RM

21 Whitworth Road, South Norwood, S.E. 25.

Dear Dr. Stenzel,

Would you be so good as to give me your records of the bearings of JOINTS at Longford Tor (the tor split by a shect of finer-grained Stage 3 granite), and at Bellever Tor?

I find I have only three records concerning the former, and only four concerning the latter.

The other interesting features caused me to lose sight of the joint-planes observations.

I should be infinitely grateful to you for this information, which will save me a second visit.

You will be surprised, perhaps, to note that I am back in town. I have been home since Tuesday, and I now possess the finest brand of chest-cold imaginable.

As you know, I went north after leaving you, to a wretched little farm at 1275. Here there was communal dining, in a one-roomed, granitefloored, granite-walled kitchen. That was perhaps tolerable; but my sleeping place was a minute hut, with a door that wouldn't shut, and facing east.

Damp from floor to roof; ventilation perfect - and promiscuous! Moor mists made night decidedly unpleasant.

Dr. Harwood joined me on Monday evening, stood one night of it, and the following morning announced his intention to quit - at once. I decided to quit too, if only to avoid being a moor-bound pneumonia case. If pneumonia was inevitable, I decided I'd enjoy it comfortably at home. So here I am.

My wife is still away, in Manchester, and I am nursing a beauty of a cold, and sorting out my field-notes. I found last night that I had overlooked the data mentioned on page 1. If you could give me the main facts, I should be very much obliged to you.

very much obliged to you.

I hope you arrived home safely, and that good news will come your way soon.

I should like to see you again before you leave England. We were all sorry you had to leave us.

With greetings, and kindest regards, Yours very sincerely,

Uper Brammall