Librarian Reports On Progress In Extension Work

Dimmitt Speaks

University Keeps Service
For Rural, Small Communities

Rapid growth has characterized the history of the package loan library of the University during recent years, Miss LeNoir Dimmitt, chief of the library bureau, said recently. Miss Dimmitt recently addressed the Texas Library Association on the subject of "Extension Work by Means of Package Libraries," a speech in which she used the University library bureau as a specific example of the progress that has been made since the experiment of library extension was made 25 years ago by the University of Wisconsin.

"It has been just 25 years since the University of Wisconsin, a recognized leader in university extension work, inaugurated what then a new experiment in library extension," Miss Dimmitt stated. This was the organization of the package library service. The scene was established in an attempt to solve the problem of the people with reliable instruction on important subjects of current interest—usually subjects not yet written about in book form. It was meant primarily for those living in rural communities and small towns having no library facilities. It was a free service, and all that anyone had to do to obtain material was to write to the Extension Division. When a request was received for a specific subject, material on it was assembled in one small package and mailed to the borrower. These packages came to be known as package libraries. They consisted mainly of articles clipped from periodicals and of bulletins and reports printed by educational institutions, national and state bureaus and organizations, and commercial houses.

Experiment Successful

"Wisconsin's experiment proved to be so successful that other universities soon followed her example. The rapid development of the package library service is indicated by the fact that when a survey was made in 1925 it was reported that state universities and colleges in 35 states had put this form of service into operation. In some states it has been more highly organized with a larger scope of activities than in others. Among the state universities most active in this form of library extension work are those of Colorado, Florida, Indiana, Kansas, Michigan, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Virginia, West Virginia, and Wisconsin.

Elkins Qualifies for Rhodes Award; Former University Students Study at Oxford

Five students were selected by the Gulf District Rhodes Scholarship committee from twelve candidates of six Southwestern states to receive scholarships to Oxford in 1933. Their choice follows: Wilson H. (Bull) Elkins, 23, San Antonio, former student in The University of Texas. Jack Fischer, 22, Oklahoma City, Okla., student in literature at the University of Oklahoma.

David St. Clair, 22, Norman, Okla., student in geology at the University of Oklahoma.

Arthur B. Dugan, 22, Aberdeen, Miss., student in literature at Princeton.

Clarence P. Lee, Jr., 19, Pine Bluff, Ark., student in literature at Washington and Lee University.

Elkins, who was graduated from the University in 1931, was elected to Phi Beta Kappa, besides being an outstanding athlete during his college career. He had been selected in the semi-finals at Houston, after having been named one of the five students to represent the University in the Rhodes Scholarship award competition.

Board Considers Major Questions Of Publications

Directors Fail to Restrict Magazine Editor In Material

Board of Directors of the Student Publications, Inc., met Thursday. Jackson Cox presided over the meeting in the absence of the president of the board, Allan Shivers.

Agenda for the afternoon consisted in further work on the revision of the handbook of the student publications. The handbook has stated in the past that the Longhorn-Ranger shall contain literary, feature, and humor material, one-third of the editorial space being allotted to each type of material. The board decided that the editor should not be bound by the term "one-third space" as it was impossible to set off an exact amount for each type of material used.

Discussion was given to the amount of space given to candidates for campus political positions. This question will be settled at a later date with the question of whether the Texan will be permitted to use national and State news dispatches, also coming before the board for settlement.

Dr. J. A. Fitzgerald, treasurer to the board of directors, was asked to inquire into the matter of selecting an auditor for the publications books of this year.

Ratchford, Spell Attend Meeting

Language Body to Meet
During Holidays

Miss Fannie Ratchford, Wrenn librarian, and Dr. J. R. Spell, adjunct professor of Romance languages, will attend the Modern Language Convention, sponsored by the Modern Language Association, to be held at Yale December 29, 30, and 31.

Miss Ratchford will read a paper on "The Bryonism of Charlotte Bronte." "Rousseau in the Spanish-American World," will be the subject of Dr. Spell's talk.

Literary problems will be the chief topic of discussion at the meeting, Dr. Spell said. The Modern Language Association has been organized since 1883 and is recognized as the outstanding organization of its kind in America. English, French, Spanish and German are the modern languages given chief consideration. The organization has a monthly publication in which the papers read at association meetings are printed.

5 Students Sign For Annual Clark Christmas Dinner

Benedict to Be Toastmaster
At Affair; Program
Completed

Even some native Texans are unable to go home for Christmas, the register for the annual Judge J. B. Clark Christmas dinner reveals. The five boys who had signed up for the dinner Thursday were from north Texas, North Carolina, New York, Massachusetts, and Wisconsin. Students are always slow in signing up, but a large number will sign just before the deadline, Friday, December 23, Mrs. Jonnie Fay Ashby, office secretary of the Y. M. C. A., explained.

The dinner is given each year by the Y. M. C. A. and is open to all men students who are unable to go home Christmas. There is no charge, the only requirement being that the student turn in his name at the Y. M. C. A. before the deadline. President H. Y. Benedict will again be toastmaster, a position which he has held since the dinners were first inaugurated. A real Christmas dinner, combined with carols, stories, and good fellowship will do much to take the place of former holidays spent with families which are now far away.

Forum Leaders To Give Banquet

Fireside Groups End Year's Activities

Invitations were mailed to 120 faculty and student leaders of the Fireside Forum Wednesday from the office of President H. Y. Benedict for the banquet to be held at the Stephen F. Austin Hotel Monday at 6 o'clock, Professor E. G. Smith, chairman of the banquet committee, said Thursday. This banquet will climax the Fireside Forum activities for the year.

The program includes vocal and instrumental music, group singing, two short talks, and other forms of entertainment, Mr. Smith said.

Professor, Minister Receive Appointment

Dr. Clifford Montgomery, professor of Romance languages, and the Rev. L. U. Spellman, pastor of the University Methodist Church, became members of the joint committee on education for Texas, at a meeting of the committee of education of the Methodist Church in Waco Wednesday.

Mr. Spellman is secretary and Dr. Montgomery is chairman. It is the purpose of the committee to consider and make a report on the consolidation of ten Methodist schools in Texas, which are as follows: Southern Methodist University, Southwestern University, Texas Woman's College, McMurry, and five junior colleges.

Penick Charges Athletics With Business Basis

Coach Sees Commercialism
In Southwest Conference

Chairman Reports

Metzenthin Gives Transfer
Eligibility Rules
For Play

In his report to the Southwest Athletic Conference meeting, which does not constitute official action, Dr. D. A. Penick, president, made the following report, he revealed Thursday:

"One outstanding thing connected with athletics today is the commercialism. Institutions are operating on a commercial basis. Athletes in many cases are selecting their schools on a commercial basis. The prime evils of this are: 'First, the demand on the part of the public, ex-students, and institutions themselves for winning teams. Secondly, the consequent uncertain tenure of office of the coach. Thirdly, consequent recruiting and subsidizing in all of their subtle forms. These conditions lead our institutions into the meshes of securing outstanding athletes at whatever cost.

"As definite signs of commercialism in athletics I need but mention: Clamor for post season games, struggle of the colleges against broadcasting, the growing tendency to eliminate or restrict non-paying sports, bidding for athletes who can draw crowds, releasing of coaches who fail to produce winning teams.

Little Commercialism
"It is my conviction that there is less of this commercialism in the Southwest Conference than in almost any other large conference in the United States. But we are not entirely free from this evil and must continue to struggle to free ourselves entirely."

A change has been made in the constitution of the Southwest Conference making a more positive statement of "amateurism" than the former negative statement, Dr. Penick said. The change follows:

Article 20, section 1.—"An amateur sportsman is one who engages in sport solely for the physical, mental, and social benefits he derives therefrom and to (Continued on Page Five)

Students Finish Training Course

Certificates Awarded For First Aid Work

Students from nearly every branch of the University were awarded certificates issued by the Department of Commerce upon the completion of the first aid course presented here by C. C. Herbert of the United States Department of Commerce, M. M. Heller, instructor in the department of mechanical engineering, said Thursday.

About one hundred and ninety persons were enrolled in the course, which began December 5 and closed December 15. Ninety per cent of the students finished the instruction. Students from all departments of the College of Engineering, from the College of Arts and Sciences and from the School of Business Administration attended the lectures.

This is the first year that the first aid training course has been given here under a definite schedule, Mr. Heller explained, but it probably will be repeated every other year due to the success of the lecture series which ended Thursday. The course consisted of a series of lectures and practice periods in which students were instructed in the methods of dealing with emergency cases of all kinds.

Student to Receive Girl Scout Award

Marilee Kohn, freshman student in the University, will be awarded the Golden Eaglet badge, insignia of the highest rank in the Girl Scout organization, today at 7 o'clock at the Central Christian Church. Mrs. Ross Sterling will make the presentation, which will be the main feature of the semi-annual court of awards of the Austin Girl Scouts. Mrs. Frank Spiller, local director, said Thursday.

Miss Kohn has been a leader among the scouts for the past three years, and at present is one of the leaders of the Junior High troop.

Students May Not Pay Hospital Fee Before Semester Ends-Auditor

Students who neglected to pay the optional hospital fee during registration will be unable to do so until registration for the second semester begins, according to information received from the Auditor's office. General information Bulletin No. 3216 states that "any student desiring the privilege of hospitalization as described on page

Harrison Detains Hearers in 'Hell'

Was it Dante who put the creatures of his imagination through long tortures in Inferno before they could be considered fit to live in a "Paradise Regained"?

Dr. T. P. Harrison, a literary work entitled "Hell" on the lecture table before him, was interrupted in his discussion by the ringing of the janitor's bell a quarter of an hour before the class period was to end.

Apparently anxious to depart in haste from the "inferno," every student in the class prepared to leave, some getting out of their seats.

"Just a minute," Dr. Harrison said, apparently in the belief that his charges were not yet ready to regain their paradise of freedom. "We still have time for 15 more minutes of 'Hell.'"

Student's Case Still on Docket

Court Fails to Decide Case;
Adjourns Indefinitely

The Supreme Court, in a brief session Thursday, passed an order equalizing the dockets of the several Courts of Civil Appeals, but did not hand down any decisions. The court adjourned subject to call, not setting a date for their next session.

Pending before the tribunal at this time is the case of Thomas Foley of Cisco, suspended student of the School of Medicine at Galveston, who is seeking a writ of mandamus directing the Board of Regents of the University and officials of the University and the school to permit him to re-enter the medical branch.

It is alleged in the case, which was filed in October, that the school officials erred in computing his scholastic standing, the reason for his dismissal, and in addition that the rule of the school suspending students for specified scholastic insufficiency is arbitrary and unreasonable, thus rendering it void.

After granting leave to file the petition for mandamus, the cause was referred to Section A of the Commission of Appeals. Decision of the Commission of Appeals in the case will not be revealed until the Supreme Court hands down its decision.

Students to Present Christmas Program

The students' association of the University Presbyterian Church will sponsor a white Christmas program at the Pleasant Valley Church Sunday, December 18, at 3 o'clock, Lawrence Malloy, student pastor of the Pleasant Valley Church, said Thursday.

The program will consist of a male quartet of University students, violin solo, a talk, and recitations by several school children of the community. Those taking part on the program have not been announced definitely, Malloy stated.

Fitzgerald Talks To Social Science Club

Dr. J. A. Fitzgerald, dean of the School of Business Administration, will read a paper on "Some Phases of the United States Currency Situation" at a meeting of the Social Science Club today at 6:30 at the University Commons.

Dr. Fitzgerald will discuss in his paper the present conditions of American currency, giving his views on the situation, and the possibilities.

NAMES ON SICK LIST

Those names added to the sick list Thursday are Dr. R. A. Haynes, instructor in Romance languages; Dr. L. H. Wharton, pastor of the University Presbyterian Church; M. D. Woodbury, associate secretary of the Y. M. C. A.; Marian Seiders, assistant librarian in the Education Library; and Lorena Drummond, news director in the Office of Publicity.

Six Nations Pay

Survey Indicates Faculty
Favors Revision
Of War Debts

Six nations indebted to the United States as a result of the World War paid their obligations which came due Thursday, while others defaulted, press association reports reveal.

Those paying included Great Britain, $95,550,000; Italy, $1,245,437; Czechoslovakia, $1,500,000; Latvia, $148,852; Finland, $186,235; and Lithuania, $92,386. France, Belgium, Greece, Poland, Estonia, and Hungary defaulted. The total amount due from the twelve nations was $124,934,421, principal and interest, and with the payments made Thursday, there is a total of $26,211,511 unpaid on the obligations due to date.

Commenting on the economic effect which the failure of some of the nations to pay will have throughout the world, Dr. C. P. Patterson, professor of government in the University, pointed out that it would tend to lower credit, create the suspicion that any nation could refuse to pay its obligations, and tend to suspend the operation of loans between nations.

"Since there is no way of forcing a nation to pay," Dr. Patterson said, "the tendency of nations to ask for scaling of debts on the basis of changes which have been made in currency since the debts were contracted is a precedent for individuals and classes—the American farmer for example—to ask that their debts be scaled. The results can be readily seen."

Buechel Surveys

Dr. F. A. Buechel, assistant director of the Bureau of Business Research, has conducted a survey among some 30 professors in the University, propounding the question, "Which alternative would be to the best interest of the United States from the economic, political and social standpoint?" Shivers Answers School Inquiries

Sweater Information And Meeting Pledge Sought

Allan Shivers, president of the Students' Assembly, has received letters from Tulane University in Louisiana and from American University in Washington requesting information about sweaters presented to yell leaders and asking that the University aid the American University in securing the Federation of Student Unions convention at Washington next year.

Tulane University, requesting information about sweaters for yell leaders, was sent a reply by Shivers in which he stated that the yell leaders for the University received sweaters that were a little lighter than the football men receive, and that the letter "T" was two inches smaller, with a megaphone superimposed upon the letter, signifying their positions.

In reply to the letter from the American University in Washington, Shivers answered that the University would be unable to cast its vote for the convention of the Federated Student Union meeting place next year, because no delegate from the University is being sent to New Orleans, where the convention will convene this year. As a means of curbing expenditures, the Students' Assembly decided not to send a delegate to the convention this year.

LONGHORNS FACE STRONG FOEMEN IN JAVELINAS HERE TONIGHT

Ollemen Meet A.&I. Five In First of Two-Go Series; Match Will Begin at 7:30

Steer Starting Team Assumes Shape

By FRED SCHAFFNER

The Texas Longhorns will get their first real test of the season tonight at Gregory Gym when they will meet the A. & I. Javelinas from Kingsville, who are coached by Bud McCallum, a Texas star of ten years ago. The Hogs will also be here Saturday night to entertain the Longhorn quintet in what promises to be brilliant contests by evenly matched sides.

The Javelinas held the strongest quintet in Rice's history to a 50-34 score, and from all reports the game was much closer than the score indicates. While the Hog defense was ragged against the Owls, they flashed an offense that had the feathered tribe worried throughout the contest.

Visitors Have Attack

The Kingsville boys have in Johnny Dixon one of the most dangerous scorers in the Southwest. He is the captain and center of the team. Bill Sadler is the brilliant forward who rang up 15 points against Rice. He is a clever floor man and can hit the basket from anywhere on the floor. The entire team is tall and fast, with a powerful and speedy offense.

These games should begin to show the strength of the Steers, as the Bobcat contests were poor competition to test the real strength of the Longhorns under pressure. A comparison of the Longhorns with the Owls should be easily drawn in the two tilts with the A. & I. boys.

Ed Olle will probably start the same five that he started against the Bobcats. Francis and Gray at the forward posts are both sophomores who promise to develop into real contenders for all-conference honors. Glenn Thompson will see considerable service alternating with the two forwards. Thompson has developed into a very clever floor man, and handles the ball brilliantly. He is a dangerous scorer, and will probably give the Hog defense plenty of trouble.

Bill Kubricht at center seems to be highly improved over last season, and looks to be the outstanding center in the conference. He has added considerable weight, and handles himself much better than he did last season.

Captain Ed Price and Ben Rundell will likely start at the guard positions. Price is one of the most deceptive ball handlers ever seen on a Southwest Conference team, and Rundell is one of the greatest defensive guards in the loop.

Baron Will Address Dallas Group Sunday

Rabbi Samuel Halevi Baron will be in Dallas Sunday, December 18, to address a combined B'nai B'rith and Aza fraternity meeting. The B'nai B'rith lodge of Dallas is celebrating its ninetieth anniversary. Rabbi Baron will discuss the work of the Hillel Foundation.

While in Dallas, Rabbi Baron will be the guest of Dr. Lefkowitz, who was in Austin a few weeks ago to speak at a similar B'nai B'rith lodge meeting. Dr. H. J. Ettlinger, professor of pure mathematics and president of the Austin B'nai B'rith lodge, has addressed a number of B'nai B'rith lodge meetings in various cities in the past month.

ASTRONOMER VISITS

Dr. Eduard Micek, associate professor of Slavonic languages, was visited by Dr. Huger, astronomer, Tuesday, December 13. Dr. Huger studied French at the University of Prague in Czechoslovakia. Later he came to this country and received a doctor's degree at the University of Chicago. Dr. Huger is now writing and lecturing. He will return to Austin Sunday, December 18, Dr. Micek said.

LANIER HEARS CAMPBELL

In the place of D. M. McKeithan, instructor in English who is ill with influenza, Dr. Killis Campbell, professor of English, made "A Survey of Critical Opinion on Lanier" at the meeting of Sidney Lanier Literary Society Thursday. Dr. Campbell verified his statement that there is a diversity of opinion on Lanier by giving the criticism, favorable and unfavorable, of leading literary men of the day.

SCHOOL GIVES MUSICAL

Students of the Vena K. Mathews School of Music will be presented in the regular monthly musical Saturday, December 17, at 8:15 o'clock at the studio at 803 West Twenty-second Street. The program will be on the "Nutcracker Suite" by Tchaikowsky, Mrs. Mathews announced Thursday.

Miss Hazel Quick is visiting at the Phi Mu house this week-end.

HORSY TERMS

The University of Florida polo players make double use of their polo terms. To have a heavy date is to "play polo." A session of heavy dating is called a "chukker." "Come-a-fogging" means to hurry up. "Snake-juice" is straight alcohol, usually taken with cracked ice and grape-fruit juice.

WHATAMAN?

Alton Owen, football star of Leonia High School in New Jersey, scored 48 of his team's 50 points last season. And the other two points resulted from a safety!

TOO BAD

Rugby teams in Australia are not permitted to make substitutions. If a player is removed from the game because of injuries, his team continues without a replacement.

BING IS OUT

Howard Jones, leader of the University of Southern California football squad, believes football quarterbacks should have darn good voices. And he doesn't mean the present radio crop of crooners, you dope!

FAMILY POWWOW

Brown University's football team was a family affair this year, as far as the students were concerned. There were two sets of brothers in the line-up: Captain Bill Gilbane, quarterback, and his brother, Tom, tackle, were one combination; Roland Brown, guard, and his brother, Larry, end, were the other set of brothers.

CLEVER FELLER

This is a lot better than selling magazines during the summer. Clyde Adams, University of Texas student, agrees to drive tennis players to tournaments during the summer. He charges the boys two pennies a mile while on the road.

Last summer he drove Texas players over 20,000 miles. Figure it up for yourself!

VERY NICE GAME

Basketball is looked upon as a sort of "sissy" game in South Africa. It has been disclosed that only girls play the court game in the land of the Boers and the gold mines, and men scoff at the idea that they should take up the game.

THEY LIKE HOCKEY

They take their hockey seriously at dear old Harvaard. Although it takes but six fellows to play the game, 63 hockey candidates reported to the Harvard varsity coach, Joe Stubbs, in the Boston Garden where the workouts are held.

The game will begin at 7 p. m. and is to be played with the aid of moonshine and electric lights.—The Boston Globe. With Dr. Clarence True Wilson umpiring?

BERKELEY, Calif., Dec. 15.—(INS)—Bill Alexander must have taken a leaf out of Howard Jones' book, or vice versa, for the Georgia Tech mentor, like the Trojan headman, isn't much for yardage, but he's strong for touchdowns.

"That's a fact," Bill admitted today, while putting his rambling wrecks through their paces for their game here Saturday with the University of California. "I don't care much about which side gets the yardage. I'd rather have touchdowns."

Owls Take Court Against Cats Saturday

Special to The Daily Texan
HOUSTON, Dec. 15.—The Rice Owls will make their second cage appearance here Saturday when they play the Sam Houston State Teachers' College Bearcats.

The Bearcats, rated as one of the most powerful fives in the State by virtue of their recent win over the Texas Aggies, are expected to give the Kitts-coached basketballers a strong fight. The Owls were victors over the Javelinas of Texas A. & I. in their opening game here several nights ago.

A. & M. ON SCHEDULE

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 15.—(INS)—Colgate and Maryland have replaced Vanderbilt and South Carolina on the Tulane football schedule for 1933. Tulane athletic authorities revealed in making public the schedule for next year. The schedule calls for games with Texas A. & M. Sept. 30, the site of the game not having been settled; Georgia at Athens, October 7; Maryland at New Orleans, October 14; Georgia Tech at Atlanta, October 21; Auburn at New Orleans, October 27; Mississippi State College at New Orleans, November 4; Colgate at New York, November 11; Kentucky at New Orleans, November 18; Sewanee at New Orleans, November 25; and L. S. U. at New Orleans, December 2.

Billy Disch Gets Spring Baseball Schedule Ready As Texas Plans 16 Frays

With all the schools in the Southwest Conference except Southern Methodist University favoring the continuation of baseball, preparations for a schedule are being arranged by Coach Billy Disch. Coach Morrison of S. M. U. was to have notified Coach Disch of the school's attitude as to baseball Wednesday, but no word has been received from him as yet.

S. M. U. May Play

Coach Disch expressed the opinion that S. M. U. would follow the attitude of the other universities in regard to the sport. It is likely that the same schedule that was followed last season will again be put in force, with Texas playing four games with Rice, Baylor and A. & M., and two games with T. C. U. and S. M. U. on a home and home basis. There is a possibility that Texas and A. & M. will play two of their games at Brenham during the annual Mayfest.

No definite schedule has been arranged due to the indefinite attitudes of the various schools, but Coach Disch has been authorized by several business managers to arrange any schedule which might be suitable.

The recent move to abolish baseball in the Southwest Conference was based on the assumption that the student bodies in the various schools had no interest in the game because of the

in your curriculum . . .

GOOD HEALTH means vitality. And it takes lots of energy to be a leader in the classroom, and in the social activities of college. So to succeed, you must make your health a required course.

Too often constipation is permitted to undermine health and sap vitality. It may cause headaches, loss of appetite and energy.

Try this pleasant "cereal way" to health. Two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN daily will promote regular habits. It supplies "bulk," vitamin B and iron. Ask that it be served at your fraternity house or campus restaurant.

The most popular ready-to-eat cereals served in the dining-rooms of American colleges, eating clubs and fraternities are made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. They include Kellogg's Corn Flakes, PEP Bran Flakes, Rice Krispies, Wheat Krimbles, and Kellogg's WHOLE WHEAT Biscuit. Also Kaffee Hag Coffee—real coffee that lets you sleep.

SIGMA DELTA PI HAS CHRISTMAS FESTIVAL

PHARMACY BANQUET GIVEN WEDNESDAY

Pharmacy students in the University were served with a few doses of their own medicine at their holiday banquet in the Austin Club, Wednesday night, Dean W. F. Gidley said Thursday.

Students were given a "prescription" instead of a menu with instructions in Latin to take as large a quantity as strength permits. The main ingredients of the "prescription" were emplastrum bovis tauris, solanum tuberosum cum caseinum, pilulae pisum viridum, et infusum coffeae arabicae, which to most people is just plain beef steak, potatoes and cheese, creamed peas, and a chocolate dessert.

Dean Gidley said that a good time and better friendships between students and instructors were the sole objects of the banquet.

"The success of this banquet, which was our first, was so great that plans are being considered for making the banquet an annual affair," Dean Gidley said.

Building and the Women's Gymnasium has been dangerously steep. At the present it is both muddy and slippery; the narrow imitation steps do more harm than good. Students and members of the physical training staff for women have complained about the path between the University and the Women's Gymnasium. Mud and pools of water make it almost impossible to keep one's feet dry. The weather is conducive enough toward flu. Any steps that the administration may take to remedy these added discomforts will be appreciated by both students and faculty.

The Daily Texan invites the writing of free-lance editorials or "firing line" articles to be published in the Student Forum column.

Such editorials must be written by students of the University and must pertain directly to some phase of student life.

All contributions must be signed, but the contributor's name will not be printed if he so requests. Unsigned articles will not be printed.

Those of 200 words or less will receive preference.

AN APOLOGY FOR THE MUSTACHE

This less than ordinary person believes that "The less one thinks the more one speaks." Perhaps this is the reason that certain ones can write lengthy discourses with many a word and very little thought. Would I be inquiring too much if I should ask concerning this elaborate personage who wrote the most wonderful article on "Students Voice Opinions on Mustaches, Sweaters" if I should ask if he was ever able to grow one? He surely must be a wonderful he-man, a super-man in fact if not the missing link for which scientists have been searching so diligently. This naturally applies to all he-men who think the same thing about mustaches. Ha, what a wonderful thing it must be, not to be deformed by a misplaced eye-brow! Some day, when the skies are clear, this insignificant person believes that we of the mustache class should all try this wonderful feeling of not trying to look like a gigolo.

After all, the question of mustaches should be left up to the women to decide, for how do we know how they feel about it? Do you honestly think that they would tell us their inner feelings, especially the ones that are easily tickled. No, I expect not, not to reporters anyway. Talk about being self-centered, I would rather be self-centered, than be centered about many girls who stumble around this campus.

Personally, I like small handle-bars that make me seem like half man and half bicycle than seem like half man and half something something else. Maybe the owner of bicycles without handle bars does not agree with me. This is to be pitied for we can not all agree to the same thing.

COLLEGE AND INDIVIDUAL TASTES

If your education does not fit your personal inclinations and aptitudes, you will not carry it far. But if it does not fit your individual environment and needs, it will not carry you far.

The vast range of individual differences is being more and more appreciated in education. The variety of aims which we bring to a large university is not less great. A naive, yet fundamentally true appreciation of this is shown in the following communication, quoted by Benjamin Franklin as coming from the six tribes of Virginia in reply to the offer of the commissioners of that state to provide for the education of a limited number of Indian youths. We can profit from the reply of the original Americans:

"You are not wise . . . will not take it amiss if our ideas of . . . education happen not to be the same as yours.

"Several of our young people were formerly brought up at your colleges. They were instructed in all your sciences. But when they came back to us, they were bad runners, ignorant of every means of living in the woods, unable to bear either cold or hunger, knew neither how to build a cabin, take a deer, nor kill an enemy; spoke our language imperfectly; were therefore neither fit for hunters, warriors nor counselors—they were therefore totally good for nothing.

"We are none the less obliged by your kind offer, though we decline accepting it; and to show our grateful sense of it, if the gentlemen of Virginia will send us a dozen of their sons we will take great care of their education, instruct them in all we know and make men of them."

—Minnesota Daily.

It is generally the lesson that is hardest to learn that will do us the most good.

Less Mud, More Cinders

Continued bad weather has brought to the attention of the faculty and students the need of more walks or cinders spread along the paths. Because of campus construction, students have had to detour around the new buildings along well-worn paths. The comptroller's office saw the necessity of building walks, and had a number of board walks constructed between the buildings. These fully met the needs of the students in dry weather, but during the present rainy spell other muddy spots have appeared that need gravel, cinders, or walks constructed across them.

Just back of B. Hall the walk up the hill has been so slippery at times that some of the faculty members have had to be assisted in order to reach the building. For several months the passage to the east of the cafeteria leading to the Chemistry

IN THE DAYS NEWS

By JACK HUDSPETH, JR.

DEBTS: England and Italy have paid us their war debt installment, but the others, including France and Belgium, have defaulted. Wall Street is not excited over the situation at all, but many congressmen are. A resolution has been offered in the House which forbids entry into the U. S. of the securities of those governments which defaulted. House leaders feel that since France has a large supply of gold on hand, it could have paid us much easier than any other country in the world. They also feel that the French moral obligation to us is greater than that of Britain because our troops prevented the annihilation of their country. English opinion is united on payment, and MacDonald is being criticized for considering a war debt alliance with France. In face of the decision to default, Premier Herriot and his French cabinet (which favored payment), have resigned. Herriot may be recalled by the President.

NEW MONEY

In the Middle West, people have no money with which to purchase their necessities, and yet there is a great surplus of everything to sell. People want to buy and want to sell, but there is no money with which to do anything so unusual as that. So a plan has arisen whereby a town or city issues and distributes its own money. Special dollar bills are printed and given to the unemployed in payment for their labor on the building and improving of public works. Every time a person uses one of these bills, the receiver places a special 2-cent stamp on it. When 52 stamps have been affixed to the bill, it will be redeemed by the city for $1 in U. S. money. Through the sale of the stamps, the city has already received $1.04 from the 52 users of the bill. The 4 cents pays for the printing of the bills and stamps.

In this way, the unemployed are cared for, new parks, roads, and streets are built, and local business is revived. Comparatively, happy days return.

The scheme originated in Harvard, Iowa, home of Matt Schen, voice of the Texan over radio station KNOW. St. Paul, Sioux City, and many small Mid West towns are planning to issue an amount of this money.

STATE SCANDAL

Instead of paying its county peace officers a salary, the State of Texas pays them a commission or "fee" on each indictment that is returned on their arrests. A Senate committee has been investigating alleged graft in this system, and has now issued its report. They have found that during the last 69 months, out of every 100 indictments returned, only 43.9 ever came to trial. Of the 100 there were 4.3 tried and acquitted; 7.4 were tried, convicted, and given suspended sentences; and only 21.9 cases out of the 100 were convicted and actually sentenced. Of the 100 cases, 13.9 have never yet come to trial. Yet the State has paid a fee on every one of those 100 indictments. This also shows that being indicted for a crime does not mean very much; there are still many ways to wriggle out of it.

The files of the committee are replete with examples in which a man was indicted on ten counts so that the State had to pay ten fees on the man. Then the fellow was tried, convicted on all ten counts, and given a one year sentence on each but the sentence were to run concurrently so that the man was to serve actually only one year. In such cases—the committee found to be common—the State got one conviction for the price of ten.

Thirteen of the State's counties refused to give the committee any information on these matters. All of these facts speak for themselves.

Sunday Club Gives Christmas Drama

Hoskins, Jr., and William Strong as Jews.

Phi Mu announces the initiation of Elizabeth Erwin, Dallas, and Mary Emma Storm, Austin.

CAMPUS CHATTER

By BILL DOZIER

One of those bright little souls who does so much to make the architecture department of this school what it is, just dropped in and offered a suggestion that is passed on with very little, if any, comment. She said that one of the first things that foreigners noticed about American towns was the geometric accuracy with which they were laid out, and the attendant "open" and clean appearance of the towns; and that since most European towns were laid out in squares with practically no plan back of them at all, the American visitor was prone to look with distaste upon European cities. After all, I wonder if the idea might not be right, since the great majority of towns, at least in this section, were merely nice wide plains when explorers arrived, and there was certainly no need to conserve space or worry about street widths. In fact, I know of one instance of a town in Oklahoma (then Indian territory) in which the main street is over 100 feet wide, due to the fact that a railroad surveying engineer who laid the town out was too busy to take time to work out a smaller area!

Still another helpful suggestion just came floating through the office door to the effect that the difficulty which so many students have in understanding spoken foreign languages when they visit countries in which they are spoken might be due to the difference of actual everyday conversation contrasted with academic discourse, and also to the different type of vocabulary which the student will come in contact with. So far as helping a person order things in a store, or give directions to a hotel bell-boy, I know from personal experience that language instruction more often than not will leave you high and dry in the matter of colloquial or conventional phrases, and in reality only serves as a background for a great amount of "filling in." And as an exceedingly respectful suggestion to the modern foreign language departments, it might be a good idea to have some sort of study in the vocabulary used in various trades or businesses with which the ordinary American is most likely to be connected if he does work in foreign countries. The knowledge of just a few technical words in various lines might be of great value later on, and in the final analysis that is the real purpose of college instruction in any subject.

It may not prove anything or even particularly matter, but the fact remains that practically every school in Texas has fallen prey to the idea that it must print an official newspaper in order to let the outside world know what Zilch University or Whatsitsname College is doing. Even if the greater part of the student body has to work feverishly for six days a week in order to dig up news to fill a four-page tabloid which appears weekly, the paper is still published and further service to humanity is rendered. Even the high schools have taken up the idea, but so far they haven't gone for the idea to the extent that the institutions of "higher learning" have. And if you want to spend an enjoyable half hour some afternoon, drop around and borrow some of the "journals," which usually make their appearance around the editorial offices.

Idle thoughts: Thanking the Longhorn-Ranger in advance, I would like to say that Mamie Zitzoff IS a mighty swell girl . . . one student who must be in a hurry to get home is Francis Neville, Kappa, who has already made a reservation to fly home for the holidays . . . one of the best courses that the ordinary student can take is Commercial Law . . . people that majored in mathematics and were forced to take a major exam in have my heartfelt sympathy . . . there is a let-down feeling among most people when they enter a classroom and are informed that the quiz scheduled for that day has been postponed until the next meeting of the class . . . the pictures of every editor of the Texan since it was founded are to be found on the walls of the editorial office . . . why more radio sets that can pick up short wave stations are not sold is beyond me . . . about one-third of English words of more than four syllables are mispronounced by most of us . . . there should be a law preventing a student from taking the same course over more than three times . . . I am more deficient in letter-writing than in any other thing . . . and "The Haunted Bookshop" by Christopher Morley is one of those books which can be described as "delightful."

TEMPLE SERVICES TODAY
Regular services will be held at Temple Beth Israel today at 8 o'clock, Rabbi Samuel Halevi Baron announced Thursday. The title of the sermon is "The Two Natures."

Mrs. T. W. Masterson will spend the week-end in Austin.

Former Teacher Writes Volume

Book Includes Comments By University Professors

Dr. Stith Thompson, former professor of English in the University, has recently completed the first volume, "a" through "c," of his "Motif-Index of Folk Literature," which when finished will be an encyclopedic classification of narrative elements in folk-tales, ballads, myths, fables, medieval romances, exempla, fabliaux, jest-books, and local legends, beginning with the creation and coming down to the present. In this first volume are included comments on books, "Coronado's Children" by J. Frank Dobie, associate professor of English, and "The Seven Sages" by Dr. Killis Campbell, professor of English. Publication of the cyclopedia, consisting of about ten volumes of guide material to folk-lore, is being financed by the Finnish Academy of Sciences, Finland, the American Council of Learned Societies, and Indiana University. Dr. Thompson was predecessor of Dr. Dobie as secretary of the Folklore Society of Texas and has been editor of the society's publications.

Pastor Gives Plans For Sunday Services

"Why Jesus Came" is the subject of the Sunday morning services of the University Methodist Church, the Rev. L. U. Spellmann, pastor, said Thursday. The vestal choir will sing "While Shepherds Watched," and the girls' chorus will sing "Christmas Lullaby."

A Christmas play, "The First Christmas" by M. M. Stugis will be presented at the Sunday night service at 7:30 o'clock in the church auditorium, Mr. Spellmann said.

The cast of the play includes Mr. Spellmann as Isiah; Tom Webb as the innkeeper's son; Emmette Whitsett as the stranger; Lorice Sullivan as his companion; Laurel Dunn, the first shepherd; Bob Thomas, the second shepherd; Billy Burke the third shepherd; Ainsworth Kuehne as the shepherd boy; Clarence Pearson as Joseph; Margaret Dickson, Josefa Cagle, Ruth Cagle, Farrior McLaurin, Willa Gidley, Ruth Weatherford, Regina Brelsford, Nona Frances Rundell, Helen Pittman, and Jane Kone as angels; Lomis Slaughter, Allen Roe, and Huron Mills as the wisemen. Future Ministers Deliver Sermons At Austin School learn to deliver sermons by a plan that has been a part of the routine of the seminary since its establishment in 1912. Dr. T. W. Curry, president of the institution, states.

Each student in the school is required to deliver one sermon a year during the three-year course that is required for his degree. Preachers are taken in alphabetical order beginning with the seniors, then the middle class, and last, the juniors.

These sermons are given on Tuesday of every week beginning in September and lasting throughout the year. Each knows when his turn is coming and selects his own subject and text and prepares his own sermon, which he delivers before the faculty and student body.

After the sermon, a period of about thirty minutes is spent in discussing it. His diction, his method of deliverance, his text, his language, and general appearance are taken into consideration.

Austin Artists Hold Exhibit of Paintings

An exhibit by the Guild of Austin Artists which will include the work of six people connected with the University, will open at 10 o'clock Saturday in the store building at 821 Congress Avenue, and continue until Christmas. The display will include oil paintings, etchings, and water colors, S. E. Gideon, associate professor of architectural design and history, said.

Among those whose work is to be hung are Isabelle Mayes, former student of the University; Mrs. C. D. Rice and Mrs. M. C. Boatright, wives of University professors; and R. C. Granberry, adjunct professor of electrical engineering, Mr. Gideon, and Raymond Everett, associate professor of freehand drawing and painting.

The exhibit will be open every day from 10 o'clock in the morning until 9 o'clock at night, except Sunday, December 18, when visitors will be admitted from 3 to 9 o'clock in the evening. Admission will be free, Mr. Gideon said.

Eleanora McGehee will visit in San Antonio over the week-end.

Mason Webster will spend the week-end in San Antonio.

Bulletin Editor Gives Revisions

Catalogues to Be Printed For Two Years

Three more parts of the University catalogue will be issued for two year periods instead of yearly, Mrs. F. A. Perry, editor of official publications, said Thursday. Catalogues for each division of the University are issued as parts of the general catalogue, and each is published as a University bulletin, Mrs. Perry explained.

The first three bulletins were issued biennially last year for the first time, including those of: fellowships, scholarships, tutorships, prizes, and loan funds; School of Business Administration; College of Pharmacy; and College of Engineering. This year the bulletins for the College of Arts and Sciences and School of Education, Graduate School, and the General Information Bulletin will be issued for the years 1933-1934, 1934-1935.

"Considerable expense is saved by printing the catalogue biennially instead of yearly," Mrs. Perry said, "and since they contain essentially the same information every year, a good deal of needless typesetting and reprinting is eliminated."

The general information bulletin is due off the press April 22; the bulletin of the College of Arts and Sciences and the School of Education, May 1; and the bulletin of the Graduate School May 15, Mrs. Perry said.

"At present, we are working on the catalogue of the School of Medicine in Galveston, but there are no changes of importance contemplated," Mrs. Perry said.

Dallas Man Loyal To Alma Mater

If every ex-student were as loyal as Robert Thompson, Dallas, The University of Texas could give away its oil fields. Thompson attended the University in years past, and in more recent years has sent five of his children through, and at present has two more enrolled, Fred Thompson being a junior, and Lucy, the last of the line, a freshman. Sending seven children through college may not seem like such an accomplishment, but try it some time, and you'll find that—well to return to the first statement, if all ex-students showed their loyalty in a like manner, the University could give away its oil fields.

Hamilton Allan will visit his parents in San Antonio over the week-end.

It Is Important To Remember:

THAT—only two days will elapse between the close of school and Christmas Day;

THAT—we will not have time to shop after we get home;

THAT—merchants of Austin have provided a large stock of quality merchandise, attractively priced and ideal for Christmas gifts;

THAT—the concerns using space in The Daily Texan, the student newspaper, solicit and appreciate student business and deserve our first consideration.

Reviewed Today

John Barrymore.
JOHN BARRYMORE gives a performance that almost equals that of his brother Lionel in "State's Attorney." His nonchalant manner and clever sarcasm add to his charm as he glides through the picture with that lack of effort that is the mark of every true artist. Helen Twelvetrees maintains her usual tragic expression throughout the picture. Her performance is neither good nor bad—just indifferent. William Boyd is good as the racketeer that Cardigan (Barrymore) at first defends and later, as state's attorney, prosecutes. The story is not a new one, but is cleverly handled and is well worth seeing. At the Texas, last times today.

Opening Today

EVENINGS FOR SALE, with Herbert Marshall, Sari Maritza, Charles Ruggles, Mary Boland, and Lucien Littlefield, opens today to continue through Sunday, at the Queen. With a comedy team of headliners such as listed above, this show cannot help but be a delightful farce. The piquant Sari should make the show live up to its title.

Choctaws Enroll In Greek Course

Grady James and Oscar Gardner, two Choctaw Indian boys from Oklahoma, are enrolled in a freshman Greek class. Both boys are freshmen this year at Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary. James, whose home is in Pateau, was graduated last year from Haskell Institute, an Indian school in Lawrence, Kan. Gardner is from Bevington and was graduated last year from Bacone North Baptist School in Muskogee, Okla.

Both students are studying to be Presbyterian ministers and are taking the full seminary course with the exception of Hebrew.

Rain, Mud, Slush Reign as Kings Of Forecast

Don't be despondent, the worst is yet to come. No change of temperature is anticipated, and the same drizzle will reign over the kingdom of weather for several days to come, according to reports from the United States Weather Bureau in Austin. Mud three inches deep will at last change—but only to mud of six or seven inches.

The ice of the past few days seemed to arouse chivalry, and "helpful Henrys" were in abundance as fair damsels found themselves ungracefully in distress. Mud, however, is such a commonplace thing to prove the downfall of a fair lady that irreverent guffaws are the only things to greet the flying heels; and no one presses forward to proffer knightly aid even to the coughing, sniffling flu patients who have been driven out into the damp, cold world by the grim spectre of over-cutting. Individuals, weakened from a sojourn in bed, slip and slide dizzily through the slush, urged on by various people, luckier than themselves.

Evening prayers have a new closing line now, "—and please keep me from falling down" for fear of losing dignity or of running up huge cleaning bills with Christmas coming on is widespread.

Dormitories and Churches Make Christmas Offering

Residents of Littlefield Dormitory, Grace Hall, Woman's Building, and Scottish Rite Dormitory are making offerings of Christmas donations to be distributed to the poor of Austin during the holidays. The dormitory residents are cooperating with Austin organizations in helping the needy. Members of local churches in the University neighborhood are also participating in the drive for Christmas gifts for Austin's needy.

The girls of Littlefield Dormitory have already sent $10 and a big box of food and clothing to the families of the men that were injured and killed in the University construction work last fall. Miss Martha C. Lockett, social director of the dormitory, stated Wednesday.

Residents of Scottish Rite Dormitory held a Christmas party to which each girl brought a toy. These toys will be sent to children of needy families.

Girls living in Woman's Building will send gifts to the International Institute through the Y. W. C. A. after their Christmas party Tuesday.

Mrs. Pearl Chadwell, social director, said. Toys decorating the Christmas tree at Grace Hall will be sent to the Girls' Settlement Club. The girls will give the three to All Saints Sunday school after their Christmas party Monday night.

Gifts given by girls of Kirby Hall at their Christmas party Wednesday night will be sent to the Mexican settlement in Austin.

The ladies' organization of the University Church of Christ is gathering food and clothing to be given to needy families at Christmas, the Rev. T. H. Etheridge announced. The contributions are being stored in the basement of the church. Members of the committee in charge are Mrs. C. D. Steck and Mrs. R. A. Johns. The various societies of St. Martin's Lutheran Church are bringing in gifts to the poor during the Christmas holidays. The Rev. F. G. Roessner, said Thursday. Gifts of food and clothing are especially desirable, the Rev. Roessner said.

PROFESSORS PICK FAVORITE WORDS IN BEAUTY QUARREL

What are the ten most beautiful words in the English language?

Wilfred J. Funk, poet and publisher, in an International News Service feature, listed "dawn, hush, lullaby, murmuring, tranquil, luminous, golden, mist, melody, and chimes," as the words evoking the most beauty for him.

No sooner had Funk announced this list than it was attacked. "Dawn is like a dead cat," said Fannie Hurst. While Ring Lardner contributed such esoteric words as gangrene, serum, flit, and guzzle, according to the International News Service story.

In an attempt to find the ten most beautiful words, several professors of English in the University were solicited. The contributed as follows:

Dr. L. L. Click: "Wealthy widow" is the most beautiful word in the English language.

Dr. J. B. Wharey: "I see no particular beauty in the word 'mist,' as listed by Mr. Funk (the weather may have had something to do with Dr. Wharey's statement). 'Murmuring' is beautiful the sound of the word itself is filled with suggestion. 'Evening' may have been included in the list; it is as beautiful as some of the others. However, there seems to be a confusion here between the word itself and its suggestion. Of course there is no way to settle such questions."

Dr. Annie S. Irvine: "I can see no point in dissociating the actual sound of the spoken word from its connotation. Except to those who have a musical ear, the chief power of a word lies in its ability to suggest."

RAILROADS AND BUSES OFFER SPECIAL RATES

Railroad and bus line officials have announced holiday rates and schedules for students going home for the holidays.

The railroad will offer round-trip tickets to any points in Texas or Louisiana for 60 per cent of the regular fare. Fares on round-trips to other states will range from 75 per cent of one-way fare to one and one-third of the regular one-way fare. Tickets on the special rates will be sold beginning December 20, until December 25. The ticket is good until January 6.

The Greyhound Bus Line has a holiday rate of one-way fare plus 25 cents for round-trip tickets to any of their stations.

The Missouri-Pacific Railroad lines have the following schedule: northbound trains leave Austin at 10:10 o'clock in the morning, 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon, and 11 o'clock at night; southbound trains leave Austin at 5:55 o'clock in the morning, 1:55 o'clock and 5:20 o'clock in the afternoon.

The Missouri-Kansas-Texas lines have the following schedule: northbound trains leave Austin at 1:20 o'clock and 10:01 o'clock in the morning, and 3:35 o'clock in the afternoon; southbound trains leave Austin at 5:10 o'clock in the morning, and 3:15 o'clock and 5:35 o'clock in the afternoon.

The Greyhound Bus Line has the following schedule: northbound cars leave Austin at 2:45 o'clock, 6:50 o'clock and 10:45 o'clock in the morning, 1:15 o'clock and 3:18 o'clock in the afternoon, 6:50 o'clock and 9:45 o'clock in the evening; southbound cars leave Austin at 10 o'clock and 12 o'clock in the morning, 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and 10 o'clock at night.

LIBRARY REPRODUCTIONS USED AS CHRISTMAS CARDS

It has come to be a tradition that each year Mrs. W. H. Stark uses as Christmas greetings reproductions from her library. This year she published a portfolio of original unpublished poems by John Tennial, illustrator of "Alice in Wonderland," in commemoration of the Carroll Centennial. Miss Fannie Ratchford, librarian in the Wrenn Library, said.

Outer portfolio contains nine leaves. First are greetings, second, the title page on which is written "Bontines" by John Tennial.

niel," third is the foreword, an explanation of the drawings by Dr. Griffith. It also contains five large plate engraved reproductions of original unpublished drawings in the library. It is the best piece of graphic work in the State. It was designed by Charles C. Raines, a student in the University.

Last year Mrs. Stark used as Christmas greetings reproductions in facsimile of an unpublished autograph poem of Ralph Waldo Emerson which she has in her library.

PROFESSOR CLICK'S HOBBY IS INTEREST IN STUDENTS

Dr. L. L. Click, assistant dean of the College of Arts and Sciences and professor of English in the University, has no hobby unless a genuine interest in human beings may be considered one. In filling his deanship, Dr. Click has an opportunity to study human nature and to become acquainted with all types of individuals. Daily students bring their stories, poems and essays to him for criticism and encouragement. He receives all sorts of confidences and says in this connection, "Some of my students have even told me about their matrimonial difficulties." Dr. Click finds all students interesting, but those not at all intellectually curious are his biggest problem. "It is very fascinating to study the curves of their thinking," he comments. Recalling his experiences with a

Salary Warrants Issued to Faculty On Next Thursday

Pay checks to the faculty will be given out on December 22, C. H. Sparenberg, auditor, announced Thursday. This is the January 1 check which will be issued so the faculty may have the money to spend during the holidays.

Checks will be issued in the form of warrants which may be taken to the bank for loans at the regular rate of 8 per cent. For the last two months the warrants have been recalled about 45 days after they have been issued. This means that about 1½ per cent fee must be forfeited in order to get the warrant cashed at the time it is issued.

great number of individuals, Dr. Click adds, "according to culture, students may be divided into two groups, those trained in the old classical way and those who are products of the machine age. The former possess innately or have absorbed a certain refinement and love of the aesthetic; the latter go through the educational mill and emerge with only the necessary standardized equipment for life."

Dr. Click has come in contact with students from schools other than the University. He was born in Virginia, spent his childhood in Tennessee, and was educated at the University of Michigan. Before coming here, he taught at A. & M. College. Each summer for the past few years, he has been instructor at Our Lady of the Lake College, San Antonio. At present he teaches courses in short story writing, Nineteenth Century essays, and modern literature.

Group Will Have Party Saturday

Opera Company to Give Studio Night Program

The University Light Opera Company will present a studio night at the Curtin Club auditorium Saturday from 7:30 to 9:30 o'clock. There will be a program followed by a Christmas tree party at which Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus will present toys to all members. Toys which the members do not care to keep will be given to some charitable organization.

The following numbers will be presented on the program: "Goin' Home," New World Symphony, by Dvorak; Chorus; duets, "Barcarolle," Tales of Hoffman, by Offenbach; "The Virgin by the Manger," by Franck; Verlene Stringer and Antoinette Kuehn; dramatic skit, "Suicide," Jo Shofner, Henry Fullerton, Joe Munster; piano solos, "The First Noel," arrangement by Howard; "Prelude in C Minor," by Rachmaninoff, Clara Stearns; "Solos," "Total Eclipse," by Handel, "Wee Willie Winkle," Scotch folk song, Thomas Reid, director of the Light Opera Company; solo dance, "Pilgrims' Chorus," from "Tannhauser," by Wagner, "Hallelujah Amen," by Beethoven; chorus, Christmas carols, audience.

All members of the company must attend the Friday night rehearsal for important instructions regarding studio night, Peggy Ayer, reporter, said.

Banquet Given For Presbyterian Men

Dr. Lawrence H. Wharton, pastor of the University Presbyterian Church, spoke informally on "The Significance of Christmas" at the annual Christmas banquet for the men of the church last night. The banquet was given at the church. The toastmaster was Dr. Samuel L. Joekel of the Austin Presbyterian seminary staff; Dr. Thomas W. Currie, seminary president, offered the invocation; Mrs. LaVerne Nowotny directed informal stunts; and Walter E. Long, manager of the Austin Chamber of Commerce, introduced the guests.

Other numbers on the program included the presentation of a skit, "Twas the Night Before Christmas," a Christmas story read by Dr. J. B. Wharey, professor of English, singing of Christmas carols by the group, directed by Dr. Daniel A. Penick, professor of classical languages, and special Christmas selections sung by a quartet consisting of John McCurdy, Dr. Daniel A. Penick, and Misses Edleen Beggs and Louisa Roe.

their service, the only cost to the borrower being the payment of transportation charges, while the other two make only a very small charge. All of them work in cooperation with the libraries in the state and the library commissions, striving to avoid any duplication of service. All of them circulate package libraries.

Some of them carry additional services, such as plays, study outlines for women's clubs, reading courses, art prints, bibliographies, current fiction, and special technical libraries such as medical and dentistry books. Miss Dimmitt pointed out.

Returning to the discussion of the University loan library, Miss Dimmitt said:

Special Collection

"In this library there are more than 3,000 of what we call permanent package libraries, that is collections of materials on subjects for which there is the most demand and a demand which will last for a long time; such subjects as 'American Women Painters of Today,' 'Career of Ramsey MacDonald,' 'Child Labor,' 'Financing of State Highways,' 'Philippine Independence,' 'School Entertainments for Special Days,' and 'Texas Poets.' These are all assembled just ready to send out, though new articles are added if there is a new development of a subject.

"Then there are special collections made for use during one season only; such as the 250 package libraries on the Interscholastic League debate subject, the 80 packages on the artists represented in the Interscholastic League picture memory contest, and the 60 on the fire prevention essay topics suggested by the State Fire Insurance Department for use in public schools. There are more than 1,600 plays and more than 3,000 club study outlines in the library.

"But by far the largest part of our circulation consists of files of 100 magazines indexed in Reader's Guide to Periodicals from which pamphlets and bulletins and articles clipped from periodicals. It is from the last two sources that the hundreds of package libraries are assembled each year on subjects for which there is only a temporary demand, or subjects which are not of lasting interest; such subjects as 'American Business Troubles,'

Builders Blame Weather For Delay in Construction

Scheduled to be completed Thursday, December 1, the Geology Building will not be ready until January 1, A. G. Gardner, superintendent of construction, said yesterday afternoon. Delay in delivery of mill-work, and wainscoting for the lecture rooms has been the cause of building operations not being finished on time. The weather, also, which has been too wet for work to be done outside, and too cold to make much progress in the unheated interior, has had a part in the delay.

Mr. McMahon added that little work had been done on the building during the past week, as rain made it impossible to do any plastering, roofing, painting. Only the mechanical workers, plumbers, steam-fitters, and electricians have been able to continue their tasks unhampered.

However, Littlefield Memorial is nearing completion with the last of the bronze in place, and the last two car-loads of granite on a railroad siding, ready to be placed.

The Architecture Building, which as part of the Union unit will be one of the show places of the campus here, slate floors and marble bases have been laid; and cabinet and trim work been done.

Special Type Ceiling

In the Engineering Building, window guards have been set, oak floors and terrazzo laid. Terrazzo is a floor composition of cement and marble chips which is laid to harden and then be ground smooth. Storm and acoustical ceilings have been placed.

According to an explanation given by Mr. McMahon, a special type of ceiling is being used in the new buildings. In the Geology, Architecture, Home Economics buildings celotex is being used. Celotex is an acoustical ceiling substance which prevents echoes, and silences reverberations. Johns-Manville material for the same purpose, though less expensive, is being placed in the Library, Union Building, Hogg Memorial Auditorium, and Physics Building. A steel-lined room for generators has been completed in the Physics Building, and terrazzo floors have been laid in the stairways.

Terrazzo Floors Laid

In the Union Building the work done during the week has been the laying of terrazzo floors, placing of acoustical ceilings, and window sashes. Concrete forms for the tenth tier in the tower of the Library have been completed, and ventilating ducts have been installed.

Cement floors have been laid in the dressing rooms, and work on the framing of the proscenium arch around the stage has been done in the Auditorium.

The roofs, Mr. McMahon explained, will be of two kinds: Spanish and mission tile. The latter is considered the more artistic, since it has more variation in appearance. The roofs will be red, with four colors.

Motion picture projection equipment will be installed in the home economics, physics, geology and architecture buildings.

All that remains to be done on the Geology Building, under contract to Christy-Dolph of Dallas, is to finish glazing, lay tile floors in the rest rooms, set the seats in the lecture rooms, and do the rough grading around the building. Mr. Gardner, superintendent of the work, said late Thursday.

'Presidential Possibilities in the Democratic Party,' 'Problems Before Congress,' and 'Reduction of Cotton Acreage.'

"There are only about 2,300 books in the library, such as the reference shelf and the handbooks published by H. W. Wilson Company. This is not a book library and is not meant to take the place of one. If requests come to the extension loan library for subjects to be found in books or for specific books, they are referred to the State Library or to the University Library.

"During the year ending August 31, 1931, there were 28,394 package libraries containing 2,666 books, 3,570 club outlines, 5,604 plays, and 293,244 pamphlets and periodical articles sent to 1,147 Texas towns and rural communities in 248 counties. Of this number, 514 package libraries were used for individual information, 13,812 were used for school work, 11,840 were used for women's club study, and 2,228 were used by libraries to supplement their material.

Many Requests

"We receive a goodly number of requests from libraries, mostly the smaller public and school libraries. When librarians are in need of the type of material to be found in package libraries we are glad to have them call on us for anything not to be found in their own libraries. We want to help them, but we have no desire to interfere with their work in any way. We know that people sometimes resort to our service when they should have gone to their own public or school libraries. I recently sent out a letter telling what means we are taking to discourage this practice. We feel that by sending would-be borrowers to their home town libraries we are encouraging the development of the local library facilities. When we do this we are also preventing an unnecessary duplication of service. We have enough to do without trying to do the work of other libraries, and they would certainly have a right to resent it if we should attempt any such folly.

"The circulation of the extension loan library of The University of Texas grows much more rapidly than do the funds appropriated for its support. At the end of the first year in August, 1915, it had circulated more than 1,000 package libraries. Five years later, in 1920, the number had increased to more than 6,000 for the year; in 1925 to more than 17,000; in 1930 to more than 25,000; and during the year since then to more than 28,000. The large circulation and the many letters of appreciation received give evidence that the people desire the kind of information given them in package library form and that they appreciate this type of library extension service as much as any other."

hospital fee of $3. Board, lodging, and ward nursing at a hospital in case of necessity, not to exceed 10 days. Any reduction will be made only upon the recommendation of the Chief of the Health Service, with the approval of the President. These provisions apply for the relief of acute conditions only, and do not include special be conditioned upon radical reductions in European armaments and upon trade agreements favorable to the United States. It was also suggested that the debt funding commission should be set up again for the purpose of considering the interest rates and possibly for funding the interest which present and near future conditions may cause to be postponed.

"Most of the replies favoring collection stressed the idea that unless Europe paid the debts the burden would fall upon the American taxpayer. It also was pointed out that the moratorium of the past 12 months did not seem to improve international trade. The manner in which payments might be made without further disrupting international trade was not developed, however, in most cases.

"The possibility that the cancellation of the inter-governmental debts might lead to demand for similar treatments of private debts was pointed out.

Transfer Property

"One very interesting proposal, however, was made in connection with this problem. It was pointed out that the removal of inter-governmental debts is necessary as a means of restoring trade and raising commodity prices, but that cancellation is inexpedient from the political standpoint. To circumvent this difficulty without disturbing international trade, it was suggested that European possessions and properties in and adjacent to the Caribbean Sea, some of which are near to the Panama Canal Zone, might be transferred to the United States with the double advantage of disposing of the debts and removing a possible source of irritation as well as an expense to the United States in the form of maintenance of military defenses in Panama. At the same time the public could be satisfied in that payment of the debt was demanded and received."

lish-speaking countries of the world.

Stanley Royal Ashby was the first Rhodes scholar from Texas, and was a student in The University of Texas. Mr. Ashby going to Oxford in 1904, being one of the first 43 Rhodes scholars from America who entered in that year. He majored in English, and after graduation, returned to The University of Texas as an instructor in the department of English. Several years later he took his doctorate of philosophy degree from Harvard, and is now professor of English in the University of Maine.

Steger Becomes Publisher

The second Rhodes scholar from Texas was also a University student. Harry Peyton Steger went to Oxford in 1905, and remained there until 1908. Mr. Steger had pursued a classical course at The University of Texas and studied journalism at Oxford. On his return to the United States, he became connected with the Double Day Publishing Company of New York. He was a famous author, and in 1910 he was editor of the Short Story Magazine. As a New York editor, he was given credit for popularizing the Austin, Texas, author, O. Henry. Steger was killed in an automobile accident in New York a few years later.

After receiving his bachelor of arts degree from The University of Texas, Homer L. Bruce represented the University at Oxford in 1913. He is now a lawyer and lives in Houston.

Edward D. Woodruff entered Oxford in 1914, after receiving his bachelor of arts degree from the University. He is now practicing law in Brownwood.

Another was Elbert B. Naugle, who, after receiving his bachelor of arts degree from The University of Texas, entered Oxford in 1915. Mr. Naugle is now a banker in New York City.

Robert M. Field of San Antonio was the next University student to receive the Rhodes Scholarship. As a student in the University, Mr. Field was a member of Phi Beta Kappa, and a brilliant public speaker. He received his bachelor of arts degree from The University of Texas in 1920, and his bachelor of laws degree in 1921. Mr. Field did not remain at Oxford the entire three years, but returned to Texas and married. He is now practicing law in New York City.

Sledge Manages Estate

Three years later another Rhodes scholar was chosen from The University of Texas. Terrell Sledge, after receiving his bachelor of arts degree from the University of Oxford the same year. He stayed three years, and proved to be more affected by his sojourn in England than any of his predecessors. With his typically English accent and manner of dress, Mr. Sledge is now managing his father's estate in Kyle, Texas, in the true manner of an English squire.

Edward Otis Mather took his bachelor of arts degree from the University in 1927, with Phi Beta Kappa honors. He received the Rhodes Scholarship that year, and spent the next three years at Oxford. He returned and received his law degree from The University of Texas in June, 1931. While in the University Mr. Mather made three varsity letters in tennis, and was captain of that team his senior year. During his first year abroad he was chosen for the Oxford tennis team, and was also captain of The University of Texas team in 1931. Mr. Mather is now practicing law in Fort Worth.

The most recent scholar from The University of Texas is Robert Eikel, who entered Oxford this fall. Eikel received his bachelor of arts degree from the University in 1928, was a member of Phi Beta Kappa, and was president of the Students' Association that year. He entered the School of Law the next year, and received his bachelor of laws degree last June.

Rhodes Statesman, Explorer

Cecil John Rhodes, founder of the Rhodes Scholarship, was an English statesman and explorer, who did much toward the development of South Africa. One of Rhodes' characteristics was his ability to foresee great opportunities. He was a man with world vision, unselfish ambition, and great sympathies.

Mr. Rhodes died in Capetown, South Africa, March 26, 1902. His will, dated July 1, 1899, provided that $10,000,000 of his fortune should go to a fund for a number of scholarships at the University of Oxford. He directed that as recipients of these scholarships, two should be selected from each state and territory of the United States, fifteen from Germany, and one to nine from each of the British colonies, including Jamaica and the Bermudas.

In October, 1904, 72 Rhodes scholars entered Oxford: 43 were from American, 24 were colonials, and 5 were Germans. In 1906, and since then, the full number, 190, has been in attendance.

The central idea in endowing these scholarships was for the purpose of unity, as Mr. Rhodes explained in his will. He said, "I wish to encourage and foster an appreciation of the advantages which I implicitly believe will result from the union of the English-speaking people throughout the United States of North America, who will benefit from the American scholarships to be established for the reasons above given at the University of Oxford, under this, my will, an attachment to the country from which they have sprung, but without, I hope, withdrawing them or their sympathies from the land of their adoption or birth."

Scholarships for Peace

A logical question might arise as to why Mr. Rhodes wished to establish scholarships in Germany rather than in France, Russia, Japan, or other countries. In the main body of the will made in 1899, no provision was inserted for German scholarships. In 1901, this provision was attached: "I note the German emperor has made instruction in English compulsory in German schools. I leave five yearly scholarships at Oxford of $1250 per annum to students of German birth. . . . The object is that an understanding between the three great powers will render war impossible, and educational relations make the strongest tie."

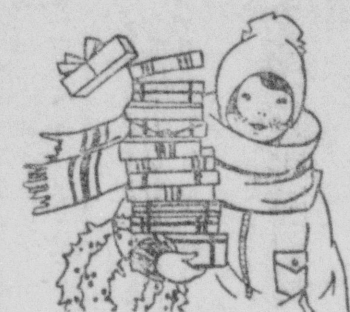

Another quotation from Mr.

Rhodes' will which reveals his opinion regarding the qualifications of the Rhodes scholars is as follows:

"My desire being that the students who shall be elected to the scholarship shall not be merely bookworms, I direct that, in the election of a student to a scholarship, regard be had to (1) his literary and scholastic attainments; (2) his fondness of and success in many outdoor sports, such as cricket, football, and the like; (3) his qualities of manhood, truth, courage, devotion to duty, sympathy for the protection of the weak, kindness, unselfishness, and fellowship; and (4) his exhibition during school days of moral force of character and of instincts to lead, and to take an interest in his schoolmates, for those latter attributes will be likely, in after life, to guide him to esteem and performance of public duties as his highest aim."

Rex Hopper, graduate student of the University and former missionary to South America, linked up the various religions already studied at a meeting of "procession of the gods," Y. W. C. A. discussion group Thursday at the home of Miss Margaret Peck, student life secretary for women.
