THANKSGIVING A CELEBRATION OF FESTIVE STUNTS

Football, Receptions, Germans, and a Big Rally Will Mark Next Week's Observance of Feast Day.

Although the faculty has refused to give more than Thursday for a holiday Thanksgiving, nevertheless, University students from all departments here are planning a series of social events that will eclipse all previous attempts of a like nature at this institution. Dances, receptions, Germans, rallies, smokers, and the Notre Dame football game are some of the things that are being looked forward to, and elaborate plans are being carried out to make all of these affairs a complete success.

On next Wednesday evening the students of the engineering department, following the football rally in the auditorium, will give a big reception on the top floor of the Engineering Building, which will be decorated with arc lights, bunting, and evergreens for the occasion. Dean T. U. Taylor and President Snow have invited all of the alumni of the engineering department to attend this reception, and a large number is expected to be present. A smoker and entertainment true to actual engineering life will be given on the second floor of the building, and following the conclusion of the smoker dancing will be the feature of the evening until a late hour.

On the same night as the engineers' reception the University German Club, which is the foremost social organization in school, will give a formal dance at the Knights of Columbus hall down town. Extensive preparations have been made and no expense has been spared to make this affair a complete success, and inasmuch as every student in school will be invited to secure a ticket, there is no doubt but that the German Club's dance will be largely attended.

Previous to the engineers' reception or the German Club dance Wednesday night, a monster football rally will be held in the auditorium of the Main Building, and it is frankly expected that at least 3000 students and town people will be present at this rally, which will be held for the purpose of stirring up enthusiasm for the Texas-Notre Dame football game to be played the next day. Rousing speeches by prominent college orators will encourage the team and the rooters, and those present will afterwards be entertained by a one-act student playlet. The yell leaders and football men will be on hand, and the rally will be the last football meeting of the students for this season and is expected to be the largest that has yet been held.

Thursday being Thanksgiving Day, students will not be required to attend classes, and the entire school will probably turn out to see Texas and Notre Dame fight it out on the gridiron for football supremacy. The grandstands and bleachers on Clark Field have been enlarged until they will hold nearly 5000 people, and it is probable that a great many more than this number will witness the game.

The Longhorn football squad is in excellent shape and has not been defeated this season, although some of the strongest teams in the Southwest have been met. They outweigh the Notre Dame men and are acknowledged to be faster, but they have not had as much experience. Therefore, football prophets predict that the Texas eleven will go down in defeat, but it is difficult to imagine how mere human beings can win from Varsity's present team. The game is bound to be a hard fought one, and will no doubt be the best that has ever been played in this state. The Notre Dame men have defeated such elevens as Pennsylvania and the West Point team, and are known to be unusually strong.

Thursday night at the Driskill Hotel, the students of the University will give their first annual Thanksgiving reception, which has been planned to take the place of the final ball abolished by the faculty. Joe Russell of Bonham has been elected president of the reception, and he and his committees have been tireless in preparing

CHAPEL NOTICES

Yesterday.

Dr. Parker spoke forcefully upon the importance of developing true manhood, not simply the body or the mind, but the full man, including the spiritual man. Each man sees in life what life is to him, just as one who views a scene sees a picture, a harvest field, or an athletic park. It behooves one, then, to have his vision fully developed, that he may see aright what is there to be seen, the real life.

The singing of the quartet was even better than usual, and that is great praise.

Today.

Mr. McEwan will sing and Mrs. Brooke, who is a teacher of expression, will give some readings.

Tomorrow.

Judge Clifford Roe of Chicago will speak.

BULLETIN CAUSES COMMENT.

W. B. Hamilton Has Written an Unusual Report on Austin and Vicinity.

A great deal of interest has been aroused in the vicinity of Austin by the last bulletin issued by the University. The title of this bulletin is "A Social Survey of Austin," and it was written by W. B. Hamilton, who took his M. A. last year, the material having been collected by him while preparing his master's thesis. The interesting thing about it is the fact that it brings to light some facts concerning sanitary conditions in Austin which are of vital interest to students of the University and to the citizens of Austin in general. The bulletin points out that in the matter of sanitation Austin is not keeping up with her material progress along other lines; not only are specific instances cited to prove this, but a number of pictures are reproduced from photographs taken at the time the investigation was being made. Particularly interesting are the remarks concerning conditions along Shoal Creek and the river front, and of sanitary conditions existing among negroes and Mexicans.

Considerable controversy—pro and con—has arisen in the local newspapers concerning the statements made in the bulletin, and it seems to be the general opinion that they are true, yet it seems that some of the city officials have resented the statements as rebukes for their non-performance of duty. Dr. Potts of the Civic League, who was largely responsible for the publication of the bulletin, declares, however, that it was not the intention of the bulletin to arouse a bitter criticism of present sanitary conditions, but rather to awaken the people of Austin to the fact that it is time that they "clean up" unless they lose their reputation as a school town.

ENGINEERS' MEAL DANCE.

The annual "meal dance" of the engineers will take place Saturday night from 8:30 to 11:30. Tickets are sold to engineers at 25 cents till Friday night. The tickets have been limited to 100. Saturday morning the tickets will be advanced to 50 cents, and any student of the University can purchase one, if any are left.

for the biggest affair of a like nature that Varsity has ever had. Hundreds of dollars have been spent for decorations, refreshments, floor, and music, as well as entertainment, and it is hoped that a large number of the alumni will be present.

President Russell has issued the following invitation: "All alumni will be admitted free to the Thanksgiving reception held in Austin, Thursday, Nov. 27, under the auspices of the students of the University of Texas. By alumni is meant those persons who have been students at Austin for at least four years, or who hold degrees from this institution. I hope that as many alumni as possible will be present, as the reception is held primarily for the old students. Big preparations have been made for this entertainment, so come if you can."

Friday morning all students must attend classes by order of the faculty, or two cuts will be counted against them, so Thanksgiving Day will pass swiftly and regretfully away for the twenty-one hundred or more seekers after knowledge who have registered this year at the University of Texas, unless the faculty decides within the next few days that Friday and Saturday can be considered as holidays.

CONDITIONS OF HEALTH BETTER

University Physician Says Conditions Are Better Now Than Any Time in Late Years.

"The health conditions at the University are better now than they have been since I have been here," declared Dr. Joe Gilbert yesterday. At present there is not a single student in any of the sanitariums of the city; the last one was discharged yesterday. The good condition is due, as Dr. Gilbert says, to the fact that the physicians seek to keep down diseases, rather than wait until they appear and then attempt to stamp them out. The physicians desire to impress upon the freshmen that they should not show any hesitancy in coming to the physicians at any time. Dr. Gilbert is inclined to believe that some students do not call upon him when they should do so.

It is also the duty of the physicians to look after the sanitary conditions of the University, especially boarding houses. Dr. Gilbert says that it is impossible to visit every house and ascertain the sanitary conditions. He asks that if any student is staying in a boarding house not under proper sanitary conditions, that the student report the same to him and he will make an investigation.

SALE OF TICKETS BEGINS AT NOON

Box Offices at Entrance to Clark Field Will Be Open for Ticket Sales.

Today at 12 o'clock the sale of tickets for the Notre Dame game will begin. The windows of the box offices at the entrance to Clark Field will be used for handling student reservations, and one window for handling faculty reservations. Students will be required to take their turns in an orderly way, as the management wishes to avoid all possible confusion in the distribution of tickets.

Those holding season tickets may exchange a coupon for one reserved seat ticket, and may purchase one reserved seat in addition. No student will be allowed to present more than two coupon books for exchange. Faculty members may make reservations for the immediate members of their families, but no guests will be allowed in the faculty section.

The Athletic Council has made these regulations in order to handle the large crowd that will attend the Notre Dame game in a manner that will be pleasing to everyone. The average person has no conception of the way in which orders for seat reservations have been coming in; in fact, the management has been literally "swamped" with them. These rules are made in order that they may be fair to everybody and discriminate against nobody. The box offices at the entrance to Clark Field will be open from 12 to 1 o'clock every day between now and Thanksgiving Day, and reservations may be made at any time. For special convenience, the offices will also be open from 2 to 4 on Saturday afternoon of this week.

It has been estimated that there will be some 7000 or more people in attendance at the game on Thanksgiving Day. That Austin will be crowded with visitors from all parts of the state is assured by the number of letters Mr. Bellmont is in receipt of, stating parties are being made up to attend the football game. Oscar Robinson is also constantly receiving letters, telegrams and telephone messages asking for the reservation of seats at Clark Field. Nearly all the tickets at the down-town office have been disposed of and approximately 600 have been sold. The I. & G. N. railway is also extensively advertising the game all along its lines, and special rates are being made to Austin, limited to Nov. 28.

Last week letters were sent by the Austin Chamber of Commerce to all Knights of Columbus societies in the state, giving notice of the game and asking their attendance. Answers to these letters are pouring in from all quarters and many of the lodges are preparing to attend the game en masse. The Notre Dame team will receive strong support from these and various other Catholic organizations throughout the state.

GEOLOGY SCHOOL HAS BULLETIN

Extensive Analysis of Texas Minerals and Gases Being Made by Geologists.

The geology department of the University now has a bulletin in the press entitled "The Fuels Used in Texas." The men that were instrumental in publishing this bulletin are Dr. W. B. Phillips, Dr. J. A. Udden, Mr. S. H. Worrell, and Mr. J. E. Stullken. The work on this bulletin has been in progress for three years. The fuels of Texas are taken up and treated in a regular order, beginning with the begasse refuse sugar cane, and extending through the different kinds of wood in the state, the coals west of Fort Worth and along the Colorado River and at Eagle Pass, the different kinds of gases, and ending with a treatise of the fuel oils.

In the cases of begasse refuse sugar cane, wood, and coal, the weight and for the amount of gas that it contains. An experimental gas plant has been built at the University to test the coal for the amount of gas that they contain, and to qualify both for heating and lighting purposes, and the value of the residue, as to whether or not coke can be made out of it.

ENGINEERS ARE WEARING GARB

Engineers Don Khaki Trousers, Blue Shirts, and Black Ties as Official Dress.

Of late, certain engineering students have been seen mixing, with no apparent humiliation, among the social elite, as well as among those who are not so elite, clad in much the same rough-looking garb as they wear when hiking over the hills with a chain or when winding greasy armatures. Some students with rather nice tastes regarding appropriate attire have looked with scorn upon these seemingly uncouth engineers, who dressed in garments of a working man, dare to brush elbows with wearers of English suits and slit skirts.

Investigation has revealed the fact that these questionable persons are senior engineers wearing their official costumes, namely, khaki trousers, blue shirts, and black ties. They wear these costumes for two reasons: first, because the class of '14 chose them as official and decided that all members of the class should wear them on the mornings of Monday, Wednesday and Friday; and second, because the rule is rendered inviolable by severe penalties.

YALE MEN BUSY CELEBRATING.

Team Left Thursday for Training Camp Preparatory for the Harvard Game.

Special to The Texan. HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 20.—Wednesday was the last day of football practice on the historic Yale field, which will be replaced in another season by the new "Bowl." Wednesday night the players kindled their annual bonfire with bits of discarded uniforms and held their yearly dance around the blaze. The squad left yesterday afternoon for Auburn-dale, Mass., its training quarters for the Harvard game.

There is every indication today that the coaches intended to stand against Harvard with identically the same line-up that was ordered against Princeton last Saturday. Both Head Coach Jones and Captain Kecham asserted that they had no idea of making any change.

Glee Club Meetings.

The Glee Club met in regular practice at 7 o'clock last night at the Y. M. C. A. Try-outs for the quartet were held at 5 p. m. No selection of quartet members has as yet been announced. Another try-out will be held Monday at 5 p. m. The Glee Club will meet Monday at 7 p. m.

Misses Ruth Robbins of San Marcos and Carrie Goldbeck of Uvalde will be guests of the Phi Mu house for Thanksgiving.

OFFICIAL NOTICES

Students' Council today at 5 o'clock. Be there.

A meeting of the Civic League will be held Friday evening at 7:15 in the office of Prof. Potts.

SYLVAN LANG.

The Mission Band will hold its regular weekly meeting at the Y. M. C. A. this afternoon at 5 o'clock. All members are urged to be present.

The Winsonian Club will meet in the Cactus office tonight at 7:30. All members are urged to be present, as important business will be discussed.

I want forty ushers for the Notre Dame game. You will receive admission, with seat, to the game. This will save you $2 per man. Please report to my office in the Gym today at 5 o'clock.

L. THEO. BELLMONT.

The following are named as committeemen to draw up the resolution to be adopted by the Students' Assembly with reference to the holidays: D. E. Mulcahy, F. P. Hibbard, Gowan Jones. These men will meet today in the office of the Students' Association at 4 o'clock.

A. GARLAND ADAIR.

Instructors are asked to dismiss their classes Saturday, Nov. 22, at 12, in order that students may hear the address of Mr. Roe of Chicago on "The White Slave Traffic."

By order of the executive committee of the faculty. W. J. BATTLE, Dean of the Faculty.

There will be a meeting next Monday at 12:30 of the Students' Association. The body will assemble in the auditorium of the Main Building. Judge Townes will address the students on the honor system, and important business will be transacted. Everyone is urgently requested to be present.

WALTER R. LINN, Secretary Students' Association.

Pre-Medics, Notice!

Owing to the fact that the committee on the constitution of the Pre-Medical Society has not completed its work, and since at the next meeting the principal business before the Society will be the ratification and adoption of the constitution, the committee deems it proper to postpone the meeting which was to have been held tonight. I, therefore, postpone the meeting to next week, the date to be set by the committee and announced through the columns of The Texan.

BEAUFORD JESTER, Pres. Pre-Medical Society.

DR. BROWN AT Y. M. C. A.

Dr. N. H. Brown of the engineering department of the University will address the men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. His subject will be "A College Man or a College Fool." All men of the University are cordially invited to attend.

MR. AUSTIN ON VISIT.

Mr. Charles B. Austin of the public welfare department of the University left last night for Beaumont and Dallardsville to visit the district convention of demonstrators and delegates from the Farmers' Unions of Tyler, Polk, and Hardin counties, which will meet in these cities.

Pedagogies Give Stunt Tonight.

The educational department will give a reception tonight at 8 o'clock at the Texas Bible Chair. The Bible Chair was offered to the students as the hospitality of Dr. F. L. Jewett and wife. All members of the educational department and all faculty members are especially invited to attend this reception. Each individual attending has the privilege of inviting an escort. Invitations have been sent to the state education department and to various prominent educators throughout the state. A good program and refreshments will be features of the reception.

THE WEATHER REPORT.

Maximum, 89; minimum, 70; no precipitation. Tomorrow, cloudy and warm.

NOTRE DAME MEN ARE TO ARRIVE AT NOON MONDAY

Team Is Prepared for a Hard Game and Means to Train in Camp at St. Edward's Academy in South Austin.

The Notre Dame team will probably arrive in Austin Monday at noon, according to information received yesterday afternoon. A training camp will be located at St. Edward's Academy in South Austin. The team is in fine shape and is ready for a great game.

When the referee blows the whistle next Thursday afternoon one of the biggest games ever played on Clark Field or upon any other field in Texas will begin. Every play will be cheered by 2000 loyal Texas students, to say nothing of the hundreds of alumni and visitors who will assemble here on that day. Varsity will attempt to wrest victory from the team that decisively defeated the Army recently, and who many close followers of the game declare to be one of the greatest machines on the American gridiron today.

Not a regular nor a substitute will be absent from the line-up on account of injuries, unless they be injured in practice in the short interval remaining between now and Thursday. This, of course, is not probable, as the coaches recognize the necessity of every man being in excellent form.

Coach Allerdice says that he is going to put the team through a terrible grueling in the remaining days so that all may be on edge to put forward the best that is in them on Thanksgiving Day. Old plays will be perfected and it is very probable a few new plays will be given them at once.

No player so far has been barred by the faculty on account of his courses, and there probably will not be, for all the men are too anxious to get in the game and are therefore not likely to fall down in their studies on the eve of the game. However, if for any cause a member of the regular team should be disqualified, Allerdice has substitutes that he can inject that would not materially affect either the strength nor the team work of the machine. One thing is particularly noticeable about the team. The plays are not built up around any one man.

Never before did Varsity have as good substitutes as she now possesses. In the back field Allerdice has Leftwich and Littlefield who can, if necessary, replace the regulars with little or no loss in strength. For ends, he has four of the best in the state in Bob Simmons, Edmonds, Turner, and Malone. This is a quartet that any team might well fear. In the line there are two men for every position, all of whom are of known strength and proven ability. With this array of talent the rooters have no cause to lose faith in an undefeated season for the Longhorns.

The best of spirit was manifested between the Kansas and Texas men last Tuesday, and the visitors were entertained the night following the game with a buffet luncheon at the Y. M. C. A. Coach Lowman of the Aggies voiced the appreciation of the Kansans for their reception and emphasized the historical significance of a game between a Southern team and a Kansas institution, noting the obliteration of sectional lines. He also said that the Longhorns are the best team that he has seen this year, and that he would particularly like to see a game between the Longhorns and the Nebraska Cornshuckers, the Cornshuckers being the leading team in the Missouri Valley Conference.

CO-EDS WORK FOR "T.S."

Perhaps you think football has a corner on all the athletic interest and "pep" displayed by Texas students these days. If you do, visit the girls' gym. Girls can not play football, or root, but they feel the same way about it, and try just as hard for a "T."

At present the girls are all playing basketball together; teams have not yet been chosen. There is talk of organizing a graduate team, as there are several wearers of the T back this year, who are not eligible for the senior team. The juniors have, at present, the largest number of aspirants for the team.

To make a "T" in basketball, a girl must practice 75 per cent of the time, make her class team, and play in match games.

THE PROBLEM OF SEATING THANKSGIVING CROWD.

There is a general misunderstanding, it seems, as to the sale of tickets for the Thanksgiving game. The Athletic Council is being severely, and, as it appears to us, unjustly criticised by students, faculty members, and outsiders. We have gone into the matter rather carefully, and have come to the conclusion that the plan outlined by the committee is in most respects fair and impartial.

The management is called upon to seat the largest crowd that has ever been on Clark Field. The seating capacity, though it has been increased for the occasion, will be insufficient to take care of the crowd. Approximately thirty-five hundred people can be seated in the bleachers and grandstands. A conservative estimate of the crowd would be four or five thousand. The problem of apportioning these seats so as to do justice to the students, the team, the faculty, the alumni, town people, and visitors is a very difficult one.

The statement that appeared in yesterday's paper is very clear. Sections Q, R, S, T, U, V, W on east side, totaling 819 seats, are reserved for tickets, and they can secure their tickets beginning today at 12 o'clock. If the students desire to go in the grandstand, they can go in sections B, D, or F, containing 366 seats, or in A, N, O, P, X, Y, or Z. Some of these sections are not choice, but most of them are good.

Section G, which is one of the best, is reserved for the guests of the team. Certainly there can be no objection to doing justice to the football men who have made possible the greatest team that Texas has ever had.

The faculty members—that is, professors, instructors, and tutors and their immediate families, can be seated in section H, containing 120 seats. Other faculty members can be seated in B, D, and F. Some of the faculty members have complained because they could not seat all of their visitors with them. For instance, one professor is to have ten visitors whom he wants to carry with him in the request section. Suppose his request was granted, and that ten others had as many visitors, where would the other hundred faculty members sit?

Two sections, C and E, are reserved for the alumni, and I and J for business men of Austin holding coupon books. Sections K and L are for Austin people.

The system is somewhat complicated and may appear unfair, but if you will take the care to examine it in detail, remembering that you are not the only one to be served, you will find it satisfactory.

Some of the students are under the impression that they can not, under any considerations, buy more than two tickets. This is a mistake. You can not buy more than two tickets in the students' section, but if you have some visitors from home you can buy tickets in any of the open sections M, N, O, P, X, Y, or Z.

Go to the ticket office at Clark Field from 12 to 1 today and see if you do not get fair treatment.

PROPER RESPECT.

For two nights Otis Skinner played in "Kismet" before packed houses, a tribute to his art and to the appeal of a rather unique play. If any fault is to be found with the audiences, and that applies especially to the "pit," it is a slight spirit of flippancy. Why anybody should try to spoil an actor's part by mimicking kisses, snores, and the like in a perfectly serious scene is a mystery. Slap-dash humor in the audience may be proper in a serious play.—Wisconsin Daily News.

It would not be amiss for us to take some of this to heart at the University of Texas. We are slow to realize that we must watch our conduct in public places.

Notre Dame suggests that their football team be sent to Mexico in place of the United States Army. Probably they will change their minds—after they arrive at Texas University.—University Oklahoman.

The Sooners should know. They have been to Texas recently and are in a position to appreciate the strength of the Longhorns. If the Catholics are still in the fighting humor after the Thanksgiving game, they can wend their way on to Mexico and tackle a bull fight or chase a javelina; but we suggest that they forego any definite arrangements until they finish the little scrimmage with the Texas Longhorns. Of course we don't know, but we have heard that there is such a thing as a football team losing its "pep" after an encounter with the 1913 Longhorns.

THE FIRING LINE

Vivisection.

The campus beautiful—sounds nice, doesn't it? No, we are not talking about the shacks. The extension department has had enough advertisement. But do any of you happen to live north of the campus? From Whitis to Speedway there is no escape for the weary stude. Once there was a pedestrian exit joining University avenue, but now all that is left is a narrow roadway which in wet weather is a mudhole of unfathomable depth and in dry weather supports an impenetrable cloud of dust where the reckless can have all the thrills and dangers of football by running the gauntlet of speeding automobiles. It was bad enough to inflict the lab, with its pungent odors, but to extend the thing over the walk and force the passer-by to take the middle of the road is unpardonable. If this is the result of the improvements instituted by the new management for the benefit of science, the writer is in favor of experimenting in vivisection at once and reverting to the days of the supremacy of Adrian Poole and "Tick" Seay.

TWENTY-SIXTH STREET.

The University of Texas as a Producer of Slaves.

It is contended that the purpose of the University of Texas is to train men and women to successfully cope with the problems of life. In other words, it is to be the training camp for life which aims to make men stand on their own feet, think their own thoughts, and do their own deeds. To do this they must be thrown on their own initiative; must be unhampered in the expression of their personality, and unrestrained in the pursuit of their chosen lines of work, so long as they do not interfere with the rights of others. The question is, does the University, under the existing conditions, measure up to these contentions? Is man given the freedom to develop that which is in him?

It is a known fact that the majority of the University students dislike or even abhor some courses that they are forced to take to get a degree. The only reason for taking the course is because they can not well afford not to; and such a student is the worse off for having gone through several months of drudgery, than if he had never heard of the course. The real end of education is, after all, nothing more or less than perfect living, and whatever falls short of promoting this end should be crushed. Every man must eventually live his

CLUB WOMEN TO GIVE FIVE PRIZES

At Session Last Week the Federation Adopted Educational Measures and Pledged $125.

Club women of the state of Texas have gone on record as favoring the promotion of a compulsory education law for Texas. Prof. E. D. Shurter, state chairman of the University of Texas Interscholastic League, addressed the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, in session at Corpus Christi. Dr. Shurter told of the declamation and debating contests which are to be held throughout the state under the auspices of the league, the subjects being "The Promotion of Peace" and "A Compulsory Education Law." He also announced that next year a declamation contest will be inaugurated for the girls of the state.

Following Dr. Shurter's address, the following resolution was offered by Mrs. J. B. Dibrell of Seguin and was seconded by Mrs. Maggie W. Barry of Sherman. The resolution was unanimously adopted:

"Whereas, the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs is heartily in favor of the promotion of peace in every manner possible, and also favors a compulsory education law for Texas; and

"Whereas, That the members of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs be urged to co-operate with the University Interscholastic League in securing county and district prizes for the state declamation contests of 1914-1915, that the president of the Federation appoint four women in each of the sixteen districts of the State Interscholastic League, each person so appointed to take charge of securing a $25 cash prize for each of the three declamation contests and for the contest in debating, and to work in conjunction with the state officers of such League for the purpose aforementioned."

own life, obey the dictates of his own conscience; and why not let him do so here instead of hedging him in on all sides, instead of telling him what to do, and what to let alone? Few pot plants that may be grown in the University will ever rough the weather in after life.

Too much freedom given at once would, of course, defeat the purpose, but the changes can be made gradually. One uneconomic feature of the government of the University is the fact that only a certain number of "cuts" are allowed to each student. Why keep track of each student at all, and thereby use up a considerable part of the instructor's time? The majority of the students supposedly have good minds, and a great many are ex-teachers themselves; and why not let them use their brains, or practice what they have stood for, as the case may be? At any rate, practically all students are old enough to know why they are here. If a student has no purpose for coming here, make him understand that this is not altogether a nursery; and do not cramp the mind of a man that has a purpose, and intends to make the most of his University life.

To the Firing Line.

From the depths of obscurity, I burst into the limelight of the Firing Line. Not with the intention of railing at the curriculum or at any of its component courses, nor yet with the idea of assailing the faculty (though the arrangement of the fall term finals is well calculated to evoke the ire of the meekest), but with the desire to address a word to the students themselves.

Not the most fractious among them will, I believe, deny that the primary purpose of each of us in attending the University is to gain a higher education. Unfortunately, less unanimity prevails when we seek to define the content of this "education." Some of us seem to think it consists in making four courses with a D average, and in having the best possible time in the process; others are as firmly convinced that it is attained when they have passed six subjects, and are well on the way to possessing a Phi Beta Kappa key. But, in reality, an education lies between and get beyond these two extremes. It should be practical and vocational, and here the value of good work in our courses is apparent, for we are thereby furnished with the tools of the profession we intend to follow. It should, however, include more than textbooks; college activities of every description are laudable, because they fill us with enthusiasm for an ideal, and thus prepare us for social service in after years. In so much the students of the University of Texas do not fail; scholarship is not lacking,

The Main Topic of Conversation Just at Present Is Evening Clothes

Fashion Clothes

TO many men the beginning of the social season means worry as well as pleasure. For, if you are to add to the charms of a party or dance, it is essential that you be correctly clothed. Your full dress must be rich, perfect fitting and beautifully tailored.

Smith-Wilcox Dress Suits at $35 and $50 have that individuality, that smartness, that makes you look as you want to look.

All the requisites that go to make man's evening attire complete, and athletics, literary organizations, and the like are flourishing. But there is another aspect of education which we, as a body, neglect: education should broaden one's scope of enjoyment, i. e., it should increase one's culture. Obvious as the truth of this must be to all, we make no effort in this direction. There were not a handful of students at the band concert the other evening. "Mutt and Jeff" proved too strong a counter-attraction. The roost-crowd, which had promised itself a sensuous spectacle in "Salome," was totally unequal to the task of enjoying Massenet's soothing melodies; and, on another occasion, having doubtless confused "Robin Hood" with Anna Held's or somebody else's vaudeville revue, the same crowd conducted itself in a manner thoroughly disgusting to those not connected with the University. Texas is a new state, and its people are not to blame if they are not imbued with a love for art; but surely it is justly a matter of surprise that students of this University, as a class above the general population, should so studiously avoid everything that smacks of the cultural.

SMITH AND WILCOX

MISS ANDREWS OFFERS PRIZE.

As an inducement to her students in German 1 to work harder on declension of adjectives, Miss Andrews of the German faculty has offered two leather medals to any class that would not make any mistake on the declension of adjectives in the fall term examination. Members of these classes have started to work harder and much enthusiasm is now being shown.

Miss Andrews assures the class that the medals are well worth working for and that she would like to have the honor of giving at least one away.

Three Turkish students from Robert College, Constantinople, have entered Michigan.

The musical organizations at Princeton have invited the musical clubs of nine other colleges to give concerts at Princeton during the year.

At the University of Montana 78 per cent of the men engaged in college activities are supporting themselves.

Chicago University has discouraged its cheaters by social ostracism of the dishonest person. There is no better way to make the honor system effective.

Several hundred balloons were anchored on the side lines during the Wisconsin-Minnesota game. They were to have been released in case Wisconsin won, but even though they lost, the balloons were released before the end of the game.

At Williams College they have a unique method of deciding the supremacy between the freshmen and sophomores. A long rope is stretched across Green River, which is near the campus. The freshmen take one side and the sophomores the other. The class that pulls the other into the river wins. This year the freshmen were ducked.

GOOD BASKETBALL SCHEDULE.

All Candidates for the Team Should Report to Director Bellmont for Advice.

The University basketball team will have one of the best schedules this season that it has ever had. Manager Herman Eastland is now busy preparing the schedule. Several out of the state colleges will be played. The first game of the season will likely be played on January 15.

Practice will begin December 1. All students that can play basketball are urged to come out for the team. Coach Bellmont urges that all students who expect to try-out and are not now playing football begin pulling weights, making cross-country runs, and other exercises so as to be in training when practice begins.

Pictures on Director's Walls.

Athletic Director L. Theo Bellmont has started a collection of pictures of various athletic organizations of the University, and will use them to decorate the walls of his office. Already he has pictures of the Longhorn squads of this year and last year, of former coach "Bilby" Wasmund, of last year's football manager Luther Stark and a group picture of Coaches Allerdice, Rix and Wier.

Working Boys Hear Lecture.

The Austin Working Boys met at the Y. M. C. A. at 5 o'clock last night. Dr. Mather of the school of physics delivered a very interesting lecture on paper making. He described the different stages in the process and related the development of the art in detail. Immediately after the lecture all the boys, in charge of George Dupree, took a swim in the Y. M. C. A. swimming pool.

OUR STATE UNIVERSITY.

Editor Green has spent his opinion several times of late on the State University, and it is to be regretted that he is right in the main, though I differ from him as to the method of correcting these conditions. I presume Editor Green doesn't mean to knock against the University. It is a great institution and worthy of hearty support. It is one of the very best in the country, contains many great teachers and useful men and women.

It is a rich man's school, it is true; but is also a poor man's school. The son of the wealthy banker and the son of the sturdy farmer stand side by side in our University. I haven't the statistics at hand just now, but I think I am correct in saying that seven hundred students, one-third the enrollment, pay their way by doing various kinds of labor—some wash dishes, some milk, others do various kinds of manual labor to pay board. Many go these on borrowed money—a magnificent investment, too.

Also, more farmers' sons and daughters attend our University than of any other occupation. Merchants come next in order.

The buildings on the campus for accommodating students are inadequate and unworthy the great state in which we live. This is also true of our A. and M. College. The state does not support these two institutions as it should. Of course the state does not do for its public schools what it should but the people are to blame for this.

But the University, the A. and M. College, the State Normals, the office of state superintendent of county superintendents—in fact all educational institutions should be eliminated from politics. And I will go one step farther, and say that there should be no such thing as politics, no such curse upon man. Politics should have nothing to do with any of our officers or officials. Officers should be public servants, not bosses; men, not politicians. But the people, the masses, must learn these truths and demand these conditions before they can be obtained. And this education must come through our public schools, through teachers specially trained this way. Hence, our chief support and attention should be directed to our common schools. The people must learn, and they are learning, that this support must come locally in the main, and not from the state altogether. We must learn that seven dollars per year is not enough to spend on a boy or girl. It is valuing their future lives too cheaply. However, I will digress right here and say that about half we do spend on our schools is wasted. But the system is at fault. It is a
