Rocky's Candidacy Spurs Comments By Local Politicos

Party Organization Leaders Reveal Varied Reactions To Candidate's Chances

By JERRY RUDES
Texan Staff Writer

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's decision to seek the Republican presidential nomination was met Tuesday with mixed reactions by political leaders in the University and Austin community.

Roy Wardell, president of the University Young Republicans, expressed personal support for Rockefeller but said "he will have an uphill fight for the nomination." Wardell believes Richard Nixon is picking up delegate strength steadily.

"Nixon almost has it sewn up," Wardell said.

YR Secretary Unpleased With Move

Patsy Wilkerson, secretary of the University YR group, said she was not pleased with Rockefeller's decision to enter the race.

"Nixon would be the best qualified, but he doesn't have the nomination yet," she said. Miss Wilkerson believes at present, however, Rockefeller would have a better chance of victory against the Democratic nominee.

Bruce Patrick, president of the University Young Republicans for Action, pledged his organization would work for any Republican nominee. He said he did not foresee a switch to Rockefeller because "Nixon is just too far ahead."

"Rockefeller, so far, hasn't shown a winning attitude," Patrick said.

Entry Called 'Healthy Sign'

Dr. David Edwards, assistant professor of government, said Rockefeller's entry is a healthy sign for the Republican Party since "greater discussion within the parties, as well as between them, is desirable."

Dr. Edwards said he looks forward to Rockefeller's position on Vietnam, as are "many Americans who are going to be rethinking out their own position." Dr. Edwards believes politics and political attitudes are beginning to crest in a shift of public attitudes.

"The wide acceptance of Eugene McCarthy's program is proof of this," he said.

Dr. James R. Roach, professor of government, said Rockefeller would attract many moderates and conservatives who "just couldn't vote for Nixon again." Dr. Roach said Rockefeller's initial hesitation about entering the race was probably disposed of when President Lyndon B. Johnson announced he would not run for a second term.

Frank C. Erwin Jr., Democratic national committeeman from Texas, welcomed Rockefeller's decision as healthy because it offers the Republicans "an additional choice they didn't have."

"It never has bothered me to see the Republicans fighting each other anyway," said Erwin.

Chances of Nomination 'Very Slim'

Jack Cox said Rockefeller's chances for the nomination are "very, very slim." Cox was the 1962 Republican gubernatorial candidate and is now chairman of the Sen. John Tower favorite son organization.

Cox said if Tower were the favorite son to the convention, the Texas delegation would be uncommitted "to use its strength for the best purpose of Texas and the nation."

Will Davis, State Democratic chairman, said Rockefeller's decision was of no real concern to him now. He said, "We try to stay out of their business."

Peter O'Donnell Jr., State Republican chairman, said in an Associated Press story Tuesday Rockefeller's action came as no surprise to him.

"I had thought all along it would be an open convention," he said.

Cheerleader Contestants To Be Judged Next Week

Varsity Cheerleader tryouts will be held next Tuesday and Wednesday in Gregory Gym, with preliminary judging to begin at 4 p.m. Tuesday by a panel of six judges.

Eight women and eight men will be named finalists. The Longhorn Band will make the final selection of four men and four women cheerleaders Wednesday.

Present cheerleaders will organize and direct practice sessions at 3 p.m. Sunday and 8 p.m. Monday in Gregory Gym. Qualifications for cheerleader are:

- One semester completed at the University.
- 2.125 Grade Point Average, based on

And the Hunt Goes On

Donna Melton (l), and Debbie Turberville thumb through the yellow pages in search for additional apartment prospects. Many University students are in the process of hunting for summer and fall housing. Apartments are becoming harder to find as complexes gain in popularity with students and the trend is to move away from dormitory living.

Rockefeller Announces He Will Seek Republican Nomination in 1968 Race

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, reversing his previous position, threw himself into contention Tuesday for the Republican presidential nomination and vowed to fight Richard M. Nixon for it, "right up to the last vote."

"I now commit myself to seeking this office—and so serve our nation—with all my heart and mind and will," he said.

Rockefeller's expressions ranged from jaded determination to breezy optimism as he made his announcement and then replied to questions in a news conference. Just 40 days ago, in another news conference, the New York Governor took himself out of the race for the nomination.

'Giving an Option'

In a conversation at his official residence later, Rockefeller said to a reporter, "The country has changed. Never in history has so much changed in five weeks. Now I am giving the people an option."

In a statement which he read before the questioning began, he set forth four reasons for reversing himself:

- "... the gravity of the crises that face us as a people."
- His conviction that "to comment from the sidelines is not an effective way to present the alternatives."
- He said many persons, "within the Republican Party and outside it," urged him to get in the fight.
- "Personally, I am deeply disturbed by the course of events, growing unrest and anxiety at home, and the signs of disintegration abroad."

Promised to Answer Party Call

On March 21, when Rockefeller said he would not contend for the nomination, he said he would answer "any true and meaningful call" from his party.

Asked if he now has heard that call, he replied, "I think the draft is really—I would say has been the result of events."

His supporters said this refers primarily to President Lyndon B. Johnson's announcement that he would not seek re-election.

Republican leaders across the nation welcomed Rockefeller into the presidential race.

Many felt he would not be able to overcome Richard M. Nixon's lead. Some wondered how Rockefeller's action will affect Gov. Ronald Reagan of California, who so far is only a favorite-son candidate.

'More Exciting Convention'

Nixon himself said Rockefeller's active candidacy will "make for a more exciting convention and will result in a more meaningful discussion of the issues."

"He can conduct a very vigorous campaign from his strong position as Governor of New York, but I think I'll win the nomination," said Nixon, who was in Harrisburg, Pa., conferring with Gov. Raymond P. Shafer.

Reagan said in Sacramento that Rockefeller's action does not change his own position that he is not a candidate and cannot foresee any change before convention time.

The California Governor said, however, that Rockefeller's entry helps assure that no candidate will lock up with the nomination before the national convention.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination asked: "Do I have to comment every time he comes in or out? Rocky has been more difficult to pin down on issues. But then, Nixon used to be more decisive and more firm than he is now."

Party Given Choice

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., also running for the Democratic nomination, said: "Obviously, it gives the Republican Party a choice, and that's good. It's a matter for the Republicans and I'm not going to have anything further to say on it."

Funeral Services Set for Joe Nobis

Funeral services for Joe Nobis, 19-year-old University freshman (football player who drowned Monday below Mansfield Dam, will be at 3 p.m. Wednesday in Alamo Funeral Chapel in San Antonio.

Nobis is the brother of all-pro linebacker of the Atlanta Falcons and Texas ex, Tommy Nobis.

"We're stunned, saddened, and words come hard," said Darrell Royal, athletic director and head football coach.

Charles Copeland, a member of the group of 10 football players on the lake outing with Nobis, said four of them were dam sliding on Mansfield Dam. They saw six freshman jump into the water and noticed that Nobis was one of them.

University football players have had Monday afternoons off during spring football training.

"Joe was swimming behind the others. I was helping them out of the water and onto the dam, when I noticed Joe swimming back," Bob White said.

"I didn't think anything about it at the time and then someone yelled to look at Joe. He was bobbing in the water. I started swimming toward him and was about 20 yards away when he went under."

"We searched the area but couldn't find him. The police came and sent a diver down to find the body." The body was found in 25 feet of water about three hours after the accident.

Justice of the Peace Buck Smith ruled accidental death by drowning.

Nobis suffered a knee injury last fall and underwent an operation. On the first day of spring training he injured a shoulder and had not worked out since.

"Joe was a good player and good defensive end. He was a fine boy in every respect," Billy Ellington, assistant coach, said Tuesday.

Nobis was in the College of Arts and Sciences. He had not declared a major.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Nobis of San Antonio, Nobis was selected an all-city and all-district football player at Thomas Jefferson High School. He was captain of the team and was voted Most Valuable Player his senior year.

Football workouts for Wednesday afternoon have been cancelled.

Says Groups' Registration Void

By BOB
Texan Staff

Several student organizations, including groups face the loss of University registered status unless "off-campus" affiliates are removed from their roles, the Committee on Student Organizations reiterated Tuesday.

The organizations will have until May 25 to comply with the ruling that states "A student organization which has as its membership other organizations or representatives of other organizations is not registered with the Committee on Student Organizations."

Earlier this year, the CSO ruled that any organization which did not register would not be recognized by the University and would not be allowed to use University facilities.

Must Submit Information

To register, organizations must submit their charters, or purpose of intent to the CSO. They must also state that they will comply with the University rules and list their officers and faculty sponsor.

Organizations which are composed of representatives of other organizations have registered, but may still be removed if the organizations which are now "off-campus" do not register.

The organizations which will be affected in that way are the Panhellenic Council, Inter-Cooperative Council, Presidents Council of Sororities, Interclub Council, and the Professional Fraternity Council.

Some Groups May Comply

Dr. Edwin Price, dean of Student Activities, said the Presidents Club and the Inter-Fraternity Council are in the process of complying with the ruling. The other organizations must make a choice of going off campus or removing the members which represent organizations that are not registered with the CSO.

Parents to Dedicate ROTC Browning Room

Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Browning, parents of the first University ROTC graduate killed in action, will dedicate the Browning Cadet Brigade Room in the ROTC Building at 11:30 a.m. Thursday.

William J. Browning, a Distinguished Military Graduate of the University, was in the first commissioned ROTC class in 1949.

The first lieutenant was killed in Korea in December 1950 while acting as a forward observer for the fifty-seventh field artillery battalion. The dedication is sponsored by the US Army ROTC Cadet Brigade.

The Brownings live in Winnsboro.

LBJ Recommends Passage Of 'Paper Gold' System

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Lyndon B. Johnson launched a drive Tuesday for a quick US ratification of a plan for paper gold—the first basic change in international currency in more than two decades.

In a special message to Congress, Johnson said the United States, as a leader in the five years of negotiations which led to the plan, should be one of the first nations to ratify it.

He called the plan a landmark and a historic step and said failure to approve it "could turn the clock backward to the dark days of restrictive economic policies, narrow interests, empty ports and idle men."

If ratified by 65 nations with an 80 per cent weighted vote in the International Monetary Fund, the agreement will represent the first basic change in IMF operations since the Fund was established by the Bretton Woods conference of 1944.

The new money would take the form of a bookkeeping entry on government and IMF books and would be called officially a Special Drawing Right, or SDR, in the Fund. Individual citizens would never see it.

It would be created when and as needed to supplement conventional world money—gold, dollars and British pounds—and the United States would receive one-fourth of any money created.

The Administration looks for adoption of the plan by Congress this year.

"We believe this will be greeted well in Congress and have indications of that from both sides of the aisle," said White House aide Joseph Califano.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler is scheduled to appear Wednesday before the House Banking Committee to urge adoption of the plan.

Johnson coupled his request for the new money with a fresh appeal to Congress to approve the 10 per cent tax surcharge which he called "the best investment America can make to keep the dollar strong."

Five Applications Filed for TSP Posts

Five students filed for two Texas Student Publications positions Tuesday. The TSP Board will decide appointments Monday.

Leslie Donovan and Larry Upshaw applied for managing editor of The Summer Texan. Ronald K. McCraw, Joy K. Stapp, and Joan L. Willis applied for associate editor of the Cactus.

Miss Donovan, present amusements editor of the Texan, has served as a news assistant and amusements editor of the New Students and Round-Up editions of The Daily Texan.

Upshaw has been assistant sports editor, sports editor, and Round-Up Edition editor.

Ronald McCraw has worked on the Cactus for two years as a staffer and as Military Section editor. He has maintained a 1.9 GPA with 51 hours completed.

Miss Stapp, Organizations Section editor, has served as a Cactus staffer one year.

Miss Willis has been a Cactus staffer one year. She has served as Organizations Section editor, and Sorority Section editor.

apply to organizations will be mailed to registered organizations.

The Panhellenic Council, composed of representatives from all social sororities, will be affected by the ruling since the social sororities chose not to register.

Use of Union Permitted

The Union facilities are not under the direction of the CSO. Non-registered organizations may use these facilities.

The CSO also registered the Association of Teaching Assistants, Baha'i Association and the Mathematics Club, new University organizations.

The question of who will be allowed to use the Intramural fields is still being studied.

New York Police Arrest Students In Columbia Sit-In

NEW YORK (AP) — New York City police stormed five occupied Columbia University buildings in the dead of night Tuesday and broke up a week-long student sit-in, which had paralyzed the Ivy League campus.

"We anticipate a full schedule of classes Wednesday," a university spokesman announced.

Even as he spoke, however, undergraduate militants sought to promote an all-out strike of students and faculty. Their target was Grayson Kirk, Columbia president, who called in the police to smash the disruptive demonstration.

President Asked to Resign

Groups roamed the littered uptown Manhattan campus, shouting, "Kirk must go, Kirk must go!"

Kirk said he had no intention of resigning.

In the club swinging, fist fighting, pushing and kneeling that marked the violent subjugation of the Columbia demonstrators, 100 youths and 15 policemen were reported injured, none seriously. There were 628 arrests, on charges of trespassing.

The early morning assault against the barricaded and occupied buildings turned the once-placid Morningside Heights campus into a dark and seething uproar of students, who bled, wept, screamed and denounced police as "Fascists."

There were complaints of police brutality against the 600 to 700 students whose sit-ins began April 23. Columbia has an enrollment of 25,381.

Brutality Charged

New York Times reporter Bob Thomas said he had been severely beaten by police, and added: "I observed some really savage beatings given to students."

David B. Truman, the university's vice-president, conceded the occupied buildings could not be retaken "without some roughing up."

However, City Human Rights Commissioner William H. Booth watched the removal of about 100 Negro demonstrators from Hamilton Hall, and said he saw no police brutality. Most of the Negroes walked out as directed, their hands in the air.

Police Commissioner Howard R. Leary congratulated his policemen on "an excellent job." However, Mayor John V. Lindsay asked Leary for a report on the brutality charges.

Lindsay Makes Statement

Lindsay said in a statement: "Regardless of the merits of their cause, a few hundred students cannot be allowed to impose their will on a university of some 20,000 students through destructive, illegal tactics..."

"Only after a remarkable display of patience and restraint did the university file criminal charges of trespass and formally request the New York City police to remove the students who had taken over school buildings. Once the charges were filed, the police had no choice under the law but to arrest and remove the trespassing students."

Kirk's office in the Low Memorial Library had been occupied since the beginning of the demonstration. Students left it with cigarette - charred rugs, overturned desks and chairs and a litter of blankets and half-consumed fruit.

In other occupied buildings, furniture was overturned or broken, and empty whiskey and wine bottles left behind. In Mathematics Hall, someone had painted on the walls: "Lenin Won! Fidel Won! We Will Win!"

The demonstrations were sponsored by white Students for a Democratic Society and black Students for an Afro-American Society.

Communists Commit Mass Executions

SAIGON

Enemy troops executed more than 1,000 persons, burying some alive and shooting or beheading others, while they occupied Hue in February, the US Embassy reported Tuesday.

Most of the victims were South Vietnamese, but they also included two French priests, three South Koreans, and a Hong Kong Chinese who was a British subject, the Embassy said.

"Many had been shot, some beheaded," said the Embassy report. "Most were found with hands bound behind their backs."

"Evidence also was discovered of victims having been clubbed unconscious prior to being buried alive."

In all, 19 mass graves were found in and around Hue, the Embassy said. The largest grave contained 201 bodies.

Rockefeller Leads Write-ins in Primary

BOSTON

Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York made a surprisingly strong showing Tuesday in the Massachusetts presidential primary, leading the write-in candidates on the day he announced his candidacy.

On the Democratic ballot, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., whose name alone was on the ballot made his expected showing, getting a majority of the preference votes.

Rockefeller ran well ahead of former Vice-President Richard M. Nixon in the write-ins.

McCarthy, the only one of the presidential candidates to make any campaign effort in Massachusetts, polled an easy majority of the preference votes of the Democrats, topping even native son Sen. Robert F. Kennedy of New York, and Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey.

Infection Possibly Caused by Food

BOULDER, Colo.

Contaminated food may have triggered the epidemic of strep infection that struck about 1,000 cadets at the US Air Force Academy, Dr. Roy Cleere, director of the Colorado Health Department, said Tuesday.

Meanwhile, anti-biotic shots were ordered for the unaffected members of the 3,100-man cadet wing to prevent further spread of the epidemic, which Academy doctors said attained "serious proportions" before it apparently started to wane Tuesday.

Classes were to remain suspended for the third day Wednesday on and near the Academy grounds, providing a holiday for about 3,650 school children and 188 teachers. The continued suspension is a precautionary measure, an Academy spokesman said.

Wallace Backer to Oppose Fulbright

LITTLE ROCK

The head of the George Wallace presidential campaign in Arkansas filed Tuesday to oppose Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., and his wife entered the Democratic governor's race.

The twin filing by Jim Johnson and his wife, Virginia, overshadowed an announcement only moments earlier by former Gov. Sid McMath that he did not plan to run for the Senate, ending speculation that the Vietnam hawk would take on Fulbright.

Johnson was the 1966 Democratic gubernatorial nominee and lost to Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, a Republican.

Mrs. Johnson campaigned extensively for her husband in 1966, making appearances at rallies and on television. She is believed to be the first woman to file for governor in Arkansas.

Florida Approves Riot Control Funds

TALLAHASSEE, Fla.

A $100,000 appropriation to buy riot control equipment, dubbed a license for "gunning down of black children, women, and men in the streets" by a civil rights leader, was approved by Florida's State Cabinet Tuesday.

The $100,000 appropriation is to be used to purchase shotguns and ammunition, billy sticks, chemical Mace, tear gas bombs, and protective helmets for nearly 1,000 state policemen, including members of the Highway Patrol and specially trained agents of the Board of Conservation and the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission.

US Servicemen Leave Germany

WASHINGTON

The Pentagon announced Tuesday that 6,000 American servicemen and 2,000 dependents have been brought home from West Germany as part of a shuffling of forces committed to Europe's defense.

Another 27,000 military personnel plus 13,000 dependents are due to be redeployed to the United States by next Sept. 30.

The Pentagon figures that home-basing of the troops will save the US Treasury about $75 million a year.

Although the forces and aircraft will be based in this country, they remain committed to NATO and will be kept in high readiness, the Pentagon emphasized. There still will remain about 212,000 US servicemen in West Germany.

Negotiations Resume in Bell Strike

WASHINGTON

Formal negotiations in the nationwide telephone strike resumed Tuesday for the first time since the 13-day-old walkout began, and prospects were reported hopeful for an agreement within 24 hours.

"We are now seeing eye to eye on wage level which the union can live with," Joseph A. Beirne, president of the striking AFL-CIO Communications Workers said of talks with the Bell System.

"I am even hopeful that final agreement can be reached shortly," he said, but added that the approximately 200,000 strikers would have to ratify any new contract before the strike could end.

The union, before the strike began, rejected a wage offer which company officials said was worth 5.6 per cent a year. The Bell System said at the time that the union was demanding 7.8 per cent a year.

Campaign for Poor Reaches US Leaders

WASHINGTON (AP) — Representatives of the Poor People's Campaign calling on some of the most powerful men in government continued to get red carpet treatment Tuesday, but their leader insisted: "We don't just want sympathy, we want action."

Taking stock on the campaign's second day, the Rev. Ralph Abernathy assured his followers that polite receptions and declarations of good intentions won't sway him.

The plan is still to bring thousands of poor persons to Washington, he said, to camp here and apply mounting pressure to the governmental apparatus until the lot of America's poor improves dramatically.

"They were concerned about our demonstrations," Abernathy said after a round of conferences. "We made it clear we intend to conduct non-violent peaceful demonstrations. We also made it very clear to them that we are leaders of a revolution that is taking place in this country today."

Abernathy spent 90 minutes with Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., and Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois.

"We had a very friendly and, I thought, very constructive meeting," Dirksen said.

"They explained their aims," Mansfield said, adding "There were no threats, no demands." But not all of the high level officials called on were dealt with so gently. Some were treated to right-between-the-eyes language.

Explanations of the complexity of the legislative process or the difficulty of getting funds seldom got far.

Israelis, Arabs Exchange Fire

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli and Jordanian soldiers exchanged machine-gun fire for an hour Tuesday near the southern tip of the Negev Desert in one of two clashes reported by Israeli army spokesmen.

The Israelis said the gun battle broke out when Arabs opened fire on Israeli positions.

There were no Israeli casualties reported in the fighting.

An Israeli army spokesman also said there was a clash near Ummsur, in the occupied west bank on the Jordan River ceasefire line with no Israeli casualties reported.

Despite the persistent clashes along the cease-fire lines, Defense Minister Moshe Dayan said Tuesday that Israel and the Arabs are closer to a "no-fighting" relationship than at any time.

Eisenhower Hit By Third Attack

MARCH AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower has suffered a mild heart attack and probably will be hospitalized here for several weeks, the base said Tuesday.

Eisenhower was brought here Monday suffering from chest pains, and the announcement at an afternoon briefing that he had suffered a "myocardial infarction" was the first word on the seriousness of his illness.

When his condition permits, Eisenhower will be transferred to Walter Reed Army Hospital in Washington. He had been due to return to his home at Gettysburg, Pa., in a few days.

"He has had a good day with no chest pain," the hospital bulletin said. "Blood pressure has remained normal. He has no fever."

Two heart specialists were flown here from Walter Reed late Monday night.

Earlier, the hospital said Eisenhower was resting comfortably and in "excellent spirits."

The 77-year-old soldier-statesman played golf Monday morning at his winter home at Palm Desert, 40 miles south of March AFB. After the heart attack, he canceled an appointment for a visit from King Olav of Norway and called for his doctors.

After examining him at home, they ordered him flown here by helicopter.

Allies Battle Regulars In Costly Encounters

SAIGON (AP) — Allied forces fought North Vietnamese regulars in savage battles costly to both sides south of the Demilitarized Zone for the second straight day, military spokesmen reported Wednesday.

Fighting broke out Tuesday below the eastern flank of the zone separating North and South Vietnam. Three battles erupted around Dong Ha, 11 miles south on the DMZ, and a fourth near Quang Tri City, eight miles farther south.

Allied spokesman reported 203

North Vietnamese killed in the latest fighting. They listed 27 Americans killed and 219 wounded, and six South Vietnamese killed and 17 wounded.

Troops Sweeping Strongholds

The heavy fighting in the northeast corner of South Vietnam near the South China Sea coast took attention away from the A Shau Valley, where US air cavalrymen and South Vietnamese troops were sweeping North Vietnamese strongholds. Light resistance was reported by the South Vietnamese.

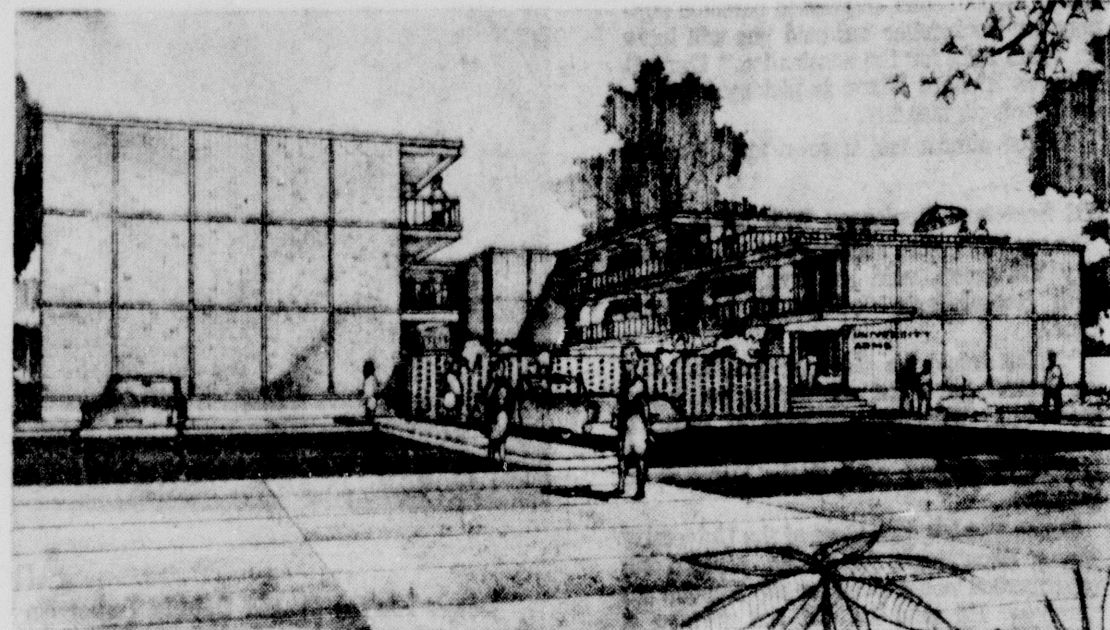

In the largest engagement below the DMZ, South Vietnamese forces reported killing 100 North Vietnamese Tuesday near Dong Ha in the same battle sector where allied units claimed 130 enemy dead the day before.

Ambush Attempted

Another North Vietnamese battalion attempted to ambush other Third Division Marines near Dong Ha. The Marines discovered the ambush before it could be sprung and called in artillery fire on the enemy positions.

New Heart Floods Lungs of Patient

PARIS (AP) — A 66-year-old French grandfather, the oldest man to undergo a heart transplant, died Tuesday when the strong young heart placed in his chest flooded his lungs with blood, according to an autopsy report.

Clovis Roblain died Tuesday 51½ hours after he received a new heart. Dr. Christian Cabrol, who headed the transplant team, said the autopsy showed he "had a deficient circulatory system and because he had remained in bed for so long he had numerous clots in his veins."

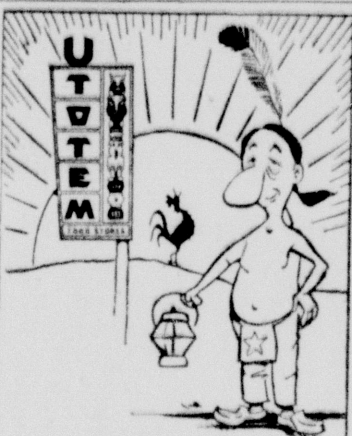

"When a new and vigorous heart propelled a normal circulatory flow, it swept away all the clots and completely flooded his lungs," Cabrol said.

Dr. Maurice Mercadier, chief of surgery at La Pitie Hospital where Roblain underwent the nine-hour operation Saturday night, said earlier that the retired truck driver had succumbed to an insufficient flow of blood to the brain.

No immediate explanation was given how the autopsy results could be reconciled with the explanation of death given by Mercadier, who did not participate in the operation but was spokesman for the team.

Roblain never regained consciousness after the operation. Doctors gave Roblain, who suffered a cardiac attack last year, the heart of Michel Gyppez, a 23-year-old metal worker who died Friday of brain injuries suffered in an auto collision.

Connally's Support Intimated by Locke

By WILLIAM OPPEL
Assistant Managing Editor
(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of articles explaining the issue orientations of the declared candidates for the governorship of Texas.)

Eugene Locke, Democratic candidate for governor, said Tuesday he would vote for the liquor-by-the-drink and against the horse racing referendums in Saturday's primary election.

Locke made his remarks on KLRN's television program "Meet the Candidates."

Calling the present liquor laws hypocritical, Locke said he was the only candidate to support liquor-by-the-drink on a local option basis over the state.

Would Need Higher Fees

He said he would, if elected, couple such a law with a provision requiring higher license fees for persons who sell liquor with the increased revenues going to liquor control officers.

Locke said he was opposed to open saloons in Texas.

Although he voiced disapproval of the referendum on part-mutual betting, he said he would accept the democratic will of the people, indicating he would sign such a bill if the people of Texas wanted it.

"Such a bill would have controls against letting any criminal element into the state," Locke said. "J. Edgar Hoover says that such a bill can be written."

Has Governor's Support

Locke strongly hinted that he has the support of Gov. John Connally in his gubernatorial campaign.

"Although Gov. Connally has not endorsed anyone, there is no doubt in my mind where he stands," Locke said.

Locke named two sisters and two brothers of the Governor who are presently working in Locke's campaign.

Locke told the trio of newsmen interviewing him on the television program that Connally once said Locke "would make a great governor." Locke also said the Governor declined to make that statement about any other candidate.

The Democratic candidate said he would place the greatest emphasis of his administration on vocational and technical education. "I want to fit the man without a job to the job without the man," Locke said.

Spending Not Excessive

The Democratic hopeful said the money he has spent so far in the campaign, $517,000 according to his estimate, was not excessive.

Although an Associated Press report issued last Monday listed Locke and Dolph Briscoe as the top two spenders in the race, Locke said he felt some of the other candidates have spent more than he has.

"I do not have more billboards than the other candidates have. I have had one 30-minute television program while some of the other candidates have had two. Many of the other candidates have had more television spot announcements and I have not had nearly the letter writing campaign that some of my opponents have had," Locke said.

He said he was also "way behind" in newspaper advertising but perhaps a little ahead in radio announcements. He said, however, that radio was not as expensive a media.

Although he said he "would take a back seat to no one" as being a hard-working Democrat, he hedged on the question of whether he would support the Democratic presidential nominee saying he would "cross that bridge when I come to it."

Chilean Poetry Called Great Folk Expression

Students Enjoy Fine Cuisine At 'La Piccola Italia' Dinner

La Piccola Italia (Little Italy) was recreated Tuesday night in the Ichthus Room of the Methodist Student Center as 65 Italian club members and faculty tasted authentic Italian cuisine.

The third annual dinner, prepared by Mrs. Valeria Furino, instructor in Romance languages and sponsor of the club, was served in five parts. Soothing background music and candlelit tables combined with brightly colored travel posters on the walls reflected the blend of Italian culture and frivolity.

"I would like to be able to communicate to our students the enthusiasm, the gaiety of living of the Italians through the expression of some of their favorite dishes; so here is my version of an Italian meal. It is more than the ingredients that go into the dishes served," Mrs. Furino said.

"It is a tradition of taste and sophisticated culinary art, guided by the joy of living which permeates the Italian people."

Antonio Furino, economics professor at St. Edwards University and the sponsor's husband, said that few restaurants outside major US cities serve authentic Italian food. "The food served in Austin Italian restaurants tastes good—but is not real Italian food," he said.

Guests were greeted by Darlene Travis, treasurer, and Charles Gouge, president, who donned traditional Italian host outfits.

Mrs. Furino explained that at least one of the three colors of the Italian flag (green, white, and red) is represented in every regional costume.

The costumes were flown in for the event by the trade commissioner of the Italian Embassy in Washington.

Bidding farewell to graduating club members, Mrs. Furino reminded them of the symbolic meanings of the flag's colors. "Green is for the beautiful meadows, white for the snow-capped Alps, and red for the love and passion of the Italian people," she said.

Accompanied by pianist Bruce

McDonald, soloist Sue Brown, a graduate student in music, sang three Italian pieces: "Non So Più" by Mozart, "Ah, Non Credea" by Bellini, and "Musetta's Waltz" by Puccini.

Reflecting the generosity of the Italian people, about 10 door prizes were awarded.

At the first drawing host Gouge drew his own ticket. The predominantly American audience exhibited its skepticism with a round of hissing. He pocketed the prize nevertheless.

Three drawings later he asked a member of the audience to suggest a number. Looking the other way and reaching into the paper bag, he produced the requested stub.

Women Enter Spring Training

Spring training at the University has a feminine counterpart this year.

An exercise and conditioning program offered for faculty and staff women has brought 75 professors, stenographers, lab assistants, and researchers out of their offices and into the Women's Gym.

"We hope to give a comprehensive exercise program which can be followed at home," Miss Dorothy Burdeshaw, an associate professor of physical training, said.

The women's physical training department decided to offer the free sessions after numerous requests, Miss Burdeshaw explained.

The 30-minute workouts are divided into three parts—stretching, strengthening, and endurance.

Because the group of women covers such a wide age range, 18 to 60, each participant is encouraged to progress at her own speed. When an exercise seems too effortless, the instructor suggests ways to make it more effective. During each session new exercises are introduced.

Each conditioning period ends with rapid walking and jogging

"which is by far the best exercise for general weight reduction," Miss Burdeshaw said.

In an age of dropouts, Miss Burdeshaw and her fellow instructors, Miss Patricia Weis and Miss Carolyn Hewatt, thought it noteworthy that more women came to the second session than attended the first.

The workouts are held during the lunch hour on Monday and Wednesday and after working hours on Tuesday and Thursday. The program will continue through May 16.

International Club To Hold Elections

The International Club, association of American and foreign students at the University, will hold its election of officers at 7 p.m. Wednesday in Union Building 304-305.

Candidates for president are David Dlouhy, an American student, and Paul Anaejionu, a Nigerian. Miriam Riskind is the only declared candidate for secretary and Jamie Adams is the only person seeking the treasurer's post.

Professor to Lecture On Vertebrate Evolution

Dr. A. S. Romer, emeritus professor of zoology at Harvard University, will lecture on vertebrate evolution at 4 p.m. Wednesday in the Academic Center Auditorium.

Dr. Romer is also past president of the American Society of Zoologists and past president of the International Congress of Zoologists. His lecture is sponsored by the Department of Zoology.

Removal of Greeks Double Death Blow

The removal of Greek organizations from campus is like a duel in which both men die.

Almost certainly, the one major consideration keeping the Greeks from seeking to register as official organizations is the statement they must sign saying they are non-discriminatory.

The sorority and fraternity system will die, just as the days of the Southern gentlemen died because they were not able to change with the times. They were not able to adjust, to modify restrictions, to look into the future and live in the present.

A new Greek system based on non-discriminatory policies now seems to be impossible judging from both national and local chapters.

This is a lamentable fact.

For here at the University, the Greek system was a strong and active force—a group that was doing things.

With the Greeks off-campus, who will work in raising funds for Campus Chest? Who will offer such projects as Varsity Carnival for scholarship funds? These were only two of their service activities.

Besides, though the system may not be for everyone, it does offer a recognition, a group atmosphere, a place to find friends, a social organization, and a cozier atmosphere that many people need to survive this highly de-personalized University complex.

The Greek system has its failings. It tends to breed a type of snobbery, but probably only if that snobbery is already in existence. It dictates too many decisions to its members, taking away individuality.

But all in all, the University will suffer when the Greeks are removed from participation in campus activities.

The move by the Committee on Student Organizations was a death blow to the Greek system. But at the same time, it was a death blow to many of the fine traditions and services the Greeks have performed on this campus.

Who's Yelling Wolf?

From The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

According to Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, Selective Service director, if 200,000 more troops are needed in Vietnam that, unless the Reserves are called up, it would probably mean that some college students would be drafted. At present, undergraduates, who are doing satisfactory work, are deferred.

Last month, President Lyndon B. Johnson ordered a serious change in student status by ending deferments for some graduate students. College administrators claim that this decision will cut next year's college graduate program by 40 per cent and that next year's draftees will be made up primarily of college graduates.

Gen. Hershey believes that the college administrators are calling "wolf" and that the graduate schools will somehow miraculously be able to survive despite the loss of 40 per cent of the students.

Perhaps, the schools can survive for a while but, with the possible callup of undergraduates, what is the nation to do about the intellectual drain—run itself with the aid of History 100 and English 112?

"Okay, Doc, I Won't Listen To Any More Political Announcements Without Wearing A Seat Belt"

Notable Impact

Reagan's 'Revolution' Means Civil Freedom

By E. J. ENGLER

The rise of California Gov. Ronald Reagan as a major national figure constitutes one of the most remarkable stories in the annals of American politics. Few office-holders have achieved so broad a following or so notable an impact on the public mind in so brief a span of time.

In December, 1966, Reagan was still a private citizen of California. By December, 1967, he had become one of the three or four key spokesmen of the national Republican Party, was considered a leading contender for its presidential nomination, and had at one point actually passed the incumbent President of the United States in the popularity ratings compiled by the Harris and Gallup polls.

Political talk makes frequent use of the word "revolution." It can be and is employed to describe almost any kind of political change. To assert that Reagan is in the vanguard of a revolution, therefore, means little unless we specify what we are talking about, and back it with evidence.

It is a revolution in ideas—and a revolution in political power. It is also, in some part, a revolution in the way ideas are conveyed and political power is mobilized. And in each case, the leadership role assumed by Reagan is apparent.

In essence, this is a revolution for freedom—for the right of the individual to go about his business in everyday life, earn his living, build his home, educate his children. It is a revolution against government controls, heavy taxes, inflation, rampant crime and expanding welfare. It is a revolution against the welfare state.

Reagan's stated views over the past several years have covered almost every major issue confronting the American people: the farm program (he calls it a classic example of federal inefficiency); Social Security (he says it should be made actuarially sound); urban renewal (he cites chapter and verse on the inequities and mistakes of federal planners); the war on poverty (he points out that most of the money has gone to politicians); welfare (he cites abuses of ADC programs).

In voicing his opposition to federal welfare, Reagan asserts that the private enterprise economy supplies the best answers to problems of social need. This was a chief talking point in his gubernatorial campaign, a major element of his "creative society." "... in the last analysis," he states, "the private sector is the only one that can really fight a war on poverty by providing jobs ... (it is) a task of a private enterprise (with) government cooperation (to insure that) every able bodied man is willing to work or train for available jobs, before getting relief payments ..."

What, then, of Reagan as presidential material? As an executive, Reagan has to date proved out very well. His intelligence, industry, and administrative talents, which are generally acknowledged, would all stand him in good stead as a national chief executive. He has proved that he can run a crisply efficient staff system, which is the method by which an immense operation like the White House has to function.

Reagan said in his 1966 gubernatorial campaign, "I am not a politician, I am an ordinary citizen with a deep-seated belief that much of what troubles us has been brought about by politicians; and it's high time that more ordinary citizens brought the fresh air of common sense to bear on these problems. We've had enough of the wheeling and dealing, and enough of schemers and schemes."

What was needed in the place of the old political formula, he said, was to re-invoke the idea "that you and I have the capacity for self-government—the dignity and the ability and the God-given freedom to make our own decisions, to plan our own lives and to control our own destiny."

To win national victories and assemble stable national majorities, the Republican Party must move in the direction of the Reagan revolution. It must remember the forgotten American, curtail the growth of the federal leviathan, articulate its case with poise and clarity and intelligence.

Ability, Experience

Rockefeller's Service A Prime Qualification

By RANDY SCOTT

The presidency of the United States is a position of great power and heavy responsibility. To fill this post, we need a man of high ability with experience in dealing with all the problems this nation faces. Nelson Rockefeller is such a man.

But is Rockefeller really a candidate? Yes. At his Hilton press conference, Rockefeller said, "I have said that I stood ready to answer any true and meaningful call from the Republican Party to serve it and the nation." Moreover, Nixon does not have the nomination "sewed up," due to the numerous "favorite son" candidates. It is therefore up to us to show the national Republican convention that the people want Rockefeller.

As Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., has remarked, "Rockefeller is the man best equipped to be President." Indeed, Rockefeller would be able to draw on a wide range of experience to meet the vast demands of the presidency. For example, his experience in foreign affairs is substantially greater than that of any other candidate for president. An abbreviated list would have to include his positions as chairman of the Inter-American Development Commission ('40-'47), Assistant Secretary of State for American Republics Affairs ('44-'45), Chairman of the International Development Advisory Board ('50-'51), and Special Assistant to the President for Foreign Affairs ('54-'55).

As to his views, Rockefeller wrote in January Foreign Affairs Quarterly that, "One must realize that security cannot be achieved by power alone." He has since expressed the belief that continued escalation in Vietnam is futile and that a political and diplomatic accommodation embracing all Southeast Asia is needed.

Understands US Problems

In addition, Rockefeller understands the domestic problems of this country. He is aware of the waste that can come from poor governmental organization, an understanding he gained as chairman of President Dwight D. Eisenhower's

'Brown Power'

To the Editor:

In reference to the comment attributed to Mayor Harry Akin in Friday's Texan (City Hears Debate on Killing):

It is beyond my comprehension that Mayor Akin actually believes that Dr. Witherspoon is attempting to create a racial issue in Austin. Surely he realizes that Dr. Witherspoon is merely trying to shed light on the racial and ethnic issue which already exists.

If, as law student Friedman says, the "Austin policemen 'were following the procedure and policy they were taught in training'" in shooting to kill two frightened 16-year-old boys, then, indeed, much fault can and should be found with the entire Austin Police Department. If three adult "peace" officers find it necessary to open fire on two teenaged boys, and if they have had some training in handling a gun, it would seem that if they so desired, they could confine their aim to the arms and legs of their victims.

Members of the Mexican-American community of Austin (perhaps of the entire Southwest) are emerging from their previous feeling of apathy. They will no longer be content with whatever crumbs the establishment wishes to throw them. For those of you who do not see it coming, the next step is Brown Power.

Contradictions

To the Editor:

I would much rather have read the "Open Page Policy" statement another 25 times or even a whole week's worth of filler than that tirade by Lloyd Doggett in the Sunday Texan.

He is one of the many student politicians who have the students of the University so disinterested in campus politics that barely a handful bother to vote in the elections. Yet he seems to believe that the students want to hear from him: that we support and sympathize with his cause.

He has publicly admitted that he has not lived up to his campaign promises, or even really tried, so on what basis does he claim to be the "representative" of the student body?

Surely he no longer has the support of those who voted for his platform last year. The fact is, his only basis is the office he holds, and the last elections showed just how respected and representative a position he holds.

Doggett's article in the Sunday Texan was full of contradictions to his words and his actions. A perfect example is found when he said, "... the Daily Texan has an obligation to serve the needs and reflect the problems of this student body, this Students' Association."

I feel uncomfortable that the student body and Students' Association are equated, but no matter. He said that the Texan does not fulfill its obligation, and that it is feeding the students a "bland diet".

Well, Doggett and his Students' Association don't strike me as being spicy, only rotten. There are a few notable exceptions, but the fact is that our "representatives" in the Association do not decide what to vote for, Doggett does, and in so doing has shown no concern for the vast majority of students.

In his article he spoke of a "free press" for the campus, and in the same article threatened to attempt to remove the editor of the Texan because of recent editorials. The fact that the editorials were factual and, in my opinion, revealing and therefore in the best interest of the student body, did not impress him. Why? Because they were not in Doggett's best interest!

What he actually means is that if the Texan doesn't start agreeing with him, he'll try to take it over and make it a shining example of "free press"; i.e., a newspaper to echo his voice.

Open Door Policy: It's Your Decision

By ROSEMARY M. KAVOUSSI
President-Elect, Students' Association

In the past there has been no means of communication to inform the students of the areas they can get involved in to benefit the University and gain personal experience. The existing student committees have been created by students who felt there is need for investigation or need for new programs in a certain area. The success of these committees has been directly correlated to the interest, energy, initiative and enthusiasm of the students who have served on them.

There are many other areas that the Students' Association could work on—all that is needed is students with new and imaginative ideas who are willing to spend the time to make these ideas a reality. One does not need to be an assemblyman or a delegate. Any student who wants to get involved will be welcomed. Write me a letter or come to see me. Some channels already exist to carry on your ideas and if not, we will, together, create new channels.

Many have criticized the Students' Association for being ineffective. The only reason for this ineffectiveness has been the apathetic student body. As long as the student body on this campus does not demonstrate that they care by active participation, devoting some of their time for betterment of this University, this Students' Association will be ineffective. Many people say "I do not want to waste my time with student government, because it does not have the power to accomplish anything". It is ironic that the very same people are going to school to learn how to make the impossible possible. If at the beginning of this century everyone had taken for granted that it is impossible for man to fly, do you think we could have supersonic jet planes now?

Handful Run Show

In the past a very few people have run the student government and on occasion one person has been chairman or member of as many as eight committees. Obviously a handful of people have limited time available and also are limited as far as ideas are concerned. When a handful of people run everything and make all decisions after a short time they only see one solution to everything and become close-minded. This is because they are not exposed to a wide variety of ideas through interactions with many different people.

This situation of a "few people running the show" has not actually been the fault of the president. I should say that it has been the fault of the student body. When a position has been publicized in the paper and by posters and no one shows up to interview for that position, what would you do if you were the president? What the president has done in the past has been to call those people he knows and ask them if they would please accept another position and it does not matter if they sit on 10 other committees!!

Cooperation Needed

The Appointments Committee I promised during my campaign has started its work as of last week. It is made up of five outstanding students who are doing their best now to publicize the student-faculty and student committees of the Students' Association. They will interview interested students next Monday and next Tuesday and will recommend to me two students for each position. The Appointments Committee will look at each committee objectively and will recommend improvements if needed or elimination if the committee is not necessary any more.

They will recommend creation of new committees to study the new problems that our University faces and take action for improvements. To accomplish all this, they need cooperation from every student on this campus. You can cooperate by writing us a letter suggesting a new idea, or by interviewing for a position to actually help us in carrying out these ideas. True education is a continual process of give and take. One can learn a lot by trying to be a productive person. The new ideas and new outlooks that one discovers when he works with others to get things accomplished make this give and take process a very exciting one. The excitement of trial and error, of fall and rise, the excitement of seeing improvements in things around us and knowing that we had a part in this change, and the excitement of knowing that we are capable of bringing about even more improvements summarize the reasons why I have chosen to be a part of the student government.

I invite you to join us and share this excitement with us.

Around The 'Horn

By RON ANDERSON

One good way to emboss your name in the record books and make it stick is to do something better than Bobby Layne did. The baseball records Bobby Layne holds at Texas are too numerous to mention, but as of last Saturday, he holds one less.

On that day Larry Hardy took the mound and whiffed 17 Rice Owls. Thus he carved out a small niche for himself in the Texas record books. In addition, he forced the SWC historians to save some space in subsequent editions next to one Marvin King, a former SMU hurler who turned the same trick in 1958.

Hardy has lost only one game this year. But that one loss has thrown a cramp in his efforts to match Layne's record of not having lost a game in his career.

Hardy

"When I came here, I didn't want to lose a game. I guess I've been pressing too hard ever since," Hardy said.

"I wanted to do a good job," Hardy said, "because Coach Cliff Gustafson had never seen me pitch. After I lost the opening game to Oklahoma, I got down on myself so much that I was concentrating on everything but pitching. I still don't think Coach has seen me pitch as well as I know I can."

When Hardy takes the mound, he's all business. In this respect he's much like Layne. Retired Coach Bibb Falk recalled Layne's attitude toward the game back in the mid-40's:

"Bobby always did what was necessary to win. If he needed to win a 1-0 game, he did. I don't know what he did off the field; I never kept up with things like that. But when game-time rolled around, he was a very serious fellow."

Sometimes, it appears that Hardy is too serious. After a bad pitch, he has been known to show signs of slight disgust.

Following one such pitch, Hardy's actions followed this pattern: (1) a loud groan, (2) bending at the waist, he brushed the mound with his hand, (3) catching the return throw, he walked to the back of the mound, mumbling to himself while hitching at his pants, (4) jerking at his cap, he stalked back to the mound and brushed the pitching rubber with his foot.

Asked if he had a temper Hardy said, "I guess it looks that way because I'm so demanding. I'm not mad at anyone else. I suppose I expect too much of myself."

NCAA Advocates New Organization

DENVER (AP)—The National Collegiate Athletic Association's 18-member council has proposed what it feels is a way to settle the long-smoldering feud between the NCAA and the Amateur Athletic Union over track and field athletics.

A statement was released Tuesday urging the Senate Commerce Committee to draft a resolution "expressing the intent of Congress to charter a new organization to be in control of track and field in this country."

The council announced it has rejected the suggestions made by the board named by Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey and would so recommend to the NCAA convention Jan. 6-8 at Los Angeles.

The NCAA council expressed hope that any organization for track and field set up by federal action "would be democratically constructed so as to stimulate independent action for the best interests of the sport."

In the interim between now and the end of the Olympic Games in Mexico City in October, the council recommended that President Lyndon B. Johnson appoint a commission of persons "knowledgeable in track and field, as well as representative of the public generally."

The council said the chief function of such a group would be "to prepare a constitution of such an organization to the end that subsequently Congress may be requested to charter it by appropriate legislative action on the recommendation of the President."

The council criticized what it termed the arbitration board's failure to recognize "the responsibility of the school-college community to certify the conditions of student competition."

Texas to Sign California Back

Tony Adams, a highly-sought quarterback prospect from California, has given a verbal commitment to attend Texas in the fall.

Adams, a 6-1, 170-pounder from Romana High School in Riverside, will become the third out-of-state player to sign with the 'Horns.

Others are Jim Bertelsen, a 205-pound running back from Hudson, Wis., and Rob Schultz, a 195-pound lineman from Cleveland, Ohio.

Adams is expected to sign the national interconference letter of intent May 22. However, major California schools which still are seeking Adams, are not bound by the national agreement.

Assistant Sports Editor

Texas swings back into diamond action Wednesday when the St. Mary's Rattlers from San Antonio invade Clark Field for a 3 p.m. game.

The 'Horns, who have compiled a 19-7 season record, after a 6-6 slate in mid-March, will be attempting to make it two in a row over the Rattlers. Texas won a 1-0 decision in April, as Nati Salazar and Kent Roberts combined to hold St. Mary's to three hits.

The winning run in that game came in the sixth, when a two-base error by Terry Tuck, and Tommy Harmon's hit scored Dave Hall.

Since that game, Texas has split a two-game series with TCU, and swept a pair from Rice last weekend, to build their SWC lead to one and one-half games.

Street to Pitch

Due to take the mound for Cliff Gustafson's baseballers is the winning pitcher on the staff, James Street. Street is 8-2, with his most recent triumph coming in a five-hit performance against Rice Friday.

Gustafson has indicated he may experiment with a new infield combination, in hopes of coming up with a little more batting punch. Another possibility is putting Gene Salmon in right field in place of George Nauert.

Randy Peschel still leads the team in batting for the full season with a .359 mark. Others over .300 are Harmon at .338 and Pat Brown, with a swat figure of .315.

Jack Miller paces the home run category with 4, while Nauert has batted in 16 runs, and Harmon and Bob Snoddy with 15 each.

Snoddy broke out of a prolonged hitting slump Saturday at Houston, with three hits, plus a 400-hundred-foot fly out. He is now at .274.

Rattlers Pace BSC

St. Mary's stands 9-6 for the campaign, with a 4-1 record in the Big State Conference, which they are leading. The starting pitcher could be Jim May, the loser in that 1-0 game earlier. He allowed but three hits and one unearned run in working six innings.

Leading Rattler hitters are outfielder Ron Newman, catcher

Jim Koch, who won a game for St. Mary's this weekend with a hit, and outfielder Wes Skidmore.

After Wednesday's contest, the Horns play next Friday, when another San Antonio team, Trinity, visits Austin.

TCU-Tech in Big Games

In SWC action this week, Texas will watch with interest as near-rival TCU tangles with last place Texas Tech at Fort Worth. The Frogs are 8-5 in league play, and need three wins to stay in contention. If Tech can win twice, TCU would be eliminated, and the Longhorns would have to worry only about Texas A&M.

However, three straight Froggie wins would force Texas to sweep A&M May 10 and 11 to win the SWC crown.

In other games, the Aggies attempt to keep their thin title hopes alive against Rice, while Baylor and SMU clash in a two game series.

Academic Team Lists Overbeck

Gary Overbeck, center on the Texas basketball team and an All-Southwest Conference selection, has been named to the second team of the academic All-American squad.

Overbeck, a senior from Hobbs, N. M., was a co-captain for the 1967-68 Longhorn basketball team, and averaged 16.8 points and 10 rebounds per game.

First team members of the "brain" team were Bill Hosket, of NCAA semi-finalist Ohio State, Bob Arzen from Notre Dame, Cliff Parsons of the Air Force Academy, Rich Niemann, 7-foot center for St. Louis University, and Dave Scholz of Illinois.

Overbeck is a pharmacy major. His high game last season was a 41-point outburst against Texas A&M.

UT Students Participate in Arts Festival

University students and graduates are playing key roles in the fifth Religious Fine Arts Festival which opened Monday and continues through Sunday.

Sponsored annually by St. Martin's Lutheran Church, the community-wide festival seeks to encourage expression of the spiritual life through the fine arts — art, drama, and music.

The festival opened with the Art Show at noon Monday in the church's Fellowship Hall. Many students are exhibiting, and two professors, Robert Levers and Ralph White of the University's Department of Art will judge the competition. The show is open daily Monday through Sunday.

University acting talent dominates the festival drama, T. S. Eliot's "Murder in the Cathedral," opening at 8 p.m. Thursday for a three-day run through Saturday.

Mike McKay, a University alumnus, plays the lead of Thomas Becket, an English archbishop whose story is familiar to many from the motion picture, "Becket." This symbolic play dealing with the condition of man, rather than history, is still relevant today — perhaps more so than when written.

Another University alumnus, Steve Smock, plays the "Messenger," and also designed costumes for the production.

One of the "Tempters and Knights" in the play is University psychology major Jay Turk, while another University student, Jeffrey B. Garrett, portrays one of the three "priests."

Among those portraying the "Women of Canterbury," the chorus which carries the part of the audience in the play, are three University students and one graduate. Graduate Janet C. Repa now teaches at the Brown School for Exceptional Children. The three students include Kay Twidwell, Maymourn Dwyer, and Mimi Torchin. Miss Dwyer is a graduate student who had professional acting and television experience in Montreal, Canada, and has been active in University drama productions since entering graduate school.

Miss Torchin, who is a senior drama student, plays the female lead in the movie, "Double-Step," which premiered in New York in May. She played "Ruth" in the recent Texas Union Theatre production of "The Homecoming." Miss Twidwell is a sophomore pre-law student and a member of the "Southern Singers."

Richard E. Watkins, a graduate student working towards his doctorate in music at the University, directs the festival's concluding event, "An Evening in Music," at 8 p.m. Sunday. Highlight of this musical evening will be the Austin premier of Benjamin Britten's "Saint Nicholas."

Watkins has had a varied musical career. He taught in Dallas and sang professionally there as a member of the Dallas Civic Opera Chorus. While in the Army, he was assistant director of the United States Army Air Defense Command Choral Group.

All events of the festival are free to the public. However, because of limited seating capacity free reservation tickets for the drama may be obtained from the church office, 606 W. Fifteenth St.

McCarthy Gets Visit Request

University Group Travels to Indiana

Twenty-eight University students traveled to Indiana last weekend to present Sen. Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn., with a petition signed by about 8,000 persons requesting him to speak here.

John Marmaduke, president of Students for a Patriotic America, gave the list to McCarthy in Indianapolis Sunday. According to Larry Waterhouse, SPA member, McCarthy said, "I guess I'll have to come." Waterhouse said it would be unreasonable to expect McCarthy to come to Texas before the Saturday primary, but it is "highly likely" that he will campaign here during the summer.

While in Indianapolis, the students campaigned for the senator and also presented him with a "Dirty Nothin'" button.

Waterhouse said the University group was joined by 30 students from Stephen F. Austin College and two students from Southwest Texas State College.

Although an estimated 5,000 out-of-state students were in Indianapolis during the weekend, the Texas delegation had traveled the greatest distance and were furnished food and lodging by McCarthy supporters in the city.

A&S Budget Councils Under Re-Evaluation

By ANDREA JOHNSON
Texan Staff Writer

The governmental systems of several departments in the College of Arts and Sciences, hampered by problems caused by increased University growth in recent years, are currently undergoing re-evaluation.

Numerous proposals are being considered in some departments which call for a change in the composition of the Budget Councils. The councils are composed of all full professors in a department, who deal with matters of policy, promotion, recruiting, budget, and placement.

The Department of English has been the most active so far in projecting proposals. At least 10 formal suggestions have been made by groups and individuals in the department, including the Budget Council itself. A final proposal is to be ready by May 15 for consideration by Dr. John Silber, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences.

Dr. Silber has acted as the "trigger mechanism" in suggesting that Budget Councils review their needs for possible changes. Dr. Edwin Bowden, professor of English, said.

Changes center around the formation of an executive committee, which would contain a relatively small number of members, to be elected. Twenty-two full professors make up the Budget Council in the Department of English. Dr. C. L. Cline, department chairman, said he feels a smaller membership could economically handle council matters.

In addition to inefficiency, some departments have faced the problem of having two opposing factions within the council, resulting in deadlocks on many issues, Dr. Silber said.

Also a problem, Dr. Silber continued, is that "younger faculty members are frequently not consulted on issues which vitally concern them. They want to be heard in matters of budget policy."

UIL State Meet Starts Thursday

About 2,000 Texas high school students, plus coaches, sponsors, and parents are expected to jam the University and Austin Thursday through Saturday.

The occasion is the fifty-eighth annual state meet of the University Interscholastic League, one of the oldest and largest organizations of its kind in the world.

The 2,000 are winners of academic and athletic competition at local, district, and regional levels in five conferences.

Final competition in informative speaking, journalism, persuasive speaking, poetry interpretation, prose reading, and slide rule will be completed Friday.

Debate, golf, one-act play, science, shorthand, tennis, track and field, and typewriting contests will continue Friday and Saturday.

All of these contests are sponsored by separate organizations in other states, said Dr. Max Haddick, activity director at the University's Public School Service Bureau.

All of Texas' four-year public high schools are members of the UIL. The superintendents of these participating schools form the governing body of the organization.

As a result of the scope of this organization, Dr. Rhea Williams, associate director of the Public School Service Bureau, said, "One-half of all public school children in Texas participate in some Interscholastic League competition at some level before they graduate."

All contests are open to the public. Admission is free except for track and field events and one-act play contests. Admission, where charged, is $1.25 for adults and 75 cents for students per session.

HHH Supporters Present Petition

200 Signatures Collected Tuesday

Texas Students for Humphrey, a University organization supporting Vice-President Hubert Humphrey for the presidential nomination, are now presenting two petitions for student preference in a booth on the West Mall.

One is for students expressing support for Humphrey, and another is for inviting Humphrey or an authorized representative to speak on campus.

Supporters of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and Eugene McCarthy spent last week presenting similar petitions to the student body.

The Humphrey booth collected 200 signatures in its first day of operation Tuesday. The booth will be open through Friday on the West Mall, and results will be tabulated Saturday by a member of the national steering committee of the United Democrats for Humphrey.

Faculty sponsor of the organization is Dr. Clifton McClesky, professor of government.

Virginia (l.) and Frank (r.) are:

A. Interviewing an African couple. B. Visiting a Nigerian University. C. Exchanging ideas with Nigerian University students.

Actually, Virginia Blount and Frank Ogden are doing all these things. As members of the 500-student World Campus Afloat-Chapman College, these two Arizona college students had the opportunity to talk with students at the University of Ife, Ibadan branch, Nigeria.

With the help of Nigerian students and professors, the Americans compared religions, art, anthropology, educational systems, economic developments, geography, drama, music, and dance of the two countries. This is the regular course work aboard Chapman's shipboard campus, the s.s. Ryndam.

Virginia and Frank transferred the credits they earned back to their home colleges, Arizona State University and Northern Arizona University, and are going on for their baccalaureate degrees. Chapman College is currently accepting enrollments for the 1968-1969 academic year with the World Campus Afloat program.

"I was wrong about IBM. You can get into the mainstream here with a liberal arts degree"

"I used to think IBM was a place for engineers, scientists, and machines.

"But not for liberal arts graduates. And definitely not for American History majors, like me. (This is John Robohm, an IBM Marketing Representative specializing in banking.)

"Then I talked with an IBM interviewer. He explained that much of the work at IBM is solving problems. So if you have a logical mind, you could go into areas like programming or marketing. Both of which are in the heart of IBM's business.

"My job is helping banks use computers. Which isn't nearly as technical as it sounds. You deal with people a lot more than with machines.

"At first, the idea of sales appalled me. You know, you think of Willy Loman and so on. But marketing at IBM is entirely different. You're a problem solver. You have to come up with new solutions for every customer.

"I guess that's what makes the job so interesting. That and the level of people you deal with. I usually work directly with the president of the bank. You get a lot of responsibility in this job very soon after you start. And if you're good, your income goes along with it."
