. The rally meets at 7:30 o'clock.

Thomason to Talk To Austin Club

A. P. Thomason, a guest director of the Curran Club, will read a skit to the members of the Austin Club tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the Architecture Assembly room, Harvey Pulliam, president, said today.

An auction of the number one official membership card of the club will be held at the meeting. The membership card will carry the distinction of being the first to be issued to a member of the Austin Club. Students who have paid their dues will be permitted to bid for the coveted card. All Austin students are eligible to attend the auction. The membership fee is fifty cents and the card will be delivered to the highest cash bidder above the regular membership fee.

An election of a committeeman-at-large to represent the club on the executive committee will also be held to fill the vacancy left by Pulliam's promotion from the executive committee to the presidency of the club.

All girls are urged to bring a pair of old scissors to participate in the skeleton cut-up. Skeletons will be taken out of the closet to witness this. Austin club officials have defied the boog-a-boos of Halloween by directly challenging any courageous ghost to a duel with marshmallows at thirty paces.

Tickets for the round-up Halloween party to be held Friday from 8 until 10:30 o'clock at the Boy Scout Hut will be in charge of Hiram Brown, treasurer. Tickets will be reduced for those paying the regular dues, Pulliam said.

MRS. NAGLE WINS PRIZE

Mrs. Fred Nagle was awarded first prize and M. W. Leader was given honorable mention in the recent show window display of the Guild of Austin Artists, Samuel E. Gideon, president of the Guild, has announced. Mrs. Nagle and Mr. Leader have been frequent exhibitors in shows on the University campus.

These Longhorn Professors

"Many Texas rivers are red, and I sincerely hope they aren't abolished!"—Arthur Deen, associate professor of geology.

"It seems that the history of taking the roll in the University began when a student was missing from school two weeks and nobody knew it."—Dr. Lloyd A. Jeffress, associate professor of psychology.

"People in Texas think less of a bachelor's degree than people in any other state in the Union."—Dr. H. R. Henze, professor of pharmaceutical chemistry.

Face 'Isms' Probers

ARTHUR DEEN

Appearing before the House committee investigating communism and atheism in the University Monday were Dr. A. P. Brogan, professor of philosophy, left, and Arthur Deen, associate professor of geology. Both professors denied teaching "subversive doctrines."

Deliberalized Pensions Rejected by House

The old age pension revenue problem was no nearer solution today after the House of Representatives rejected Monday the deliberating section of the omnibus tax bill. Governor Allred had requested that the section be passed, but the House reneged after the Senate had included the clause in its conference report.

Hollis Fraser and Jesse James, authors of the omnibus tax bill, waged a fruitless fight for passage. The bill was to supply $7,000,000 necessary to finance pensions for the aged.

As the second months of the legislative session continued, the ultimatum, that unless the tax bill, including the deliberating clause, was not passed before midnight tonight, the Legislature would not be reconvened under any circumstances, came from the Governor's office.

Earlier in the day, a bill creating an unemployment insurance system in the state was submitted to the House for final action.

The vote Wednesday on the conference report was 84-61 against adoption of the tax bill. Representative J. Bryan Bradbury of Abilene led a movement to instruct the committee to bring back a new report with the deliberating clause omitted.

Two factions had apparently formed in the House, those in favor of deliberation and those against. Last week the vote was completely contrary to Monday's vote, being 81-51 for insertion of the deliberating section. Thus the House contradicted itself Monday.

By a vote of 114 to 27 the House adopted Monday afternoon the bill introduced by Senator Allen Shivers creating unemployment insurance.

Freshman Engineers Elect Chambers

Elton Chambers of Houston was elected president of the freshman engineering class Monday afternoon in the Engineering Building library. Other officers are Elmer Neill of Yoakum, vice-president, Dorothy Nixon of Luling, secretary, and B. H. Marks of Dallas, treasurer.

Marian Seiders, engineering librarian, instructed the freshman students on regulations and use of the library. J. C. Hunter, president of Tau Beta Phi, honorary engineering fraternity, discussed honors and honorary fraternities in the various branches of engineering.

Dean D. R. Woolrich spoke on the essential courses for engineers. He discussed what was expected of engineers after graduation.

Beck Gipson, 64, father of Frederick Gipson, journalism student, died in his home at Mason last Tuesday night after a three-month illness. Gipson returned to Austin Sunday to continue his studies after a week's absence.

Mr. Gipson, life-long farmer of Mason, was buried there Wednesday. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Emma Gipson, two sons, and five daughters.

CREAGER VISITS AUSTIN
R. B. Creager of Brownsville, Republican national committeeman for Texas, was in Austin over the week-end, meeting with Travis County Republican leaders and members of the University Young Republicans Club.

38 Try Out For Debate Team Tonight

Meet in Waggener Hall to Determine Makeup of 24-Man Varsity Squad

With a place on the University intercollegiate debate squad as a reward for successful candidates, thirty-eight speakers will compete in the final eliminations to be held at 7:30 o'clock tonight in Waggener Hall 101.

Speeches will be five minutes in length, announced T. A. Rouse, debate coach, and each contestant is expected to refute the speaker immediately preceding him. Participants have prepared the side that they drew after the first round tryouts, but they will not be notified as to their speaking position until a few minutes before the contest begins.

The question being debated in the tryouts is the official high school topic for this year: "Resolved, that the manufacture of munitions of war should be a government monopoly." The University squad will debate several other questions during the year, however, in their contests with other colleges and universities.

Twenty-four speakers comprise the squad. Last year sixteen debaters received gold letter awards for representing the University in an official intercollegiate debate, Mr. Rouse said.

Those for the affirmative in the final eliminations are Cecil Burney, Lanier Cox, Richard Davis, Tilden Edwards, Jenkins Garrett, Billy Goldberg, DeWitt Hale, Billy Harvin, Gerdes Isenhower, Jack Love, Dave McNeill, Edd Miller, Patrick Molloy, Jos Neal, Hubert Petri, Rush H. Record, John Stephens, Robert Sharp, and Ped Watkins.

On the negative side are Robert Abshire, Stanley Alford, Francis Allan, John Daniel, Herbert Davis, Kellis Dibrell, Lewis Foxhall, Gus Garcia, Warren R. Hughes, Guilford Jones, J. G. Kennedy, Joe Kilgore, Don Larson, J. D. McCutchan, Jim McGowan, Kay Nolen, Darby Or-gain, Paul Ragsdale, and Harry Riviere.

Anderson to Speak To Houston Club

R. B. Anderson, 26-year-old state tax commissioner, will address the Houston Club tonight at 7:30 in Texas Union 315, Jimmie Brinkley, president, announced.

Mr. Anderson is a former professor of law at the University. He has written many legal articles and commented on educational subjects for radio audiences.

He served as a member of the legislature until he was appointed assistant attorney general in 1933. Later he was appointed tax commissioner, the position he now holds, by Governor Allred.

Anderson is a member of the Chancellors, Phi Delta Phi, Order of the Coif, all of which are legal fraternities. He is also a member of the Odd Fellows and Masonic Order.

There will be a short business meeting to make final plans for the club dance to be held in the immediate future. Mary Anne Tuffly and Dean Couch, co-chairmen have announced.

ENROLLMENT UP ONE

Enrollment of the University has increased to 8,479. One student paid his fees Monday, Jean Reed, assistant information clerk in the office of the Registrar, said.

Athenaeum Treasurer Impeached; President Continues Dictatorship

"He can't resign. We're gonna impeach him!"

That was the cry that rang through the time-honored halls of Athenaeum Literary Society last night as the resignation of George Gerdes Isenhower, treasurer of the organization, was placed before the members.

Joe Neal, vice-president, rose and filed immediate impeachment proceedings against Isenhower for absconding with the society's funds and refusing him (Neal) free admission to a downtown theater where the treasurer was ticket taker.

Debate ensued, and after Isenhower's roommate came to his defense by saying the treasurer had not collected dues from the members, Neal, owing the society 50 cents, tried to withdraw his impeachment motion but met with no success.

A vote was called by Cecil E.

Dyke Analyzes Student Press Control Systems

Few school papers are freer from faculty or administration control than The Daily Texan has been in the past.

Such were the findings presented Sunday night to a joint meeting of Sigma Delta Chi and Theta Sigma Phi, honorary and professional journalism fraternities for men and women respectively, by Burt Dyke, business manager of Texas Student Publications, Inc.

Dyke's discussion of student newspaper control was based on a questionnaire sent to deans of state universities and colleges comparable to The University of Texas, the information to be used in a thesis Dyke is writing for his master of journalism degree.

Returns from thirty schools showed that most of the systems were similar to that in force at the University, but that few publications were allowed the freedom of The Daily Texan.

Nine Papers Free

Nine of the papers are listed as nominally free from control by the school. These include The Collegian of Pennsylvania State College, The Crimson-White of the University of Alabama, where the editor is expected to stay "within bounds." The Daily Californian of the University of California, whose editor is subject to disciplinary action by the dean, the University of Washington, Washington Daily, published by the Associated Students, "a body over which the President and Regents have control," the Daily Emerald of the University of Oregon, where the State Board of Higher Education or the university president may remove the editor, The Cynic of the University of Vermont, "controlled through tradition, good sense, and loyalty," The Evergreen of the State College of Washington, where the editor is held responsible for any ill-timed action, and The Gamecock of South Carolina University, where theoretical control by a faculty committee is not exercised.

Several Systems Used

Five publications have faculty advisors or supervisors, Dyke found, not counting five others, which are directed by departments of journalism. Faculty committees directly control the Georgia Blue and Black and The New Hampshire.

University administrations supervise two papers, The Branding Iron of the University of Wyoming and The Sagebrush of the University of Nevada.

Publications boards of students and faculty members control the other seven student papers, none of the boards having such liberal student representation as the Board of Publications of the University, which consists of six students and three faculty members. In fact, none of the others reported having a student majority.

Twenty-seven of the thirty papers are using office space furnished by their universities and are not paying rent. Twelve of the schools furnish all printing equipment, as well.

Editorial Comment

National wire services are used by seven papers, three using United Press, three using Associated Press, and one using the facilities of the newspaper plant in which it is published.

Editorial comment on partisan politics is sometimes made by the editors of nineteen of the papers. With the exception of alumni exchanges, high schools, and parents, outside circulation of all the papers is negligible, except the Oklahoma Daily, which is looked upon as a competitor of the local city daily.

The only university entirely responsible for profits and losses is the Louisiana State University, and its paper, The Reveille, is controlled by the journalism department. Student organizations are generally responsible.

ARTS FACULTY TO MEET

The faculty of the College of Arts and Sciences will meet in Carrison Hall 1 this afternoon at 4 o'clock. Dr. L. L. Click, secretary, announced Monday. Routine business will be considered, Dr. Click said.

"Uniform-the-Band Week" for the University campus starts this morning and continues through Saturday, October 31, Jimmie Brinkley, president of the Students' Association, said last night. During this period representatives of the organizations supporting the drive for new band uniforms will attempt to contact every student on the campus. A campaign is under way to raise $4,500 with which to buy the new suits in time for the Thanksgiving Day game with A. & M.

"It's up to us as students in the University to get our band into good looking uniforms," Brinkley said. "We will all cooperate in this effort as much as we possibly can."

Evelyn Buzzo, president of Orange Jackets, requests that all members of that organization be at First Street and Congress Avenue at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon to help in the Uniform-the-Band Campaign.

during this week, and, when it's all over and the band comes out on the field Thanksgiving Day in the new uniforms, we will be able to say that we helped outfit the boys."

Sackcloth Uniforms

This afternoon at 5 o'clock the Longhorn Band will march from First Street and Congress Avenue to the State Capitol in a musical demonstration.

Highlight of the parade will be the sackcloth uniforms worn by freshman players. Grieving freshman will also display signs expressing their displeasure at lack of attractive and colorful uniforms.

Members of the Cowboys and Orange Jackets will sell tickets for the band's show to be given November 12 to spectators and merchants along Congress Avenue.

Yesterday's ticket sales amounted to $140, members of the band turning in half that amount while committee members accounted for the rest.

The total collected to date from ticket sales, honorary membership sales, and donations is nearly $500.

Allred Buys First

Certificate number 1 of honorary membership in the band was sold yesterday afternoon to Governor James V. Allred by Virginia Crews, Panhellenic president, and member of the uniform committee. Governor Allred paid $5 for the dollar-a-year membership and in a few words expressed his hopes of success for the campaign.

Certificate number two was purchased for little 14-month-old Diana Sue Hurt by her father, George E. Hurt, director of the band.

At the band practice last night Tom Miller presented the band with a personal check for $50 as his contribution to the campaign. He also promised members a check for $100 later as the gift of the Austin City Council. Mayor Miller made a short speech in which he paid tribute to the band's new director, Mr. Hurt, and guaranteed the support of the city for all band activities.

Canvass of Campus

Tickets for the band concert in Hogg Memorial Auditorium November 12 are being sold by the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Austin, the American Legion, Inter-fraternity Council, Panhellenic Council, yell leaders, and representatives of the Students' Assembly. This week representatives of the campus groups will canvass sororities, fraternities, and campus organizations.

Joe Stanton, secretary of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and chairman of the uniform committee, said that members of his organization and the American Legion would visit every business man in Austin selling the honorary dollar-a-year memberships.

Assisting Mr. Stanton in organizing the canvassers will be Adolph Kohn, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and G. L. Howell, business manager of the American Legion drum and bugle corps.

Top salesman so far in the campaign is Miss Crews who had sold $12 worth of tickets at noon Monday.

Typing Champion to Demonstrate Today

Miss Remo Poulsen, recognized as the world's amateur typing champion, will give a demonstration in the typing laboratory of Waggener Hall at 10 o'clock this morning.

Miss Poulsen, who will be making her first public appearance since competing in the World's International Typing Contest held Toronto, Canada, last month, will give demonstrations in typing rhythm, concentration, and changes in papers. Miss Poulsen's official world record is 120 words a minute for one hour.

N.Y.A. CHECKS UNCLAIMED
E. J. Mathews, auditor, announced Monday that 185 N.Y.A. students have not called for their checks. If the checks are not claimed this week, they will be returned to San Antonio.

Longhorns Prime Defense for Flashy Mustang Attack

Injured Bill Pitzer Still Lost to Squad

Jack Chevigny, head football coach, gave his regulars a rest Monday afternoon, only the second string men, and those who saw no service in the Rice game Saturday being on hand. The varsity came out of the Owl melee in fair shape, most of the men being lightly bruised up. Although none is seriously injured, Coach Chevigny was taking no chances on losing any of his first string men for the important S.M.U. game next Saturday at Memorial Stadium.

The MARCH of SPORTS

By JOE BELLEN
Texas Sports Editor

AND so the Longhorns have lost another opportunity to win the Southwest Conference championship.

Even before the Rice game at Houston last Saturday had ended the wolves had begun their howling. The Longhorns tied a splendidly-played game with L.S.U., trampled all over Oklahoma, and have lost two. They still have five games to play, four of them conference contests, and have a chance to land very near the top of the conference. But the wolves have begun their howling.

It is difficult to say the Longhorns played "dirty" football, although eye witnesses of the terrible carnage have it that there was rough playing. There has been rough playing in football games before, and there will always be, for the game necessarily calls for it. If Texas is using the wrong tactics, let them take the consequences.

IT'S tough for the Longhorns to get the adverse criticism. They started the season in a glorious style. Then came Baylor and Rice. Both should feel lucky to have won, for one was headed for utter defeat and the other for a sure tie until the wind changed and blew luck the other way. There is still a chance for Texas to show the dissatisfied faction that there is determination in the Longhorn corral. There is still time to burst open this uncalled-for air bubble.

When Chevigny came to Texas in 1934 he was untied. He had to show his stuff. The Longhorns went to South Bend and beat Notre Dame. Chevigny was the tops. In 1935 Texas finished far down the line. Chevigny was not so hot. In 1936 Texas makes a good showing against two inter-sectional foes. Chevigny is pretty good after all. Then Texas loses two games. Now if the Longhorns beat Minnesota it is to be supposed Chevigny will once more be an idol. Maybe it's human nature. But there is little reasoning in it.

Band--

Hurt about the drive when they met in Houston Saturday. Mr. Stark promised to do all he could to support the project. Dr. H. Y. Benedict, president of the University, is questioning the Regents concerning the possibility of the Board underwriting the agreement of the band to pay for the uniforms, thus allowing the order to be placed immediately.

Concert November 12
"It is up to the student body to show the Regents that they are behind this move," Mr. Hurt said. "If we can show a big ticket sale to the Board when it meets Saturday, then the members will be willing to back us in ordering the uniforms. The students must prove that they feel the need of new uniforms. Everyone admits it, everyone talks about it—now is the time to do something about it."

The concert for which tickets are being sold will be in Hogg Memorial Auditorium on November 12. The entire proceeds will go to the uniform fund, since blanket tax holders will not be admitted free to the show. The first free concert for them will be sometime after Thanksgiving.

HOUSTON CLUB MEETS
Final arrangements for the fall dance will be the business before a called meeting of the Houston Club to be held tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the Texas Union, Dean Couch, co-chairman of the social committee, announced Monday.

Aggies Still Top Conference Despite Tie Game

DALLAS, Oct. 26. (INS)—Southern Methodist, still unbeaten in conference competition—because it hasn't had any—got down to intensive training under Matty Bell today, muttering—

"Baylor beat Texas; Rice beat Texas; why can't we?"

The game at Austin this week will probably decide the Longhorns' fate. If Texas loses again, all its dreams of power in the circuit will have to be postponed again. But if it should beat the Mustangs, conceded to be one of the most powerful teams in Texas, it will still have a fighting chance to come out on top.

Last week's victory over Texas at Houston, 7-0, put Rice stock in a private bull market all its own. The Owls, defeated in their first three starts, have come along rapidly since. This Saturday they will play another strong team, George Washington, but the contest will not show in conference standings and the Houstonians can relax before the Arkansas game November 7.

The scoreless draw played at Waco between the Texas Aggies and Baylor did neither team any good. It marred the Farmers' perfect record while leaving the Bears still with a .500 record and one of their best chances to take a lead gone for the season.

The big game of the week thus finds the Aggies' standard sullied for the first time. They play the top-notch conference match at College Station, against the Arkansas team that lost to L.S.U., losses in their first two conference games.

The Longhorns are in good spirit, in spite of heartbreaking

Texas Defeats Rice In Cross Country Meet

Carrying five first places out of the available six, the University Longhorns were victorious over the Rice Owls in a dual cross country meet held in Houston by a decisive margin of 15-48, Saturday.

Remus Thomas and George Wilson claimed first honors in a tie run over the 2.5 mile course in 13 minutes and 40.4 seconds.

"As it is so early in the season the running was of the desirable type. The boys were not used to a level path, and for that reason it may be that we won so decisively. After running up hill for so long, it seemed like child's play to run on smooth cinders," Buren Edwards, assistant track coach, remarked after the meet.

Gordon Fisher, number two man, and O'Neal Reed, number three, carried their races with comparative ease. Joe Baldwin, in winning fourth place, was the final defender of Texas. A Rice man managed to eke out with the last place.

As the meet is decided by low total the Steers ran away with the affair.

Baylor, on the other hand, can worry quite satisfactorily about its little tea-party at Fort Worth, when it will be greeted by the Texas Christian Horned Frogs. The Frogs did not impress in holding Mississippi State to a scoreless tie last week, but few teams manage to look impressive in the rain. The return of Slinging Sam Baugh will be just so much more added woe for the Bears.

Southwest Conference standings:

T.C.U.	1	1	0	.500	25	32
Arkansas	1	1	0	.500	28	28

This Is the Team That Texas Will Play November 14

By DAVIS J. WALSH
INS Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 (INS)—Maybe there's something more to be said for the last week-end in college football than the blank, frank, and unadorned statement that the University of Minnesota won another game by a score that sounded like a license plate. As a matter of fact, if I'd only stuck it out in night school, I'd probably have been able to come up with something original like the gentleman a few days ago who found himself in a position to upbraid football because he knows so much about lawn tennis.

As it is, all I can think of is that Minnesota ran its parlay into twenty-one straight by beating the hitherto unbeaten Purdue team by 33 to 0 and there's absolutely no going behind a thing like that, any more than you can go behind the wall paper.

Week-end Thrill
It topped everything, including the 26 to 0 defeat of the hitherto unbeaten Notre Dame outfit by Pitt; the 15 to 13 victory of Tennessee over unbeaten Duke after coming twice from behind; the 7 to 6 win of Fordham over St. Mary's, and the fact that Louisiana State, Marquette, Northwestern, Southern California, Tulane, and Auburn, among others, kept on winning.

Minnesota has now beaten Washington on the West Coast; Nebraska, the best in the Missouri Valley; and Michigan and Purdue in the Big Ten. If it gets by Northwestern this week, there'll be nothing for it but to admit that this team can do everything with a football, except swallow it.

Few Undeclared

In making these somewhat boisterous statements, I'm trying very hard not to take anything away from those teams that are doing everything that's asked of them but suffer by contrast with the maelstrom from Minneapolis. Noteworthy, in fact, among Saturday's returns were the victories of these undefeated teams over previously unbeaten opponents: Marquette 13, Michigan State 7; Tulane 21, North Carolina 7, and Fordham 7, St. Mary's 6.

Holy Cross kept going with a meritorious 7 to 0 decision over Carnegie Tech. But if it were playing Purdue, a lot of money would have ridden with the latter. I'm quoting that as a means of showing just how Minnesota now stands in relation to the rest of the country. Yale is still in there with a 28 to 0 score against Rutgers. So is the Army with its 33 to 0 over Springfield. They are first rate teams. But strictly not the kind that is prepared to make a barehand stop of the Overland Limited.

Pairings Made In Girls' Golf

The pairings of the Tee Club ladder tournament has been made, with the tournament beginning Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock. In case of rain the matches must be played by Saturday noon.

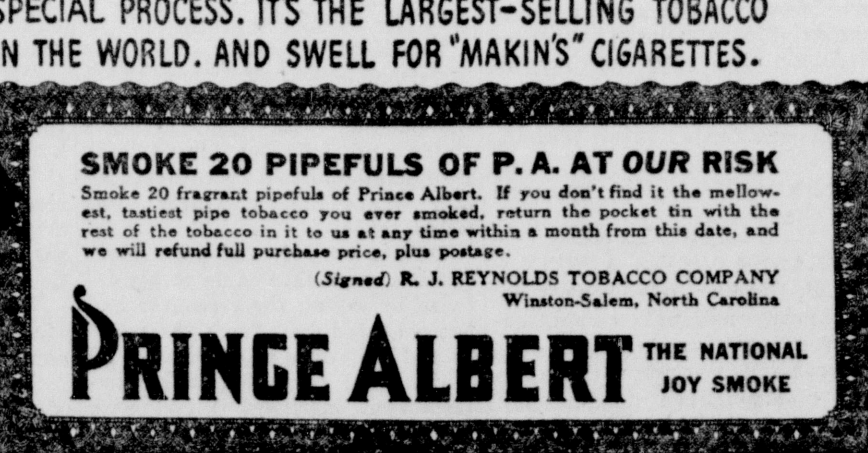

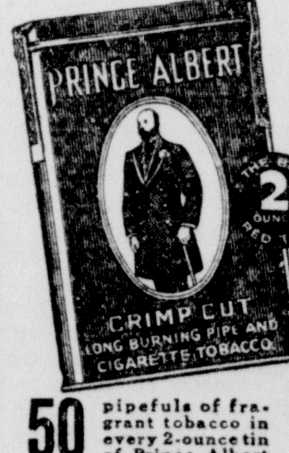

The pairing is as follows: Martha Burns vs. Ann Russ; Margaret Ward vs. Frankie Gist; Evelyn Harris vs. Harriet Hunkapiller; Frances Preston vs. Juanita Whittlesey; Clara Spencer vs. Lucille Weise; Elizabeth Lightette vs. Nylah Tom; Mary Riedel vs. Dee Kleister; Neil Francis vs. Beth Gregory; Mary Lennox vs. Dorothy Rutland. Elizabeth Baker drew a bye.

The winners are requested to watch the chart in Women's Gymnasium, as there may be some complications. The next round of the tournament must be completed by the following Wednesday, and the pairing will be posted in Women's Gym.

Frances Utley, Dorothy Lou Culton, Jane Dunn, and Tommy Cunningham spent the week-end with their families at Corpus Christi.

TOPCOAT VALUES

The popularity of the Gaston Topcoats is something that has been assured season after season. But this year we are amazed at the reception given these comfortable, good looking coats by the college men—and there are several reasons why Gaston's Topcoat is going over the way it is. The first reason is obvious . . . Their smart appearance. The second reason will be obvious when you see them . . . their fine fabrics and neat patterns. The third reason is price . . . it is way below what such quality usually sells for. Models featured are regians, and regular sleeves in single and double breasted; also belted models.

Fellowship Hallowe'en Party Tonight

The Freshman Fellowship Club will have a Hallowe'en party at the Y.M.C.A. at 7 o'clock tonight, Gus Levy, sponsor, announced Monday.

There will be a "midway" of seven booths, the believe-it-or-else, nude farm, fortune teller, magician, india rubber man, motorcycle hippodrome, and chamber of horrors. Julian Morehouse and Bill Elkins will act as barkers, and Sally Lipscomb and John Logan are in charge.

The program will include a song by Jimmy Valentine, a skit with Harold Brady in charge, and a ghost story by Gus Levy. Apples, blow-gum, and popcorn will be served.

The club social and recreational committee, sponsors of the party, includes Elizabeth Swift and Bill Cox, chairman; Priscilla Baum, Bob Tarleton, M. C. Lewis, Home Mueller, Sue Roberts, and Dorothy Mangum.

Garden Club Tea For New Members

The Violet Crown Garden Club will honor new members added since October, 1935, with a tea at the Elisabeth Ney Museum, Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The business meeting will be on the Museum grounds, weather permitting; otherwise, it will be in the Museum.

It is customary for the members to bring seeds, plants, and shrubs suitable for planting at this season. This beautification of the grounds is a major project of the club. Plants most desirable at this time are redbud and crepe myrtle.

Tea will be served in the Ney lodge with the following women in charge: Mrs. Bruce Bryant, chairman; Mesdames R. L. Batts, W. R. Long, Paul J. Thompson, James Hart, O. O. Norwood, and T. H. Markey.

Guests of honor will include Mesdames Ike D. White, T. F. Cox, W. W. Carson, C. S. Clark, R. A. Johns, E. C. Lorey, John W. Robbins, E. C. Sargent, G. H. Fancher, L. M. Ainsworth, Gen Powell, A. P. Dean Brogan was released, and he gave two statements to the committee. "I've listened to all the evidence that has been presented to the committee," he said, "and I've had this feeling: that when you are dealing with a group of young people it is bad to suggest to them that there are certain doctrines that are attractive but prohibited. You immediately stimulate a great interest in those subjects."

"Next, I think that the University is a little at fault—the professors have never defined the limits they place on themselves in the light of their official functions."

By EVERETT SHIRLEY

Last Sunday in his column O. McIntyre, one of the most famous columnists in the United States, had a few pungent remarks to make about radio. Now some times McIntyre speaks his mind about what programs he likes and the why for his liking. He does this so much that today his opinion on radio, like in a great many other things he knows anything about, is respected a great deal by all radio moguls. And with right. He doesn't say ...

sored because of low practices. Talk about your stage being censored because of the same thing. Why radio today is getting by with some things that would make musical comedies on Broadway look like a Sunday school picnic. And why? Just because some of the program directors, like the directors in the movies formerly thought, think they can get by with anything. To quote McIntyre, "And it is much worse in radio. It is more intimate than the ..."

Shep Fields puts a ripple in his rhythm. The young maestro's distinctive music will be heard tonight at 9:30 o'clock over WOAI in the "Portraits in Harmony" program.

anything without thinking about it first and when he does say it he usually is right. But in this column—almost all of it was on radio—McIntyre had something to say about the social aspect of radio which is really the most important and the most significant of all. I agree with him when he says the lectures, social and educational programs of radio will far outrank, in the future, the amusement part of it.

He then went on to criticize the lack of restraint of some programs. And maybe this should not be brought up here. Maybe it should be allowed to go on without anything being said. But nevertheless I think it is better to go on and have it discussed. This all refers to some of the programs as to their ... well, moral side. Talk about your movies being cen-

Which Is the American Way?

The University of Wisconsin: "Whatever may be the limitations which hamper inquiry elsewhere, we believe that the great State University of Wisconsin should encourage the continual and fearless sifting and winnowing by which alone the truth can be found."—University creed; from report of the board of regents, 1894.

The University of Texas: "The Editorial Advisory Committee is directed also to employ an agent to examine prior to publication all proposed non-advertising contents of each issue of The Daily Texan. The Committee or the Committee's agent shall have the power to exclude libelous material, improper personal attacks, reckless accusations, opinion not based on fact, inaccurate statements, articles of national, state and local political questions, indecencies, material detrimental to good conduct of the student body, and material prejudicial to the best interests of the University and any material in conflict with good taste or wise editorial management..."—Section 38, Rules and Regulations of the Board of Regents, sixth edition: adopted July 27, 1936.

In California It's Matter Of Manners, Not Morals

The coliseum management is unable to release accurate figures concerning the number of liquor bottles picked up after Saturday's game in the rain, but the figure would have undoubtedly reached sizeable proportions despite the relatively small crowd. Cold weather is naturally an inducement for the average fan to pack a bottle inside his coat as he departs for the stadium.

There may be nothing immoral about drinking itself, or about drinking at football games. Except for donning an extra coat or lighting a fire, it's probably the best way known of warming up. If done in moderation, and without blatancy, drinking at the games might be harmless; and even if it were thought undesirable, there is little that could be done about it.

Drunkness, however, is quite another matter, and must be curbed at any price. As the Saturday afternoons get colder, the problem, increasing year by year, demands greater attention of collegiate authorities.

Princeton university, under the direction of its president, Dr. Harold W. Dodds, took a rather interesting step Monday when it banned, or attempted to ban, all future drinking at games in which the Tigers are home team. The action was taken, so it was said, "because drinking has reached proportions which seriously menace the future of the sport as intercollegiate activity."

In opening his campaign to eliminate the pocket flask as the standard equipment of all football rosters, Dr. Dodds especially requested all persons who have made reservations for the Princeton-Navy game next Saturday "to refrain from the use of alcoholic liquors."

"If we cannot practice good manners in public life," he said, "democracy will be in jeopardy. And for the most painful exhibition of bad manners, one must turn to intercollegiate football games and the flask toters and alcoholic partisans who attend them."

Dr. Dodds is to be commended for his sensible attitude in the matter—recognizing drinking at the games as a matter of manners rather than morals. It may be possible to appeal to both students and public on grounds of etiquette, whereas it is virtually useless to appeal to the same groups on moral grounds.

—DAILY TROJAN.

Texas Fills CCC Quota

Texas relief administration has secured admission of 1,900 additional CCC enrollees this month, giving Texas a total of 8,600 men for the camps for the period just starting.

The relief officials are in charge of recruiting and certifying the enrollees of youths from families which have been on relief. This camp program has become a chief means of tiding over families from the old relief rolls.

The board of control relief agency had planned to drop this work October 31; but at the request of the federal government, will continue it until after the first of the year, in line with other functions, including those of certifying persons from relief rolls over to works progress employment, and the distribution of surplus commodities.

In a letter to Gov. Allred and to Adam R. Johnson, director of the relief set-up, the U. S. Department of Labor has commended the work of Texas in filling the state's

The Zipper Age

By GERALD M. PORTER

A Small Town Boy Who Hasn't Yet Made Good

WHEN O. O. McIntyre called this "the year of that gosh awful shirt," he was trying to be amusing; but the term "The Zipper Age" was coined for the more sublime purpose of serving as a heading for the best ghost writer that I can afford to use when writing a column in my name. This being that ghost writer's night off, I am taking advantage of his absence to explain the origin of "The Zipper Age."

My purpose in doing this is not defensive. The Department of Geology has not challenged the term. Neither has anyone indicated dubiousness as to my skill as a thinker-upper by questioning its originality. I wish they would though. Then I would be sure that my ghost writer is being read. After all, my reputation is at stake. I don't want anybody using my name unless it is to a good advantage (to me).

The ghost writer that has been writing this column came to me well recommended by a group of English I students. This seemed to me to be as satisfactory a recommendation as the stamp of approval of the American Medical Society upon a pill or a gargle. If an English I student can't tell a writer from a bazooka player, then literary criticism is now defunct. Without further ado, the ghost was hired and given the deadline for these columns.

I HAVE no interest in columns, myself. Never read them. Don't even read these which bear my name. I did read a column once, but it didn't mention me anywhere in it, so I haven't cared to read anymore. There's no use in reading my own column because I know it is about me, at least that is what I am paying my ghost to write about. If he succeeds in making me interesting and likeable to others, I may give him a bonus. If he doesn't, I am going to give him what General Sherman said war is.

The reason that I am having these columns written is because I want to be a "big shot" on the campus. I want students to point me out to strangers and say, "Do you see that queer-looking bloke over there who looks like half-man and half-professor? Well, that's Gerald Porter. He writes a column for The Daily Texan." I want the boys who write their own columns, Ed Syers, Pat Daniels, Mack Robertson and Fred Gipson, to include little items in their columns like "Gerald Porter, well-known campus personality, says that people who clean their teeth with mesquite roots rarely have 'pink toothbrush'."

THIS is a very shameless way to talk, but I'm discouraged today. I guess writing a column doesn't make one a big shot after all. If anyone speaks to me on the campus, it is usually my ghost trying to get an advance on next spring's columns. The girls don't flock around me like I thought they would. They still seem to prefer Robert Taylor, who probably couldn't write his own column either. But it's almost time for the return of my ghost, so I had better pull myself together and tell you the history of "The Zipper Age" like I started out to do.

It may have been my background, which includes experience in meddlesome in other people's business, which led me to desire a heading for this column that would at the same time characterize and indict our age. The most striking feature of this age seems to me to be the rapidity with which we can button up our rompers now that they all come equipped with zippers.

Our desire to avoid physical exhaustion by the employment of labor-saving devices, the accelerated tempo of our lives, and the impatience over delay are prime characteristics of this age, and these things all contribute to the amazing spread of the use of the zipper. Everything comes zipper-equipped now except the daily mail, and as long as the bulk of that continues to be requests to "please remit" no one is likely to complain of this neglect. "Why not call this the Zipper Age" was the query which occurred to me. And so I did.

quota for every civilian conservation camp period, and for its work in recruiting the youths.

The 8,600 men who will go to camp this month, or who will be given an additional enrollment period, each will remit $25 per month for support of their families formerly on relief.

Texas this month had 78 CCC camps in operation, including 32 for soil conservation and 24 for state parks. The camp program, since April, 1933, has provided work for approximately 83,000 men. Total government expenditures for the program to August 31 had been $44,920,000; and the present period will bring the total to approximately $50,000,000.

WORLD FAIR OF 1939 IN NEW YORK TO BE 'STUPENDOUS AND COLOSSAL'

When most people have grown used to the marriage of "stupendous, colossal, and magnificent" with Hollywood, from the other side of the continent comes an announcement that practically dwarfs Hollywood's superlative family.

The miracle will be New York City's World Fair of 1939—greater than the Century of Progress and the 1936 election year.

"The fair," says Grover Whalen, its director, "will represent an investment of $125,000,000, one-fourth of which will come from the state and federal government. To cover the enormous expense, an average daily attendance of 250,000 is anticipated."

Mr. Whalen goes on to explain there will be parking space for 30,000 private automobiles and enough bus depots to take care of 50,000 passengers daily. The amusement center will be a mile long and main lagoon where nearly half a billion dollars will be spent.

A visitor to the fair will have a choice of 50,000 benches to sit on and 10,000 trees to stand under. He will eat hot dogs and listen to opera. There will be fan dancers, shawl dancers, and bubble dancers.

Connected with the 250-foot central tower will be ten zones. "Each zone," says Mr. Whalen, "will carry out the theme in its focal point which will indicate the nature of the zone—clothing, shelter, industries, health recreation . . . In these focal points, each one of different nature a story of the past and the present may be read and some idea of the future gained."

Modestly, Mr. Whalen avers: "Our fair will be a brilliant entertainment spectacle: it will offer the best in architecture, sculpture, dioramas, murals, music, and amusements; it will entertain with athletic contests, water sports, opera, moving pictures and the drama. It will display all the best that the nations offer in materials and ideas, all the things available to every man and every community, all things easily attained . . . it will be a glorious panorama of today."

Mmm . . . May turn out to be pretty good.

WOMEN AND KINGS—A TYPICALLY AMERICAN CONTROVERSY

One of the most absurd, yet typically American, characteristics of public opinion today is the heated controversy over the friendship of King Edward VIII of England and Mrs. Ernest Simpson.

In spite of the fact that Mrs. Simpson is American, and her constant companionship with the king is unusual, (probably because kings are unusual in this age) there seems to be a little justification for plastering pictures and personal guesses as to their relationship on newspaper front pages side by side with presidential platforms and international wars.

There is a perverted sense of values somewhere when the association of a man and a woman is the current issue of the day, and the national pastime is comparing opinions about the pair—when neither of the two resides in this country.

H.E. Building Feeds Its Rats—For Science

The basement of the Home Economics Building is the home of two or three hundred white rats under the supervision of Dr. Jet Winters, professor of home economics, which are raised to be sold to the Department of Zoology and the State for experimental purposes.

The rats are kept in small wire cages, which are sterilized about once a week, in a room designed especially for their care. The temperature is 71 degrees the year round, and, because of this air-conditioned system, no windows are permitted to be raised.

There is an averaged increase daily in the rat population here of thirty, although in the last three days this number has somewhat decreased, said Eliot Roberts, who counts and feeds them. From this number must be subtracted the weaker rats in litters totaling over seven.

When first born, the rats are pink without any hair. After three weeks, by which time their eyes are open, they are separated from the mothers.

The rats are fed and watered once a day, the food remaining in the cage constantly. Ordinarily the diet consist of a mixture of meat, whole wheat flour, milk powder, salt, calcium carbonate, water, and lettuce.

Emory Powers Still in Hospital

Emory Powers, University student from Waco, was reported Monday to have had a fair night at St. David's Hospital where he was taken after receiving injuries in an automobile accident Saturday.

On his way to Houston to see the football game, Powers was hurt when the car in which he was riding skidded and left the highway four miles west of Elgin. Injured painfully, but not seriously, Powers was removed to Elgin, where he was treated, and then brought to Austin.

Nancy Coppock spent last week-end in San Antonio with her family.
