

PROBATION OF BRACKENRIDGE WILL REFUSED

University May Lose Large Amount Through Failure to Be Named Beneficiary

MAY GO TO SUPREME COURT

Attorney General's Office Is Handling Case for the University

Due to the fact that the Fourth Court of Civil Appeals upheld the action of the Seventy-third District Court in refusing the probation of the million-dollar will of the late Geo. W. Brackenridge, who died last December, the University, along with several other public institutions, may not be the beneficiary to his large estate. The will had been accepted by the county probate court over the protest of the nieces of Mr. Brackenridge, whereupon the case was appealed. In all probability, however, the case will be taken to the State Supreme Court.

Under the provision of the original will, Miss M. Eleanor Brackenridge, the University and other public institutions were named as beneficiaries. The appellate court upheld the findings of the trial court that Mr. Brackenridge had written a will subsequent to the one offered for probate, although the will itself could not be produced.

The attorney general's office is handling the case for the University.

Registrar's Report Compares Enrollment of Past and Present

Statistics which have just been compiled in the office of the registrar of the University for the regents' biennial report reveal some interesting comparisons of enrollment figures of recent years. The total enrollment for the school year of 1921-22 was 4,233, showing an increase of 162 over the preceding year's enrollment. Of this number, there were 597 transfers from other colleges, as compared with 556 for the year preceding.

It is significant that all students of the 1921-22 session were native Texans except 770, as compared with 735 in the preceding year. There were nine students from foreign countries in the University last year, as compared with six foreigners in school for the previous session.

Denominationally, the Methodists continue to hold the lead. In 1921-22 there were 1,334 Methodists, 921 Baptists, 618 Presbyterians, 364 Christians, 367 Episcopalians, and 200 Catholics. In the 1920-21 session, there were 1,290 Methodists, 870 Baptists, 649 Presbyterians, 357 Christians, 321 Episcopalians and 163 Catholics.

One of the most interesting comparisons is that made between the students earning their expenses from year to year. Last year over half the student body either earned all or part of their expenses before entering the University or during the school year. That is, 53.62 per cent of the student body was at least partially self supporting. In previous years, not more than forty or forty-five per cent had been working students.

Attorney General's Office Says That Law Prohibiting Students Having Cars Can Be Enforced

"A law to the effect that students attending the University cannot possess automobiles can certainly be enforced." Such was a statement issued Wednesday afternoon by the Attorney General's office in response to a rumor that such a law could not be enforced by the University of Texas. This comes as a result of the resolution passed by the Board of Regents that on or after January 1, 1923 no student of the University—except graduates or residents of Austin—could have or own an automobile.

Such laws are now in existence at Rice Institute and at Texas A. & M. A similar law was passed at the University of Oklahoma and is now in effect, although it was met with much disfavor among the students and the legality of such a law was carried to the Oklahoma courts.

It is thought by the Regents that the owning of automobiles by students tends to demoralize good scholarship and also tends to draw a social distinction between those who do and those who do not possess cars. It has been estimated that about 300 students of the University will be affected by this recent resolution.

SALE OF TICKETS TO BENEFIT TEXAS COWBOYS STARTED

Rooter's Organization Has Assumed Old Privilege of Fair Sex

Seizing the opportunity held out by the Texas Theater the Texas Cowboys yesterday evening sold tickets to the Co-eds who have had a monopoly for the past few years in selling tags, comic magazines, Cactuses, and generally making the campus a frightful place to the masculine sex. For the Texas Cowboys turned out in full force to sell tickets for the show "Turn to the Right" at the Texas Theater, which is being given for their benefit.

They had a thousand tickets to sell for Wednesday and Thursday and the tickets are getting sold. With the proceeds they intend to pay off several debts and to order new equipment to replace the somewhat flimsy chaps they now have. Going to the show is not merely a matter of loyalty; it is also seeing a good show. "Turn to the Right," has been heralded widely as the great American play presenting mirth and morality, farce and philosophy with scarcely a jarring note or a dull moment in the entire picture. It is directed by Rex Ingram who has had conferred upon him the Bachelor of Fine Arts at New Haven in recognition of his distinguished work producing "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse."

The Cowboys engaged music of a most superior sort; all the University musical organizations were on hand to aid in the program. The numbers by the Glee Club quartet, made up of Louis Dunbar, W. H. Camp, Arlie McTea, and Glenn Wilson, were greeted with much applause, as were the numbers by the Mandolin Club and Longhorn Orchestra. The Cowboys stationed themselves outside the show to sing, yell, make any sort of noise to coax the wanderer into the show.

PRE-LAW SOCIETY WILL HOLD MEETING TONIGHT

Pre-Law Society meets Thursday night at 7:30 in room 105, Law Building. Officers will be installed, and plans for the coming year will be discussed. All Pre-Law students are urged to be present.

According to Felix Raymer, president of the society for the spring term last year, the freshmen and sophomores who expect to enter the Law School should join the society, because membership in this society is the only legal connection that they can have during their two years service on the hill. The students can become well acquainted with each other and will be an organized unit by the time they become law students.

About eighty students were present at the meeting last week, more are expected to be at the next meeting. Lawyers and teachers will address the Pre-Laws from time to time during the year.

BAYLOR SEVERELY CRITICISED FOR PHILLIPS GAME

Sends Second String Team to Play Oklahoma Aggregation

BAYLOR COACH STANDS PAT

Says That They Did Nothing Unethical and Is Willing to Sever Relations

Football circles are buzzing this week over the action of Phillips University last Saturday in breaking off relations with Baylor University, after the Waco college had sent its second string team to Enid to play a game with the Haymakers. Claims advanced by the Phillips University authorities state that Baylor, without notice or warning and allowing Phillips to advertise the game as with Baylor varsity, sent a team composed of second-string men for the game.

Phillips Letter to Baylor

Following the game, President McCash of Phillips sent the following letter to S. P. Brooks, president of Baylor:

"I am writing you to express my surprise that an institution of collegiate standing would prostitute itself by such unethical methods. Your team is unaccompanied by the coach or other official upon whom legal papers might be served to compel your institution to answer for such conduct. Your team has been paid the sum stipulated in the contract with Phillips University. I hereby serve you notice that all future relations between our institution and Baylor are broken. I feel it my duty, without malice, to give publicity to such reprehensible methods in college sports."

After the game with Baylor's second team, Coach McIntire of Phillips issued this statement: "It is inconceivable that college authorities should pull such a deal. However, after the treatment given the Phillips team at the hands of Baylor last year, I really am not much surprised. I feel convinced that the Phillips team would have defeated any team Baylor might have put on the field Saturday by two touchdowns."

Bridges' Statement

Frank Bridges, coach of the Baylor Bears, asserted that Baylor had not taken an unethical position in sending a second string team to Enid. Bridges declared that the contract with Phillips called for the sending of players eligible under Southwestern Conference rules, and that Baylor sent a team of eligible players from the Varsity squad.

"Baylor is perfectly willing to sever relations with Phillips, and would have been glad to do so a year ago," Bridges stated.

Dr. Hollander Gives Illustrated Lecture on Norse Literature

Discussing the "Voyages of the Vikings," Dr. Lee M. Hollander, adjunct professor of Germanic languages, gave an illustrated lecture before the University Scandinavian Society at the home of Miss Hilda Widen, 1608 Brazos street.

Dr. Hollander, who came here two years ago from the University of Wisconsin, has a Ph. D. from Johns Hopkins, has studied abroad, and is an authority on the Norse and Icelandic literature. His special field is the Eddas, and he has made many translations from the Swedish, Danish and Icelandic languages, (tongues). His knowledge is not, however, limited to the literature of these peoples, but includes a comprehensive grasp of their history, geography and national activities.

Election of officers followed Dr. Hollander's address. The following were elected: President, A. H. Berkman; Vice President, Naomi Ekman; Secretary-Treasurer, Adair Mauritz; Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Sandstrom of 1903 Red River Street will be hosts for the next meeting.

Dean of Women Believes That Much Good Will Result From Dissolution of Ribbon Clubs

"I congratulate the sorority women of the campus on ridding themselves of ribbon clubs. I am working for a strong woman's campus and that can be attained only by strengthening the various units which go to make it up." Miss Lucy J. Newton, dean of women, made this statement Wednesday afternoon.

Panhellenic is the central organ of women's activities and much depends on its strength. "We have been working toward a unity of sororities in Panhellenic and by doing away with ribbon clubs that unity has been helped, since they have been responsible for much disunity in that association."

That the action of ribbon club members was the result of much deliberation on the part of the women concerned is the opinion of the dean. "I think that they had some of the highest motives back of them, and I prophecy that the time will come when a strong Panhellenic will be the medium by which sororities may be one of the most valuable assets to the University of Texas. For several years ribbon club members have been contemplating dissolution and have been regretting the results of ribbon clubs."

PLANS ARE COMPLETED BY CO-EDS FOR COMING BASKETBALL TOURNEY

Managers of Teams and Hours for Practice Are Announced

About seventy-five enthusiastic co-eds met in the Woman's Gymnasium Tuesday night to discuss plans for the coming intramural basketball tournament. Judging from the amount of pep which was shown at this initial meeting, this promises to be even a better season than last year. The increased size of the gym and the additional equipment will make it possible to have more practices for the teams as two teams will meet at the same time.

Polly Norton, manager of basketball, told the girls about last year's tournament. Managers for each team were announced, and these girls will conduct their teams until the captains are elected at a later date. Miss Josephine Schmid will temporarily have charge of the freshmen; Elva Rogers, of the sophomores; Mildred Goff, of the juniors; and Polly Norton of the seniors.

The coaches and the different times for practices will then be decided upon. Miss Schmid will coach the freshman team, which will practice on Monday at 4 and on Thursday at 7:15. Meeting on Tuesday at 7 and Friday at 5, the sophomores will be coached by Miss Helen Saum. Miss Adele Kimm has charge of the juniors, who will meet on Monday at 5 and Friday at 7. Monday at 7 and Thursday at 7 the seniors will be coached by Miss Gertrude Rath.

A silver loving cup will be given to the winning team by the Co-op, while a smaller cup will be awarded to the girl showing the best sportsmanship during the season.

Need for New Yells Calls Forth Drive for Fresh Material

Realizing the need for a few good new yells, the yell leading staff has decided to launch a campaign for new material. The University Co-op has donated an eighteen-inch silver loving cup to be awarded to that student or ex-student that writes the most original, most suitable yell.

The contest, which will begin October 26, will continue until November 4. It will be open to all students or ex-students of the University. The material, which should be turned in to Yell Leader Shorty Nowonty, will be judged by the University athletic coaches and the best yell will be selected on the basis of adaptability and originality.

This campaign for new material will be carried on only for the purpose of finding more attractive yells, although they will by no means replace the old yells that Varsity rooters have been using for years.

According to Yell Leader Nowonty, students will not only be helping the yell leading staff by submitting their ideas, but they will help establish traditions about the campus. "What could be more wonderful for a student, than for him to return to the University several years after graduation and hear the rooters yelling their teams on to victory with the yells that he himself wrote?" asks Nowonty.

DAILY WORKOUTS OF CROSS COUNTRY MEN BECOMES RULE

Large Number of Men Have Reported for Practice During Past Three Weeks

SQUAD PROSPECTS GOOD

First Meet for Longhorns Come on Armistice Day With Texas A. & M.

By Victor O. Cook

Longhorn cross country men are working out each afternoon now in preparation for the first meet of the year, which will come early next month, and for the Southwestern Conference meet, which will take place in the latter part of November.

Since cross country practice was first opened about three weeks ago by Coach Roy J. McLean, there have been a large number of men reporting daily for the workout. The Varsity coach is much encouraged over the prospects of the Longhorn squad and believes that the Texas men will be able to give a good accounting of themselves in the Conference meet this fall.

Distance Running

When cross country training was first started the men the men were required to run only short distances, but these have been gradually increased, and the Longhorn distance runners now are going over a 3 8-10 mile course. The course which the Longhorns will have to run over in the Conference meet will be approximately 4 1-2 miles in length.

From among the large number who have been turning out for cross country, Coach McLean has several who are making strong bids for places on the cross country squad. Among the candidates who are showing up good are Captain Trout, Loop, Youngblood, Griffin, Sansing, Williams, Richie, Denman, Slavik, and McNatt.

First Meet in Austin

The first meet for the Longhorns will come on the morning of Armistice Day, November 11, in Austin. The cross country squad from Texas A. & M. will be the opponent for Varsity on that date, and the meet will help to give something of a line on what might be expected in Conference meet.

Southwestern Conference Meet
Stillwater, Okla., will be the scene of the Southwestern Conference meet in this sport, and the date will be November 25. The long distance race there will be a preliminary to the Oklahoma University, Oklahoma A. & M. football game to be held in Stillwater on that day.

Texas University, the Texas Aggies, and Oklahoma A. & M. already have announced their intentions of entering three full teams in the Southwestern Conference cross country meet this fall, and officials at Oklahoma A. & M. are hoping that other Conference institutions will also send teams for the meet. Other colleges in the Conference have signified that they will have one or more men in the competition, but whether they will have full teams of five runners has not been learned.

This will be the third year for cross country races in the Southwestern Conference. The Texas Longhorns won the first year, while last fall, in the meet which was held at College Station, the Oklahoma Aggies copped the title.

A. & M. RETURNS SEATS FOR TURKEY-DAY GAME

More tickets for the Thanksgiving game are on hand due to the fact that Texas A. & M. athletic authorities have returned two thousand tickets to L. Theo. Belmont. Fifteen hundred of these tickets have already been sold. It is believed however, that even more of the allotted tickets to A. & M. will be returned. Mr. Belmont states that, "The return of these tickets means that all Varsity rooters will have an opportunity to see the game."

STATE WARRANTS FOR LAND TAKEN BY ASSOCIATION

Bresmond States That Deficiency Warrants Are Acceptable

Walter Bresmond, president of the Austin Clearing House Association, stated Wednesday afternoon that deficiency warrants issued by the state for acquisition of territory adjacent to the campus will be accepted by the association.

Owing to the rapid growth of the University the need for more territory has become more and more acute, but because of the lack of funds for this purpose in the State Treasury no remedy for the situation was suggested until recently.

However, the Austin Clearing House Association, which consists of representatives from the various banks of this city has agreed to purchase in the name of the state the territory on the north east of the campus. Owners of this property refused to sell unless they were paid the required amount in cash.

The deficiency warrants, according to Mr. Bresmond will not be payable until sometime in the spring.

Thorn Editors Making Laudable Attempt to Learn All Scandal

Thorn editors of the Cactus in a laudable endeavor to give prominence to all who deserve it have hit upon a scheme whereby every University student will have a hand in composing the Grind Section. When Venice was under the rule of the Council of Ten, if any citizen suspected another, he had only to drop a slip bearing the name of the suspect into the Lion's Mouth and the suspect was seen no more. So—the mail slit in the door of the Cactus Office is the official Lion's Mouth for the University of Texas.

When your room-mate talks in his sleep get out your little Corona, record the resulting 'low-down' and drop it in the slit. The Thorn editors rejoice in anonymous letters and are strong for scandal. When you see a note torn in pieces—Grab them pieces! The Thorn has secured the services of C. Billington Sherlock Ham of Scotland Yard, and his only employment is the solving of such puzzles. That all-too-revealing snapshot—the Thorn can use it. Drop it in! If you are the one who knows just what happened and who it happened to, at the Cackle Cackle House on Tuesday night of Rush Week, tell the Thorn about it. It is the only way in which the Thorn can be made to reach all the hams, beans, soaks and oil-cans. Now go to it! Notes, scandal and snap-shots. All's grist that comes to the Lion's Mouth.

A.A.E. HAS MEETING

Members of the American Association of Engineers met in regular session on Tuesday night at 7:15, and heard a short program. All new members have been asked to put in their applications immediately in order that they may be in the Cactus picture.

PROHIBITING AUTOS

With all due respect to the judgment of the honorable Board of Regents, The Texan must dissent from their decision to prohibit the ownership of automobiles by students, other than graduates and those residents of Austin, after January, 1923. The reasons given for the action are that the maintenance of cars by students is detrimental to scholarship and conducive to the creation of social distinctions. In addition to having grave doubts as to the legality of the regulation, The Texan must disagree as to the soundness of the reasons given and the desirability of the rule.

The belief that the ownership of cars by students leads to the creation of social distinctions seems to The Texan to be unsupported by facts. Personal observation establishes the fact that a majority of the students owning cars have bought them with their own funds, earned by their own labor. But, whether a student himself, buys the car, or reconstructs it from the junk pile, or receives it as a gift from his parents, the great majority of student owners are more than generous in giving "lifts" and rides to their fellow students, thus sharing their property with others. To argue that the possessing of a car creates social distinction is to say that the wearing of a good suit creates an artificial distinction to the disadvantage of those who have not as good a suit; that the carrying of one's books in a brief case creates an aristocracy above those who must carry the books under their arm; that the possessing of funds to go to shows regularly creates a higher social class to the detriment of those who have not such funds. If the argument of the Regents be logical and desirable, then it must follow that in order to eliminate these alleged social distinctions, detailed regulations must be drawn up by the Regents, prescribing that all students must wear the same kind of clothes, spend the same amount of money, do the same things in the same way, to the end that each may be as like as two peas in a pod.

The Texan, however, does not believe that democracy and social distinctions are primarily or necessarily created by possession of money, or the things which money will buy. There are wealthy students who are as democratic as the poorest boy on the campus; there are poor students who are poor-proud and uncongenial. The Texan believes that democracy is a matter of the spirit and of ideals, as free and available to the rich as to the poor; that social equality does not take account of the mere possession of wealth or honors. To believe otherwise, would be, to us, to advocate the destruction of the right of property and the socialization of the nation.

To contend that you can make a student study by taking away his car is to argue that one can lead a horse to water and then make him drink. Learning, especially the higher learning of the University, should be sought by a willing mind and not by a person driven or coerced. If the purpose of the Regents is to remove all things which may tempt the student from his study, then logically they should also remove other diversions from his reach by prohibiting him from owning bicycles, or horses, or guitars; and should regulate the number of times the students can ride on the street car, or go to the picture show; and should even employ detectives to ferret out and break up any group of students found talking about matters not connected with their courses, because mere conversation takes students away from their studies to a much greater extent than riding in autos. The enforcement of this new regulation, if enforcement be possible, merely means that students who have been wasting their time in driving their cars, will now have to rent the car, if he have the money; or will have to use some of the many other ways of throwing away his time; while students who have owned cars, yet have not neglected their studies, will be deprived without cause on their part of an important right of property, which may be of considerable financial as well as recreational benefit to them.

If it be true that the possession of cars has caused many students to make poor grades, The Texan would gladly join with University officials in urging students and their parents to get rid of the offending vehicles. The Texan would even favor a raise in the scholarship standard required for remaining in the University, so that better grades must be made by students in order to continue to enjoy the advantages of the institution; or a provision that the student who owns a car and also fails to make the required scholarship standing must dispose of the automobile until his standing is raised or be dismissed from the University. But, to adopt a blanket rule that no student can own a car, even though he may have had a car and yet made Phi Beta Kappa (as several students recently did), seems to The Texan to be a drastic and unnecessary measure. If the policy of the University is to remove from the reach of students every "temptation" or diversion that may attract the mind from study, then let the supervised study halls, the monitors, the drill-masters of high school, be established, so that knowledge may be poured down the funnel-like brains of the children.

The rule of the Regents, not applying to students who live in Austin, also unjustly discriminates in their favor and against others. Following the reasoning of the Regents, it sets up a social distinction for the Austinites. True it may be that this exception to the rule resulted from the fact that the Regents under the law could not so control Austin students, but, regardless of that, the unjust discrimination still exists.

As for The Texan, it believes that University students should be treated as men and women, most of them being over twenty-one, who will of their own accord come up to the scholarship requirements, or suffer the penalty of being dismissed from the institution. It believes that this institution should be one where personal initiative and freedom and responsibility should exist, rather than compulsion and petty fetters; that it should be a University for men and women, rather than a reformatory for a few laggards and lame ducks who may not have sufficient will-power or determination to take advantage of their opportunities.

ligence tests can be furnished to schools desiring them. The University Co-Op furnishes school supplies and sport goods to the students of the University on a cooperative basis, refunding at the end of the session a rebate on money spent by all those paying the membership fee of $1. The educational and intelligence tests were formerly furnished by the School of Education of the University with no profit to them, but with the increasing demand for the tests it was necessary to get the Co-Op to take over the business.

THEATRE CALENDAR

Majestic: House Peters in "The Storm."
Queen: William Fox presents "Monte Cristo."
Crescent: Rupert Hughes' "Remembrance."
Texas: John Golden's presentation "Turn to the Right."
Hancock: Conway Tearle in "Love's Masquerade."

Texas

"Turn to the Right" is the story of a small town youth who, unjustly sent to prison, pals up with two crooks. But having served his term he decides to go back to the little home, arriving in time to find that the hard-hearted village skinflint is about to close out a mortgage on the homestead. With the aid of his two crook pals a way is found to beat out the old skinflint, and then the two crooks under the homey influence of the aged mother find a new road to life and love.

All that delightful mixture of heart throbs and smiles which won such a wonderful tribute from the public in the stage play has been preserved and intensified in the screen version.

Majestic

The beauty of the drama is sometimes so clogged with sentiment that it becomes obscured in a salty wash of tears, but this is not true of "The Storm." It is a powerful story of love and hate, of simple honesty and crafty cunning, of quiet mountain nooks and raging snow storms, of peace and quiet and of mountain forests turned into an inferno.

House Peters plays the leading role, that of a simple woodsman, who trusts all men and fears only women. Into his simple life comes an English lawyer, who is seeking renewed health in the north woods. The two men become fast friends and decide to winter together at Burr's (House Peters) shack in the depths of the mountains. Into this peaceful cabin comes a beautiful French-Canadian girl (Virginia Valli). Burr shys away like a cat, but soon learns that this girl means something to him. The same feeling is experienced by the Englishman, who uses all the guile and craftiness of the gay Lothario to win her. Friendship between the men turns into deadly hate and—but why spoil the prospective spectator's enjoyment.

Hancock

Conway Tearle in "Love's Masquerade" is the attraction at the Hancock theatre for a three day engagement beginning Thursday. There are few motion picture stars whose attractions are offered in Austin, who have a more popular appeal. Mr. Tearle is generally conceded to be among the first ten actors before the motion picture camera in point of genuine histrionic ability. The wide experience which he had on the speaking stage before turning to the movies has stood him in good stead and made it possible for him to give an excellent performance in any kind of a role which is supplied him.

Texas Librarians Will Hold Annual Convention Here

Beginning Wednesday, October 25, and continuing through Friday, October 27, the Texas Library Association will hold its annual convention in Austin. The purpose of the convention is to gather together the librarians of the state in order that the Association may take up matters of common interest to all. The discussions are to be held in the Railroad Commission Hearing room at the capitol.

Representatives from all the principal libraries of the state including normal schools and colleges, two librarians from Oklahoma University and one from Mexico will be present.

Several of the University of Texas faculty members who are to appear on the program are J. E. Goodwin, librarian, E. W. Winkler, reference librarian, W. N. Daniels, Miss Elva L. Bascom and Dr. W. M. W. Splawn of the School of Business Administration.

CO-OP IS FURNISHING SCHOOLS OVER STATE

Because of the popularity and widespread demand at the present time for mental tests to be used in the schools, arrangements have been made by the University of Texas Co-operative Society whereby a variety of educational and intel-

CAMPUS SHORTS

When even the grasshoppers can not live on their brief lives in peace what can the studes expect. But it does seem rather hard that whole classes should be forced to pursue the elusive hopper in the blazing sun, as was evidently the case here on the campus.

Dr. M. W. Graham, of the department of government of the University of Texas, is the youngest Ph. D. on the faculty as he has received this degree at the age of 23. He took his B. A. and M. A. at the University of California, and the doctor's degree at Leland Stanford.

According to authentic reports there is soon to be an active business in the exchange of cars of all makes and conditions for roller skates, bicycles, wheel-chairs or crutches.

Miss Edythe Hershey, nutrition expert in the division of home economics of the Bureau of Extension of the University, is attending the annual meeting of the Texas League of Women Voters in Houston. Miss Hershey was invited to speak in the child welfare division on the subject of the Spehhard-Towner work in Texas.

Try-outs of the accompanists who applied for membership to the University Dancing Club, were held at a regular meeting, Monday night, October twenty-second. Thirty five of the old members were present, getting re-organized, and "limbering up" for the term's work. No new members are to be admitted until after the try-outs at the end of this term.

The regular dancing classes of the physical training department have started, and the instructor has stated that costumes must be ready by next week.

"Present Day Mexico," was the subject of a most interesting talk given by Dr. Hackett, Tuesday afternoon, October 23, in the reading room at 5 o'clock. Both men and women attended.

Katherine Pollard, who received her B. A. degree here last June, is in New York City attending Columbia University. She is doing journalistic work.

As chief chef of the Scottish Rite Dormitory for girls in the University of Texas, O. E. Roberts superintends the preparation of food for 306 students as well as for numerous staff members and employees. The most difficult task in cooking, he says, is to meet the monthly allowance, and it is necessary to be able to combine leftovers into practical and appetizing dishes.

Sandlot Sights

Fall baseball practice—a new word in Texas athletics—is an innovation introduced by Billy Ditch to meet what appears to be a hard year for the "Grand Old Man." With pride we boast of the past eleven consecutive championships that he has won since becoming the Varsity coach, but with doubt we look at his chance to annex the dozenth one. To meet this situation he is sifting the sands to find the best material available.

In the first of a nine game series to be played at the Veteran's Park in East Austin, between picked nines of eligible Varsity men, Collie Falk, younger brother of Bib's, demonstrated that he was a "chip off the same old block" by gleaming a home run and two singles from three times at the bat. While playing first base for the American Legion this summer Falk successfully handled 173 out of 180 chances. Not so bad for a last year's freshman.

Hugo Auler, playing second, a new position for him, made a brilliant play in catching a fast one knocked down by Eddie Polk and throwing a runner out at first.

A shining light of the freshman pitching squad of 1921 appeared on the mound in the person of Eddie Polk. Eddie and Manny Ponsford were the mainstays of the freshman moundmen, but due to a bad arm Eddie was out last season. In six innings of play he held the opposing team to two hits. With a little time Eddie should develop into a winning pitcher for the Varsity nine.

Helne Odom, even after playing all summer with the Jacksonville team, composed mostly of Baylor players, displayed the same knack of handling the hot ones on short. Not only did he feature in making two double plays but collected two hits out of three trips to the plate, one hit being for a home run and one for two bases.

Engineering Student Writes on Problem of Venezulean Oil

Alberto Salas, a senior engineering student in the University is writing a series of articles for publication in a Venezuelan newspaper on the future of the oil industry in Venezuela. According to Salas, the oil resources of Venezuela have just begun to be exploited, and that country is now predicted by geologists to become the third largest oil district in the world.

Salas came to the United States from Venezuela three years ago to receive a college education. When he takes his degree in engineering next June, he will return to Caracas, Venezuela and will engage in the petroleum business there.

This is the second year Salas has been a student in the University. Last year he was an honor student the entire year. Prior to his coming here he was a student in the University of Pennsylvania.

LIMITED P.T. CLASSES FOR DISABLED MEN

Limited physical training classes for men will be started next Monday and Tuesday, it was announced Wednesday by Roy J. McLean, director of physical training. All men who have been placed in the limited physical training classes by University physicians must report next Monday morning at 8:15 o'clock to Dr. S. N. Eckdahl, in the Men's P. T. gymnasium.

There are approximately 30 or 40 men students in the University who, because of some disabilities, have been placed in these limited P. T. classes. Mr. McLean said, These men must take limited physical training, in order to receive beneficial results from the work.

Practice Work Being Given In Many Subjects

Need for practical experience as well as theoretical study is being recognized in numerous departments of the University. A new phase of the work of the School of Business Administration will be field work on the part of students, who will be assigned actual positions where they may gain actual experience.

Students of journalism are given assignments and "runs" on the campus, and their work is submitted to the Daily Texan. Advanced students are given an opportunity to submit their work to state papers. In the Law School, the practice court has become a regular feature of the law course.

In the department of home economics, the Practice Cottage is filled by senior students, who must spend one term in actual household management. Advanced students of chemistry are given an opportunity to gain actual practical experience in the refinery at Sugar Land. In the School of Education, a senior course in practice teaching is one of the prerequisites of the permanent teacher's certificate.

B. A.'s Engaging in Strenuous Practice for Engineer Game

Coach Alvaro "Bud" McCallum is putting the B. A. intramural football team through strenuous practice each afternoon in preparation for the initial game of the intramural season next Friday when the B. A.'s meet the Engineers, three times champions and permanent possessors of the D. A. Frank cup.

Although little is known of the actual strength of the B.A.'s, it is rumored that they possess a sensational overhead game coupled with a deadly end run attack centered around two fast halfbacks. At present the line is rather weak and both Manager Bob Murphree and Coach McCallum urge that any man who is capable of playing in the line, report to Jordan Field for practice Wednesday at 3:45. However, this much is certain, the B.A.'s are out to win and the Engineers may rest assured that they have a battle in store next Friday.

CATHEDRAL SCENE OF STUNTS FOR MASONS

Amid wild shrieks and cat-calls, the co-eds from the Scottish Rite Dormitory paraded in full force down Guadalupe St., Wednesday night to the Scottish Rite Cathedral. On the corner of 18th and Lavaca they held up traffic with shouts of "Hold that line!" and marched into the Cathedral in twos. As a program for the Masons present, the girls sang two songs, one an original selection, "Out Scottish Rite" by Floy Jane Norwood, the other the well known "Eyes of Texas." On the way home the girls hung on to a passing street car and rode to the library where they executed an Indian war dance around the flag pole. Scattered in all directions, they finally reached home to study for the much-dreaded midterms.

Prizes Given Most Valuable Football Player on Thanksgiving Day.

Harry Reasonover is giving to the most valuable football player a most unique silver belt buckle inlaid in a gold head of Bevo, made from the likeness of our lamented Bevo. Students will remember Bevo as the Longhorn Steer that was the mascot of Varsity during the Thanksgiving Football game of 1917 when the University beat A. & M.

Football Fans are viewing this beautiful belt buckle at Harry Reasonover's Barber Shop in the Littlefield Building where much favorable comment is heard and rife speculation made as to the winner of this cherished gift. An invitation is extended University students to visit Reasonover's and study the reproduction of Bevo's head.
