Benedict Favors Amendment For Safety of Funds

Ramifications of Proposal Outlined in Letter To Faculty

Regents Approve

Act Prevents Future Use Of Bonds Issued By Board

Favoring the adoption of the constitutional amendment affecting the University's permanent fund to be voted on in next Tuesday's general elections, President H. Y. Benedict, in a letter sent Thursday to faculty members, explained various phases of the amendment and concluded his statement by saying that "It seems to me that a careful consideration of all the relevant facts will almost inevitably lead to a hearty support of the amendment."

President Benedict said that "the Regents favor the adoption on November 8, 1932, of the constitutional amendment affecting the University's permanent fund because it merely prevents in future the investment of the fund in bonds issued by the Regents; that is, it merely prevents the Regents from borrowing the fund."

Regents Approve Proposal
"The amendment was submitted to the people by the Legislature with the full knowledge and approval of the Board of Regents."

President Benedict's letter read as follows: "As originally written, the Constitution of 1876 limited the field of investment to United States and the State of Texas bonds. There being none of the latter on the market, the oil royalties coming in after 1925 had to be invested in United States bonds which were selling at a premium and yielded a very low rate of interest."

"As a consequence, in 1929 the Regents requested the Legislature to submit a constitutional amendment conservatively enlarging the field of investment. The amendment was submitted and adopted as a result of this request broadened the field of investment to include bonds issued by the Board of Regents, the proceeds of said bonds to be used in the construction of buildings."

Upper Limit Not Fixed
"As the constitution now reads, no upper limit short of the entire permanent fund is fixed for the investment in bonds issued by the Regents, only a legislative act limiting it to $4,000,000 for the University and $2,000,000 for the A. & M. College. These sums have been sufficient to construct fairly adequate physical plants at each of the institutions although more money could be spent to advantage."

"The Regents are of the opinion, however, that the permanent fund is now large enough to make the income therefrom, the University available fund as it is called, large enough from now on to provide the additional buildings that the growth of the institutions will from time to time require."

Borrowing Was Justified
"In other words, the Regents believe that the borrowing of the above mentioned six millions for the buildings was justified by the marked and painful lack of even an approximately adequate plant, but that borrowing for future buildings needs will not be justified. Hence the Regents favor the adoption on November 8, (Continued on Page Two)

The tidbits Mr. Albers offered his visitors included Saigon and Ceylon cinnamon and licorice root.

Memorial Prize Open to Senior Students of Law

Friends of David Harris Donate Trust Fund Of $2,000

A trust fund, designated as the David Harris Memorial Prize, has been donated to the School of Law to be awarded the senior law student having the highest scholastic average who has obtained his bachelor of arts degree from the University and made at least one-half of his expenses while in school. I. P. Hildebrand, dean of the School of Law, said Friday.

The fund of $2,000 was donated by Harry N. Harris, Sol Harris, Isidore Harris and Alexander T. Sidman in memory of their brother and friend, David Harris, who was accidentally killed in April, 1931. The late Mr. Harris was graduated with the law class of 1921, receiving his bachelor of arts and doctor of law degrees. He was practicing law in Houston at the time of his death.

The donors assigned the fund to three trustees, of whom Dean Hildebrand is one, and directed that it be invested in safe securities, and that the interest be given as an annual prize. This award will not likely be given this year, but will, in all probability be made in June, 1934, Dean Hildebrand explained.

Faculty Thanks Donors
At the last meeting of the faculty of the School of Law a resolution was unanimously passed thanking the donors for the establishment of the trust fund.

"I feel very grateful to the donors for the fund they have given as I am certain that it will be an incentive to the boys who have to work their way through the School of Law to push forth the best to make good records," Dean Hildebrand said. "I also hope that the students in the School of Law competing for this prize will emulate the worthy example set by the late Mr. Harris, who was well liked by the law faculty and the student body."

'Holiday' Given For Last Time

First Two Showings Given Favorable Reviews

The Curtain Club will give its last presentation of "Holiday" tonight in the studio auditorium across from Gregory Gymnasium. The curtain rises at 8:15 o'clock.

A full house and favorable reviews marked the first showings of the play Thursday and Friday nights. Ernest Hardin, director, stated Friday that he was well pleased with the work of his players. "We are glad to be in our own studio," he said. "In the future we should be able to produce larger plays because we now have the place and time to work on them."

Debate Forecasts Trouble for Oil Laws Amendment

Martin Takes Jibe At Heads of Major Corporations

That amending the State's conservation laws to permit the Railroad Commission to consider market demand in establishing its proration orders for the oil industry will not have any too smooth sailing was indicated in the Senate Friday afternoon in a brisk debate over procedure.

Senator Will Martin of Hillsboro recalled that Governor Sterling told the Senate a year ago that he would veto any bill which contained market demand.

Senator Walter Woodul reminded Martin that since that time the U. S. supreme court had held the market demand part of the Oklahoma law constitutional. Martin answered that he was not familiar with the Oklahoma constitution.

"Who is going to set the prices of refined products?" Martin asked. "Are we going to leave it to the magnanimity of the heads of the major corporations, such as old Mellon?"

Candy Boxes Given 'Model' Drug Store

Law Society to Try 'Case' Field by Koy

During a traffic jam on the corner of Twenty-first and Speedway at 1 o'clock Friday, Ernie Koy, co-captain of the University Longhorns, and his well-known Ford collided with a car driven by J. H. Kidd, according to the McLaurin Law Society.

Koy has filed suit against Kidd in a Travis County Court for damage to person and body. The case is on the docket for Tuesday night at 7 o'clock in the Law Building. Judge Grady Chandler will preside over the McLaurin Law Society which will hear the case at this time.

The Indian frosh raced into corridors, chasing the startled girls back into rooms where they retreated temporarily to don bathrobes.

Windows and doors were broken. Once the frosh were inside they discovered they were unable to leave because of relocked exits closely guarded by upper classmen who had trapped them.

Koy Scheduled to Play Against Bears Today As Steers Fight for Title

By IRVING ISRAEL

Team Sports Staff

THE Society-for-Prevention-of-Cruelty-to-Longhorn-Opponents will swing into operation again today when your Larrupping Longhorns release their heavy artillery on their third conference foes, the University of Baylor Bears, at Carroll Field in the thriving city of Waco. The engagement has been set for 2:30 o'clock with 12,000 of the citizenry, students, and homecoming grads looking on at the atrocities.

Although the merry henchmen of Clyde Littlefield have been posted as foregone victors, the chances of a decisive triumph are slim indeed if Big Ernie Koy fails to unravel the cellophane from around his back. Heavily bandaged as a result of a wrenched back sustained in the Rice contest, Ernie may participate in today's game not because he is sorely needed but because Littlefield does not want his star fullback to become "stale" on the day of the Texas Christian game.

The Three Musketeers
If Ernie plays throughout the game, the Steers will resort to forward, backward, and lateral passes. If he plays very little, then Hilliard, Stafford, Inc., will present the third of a series of libelous acts, according to conference eleven. With the Three Musketeers of Southwest football in full harness, nothing but doom lies in store for the grizzly Baylor Bears.

Today is Homecoming Day for a couple of Longhorns, too. "Ox" Blanton and "Oochie" (Sears to you) Earle, two more of Texas' all-conference candidates, will show their fellow Wacoans the value of a college education at The University of Texas.

Herschel Moody and Dauso Bibby, tackle and end respectively, are two of Texas' favorite sons figured to spill Bear blood on Carroll Field. And the other linemen, Bill Smith, Cliff Braly, Ed Price, Arthur Niebuhr, Bill DuBose, Tommie Birwell, and Charlie Coates will match their prowess against the highly touted Baylor defense.

Co-captain Wilson "Cheesey" Cook will be closely watched on the gridiron, for "Cheesey" is another Longhorn aiming for a second appearance on the Southwest mythical eleven. He is fully prepared.

Stiff Defense
Although the Bears are reputed to have feeble offensive forces, Krone, Pearce, and James should keep the Texas line and secondary busy throughout the game. The addition of Wells and Barnett to the Bear backfield has bolstered the team considerably. The educated toe of James, Baylor end, is expected to keep the Bears out of danger. He is considered one of the best punters, if not the best, in the entire Southwest, and hefty Osborne Hodges, Longhorn luminary, will be sorely tested if rain descends and both teams resort to punting.

Although the Longhorns are conceded favorites by a three-to-one margin, Littlefield is taking nothing for granted and will use his full team strength throughout.

Wanted: Koy's Passes
The presence of Koy in the Steer line-up will not only raise the morale of the team but also give the Austin boys a backbone for a powerful aerial attack. With Ernie out of the Mustang game here last week, the Texas passing was miserable.

Today's game will mark the twenty-third appearance of the two teams against each other. Of these contests, your Larrupping Longhorns have captured seventeen. In 1931, the Bears fell before Texas by a 25-0 count at Memorial Stadium. A pennant-bound Longhorn eleven sidetracked a Baylor team on its home field in 1930 by a 14-0 score. What is today's answer?

Booklets to Be Sent High School Papers
"Newspaper Style" is the subject of the first pamphlet for the members of the Interscholastic League High School Association. "It is now under preparation and will probably be mailed to the members at the end of next week," DeWitt Reddick, chairman of the conference, stated Friday.

"Enrollment blanks were sent out to schools last week, and eighteen enrollments have already been received. We expect others in the next few weeks, as the total enrollment last year was 65," Mr. Reddick added.

EDUCATION CAUSE OF CZECH SUCCESS AFTER WORLD WAR

The first of four radio talks by Fred A. Moore, executive director of the Adult Education Council of Chicago, was a discussion on Czechoslovakia, Eduard Micek, associate professor of Slavonic languages, said Wednesday.

Czechoslovakia lies at the very geographical center of Europe. This new nation, established in 1918, has proved to be one of the happy results of the world war.

The entire nation is of the same area as the State of Illinois, but with a population twice as large as that of our State. For over 300 years, the country was a part of the Austrian-Hungarian empire. The major part of it was known to the world as Bohemia. The Czechoslovakians are of the Slav race, possessing many of the finest traits with which the Slavs are credited. They are hard working, serious, and idealistic, but unlike other Slav peoples, they are intensely practical and not dreamers.

During the three centuries when the country was subjugated by Austria-Hungary, the Czechoslovakians suffered many injustices and rigid repressions under the rule of the Hapsburgs. Throughout that period, they kept alive a national spirit that was undying, and native language and literature, and a culture that refused to submit to Germanization.

Their persistence finally broke down the opposition of their political masters, so that by the middle of the Nineteenth Century, (Continued on Page Two)

Late Slips and Shows

Late slips are a rather disagreeable subject to most young and women on the campus, and the students would like to have as few as possible attached to their record. The picture show managers in the city of Austin could help this situation to a great extent if they would take a few simple steps. A complete they would go to the Library to study, complete their work early enough to see the last show, and everything is fine until the main feature runs over the 11 o'clock deadline for arriving at home. There are numerous other occasions that leave only the last show for the college student to see, as attending a banquet or dinner that is over at an early hour, or certain duties that will not permit the students' leaving his or her work until a late hour.

Once within a show, no one is willing to leave just as the climax is nearing. To miss such scenes as offered by the words "People come, people go, but nothing ever happens," as uttered by Lewis Stone in the closing scene of "Grand Hotel" would be unfortunate. It is seldom that a show runs more than ten or fifteen minutes past 11 o'clock, and the students would be perfectly willing to miss one of the short attractions in order that they might see the entire feature of the evening. A change of this order would certainly be met with approval from the University officials, those that must deal with the students having to explain their late slips. And, too, more students would be willing to attend the last shows after leaving the libraries if they were certain that they could arrive at home by 11 o'clock. As a large percentage of the picture show attendance is composed of University students, it is believed they deserve this small consideration from the Austin theaters.

Keep Fire Gates Clear

Give some one a right or privilege, and he will nearly always abuse that right. 'Tis rather boldly said; nevertheless facts are merely facts and just that. And various University students have for several past Saturday nights been doing this. They have been trespassing out of their bounds given them in the parking area in front of the gymnasium on Speedway. Many cars have been parked by the gate which blocks off this street.

This gateway is kept free from blockade mainly in order to leave a passageway for fire trucks in case of the occurrence of a fire on the campus. No doubt these students probably read the sign, think nothing of its real significance, jump out of their cars, and dash on in to the German. Without a doubt, these law breakers do not think of the seriousness of their acts—the real consequence which could result from their carelessness.

But how could these massive fire trucks reach the campus any other way? They are too heavy to swing around in the small narrow alleys. The trucks could not reach the campus any other way except by going a much longer route. Students have indeed been obedient in abiding by the laws recently set up by the new parking rules. But why begin now in failing to carry out one's obligation? These students surely have not realized that they are endangering lives and property in case some fire or other disaster occurred on the campus. Watch your parking by this gateway on Speedway, and don't blockade the fire truck entrance when you park for the German or stop to run into the reserve library for a book.

Who Gets the Breaks?

Very few people in this world are able to keep smiling 365 days in the year. No matter how hard one attempts to have a pleasant word for anyone that he meets, he or she finds it quite a problem at times. And, strange to say, the bad breaks seem to run one right after another, and, in turn, the good luck all comes in one bunch.

Just when things seem to be coming your way and it appears impossible for anyone to stop you, the devil himself drops in upon you. The student receives two or three papers with a failing grade on each, he and his girl friend have a quarrel, he loses a bet on the football game, and your blanket tax that you loaned a friend to get in the football game was taken up—the whole world seems to be against you. In fact, you would like to leave school and head out for some lonely spot in the mountains and forget all about the rest of the world.

But just at the time when everything seems at its worst, something starts the breaks rolling your way. You and your professor seem to be getting along much better, your girl admits that she thinks you are the stuff, some organization seeks your membership, and the world is again about the finest place that you can know of. So, if you are feeling a little blue, just remind yourself that at the time you are feeling the worst, that is just the moment when the clouds are most likely to start moving the other way. However, in nine times out of ten it is the person that works hardest for the breaks that gets them. Few things come to anyone without hard mental or physical labor.

POOR POLITICS

Campus politics can be most disgusting at times. At the University, where everyone tries to be on friendly terms with their fellow students an act in which some group throws a monkey wrench into the machine of fellowship comes near making one lose all confidence in mankind.

Thursday night, selfish individuals, merely because their political machine happened to have the majority vote of the Students' Assembly, ramrodded and placed two individuals on the Board of Publications that have no special interest in the publications whatsoever. Neither student is from the department of journalism, nor have either one ever taken the least interest in publication work. Why should they want on the board? Publicity and the desire to show the power of their machine can be their only excuse. Neither one has the least idea what the work they have taken over consists of.

In this exposure of their mighty power, this seemingly narrow-minded group kept from the board a man that is a student in the journalism school, a man that intends to enter the journalism field as his profession, and can gain valuable experience as a member of the Board of Publications that will aid him in his future work. But what can be gained by the non-journalism students—merely a little publicity and the experience of watching well organized business work efficiently. At least there is hope that they may learn that business can be carried on with an open mind and in the absence of all underhanded means.

One point that is indeed gratifying to the student body as a whole is that the Board of Publications is composed of a sufficient number of members that are not swayed by the mere word of any campus political clique. It is believed that the three faculty members and editors of this year's publications are sound enough of mind to keep the Board of Publications free from politics.

OUTBURSTS OF TEMPER

There are times and places for all things, and a lecture room before a large history class is no place for a professor to display his temper. When he does forget himself so far as to make hasty remarks that speak of no forethought, such as, "And I don't want to hear any more out of you. Do you hear that?" the whole class is incensed against him. They resent listening to him and find not taking hard. They wonder that the professor can stand there and talk to them with any show of dignity after this outburst of temper.

As a poor student, I'd like to voice my resentment to such unseemly behavior on the part of a professor, and an apology is not out of order.

STUDENTS AND LIFE

Students should realize that they are really a part of the world of affairs. This year, more than ever before, the fact is being impressed upon them by the fact that many of the students will have to work. Reality, and with it the hardships of life, will bring a certain degree of seriousness into anyone's life.

Although the blue-nosed critics are continually haranguing anyone who will listen to them about the wild life that a college student lives, we believe that most college students lead a normal life. By a normal life we mean a life which is vitally tied up with the more worthwhile things in the world, and one which will lead to something better in the future. These reformers, most of them at least, have reached their peak. They will grieve about that point for a while and then they will stagnate in a silence enforced by society until they die.

College students do carry on a bit. The ballyhoo at class elections is a little old fashioned and is indulged in by those interested in a little relief rather than anything else. If emotional freedom is not to be allowed in colleges and universities, where is the student or the individual to find such freedom? When and if he graduates the individual will find that then he is either held down by convention or held aloof to the biting criticism of those who cannot accomplish with such grace those trivial breaches of convention that he manages.

Quite a number of university men and women are working at least part time now, and this fact indicates that the entire student body must come into contact with this much reality in life before graduation. Artificially is admittedly prevalent on the campus, due to the majority of students being here for an education and living on allowances, but the points of view brought into the classroom by those who have been out in the world are proving valuable to the neophytes.

Tomorrow this column will list the major issues of the campaign, and give each party's standpoint on them. Their promises of governmental economy will be discussed in detail.

CAMPAIGN HISTORY: Four years ago when Hoover went into office, Congress was Republican by a large majority. Now Congress is slightly Democratic, and after this election, the Democratic majority will be greatly increased. Will Mr. Hoover be there to face it?

When Cleveland was elected President in 1892, his Congress was dominated by the same party—the Democrats. Then came a depression, and the Republicans gained control of Congress. At the next election, Cleveland went out.

When the Republican, Taft, was elected in 1908, he had a Congress of the same political party. But the Democrats soon replaced that Republican majority. Taft lost the next election.

Wilson then had the same experience. His Democratic Congress was seized by the Republicans in 1918. In the next election, the Republicans also obtained the Presidency.

Will history repeat itself? Now that the Democrats control Congress, will they get the Presidency also? Probably.

DIGEST POLL: With the exception of a larger number of votes being tabulated, the Literary Digest Poll has not changed during the past week. Roosevelt has lost a little of his popular vote, but he still retains his 474 electoral votes, leaving Hoover 57.

SOCIALISTS: The Socialist party represented by Norman Thomas expects to poll a record-breaking vote next Tuesday. What do they propose?

1. Public ownership, control, and operation, of our mines, forests, oil and power resources, utilities, and communication and transportation systems.

2. The creation of a unified Federal banking system to replace the many private banks now in existence.

3. Taxes which would bring to the state all large inheritances, and the major portion of the large incomes.

4. With the profits from the publicly operated industries, and the money from these taxes, the government would aid the poor and the destitute.

5. A great program of building public works—highways, parks, bridges, etc.—would be undertaken.

Mr. Thomas says his purpose is "collective ownership and management for use rather than profit in order to create an abundance of those things which people need for themselves."

The Socialist, like other third parties, is not important from the standpoint of ever winning an election, but its proposals do influence the standpoints taken by the two major parties. Many party planks have arisen in a third party platform, only to be appropriated when it is seen that they have a popular appeal.

Voting to Be Topic Of Baptist Service

"How Should a Christian Vote?" will be the subject of the evening service of the University Baptist Church Sunday, November 6, Dr. Walter H. McKenzie, pastor, said Friday. A musical program under the direction of Mrs. M. Y. Colby and Dr. C. P. Boner will be given.

WEBB TO DISCUSS 'FAITH'

Dr. Ernest C. Webb, instructor in Bible at the Wesley Bible Chair, has chosen the subject, "In Case I Lose My Faith," for his lecture to be given Sunday at 9:45 o'clock to his Sunday school class at the University Methodist Church. He will treat the subject from both a personal and non-personal point of view, Hugh W. Garland, reporter for the class, said Friday.

CAMPUS CHATTER

By BILL DOZIER

Not intended at all as a sales talk for the new student directory or anything like that—but I do believe that that volume which has just made its much-heralded appearance is of more practical value than any bulletin published by the University, with the possible exception of the various catalogues. Just think (if such action is at all possible) of the things which it contains: the names, addresses, and telephone numbers of every faculty member, officer, student assistant, and bona fide student in the entire University; a list of all campus extra-curricular organizations with the names of their leaders, and all sorts of valuable information about said clubs, societies, and what-have-you of general interest to all. Incidentally, I think the directory is the only University bulletin which is not distributed gratis, but that can easily be put aside by the statement—and a true one, too—that it's certainly worth ten cents!

The following story is too good to be left untold: It seems that there was in a certain saloon (modernize it, and make it a speakeasy if you prefer) the customary bar-lounger and hanger-on, who had finally "sponged" off of his friends for so many drinks that he decided if he was going to get any more libations without paying for them, more subtle methods must be used. After much pondering and deliberation he got the attention of several present and began unfolding the story of his African lion hunting experiences—all of which boiled down to something like this: The intrepid hunter was asleep in his tent one night when he awoke to find a ferocious African lion standing in front of him. they began to receive some powers of self-government.

This gain in political power was immediately enhanced upon by a far reaching program of education for adult citizens as well as children and youths. Lecture courses, study circles, and the promotion of music and drama so raised the level of intelligence and culture that when the great opportunity for complete independence came in 1918, the country was unusually well prepared.

In the first year of independence, there was launched a nationwide program for adult education. In 1924, this became crystallized into a central promotional center in Prague under the name of the Masaryk Institute for Adult Education.

One of the first laws of the nation provided that every community with a population of 2,000 people or more must have a public library. Today, in a country the same size as the state of Illinois, there are 16,000 libraries where Illinois has 200. These libraries strive to have not only the best books, but also the best librarians who are educational leaders in their respective communities.

Another vast program being carried on in the country is that of physical education. The famous Sokol organization, now 70 years old, is, to a large degree, responsible for the physical fitness of the Czechoslovakian people and also for keeping them fit morally and mentally, showing the world the possibilities of a great people living in a limited geographical area.

In closing his talk, Mr. Moore expressed the indebtedness of America to Czechoslovakia for sending to her a million and a half of her sons and daughters permeated with a high idealism, who have made hard workers and useful citizens. The United States looks to Czechoslovakian fellow-citizens for cooperation in the Adult Education Movement of Chicago and America.

Kindly Cop Helps Outcast.
WHAT happens to the modern day girl who is broke, homeless, lonely? "Vanity Street," now playing at the Queen Theater, shows what happened to one of them when she threw a brick through a drug store so that she would be taken to jail where she would be given a place to sleep and something to eat. Instead of taking the girl (Helen Chandler) to jail, the kindly cop, played by Charles Bickford, gives her the key to his apartment where she stays until he gets her a job in the follies. She falls in love with the cop, but he is a plain spoken man, and tells her she had better move into a place of her own now that she has a job. He also advises her to be smart and find a rich man who will fix her for life. When he takes her at his word, he discovers that he loves her, but on y after she has become involved in a murder. He is successful in extricating her from the clutches of the police, and the story has the usual happy ending. Miss Chandler gives one of her best performances in this picture in the role of Jeanie Gregg. But that is not saying much, for her lack of experience can be plainly discerned. She will probably improve. Bickford does well as the hard-boiled patrolman, and Raymond Hatton, Mayo Methot, Arthur Hoyt, and the rest are admirably cast. Nick Grinde does the directing, and does it well. Estimate: C.

Opening Today

"THE BIG BROADCAST," previewed by an enthusiastic audience last Saturday midnight, will return to the Paramount Theater screen today to remain through Tuesday. As publicized, it is the first feature picture to draw its cast almost entirely from favorite entertainers of the air, and everybody says it's a good one, full of entertainment. Bing Crosby, Cab Calloway, the Boswell Sisters, Kate Smith, Burns and Allen, the Mills Brothers, Arthur Tracy, and Vincent Lopez assist Stuart Erwin, Leila Hyams, and others.

"A BILL OF DIVORCEMENT" starring John Barrymore and Katharine Hepburn with a supporting cast of Billie Burke, and David Manners, opens today for a four day run at the Hancock. This picture promises to be worth seeing. The story is full of emotional appeal, and the cast alone is enough to attract attention. Miss Hepburn is a stage star of some note, and this is her first screen appearance. Great critics and show men have pronounced it one of the hits of the season. It is directed by George Cukor.

KAPPA DELTA HONORS NATIONAL INSPECTOR

Kappa Delta sorority held open house Friday night from 7 until 9 o'clock, honoring pledges, and Miss Bessie Faegan, national inspector for the organization. Colors used in decorations were green and white, carried out in the use of tiny white rose buds and daisies; the punch table was also decorated in green and white.

The pledges honored are Violet Sahm, Nancy Tartt, Helen Gragg, Lucile Mick, Mary Ella Miller, and Grace Morris.

Paul Cotulla, Tom Rousse, Frank Stafford, Nils Akeson, Frank Holloway, and Lowry Tims, from Acacia fraternity, will attend the Baylor game.

Opening Today

WHEELER AND WOOLSEY, in another of their D. T.'s, this time called "GIRL CRAZY," opens for today only at the Texas. Their capers this time take place in the Arizona desert, where they help a friend to jazz up a cow ranch. A sheriff annihilator, local elections, and counter plots should serve as a suitable vehicle for the famous comedy team's gags and stunts. We almost expect Bert Wheeler to be playing a bassoon to accompany a chorus of side-winder rattlesnakes.

Midnight Matinees

SHERLOCK HOLMES," featuring Clive Brook in the title role, will be the picture seen in a midnight matinee preview at the Hancock Theater tonight, 11:30 o'clock. Another in the series of popular adventures of the prototype of all famous sleuths, this film proceeds from the vantage point of having Mr. Brook, well-experienced in this particular role as well as others, to bear the burden of the acting. Love interest, the sine qua non of movies, is supplied by Miriam Jordan.

"THE OLD DARK HOUSE," from J. B. Priestly's novel, will be seen on the Paramount Theater screen tonight, 11:30 o'clock, in a midnight matinee preview. Boris Karloff, Gloria Stuart, Charles Laughton, and Lillian Bond taking the leading roles. The picture, what is commonly known as a thriller out of the whole cloth, concerns a single night's happenings to travelers caught in an ancient house inhabited by an insane family. A hint to the wise being sufficient, "The Old Dark House" may be regarded as more than a hint.

Recommends Starting On Small Town Paper

Barry, head of the Austin bureau of the Associated Press, speaking on "What I Like Most of All in Journalism" before members of Theta Sigma Phi, honorary journalism sorority for women Thursday night.

Mr. Barry said that the journalism student who receives his degree this year has as much chance of obtaining a position as he did several years ago for older men in the work are being pushed out by the younger ones. "There is nothing of greater help to a journalist than a college education," he added.

Frosh Make Two Touchdowns In Final Period

By IRVING CANTER

Team Sports Staff

Staging a spectacular last quarter passing attack, Alderson's Frosh came from behind to chalk up two touchdowns and a 18-3 victory over Allen Academy yesterday at Memorial Stadium.

The game was featured with thrills galore, which brought the enthusiastic crowd of approximately 800 to its feet time after time.

The Allen gridders scored first on a brilliant piece of strategy by their quarterback, Cook. On the first play of the game, Meyers "quick-kicked" from his own 20-yard line. The punt sailed over the head of the unprepared frosh safety man who was downed on the 3-yard line. When Johnson attempted to kick from behind his own goal line, the entire Allen forward wall surged through to block the punt with Moreau, end recovering for a touchdown. Smart blocked Donaldson's try for the extra point.

Twice more the Academy threatened the frosh goal line, but with the shadows of their own goal posts looming over them, the frosh put up a stone wall defense to take the ball on downs. With the half speedily approaching its end, the frosh offense began to function with great effectiveness. Runs by Hadlock and Johnson put the ball on the Allen 20-yard line. Finding the Allen front line impregnable, Johnson passed to Gossett for a touchdown. Hadlock failed to convert the extra point; his placement kick went wide by scant inches as the first half ended.

Pass Intercepted
DeBona uncorked a passing attack in the third quarter in an attempt to break the 6-6 tie. Isabel, Allen end, intercepted one of these passes on his own 20-yard line. He was in the clear when Livingston came up from the rear to pull him down. With the ball on his own 20-yard line, DeBona used a bad piece of judgment when he called for a pass. Donaldson promptly intercepted this pass, and chased by the entire frosh eleven, ran for a touchdown.

A fumbled punt by Johnson was recovered by Vannes on the frosh 22-yard line. The frosh line again proved to be a thorn in the Allen attack, and the academy lost the ball on downs. However the Bryan gridders again threatened when Allen intercepted Johnson's pass on the frosh 30-yard line. Once more the brilliant front line of the yearlings succeeded in checking the onslaughts of their opponents.

Spirited Attack
The freshmen then put on a spirited attack in an effort to tie the count. Coming like a thunderbolt from the skies, Johnson threw a beautiful pass to Hadlock, who outspurred the Allen backs to run 60 yards for a touchdown. Wetzel muffed the chance to tie the score at 12 all when his placement went wide of the mark.

Not to be stopped in their desperate parade for victory, the frosh succeeded in winning the ball over on downs on the mid-field stripe. Johnson, whose passes had been as poison to the academy's hopes all afternoon, ran far behind his scrimmage line to hurl a long spiraling pass down the field to the frosh end, Wilson. Leaping high in the air, Wilson made a spectacular catch to wrest the pass out of the hands of two Allen backs, and run for a touchdown.

down. The crowd, which was going wild with joy, did not seem to notice or care when Hadlock missed the extra point.

However, the Allen eleven had just begun to fight, and launched a desperate last-minute attack in an attempt to avoid defeat. Coley gave the crowd its final thrill of the afternoon. When he ran back the kickoff, it seemed as if he

Game Guessers Give Texas 6 Touchdowns Over Bears' 1

WHAT some of the boys and girls, University officials and instructors, and football players have to say about today's game:

Bess Harris, one of the campus' queens: It may be a female opinion, but we whip the Bears by a 21-0 score.

Burnett Pharr, director of the Longhorn Band: We have our best team in years. I'll risk 13-0 as a guess. I believe that only T. C. U. stands between us and the conference championship.

Jimmy Miller, manager of Brackenridge Hall dorm: With Koy back in the line-up, the Steers should have a ripping meal of b'ar meat. And the score should be about 25-6.

Sears "Oochie" Earle, the boy who plays such a mean left end for the Longhorns: Playing in our own home town for the first time since 1927, "Ox" Blanton and I will do our best in our own backyard. Texas will win. It'll be a good game. Come and see it!

Marty Karow, varsity back-field coach: Baylor has a darn good defensive line. It's as good as any in the conference. In order to beat them, T. C. U. had to pass or work the ends to beat 'em. So we've a ball game on our hands—not a set-up! But we'll come out on the right side of the ledger.

"Block" Smith, secretary of the University Y. M. C. A.: It's just our year—that's all! We're due for a conference championship. If old Stafford plays like he did last Saturday, we'll beat Baylor by three touchdowns.

Martha Lockett, Littlefield Dormitory matron: I'm terribly interested, for I've been a fan for thirty years. Although I still don't know much about football I think we will win.

Herchel Moody, stellar Longhorn tackle: We ought to beat them by at least three touchdowns, but we will have a tough fight.

Hill Hodges, vice president of the Students' Association and former Steer guard: With the team playing their best brand of football the score will be about 27-0. If we aren't up to par it'll be a tight fight. With Koy, Hilliard, and Stafford and the rest of the boys at their best we're at least as good as T. C. U.

Dean T. U. Taylor of the School of Engineering: Were liable to strike a team of grizzly bears, but Clydell have a majority of the points when the last whistle blows.

Dean Hildebrand of the School of Law and Dean Taylor's side-kick: We've a championship team and I don't think any in the conference can stand up against it. My guess is that Baylor will go down before a 36-0 score.

"Shorty" Alderson, freshman football coach who has scouted Baylor: The game will be a defensive one. Both teams have powerful lines. Baylor averages 191 pounds from end to end. The Bears have three candidates for all-conference berths. Like all the others, they like to take Texas. But our offense is as strong as our defense; therefore, we will win by not less than one or more than two touchdowns.

"Hank" Clewis, quarterback or the Longhorns: Baylor has a good team, but it hasn't had the breaks this year. In the first half of their game with T. C. U., they did not allow the Frogs a single first down. A team that does that has plenty. But we will win. I think we will beat them by one touchdown.

Dr. Frederic Duncalf, professor of medieval history: We've a good were going to get in the clear and score, but Johnson stopped him at the 50-yard line.

Glowing tribute must be paid to Northwaite, Tucker, Hardin, Smart, Boyd, Phillips, and the rest of the brilliant frosh line that so sturdily checked the advances of the Allen eleven and enabled their team to come through with a victory. Hadlock, Johnson, Arnold, Wetzel, Priebsch, Wysong, and Gossett, who furnished the offensive punch, should also come in for their share of the victory.

Allen Academy, too, had stars that were noble even in defeat. Isabel, Captain Gleson, Deware, Moreau, Forbes, and Dillon were the shining lights of the forward wall. In the backfield, Donaldson, Allen, Vannes, Coley, and Gillman played well.

Lane Blakeney Cops First Place

Capturing five of the first eight places, the Longhorn Cross-Country team defeated the Aggie harriers yesterday afternoon on the local course, 27-28. Captain Lane, Blakeney broke the tape first with the time of 20 minutes and 14 seconds.

The Steers defeated the Aggies last year on the Aggie course by a larger margin, and won the conference title a few weeks later. Their showing yesterday stamps them as the favorites to cop the crown again this year, as they have easily defeated both S. M. U. and Rice in dual meets. The fact that the meet will be held in Austin is also in the Steers' favor.

Close on Captain Blakeney's heels was Hector Fuentes, ace of the Aggie harriers. The Cook twins, Aggie sophomores, copied third and fourth place. Others finished in the following order: Blitch (Texas); Cox (Texas); Cohen (Texas); Smith (Agies).

The next dual meet will be with the Abilene Christian team, Monday, November 14.

Frogs Score 27-0 Win Over Cowboys

Special to The Daily Texan

ABILENE, Nov. 4.—The T. C. U. Horned Frogs, flashing an amazing aerial attack that looked like Ray Morrison's better days, took the Simmons College Cowboys into camp without half trying here today, 27 to 0.

The Frogs, led by Brannon and Dennis, completed 18 tosses out of 29 attempts for a total of 191 yards, and scored in each of the four quarters.

DEPARTMENT GIVES PLAY
"The Singapore Spider," a play, will be presented by actors from the City Recreation Department for the Sunday Club at Gregg House Sunday at 6:30 o'clock. Victor Kormeier, University student, and Juanita Simpson are co-directors for the production.

Helen Donovan, ex-secretary of the Students' Association: If Koy and Hilliard play, we will win 35-0. If they don't, it will be more nearly even. Stafford will come through with his usual beautiful game of blocking and tackling.

Crippled Aggies Battle Mustangs

Special to The Daily Texan

COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 4. Their backs to the Southwest Conference wall, figuratively speaking, and their injury roster longer than it has been at any time this season, an embattled Texas Aggie football team entrained Friday afternoon for Dallas where it will meet Southern Methodist University's Mustangs Saturday afternoon at Ownby Stadium. The tilt will be homecoming day for former S. M. U. students and also will be the occasion of a corps trip by the Aggie student body.

Thirty-one players composed the Aggie squad for the trip, the largest number of players to be taken to a foreign game this season, but at least three of these are expected to see little if any service. They are Captain Jimmy Aston, Farmersville, halfback; Henry Graves, Corsicana, halfback; and Ted Spencer, Gilmer, fullback. Aston and Graves have not fully recovered from injuries received in the Baylor game, and Spencer is nursing a shoulder injury received in the Centenary tilt. Injured linemen who were left at home included George Lord, Bob Russi, and Morrison Breedlove, guards; Jack Roach, center; Peck Marka and Emmitt Smith, tackles.

The Aggie student body will leave for Dallas on a special train composed of fifteen coaches Saturday morning at 4 o'clock.

Members of Delta Chi fraternity who will attend the Texas-Baylor game are Paul Werner, James Strawn, and Clifford Carpenter.
