FIRST COLLEGE DAILY IN THE SOUTH

AUSTIN, TEXAS, THURSDAY, MAY 15, 1919.

NO. 143

It is about time for the annual Y. M. C. A. campaign for membership. This institution deserves your support.

CELEBRATION AND PARADE TO HONOR AUSTIN SOLDIERS

University Band and Glee Club Will Take Part in Program

In connection with the parade and celebration to be given tomorrow in honor of Austin's returned soldiers, all members of the University band will be excused from classes from 10 to 12 o'clock in order to participate in the procession. Members of the Glee Club will also be excused from 1 to 3 in the afternoon. During those hours, they will aid in the entertainment at Peace Park where a barbecue is to be given in honor of the former warriors.

All members of the band will meet at S. Hall at 10 o'clock in the morning. J. W. Sheppard, who is in charge of the University's part, stated this morning. From there they will go to the depot where the parade is to await the arrival of the Forty-second (Rainbow) division unit. This organization is expected to reach the city at about 11 o'clock. However, the parade will include in addition all previously returned soldiers, as well as those who had any part on this side.

At the barbecue in the afternoon, President Vinson and Judge Lattimore will be the principal speakers. Unless some conflict is caused, the members of the band and Glee Club are also invited to participate in this affair.

PUBLIC SPEAKING BANQUET WAS HELD

Impromptu Speeches Enjoyed at Cactus Tea Room Last Night

Last night at the Cactus Tea Room Public Speaking Class 105.5 gave a banquet for the members of the class. Each member found his seat at the dining room by a place card, which bore an inscription characteristic of the student. Raglan Jones acted as toastmaster, and the program began with the following menu being served: Hot biscuits, English peas, Irish potatoes, chicken pie, iced tea, fruit salad, and ice cream and cakes.

Mr. Jones then called for the following impromptu speeches:

"Why I Had Rather Talk than Eat," Moulton Cobb; "What I Think of Public Speaking 105.5," Joe Ellington; "M. D.," George Snyder; "My Future," Sam Sharpstein; "Why I Am Glad I'm a Freshman," Frank Lloyd; "The Banquet," Corine Simpson; "My Inspiration," Lester Wilson; "This Year's Work," Adolph Stoermer; "The Hour of the Day," Effie Calhoun; "An Engineer," Ross Mitchell; "The Business Man," Patrick Henry Pittway; "Some Members of our Class," Eloise Yett; "My Class," Miss Lulu Durland (teacher); "This Occasion," Raglan Jones.

After the speeches each member of the class told his full name, where he lived, and what his ambition in life was.

FINAL RUSK BANQUET

Saturday night at the Driskill Rusk Literary Society will hold the final banquet. Besides the eats there will be a varied program of after dinner.

The chief event will be the Morris Shepherd prize contest. Prominent men from town and the faculty will serve as judges in the contest.

Prominent in the festivities will be the intersociety trophy, the beautiful Wroe Loving Cup, won permanently by Rusk in the intersociety debate.

WALACE HAWKINS STATES POLICIES FOR HIS OFFICE

President Elect of Students Association Expresses Appreciation to Students

Wallace Hawkins, newly elected President of the Students' Association, has given out the following statement of appreciation to the student voters:

I desire to express my sincere appreciation for the vote given me at the recent election. But I am not content with this statement for the best expressions of appreciations I hope will come by the results of energy devoted to the duties and responsibilities of the office of my election.

Reiteration of my platform promises summarize exactly my purpose in being President of the Students' Association.

I propose to give a fair and square administration, with an earnest desire to establish reliability and effectiveness in the administration of student affairs.

To this purpose I sincerely request the co-operation and support of every student in the University.

And as we again begin to settle to the strides of peace times and student activities re-enliven let's strengthen our student government, justify the power that is within the jurisdiction of student government, and demonstrate to the satisfaction of even the critics of the University that no reasonable complaint can be lodged against us.

I desire to know personally more of my fellow-students, especially of this year's classes in order that my preparation will be complete for assuming the President's office for the coming year.

I again express appreciation for the recent vote and shall devote my best energies in discharging the duties of the office.

WALACE HAWKINS.

MORGAN CALLAWAY GETS DUE HONORS

Varsity English Professor Recognized by "The Modern Language Notes"

"Studies in the Syntax of the Lindisfarne Gospels" by Morgan J. Callaway, Jr., professor of English in the University of Texas, which appeared recently in given first place in the book review section of the May number of the "Modern Language Notes."

In the beginning of the comprehensive review, which covers several pages, the following appreciation of Dr. Callaway's work appears:

"Some years ago, Victor Henry, in a review of Professor Callaway's earlier studies, called this syntactical method 'robust.' This vigorous word aptly describes these later volumes, wherein thousands upon thousands of words are treated with a robustness which is a new departure in the history of syntax."

DR. BENNETT OFFERED GOVERNMENT POSITION MATHEMATICS EXPERT

Dr. Albert A. Bennett of the School of Pure Mathematics has been offered a position by the Ordnance Department at Washington, with the official title "Mathematics and Dynamic Expert." It is probable that he will accept the position for the summer months only.

This work was inaugurated by several mathematicians temporarily holding commissions in the army. It is planned to help the progress and advancement of the artillery corps in the army.

JOURNALISM CLASS WILL EDIT AUSTIN STATESMAN MAY 22

Hill Cocke and W. J. Weeg Will Serve as City and Telegraph Editors

Students of the School of Journalism will be given opportunity to do practical work on May 22, when the aspiring journalists will get out the Austin Statesman on that date.

At an election of the class in news gathering this morning Hill Cocke, of San Antonio, was chosen city editor for the day. The other members of the editorial staff selected were William J. Weeg of Big Spring, telegraph editor; Ruby A. Black of Thornton, assistant telegraph editor; Miss Jimmie Sowell of Cleburne, copy reader; Miss Winifred Watson of Galveston, society editor; I. H. Crutcher of Tyler and Maude Milam of Waco, staff paraphraser.

The remaining members of the class will constitute the reportorial staff. These students are Misses Jesse Mary Hill of Alvarado, Lee Wolfelin of Amarillo, Alice Stroud of Kaufman, Margaret Robertson of Dallas, Annie Lewis Preston of Austin, Annabel Latimer of Tulsa, Okla., Elsie Scott of San Antonio, Claire Ashford of Huntsville, Crystal Ross of Lockhart, Elizabeth McCurdy of Lockhart, Lillian Ross of Mexico, Mrs. Mary Mathis of Sherman, and Cleburne Huston of Henderson, Nugent Brown of Nacogdoches, Scott Anderson of Alice, and Alberto Garcia of Austin.

CACTUS EXPECTED TO ARRIVE MAY 26 FOR DISTRIBUTION

"Tuesday night, May 20, the 1919 Cactus will leave Kansas City. Monday we ought to be handing out the copies," said Ed Angly, editor, on his arrival from Kansas City where he has been reading proof on the last copy.

"It is seventy pages larger than any Cactus ever put out, and the Library is exceeding from the view section. There are only two pictures of it, one of the stacks and one made at night giving an unusual effect that has never before been achieved."

"Our war section is complete; there are pictures of all the men who have been decorated, pictures made in France, pictures made from an aero-

IMMENSE REUNION EXPECTED DURING HOMECOMING HERE

City of Austin is Doing Its Share for Tomorrow's Celebration

Former University students all over Texas, and in all parts of the United States, are looking forward with eager anticipation to the homecoming which is to take place on June 7. Letters are being received daily telling of their intention of being here for the Reunion. Not only the returned soldiers, but also the members of the classes of 1909 and 1914 will return to their Alma Mater this year. There will probably be a larger crowd here this year than there has ever been in the past. Coming as it does at the close of the term, Summer School students can come a few days early and enjoy the circus and other festivities with the other students.

Faculty members are contributing heavily in order to make the homecoming a big success, and the city of Austin is also doing its share. One thousand dollars will probably be raised to meet the financial needs. A luncheon on the campus and a dinner at the Country Club are among the entertainments planned for the honor guests.

The Kelly Field flyers have been asked to bring a squadron of planes over and do some fancy flying.

Those in charge of the circus are working in co-operation with the committees on the Homecoming, and this will make the "exes" stay here more enjoyable. The coronation of the "Queen" of the circus will take place on Saturday night, the night of the carnival, instead of the night previous, as heretofore.

SOCIAL SESSION OF MUSIC SOCIETY WAS ENJOYED BY MEMBERS

The Reed Music Society met yesterday in social session and the following musical program was given.

1. By the Waters of Minnetouka (Leurance)—Tomme Woolsey, accompanied by Septima Smith.
2. Violin Solo—Myrtis Watkins, accompanied by Mavis Douglass.
3. O Rrestless Sea (White)—Misses Douglass and Widen, accompanied by M. Kiblinger.
4. Caprice Espagnol (Moskowski); Berceuse (Chopin)—Mr. Frank Leffever Reed.

After the program Mr. Reed made a short talk and the club adjourned to meet for the last time this year, two weeks from Wednesday.

COUNCIL STATES PROCEEDINGS OF RECENT ACTIONS

Men's Council Issue Facts of Blunderbustle Case Concerning Walker

The attention of the Council has been called to the article in yesterday's Texan signed by Mr. Speer, concerning Mr. Walker and his connection with the Blunderbustle. As the article was hurriedly prepared without a chance for revision and it contains several statements that might be misleading to those unfamiliar with the facts and to correct false rumors circulated on the campus, the Council feels it is its duty to make the following official statement of Mr. Walker's case, especially to make it clear that his being wanted as a witness was secondary and incidental to his being wanted for his participation in the Blunderbustle.

Shortly after April 1st, the Council began its investigation of the Blunderbustle affair. Several students were called before that body in this investigation. Some of these were frank and showed a hearty co-operation with the Council in its attempt to vindicate student self-government. Unfortunately a few others did all in their power to mislead the Council in its investigation.

Mr. Edward Walker was before the Council twice before May 10th, and was given full opportunity to state all he knew about the matter. The first time he denied having had anything whatever to do with the Blunderbustle, and professed his willingness to do anything he could to aid the Council in its attempt to fix the responsibility for the Blunderbustle. From other witnesses, the Council secured very strong evidence that Mr. Walker was connected with the Blunderbustle. He was therefore again called before the Council, and then re-

PRE-MEDICS WILL BANQUET MONDAY

Annual Event Promises to Present Some Very Interesting Features

Final plans are being made for the banquet to be given by the University Pre-Medic Society Monday night at the Driskill hotel. The affair is scheduled to begin at 8 o'clock, and promises to be one of the most successful functions undertaken by any organization during the year.

Dr. D. P. Casteel, associate professor of zoology, will be toastmaster at the banquet. A program committee has been appointed and a number of interesting features are being prepared to contribute to the evening's entertainment. The banquet is an annual event in the Pre-Medic Society and always attracts a large attendance. The club roster contains over fifty names and an equal number is expected to be on hand. Dr. Joe Gilbert and Dr. G. M. Decherd, the University physicians, will be guests of honor.

Tickets for the banquet are $1.50 each and can be secured from anyone on the committee in either Zoology 1 or Zoology 4 classes.

VARSITY STUDENT IS SELECTED FOR LAW FELLOWSHIP

J. Austin Barnes, one of the best known students in the University today, has been selected as alternate for one of the Fellowships in International Law provided for by the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace. In case a vacancy occurs in the places already filled during the year 1918-20, Mr. Barnes is to receive the appointment.

Mr. Barnes has been in the University constantly for about six years except for the time he spent in the army. He took his B. A. degree in 1917, his M. A. in 1918, and will take his LL. B. in 1920. He was president of the Student Association in 1918, defeating Blalock in the never-to-be-forgotten Barnes-Blalock campaign.

PROMINENT MAN RECEIVES VOTE IN QUEEN RACE

Ten Co-Eds Receiving Next Highest Will be Duchesses of Circus

Alleged attempts of stuffing the ballot have been discovered and thwarted since it was found that Eyer Simpson, a prominent man student in the University received 104 votes in the queen's race for the Varsity Circus. It is rumored over the campus that a crowd of sympathizing, energetic, and ambitious men have made an appeal to support the best in the race, and not being suited with the candidates named, nominated one for themselves. One member of the "frame-up" even went so far as to declare that the above-named would make a better queen than any of those now in the race. With redoubled effort it is intimated that this new nominee will be pushed even to an untold amount.

It has also been announced that the person receiving the highest number will be queen. But another point has been stressed by the chairman of the circus, that being the ten receiving the highest next to the queen will act as duchesses. The queen is to choose her own king, and the duchesses are to select their own dukes. This phase will make the race more interesting as attempts will undoubtedly be made for ambitious youths to be dukes and push their girls. The plans have not been perfected for the carrying on of

METHODISTS RAISE MISSIONARY FUND

Epworth Leaguers Show Much Enterprise in Their Several Activities

Eight hundred and seventy-eight dollars in less than one hour from a rainy-day Sunday school attendance of University Methodist students—this is what was accomplished by those in charge of the so-called Daniel Fund Missionary enterprise of the University Epworth League Sunday morning at the Y. M. C. A.

The work of this organization of young people has attracted attention all over the State, due to the interest manifested locally and the apparent ease with which the League achieves what it sets as its goal. For a number of years it has maintained in Passo Fundo, Brazil, as its personal representative in the mission field, J. W. Daniel, an alumnus of the University of Texas. This year Miss Lizzie Blasdel, who is also a University product, goes to Brazil and will be maintained at Passo Fundo by the Epworth Leaguers. The League also plans to build a small school room for her, probably on the University "shacklesque" style of architecture, until such time as they are able to finance the substantial school building which they are now considering.

An interesting feature of the League's work is that its budget is counted toward the quota expected of the University Methodist Church on the great Methodist Centenary movement. The local chapter of the League is said to be the only young people's society in the United States whose Centenary contributions are three times as large as its parent church. The University Methodist Church proper is endeavoring to raise $1,100 per year for five years for the Centenary, while the League will raise $3,100 on the Centenary, and in addition has declared its intention of adding $200 to the salary of Mr. Daniel. As both Mr. and Mrs.

ARE WE READY FOR THE HOMECOMING?

In the fall of 1916 was conducted one of the most successful homecomings that was ever held in the South. This was on the occasion of the inauguration of Dr. Vinson as President of the University of Texas and of the annual game with A. & M. There were old students from all over the United States present at the big rally held the night before the game. Former cheer leaders and football stars vied with prominent lawyers and doctors in telling the awe-stricken freshmen of the good old days when Schulz's beergarden was in flower, and A. & M. was beaten regularly every Thanksgiving. The next day the biggest crowd ever seen on Clark Field watched the Longhorns ride roughshod over the Farmers.

There has not been such a homecoming since that day. Commencements have been witnessed by a group of seniors, few baccalaureate speakers, the faculty, and little more. But this year commencement promises to be the occasion of just such another celebration as was the 1916 homecoming. The ex-students will be here in force. The association is already at work notifying all the former students. They intend to do their part toward making the first real annual homecoming a success. The rest devolves on the student body here. The Circus is our first job that we must see through. From all indications, it is going to be a success under the leadership and management of Al DeViney. But it cannot be a success, nor can the homecoming itself if the students do not remain through the days set. It is our duty as well as our privilege to meet the former students when they return to see the University as it is. They will be here from civilian life as well as directly from overseas. Let us all be there to welcome them with the biggest, jolliest mass of students the University has yet assembled.

CONCERNING FIRING LINES

It is only natural that during the next two weeks student opinion will be excited over the trial that is to take place. The usual stream of Firing Line articles is already beginning to flow into the Texan office. The Texan welcomes any expression of student opinion that is reasonable. Without such articles, we might come to the conclusion that student opinion as an active force was about to die out; but those who contemplate writing anything for this column will please bear in mind that there will be many others wanting the same space. Some articles will have to be cut out because of their length and generality. To get a consensus of campus thought, it will best serve the purpose to write short, concise statements and arguments. These will stand the best chance of being published.

sands of examples of two most elusive constructions, culled from practically the whole of Old English Literature, are scrutinized, arranged, and interpreted with rare insight and sympathy. This mastery over material, down to the minutest detail, making it perspicuous and reposeful to the reader, always characterizes the author's work, which by virtue of its amount and uniform excellence, has earned for him the first place among American scholars in his field.

"Abnormal Aspects of the Religious Experience" Subject of Lecture

Dr. Perrin, professor of Psychology will address the Liberal Sunday School class Sunday morning on the subject, "Abnormal Aspects of the Religious Experience." He is one of the most popular professors in the University, the interest of his lectures being shown by the rapid increase in the size of his classes.

The meeting will be held at the Cactus Tea Room at 10 o'clock Sunday morning. All students are invited.

CHAPEL NOTICE

Rev. Chas. T. Talley, pastor of the University Methodist Church continued his discussion of service at Chapel this morning.

There are at least four motives for service. In their ascending ratio they are Fear, Reward, Duty, Love. When service is prompted by love those who serve are lifted out of the circle of a limited friendship to the company of those who need them. Their service is characterized by an unselfish abandon.

There are two things that should mark service. A great deal of service is ruined because it is done grudgingly or half-heartedly. It ought to have the personal sincere "glad-to-do-it" if it is to be effective. The other thing that service lacks in some degree, is intelligence. Often University graduates highly trained in many things, go back home unable to render intelligent Christian service.

Mr. Talley will continue his talk tomorrow.

TO CAP AND GOWN
(With apologies to J. R. L.)

For a cap and gown our lives we pay,
Passes we buy with a whole soul's tasking.

'Tis failure alone that is given away;
'Tis only "F" may be had for the asking;

No work need be done by those who bust;
Low grades may be had for the laziest of us.

And what so desired as a cap and gown?

That, if any, is perfect style;
Then others look on with an envious frown,

And vow to themselves that after-while,
Wherever they look, wherever they listen,

They'll hear their praise sung, they'll see envy glisten.

Every girl feels a stir of might,
An instinct within her that hopes and aspires,

And groping blindly in books for light,
She strives for credits enough to say,

The cap and gown is hers by right.

BACTERIOLOGISTS VIEW RABIES TREATMENT

ination. When the custom-house officer inspected the man's baggage, he asked what was in one of the packages, the man replied, "Only a mad-dog's head."

"Take it and go" the officer hastened to reply.

At times as many as thirty-five patients from the same town have taken the treatment. One family of nine was here at one time. Dr. Wilhite had a large fund of jokes on hand with which to entertain the class, and while he was telling these, a gallon bucket arrived with a fresh head. He proceeded at once to look for the conclusive organisms, but none were found. "I'll have to give this man a clean bill of health," said Dr. Wilhite after searching innumerable fields under the microscope.

The treatment is a very simple affair, but it lasts twenty-one days. In case the bite is near the brain or spinal cord the treatment is hastened. This is because the deadly organism reaches the brain by crawling along the nerves. If the bite is near the large nerve centers the incubation period will be short, and unless the dose is doubled, the disease is liable to develop before the treatment is completed.

As the virus is injected, the body begins to create a substance which will counteract its effects, and at the same time destroy the multiplying colony of organisms which are slowly ascending along a nerve to the brain. Just as vaccination for smallpox confers immunity so does the rabies treatment. Dr. Wilhite laughed at madstones, and all superstitions which have arisen over the development of hydrophobia. The opportunity to see the workings of this institution was appreciated greatly by the class. Next week an inspection of the city waterworks will be made.

Daniel are active in mission work, the League will be represented by three missionaries this fall, when Miss Blasdel enters the field. Several other Epworth Leaguers are now preparing themselves for work in foreign lands. The local organization intends to see to it that they are financed when they are ready to go out to their work.

The Methodist students of the University of Texas are conducting the big drive of the Centenary this week under the leadership of Judge Ireland Graves and Miss Campbell. They are doing this one week ahead of the schedule because of the final examinations coming so soon. Judge Graves organized ten teams with six members and a captain to reach team. The students have set for their goal by the Centenary leaders and local people $15,000 in five years. This money with the consent of the church will be used in Brazil where the Methodist students have a mission station.

WOODBURY TELLS OF EXPERIENCES

Famous Lecturer Will Deliver Address at "Y" Tonight

(By Louise Gladney)

"Are you the young lady who phoned me? Won't you have a glass of ice water?"

"Yes, thank you, and won't you have one of my cakes?"

In just this informal way did I begin my interview with the famous critic, Dr. Charles J. Woodbury, who will lecture tonight in the "Y" auditorium at 8 o'clock.

He is a little old gentleman with the most kindly face in the world, illuminated at regular intervals by sweet bright smiles that could only come from a beautifully sweet nature. About him is that pleasant comfortable odor of some good tobacco which one sniffs on one's clothes after leaving.

Seated on the cool porch, we talked over his trip and how delightful he thought Texas was, although it was hot. He talked of the time he came down to interview Alexander H. Stevens of the Confederacy and other prominent men of that day, writing two columns in the New York Post on a twelve minute interview.

Dr. Woodbury said he wished facts came to him as stories. He recalled when the well known writer, Frances Hodson Burnett, was only 11 years old, he listened to her marvelous stock of stories with great delight. He loved to listen to the flow of stories from Stockton and Jack London.

"Our experiences are all we have," he said in speaking of a time when he attempted to describe a beautiful mountain. Finally, by the advice of Helen Hunt Jackson, he had to picture his emotions rather than the mountain.

Dr. Woodbury betrayed his delightful sense of humor in telling how absent-minded he is and how little trivial facts like eating and sleeping mean to him, when he told how one day his wife said she wanted some coal and he said, "Oh, I'll get it for you." She returned a little later to find him pacing the floor, composing some literary work and slinging the coal shuttle. When the people with whom he was to take dinner telephoned and told him to come on, he replied, rather helplessly, "Why, I told her I could not find the way."

Dr. Woodbury told of his wonderful attachment to Emerson and his purpose in lecturing. He said that he was the only one living who knew Emerson and that he went about telling people of this wonderful man in order to get them to read his essays, and thus have the best and noblest things awakened in them and aroused to expression.

I left the charming little gentleman patting a small boy of the house on the head, and telling him he looked like a cupid with his bow and arrow.

REGULAR MEETING AT GALVESTON OF BOARD OF REGENTS

Faculty Building Plans Expected to be Discussed at Meeting

The Board of Regents will meet in Galveston on May 31. Nothing of unusual importance is expected to occur at the meeting. Only the routine business will be discussed.

There has been a faculty committee appointed to decide on the number of new buildings needed at the University and the improvements that are needed on the campus. It is expected that the Board of Regents will take the matter up, but nothing definite has been decided upon so far.

lunctantly admitted having written several of the articles appearing in the Blunderbustle, and having collected several others from other parties. He admitted having had these articles in his possession till a few days before April 1st, but denied having sent them in, or caused them to be sent in, for publication. The next day one of his friends approached one of the members of the Council to negotiate immunity from criminal prosecution on condition of a full and complete confession and statement of the part of a student whom, he declined to name. Pending this negotiation with the University authorities, the Council deferred its investigation. The University authorities answered that they would not press prosecution before the courts, nor take the initiative in such prosecution, against any student who would make a full and true confession and statement of all he knew. The student opening these negotiations then told the members of the Council whom he had approached to call Mr. Walker before the Council on a charge of having taken part in getting out the Blunderbustle, stating that he felt confident that Mr. Walker would confess.

Early on the morning of May 10th, Mr. Walker was summoned to appear before the Council at 8:30 on that morning to answer hearings preferred by the Council against him. After receiving the summons he completed his withdrawal from the University before coming before the Council. He stated to Mr. Speer and to the Council that he had taken part in the publication and that he would make a full statement, but that he would not do so until that afternoon. When the Council heard that Mr. Walker had withdrawn from the University, and intended to go to Oklahoma, they told him that he had a month and ten days in which to arrange his statement, and that the time had come when they could not put off their action any longer, especially as the officers of the law had deferred action in order to give the Council and the University authorities time to settle the matter as to the students without aid of the courts. Mr. Walker then deliberately got up and told the Council that he had a car waiting for him, and left the Council room in defiance of the Council.

As it was clear that Mr. Walker no longer recognized the jurisdiction of the Council and was preparing to leave the State at once to avoid responsibility both to the students and
