Longshore Troubles Believed Adjusted

Stocking Reports Basis to Settle Strike Reached

By GORDON STRACHAN

Expressing his belief that the strike of members of the International Longshoremen's Association may be settled within a week, pending negotiations between the Federal Longshoremen's Mediation Board and representatives of the East Gulf ports at New Orleans, Dr. George W. Stocking, professor of economics at the University and head of the mediation board, has returned to the University to resume his professional duties.

"I have indicated a readiness to assist the board in further negotiations at Houston and in New Orleans if necessary," Dr. Stocking said after his arrival from Houston Monday, "but since a basis for settlement has been reached, I believe my obligations to the University to be more important than any strike problems which might come up for a while."

To Take Care of Whites

The strike, which was precipitated in Gulf ports eight weeks ago upon failure of southern shippers to recognize the I. L. A. at New Orleans and also over a question of checkers, moved into a tentative state of settlement within the past few days when the I. L. A. agreed to grant a charter to help protect interests of independent negro longshoremen who had been working on the docks before the walkout began. The maritime committee said it would recognize this provision and would also "take care" of the independent white longshoremen's union which has sprung up since the strike was instituted.

"Intercoastal shippers as well as coastwise shipping companies," Dr. Stocking said, "have actually drawn up agreements with the strikers to begin unrestricted shipping. Upon threat of an Atlantic coast boycott, New York firms See STOCKING, p. 5

Japan Hits Proposal Of U. S. to Cut Navies

LONDON, Dec. 9.—(INS)—Japan fired the first naval conference gun this evening, aiming a direct shot at an American proposal for a 20 per cent reduction in the world's navies.

Only a few hours after delegates of Great Britain, the United States, Japan, France, and Italy had adjourned their formal opening session, at which Ambassador Norman H. Davis had proposed the one-fifth cut for the United States, Admiral Osami Nogano, chief Japanese delegate, said the plan "would be absolutely impossible for us to accept."

Addressing a press conference, Admiral Nogano said regarding the proposed cut in present tonnage: "Application of a straight cut would substantially be a prolongation of the ratio system, and it therefore would be absolutely impossible for us to accept."

Five Missouri Lawyers Give Up Their Licenses

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Dec. 9. (INS)—In one of the most unusual instances of its kind in the history of the state and believed to be unparalleled in the history of the American bar, five Missouri lawyers today offered in the state supreme court to surrender their licenses. If the court accepts, all five will be deprived of the right to practice.

No Missouri lawyer ever before has offered voluntarily to forfeit his right to practice, much less five doing so at one time. Although there have been individual instances of license surrenders in other states it is believed that there has never been action on a wholesale scale such as today's.

By voluntarily quitting practice the lawyers escape disbarment suits by the bar committee and avoid publicity that would arise from the suits.

Tenders for surrender of licenses were submitted to the supreme court by Boyle G. Clark, general chairman of the bar committee of Missouri and the members of the advisory bar committee with recommendation in each case that "the tender be accepted, said license revoked, and the name of such attorney be removed from the rolls of the court."

Debate Societies Fix Schedules

At a meeting Monday of the presidents of Rusk, Athenaeum, and Hogg Literary Societies, the debate schedule for the intersociety competition between the three was outlined and a date for the extemporaneous speech contest set. The Interscholastic League question, "Resolved: That the Government Should Control the Production of Cotton," is the subject for debate.

In the first meet Athenaeum presenting the negative defeated Hogg. Then Hogg as the negative defeated Athenaeum. Thursday, December 12, Rusk, upholding the affirmative will meet first Hogg and then Athenaeum.

Friday, December 13, Athenaeum draws the affirmative and Rusk the negative. In the final round of the group Rusk as the affirmative debates Hogg on December 19 for the championship cup. For the last two years Hogg has won the trophy.

January 9 has been set as the date for the extemporaneous speech contest. Jesse Villarreal, instructor in public speaking, is in charge of the meet.

Texas Geologists to Direct $375,190 Mineral Survey

The proposal to investigate the principal mineral resources of every county in Texas, which has been approved by the University Board of Regents, is a project for which $375,190 in W. P. A. funds has been provided. The plan has been approved by the Texas State Planning Board, the Works Progress Administration, and The University of Texas.

Under this program, ninety-two geologists, not on relief rolls, will be employed to head the investigating parties. For each geologist employed, there must be nine persons taken from the relief rolls to aid in the field work. As far as possible, local geologists will be employed so that their knowledge of the counties and familiarity with local employment and relief conditions will aid the project.

There is a time limit of seven months on the expenditure of these funds, which range from $1,161 to $3,555 per county. The allotment is made for a survey by counties. Responsibility for the local organization will be placed

Curtain Club Begins Satire On American Politics Tonight

By MILDRED SMITH

"Maybe?" With this satirical note, Maxwell Anderson closes his play "Both Your Houses," which will be given by the Curtain Club tonight in Hogg Memorial Auditorium at 8:15 o'clock. Anderson approaches the end of this play, made up of sixteen characters, with the idea that perhaps the country has had enough of Congress's goings on. Then with a touch of his pen he ends his play with a touch of satire which is typical of the entire play.

The theme of "Both Your Houses" is woven around thirteen male characters and three female characters. And what is most to be noted is that Mr. Anderson has written an effective, taut propaganda play, excellently characterized, and containing much humorous and observant satire. He has let his play make its own argument in the terms of its characterizations and has never mounted the lecture platform himself to drive the point home.

Marjorie Gray, the role played by Virginia Livingston, is the heroine of the play. Her loyalty to her father, Simeon Gray, is outstanding. She is very much attracted to Alan Young McLean, but her loyalty to her father turns her against McLean in the last part of the play.

Students Invited To Sing-Song

All who want to hear fraternity sweetheart songs, fraternity pep songs, and fraternity aims set to music are invited to the interfraternity sing-song which will be held in Hogg Memorial Auditorium on the night of December 17, E. L. Wagner, student chairman, said Monday.

Thirteen sororities and thirteen fraternities have entered. Each group is to sing two songs. There are from sixteen to twenty-one members in a group. The three judges are chosen by a committee composed of representatives from the interfraternity council and the Panhellenic.

The first interfraternity sing-song was held last year. The Chi Omegas and the Betas won the loving cups which were given by the University Co-Op.

Roosevelt Slams 'Calamity Howlers' As Selfish, Farm Program Wreckers

12,000 Applaud Talk in Chicago Stockyards

CHICAGO, Dec. 9.—(INS)—

Twelve thousand cheering farmers, cattlemen, and their friends assembled in Chicago's Stockyards today to hear President Roosevelt denounce selfish interests which he charged are trying to wreck his farm program by playing the city dweller against the farmer. The big stockyards amphitheatre was packed when the President was introduced by Edward O'Neal, head of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Cheers greeted Mr. Roosevelt's denunciation of "the political profiteers," the "dispensers of discord," and "the calamity howlers."

Henry Wallace, secretary of agriculture, and a distinguished gathering of Chicagoans sat behind the President while he defended the recently executed trade agreement with Canada and told the rural regions of the country as a whole that his farm program had gone over the top.

'Happy Life' Coming Back

Every seat in the balconies of the big Chicago auditorium was taken. Big signs denoted where the respective state delegations to the Farm Bureau Federation convention were sitting.

The President drew cheers when he announced the "buoyant, happy life" is coming back.

Though he had traveled all night on his special train from Warm Springs, Ga., Mr. Roosevelt appeared in fine fettle and untired as he progressed with his speech. He gesticulated freely, shouted to emphasize certain points and invariably won recognition of his audience for these perorations.

"It is difficult to explain why in many cases if the farmer gets an increase for his food crop over what he got three years ago, the See ROOSEVELT, p. 5

Hauptmann Loses In Supreme Court

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 9.—(INS)—"Well, in a way I'm glad the legal part is over. Of course, I am disappointed because if I had a new trial it would bring out the new evidence."

Bruno Richard Hauptmann, condemned slayer of Baby Lindbergh, voiced these words today when informed the U. S. Supreme Court had denied his plea for a review of his conviction.

The state of New Jersey now is free to go before Judge Charles Trenchard, who presided at Hauptmann's trial, and ask that a date for his electrocution be set. They can ask the high court for rehearing, seek commutation of the death sentence to life imprisonment, or appeal in New Jersey for a new trial because of newly discovered evidence.

Hauptmann's lawyers, however, will continue their fight to save the German carpenter from death.

Governor Hoffman, as a member of the court of pardons, recently disclosed that he had visited Hauptmann in the New Jersey state prison at Trenton. He urged other members to visit the prisoner in "death row."

Merriam Announces For President

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 9.—(INS)—Frank F. Merriam, governor of California, will seek the Republican nomination for the Presidency of the United States in 1936, The Daily Trojan, student publication of the University of Southern California, declared today in a copyrighted article by Tom Lawless.

Merriam's announcement was made to Tom Kuchel, Gregson Bautzer and Bob Vandergrift, three officials of the Young Men's Political Association, a non-partisan organization which supported Merriam in his recent campaign for governor, Lawless's story said.

"Merriam stated, according to Kuchel, that if the people of California wanted him to run for President, he would certainly do so," The Daily Trojan article claimed.

Merriam's announcement was made Friday while the governor was a guest of the University's homecoming week festivities.

New Deal Is Class Legislation And Lost Integrity, Haley Says

By STUART LONG

"The Southern Committee to Uphold the Constitution does not want a denial of progress. Its motives are simply those of any real Democratic to change the Constitution only by the will of the majority, in the legal manner provided by the Constitution."

Thus J. Evetts Haley summed up Monday the purposes of the committee headed by John H. Kirby, former owner of the Austin Statesman, which will meet in Atlanta soon to formulate plans for fighting the Roosevelt administration.

For States' Rights

Mr. Haley is collector in the Bureau for Research in the Social Sciences, a historian of note, and a citizen at heart. One of the New Deal's outspoken enemies, Mr. Haley, along with other members of the Southern Committee, wants "Constitutional government, with the sovereignty of states and individuals, three-way division of powers, and the right to make or lose money according to the abilities of the individual."

Men Lose Respect for Law

Especially alarming to Mr. Haley is the "loss of respect for the law of contracts and for the law of the government" which he says is coming from the limiting of stockmen's production by the government. "Men whose word is as good as their bond have made contracts with the Department of Agriculture to abide by its actions now and henceforth. When those restrictions become oppressive, these Texas cowmen, whose philosophies of life have been built up on the principles of individualism, will think nothing of breaking the contracts. What of integrity here?"

President Roosevelt was criticized for "failing to abide by his campaign promises and the long-time principles of the Democratic Party," Mr. Haley hopes, through the Southern Committee, to have the Texas delegation to the national convention next year sent unadvised, so that it may break away if "the party principles are again disregarded."

Decrees Subsidies

"It all boils down to class legislation, all this New Deal 'security business,' so that every class is getting its share of the booty—labor, agriculture, education, and all the rest. We are still trying to put off the headache of the boom days, but when it does hit us—"

Mr. Haley will not be able to attend the convention in Atlanta, but he hopes that "it will be able to gather enough Democrats to its standards to bring about the nomination of a real Democrat by the Democratic party."

Well-informed quarters were deeply pessimistic. The plan falls far short of Mussolini's demands as broadly outlined last October. Besides, neither the League nor Ethiopia may approve the scheme, even if Il Duce, by accepting them as a basis, puts off further sanctions.

The "exchange of territory" in the Laval-Hoare plan, official sources and the press agree, would give Italy Tigre province in northern Ethiopia, with the exception of Aksum, the holy city. In the south, Italy would be given Ogaden province outright, plus a "zone of colonization" stretching to the west along the eighth parallel of latitude to the thirty-sixth meridian of east longitude.

"In return," Ethiopia would get a seaport, probably Assab, in See LAVAL, Page 5.

Junior High P.T. A. To Meet Wednesday

The Parent-Teachers' Association of the University Junior High School will hold its regular meeting Wednesday afternoon at 3:15 o'clock. Mrs. John Focht will be in charge of the program.

Dr. S. L. Joekel will speak on "A Christmas Message" and Christmas carols will be sung by the school glee club.

A business meeting will follow the program and a social hour will come after the business session.

This Nu Upsilon Tau Tau, It's Just Nuts to You

Eight new goobers roam the campus.

One red head, one blond, some brunette, but all guaranteed to give variety and add a nutty touch to the University, they are Josephine Nash, Margaret Beverly, Ann Fleming, Layla Bruce, Lucy Thompson, Kathleen Joergers, Betty McDavitt, and Eleanor Stayton.

December 17 the goobers will be introduced to the other eighteen nuts at a Christmas party to be given at the home of Mrs. Irby Mann Cobb, also a nut.

"Nuts must resist being Phi Beta Kappas," Isabel Coleman, high worthy nut, quirked.

"Nuts must have a sense of humor," Virginia Coleman, twin sister of the high worthy nut, whispered.

"They must be typical nuts," Ruth Kirk, another nut, added.

The Nu Upsilon Tau Tau's are the girls who give Hallowe'en parties on Saint Patrick's Day and come with strict orders not to wear Hallowe'en costumes, not to wear Hallowe'en costumes, not to wear Hallowe'en costumes.

Court Rules Out Part of Home Owners Loan Act

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—

(INS)—The Supreme Court today held unconstitutional provisions of the Home Owners Loan Act which permitted state building and loan associations to become Federal associations without state consent.

The decision was the first of the present term on validity of an act of the Roosevelt Administration.

Justice Cardozo delivered the court's unanimous opinion.

The case came to the high court on appeal of the Hopkins Federal Savings and Loan Association, reliance and Northern Building and Loan Associations, all Milwaukee institutions.

When they sought to take out Federal charters as Federal Savings and Loan Associations under the Home Owners Loan Act of 1933, and as amended in 1934, the Wisconsin Banking Commission objected.

The state commission maintained that since the state had chartered the institutions and retained control over their liquidation, they could not become Federal associations without state consent.

Under the Home Owners Loan Act, building and loan associations were given the right to become Federal associations upon a vote of 51 per cent or more of the votes cast at a legal meeting. Originally the act said the meetings should be subject to state law. The amended act omitted this provision. The Wisconsin Supreme Court, construing the law, held that it meant that state consent was required. If the law meant otherwise, the court held, it would be unconstitutional as an invasion of the rights of the states.

Reddick to Speak At Convention

DeWitt Reddick, assistant professor of journalism, will leave Thursday for Belton where he will attend a state convention of the staff members of high school newspapers and yearbooks. The convention will be sponsored by the journalism department of Mary Hardin-Baylor College for Women. Mr. Reddick will speak on "Service Projects for High School Papers," Friday afternoon.

Among the ex-students who will attend the convention are Alex Murphree of the Temple Telegram; Edith Fox, sponsor of the paper at San Antonio Technical High School; Mary Elizabeth Miller, sponsor from Brackenridge High School at San Antonio; James Markham, sponsor from Austin High School; Myrtle Foster, sponsor from North Dallas High School; and Melvin Montgomery, sponsor from McAllen High School.

Miss Gearing to Aid In Extension Meeting

Miss Mary E. Gearing, professor of home economics, has been invited to participate in the annual conference of extension service workers in San Antonio, December 12, 13, and 14.

Other members of the University home economics staff have also been invited to participate in the conference, to be attended by agricultural and home demonstration agents from sixty-five central and South Texas counties.

Miss Gearing recommends the work of the extension service agents because it is closely akin to training offered in certain branches of the University Department of Home Economics. Home demonstration agent work is one of the courses of study offered to young women in the University.

All-Stars Defeat Pirates in Soup Bowl Contest, 19-0, Before 3000

All-Americans Of Past Star In Charity Game

By JEROME ALLEN
Texan Sports Staff

It was all in fun, but what a football game! A general mixture of greats and near-greats who went by the name of the All-Stars defeated the Southwestern University Pirates in the Soup Bowl game at House Park Monday night by the score of 19 to 0 before 3,000 onlookers.

All-Americans of the past down to mere college grid stars composed the line-ups of the two teams. Those who played on the teams of Notre Dame, The University of Texas, Washington and Lee, Ohio State, Texas A. & M., and several others, donned the moleskins once more and gave the crowd an evening of entertainment that could not be excelled.

In the opening minutes of the game the superiority of the All-Stars was clearly defined. With such former stars as Hilliard, Chevigny, and Karow carrying the mail for long gains, the orange and white clad team ripped through the opposition with old-time form. The Southwestern backs seldom gained, and at least half the time failed to get back to the line of scrimmage.

The forward walls of the two eleven fought bitterly. All-American Tim Moynihan, Jack Gray, and Charley Coates proved that time does not deteriorate one's ability as a football star. In spite of the display of fighting ability shown by the Southwestern line, it could not cope with the mighty forward wall of the All-Stars.

Comedy Element Prevailed
The comedy element prevailed throughout the game. The All-Stars linemen tired of blocking the Southwestern players; so they blocked each other.

Jack Chevigny, coach of the All-Stars, had issued no plays to his charges and the plan of attack was formed in the huddle. The center called signals instead of the quarterback.

Usually the custom is for the coach to control substitutions. It was different Monday night. When a player decided that he had had enough, he walked to the sideline and asked to be relieved.

Proceeds to Charity
The proceeds of the game will be used for charity purposes in Austin and Georgetown, with the Will Rogers Memorial fund, and the underprivileged children sharing in the benefits.

Governor James V. Allred kicked off low down the field. Couser and Barnes each picked up a first down for the Southwestern eleven before the All-Stars settled down to business. Coates and Tolbert blocked two kicks attempted by the Pirates. On the third try Couser kicked to midfield. Neither team could gain consistently, and an exchange of punts found the ball in mid-field as the first quarter ended.

Early in the second period the All-Stars unleashed an attack that eventually carried to pay dirt. Gaining the ball on the Southwestern 40-yard line, the All-Stars began the touchdown drive. Chevigny crashed over left tackle for a first down on the Pirate twenty. Hilliard fumbled and Southwestern recovered on the Pirate twenty-five. Two plays lost six yards and Seaman kicked to mid-field. On the fourth play, Hilliard split right tackle and raced to the Pirate 4-yard line before he was hauled down from behind. Jurecka went over in two tries at the line. Hilliard missed the try for extra point.

Chili Stone Scores
Coates kicked off to the Pirates and the runner was downed on his 35-yard line. On the first play Chili Stone intercepted Couser's pass on the 50-yard line and raced over the Pirate goal for the second score. Hilliard converted to make the score 13 to 0. The end of the first half found the two teams exchanging intercepted passes.

Tom Miller, mayor of Austin, kicked off sensationally, at the start of the second half, the ball rolling nearly to the goal line. Several plays later Hilliard raced thirty-one yards for a touchdown. Hilliard's try for extra point was no good.

As the game drew to a close, the All-Stars threatened again. Buster Jurecka passed from his 27-yard line to Patsy Allen, former University star, who raced to the 9-yard line. On the next play Jack Gray crossed the goal line on an end around play, but the ball was dead before the play was started; so the score rested at 19 to 0.

For Southwestern: McCook, Parker, Halamick, Lewis, Ross, McDaniel, Davidson, Reed, Heard, Pennington, Black, Lackey, Atchinson.

For All-Stars: Hadlock, Stone, Wier, Chevigny, Smartt, Burr.

High School Teams to Play Quarter Finals this Week

DALLAS, Dec. 9. (INS)—With the field of contenders narrowed to eight as a result of last Saturday's games, Texas high school football teams began preparations Monday for the quarter-finals in the struggle for the State championship.

Two of last week's games ended in ties, and the 20-yard penetration yardstick was relied on to decide the victor. Tyler and Greenville each scored nine points, but Tyler registered four marches into the critical zone to Greenville's one. A similar standard gave Corpus Christi the call over Brackenridge of San Antonio in their 13-13 deadlock.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9. (INS)—Jeremiah T. Mahoney, who resigned as president of the National A. A. U. yesterday when that body voted to send an Olympic team to Germany in 1936 despite his vigorous protest, declared Monday he would continue his fight against American participation in the games.

He said the convention vote means only that "the American Olympic committee is afraid to face the facts." For himself, he added, he felt the anti-participation fight "must be continued as the only way of preserving the Olympic ideal."

Avery Brundage, chairman of the Olympic committee, who was elected to succeed Mahoney as A. A. U. president, hailed the union's action as "a distinct victory for amateur athletics in America," and voiced the hope "every loyal American will cooperate in the undertaking to give our boys and girls the chance for which they have worked so hard and trained so long."

Just Look at Iowa, Says Its Governor

DES MOINES, Ia., Dec. 9. (INS)—Iowa's Democratic governor, Clyde L. Herring, today aimed a sharp blow of criticism at Governor Alf Landon of Kansas, possible Republican Presidential candidate.

Claiming Iowa is in "better shape" than Kansas, the governor declared the state government has reduced taxes more than Landon, has contributed $5,000,000 to relief, and has wiped out a $3,500,000 previous administration deficit.

He made the statement that the Kansas state government has not contributed a nickel to relief, and has even closed schools to cut taxes.

Basketball Squad Prepares for San Marcos Teachers

By JOE BELDEN
Associate Sports Editor

Preparing for their first encounter of the season with the San Marcos Teachers next Friday, the Longhorn basketball men yesterday began a week of earnest practice. Marty Karow, coach, trying out different combinations of men for his offense.

The game Friday, although not a conference affair, will serve to point out to the coach in a more definite manner what sort of material he is working with, and will give him an opportunity to try out the tactics he has been drilling his men on. A full program has been arranged for the first game show at Gregory Gym, beginning at 7:30 o'clock, with demonstrations of the new basketball rules that will go into use for the first time this year. Explanations will be given by the coach through the loudspeakers. The game will begin at 8 o'clock and will be a regular 45-minute tilt.

Between halves, Karow said, there will be a three-round boxing match between two University pugilists, their names to be announced later in the week. Following the game, the varsity B team will meet the San Marcos reserves.

"I'm not superstitious," Karow explained when asked about starting the season on Friday 13. "Thirteen has always been a lucky number, and I don't mind playing the first game Friday."

Monday's practice session was used to smooth out the few flaws that were evident in the Steer's play last Saturday, when they had their first scrimmage. Many combinations were tried yesterday, and Karow believes he has found two that will probably work well. As usual, the squad spent a large part of the time in handling the ball and on defense.

Touch Football Finals Today

Touch football league finals and division finals in handball doubles make today a big one for the intramural department.

B. Hall beat Hillel, 7 to 6, in the closest and hardest of the touch football intramural league final games yesterday. Even better should be the S. A. E-Deke battle this afternoon when the two strongest teams in the department meet.

With dependable passing and kicking, Fred Koberg was the star of the B. Hall ten. Lee Wisdom made the dormitory's touchdown. Outstanding for Hillel was Louis Spear.

Ned Sweeney made the touchdown that won the Urban Sturbans a victory over the Czechs, 7 to 0. The Farmers downed the Bearcats by the same score. The House of Davis was victorious over the Red Rangers with a 13 to 7 score.

Besides the S. A. E-Deke fight, the A. T. O-Beta game should be interesting this afternoon. Other league finals will be between Phi Deltas and Kappa Sigma, Phi Kappa Psi and S. A. M., Hoskins House and Jones House, and Schneiders and Touring Tigers.

The outstanding handball game today matches Sidney Freedlund and W. A. Baugh, Urban Sturbans pair, against Pete Cosca and Luis De la Fuente, Timbors team, to determine the club champion. Richard McClung and Bill Barnard, open, will meet William Rugeley and J. T. Patterson, open, in the independent final.

Fraternity division semi-finals are Earl White and Joe Fisher, Dekes, versus Herbert Cartwright and Charles Dibrell, Betas, and Mark Crosswell and Bob Park, Kappa Sigma, versus Bob Johnson and Henry Clifton, Dekes.

Spaulding, U. C. L. A. Coach, Analyzes Play of S. M. U. and Stanford

Breaks, Good Kicking to Decide Game, He Says

(The startling success of the smart wide open football played in the Southwest by Southern Methodist, Texas Christian and other institutions in that area has raised the question as to the fundamental soundness of their game as compared with football in the East and other sections of the country. Because his team has met both Stanford and Southern Methodist, Pasadena Rose Bowl competitors New Years Day, International News Service asked William "Bill" Spaulding, coach of the University of California at Los Angeles to analyze the play of both teams. This is the first of two articles.)

By WALLACE X. RAWLES
I. N. S. Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES, Dec. 9.—"One day I think Stanford is going to win. The next day I think Southern Methodist University!" Coach William "Bill" Spaulding speaking.

His University of California at Los Angeles football team defeated Stanford 7-6 this year, and lost 0-21 to Southern Methodist.

"Breaks," said Spaulding, "will decide the game. Breaks and good kicking. Finley and Paulman are both good kickers but I think S. M. U. has more good kickers."

Stanford Most Powerful
"Right off the reel I'd say the most powerful team we played this year was Stanford. It took everything we had to stop them when they got down near the goal line. We were pretty well 'hopped up' for that game. When you go into a game and expect to get knocked silly by power and speed you're going to fight — and we did. When we thought of men like Grayson, Moserip, Alustiza and Hamilton, we thought we'd better get pretty close to the ground looking for four-leaf clovers or we'd be pulverized."

Spaulding thinks Bobby Grayson of Stanford is a great ball player.

"I've seen Grayson carry the ball and my legs ached watching that bird work," Spaulding said. "Even in my sleep I could see him running off tackle, inside or out. On the other hand you're dizzy the next morning from watching Wilson, Southern Methodist's ace. You don't know what he's going to do with the ball."

Wilson, Grayson Opposite Styles
"The Wilson and Grayson styles are almost the opposite, Stanford using a double wing with a lot of power on reverses and off-tackle plays, S. M. U. a balanced line well adapted to passing and running both the long and short sides, but possibly not quite as conducive to power."

"S. M. U. is liable to score any minute. They fool around and fool around and then — there goes Wilson! I can't think of anyone as powerful as Grayson in running off tackle. And I can't conceive of anyone better than Wilson for running from one to 100 yards."

"S. M. U. must reckon with the Stanford line, one of the best in the country. Their two ends are high class, which is shown by the lack of their opponent's scores this season."

Stanford Defense Never Tested
"Stanford's defense really has never been tested this year!"

"And S. M. U. has one of the nicest ball teams I've seen. They're a ball team that fans gloat over because they have fast backs, good passing and excellent receiving, which after all, makes for a dazzling passing attack. They handle the ball cleverly, automatically. They're adapted to that style of play, whereas many other teams wouldn't be able to play that type of football without losing by it."

"S. M. U. is the fans' and newspaper men's delight, and it must be the coaches' delight to have a team of players so handy with the ball."

"If Stanford can stop the Southern Methodist passes, Stanford will win. If not, they'll get beaten — which all goes to show that a coach knows just as much about who's going to win a ball game as the most rabid fan."

Chocolate Bowl!

TYLER, Dec. 7. (INS)—Rose Bowl, Sugar Bowl, Orange Bowl, Palm Bowl, Coconut Bowl, Bluebonnet Bowl, Soup Bowl.

And now comes the Chocolate Bowl.

The Texas College Steers, undefeated champions of the negro Southwestern Athletic Conference, will meet Alabama State at Tyler Saturday, December 28.

The game will be generally recognized as deciding the negro college national championship.

Cross-Country Letters Awarded

The University Athletic Council yesterday announced that letters had been awarded to the following members of the cross-country team:

Varsity letters were given to Buren Edwards, captain, a senior; Remus Thomas, captain-elect for 1936, a junior; Ed Tottenham, transfer; Earl Johnson, sophomore; and Gordon Fisher, sophomore.

Reserve letters were awarded to Funston Rogers and Fred Bohls.

SPORT PICK UPS

DUMMY McGEE, freshman guard, is responsible for the best story of the week. At one time in his career he happened to enroll at S. M. U., thus becoming acquainted with such of the Mustangs as he didn't already know.

Saturday before last, which you will remember as the day on which the Mustangs and Horned Frogs ran through their act, Dummy admitted himself to the game by going in with the S. M. U. team.

A good many spectators had managed to be there on the sidelines, immediately behind the player's bench. The game started, and the man next to Dummy began jumping up to watch each play over his shoulder of Matty Bell, Mustang coach. He'd watch the play run off and then talk to Bell about it. Everytime he did this, he blocked Dummy's view of the play.

So Dummy had things to say. Things like "Sit down. How can I see the game with you jumpin' up all the time?"

The man once or twice did sit back down, and once or twice he looked back at Dummy with a puzzled expression.

But the game went on, and the man kept jumping up, and Dummy kept yelling to him to "sit down!"

Then, after three quarters of this, someone straightened it all out. Another spectator tapped Dummy on the shoulder.

"Say, do you know who that is you're yelling at?"

"Naw. And if you do I wish you'd tell him to sit down so I can see," came back Dummy.

"Well, no," said the other, "I don't think I will. That's Grantland Rice."

Hilliard Refuses to Make Statement in Canadian Football Mystery Case

IS BOHN HILLIARD, Roy Berry; or is Roy Berry, Bohn Hilliard; or is Bohn Hilliard, Bohn Hilliard; or is Roy Berry, Roy Berry? Does the football world have another "Ted Key" mystery (with variations) to puzzle over here at the end of the 1935 football campaign?

These pertinent questions are being aired in Canada where Bohn Hilliard of Texas Longhorn fame played football during the past season.

During the summer Hilliard left the United States for Canada where he was to play professional football in Ottawa. Late in November he returned to Austin and was a member of the Austin All-Star squad in the Soup Bowl charity game last night at House Park.

Now the Argonaut Football Club plans to ask the Inter-provincial Union of Canada to investigate the status of one Roy Berry, a sensational player for the Ottawa Rough Riders, who they say is Hilliard.

When contacted late last night, Hilliard refused to make a statement. He said:

"I do not wish to make a statement as it might get the Ottawa Rough Rider team in trouble with the Canadian amateur authorities. It doesn't make any difference to me one way or another, but it might hurt the team if I made a statement."

HERE is a story printed in an Ottawa newspaper: "TORONTO, Nov. 18.—The Mail and Empire said today it understood the Argonaut Football club will ask the interprovincial Union to investigate the status of Roy Berry, Ottawa Rough Rider halfback."

"The newspaper has charged Berry's real name is Bohn Hilliard, formerly of Texas University."

"The Mail and Empire added that Berry, who played a sensational game against the Scullers, left the Capital after the game and traveled to Toronto on the same train as the Argonaut players. Yesterday Berry left for the United States."

"According to the Mail and Empire, Bohn Hilliard entered the United States at Port Huron yesterday."

"The newspaper printed a photograph of what it claimed to be the tag on Berry's club bag. The tag read: 'Bohn Hilliard, 2603 Guadalupe, Austin, Texas.'"

8 Trainloads Texans to Go To Rose Bowl

DALLAS, Dec. 9. (INS)—All records for fans traveling from Texas to see one of their teams play an outsider may be broken by the exodus to Pasadena for the Rose Bowl game it was indicated Monday.

Apparently spurred on by the decisive victory of the S. M. U. Mustangs, "Eastern" representative to the gridiron classic, over Texas A. & M. last Saturday, requests have been pouring in to the railroad headquarters here for reservations on the special trains going west New Year's Day.

It was stated Monday that four trains have already been filled and a fifth is being "made up." Indications were that at least eight would be necessary to accommodate those who wish to see the Ponies in action on the coast.

Wilson Wins Scoring Race

DALLAS, Dec. 9. (INS)—Bobby Wilson's touchdown run of fifty-eight yards in last Saturday's game with Texas A. & M. left him today the undisputed leader in the Southwest Conference scoring race for the third consecutive year, with a total of twelve touchdowns in as many games.

His nearest competitor was John McCauley, Rice halfback, who crossed opponents' goal lines nine times in eleven games.

The Irregularity of Some Professors is a Virtue

A professor with a searching, creative nature has a lot of trouble regimenting himself for a university faculty. If he is a good man, demands will be made upon him from conflicting sources.

We have in our faculty men capable of gathering new material and preparing it for popular consumption. These are rare individuals, and highly thought of, both here and elsewhere. But they are frequently chastized on the grounds that they spend too little time on their classes and too much time on the preparation of a book or in the field of scientific research.

Their duty is divided. For their salary, they must teach classes composed of students to whom, because of institutional necessity, "education" must be made attractive. For the utility of their greatest talents, as members of a university engaged in "intellectual leading," they must engage in creative activity and, in some instances, write books.

From the standpoint of permanence, the latter activity is perhaps the more important to society and the University. Members of the faculty are now preparing literary contributions to the culture of Texas and America, some of which have taken, and some of which will take, a definite place in educational history.

It would be an injustice to the many to exemplify a few of the aforementioned educators. Suffice it here to say that some of them utilize documentary evidence that without their treatment would not be readily available to the ordinary student or the layman. Others take their material directly from "the soil"—from the unwritten lore of the people, or from the uncharted vistas of science. All, perhaps, contribute more to the education of posterity than to that of the sleepy classroom co-ed who has enrolled in the University to meet the right people.

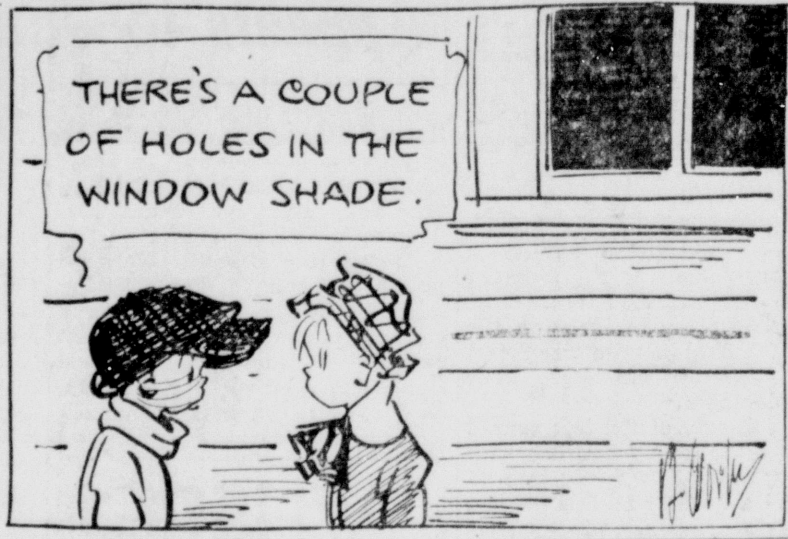

This, however, is not to advocate the departure of a good professor in the regimented-classroom-field from his element to that of the creative scholar or vice-versa. In the University we must have both types and more.

It has been estimated that about 98 per cent of what the average teacher has to offer in his prescribed subject is taken from books not of his own writing. The great mass of what will always be taught in the University will already have been written before the professors will have donned long trousers. The demand for men who can assimilate portions of that material in such a manner as to make it intelligible to average students is very great.

On the other hand, a University should be a place for the continuous exploration and exploitation of uncharted fields. It should utilize, to the greatest possible extent, the services of the creative members of its faculty.

It is an evidence of a weakness in our institutional system that these men must often hide their creative talents under a classroom bushel and entertain sleepy students in order to keep body and soul together.

A Black Outlook

A MESSAGE COMES FROM AFAR, ABOUT PROFESSORS

I was fortunate enough to be able to read a number of the issues of your paper. I'm interested in giving the profs their grades, too. (They can't get me out here.)

The signs of a punk prof are noticeable on the campus as well as in the classrooms. He usually goes about with a pained expression on his face and if anyone cares to apple-polish he or she takes his or her life in his or her hands.

The first day he comes into the class he looks the stooges up and down and finds them too far beneath his intelligence to be worth while. He condescends to introduce his subject, but for the rest of the semester he avoids it. (The final is on the book, boys. WHY come to class?)

Sometimes instead of being caustic he is just plain dull-witted—and sits down to lecture. The kind of grades he hands out are beside the point in this discussion, but if they're cinches, the student hasn't learned anything and if they're had they get—(I flunk).

The good professor, on the other hand, is always alert and friendly on the campus. In the classroom he follows the text (if any) closely enough to avoid confusion, but he presents his own further research into the field. He always stands to do his lecturing for no class can be wide awake if the professor is bored enough to sit down.

If and when the student needs help, this model professor is eager to advise him. Because he knows his field and because, too, he is willing to give his students a good foundation from his own store of knowledge, he is admired and respected. (But even a flunk from him is bad medicine to swallow.)

I hope you'll forgive my herring in on your business, but I think professors all over the country have their similarities.

FRANCES WOLFE.

as it is possible to obtain under the time, and other limitations of the project.

"It is intended that the purpose of this survey shall be broadly interpreted including betterment of knowledge of the outcroppings and underground position of formations, their stratigraphic successions, the fossils which characterize them, and the minerals which they contain," continued Dr. Sellards.

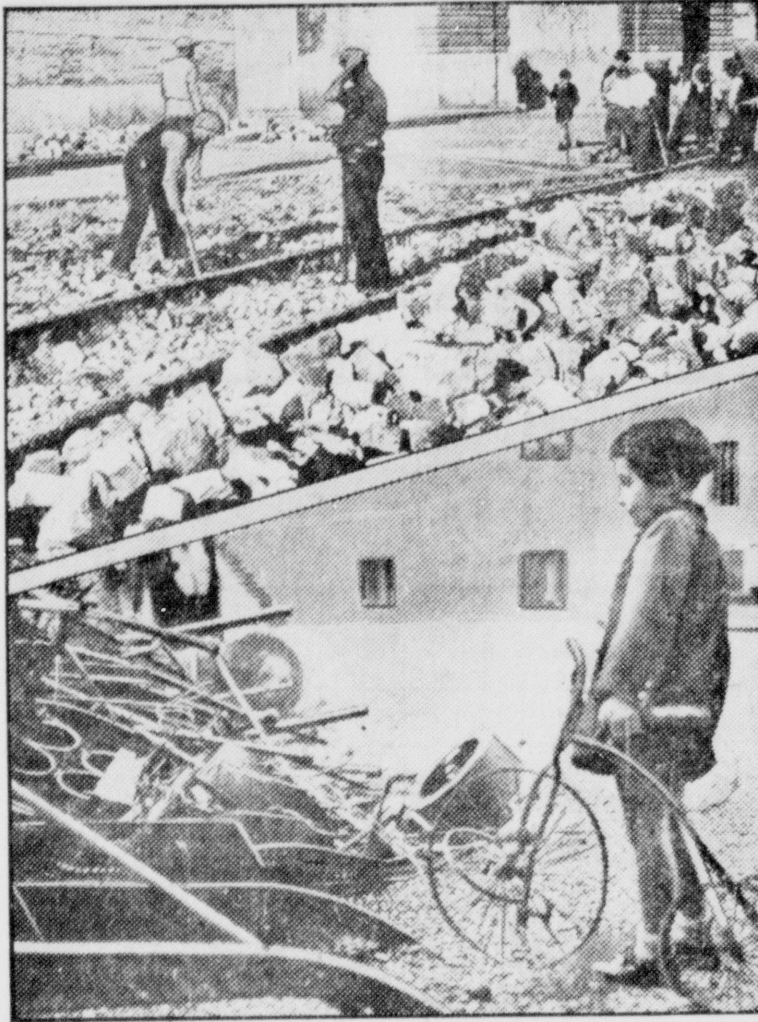

The project had its origin with the Texas State Planning Board, which submitted last August the plan to make a study of mineral resources under the direction of the University Bureau of Economic Geology. This plan was approved by the works progress administrator on September 6, and by President Roosevelt on November 8.

Italy Saves Metal, Defies World

Significant of Italy's indomitable aim to carry on her African quest for a "place in the sun" despite world efforts to stop her by sanctions, these pictures reveal graphically to what extent Italians are going to aid their country. In the scene above, workmen are pictured tearing up the steel rails of an unused Rome trolley line, while, below, a young Fascist donates his most treasured possession, his velocipede, to be melted and converted into war material.

TEXAS...A Century Ago

Edited by Frankie Welborn

December 10, 1835
The General Council received a letter December 10 written by General Burleson December 6 which told of the attack of San Antonio and which requested the Council to send aid to the volunteers. The Council, not knowing that the Texans had captured San Antonio the night before, appointed Thomas Rusk and J. W. Fannin to go through the country and collect reinforcements for the volunteer army.

In San Antonio committees were appointed by the Texans and by the Mexicans on the morning of December 10 to confer on the terms of capitulation. The terms were reasonable and there was no long wrangling on either side, but it did take most of the day to finally settle all questions.

The Mexican force was now around 1,300, for Ugartechea had made his way into San Antonio with 500 convicts and a guard of 100 regulars late in the afternoon of December 8, notwithstanding the fact that General Burleson had out a constant patrol to prevent it. In the fighting the Mexicans lost around 150 soldiers and had

EYES ON GRIDIRON, NOT WAR

Even though strife torn Europe hangs upon the brink of war, America will at least be safe until after New Year's Day.

The threat against world peace means little to the citizens of the United States during those autumn months when thousands of half-crazy football fans jam every stadium in the country to watch gridiron gladiators perform deeds of daring and valor.

Perhaps on Sunday morning, Mr. Public blances at the front page for a moment to discover that 501 Ethiopians and 126 Italians were killed in a bloody skirmish at Adowa, but without further ado he turns to the sports page where he thrills with the news that the Fighting Irish scored three touchdowns in the last quarter to upset Ohio State or that Minnesota ran wild to trample Wisconsin.

The average American can tell you that Premier Laval is a French statesman, but he can relate the life history of such grid greats as William Shakespeare, Bobby Wilson, Jay Berwanger, and Bobby Grayson. News that the League of Nations has imposed sanctions upon Italy is of interest, but America is more deeply concerned about what Southern Methodist plans to impose on Stanford.

Americans are a sports-loving race that idolizes gridiron heroes. During the fall of the year, they live football. When their favorite team wins, they go mad with excitement; in defeat, they plunge into the depths of despair until the following Saturday, where upon they pack the stands with renewed vigor.

Foreign nations may have war in December but they'll have to wait until the referee's whistle dies to get America interested.

Knight. She knows Washington and politics. Fired by her employer, Eddie Wister, played by Eli Wallach, she joins forces with McLean to fight the Appropriation Committee's swindling "just for the hell of it."

The role of Solomon Fitzmaurice from New York, which is taken by Joe Munster, is that of the politician of the "Old School," who has formerly lived on ideals, but who has now completely lost his conscience and has no political scruples.

Tom Davis plays the role of Mark the letter pushing office boy.

Simeon Gray, played by Vernon Rodgers, is the dignified experienced head of the Appropriation Committee who has no illusions as to political deals, but who has kept his own nose clean.

Dick Waite, taking the role of Levering, acts as the party-whip and presidential mouth piece.

The role of Dell, which is taken by Eugene Young, is that of a weak-willed, effeminate, frankly crooked politician. Typical of his characterization are the words "I'm not a drinking man but I'm drinking."

Merton, played by Staley McBrayer, acts as McLean's crooked secretary. He plays a minor role but a role which is essential to the smooth running of the play. Wilson Ater is playing the part of Sneede. This is the role of a congressional golf player, bored with Congress and its proceedings. He becomes interested only when he is about to be gypped out of his "cut."

Miss McMurty, played by Jane Weinert, is the only feminine member of the Appropriation Committee. Throughout the play she lights for "the noble cause" of birth control and appointments of nurses.

Jack Sucke plays the part of Wingblatt, the pompous professional Southerner "with a touch of the gout" who sits in the committee hearings for the sake of saving his slice of the swindling projects.

Peebles, played by Henry Fullerton, is the other professional Southerner on the committee. He maintains that the South went to Hell after the Civil War.

Ebner is the part which is played by Bob Parke. It is the part of the member of the committee who insists on being radical.

Ed Stebbins is taking the character part of Farnum, the mush-mouthed congressman from California who's there to save the Fresno banks and the moving-picture industry.

The hero in the play is Alan McLean. His part will be played by Ramon Travis. McLean is a young idealistic school-teacher from Nevada who when elected to Congress fights corruption and graft with the grafter's own methods. Honesty is his watch word, and after being appointed to the Appropriation Committee to act as a sort of decoy he surprises the entire committee with his ideas and by having his own election to Congress investigated.
