SIMKINS GIVES FAMOUS LECTURE ON "KU KLUX"

Explains That Evils of Klan Were Insignificant Compared to Good It Did.

ORGANIZED FLORIDA KLAN

Crowd Filled Auditorium—Largest That Has Heard a Public Lecture in Recent Years.

Judge Simkins, himself an organizer of the Ku Klux Klan in Florida during reconstruction days, vividly and picturesquely delineated the trying times which gave rise to the "Invisible Republic," and explained the justification for organization, in the University auditorium Thursday night before the largest crowd that has heard a public lecture here in recent years.

The lecture was one of the chief features of the Thanksgiving reception, and was one of the most successful. Colonel Simkins spoke in a dramatic manner and highly pleased his audience.

The apparent evil in the class, he said, was insignificant compared to the good they did for the people, who were being subjected to the tyranny of carpetbaggers and the political administration of ignorant and lustful negroes.

These carpetbaggers flocked to the South of the Civil war, he said, and for the accomplishment of their political ends began teaching the negroes that they were socially equal to the whites. The safety of the State was endangered, he said, since the negroes were getting control of government.

Judge Simkins described the cause of the organization of the clans, and traced their actions and accomplishments. "A constitutional convention in 1867," he said, "was dominated by carpet-baggers and negroes. The negro coachman of a friend of his was elected to leadership in the convention, and another negro, 'as black as a crow,' was chosen temporary president.

"This negro coachman, Meachum by name, became the leader of an organization of negroes known as the Loyal League. This negro had the devil in him. The league, by means of superstitions, compelled all negroes to vote the Republican ticket. Furthermore, they began drilling the negroes in all branches of the military service save the artillery. The negroes were induced to draw away from and lose confidence in their former masters. A period of real peril for the whites ensued. What was there for us to do? Should we lie supinely on our backs, hugging the delusive phantom of hope, while they, unharmed, endangered the homes of the State?"

Out of this state of affairs, said Judge Simkins, arose the "invisible empire," the Ku Klux Klan. In these organizations the States were not associated. The action was local. Judge Simkins organized the clan at Tallahassee and the country surrounding. He told of the manner in which a very few men, by means of secrecy in their operations, which they surrounded with an atmosphere of mystery, controlled hundreds of ignorant and misled negroes.

"Of course, we had mysterious stunts," he said, "but during the entire time the organization existed there was not a drop of blood shed.

"The negroes were frightened into ceasing their arrogance. Upon the occasion of one election," he said, "a thousand negroes, having heard a false report that their leader, Meachum, had been murdered by the whites, bore down upon the town on horseback with rifles. The few white men who happened to be upon the streets were armed with shotguns, which they had arranged for at the merchandise stores, and they advanced to meet

PRESIDENT MEZES WILL HAVE PRESS CLUB AS GUESTS

Journalists Will Be Entertained at Home of Dr. Mezes Tonight—Has Been Host Annually Since Organization.

The University Press Club will meet with President Mezes tonight. It is the custom of the Press Club to meet from time to time with some member of the Faculty. At these meetings, some question of importance to the welfare of the publications of the University is always discussed.

At the meeting tomorrow night a number of foreign newspapers which were donated to the club by Mr. Walter Hornaday, will be taken up and discussed. These papers are mostly from Australia, New Zealand and the Fiji Islands, and, in many respects, afford a striking contrast to the newspapers of America.

Mr. Vaughan Bryant of the Department of Journalism will address the club on some phase of newspaper work.

The Press Club has met with President Mezes once every year since it was organized four years ago. This will be the last time the members will enjoy Dr. Mezes' cordial hospitality.

"CAF" ENTERTAINS IN FITTING STYLE

Has Regular Dinners and Visitors as Guests at Enjoyable Thanksgiving Dinner.

The Caf set 'em up Thursday. The sign on the menu board said it was a table d'hotel dinner worth 50 cents. Some of the patrons appeared to be in doubt as to the significance of the table d'hotel part, but they all agreed that the meal was worth the half dollar, even if it did come free. From the number who availed themselves of the complimentary Thanksgiving meal it appears that the Cafeteria has a patronage of about 917. At least the place was crowded as it rarely ever was before.

The guests of Messrs. Lochridge and Veazy, University and Caf managers, respectively, regaled their appetites with turkey and asparagus tips, cranberry jelly and ice cream, sliced tomatoes, creamed potatoes, peas au something or other, and other edibles to mentionous to number.

The board—though, really, there were several boards—was frequented by professors, co-eds, football players, broken down college editors, broke business managers, cracked humorists, poor relations and others, and all went away with a full sense of appreciation of the courtesy and hospitality of the management of the University's campus eating place.

the negroes. One negro accidentally discharged his gun into the air, and all the others followed suit. They had but one round of ammunition and were, therefore, helpless. The women and children came running from the houses in terror, thinking that a massacre was taking place."

This county, said Judge Simkins, has been a good county ever since. The negroes found that the white men were ready for them.

"We had to protect the women and children of the State against the ignorance and lust of the negro office-holders. Some day I hope to write a history of the whole thing. What I did was sincerely done in opposition to an organization that threatened the welfare of the State."

Judge Simkins concluded his address with eloquent praise of the South, and urged the young men present to be loyal to their homeland and their Nation.

SUCCESS MARKS FIRST TURKEY DAY RECEPTION

Campus Scene of Gayety Night of Thanksgiving First Time in School's History.

ENTERTAINMENT VARIOUS

Large Number Attend Dance in Girls' Gymnasium—Alumni Return. Mud Keeps Some Away.

For the first time in the history of the University the campus was the scene Thursday of gayety on Thanksgiving night. Entertainment was accorded students, faculty and visitors at several places. The main reception was held at the Woman's building, a lecture on "The Ku Klux Klan" was delivered in the auditorium by Judge Simkins, the engineers held open house at the Engineering building and the big dance was given in the new girls' gymnasium.

About three hundred attended the dance, a larger number were present at the general reception, and a still greater number heard Judge Simkins' lecture. The rain and mud made the attendance smaller than it would have been under favorable conditions.

The reception showed the potentiality of such an affair. The novelty of a reception on the campus gratified the students who attended.

The gym team gave an exhibition in the auditorium immediately after the lecture, which was greatly enjoyed. The band played for a half hour preceding the lecture.

The directorate of the reception follows:

President of the reception, L. C. Barrell; supervisory chairman, S. R. Aldredge; chairman academic department, A. W. Spence; chairman law department, Bland Proctor; chairman engineering department, Ed Sinks; chairman finance committee, Walter Linn; chairman arrangements committee, A. R. Harwood; chairman invitation committee, Ted Drury; chairman reception committee, Miss Ruth Cash; chairman floor committee, H. Halbert; chairman alumni committee, William Engle; chairman refreshments committee, Bob Dale; chairman decorations committee, Madison Cooper; chairman program committee, James Edmond; chairman music committee, L. H. Gross; chairman illumination committee, H. L. Jones; chairman stunt committee, S. Holliday.

WABASH DEFEAT MARKS CLOSE OF UNUSUAL SEASON

"Little Giants" Fell Before the Longhorns on Muddy Field. Score, 39 to 0.

WHOLE TEAM STARRED

Can Count on Fingers of One's Hands Gains Made by Indiana Team Through the Line.

Defeating the "Little Giants," 39 to 0, on a muddy field Thursday, the Longhorns finished the most successful football season in the history of the University. In only one previous season, that of 1900, have the Longhorns met no defeat.

The day was dark, but no fair fell. The field, however, was soggy as a result of the rain that fell during the day and night preceding.

As the game progressed the field became still slipperier, and end runs more difficult. The game was robbed of the spectacular passing that has characterized all of the games of the season. It was at times almost pitiful to see a runner grimly making for a touchdown only to slip as he turned to evade a tackler.

Despite the rainy weather, a crowd of 5000, many of them alumni from various parts of the State, gathered to see the Longhorns finish the most successful season of their history. The contest, although void of spectacular passing and long broken field runs, was an interesting battle in which the football warriors, determined and pugnacious, grimly strove against unnatural difficulties. The spectators felt amply rewarded.

The Longhorns were five pounds heavier to the man than Wabash, and displayed far superior football acumen, more speed and strength. Wabash was more helpless before the old line than any team that has tried it this season. The gains they made through it could almost be counted on the fingers of one's hands. At no time did Wabash get within twenty-five yards of Texas' goal. Twice short forward passes enabled them to advance to that point in the Longhorns' territory. Texas' interference was wonderful. The team formed before the runner as a portable wall.

Again the team played as a unit. It is difficult to pick the stars. From the standpoint of the spectator, Barrell, Littlefield and Neilson were the stars. Edmond, Dittmar and Goodman did the most attractive work in the line. There was not a weak spot, and but one substitution was made until the last part of the fourth period. Captain Jordan, in the last game of his career, played the same dogged, determined, powerful game that he has played since he became a member of the team four years ago. Barrell, also in his last game, despite the difficulties especially prevalent in his department of the game, did splendid open field running, and figured in nearly every touchdown, carrying the ball over for three of them. Edmond played a remarkable game. The difficulties only made him more pugnacious. Littlefield could not pass the heavy and slippery ball as effectively as usual, and the receiver could not hold it when it struck in his arms. He nevertheless played an excellent game.

For Wabash, Captain Rowe, Sims, Pfohl and Showalter starred. The mud and the mighty team they opposed, however, were a combination with which they could not deal.

Between halves the Globaskers, an organization that has existed in the University for several years for the sole purpose of performing farces on such occasions, entertained the crowd with fitting ceremonies. The old "Prexy" passed and a new "Prexy" was inaugurated. The outgoing president, after his mute address, burned

CHEMICAL CLUB ORGANIZED FOR RESEARCH WORK

Initial Program Will Be Held Tonight. Members Will Study Chemical Industries of State—Open to Advanced Students.

The Chemical Society, which was organized recently by a number of students who are interested in chemical research work, will render its initial program tonight. This society has for its purpose the promotion of interest in the research of the chemical world, and the acquiring of information concerning chemical industries of the State. In this way the members expect to keep in touch with the research which is at present being pursued in the Texas laboratory, and to become more familiar with chemicals and their methods.

The membership will include those students who have completed chemistry, and who are doing, or expect to do, advanced work in chemistry.

a miniature shack, representative of the numerous ones that dot the University campus. The crowd cheered wildly. The Board of Regents, the army, the navy, the Faculty and student body were represented by individuals attired in representative costumes. Between the third and fourth periods "Doctor" Henry Reeves, the famous negro who has attended the team for seventeen years, and who, because of recent sickness was able to attend the game only by means of a cab, was presented with a bouquet and a large collection of money contributed by the spectators.

Texas scored three touchdowns in the first period, one of them coming within the first two minutes of play. An end run by Barrell for thirty yards, another by Neilson for fifteen, and a short plunge by Barrell account for it.

Three minutes later Littlefield plunged the line for the second score, after he had advanced the ball twenty yards on an end run.

Barrell ran twenty-one yards for the third. The run was beautiful. He was resisted at every turn. He stiff-armed three tacklers and side-stepped the others.

In the second period Texas was once more on Wabash's 5-yard line and lost the ball on downs. Toward the end of the quarter, however, the Longhorns took on new life and steadily advanced from the middle of the field, without halting, for the fourth score. Barrell went around end fifteen yards, a basket pass from Barrell to Littlefield netted ten more, and Barrell went over five for the touchdown.

In the last of this period Texas' goal was in danger. By short passes Wabash went to the 25-yard line, only to lose the ball when Littlefield intercepted Sims' pass.

Texas scored again in the third period. Walker went through the line eleven yards with men hanging to him. Neilson wiggled through the mass of Wabash players for nine yards and then bucked over for the fifth touchdown.

Wabash played a much stronger game from this time until the end of the game. Also, the field became slipperier and much heavier. The third quarter ended with the ball in Wabash's possession on the Texas 26-yard line.

At the beginning of the fourth period Sims failed flatly in an attempt at a drop kick and Dittmar recovered. The ball remained in the middle of the field until the last of the quarter. Texas' passes failed time after time. The spectators had begun to think Texas would not score again. Five minutes before the whistle blew, however, Littlefield performed the prettiest play of the game when he ran through the Wabash line thirty-three yards for the sixth and last score.

The rooters went wild and reward-

RELATIONS WITH A. & M. RENEWED; PLAY NEXT YEAR

Longhorns Will Meet Farmers in Old-Time Gridiron Battle Next November.

TO PLAY AT SAN ANTONIO

Agreement Came as Result of Meeting of Representatives of Both Schools Last Night.

Athletic relations with A. & M. have been renewed, effective at once, and the Longhorns will meet the Farmers in a gridiron battle in San Antonio on Friday, November 19, 1915. An agreement to this effect was reached last night in a conference here between Joe Utay and Hal Moseley, both of Dallas, representing A. & M., and L. Theo. Belmont and Dr. W. T. Mather, representing the University.

The agreement came as a result of a morning session at the home of Mr. Belmont and a night session at the home of Dr. Mather. The meetings were guarded with the greatest secrecy because of the uncertainty of the outcome. Negotiations looking forward to such action have been under way for several months.

Inasmuch as the action of the representatives is effective at once, it is probable that teams representing the two institutions will meet in baseball and track next Spring.

The place of meeting of the two football teams for the season of 1916 will be decided upon by mutual agreement.

Director Belmont sent another telegram to Notre Dame yesterday regarding the game next Thanksgiving. If Notre Dame declines, a game will be arranged for that date with the Haskell Indians.

UNIQUE EXHIBIT OF TEXAS WOODS

Collection Arranged on Third Floor of Main Building—Material Being Gathered.

The School of Botany of the University of Texas possesses a collection of the woods of the State which is considered one of the finest and most complete collections of the kind in the South. At the World's Fair in St. Louis it was awarded first place among the wood collections on exhibition. The collection, which is now arranged in the rotunda on the third floor of the Main building, contains specimens of every variety of wood in the State, and panelling showing how each may be finished. Besides the woods themselves, the rotunda contains transparent views of the forests of Texas and scenes from the lumber mills, which have been pronounced very excellent.

The school is making a special study of the ferns and flora of the State, and possesses a very complete collection of such. This collection includes over three thousand mounted and classified specimens, and serves as the basis of a most interesting study of this subject. The school maintains exchange lists with the herbariums of other States, and is thus obtaining specimens of their plants and flowers.

In connection with a study of the relative values of trees as sidewalk shades, Dr. Lewis is preparing a book on "The Trees of Texas." This book will contain a descriptive study of the various trees of the State, and is expected to contribute much valuable information on the subject.

WHAT OTHER EDITORS ARE TALKING ABOUT

Haney.—Lewis H. Haney, Professor of Economics in the University of Texas, contributes an article to the March number of the American Economic Review, which has been reprinted in pamphlet form, and for which there is now a large demand. It deals with the credit conditions which confront the cotton farmer in Texas.—Waco Times-Herald.

Colquitt.—Really, we gave Governor Colquitt credit for a greater appreciation of the fitness of things than to think he would accept the University of Texas presidency. But, with all our confidence, we couldn't help shivering a bit until after the board had named Dean Battle as temporary head of that great institution. The University has never had a politician for a president. With other friends there of we are hoping it may never have one. It is a place for an educator and none other.—Denton Record and Chronicle.

Battle.—"President Battle" of the University of Texas sounds much better than "President Colquitt," anyway. The News is of the opinion that the people of Texas have had enough of Colquitt in any capacity, to say nothing of putting him at the head of the first institution of the State. Besides, we are reliably informed that Colquitt as governor was not at all popular with the student body of the U. of T. On the other hand, Dr. Battle, having been Dean of the Faculty for a number of years, held precedence over Colquitt or any other, and we hope the Board of Regents will see fit to make his appointment permanent.—Center Point News.

Apology.—We and the others who took seriously the suggestion of Governor Colquitt as head of the State University owe the Governor an apology. Some of the Governor's misguided friends rushed into print with a "boom" for the Governor for the University presidency, whereat ex-students and alumni got busy to prepare a protest. How unjust they were to the Governor, however, is shown in the letter to the regents, in which he stated unequivocally that he was not an aspirant for the place, but that if he were asked for advice, he would recommend his long-time political enemy, Dr. Brooks of Baylor. The Governor undoubtedly knew that, quite aside from any question of personal fitness, his selection as University head would precipitate a strong fight, out of which could come no good to the University. And we give him credit for his attitude in the matter as being based on friendliness for the University, despite his crippling by veto of the coming year's work of that institution.—Denton Record and Chronicle.

Brooks.—Some weeks ago the Waco Tribune, close to Congressman Henry, suggested that Samuel Palmer Brooks couldn't afford to quit his high calling as president of Baylor University to take a seat in the United States Senate.

Now comes Governor Colquitt and suggests this same Samuel Palmer Brooks as the best man for the presidency of the Texas University.

Henry and Colquitt and Brooks are aspirants for a place in the Senate at Washington.

The solicitude of the opposition for his continued welfare must be highly gratifying to Samuel Palmer.—Waco Times-Herald.

Varsity vs. A. & M. Today.

In the last issue of the Magazine, the editor, without the consent of the writer, printed a letter from Arnold Kirkpatrick in reference to the last game between A. & M. and the University. Mr. Kirkpatrick himself said in that letter that it would be impossible for him to write an article for publication, and stated that he would not like to have a statement by him published unless it were in more modified form than the letter which he wrote to the Magazine editor. It is easy to understand how Mr. Loftus felt about Kirkpatrick's letter, both because of his long football experience in the University and because of his early association with and friendship for Kirkpatrick, and

WEAR WEARS MACANAW.

Makes the Only Correct Guess of the Game's Score.

When Barrell kicked the last goal Pake Houston felt his Macanaw slipping, for he had placed his hopes on 40 to 0. On the other hand, J. P. Wear, while not the seventh son of a seventh son, proved himself to be a faithful prophet, and yesterday selected the best $10 Macanaw Moore & Morrison had in stock. The only difficulty he experienced, he said, was due to difficulty in making a selection, as so many attractive patterns were offered.

I am sure that he published the letter rather as a tribute to Kirkpatrick than as an indication of the sentiment of the University toward A. & M.

The publication of the article has, however, been generally misunderstood in this city, and I believe over the State, by the A. & M. alumni, and has been taken as indicative of the general University attitude toward the "Aggies." This has been, of course, unfortunate, and has made infinitely more difficult the efforts of those who desire the resumption of friendly athletic relations between the University and A. & M. in 1914 and 1915. There is no question in my mind that the resumption of athletic relations between the two institutions would greatly aid the cause of higher education in Texas, and would enable the alumni of both institutions to get together and fight side by side for appropriations. It would also greatly facilitate that friendship which should exist between these two highest State institutions, and the financial benefits of such a game would be very great. But above and beyond any of these considerations is the fact that for the last two or three years, and especially during the present year, the Farmers have had a clean, gritty team, unquestionably composed entirely of bonafide students. Even should we believe that the teams of 1911 and 1912 were not representative there is no reason why we should longer hesitate to play the character of teams that A. & M. has had in more recent years, and the character of teams which faculty, alumni and student body alike have pledged themselves to have in the future. A. & M. stands today, I believe, as firmly for clean athletics as any school in the State, and I, for one, am strongly in favor of a game between the two institutions next year, and I certainly hope that no more ill-considerate and unrepresentative articles will be published which might tend to revive the old, but now, I believe, practically extinct ill will between the two institutions. ## PUNTS AND PASSES

J. W. D.

The men who played their last game Thanksgiving can quit realizing that the students will not long forget the wonderful playing they did.

The opposing teams continued to watch Varsity's two ends with hawk-like tenacity. This, in the Wabash game, with the aid of the heavy field, almost ruined the open field play of Texas.

Terrill School of Dallas closed a successful football season Saturday, winning every game played. This school has not lost a game in five years in football. Lieutenant Weir, who was assistant coach for Texas, is head coach for them.

"Pig" Dittmar played the best game of his career Thanksgiving, when he played rings around the whole Wabash team. If a player ever read the opposing signals it was "Ditt." He seemed to know where every play was, and usually broke it up.

There has been more football dope upset this year than ever before in the history of football. Teams that were expected to set the world on fire with their brilliant playing have failed, while other teams that were comparatively unknown in football have made grand records. This upsetting of so much dope was probably caused by the open field play that has been adopted by so many teams. By comparative scores Kansas had a big advantage over Missouri in their annual game, but the dope was completely upset, Missouri winning, 10 to 7. Another eleven that has made some of the big teams looks small is Washington and Jefferson.

derson and Tom S. Henderson Jr., of Cameron, and Miss Cora Martin of Tampa, Fla., were in Austin for the Thanksgiving festivities.

A REAL MAGAZINE

When the first issue of the Mag came off the press many were surprised at the high quality of same, and began predicting that this could not be kept up. In fact, those who opposed the malgamation scheme last year did so principally because they believed the standard of the Mag would be lowered. The second issue convinced those who were most thick-headed. It just simply staid to reason that a magazine can be made better by increasing its circulation twenty-fold.

"FEATURES"

Pursuant of the "make it interesting" policy, the editors have secured an article by Coach Allerdice on "Football in the South." Football is objected to by some on the ground that it is strenuous. The Mag will give another picture of sport, showing the difference here and abroad. Charles I. Francis furnishes an illustrated article entitled "Duelling in German Universities."

ILLUSTRATIONS

In addition to the illustrations accompanying Mr. Francis' article, the Mag has some most extraordinary pictures. This issue is termed the Thanksgiving issue, but is in reality a tribute to the "Famous Undeafed Longhorns of 1914." The cover shows a "Texas Longhorn" breaking out of the Mag, as it were. A picture of the student body attending a rally shows how the team was supported by practically every student.

PRICE RIGHT

Although the price of The Texan and Mag has never been high, beginning Dec. 1 the price will be cut down to $2.00 cash for the balance of the session. Back numbers will not be supplied to $2.00 subscribers.

AN ISSUE EDITOR RESIGNS

Finding Other Duties Too Great, O. W. Wood Gives Up Place on Texan.

The resignation of O. W. Wood as issue editor on The Texan was accepted by the advisory board last night. Preparation for debate preliminaries and various other duties made it impossible for him to continue further as an issue editor. He may, however, take up his work again in the Winter term.

The position will be filled after a period of competition.

The advisory board also issued a warning to the co-ed reporters. It had been alleged that they were not working. The board intends to remove from the staff all those who are not doing a reasonable amount of work.
