Leon Discusses Religious Life of Greeks, Romans

Peculiarities of Rituals and Sacrifices Are Included

Lectures Friday

Address Given at 8 o'clock In Open Air Theater On Campus

"The Religion of the Greeks and Romans" will be the subject of a lecture by Dr. H. J. Leon, adjunct professor of classical languages, Friday night at 8 o'clock at the Open Air Theater.

Most people think of the religion of the Greeks and of the Romans as the same, but they are entirely different, Dr. Leon said in an interview concerning the lecture. The primitive religion of the Romans was modified and superseded by the classical Greek religion, until it was developed into a very high form during the classical period of Roman life and literature.

Dr. Leon will describe the peculiarities of the rituals, sacrifices, and augury connected with the religions. He will also dwell on the conflict of religion and science. The conflict was an issue in Athens and Rome; the views of the primitive religion and of the philosophers often clashed, Dr. Leon said, and in these cases the state attempted to enforce the primitive religion.

Religion was largely a state affair, the various rites being conducted by the state. The temples of the gods, built by the state, were regarded as a dwelling place of the god to whom each temple was dedicated, and the sacrifices to the god were held there.

The rise of ethical concepts in the religions, which were non-ethical in the beginning, will be traced by Dr. Leon.

The lecture will present a picture of the confused religious environment in the Roman empire at the time when Christianity was introduced, with indications of the forces with which it had to contend before it was ultimately triumphant.

Dr. Leon has traveled extensively in Greece and Italy, and spent two years studying in Rome.

Graduates Meet To Plan Picnics

The Graduate Club will hold a meeting at 12:30 o'clock this Thursday at the University Commons. Plans will be made for picnics and watermelon parties for the summer. Special music will be given.

All graduates have been invited to be present.

Women's P. T. Has Large Enrollment

About one hundred and twenty women and 60 children are enrolled in the department of physical training for women for the summer, according to Miss Thelma Dillingham, instructor in the department.

Swimming, folk rhythm dancing, golf, tennis, and corrective training are offered for the first term only. Classes are held every Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday.

Four hours work in the department each week for the first term of summer school will be equivalent to one half semester's work in the long session.

C. E. PARTY HELD

Members of the Christian Endeavor of the Central Christian Church, under the leadership of J. L. Hughes, went on a swimming party and picnic at Barton Springs Tuesday evening.

German Night Program Opens Folk Series at Campus Theater Tuesday

Scenes From Germany and Bavaria Shown on Screen; Audience Joins in Singing

The first folk night of the summer was given Tuesday night at the Open Air Theater under the direction of W. E. Metzenthin, professor of Germanic languages, and Miss Elsie Perlitz.

German folk songs were sung by Miss Hilda Widen, Mrs. W. C. Gueue, Fred Ohls, Fred Leo, and Ralph Leo of the Leo School of Music. Fred Ohls sang as a tenor solo, "Ach Wie Ist's Moeglich Dann," and a mixed quartet composed of Miss Widen, Mrs. Gueue, Mr. Ohls, and Mr. Leo sang "Leise, Leise," from the opera "Der Freischutz." Miss Widen and Mr. Ohls sang three folk songs: "Waldvogel," "Schwehewolke," and "Du Du Leigst Mir in Herzen."

A program of German folk dances, directed by Miss Marian Briggs, included "Half Moon" from Nordheide, Germany, and "Bummel Schottische" from Mecklinburg. Girls who took part in the dances were: Josephine Turner, Blanche Curtis, Irene Itz, Dorothy McMahon, Sula Conn, Naomi Saxon, Minnie Moore Meyers, and Jane Wolfenburger. Bess Olson accompanied the group at the piano, and Lucille Mick and Mayme Alice Mitchell gave the violin accompaniment.

The audience joined in singing "The Lorelei" and "The Broken Ring," led by Professor Metzenthin. A motion picture of the Rhine-land was shown.

High Scholastic Awards Issued To Four Co-eds

Cason, Farmer, Love, Jaffe Recipients of Cash Awards

Announcement of four scholarship awards to women students of the University has been issued from the President's office. Carolyn Cason, Cleburne; Louise Farmer, Junction; Everetta Love, Lubbock, and Madeleine Jaffe, Corsicana, are the recipients of the awards.

Miss Cason received the Home Economics Club Scholarship which is both a loan and a donation. Three hundred dollars is paid by the club and $200 is to be paid within three years after the graduation of the student to whom it has been loaned. An interest rate of six per cent is charged on the $200 loan beginning the first year after leaving the University.

Miss Farmer's scholarship comes from the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs. The scholarship comes from the income of an endowment left in 1901 amounting to $3,500. The income amounts to $280 a year and is open to women students only. Mary Alice Bone of Wichita Falls was chosen as an alternate.

Miss Love, a student in the department of journalism, obtained a fund amounting to $150 from the Pearl Cashell Jackson School Fund which is awarded by members of the Texas Women's Press Association to students in journalism. The recipient must have had one year's work in the University and must show an ability for original writing. Anne E. Elliott of Greenville is alternate for the scholarship.

Dean Announces Spring Term Honor Roll

Both quality and quantity of work done by each student is considered in the compiling of the official honor roll of the College of Arts and Sciences at the University, according to Dean H. T. Parlin, who has just announced the list of honor students for the spring semester of the past long session. The honor roll is intended to commend those students whose grades have ranked them among the highest one-tenth of the student body. On the list are 392 names. A total of 3,823 students were enrolled in the College of Arts and Sciences.

The purpose of this honor list is to commend officially those students, about one-tenth of the student body, whose grades during the semester rank them scholastically above the remaining nine-tenths. The highest tenth is subdivided into five groups, the students in each group being listed alphabetically.

In constructing this list, account is taken both of the quantity and of the quality of work accomplished by the student as shown by the reports of the instructors. No account is taken of the grade in the required physical training or of courses registered for but not passed. Heavy emphasis is given to quality by counting an A on one semester hour as 4, a B as 3, a C as 2, and a D as 1, in computing the score of the student. For example, a B made in Chemistry 412f, which is a four semester hour course, counts 12—as much as an A made on a three semester hour course.

Because freshman grades run lower than those of upperclassmen, a freshman to win any certain rank among his fellow classmates, does not have to make so high a score as does an upperclassman. The following table shows the scores, for freshmen and upperclassmen separately, that win ranking in each of the five groups.

Score

Group 1, Summa Cum Laude: upperclassmen, 61 up; freshmen, 57 up. Group 2, Cum Laude Ampla et Magna: upperclassmen, 55-60; freshmen, 54-56. Group 3, Magna Cum Laude: upperclassmen, 52-54; freshmen, 50-53. Group 4, Ampla Cum Laude: upperclassmen, 49-51; freshmen, 46-49. Group 5, Cum Laude: upperclassmen, 48; freshmen, 45.

It is very difficult for reasons not necessary to take space in explaining, to get out a correct Honor List. Therefore, any correction will be thankfully received and entered on the list before it is printed in its final form as a University Bulletin. Such corrections should be sent in, as soon as possible to the office of

Conditions in Spain Discussed By E. R. Adair

Country Holds Population of Many Types, Lecturer Claims

Traces Transition

World War Aids Greatly In Development of Country

"The fact that Spain is split into a bundle of states, and is itself a bundle of different people is the basis for present conditions in that country," said Professor E. R. Adair, visiting professor of history from McGill University of Montreal, in a lecture last night at 8 o'clock in the Open Air Theater on "The Present Conditions in Spain." He was introduced by Dr. L. M. Hollander, professor of Germanic languages.

"Spain is a bundle of states not speaking the same language, and not thinking the same thoughts. The literary people are building up a language from the best of the peasants' dialect, and they are trying to bring the peoples closer together in this way," he continued, emphasizing the lack of unity in Spain. "There is an abundance of climates from the frozen mountains to a desert comparable to the Sahara, to the beautiful seashore and the fertile land. And, again, Spain is split into several parts economically: industrial, agricultural, and commercial."

Professor Adair traced the general transition of Spain in every line. "Since the war there has been a wonderful change. This has been brought about by the motor car, which is competing with the railroads that are of uniform inefficiency. The motor car is at present more comfortable than the railroad in spite of the poor roads," he explained in talking of the transportation facilities.

"Primo de Rivera hates Catalonia and the language has been suppressed and it has been stopped being taught in the universities. Also, the king has lost his popularity in Catalonia on account of his antagonism."

"There is no freedom of thought or speech in Spain and several universities have been closed."

"Primo was put into power by the army, but they have not been able to control him. The army has attempted to throw him over, but he has proved too strong. He intended to reform the army and base promotion on efficiency, and therefore provoked them. He is also at dagger's point with the king, and has forced him to appoint his men."

"De Rivera has the heads of the church behind him."

The Longhorn Band presented a 20-minute program of music as a prelude to the lecture. The program consisted of "Texas We Love You" by Randle; "Arcadia Overture" by Laurens; "Night in June" and "Princess of India," both by King.

House Resolution Seeks To Prohibit Connection of Regents with Oil Firms

Working on the principle that "no man can serve two masters," a concurrent resolution by Representative S. E. Barnett from Hunt County will be offered to the House of Representatives immediately upon the close of the J. T. Robison investigation hearing providing that no member of the Board of Regents of the University shall have any connection with any oil company, or oil and gas concern, and that if any member of the Board of Regents does, or shall, have any such connection, said member shall resign immediately from the Board of Regents.

The resolution to be introduced reads as follows:

"Whereas, the state owns approximately two million acres of land for the use and benefit of its University, much of which is known to be oil and gas producing areas and other sections of which are expected to produce oil, gas, and other minerals when proper development is accomplished, and

"Whereas, it is the policy of the State to proceed with the proper and orderly development of said lands in the manner best calculated to increase the University permanent fund for the use and benefit of said University, and

"Whereas, the carrying out of this policy by the State is, in the very nature of things, bound to be in direct conflict with the commercial interests of the oil concerns who are operating in the producing oil and gas areas above mentioned, and in direct conflict with all others who contemplate operations for the production of oil and gas from any of the said state-owned University lands, and said policy is in direct conflict with the commercial interest of the oil industry generally, and

"Whereas, the Board of Regents of the University is composed of nine members who are authorized to select from their own number two of the three members of the Board for leasing University lands for oil and gas development as provided by Chapter 282 of the Acts of the Regular Session of the Forty-first Legislature, and

"Whereas, said act, among other things, provides that neither of said two members of said board for leasing of University lands shall be employed either directly or indirectly by any oil or gas company, nor an officer or attorney thereof, but notwithstanding such provisions, the Board of Regents did select one of their number who had theretofore been an attorney for the Texas Oil concern and the California oil concern, both of whom are engaged in producing oil and gas from the University lands, and this section was a flagrant violation of the spirit, if not the letter of said act, and

"Whereas, it is known that one of the present members of the Board of Regents is a salaried attorney for one of the major oil companies, and it is believed that others are either attorneys for or stockholders in oil companies, and connection of such members with the oil industry has been such as to bring severe criticism upon the Board of Regents and

Opera Members Present Balfe's 'Bohemian Girl'

Original Cast Sings Main Numbers From Light Opera

Brenizer Directs

Summer Chorus Supplements Program; Griffin Has Charge

Selected numbers from the light opera, "The Bohemian Girl," by members of the Austin Civic Opera Company, under the direction of Lester Brenizer, will feature the program in the Open Air Theater on the campus at 8 o'clock tonight.

The Austin Civic Opera Company gave the production in its entirety twice during the past winter to crowded houses and have consented to repeat the solo parts of the opera as a compliment to the summer school personnel.

Practically all the solo parts of the opera will be heard with the original cast singing the numbers. Further, the numbers will be sung in costume; as far as possible, the drama will be followed in all particulars except the choral numbers.

Preceding the presentation of the opera by the civic opera members, the University Chorus under the direction of David Griffin will sing two choruses from the opera in concert form.

The numbers to be sung are as follows:

Count Arnheim, "A Soldier's Life," Louie Dunbar; Thaddeus, "Tis Sad to Leave Our Fatherland," Richard Hittson; Thaddeus and Devilshoof, "Comrade, Your Hand," Richard Hittson and Donald Smith; Florestein, "Is No Succor at Hand," Dean W. F. Gidley; Florestein and Devilshoof, "Drinking Song"; Arline, "I Dreamt I Dwelt in Marble Halls," Mrs. Al Goad; Arline and Thaddeus, "The Wound Upon Thine Arm," Gypsy Queen, "Bliss Forever Past," Belle Foster; Queen and Devilshoof, "This Is Thy Deed"; Quartette, "From the Valleys and the Hills"; Count Arnheim, "The Heart Bow'd Down"; Arline, Thaddeus, Arnheim, "Hold, Hold."

Thaddeus, "Then You'll Remember Me"; Arline, Thaddeus, Devilshoof, "Through the World Thou Wilt Fly"; quintette, "Though Every Hope Be Fled"; Arline, Count, "See at Thy Feet"; Thaddeus, "When the Fair Land of Poland"; Arline, Thaddeus, Count, "Let Not the Heart."

Mrs. John Gordon Wilcox will accompany at the piano.

Through the courtesy of the Summer Dramatics Club and Mr. Gregory Foley, the production will be given with a suitable stage.

Evans Selected In Edison Test

Thurman Evans of Corsicana was selected Monday by the State Department of Education as being the most eligible Texas boy for successor to Thomas A. Edison in the Edison elimination contest. Evans won over a field of 55 competitors, representing high schools from all sections of the state. Evans is the son of a widowed mother and has been working part time to help pay his expenses through high school.

Griffin White of Fredericksburg took second place in the contest and is entitled to make the trip to East Orange, New Jersey, along with Evans, to be personally examined by Edison, the latter to decide from the 96 candidates, two from each state, the one best fitted to take his place.

Speaker Barron of the House of Representatives had the two boys presented to the House Monday afternoon. They were presented by Representatives Cox and Patsch, the members of the House from whose constituents the boys came.

Watermelon Feast Held by Students

A watermelon feast will be held by the teachers and students attending the University from Harris County on the lawn of Grace Hall Saturday night at 7 o'clock, according to Miss Roberta Laverder.

At a meeting of the group last week, Miss Lora B. Peck was elected president. The organization has planned several social events for the term, among which will be an outing at Barton Springs.

High School Plays

THE CLASSES in dramatic production offered this summer in the department of public speaking are demonstrating the fact that the contest in one-act plays is becoming an important division of the Interscholastic League work fostered by the University. There are more than sixty students registered in the two classes. Most of those enrolled are taking the work with the definite idea of going back to their respective schools next year to enter a play in the league contest.

From a small beginning three years ago, when there were almost no entries except from the larger high schools over the state, the dramatic tournament this year had grown to such a point that there were more than two hundred and fifty entries from schools of all sizes. True, the first place this year went to a Fort Worth school, but one of the four finalists was the little city of Tulla. And last year the two final entries were from Temple and Plainview.

In this connection we might observe that it is a pity that the University of Texas does not make available to students of the long session such work as is being offered this summer. Those wishing such courses are compelled to stay through the summer for such work which is valuable to all who wish to have an understanding appreciation of the stage, and essential to those who are called upon to direct plays in schools—if they are sufficiently conscientious to want to know their business.

Further, it is unquestionable that the ability to handle high school dramatics organizations is an aid to the best teacher in his search for a place, and such ability will often give him the call over one not so qualified.

Honor Rolls

THOSE WHO HAVE made the honor rolls of the University, comprising about six hundred students in all schools and departments during the last semester, are to be congratulated upon their successful adjustment to a very exacting set of scholastic requirements.

Though there are many who believe that high grades are not an indication of the ability to succeed in after-school life, it still remains true that a majority of those listed in Who's Who won high scholastic honors before they bucked the big, busy world of affairs. Even if we grant that the ability to do one thing well has little effect upon the ability to do another, we must still admit that such ability to adjust oneself to an environment filled with rigid and exacting requirements as is shown in winning honors among such a select group as the student body of the University may be a very good test of that quality of adaptability which must be a characteristic of every person who stands out as a leader in the world's activity.

In an age when group activity brings about the major portion of the development and progress of the civilized world, the people who can most easily adjust themselves to group conditions will lead, and the ranking cast of all workers will be based on the degree with which they fill this requirement. There is little place in the general social order for those so independent that they cannot, or will not, follow directions efficiently.

Of course, there will always be a few Edisons, Fords, and Burbanks, who as non-conformists will still work their way to the top, but by far the largest

"CAREERS." And what a career I could have with Billy Dove to shove me up the ladder! Positively, she's the most charmingly beautiful creature who ever draped her curves and undercurves in front of a movie camera. And it's a peculiar type of beauty, too—an ideal type that one always hopes to find but never does. Nobody ever accused the woman of being an actress. Nobody wants her to be an actress. She doesn't have to be an actress. One only wants to look at her, watch her, and drink in her sheer loveliness. She moves with something of the grace that I imagine a fawn moves with. In other words, she fascinates me—just like she does everybody else. She has all the delicate, fragile attractiveness of a wild orchid, a white lily, or a sea anemone. Antonio Moreno has every reason for being an enthusiastic husband. He is—and ambitious. More than that, Billy has a reasonably fair voice, but there are some sounds that she shouldn't try to make. You'll discover them. Beery is somewhat heavy, and rather too much in character, if that is possible. The atmosphere of Indo-China is attained without much difficulty, and one never doubts the reality of the setting. There is a stiff formality, call it suavity if you like, found in Frenchmen when they are on dress parade. And life in one of these diplomatic spring-board zones is that—continually. Ambitious young men, who have their eyes on government positions, should select their wives wisely—and above all else they should be beautiful—for a reason. That seems to be the point of the whole picture. The play has dignity and a certain stiffness of tone that serve only to enhance the beauty of the jewel for which it serves as a setting. Nobody goes to a Billy Dove picture for a story, anyway. They go to see her, and the nice looking people she always manages to have playing with her. This is really a passable picture—just on that account. It will be at the Majestic through Friday.

"BETRAYAL." A messy episode in the life of an Alpine peasant family. Gary Cooper is the artist, and with those eyes of his, one can easily imagine him in that role. Esther Ralston again gives proof of her ability to handle serious dramatic parts, even as she did in "The Strange Case of Lena Smith." Emil Jannings plods about and tries to occupy the screen most of the time. Lord, it's something of a problem to star him, for he doesn't have anything to star but an uncouth, overweight figure that repels rather than attracts one. But for a certain type of character part, he is not to be surpassed. Just recall "The Patriot," in which he played the mad czar. That was the height of his genius without a doubt. The whole thing this time is a tragedy, not that that is unusual. One usually sits through a Jannings film, in spite of the fact that no one likes him, for there is a peculiar attraction in his repulsiveness. And this time, there's Gary Cooper. This show opens today at the Queen and will continue through Saturday.

"THE SPIELER." Alan Hale, who is remembered more on account of his grin than for any other reason, herewith tries his hand at a line Milton Sills was more or less successful with in "The Barker." Other than that the big he-man in each case is one of those fellows who stand out in front of ticket boxes and shoot a line of hokey almost as bad as this to lead poor dumbbells to part with coppers, there is not much similarity in the two pictures. Renee Adoree, who was something of a flop in her efforts to characterize a harlot in "The Pagan," has been borrowed from Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer by Pathe to make this picture. And thereby hangs the tale. At the Hancock for two days.

"ALIBI." There's nothing new under the sun, so don't let the fact that this is a gangster story scare you. It's really cracked up to be quite good. This fellow Chester Morris is strong on the pantomime stuff, facial expression, and that sort of thing. Somebody with something of a sense of humor has hailed him as the cinema "King Leer." It seems that he was sort of shy of ever taking a role as a crook rat or dope fiend. He was afraid it would "type" him. But it was Golden, I think, who persuaded him to take such a role. The result was just what he feared it would be. He's been playing that sort of thing ever since. When United Artists were casting their version of the stage play "Nightstick," they ran across some old movie tests Morris made once upon a time. Roland West gave a lot of huzzas, and the boy was signed up just like that. This will open at the Majestic Saturday.

Theater Calendar

THURSDAY

"Betrayal." Illicit love in the Swiss Alps, not that it's any different there than elsewhere. Emil Jannings is the husband. Gary Cooper is the artist of seduction. Esther Ralston is the wife. Photoplay Magazine reports excellent work by Gary Cooper and Esther Ralston. Jannings as usual. Queen through Saturday.

"Careers." Exquisite Billy Dove in a vehicle suited to her fragile beauty. Antonio Moreno so-so. Noah Beery as the arch-villain. Majestic through Friday.

"The Spieler." Alan Hale. Renee Adoree. Fred Kohler. Clyde Cook. A story of carnival life. Hancock for two days.

"The Cardboard Lover." Marion Davies. Nils Asther. Jetta Goudal. At the Texas last times today.

"The Pace That Kills." Virginia Royce. Owen Gorin. Hot dog! Crescent for the last times.

FRIDAY

"Betrayal." As above. Jannings. Gary Cooper. Esther Ralston. Queen still.

"Careers." Scene in Indo-China. The diplomatic training ground. Beautiful Billy Dove as pretty as ever. Antonio Moreno. Noah Beery. The last day.

"The Spieler." Good and bad carnival life. Alan Hale and Renee Adoree. Fred Kohler and Clyde Cook. Last times at the Hancock.

"The Letter." Jeanne Eagels in the silent version of a talkie masterpiece. O. P. Heggie. Texas.

"State Street Sadie." Conrad Nagel in one of his early talkies. He's crooked. Myrna Loy. Middling entertainment. Opening at the Crescent.

"Alibi." Chester Morris in a gangster story that the Chicago civic regime refused to allow to be shown in that city for fear of provoking undue interest in crime. Excellent pantomime by Morris. Take a chance. Majestic for four days.

"Mother Machree." Victor McLaglen and Belle Bennett. An epic of Irish motherhood, built around the famous song. Very sentimental. Hancock.

"The Letter." Jeanne Eagels, the greatest emotional actress on the screen. And she's from the stage. O. P. Heggie. Texas for the last times.

"State Street Sadie." Myrna Loy and Conrad Nagel in a talking picture of crooks and things. Crescent.

He said that at the instance of the Governor, the attorney general, and the Board of Regents, he had withdrawn all except 53,000 acres from the advertisement for bids January 2. Judge Batts maintained that if the commissioner could withdraw a part of the lands from the market he could have withdrawn all the lands. dollars by the fact that the lands were not sold January 2. Judge Batts stated that such was not the case and that the sale of the lands at the price obtainable would have been prejudicial to the best interests of the University and the state.

Judge Batts stated that his connection with the Gulf Company did not enter directly or indirectly with his efforts in behalf of preserving the University lands. "I have no master," he said, "and I serve always what I believe to be the best interests of the state."

He expressed the opinion that the University lands might be worth two hundred million dollars.

Robison testified regarding the various charges brought against him, denying that he had acted improperly in using money from the re-appraisal fund of the department. He occupied the stand during practically the entire day.

HENDRICKS-KELLUM WED
IN ROBSTOWN FRIDAY

Frances Kellum and H. G. Hendricks, both holders of bachelor of arts and master of arts degrees from the University, were united in marriage at Robstown Friday evening with the Reverend T. N. Barton of Alice performing the ceremony.

Immediately after the service, a wedding supper was served at the bride's home, after which the couple left for Chicago where they will spend the summer. Mr. and Mrs. Hendricks will be at home at Urbana, Illinois, after September 1.

UNIVERSITY DAMES TO BE GIVEN BRIDGE PARTY

Members of the University Dames, an organization that functions during the long session, who are in Austin this summer are to be entertained this morning at 9:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. A. D. Murphree, 2209 Nueces Street.

The University Dames Club is an organization of mothers of University students; they are the mothers who are staying in Austin while their sons and daughters attend the University.

Four tables of bridge and two of forty-two are expected.

Mrs. Jumbo Haynes returned Monday after a brief visit with relatives in Brownwood.

SPORT SIFTINGS

By BOB CANTRELL
Special Summer Texan Sports Writer
Oh, great guns. Here's another column to be written, and my mind is as blank as—oh well, most any thing. We find this job of writing a column getting harder and harder all the time. We hate to tell about our very unsuccessful fishing trip of yesterday, but if things come to the worst, we'll tell something about it.

William B. Ruggles, a student here in 1910, and president of the Ex-Students' Association in more recent stages of civilization, is now acting president of the Texas League. Doak Roberts, regular president of the loop, is ill and the club prexies called on Ruggles to fill the post. Mr. Ruggles is statistician of the Texas League and they say there isn't a league in the country with better kept records.

Will someone please tell us how to get rid of one of the most persistent summer colds that mortal ever had? We've been sniffing and snivelling all over Austin for the past week, and we're getting plenty tired. If anybody knows a good remedy, please bring it around. (We'll bet our bottom dime that Sid and Eg say "get a prescription.")

From all over the country are coming the howls of coaches, students, and fans about how many lettermen they lost from their varsity squads. Judging by some of the reports, whole squads decided to graduate together. In the athletic field the graduation of a star is taken seriously, and bemoaned, but elsewhere everybody is glad it's over.

We see where Dan Moody has signed a bill which will allow A. & M. to build a modern stadium out of her current income. The Aggies have long been in need of a modern plant, and we expect the Aggies to have a great playing field within a year or so. They took a great step towards keeping their field in good shape when they bought an overcoat for their grid recently. James Sullivan saw one in action, and decided the monster garment would pay for itself in one season.

These blamed yo-yo tops, or whatever they are, remind us a wee bit of the mechanical monkeys they sell that run up and down a tight string. We found that a person has to be pretty well out of his right mind to make one of those things work, and after trying for an hour to figure out how these yo-yo's work, we've decided that a crazy man can work 'em, and nobody else.

Max Schmeling and Paulino Uzcudum (We've heard him called everything else) hook up in the biggest battle of the summer tonight. The betting odds have been doing nice jumping the last few days, and at a late hour last night they were about even. Personally, we'd place our money on Herr Max, if we had any. The German, so they say, can hit like a mule kicks, and if he lands a blow like that on the Woodchopper's chin, the Basque will land somewhere besides on the canvas. No matter which of the foreign gentlemen wins, the milk fund will be a good deal larger tomorrow morning than it was last night.

Well, we've run out of anything else to write about. Now comes those fish tales. Van Fleet, who used to bother this column with his outbursts, Dennis Cannon, the young son of Roy Cannon, and myself, all went in search of the finny tribe yesterday morning, and returned some six hours later, sadder and wiser. We finally got to a place called McKinney Falls after we had driven over the roughest roads in Central Texas, waded creeks, jumped barbed wire fences, and stumbled through cotton patches. The place was pretty, but hot. The blamed bass, that is all those less than 11 inches in length, started in and soon yanked off or swallowed all our minnows, and we had a very few of their brothers to show for our efforts. Van Fleet got one on his hook, but it broke his line and escaped. Cannon was landing all sorts of cats and perch, while we were pulling out bass that would lack an inch of being big enough. It's a great game, but the sun finally won out. The next time we go out there, we're going at midnight.

Whitaker has decided to run a golf

Allison Stays In Wimbledon Battle for Honors

Special to Summer Texan.
HAVERFORD, Pa., June 26.—Berkeley Bell, University of Texas ace, advanced to the quarter-finals of the national intercollegiate tennis championships which are under way at the Merion Cricket Club. Bell looked even more impressive in his straight set win over Lawrence Hall of Stanford today than he did yesterday in his great triumph over Ed Mather, former University of Texas star, but now an Oxford player. The scores were 7-5, 6-2. The elimination of Hall sends the last Stanford hope by the way, as Johnnie Doege was put out of the running yesterday.

Bell and Seligson are the favorites to meet in the finals, and the Texas ace is getting more followers each day.

ALLISON WINS IN STRAIGHT SETS

Special to Summer Texan.
WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 26.—Wilmer Allison, former University of Texas star and youthful American Davis Cup star, continued his way through the English championships with a straight set win over J. D. P. Wheatley of England, 6-1, 6-1, 6-1. Bill Tilden, John Hennessey, and Wilmer Allison are the only Americans left in the tournament now, and it is likely that one of these may fall by the way before the semi-finals are reached. The outstanding figure of the meet to date has been Bunny Austin, former Cambridge University star, who has eliminated Francis Hunter of the United States and Jacques Brugnon of France in consecutive days.

Helen Wills continued her great playing, and ran her string to 24 consecutive games, when she defeated Mrs. Schromburgh of Germany, 6-0, 6-0.

WILLIAMS TO MEET ESTES IN FINALS

Running true to dope, Frank Estes and Paul Williams won their semi-finals matches in the summer intramural handball tourney, and will meet in the finals this afternoon on the faculty courts in Z Hall at 4 o'clock. Estes won handily over Tillery, while Williams had an even easier time with King.

Williams was a finalist in the long session tourney, losing to Sandlin in a hard fought match, and will enter the match favored to win over Estes. The latter has gone through the present tourney without being forced to the limit, while Williams has been running into tough opposition at times.

Tourney in connection with his summer intramurals, and will hold open the entry list until July 2. All those desiring to show that they're a future Horton Smith, a Walter Hagen, or a Bobby Jones will have a chance to get their first disappointment now.

Grabbing His Chance

Williamson Downs Fitch; Favored to Capture Title

Williamson loomed as the favorite to cop the summer intramural tennis title after yesterday's play when he eliminated Fitch, 6-1, 8-6 in the third round of play.

Wukasch came through with a straight set win over Ansell, who was regarded as a strong contender for the title. The scores were 6-4 and 6-1.

Wukasch meets Miller in one semi-finals match this afternoon, while Leveith faces Williamson.

Official Notice

WILL the following women students please leave their Austin address in the dean of women's office:

Eleanor Bond
Erna Weber
Josephine West
RUBY R. TERRILL,
Dean of Women.

FOREIGN language examinations will be held Monday, July 8, at 9 a. m. in Main Building 205. Applications must be made in the Registrar's office not later than Friday, July 5. This will be the only opportunity to take the examination during the summer session.

H. J. LEON.

Golf Tourney To Be Played On Municipal Course

Golf will be the next intramural sport to get under way. Entries for this sport close Tuesday, July 2, with the tourney getting under way on Friday. It will cost nothing to enter the meet, as Whitaker has done away with all green fees.

With baseball, handball, and tennis all drawing a large entry list from the summer session students, Whitaker is hopeful that the entry list for golf will be as large as it is during the long session. There will be no team play during the summer. Only singles play will be on deck, and the singles champion will be decided by match play.

Entries may be made at either the intramural office or at the Athletic Council office, both of which are in Z Hall.

CAF FATTENS WHILE COPELAND WORRIES

A track meet and baseball game featured the week's play in intramural baseball. The Caf took a liking to the offerings of the Copeland hurling staff, and knocked the ball all over the lot for an 18-2 triumph. The Copelanders were unable to do anything with the Caf offerings.

The Pedoggies and the Moonshiners engaged in a fairly decent game of ball, with the Pedoggies finally triumphing 7-5. There were no wild outbursts of scoring in the fray which featured the Caf-Copeland game.

The Faculty will cross bats with the Southsiders this afternoon. The Southsiders dropped their first encounter by an 18-16 count, and will be fighting for revenge this afternoon. Mac Burnett is heading the Southsiders, and promises his club will be in the best of shape.

Jimmie Critz spent Saturday and Sunday in Dallas.

Newt Walton of Lampassas and former University of Texas student is in town for a few days.

Tillie Immel spent the week-end in Fredericksburg.
