Old Library to Get New Steam System

Sealed bids for two steam generating systems and stack equipment in connection with the remodeling of the Old Library Building will be publicly opened in May, the Board of Regents announced recently.

Specifications for the steam systems may be obtained from the office of Carl J. Eckhardt, superintendent of utilities. The stack equipment plans and specifications may be obtained from the office of Robert Leon White, supervising architect.

Plans for the remodeling of the Old Library Building for the Eugene C. Barker Texas Center were passed by the Board of Regents previously.

The new center will contain many rare and invaluable collections of books dealing with the history of the Lone Star State. It will house the Texas archives—papers, letters, documents, and pictures from early days.
