Pierson to Administer Oath of Office to Allred at Noon

Jimmie Allred Takes Fling In Politics Early in Life And Finally Gets Somewhere

James V. Allred, who will be inaugurated Governor today, was born in the little dusty town of Bowie, March, 1899, back in the days of the cattle drivers, cowboys, and bad men of West Texas. Brought up with four brothers and two sisters, Jimmie Allred spent his boyhood days in Bowie where the notorious street Smoky Row, was known the length and breadth of West Texas wherever cowmen gathered to tell tall tales of booming guns in the dust of that street.

Boyhood memories of the killings in those days left an indelible print in the mind of Jimmie Allred resulting in part, doubtless, in his urge for the establishment of a modern State police system and the stamping out of crime in his recent gubernatorial platform.

Weighty Problems Confront Regents Of University

When the Board of Regents of The University of Texas meets within the next few weeks to organize and plan its program for the next two years, it will be confronted with many problems which will have a vital bearing on the future welfare of the institution and its activity.

The Board consists of nine members, three members being appointed every two years. Members whose terms expire in January, 1935, are Beauford H. Jester of Corsicana, chairman, Charles I. Francis of Houston, and Dr. Edward Randall of Galveston. Governor-elect James V. Allred has given no indication as to whom he will appoint to the Board. It is probable that his announcement on this subject will not be made for a period of ten days yet.

Mrs. Fairchild Named
L. J. Sulak of La Grange has resigned from the Board in order to take his seat as a member of the State Senate and Governor Miriam A. Ferguson has named Mrs. I. D. Fairchild of Lufkin as his successor. Mrs. Fairchild's appointment will come before the State Senate for confirmation this week.

The term of office for this place on the Board expires January, 1939.

Other Regents who serve until 1939 are Dr. K. H. Aynesworth of Waco and H. J. Litcher Stark of Orange.

Regents whose terms expire in January, 1937, are J. T. Scott of Houston, Leslie Waggener, of Dallas, and H. H. Weinert of Seguin.

University Ranks High
When Governor-elect Allred's appointments are made and confirmed by the Senate, the Board will meet to reorganize and elect a chairman and vice-chairman.

In reviewing the University's position at the present time, the Regents will find that the institution has an enviable ranking among universities of the nation. It is a member of the exclusive Association of American Universities, composed of thirty of the leading universities of America with only three members—Virginia, North Carolina, and Texas—in the South. The Regents will find that there are three members of the University staff who have been honored with membership by the National Academy of Science and that the rest of the South has but two members.

It will see that the American Men of Science directory places stars, noting pre-eminence, beside the names of five faculty members of the University, three faculty members of Rice Institute, and no others in Texas. The University will be seen to rank second only to Michigan among the state-supported universities that are separated from the A. & M. branches. Recognition given the University and its staff by the General Education Board, the Guggenheim Foundation, the Rockefeller Foundation, the Rockefeller Foundation, the Rockefeller Foundation.

Lessons in Machine Voting End Today

Final demonstrations of an automatic voting machine will be held today from 12 to 1 o'clock and from 3 to 4 o'clock in Garrison Hall auditorium. Demonstrations are in charge of Stanley H. Lounsbury, representative of the Automatic Voting Machine Company.

Not as many students are attending the demonstrations this year as two years ago, Mr. Lounsbury said. He offered as an explanation the fact that inspections are not conducted by professors as they were then.

This year's demonstrations are the third series which Mr. Lounsbury has conducted here.

College Peace Poll Under Way

The Literary Digest and the Association of College Editors have mailed more than 300,000 questionnaires to college students in the United States and Canada to be tabulated in a Peace Poll.

These 300,000 students are representatives of over one hundred colleges. The poll is an effort to record the extent of the sentiment in American colleges against war.

The Literary Digest says, "Everywhere, press and public are becoming aware of the fact that some sort of conscious movement is under way in American colleges. This College Peace Poll is to determine the direction of that movement to wipe out war."

The League of Nations is polling every household in England on the same five questions that are being used in the College Poll. The ballots there go to all men and women over eighteen.

Moore Recalls Own School Days

Dean V. I. Moore told the combined student and faculty committees of the Fireside Forum, which met last night at the Commons, that one of his most pleasurable recollections from his school days at Vanderbilt was the contact he enjoyed with faculty members there.

"The larger a university becomes," he said, "the less personal becomes the contact between the faculty and students." One of the prime purposes of the Fireside Forums is to serve as a medium for social and cultural fellowship, and again bring them into that friendly fellowship which allows them to share their convictions and problems.

Dean Moore was the faculty chairman of the series of student-faculty forums which was held here for the first time seven years ago.

February 11 is the date set for the beginning of this year's forum program which was announced at the meeting last night. One of the round-table discussions will be held every other week for eight weeks at each house this year.

Ceremonies to Take Place On Capitol Steps; DeBerry To Introduce New Governor

By ROBERT PATTERSON

James V. Allred, Texas's "New Deal Governor," will take the oath of office as chief executive of the State at noon today. The ceremony will be held on the steps of the State Capitol where temporary speaking stands have been erected. A crowd of ten thousand people is expected. In the event of rain the inaugural ceremony will be transferred to the House of Representatives chamber.

Redditt Favors Flexible System Of Appropriations

Appropriations for the University, other institutions of higher education, and all State departments will be put on a more flexible basis if recommendations of Senator John S. Redditt, chairman of the Senate Committee on Finance, are followed in drawing up appropriation measures for the State government.

Senator Redditt, who has introduced educational, departmental, and eleemosynary appropriation measures in the Senate, explained yesterday that the bills were "dummy measures" placed on the record to open up their subjects and to insure a place for their consideration on the calendar.

Salary Scale Proposed
Under Redditt's plan, the University and each of the other educational institutions would be given a specific amount to take care of expenses, and the governing boards and presidents of the institutions would be allowed to allocate salaries and expenses as they became necessary, subject to certain maximum salary scales to be fixed by the Legislature.

Senator Redditt emphasized that the plan would not make for "lump sum" appropriations, but that a maximum and minimum expenditure for each department in the University would be made. "In that way," he said, "the University would be placed on a more business-like basis. No large business concern expects to operate on a dollar by dollar specific allocation for two years following, and that is the system which we have been operating under."

Committee to Set Limits
Specific limitations on money to be expended for traveling expenses and other details of such a plan would be worked out by the committee when it meets with heads of educational institutions on their appropriation bill sometime in the early part of the session, Senator Redditt explained.

"The time has come for a better understanding between the University and the Legislature," he said. "We must place our trust in the University, and the University must put its trust in the Legislature."

To Care for Promotions
In specific departments the plan would make allowance for promotions on a basis of merit, and would take care of situations arising from resignations or deaths when a detailed appropriation for that job has been made by the Legislature.

"I believe that the plan will result in more efficiency in the operation of governmental agencies, and in the end will save the State money," Senator Redditt declared. Each educational institution would be required to make a quarterly budget for the Board of Control, showing its contemplated expenditures for that period, as would each department and eleemosynary institution. Surpluses not used by the State agency, over the maximum fixed by the Legislature, would be carried over to revert to the treasury, Senator Redditt said.

Proposed Bill to Bar Affiliation Rules

The State Board of Education or any State-supported school or college will be unable to enforce rules or regulations proposing to limit or withdraw affiliation or State aid because of insufficient certificates or degrees of the teaching personnel, if a bill introduced by Representative Alfred Petsch of Fredericksburg is passed by the Legislature.

The proposed measure declares all such rules and regulations unlawful and void. It has been referred to the committee on education.

Oath of office will be administered by Associate Justice William Pierson of the Texas Supreme Court. He will serve in the absence of Chief Justice C. M. Cureton.

Woodul to Speak
Lieutenant Governor-elect Walter Woodul will take the oath of office first and will make a short address.

Allred has requested that Senator Tom DeBerry of Bogata present him for his inaugural address.

When he takes his oath of office today, James V. Allred will place his hand on a book which is not only sacred but which has a history as old as the State itself. On its flyleaf is written "The Property of the Supreme Court of Texas, 184-." The handwriting is supposed to be that of John Hemphill, first chief justice of the Supreme Court of Texas.

This Bible, which was used in the inauguration of General Sam Houston and which has been kissed by every chief executive since that time, is a King James Edition. It is stained with age and its pages are frayed at the edges.

Senator DeBerry, who is second to Senator T. J. Holbrook of Galveston in the point of service in the State Senate, had never before actively supported any candidate for governor in his fourteen years as senator until Allred's campaign last summer.

Relatives on Platform
Allred has also requested that the following relatives be seated on the speaker's platform "if there is room": his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Renne Allred, Sr., of Bowie, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Miller of Wichita Falls, Mrs. J. N. Kimberlin of Altus, Mrs. Allred's grandmother, Allred's four brothers, O. H., Ben, Raymond, and Renne, Jr., and his sisters, Mrs. T. J. Christian of Fort Worth and Miss Hazel Allred of San Antonio.

Governor Miriam A. Ferguson and her husband, James E. Ferguson, will probably attend the ceremony since it is the custom for the out-going governor to be on hand as his successor is administered the oath of office.

Ferguson Regime Ends

When Governor Ferguson clears her desk and turns it over to the incoming governor, the almost quarter of a century regime of Fergusonism in Texas politics will be closed. Whether either James E. Ferguson or his wife will ever again seek public office is doubtful. Mr. Ferguson has said that he will keep in close touch with activities in the Capitol and will express his opinions regarding them.

Austin streets were thronged yesterday with crowds of Texans who had journeyed to the Capital City to see the young governor in the United States to be inducted into office this year and the second youngest governor ever to hold the office in Texas. Allred is 35; Dan Moody was inaugurated when he was 32.

Bands to Play
There will be music throughout the day as a half dozen or more volunteer military and civil bands will play in hotel lobbies, on downtown streets, and about the Capitol. The gubernatorial salute will be fired by National Guardsmen from Allred's home town, Wichita Falls.

The inaugural ball, which will be held at four different places will take place tonight. The official receiving line will attend all of the dances, starting at the Gregory Gymnasium where the grand march will be held, then at the Senate Chamber, and later at the State Capitol.

Here's a Closeup Of Jimmie Allred

(Editor's Note: The following personality sketch of Jimmie Allred appeared in the Houston Chronicle last August. It was written by William C. Repass, who was recently made managing editor of the Chronicle. It is reprinted here because we feel that of all the columns written about Texas's young governor, this one best captures in type the spirit of his personality.)

What is Jimmie Allred, otherwise James V. Allred, at 35 years attorney general of the great State of Texas really like?

What do you find when you brush away the rubbish that a political campaign brings from friend and foe?

Is he just a clever upstart, capitalizing on bombast in a restless, uneasy era? Is he really a little boy with big britches, likely to never grow up to fit them?

Or does he have something that entitles him to ask for the post of chief executive of a wealthy, inspiringly powerful commonwealth of 6,000,000 citizens, in a time of economic and social doubt and distress, when the best of all leadership is vitally needed?

I sought honestly for an answer to these questions after Allred's handsome lead in the first gubernatorial primary and I want to try to pass along the answer I got. It will be plain, I hope, that in the personal references, I am just taking the simplest way of telling something worth telling. I have tried to check and test out my own impressions.

Some time back, the editor of The Chronicle told how Jimmie Allred came to him, asking for support in his first race for attorney general, how he failed to get that support, but did win the editor's respect and admiration.

About the same time, Jimmie Allred paid a visit to a much less important office in the Chronicle. He came in to see me at the end of a hectic, sweaty afternoon. He had his hat in one hand and a sheaf of papers in the other.

He said: "Howdy? My name is Allred. I'm from Wichita Falls and I'm running for attorney general, and I'd like to—uh—get a little something in your paper."

I looked up, irritated, from a piece of "rush copy." But then I smiled and took his outstretched hand. He looked so young, even to me. He was under 30. He looked like a kid.

Orange Jackets To Act as Guides For Visitors

The doors of the University and all of its departments will swing open, figuratively speaking, to all campus visitors here for the inaugural ceremonies today.

Members of the Orange Jackets will be stationed at the Texas Union all day to act as guides for visitors wishing to inspect the campus and its buildings. Read Granberry, chairman of the campus reception committee, who is directing the campus guide corps, said.

Charles Zivley, manager of Texas Union, stated Monday that the building will be open all day for inspection. Texas Union building employees will be available to conduct visitors through the building.

All University buildings, laboratories, and museums will hold open-house for visits during today and tomorrow. Little Campus Dormitory is also prepared to entertain visitors.

Inaugural visitors desiring to see the campus are asked to apply at the Texas Union for guides. Eva Hart, president of the Orange Jackets, will be in charge of the members of that organization serving in this capacity.

Mr. Granberry requests that all administrative officers and department heads who have buildings under their supervision post individuals in the buildings today and tomorrow to direct campus guests.

The conference, which is to be held at the First Baptist Church, will also be attended by P. H. King of Detroit, president of the International Society of Crippled Children; Dr. W. R. MacMaufland of Boston, a noted orthopedic surgeon; and H. B. Cummings of the Educational Bureau of the Department of Interior of Washington.

RETURN HOUR ANNOUNCED

Mrs. Ruby Terrill-Lomax, dean of women, has announced that all women students who attend the Inaugural Ball must register with their housemothers. The return hour is 2:30 o'clock Wednesday morning.

Representative Worley Takes Allred for a Spin

Representative Eugene Worley of Shamrock fulfilled a campaign promise when he "took Jimmie Allred for a ride" in his $35 campaign car at the Democratic State convention in Galveston, where the above picture was taken. Representative Worley is a student of the School of Law, Governor-elect Allred was accompanied on the ride by U. S. Senator Tom Connally and his son, Bob. Representative Worley (back of the wheel) is 25 years of age, and says that he had the car since early childhood.

Six Texas Attorney Generals Have Risen to Governorship

James V. Allred, entering the office of the governor of the State of Texas today, will be the sixth governor to have also held the office of Attorney General of Texas. Out of the thirty previous governors, Allred is also the ninth native-born Texan to rise to the highest position offered by the State.

Each preceding governor has held different offices of public trust, but James Pickney Henderson, Andrew J. Hamilton, James S. Hogg, Charles A. Culberson, Dan Moody, and the incoming Governor are the only former attorneys for the State.

Henderson First Governor

James Henderson also had the distinction of being the first governor of the new State, Texas. He was born in North Carolina in 1809; he studied diligently and was admitted to the bar before he was 21. In 1836 he raised a company of volunteers and came to Texas to help fight for her freedom. A few months later he was appointed Attorney General by Dr. Anson Jones, the last president of the Republic of Texas. He also served as special minister to England and France in 1837 to win recognition for Texas and as a minister to the United States to bring about her annexation. Elected governor in 1845 he left the office to take part in the Mexican War and proved himself to be a worthy soldier. He resumed his office at the end of the war but refused a second term because of ill health. In 1857 he was elected to the Senate, but he died a few days after taking his seat, leaving behind him the reputation of being "the ablest man ever in public life in Texas."

Hamilton a Unionist

Andrew J. Hamilton, tenth governor and second to be attorney general, also was born in Alabama in 1815. In 1845 he came to Texas and settled in Austin. He held offices of Representative, Presidential Elector and Congressman. A Unionist at heart, his conscience would not allow him to assist Texas after her secession. He remained in Washington until after the war and was then appointed Provisional Governor by President Johnson. After his term he also served as Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of Texas and a member of the Second Reconstruction Convention. He died in 1875 at his home in Austin.

James S. Hogg, who has the distinction of being the first native-

Proctor System For Final Exams Yet Undecided

Will the proctor system go into effect during exams? This is the question to be settled by the President and the Administration Council, Dr. C. M. Montgomery, professor of Romance languages and chairman of the committee on proctoring, said Monday.

Besides Dr. Montgomery, the committee consists of Dr. O. B. Williams, Dr. W. T. Mather, Dr.

G. H. Newlove, W. A. Smith, and B. E. Short, and their report approving a system of proctors has been sent to President Benedict's office.

The system advocated by the committee is that each member of the teaching staff shall preside over the examination, or appoint a proctor, at least one for each class exceeding twenty students. Graduate students and seniors will act as proctors, and they may be either girls or boys. The amount that they will be paid will also be determined by the President and the council.

The purpose of the system is to prevent dishonesty. The proctor will make a report of the conduct of the students during an examination, and if any student is seen cheating, he shall be asked to leave. It was also recommended by the committee that the exams, as near as possible, be conducted in the auditoriums and gymnasiums of the University.

Longhorn Basketeers Leave Today for Game With Texas Aggies Wednesday Night

STEER SPOTLIGHTS

By CHRISTIE MITCHELL

IT'S THE STEERS AND THE HOGS NOW

Pacing the conference basketball race is a rangy Longhorn Steer and a wild, dangerous-looking Arkansas Hog.

When the Rice Owls stomped the Baylor Bears to win their first football title, Rice supporters and sports writers were convinced it was a Rice year. Throughout the State experts picked the Rice quintet, coached by the famed Jimmy Kitts, to take the conference basketball flag. With all the words flowing as to how powerful and how dangerous the Institute basketball team was going to be, the Rice Owls began to erase its sleepy look and took on the appearance of a fighting eagle. But last week the Porkers shot arrows through the Owl's championship hopes by defeating them 31-30, and 37-19.

A. & M. SHOULD BE EASY

After the Longhorns stomped over the Baylor Bears Saturday night, the Porkers see a serious opponent in the high flying Steers, featuring the gold dust twins, Jack Gray and Jean Francis, two sweetest forwards in the conference. Wednesday the Longhorns go to College Station, home of the Texas Aggies. The Steers should take the Farmers, but the game will be close. The Aggies are always tough on their maple floor. With a thousand yelling Cadets and a band that plays the fight song "Wildcat" over and over, the Aggies usually score in spurts. Their best trick is rallying in the last few minutes of play to win the game when they are only a few points behind.

After watching DeMoy Paulk sink goals from all angles of the court Saturday night, we are willing to wager a plug of tobacco against a tin whistle Marty Karow had pleasant dreams that night. Anytime the Steers put three men like Gray, Francis, and Paulk on the floor at one time, and all three are hot and hitting the basket, no team in the conference, not even the high flying Hogs, can stop them. Maybe we are optimistic, but that is what we are expecting to see when the Longhorns meet Arkansas.

RELAYS TO BE COLORFUL

From all indications the Texas Relays this spring are going to be the most elaborate in the track history of the University. Universities and colleges from all over the nation are sending in their entries. If Clyde Littlefield succeeds in bringing world champions like Glen Cunningham, Bill Bonthron of Princeton, Jack Torrance of L. S. U. or Ralph Metcalfe of Marquette, there is no doubt in our mind that Memorial Stadium will be as full on the day of the relays as it is on Thanksgiving Day during the Aggies-Texas clash.

A CONFERENCE FOR GIRLS' TENNIS

Conference matches between girls' tennis teams is the dream of Charlotte MacQuiston, ace girl tennis player of the University. MacQuiston swings a dangerous racquet and can give most men players all the competition they can handle.

In spite of the good tennis played in the conference, it fails to draw crowds. It hasn't been badlyhood enough to make the public tennis conscious. From personal observation, we know a good girl tennis player attracts much more attention than a good male tennis player. It might be possible that the formation of conference teams among girls, which would play the matches the same time the boys played theirs, would be the necessary color to draw the crowds. No one will deny that a pretty girl swinging a racquet makes a very charming picture.

HERE AND THERE . . .

They tell us . . . A man has about as much chance getting the ball when Jean Francis starts swinging his arms, windmill fashion, in front of him, as a rabbit has of attacking a mountain lion . . . Dr. Paul Schoch, professor of physical chemistry, plays a fast game of handball . . . Wilmer Allison, the nation's leading tennis player, shoots golf in the low 70's and plays a good game of ping pong . . . Saturday Dr. Penick took on Bruce Baxter in a fast set of tennis . . . Johnny Beckman, ace forward for the Magnolia Flyers, is looking for someone in the University who can give him some competition in ping pong.

TEACHERS ON TOUR

COMMERCE, Jan. 14.—(INS) Four road games stiffen the schedule of the East Texas State Teachers' College Lions this week. After two days' drill, they move to Abilene to meet the Hardin-Simmons five Wednesday and Thursday nights, and jump to San Marcos for a two-game series against the Southwest Texas Teachers Friday and Saturday. Thus far, the Lions have dropped three out of four.

Steers to Meet Fourth Opponents In Circuit Race

By JOHN BECKMAN

The University of Texas basketball team, elated by its easy victory over Baylor here Saturday night, will leave today for College Station where it will engage Texas A. & M. College Wednesday night.

The Steers snapped through a light practice drill Monday, special attention being given to smoothing off the rough spots in their offense.

The Longhorns are doped to take the Aggies and thus stretch their conference winning streak to four games; but the Aggies, who, after a slow start came along so rapidly that they played the Rice Institute Owls a tight game, may have improved enough to defeat the Texas team, especially since they are playing before their home crowd and on their home court.

Guards Drilled

With Captain Jack Gray hitting the basket regularly, and with DeMoy Paulk's improvement to cheer him, Coach Marty Karow in Monday's practice had his guards concentrate on bringing the ball up the court and passing it to the forwards, something this year's team has been deficient in as compared with the teams of the past two years.

Play Again Saturday

The Texas guards will have an especially difficult assignment in this game, as they must hold down the lanky Aggie scoring ace, Tommy Hutto, in order for the Steers to win. Clifton, being the taller of the starting guards, will probably be given this duty.

The traveling squad will consist of Captain Jack Gray, Jean Francis, Paul Wittman, Demoy Paulk, Henry Clifton, Claude Harris, Jack Taylor, Ford Witherspoon, Marshall Pennington, Jack Collins, Jim Lawson, Manager John Dittmar, Trainer Kel Kelly, and Coach Marty Karow.

Following Wednesday's game, the team will return to Austin where it will prepare for an encounter with Coach Jimmy St. Clair's Southern Methodist University Mustangs here Saturday.

Rice Cagers Whip T.C.U. Frogs, 36-24

Special to The Daily Texan

FORT WORTH, Jan. 14.—After being held to a one-point lead in the first half the Rice Owls broke loose in the final 20 minutes here Monday night to defeat the T.C.U. Horned Frog cagers 36-24 passing beautifully and employing a fast break near the end of the encounter.

The Houston team was never in danger after the first five minutes of the second half. The game was the second defeat for the Frogs. The Owls after dropping two games to the Arkansas Porkers, appeared back in stride and won going away. They met S.M.U. in Dallas Tuesday night.

There was no scoring star of the game. Coach Jimmy Kitts of the Owls used eleven men and all of them scored goals. Darrell Lester led the Frogs at center with seven points.

The half ended 16-15 in favor of the Owls. With six minutes to play the count was 31-21, and although the Frogs pulled up to make it 31-24 the Owls spurted again to hold the lead safe.

Four More Schools Listed For Eighth Texas Relays

By WOOLFORD McFARLAND

Definite indications that they would participate in the Texas Relays were received yesterday from Iowa State University, Arizona University, Schreiner Institute, and Abilene Christian College, Clyde Littlefield, track coach, announced. These entries swell the list of participants to thirty teams for the college division.

All four of these colleges will send strong teams to the relays. Iowa State and Arizona are two of the major universities that were entered regularly in the Texas Relays when they were held before, during the period from 1925 to 1931. Track is an extremely popular sport in Iowa, Drake University at Des Moines being the home of the famous Drake Relays. Iowa State consistently produces strong track teams and will undoubtedly send leading contenders in all events.

A. C. C. Powerful

Abilene Christian College for the past few years has been engaging in a triangular meet with Texas and Rice, and each year the Christians have given these two strong Southwest Conference teams stiff competition. Schreiner Institute at Kerville has turned out many fine track men including H. V. Reeves, Texas's great sprint prospect of this year.

Formal announcements of the Texas Relays have been sent out to five thousand colleges representing all portions of the country. Entries are expected to continue coming regularly throughout the rest of January and February.

Coach Littlefield has contacted such great luminaries of the track and field as Glenn Cunningham of Kansas, Bill Bonthron of Princeton, Jack Torrance of L. S. U., and Ralph Metcalfe of Marquette in regard to making appearance here. Undoubtedly one or more of these stars will be in Austin to perform in exhibition.

Frazier Named Starter

Mule Frazier of Baylor will be the official starter as he has been for every session of the Texas Relays. He was one of the greatest track stars in the country at the height of his career.

The outstanding fight of the afternoon took place in the 175-pound class between John Hawley and Howard Fink. The decision was very close, but the judges agreed Hawley held the edge on Fink.

All those winning their bouts yesterday afternoon are eligible for the finals. The results were as follows:

Blalock to Fight Federal Control Of Oil Industry

Jack Blalock, independent oil attorney, who received his degree in law at the University in 1921, has gone to Washington to join the fight against federal control of the oil industry.

That Harold L. Ickes, Secretary of Interior, will try to "force federal control on an unwilling industry," is almost certain, Mr. Blalock believes.

"It has become evident that Ickes hoped that 'hot oil' would run, and that a break in prices would follow," Mr. Blalock stated. For the first three days after the United States Supreme Court decision holding federal control laws unconstitutional, Mr. Ickes stated that "hot oil" was running in East Texas in large quantities, and that the price would break to 50 cents a barrel, then 25 cents, then 10 cents. When it became evident that this was not happening, the Secretary stated that Texans were foregoing profits from "hot oil" to avoid federal control.

"The truth of the matter is that the situation is being handled by the State Railroad Commission and the Attorney General," Mr. Blalock, who was Governor James V. Allred's representative at a meeting of oil state governors last week, believes that control of oil production is a state matter and that the federal government has no constitutional authority over it.

Oxford Players To Appear Here

The Oxford Players will present "Hamlet," "The Ivory Door," "Romeo and Juliet," and "Dr. Faustus" February 4, 5, and 6 in Hogg Memorial Auditorium. The Austin branch of the American Association of University Women is sponsoring their appearance here.

The Oxford Players began about ten years ago at the University of Minneapolis when members of the college dramatics club organized to give local performances. From that they advanced to making short trips, gaining in reputation and increasing their scope. At the present time they are making a tour of the United States, performing in Houston, Fort Worth, San Antonio, Dallas, and Austin. "Hamlet" will be given Monday night; "Ivory Door," Tuesday at the matinee; "Romeo and Juliet," Tuesday night; and "Dr. Faustus," Wednesday night. Season tickets are offered to students for $1.50, and the individual night tickets will be 75 cents and 50 cents. Matinee prices are 50 cents and 25 cents.

University Uses Own Resources To Keep Cost to Taxpayer Low

Do you realize how inexpensive The University of Texas is to the taxpayers of the State? Most people do not know that the Legislature appropriates less than one-third of the annual operating cost of the University and that the remainder is taken from the institution's own resources.

The 1934-35 general budget for the Main University amounts to $1,402,737, not including the summer session. Of this total only $453,381 was appropriated by the Legislature. Tuition and fees collected from students amounts to $448,984, and the University Available Fund furnishes the remaining $610,372. Since there are approximately 7,000 students, the amount spent per student during the long session is in excess of $200.

Finance Building Program
Did the State finance the gigantic building program of the University now nearing completion? No—the University constructed the new buildings without State aid. In fact, the Texas Constitution specifies that no State money shall be granted to the University for the construction of buildings.

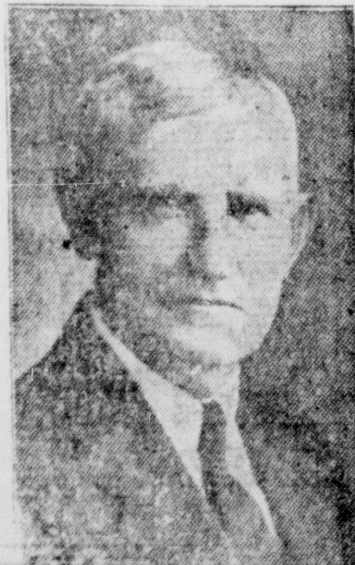

Assets of the University are in two funds: the Permanent Fund and the Available Fund.

The Permanent Fund consists of approximately 2,000,000 acres of land in West Texas, oil royalties off of this land, and proceeds from the sale of lands.

Figures released from the Auditor's Office state the value of the Permanent Fund to be $21,000,000. Of course, this does not include the value of the land itself. If a part of the land is sold, proceeds from the sale go to the Permanent Fund for investment.

Legislature Allots Fund
Money in the Permanent Fund may be invested in certain types

Commissioner

J. H. Walker, who is State land commissioner.

of securities as provided by law, but cannot be spent.

The income from these investments, land rentals, and surface leases constitute the Available Fund, which may be used as the Legislature specifies. One-third of the Available Fund, accruing from interest on the Permanent Fund, goes toward the maintenance of A. & M. College.

The Legislature allots the remainder of the Available Fund to apply on running expenses of the University (salaries, maintenance, etc.); expenses of administering the estate and lands; upkeep and repair of buildings; construction of new buildings; and retirement of bonded indebtedness for buildings already constructed.

An ingenious plan made possible the University building program. One of the types of securities in which the Permanent Fund can be invested is in bonds issued by the University. By law it was provided that $6,000,000 from the Permanent Fund could be invested in University Available Fund bonds, which were issued to finance the project. Two million of the total went to A. & M. for the same purpose. This money must be paid back to the Permanent Fund.

Main Building Contracted
Legislators realized that if such a plan were allowed to be repeated, the Permanent Fund might all be turned over to the Available Fund, leaving no principal at all. So a constitutional amendment was proposed and was approved by the electorate, making it impossible for such an arrangement again.

The method used to finance the building program made possible the construction of the new buildings during the depression, thereby enabling the University to get them much cheaper than under ordinary conditions and by so doing helped the unemployment situation in the vicinity.

Construction of the new Main Building-Library Extension is being financed through a different arrangement. The building is to cost $1,800,000 when completed. A loan of $1,200,000 and an outright grant of $433,000 was secured from the Federal Public Works Administration; $167,000 will come from the Littlefield Main Building Fund. The Available Fund will be used to pay back to the Federal government the loan and accrued interest.

younger. I thought of a poor wisecrack: "Will your mama let you run for that office?"

Then I remembered that as district attorney of one of the biggest counties in this big State he had made a great record, climaxed by winning a murder trial that made headlines for days. I began listening to him and I stayed overtime at the office that hot afternoon to see that his "little something in your paper" was fixed up.

I voted for Allred that year and took a delight in his amazingly big vote. Next election, when he won over the popular Robert Lee Bobbitt, I was an "Allred man." Yes, partly just because of the vain pleasure one gets in backing an unknown and seeing him run like a favorite. But mostly because he seemed so genuine, so courageous and so personally likeable.

After the first primary this year I developed a desire to talk with Allred again. I went to see him in Austin. I went with certain misgivings. When you are 38 and haven't become famous you are mighty skeptical about a mere youth of 36 who has risen far. Also I have been a reporter long enough to always look for the nigger in the woodpile. So before I saw Allred I talked with a smart, seasoned Austin newspaper man who had been seeing Allred almost every day for years.

Here, in substance, is what this fellow reporter said: "Oh, Jimmie has a good deal to learn, of course—but he learns fast. Watch him—he'll make you like him in ten minutes. But you'll keep on liking him, too. And he really has made a wonderful record. They can't dispute that; he has won suits... I'm for him. He has a lot of stuff on the ball. He may make some wild pitches, but he'll strike out the Babe Ruths between times."

The management of the Paramount today announced that, in spite of a heavy demand for seats, there still are some desirable seats available for both performances.

Come to see him—and if you want to call him "Jimmie," he'll like it."

Jimmie Allred (he'll be Jimmie from now on) was tanned from a scorching July sun, a bit thin from a more scorching campaign, a little jumpy from the bombs five angry candidates had hurled at him, harassed by the hundreds who were trying to pounce on him and tell him how to run his campaign, still a little dazed, perhaps, by the realization that he had such magnificent friendship and support from every nook and corner of this empire, Texas. He was woefully tired, of course, and he was trying to get away for a trip to Dallas in two hours. But he was gracious enough to talk with me for an hour and a half. And I wish I could picture him, tell just what he said, how he was "taking it."

Perhaps I am awkwardly painting in some outlines.

First of all, he certainly was not stuck up over his victory. He was genuinely modest, not with the modesty that comes from self-depreciation, but with the sort that comes from complete absorption in things away from self. He was concentrating on issues, problems, and on other people rather than on Jimmie Allred. He was eager for suggestion. I was ready to sense that extra subtle breed of flatery that takes form of asking for advice. It didn't seem to be there. Jimmie asks advice, but he doesn't promise to take it. He weighs and balances it with the giver. Sometimes he openly rejects it.

And he is quick to learn, quick as lightning. Give him the ghost of an idea and he is instantly turning it over, elaborating, expanding. He has the hair-trigger sort of mind, but he keeps firing test shots until he is sure he has really reached the target. Quick thinking, but thorough thinking. At every turn he is checking against the record, like the good lawyer he is. Diving into a pile of documents or making use of his amazing memory. If an idea doesn't align with the facts, he casts it off, no matter how pretty it was at first sight.

This because Jimmie is a realist. He is young in years but mature in experience. After all, he was seasoned as a boy in harsh adversity; and in three political campaigns and two terms of trying public office before he ran for governor. He is full of "hard sense." He is as wary as if he were 70 instead of 36. His grounding in the common law has given him a fundamental respect for existing institutions and he is not ready to upset the universe at a moment's notice. Still, he is a pronounced liberal, ready to try the drastic, even the radical remedy, if nothing milder will work. In this he strikes close to the balance attained by Louis D. Brandeis, associate justice of the Supreme Court and revered liberal. Jimmie became a disciple of Brandeis two years ago when he made a trip to Washington, and the eminent jurist was so impressed with Jimmie that he invited him to his home and put him on a footstool.

Attorney

Attorney General William McCraw, who took the oath of office last week.

That visit, perhaps, is responsible for Jimmie's repeated assertion that "We must seek betterment of government within our existing forms and institutions, not by revolution."

Jimmie also has counseled with some of the professors of government in The University of Texas and other Texas colleges, and he can quote them when someone wants to turn to the scientific side of state problems.

Foremost, though he is a realist. He not only asks what should be done; he asks also what can be done.

Realism is the keynote to his attitude toward tax questions. He knows that tax problems have been with us for centuries, never have been fully solved, never will be. Each sweet scheme for making everything fair and relieving the "little man." Jimmie examines searching. With his amazing memory he is able to show where this and that plan have been tried with disheartening failure. He believes that the constitutional amendment submitted by the legislature for a vote of the people next November, enabling the legislature to classify property and get much untaxed wealth on the rolls is the right approach to the solution. Also, he wants to simplify that process of assessing and collecting. Sweeping adjustments are needed, he believes, but he says candidly that he doesn't hold the result in the palm of his hand and that the best he can do is to influence the legislature to make an honest study, then courageous revision.

He has been called a crusader. Perhaps that is true. But a crusader, you remember, went out not only to fight but also to bring something home. Jimmie is that sort of crusader. For example, his whole smashing war on lobbying is a means to an end. He believes that you cannot get constructive treatment of any State problem until you keep the lobbyists in their place. He does not say hang them. He just says keep them as petitioners, not masters. The same for his determination to strictly regulate the utilities. He believes some of the large utilities have had an undue share in public affairs. "Make them obey the law and be good citizens, and then I'll be their friend," he insists.

***

Just one more highlight in this attempt at a picture of Jimmie Allred. He is the fighter he has been advertised as being, all right. On the eve of his second primary campaign, worn as he was, he seemed impatient to get into the fray again. He has no bullying, domineering, sneering sort of attack. He kept then, as he has kept since, among issues, not in the realm of personal abuse. He has tolerance and restraint. Smarting, doubtless, from the scorn and ridicule hundreds of orators had poured on him in the first campaign, he rarely makes a purely personal attack. His scorching invective is directed on the claims of opponents. But Jimmie is a warrior as more than one bruised candidate can testify. His infectious good humor and his genuinely friendly inclinations are momentarily set aside when the battle is on. Perhaps this accounts somewhat for the big votes he has rolled up. Texans do love a fighter. Jimmie will fight to the last bugle of this campaign.

Recoveries Money for Schools

Allred has added many millions of dollars to the permanent school fund through recovery suits, mostly involving oil lands. One judgment alone will eventually amount to more than $20,000,000 for the school children of the State.

The recent gubernatorial campaign is familiar in the minds of everyone. Entering the lists against a field of six strong candidates, Allred burned up the highways and byways of the State in a torrid campaign that resulted in his ultimate victory over Tom Hunter, his opponent in the runoff.

that same year, Jo Betsy Miller, talented musician graduate of Southern Methodist University and a Pi Beta Phi sorority member, married Jimmie Allred.

In 1930, the "young man going somewhere" won his campaign for Attorney General of Texas and immediately set about, after his induction into office, in establishing the brilliant record that marked his two terms as Attorney General.

As attorney for the State, Allred turned his attention to the trusts. The gigantic oil industry, in a state where the world's most productive oil fields lie, came under his close scrutiny, and the data accumulated resulted in the filing by the State of an anti-trust suit against fifteen major oil companies for violation of the State's rigorous anti-trust laws. The Roosevelt recovery program, with its sanction of trade agreements under governmental regulation of the N. R. A. resulted in a decision that the suits were untenable in the face of the recovery act. Allred appealed the case during the fall of 1934.

Allred is a member of the Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity and serves on the Alumni Advisory Board of the Texas chapter of Lambda Chi Alpha.

Regan Proposes University Land Tax Amendment

Lands in West Texas forming a part of the permanent endowment of The University of Texas would be taxed for county and school district purposes to the same extent as lands privately owned and the taxes paid from the available fund of the University under the provisions of a constitutional amendment which Senator Ken Regan of Pecos is asking the Legislature to submit for a vote of the people "at the next general election to be held throughout the State."

A similar amendment was voted upon in the general election last fall and was rejected by the people of the State by a vote of 207,068 to 135,000.

In the Senate Joint Resolution introduced Monday, Senator Regan proposes to amend Section 16, Article VII, of the Constitution, so as to hereinafter read as follows:

"Section 16. All lands mentioned in Section 11, 12, and 15, of Article VII, of the Constitution of the State of Texas, now belonging to The University of Texas shall be subject to taxation for county and school district purposes to the same extent as lands privately owned; provided they shall be rendered for taxation upon values fixed by the State Tax Board and that the values fixed for school district purposes on the same land; and provided that The University of Texas from the University available fund shall remit annually to each of the counties and school districts in which said lands are located an amount equal to the tax imposed upon such land for county and school district purposes."

A vigorous campaign for the same amendment was made last summer and fall by the University Land Tax Association with headquarters at Rankin Texas. This Association maintained that it was fair and just for the University to pay from its available fund taxes for school and county purposes in the counties in which the University land endowment was located. It was pointed out that the State now pays from the general revenue of the State the county taxes on this land and that schools in these districts were in dire need of tax money also. The amendment then voted upon as well as the new amendment proposed by Senator Regan would call for the abandonment of the present policy of remitting State taxes to these counties in the amount equal to a fair tax on the University lands and would require both county and school taxes to be paid from the University's fund. The University's available fund is now used to take care of a certain part of the operating expenses of the University and of A. & M. College to pay off the bonded indebtedness of the two institutions and to finance building operations at both schools.

Opponents of the amendment at the last election maintained that the taxing of State property for the benefit of the subdivision in which it is situated is unsound as a public policy. It was pointed out that the establishment of such a precedent would threaten the public school and asylum lands and might even bring about the taxation of school houses, court houses, and the State Capitol.

It was also urged that the adoption of such an amendment would reduce the already seriously limited budgets of the University and A. & M. College, whereas the University is now operating, through necessity, at a lower cost per student than any other first class University in America.

Opponents of the amendment insisted that "if the few counties wanting this amendment need more revenue they can get it by assessing valuable oil and surface leases now escaping practically all taxation."

ler Foundation, and by learned societies and organizations of the United States can be cited.

Cost Per Student Low

University financial statements will show that the cost of running the University in comparison with the number of students is significantly low. It can be shown that publicly-supported members of the Association of American Universities have an average income of approximately $400 per student, whereas The University of Texas has about $200 per student. The statistics will also reveal that the cost per student at the University is approximately the average of all State-supported higher educational institutions of Texas, including all teachers colleges, notwithstanding the more expensive graduate work which the University is called upon to give.

As far as upper division work is concerned, the reports will show that the percentage of higher division work, compared with lower division, grows steadily. Eight state universities, The University of Texas being one of the eight, confer more graduate degrees than all the other publicly-supported institutions of the United States combined. Freshman and sophomore, "lower division work," which is considered essential to the upper division, is costing less than $150 per student at the University.

Bills Fix Salaries

As they consider the possibilities for the continued service of the University to the State, the Regents will be confronted immediately with the problems of inelastic appropriation bills and low salary scales. The University officials have long urged that the Board of Regents should be given some discretion in the matter of fixing salaries of individuals on the University staff. The present appropriation bill specifies the salaries of all staff members and Regents are not allowed to alter these in any way. The University will urge that the Legislature can put proper safeguards in the appropriation bill by fixing maximum salary scales, and providing for complete printed reports and requests, without taking away the authority of the Regents to administer the budget.

Reduced Salaries Problem

Members of the Board of Regents have also expressed great alarm over the possible consequences of a continuation of the reduced salary scales that have prevailed during the current biennium. Salary cuts ranging from 25 to 31 per cent were put into effect at the beginning of this biennium, these cuts being accentuated by the necessity of discounting State warrants.

Regents have expressed the opinion that the University stands to lose some of its most valuable faculty members who are receiving better offers from other states.

The increased burden on the physical plant operating budget as a result of the larger plant and the problem of how to take care of the increasing demands of the people of Texas for the services of the University will also demand careful attention of the institution's governing board during the coming two years.

Work on Cactus Shows Increase Over 1934 Figure

Sixty-five per cent more photographs of Bluebonnet Belles have been made for the 1935 Cactus than were made for the year-book of 1934 at this stage of the work, Burt Dyke, business manager of the Texas Student Publications, announced Monday. "The gain has been registered in spite of the fact that full length as well as bust pictures are being made this time," he said.

A plea that all groups and organizations intending to nominate a Bluebonnet Belle do so at once was made by Mr. Dyke. "The girls nominated should make studio appointments at the business office, Journalism Building 108, in order that the production schedule of the Cactus may be protected. While no definite closing date on nominations of Bluebonnet Belles has been set, the limit will likely be about the middle of February," Mr. Dyke stated.

Cactus reservations for pages or pictures for groups and organizations are being taken by Miss Mildred Basford, secretary of the Texas Student Publications. Miss Basford urges all officers of organizations to come in early to the business office and indicate the amount of space desired so that reservations may be made. Officials of newly formed groups are especially invited to take space.

Brackenridge Aid Littlefield Aid University

With its thirteen new buildings The University of Texas stands not only as a monument to the progress of the State but also as a memorial to the men who have given unselfishly of time, labor, and money that the University might grow.

The University owes a debt to the men on the faculty who have contributed to its growth, to the members of the Legislature who have spent long hours considering its problems, and to outside friends who have donated money and gifts.

Two men in particular stand out when one thinks of the benefactors of the University: Major George W. Littlefield and George W. Brackenridge—strange that these benefactors should have the same first name and initial.

Gifts by Major Littlefield, cattleman and ex-Confederate officer, total in value more than a million and a half dollars.

Among the gifts of Major Littlefield are the following:

- (1) Littlefield Dormitory for Girls, built at a cost of $250,000.
- (2) The Wrenn Library, the most valuable collection of old English literature in the South and West and one of the most valuable in the world.
- (3) A fund of $155,000 for the collection of Southern historical documents.
- (4) $500,000 in securities for the erection of a new Main Building at the University.
- (5) The Littlefield homestead to be used as a President's home.
- (6) The Littlefield Memorial gateway to the campus, costing $250,000 and symbolizing the fusion of the North and the South into one nation when the army and the navy of the United States crossed the ocean in 1917 and 1918.

Mr. Brackenridge, who was one of the best-known cattlemen of the Southwest, contributed the following gifts:

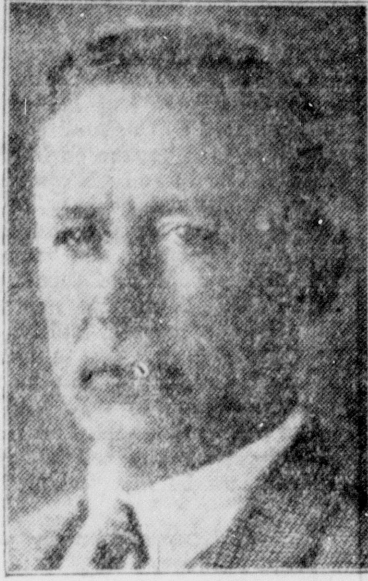

- (1) Funds for the erection of Old B. Hall, the first men's dormitory at the University.
- (2) $25,000 for the establishment of the Brackenridge Loan Fund for Women Students in Architecture, Law, and Medicine.
- (3) Nearly $8,000 in scholarships for students in the Medical School at Galveston.
- (4) $18,000 to make the Woman's Building fireproof.
- (5) More than $5,000 in fellowships for women students in the Medical School.
- (6) $8,000 toward the printing of a catalogue for the Wrenn Library.
- (7) $41,000 to the Medical Branch to be used for the construction of University Hall, a dormitory for women and a dining room for men and women; and $14,350 for the support and maintenance of the Hall.
- (8) A tract of 500 acres lying along the Colorado River west of Austin, valued at $25,000, and a number of smaller gifts.

EXHIBIT BUILDING PLANS

Complete working drawings of the new Main Building Library will be on exhibit to the public today through Thursday from 2 to 5 o'clock and 7:30 to 9 o'clock in the Architecture Building exhibit room.

The exhibit of approximately one hundred drawings is sponsored by Alpha Rho Chi, national social architectural fraternity, and members will be present to answer questions concerning the plans.

Hockey Semi-finals Set for Today

Semi-final hockey contests will get under way this afternoon with two sororities, a dormitory, and the Independent II team battling to determine who will enter the finals.

Chi Omega, which advanced by defeating Tri Delta II Friday afternoon, is challenging Kappa I at 4 o'clock. Independent II, winning by penetration from Theta I after a scoreless game and extra quarter, will meet Newman Hall at 4:30 o'clock.

COLLEGE HEADS CONVENE

Presidents or representatives of the presidents of fourteen of the seventeen higher educational institutions of Texas met in Austin Monday to consider plans for summer sessions at the various schools during the summer of 1935. The appropriation bill for the current biennium did not include any provision for summer sessions for 1935 and it is expected that a special appropriation bill will be introduced shortly to take care of this work.

The University of Texas had the largest enrollment for summer session in its history and the next to largest enrollment in any summer school in the United States in 1934.

UNIVERSITY CLUB ELECTS

The University Club elected new officers for the coming year at its regular meeting, which was held at the club house Saturday, January 12. C. E. Rowe was re-elected president; W. S. Pope was elected vice president, and T. A. Rouse, secretary-treasurer.

DUKE UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF MEDICINE

Four terms of eleven weeks are given each year. These may be taken consecutively (graduation in three years) or three terms may be taken each year (graduation in four years). Catalogue and application forms may be obtained from the Dean.

Germany to Take Over Saar Before March

GENEVA, Jan. 14. (INS)—Germany will be permitted to re-take physical possession of the Saar territory before March, it was predicted today in League of Nations circles.

February 15 is the earliest date mentioned for return of the Saar, and February 28 the latest.

The day for withdrawal of the international army is expected to coincide with the handing over of his powers to the Reich by Geoffrey Knox, the League's Saar commissioner.

Members of the League council of all nationalities were clearly anxious to avoid the question of partitioning the Saar. The problem would arise, it was stated, only if those favoring continued League rule voted 40 per cent or more of the vote in Sunday's plebiscite.

GERMANY LOOKS TO LEAGUE

BERLIN, Jan. 14—(INS)—Confident that a comfortable pro-German majority had been rolled up in the Saar plebiscite, the Reich today looked more to the League of Nations Council at Geneva than to the vote counting at Saarbruecken for the next step in the industrial valley's "homecoming." Hints were dropped in high circles that if action at Geneva was not forthcoming within a month, there "might be trouble."

Results of the balloting will be broadcast with much ballyhoo from the majority of German stations early Tuesday. Reichsfuehrer Hitler will hear the news with foreign Minister von Neurath at Hitler's Berchtesgaden lodge, where von Neurath went to discuss the Chancellor's speech to be radioed to the Saarlanders.

FRANCE PLEASED

PARIS, Jan. 14—(INS)—France made ready today figuratively to shake the coal dust of the Saar off its hands, pleased that the basin was to be returned to Germany, ending a constant source of irritation.

Unofficial pressure may be brought for a division of the Saar if there is a concerted anti-German vote in the western districts, but it is not thought that the French government will have any part in such a movement.

time during the next two days, the representative students responsible for choosing committees at their respective houses will explain the program and ask the students to suggest the faculty leaders they would like to have, and the nights they would like to have them. By Saturday all the decisions must be in to the boarding house committee.

Wednesday night the presidents of the fraternities will explain the program at fraternity-meeting, and similar plans will be started.

Last year eighty members of the faculty served as leaders for the large number of Fireside Forums which were held in forty-two boarding and fraternity houses.

Those present at the meeting last night were V. I. Moore, Jennings Garrett, Benno Schmidt, Gus Levy, Martin D. Woodbury, J. C. Dolley, C. F. Arrowood, Walter Rolfe, H. J. Leon, Meredith Posey, R. C. in the last two or three years with little increase in the size of the faculty has confronted the University with the serious problem of phenomenally large classes.

Worthwhile Projects Assigned University F. E. R. A. Workers

You have probably heard the story about the C. W. A. worker who answered, when questioned as to the purpose of his digging, "Base-ments, maybe. Or maybe for gold. I don't know. The C. W. A. just said to dig."

That has been the outstanding criticism of relief work under the New Deal. President Roosevelt made it one of the major points of his recent address to Congress. He declared that wasted labor should cease. Wasted labor has never existed in the University of Texas's relief. Students employed by the F. E. R. A. on the campus, all 651 of them, feel that they are earning their $15 a month and that they are giving worthwhile service to their employer, the Federal government, Dean V. I. Moore, who is in charge of Federal student aid in the University, reports. There is no wasted work.

Worthwhile Work Under Way

Valuable statistics have been compiled by student workers in many departments of the school. An overworked janitorial department has received life-saving aid from F. E. R. A. employees. Anthropologically inclined students dig for archaeological specimens. Research in many fields has provided work for other students.

But there was another primary motive behind the governmental inventors of educational relief, Dean Moore says. Helping needy students to stay in school is kept in the foreground by the committee in selecting the students to share in the $10,665 monthly apportionment of the University. Only after the worthiness and actual needs of the applicants have been proven and the applications accepted are the needs of the University considered. Then the workers are assigned to the most practical posts according to their special abilities.

In the spring of 1934 Federal educational aid first appeared on the campus. Notice came to officials too late in the fall of 1933 throughout the nation on the basis of 1933, first-semester enrollment. The 1,466 institutions in the United States receiving student aid receive $1,414,940 a month, or $12 each for 12 per cent of their enrollment. Ninety-four thousand three hundred and thirty-one students are allowed an education through the F. E. R. A. plan, since only those are selected who would otherwise be unable to attend school.

New Deal plans were formulated by the F. E. R. A. in that it removed these 94,000 students from competition for jobs in the industrial and business world. The boy who is grading papers in the School of Business Administration might well be holding a bookkeeping job in town, but now that job is open to a family man with four dependants. The economic set-up has been aided a great deal.

Four thousand or more campus windows might not be so clear without student window washers. Several miles of halls and classrooms would probably receive less attention. The drug store in the College of Pharmacy would have fewer clerks without F. E. R. A. workers. And above all, Dean Moore would say, 651 students might not be enrolled in the University.

Ex-student Injured Fatally in Accident

E. Dick Slaughter, Dallas capitalist and ex-student of the University, was fatally injured Sunday night when the automobile he was driving struck a bridge and then plunged into a creek on the outskirts of Dallas.

He received a bachelor of literature degree from the University in 1895. He is survived by his widow, the former Carrie Ligon Graham of Austin.

'Y' CABINETS TO MEET

A joint meeting of the "Y" cabinets will be held Wednesday night at 7:15 o'clock at the Y.M.C.A. and the members will go from there to Tillotson College, where the inter-racial group, in cooperation with the Tillotson group, will present a program on "Peace." Curtis Dunk and Margaret Gray are in charge of the program.

Editor Suggests Change in Texan News Policy

"Interpreting the news for its reader is one of the ideas I gained at the conference which I would like to put into practice on The Daily Texan," D. B. Hardeman, editor, said Sunday night in a talk before a group of journalism students on the work done at a meeting of the Intercollegiate Daily Newspaper Association held in Washington, D. C., during the holidays.

Hardeman, who returned to the campus Saturday, was elected chairman of the association. Thirty-seven editors of college dailies from the United States and Canada met to discuss newspaper problems and to hear talks by government officials and newspaper correspondents in Washington.

Washington newspapermen told the editors that the main trend in newspaper making today is toward interpreting the news. Hardeman explained that these men thought the radio would largely take over the reporting of spot news and leave the newspapers to tell the public what the news means.

"This change would tend to increase instead of decrease the importance of newspapers of the future," Hardeman said. "The Washington correspondents told us that they were not equipped to interpret the news for the public. Certainly, we, who are training ourselves to be journalists, should be able to get the news behind the news and fit ourselves to meet the changing demands of the newspaper of tomorrow."

Lockhart Shortest State Treasurer

Charlie Lockhart, diminutive State Treasurer of Texas, is now beginning his second term in this important office.

He is the shortest State treasurer in the United States. He was elected by large majorities each time he offered for this State position. Mr. Lockhart's home is in Snyder, where he was prominent in local politics. Charles Lockhart, Jr., his son, is a prominent student in the University, being president of Kappa Sigma fraternity, a member of Friar Society, and a director of the Texas Union.

Newman Club Elects Garcia President

New officers elected by the Newman Club are Gus Garcia, president; Lillian Runyon, vice president; Myrtle Svoboda, secretary; Alfred Kelly, treasurer; Lucy Perkins, reporter; Victoria Wischkaemper, corresponding secretary; Evelyn Braden, historian; and John Klein, sergeant-at-arms.

HARDIN TO O. K. WALDORF
CHICAGO, Jan. 14—(INS)—Formal appointment of Lynn Waldorf, head football coach at Kansas State last season, as head coach at Northwestern University only needs the endorsement stamp of the University Board of Trustees to become official. That approval is expected to be immediately forthcoming after the arrival of John Hardin, president of the board, en route to Chicago from California.

CLUB MEETS TONIGHT

There will be a meeting of the Fort Worth Club tonight in the Texas Union at 7:30 o'clock. Sproesser Wynn, president of the club, announced Monday. Bids to the Dallas Club dance will be given the members of the Fort Worth Club at the meeting. Plans will also be made for the date of the Fort Worth Club dance, which was indefinitely postponed before Christmas.

Retiring Leaders of State

Miriam A. Ferguson and Edgar E. Witt, retiring governor and lieutenant governor, relinquish the executive powers of the State to their successors today.

Peeler Recalls Inaugural Receptions Given in Past

The thousands of visitors who throng into Austin for the inaugural ball of Governor Allred will be the guests at a social function which has become a fixed custom in the political history of the State. Governor after governor has been welcomed into office by a ball which is in part given in honor of him by his friends and in part given by him to welcome his friends.

One of the citizens of Austin probably knows more about these inaugural balls than any other man—Judge John Peeler, well-known attorney. Judge Peeler has had charge of every inaugural reception during the last forty-nine years except the present one. Though probably it is a relief to him to sit back now and watch someone else carry on the arduous labor of preparation, one can hardly doubt that at times he feels the urge to be back again into the stir and bustle of the job that has periodically required so much of his time in the past. Interviewed in his office, he discussed some of the balls.

Neff Had Big Dinner
"No, I can't say that I remember the first Governor's reception and ball. That was 'way before I came to Austin; I've just been here forty-nine years, and what they did before then, I wouldn't be able to say." Judge Peeler leaned back in his chair and smiled.

"There was only one governor who was inaugurated without a ball. All the other governors that I recall had them, and the dances were well-attended."

"Hardly a ball has been held that was attended by less than 10,000 people from all parts of Texas and Mexico. Even those dances of half a century ago created such an interest that no one who could go wanted to miss them."

Gym Now Used
Always preceding the ball was the great reception, held usually in the Hall of Representatives in the Capitol. However, when Mrs. Ferguson was inaugurated, her reception was given in the Senate Chamber in the Capitol. Five years ago, the reception was held in Gregory Gymnasium because of the ever-increasing numbers of people who wished to shake the Governor's hand.

Years ago, when the reception and dance was held in the House of Representatives, it necessitated the removal of all the desks and chairs, not only to make room at first for those who wished to greet the new executive, but for those who remained to dance afterwards, the Judge explained. This custom continued until modern invention brought the installation of the voting machine that requires small lights. This machine consisted of little buttons fastened to each desk and wired to the great voting board in the front of the room. Since the unwiring and removal of the desks and the replacement of them is such a costly process, the reception has since January, 1931, been transferred to Gregory Gymnasium.

However, though all the governors were honored by these receptions, not all of them had balls.

Mortar Board Presents First Sunday Musicales

Approximately two hundred people attended the first Sunday afternoon musicale given in the main lounge of the Texas Union and sponsored by Mortar Board, honorary organization for senior women.

These Sunday afternoon programs sponsored by Mortar Board and the Union Board on alternating Sundays will be discontinued until after final examinations, Charles Zivley, manager of the Texas Union, announced Sunday.

"At our first program the audience was very appreciative," Florence Parke, president of Mortar Board, commented. "We hope that future programs will be as well or better received."

The program Sunday was made up of vocal, piano, violin, and ensemble numbers. Annabel Murray, ex-president of Mortar Board, sang a French song and a selection from "The Firefly," one of the first productions of the University Light Opera Company. Reginald Curry gave several vocal selections, among them a French song and an old English number.

Also on the program was Charles Taylor who gave a violin selection. Natalie Collins, accompanist for the University Light Opera Company, played two piano numbers by Debussy, "Arabesque No. 2" and "The Maid with the Flaxen Hair." An ensemble from the Mathews School of Music composed of Mrs. Vena K. Mathews, pianist; Clinton and Margaret Mathews, violinists; and Mrs. Myron Begeman, cellist, gave several numbers.

Q. Does payment of the University hospital fee entitle one to free ambulance service?

A. Yes, payment of this fee entitles students who are ordered to the hospitals free ambulance service from any point in the city.

Q. What are the requirements of Phi Beta Kappa here?

A. Nominees for Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary scholastic fraternity, must have an average in all courses of at least halfway between an "A" and a "B." Furthermore, they must have done all of their work in this University.

Q. Does the president of the Students' Assembly get a salary, and if so, how much?

A. The president of the Students' Assembly does not get a salary.

Q. Why does the same size portion of soup cost 5 cents in the Commons and 10 cents in the Chuck Wagon?

A. The difference in cost arises out of the service charge. In the Commons, no service is given with the food, while the Chuck Wagon furnishes waiters and waitresses to serve its customers. The salaries of these employees must be paid; hence the extra charge.

BOARD TO MEET

Problems pertaining to rural rehabilitation will be considered today by the board of directors in charge of this phase of the Texas Relief Commission's work. The meeting will be held in Austin. President H. Y. Benedict is a member of the Board and will attend the meeting.

BARON TO REVIEW PLAY

Rabbi Samuel H. Baron, director of the Hill Foundation, will review the play, "The Green Pastures," by Marc Connelly, at a meeting of Austin Temple League Wednesday night at 8 o'clock at Temple Beth Israel, Eleventh and San Jacinto Streets.

Supreme Court Library, and there the banquet-reception was held. It lasted most of the night, and more than 10,000 people were fed in relays. Some 2700 voters who wished to honor Hogg contributed $28,000 to that feast, and nearly $5,000 was spent for champagne. Every kind of good food that could appeal to the palates of the guests was provided; yet nothing was imported. All Texas products were used, and this fact was a source of satisfaction to Governor Hogg.

Four Balls Tonight

Never before or since has an inaugural affair been so lavish or extravagant, though Governor Neff's banquet approached it. Since the year of the International Inaugural entertainment, the inaugural balls and receptions have been similar. The reception is held in Gregory Gymnasium, and the dance following it is held in the Gymnasium, the Stephen F. Austin Hotel, and the Driskill Hotel. This year, however, in anticipation of a larger attendance than ever before, the dance will also be held in the Senate Chamber of the Capitol, thereby recalling to many the days when the reception and dance both took place in the other wing of the Capitol.

Business Failures Decline in 1934

The statistics on business failures in Texas for the year 1934 are highly favorable compared with those of the year previous, it is shown by a report of the Bureau of Business Research of the University. "The total number of failures was only 225, against 500 in 1933, a decline of 55 percent; liabilities averaged $3,155,000, compared with $11,377,000, a drop of 74 per cent; and average liability per failure, $14,000, against $24,000, a decline of 42 per cent."

Failures during December showed about the usual seasonal increase over November. According to R. G. Dun and Company, there were twenty-one failures in December, against twelve the preceding month and twenty-five in December, 1933. Total liabilities were $529,000, an increase of 248 per cent over the month previous and 32 per cent above December a year ago. Average liability per failure, $25,000, was 92 per cent above that in November and 55 per cent greater than in December, 1933.

The University of Texas former students constitute approximately one per cent of the population of the entire State.

'At Last A Great Leader Came Unto the People'

Today at high noon one political generation will give way to another political generation. The Fergusons, for twenty years the dominating figures in Texas politics, will leave the Governor's Office, and in their place a young, ambitious, and self-made warrior will assume the reins of State government.

Jimmie Allred's incoming administration brings to all Texas citizens a renewed faith in our State government and once again there burns in the political heavens a Star of Hope—hope for progress, for government instead of politics, for service instead of selfishness. Allred and his staff are, almost without exception, young men. They are men dedicated to a reconstruction of our State government along lines of service and with an eye to making it more responsive to the needs of our people. They have new ideas; they bring fresh hope; they approach their task with a spirit of adventure and a burning desire for achievement.

In the past we have had governors who sought the office merely for the honor or who sought the office for what they could get out of it. But not so with Jimmie Allred. He is still young enough to take heart from Longfellow's lines:

Lives of all great men remind us
We can make our lives sublime,
And, departing, leave behind us
Footprints on the Sands of Time.

His goal will be achievement, his mission service.

But do not get the feeling that Jimmie Allred is a youthful idealist. He is more than that. Anyone who has survived four withering State-wide political campaigns is of necessity a realist. As Attorney-general he was a realist. He was probably the State's greatest Attorney General. So we may say that he combines the vision and the idealism of youth with the realism and the soundness of experience.

At the close of Reconstruction days, one of Texas's greatest governors, Richard Coke, came to the fore to provide wise and strong leadership in perilous times. Not since those days has a Texas governor been faced with problems as confront Jimmie Allred. Coke was a Reconstruction leader working in the aftermath of physical warfare; Allred is a reconstruction leader working in the aftermath of economic warfare. Allred's administration intends to lead the people of Texas to a new way of living. If he gets support, he will do it. If he does not get that vital support, the State will continue to wallow in the economic quagmire where it has been for the past few years. Allred is ready to lead; the people of Texas should be willing to follow.

We cannot help feeling that this day will be a significant one in Texas history. We felt it so strongly that for the first time in the history of our paper we are publishing an Inauguration Edition. We think that today's inauguration is the dawn of a new era in Texas history, and we rejoice with all Texas that we have as our incoming governor a young man of such courage, intelligence, and devotion to the public good as Jimmie Allred.

A Foolish Decision

Once again the Athletic Council has taken action which lays itself open to broad and justified criticism. Yesterday the Council refused to accept a two-year contract with the University of Detroit to fill the open date on the Longhorn football schedule. Instead of entering into this home-and-home arrangement with Detroit, the Council decided to continue playing Centenary.

Possibly the Council will wonder why the student body is disappointed in their action. It is not hard to see why. The Council deliberately throws away a chance to get a two-year schedule with a nationally-recognized team, one that would help to bring the football spotlight to the Longhorns, and in its stead continues to play Centenary.

The Council says that the Detroit contract would mean that Texas would have only four home games in 1935. Yes, but in 1936 Detroit would come to Texas and we would have six home games. Things would be even in the long run. The student body would rather have a four-game schedule with the Longhorns playing a well-known team in Detroit than a five-game schedule with us playing Centenary here. It would mean much more in national circles to play Detroit and get beaten than to play Cen-

Facts About The University

The University is a member of the Association of American Universities which lists only thirty members of which two are in Canada and three in the South: Texas, Virginia, and North Carolina.

Among the state universities separated from their A. & M.'s, the University is ranked second only to Michigan.

The cost per student at The University of Texas is far lower than the average cost per student of the other members of the Association of American Universities.

Despite the depression the attendance at the University has grown from 5,774 in 1929-30 to 7,005 in 1934-35 (fall only).

The W. J. McDonald Astronomical Observatory on Mt. Locke will have the second largest reflector telescope in the world.

The cost per student at the University is about equal to the average cost per student of all State-supported higher educational institutions in Texas, including teachers' colleges.

The University of Texas has led the way in Texas towards standards in public educational accounting and the regular printing of financial reports.

The University's thirteen new buildings were erected at no cost to the taxpayers of the State.

The University is ranked in the top third or fourth of the forty-two state universities.

Of the 2,500 new students in the University this year, approximately one-half come from high schools, one-sixth from junior colleges, and one-third from senior colleges.

Eight state universities, The University of Texas being one of the eight, confer more graduate degrees than all the other public-supported institutions combined.

Three members of the University of Texas faculty are members of the National Academy of Science. The rest of the South has two members.

The curriculum of the University includes about 1,000 courses.

A faculty of 469 serves the 7,004 students at the University.

The average class size at the University is 36 per cent larger than the average class size at the fifty largest public-supported institutions in the United States.

In 1933-34 the University drew students from 243 of the 254 counties in Texas, 32 other states and 6 outside areas.

The University of Texas was the first separate part of the public school system to get attention in the Congress of the Republic of Texas.

With the addition of the new buildings on the campus the University Power Plant has increased its output of light and heat 155 per cent with an increase of only 39 per cent in expenditure.

Less than one-third of the operating budget of the University and none of the funds for building comes from the general revenue (tax money) of the State.

Through facilities of Gregory Gymnasium and through the Intramural Department program more than 3,000 students take part in athletics at the University.

NOTES FROM WASHINGTON

By KARL M. KAHN
Copyright, 1935, By International News Service

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14. (INS)—Stanley Reed, brilliant general counsel for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, may not be given a federal judgeship after all.

He may be given one of the most prized legal jobs in the government—Solicitor General of the United States.

Many a great lawyer would take that post, if he had a choice, in preference to becoming attorney general to the United States.

The prediction was made in this column some time ago that President Roosevelt would appoint Reed federal judge for the Eastern district of Kentucky.

A great many things have occurred since then. The so-called gold case is one of them.

It is the most important monetary case ever to be taken before the Supreme Court.

Yet J. Crawford Biggs, solicitor general, has not made an appearance before the court in the case.

It will be the first case of such significance in which the solicitor general of the United States has not made an appearance.

Reed made a tremendous impression as general counsel for the Federal Farm Board, which position he held until he was appointed R.F.C. general counsel. He has made an equally good impression in his present post.

The Kentucky, who was counsel for the Burley Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association before he came to Washington, has been marked for bigger things under the Administration for some time.

There are whispers in informed circles that he soon may become the nation's chief lawyer.

The solicitor general of the United States is the nation's chief lawyer. The attorney general is the Administrative head of the Department of Justice.

tenary and win. The students would be more pleased.

Then, too, the contract would have meant that we would play Detroit in Texas in 1936, the Centennial Year. As it is now, we will probably go to Shreveport to play Centenary. It is a poor excuse to say that it would leave us only four games. It would mean much more in prestige and national recognition to play all our games away from home rather than to be home-lovers and play Centenary all the time.

University students might as well resign themselves to a permanent contract with Centenary unless a tie game comes along. It was said that since we had lost to Centenary, it would not be good ethics to quit playing them. Very well. The arrangement must be permanent because if Centenary loses next year, then they can't withdraw, and if we lose, we can't withdraw, because in either case the defeated team would be yellow. Apparently Texas and Centenary are bride and groom in a football schedule arrangement.

We cannot help feeling that the Council did the unwise thing in turning down this contract. No wonder we don't get nation-wide attention as long as we continue to fill our schedule with Centenary and Texas A. & I. in preference to Detroit. The deed is done, but we are thinking of the University student who said of the Council members—"They seem to be Alices in Blunderland."

Leader No. 2

Walter Woodruff, who will take oath of office as Lieutenant-Governor of the State, at the inaugural ceremonies to be held today on the steps of the Capitol, is 42 years old and a native Texan. He attended the School of Law at the University from 1913 to 1916.

He was elected to the House of Representatives in 1917 and resigned to enlist in the Army when the United States entered the World War.

After the war he returned to Houston to practice law and was appointed by Governor Hobby as assistant Adjutant-General with rank of Lieutenant-Colonel in 1919.

He was engaged in the practice of law in Houston from 1921 until 1929, when he was elected to the State Senate. He was re-elected to the Senate in 1931 and again in 1933. His successful campaign for Lieutenant-Governor, made last summer, came in the middle of his term as Senator.

to abolish the system of conducting examinations now in force and to install the proctor system. Installation of this system will mean that during examinations there will be one senior or graduate student to every twenty students taking the examination to stalk up and down the aisle and peer over the shoulder of each student to see that he is doing his own work. Students will necessarily have to look either at their feet or the ceiling to rest their eyes, otherwise they will be suspected of plagiarism; even then they might have to subject their shoes to a severe scrutiny.

The professors who voted for this abominable scheme expect their students to cheat. The instructor whose students are given to cheating is weak; he has failed in his duty. The people of Texas founded this University "of the first order" to make good citizens, to build character into the youth of the State, and to make Texas and Texas citizens leaders in thought and acts throughout the world. The professor who neglects the character building side of education, who refuses to take the responsibilities of leadership, who thinks his students are bad and tries to keep them that way, who condemns his students as liars and cheats, is one of the most demoralizing and devastating enemies of the coming generation. Students will do what their professors ask; they will be what their professors expect them to be. If a man is treated like a criminal he is likely to become one.

West Point and its cadets are respected and honored because the students are expected to be honorable. What will be Texas's reputation when each student is expected to cheat? Wherein will go to a school that is run like a reformatory gain one something of which to be proud? Those students who love The University of Texas cannot and will not stand by unmoved and watch such a shameful perpetration tearing at the foundations of honor and respect on which their University is built.

The Board of Regents meet soon. It will either ratify or veto the proposed proctor plan. Student sentiment and EXPRESSION are the only things that can save the University from disgrace.
