INVITATION TO REUNION SENT BY PRESIDENT

Committee Urges Exes To Gather on Thanksgiving

TWO-DAY PROGRAM

Students, Faculty, and Alumni to Join As Hosts

To stimulate interest among the ex-students of the University in the general two-day reunion for ex-students on Thanksgiving day, which is being put on by the students and officers of the University, President H. Y. Benedict has issued an official invitation for the event. Signatures of student and ex-student officers are included on the invitations. Copies of the invitation which have been mailed to ex-students in all parts of the country read as follows:

Biennial Reception Extraordinary For Texas Exes and Annexes
Reception—Negro serenaders; refreshments. Main Building 8 to 10 p. m. Thanksgiving evening.

Dancing—Woman's Building and Gymnasium 10 p. m. till dawn stop it. Waldeman's St. Anthony Hotel orchestra, and Steve Gardner furnishing music.

Hosts and hostesses—A hundred, more or less, student officials, including Orange Jackets and Cowboys.

A large percentage of the faculty, of various sorts and sizes. The entire Ex-Student Association Austin official staff, from janitor up.

Soldiers, deans, sailors, tutors, peasants, and prexies. "Every other year, after the Thanksgiving game in Austin, is the best time for the greatest number of Texas exes to gather on the old campus and have a good time together. A special effort is being made to make the 1928 gathering better than that of 1926. Those of us making the effort will have our feelings hurt if the Texas exes do not come by tens and dozens and scores.

"The faculty will be there—also specimens of the present student body, who will not care if, in the enthusiasm of the meeting, the Texas exes tell them they are not what they used to be when here!"

Signed: Bill McGill, president of the Ex-Students' Association; Byron Skelton, president of the Students' Association; H. Y. Benedict, president of the University of Texas; composing a temporary, not eternal triangle and invitation committee.

Countersigned by John A. McCurdy, secretary of the Ex-Students' Association; Katherine Rockefeller, secretary Students' Association, and C. D. Simmons, secretary of the Board of Regents.

Saturday is positively the last day for students to get tickets to the Texas-A. & M. game on their blanket taxes without extra charge, according to Wiley E. Glaze, of the athletic department.

After Saturday night all ticket sales will be for general admission and blanket taxes will be worth only $1 on a ticket. Ticket sales in the mixed section opened Thursday, Glaze stated.

Ticket sales Thursday totaled $2,112.50, almost doubling Wednesday's total of $1,100. Tickets amounting to about $50,000 have been sold at the office of the Athletic Council and about $25,000 at College Station.

B. B. A. TO GIVE FALL BANQUET ON DECEMBER 6

Tickets Will Be Sold By Executive Council

The School of Business Administration will hold a fall semester banquet Thursday night, December 6, at 7 o'clock at the Driskill Hotel, according to Homer Luther, chairman of arrangements.

Tickets will be placed on sale in a few days and can be secured from Miss Kathryn Bramlette in Dean J. A. Fitzgerald's office, room 109 B. Hall, or from any member of the School of Business Administrative Executive Council, which body is sponsoring the banquet. The council members are: Wayne Haines, Homer Luther, William Jeffers, Hugh Jewett, Elliot Stevens, Carl J. Kusch, Charles Jostes, Frances Waechter, Zena Hildinger, and Frank Holloway.

An interesting and varied program is being planned, the program committee has announced.

The School of Business Administration will have two banquets this year, the second one being held some time in the spring. As last year, all students in other schools who plan to enter the School of Business Administration are invited to attend.

"Because students ordinarily spend only two years in the School of Business Administration, and due to the fact that these two years are considered the most important and active years of their college career, it is very desirable that the students planning to enter the School of Business Administration get acquainted with the school and its faculty as soon as possible," said Dr. Fitzgerald, dean of the school.

SCHOOL EDITORS INVITED TO MEET

Sigma Delta Chi, honorary journalistic fraternity for men, has sent out 119 questionnaires to high schools over the state that edit high school papers. The students were asked the name of their paper, questions concerning their circulation, and if they would like to join the conference of high school papers which was organized at the University last spring.

Dewitt C. Reddick, instructor in journalism, stated that 23 answers had been received and that all of these expressed a desire to join the conference.

There are 30 members of the conference who joined when the association was first organized. Sample issues of the various papers will be entered in journalism contests in which prizes will be awarded.

ROYALTIES ON U. T. OIL LAND MAY INCREASE

Utilization of Waste Gas to Raise Revenue

An increase in royalties from the University's oil producing land is expected to be brought about by the construction of a large casinghead gasoline plant, which is to be built in the Crane County field for the purpose of utilizing the waste gas from wells located nearby. J. W. Calhoun, comptroller of the University, was advised that construction would begin soon on the project.

The product which comes from the wells of the Crane-Upton area is charged with an invisible gas which is poison. This escaping gas has been a menace to the men and animals in the field since development was started.

It is thought that the storing of the gas by the new plant will not only add an additional source of income to the field, but also will dispense with injurious effects of the poison gas.

ORIGINATOR OF U. T. BILL IS 76 THURSDAY

Dr. Cooper on Leave From Simmons University

Dr. Oscar Henry Cooper, professor of history and philosophy of education, who wrote the original bill which, under the administration of Governor O. M. Roberts, created the University of Texas, Thursday celebrated his seventy-sixth birthday.

He met his classes as usual and did not remember that it was his birthday until he received a telegram of congratulations from his daughter, Miss Mary Stewart Cooper, teacher of English and journalism in Abilene High School.

Dr. Cooper is a native born Texan and has spent most of his life in educational work in the state. He was born in Carthage November 22, 1852. He has served as state superintendent of public instruction and as president of several Texas colleges and universities, including Baylor University at Waco and Simmons University at Abilene. He has also been superintendent of the public schools in several Texas cities.

He is the only living charter member of the Texas State Teachers' Association which was organized at Mexico in 1880. Dr. Cooper is now professor of education and philosophy and chairman of the faculty of Simmons University.

He is on a year's leave of absence at the University, where he is teaching and gathering material for a new book on the history of higher education in Texas during his lifetime.

"Whatever I may have done for education in Texas, I am prouder of the part that I had in bringing about the establishment of the University of Texas than of anything else," Dr. Cooper commented Thursday. "I began talking and writing on establishing the University in 1879 and later was honored with an invitation from Governor O. M. Roberts to write the bill to create the University. I regretted very much not being able to be present at the formal opening of the University in the fall of 1883. I was teaching in Yale University that year."

Studied Abroad
Dr. Cooper is a graduate of Yale University and has done graduate work both in his alma mater and in the University of Berlin, Germany. In recognition of his life-long work as an educator, he has received honorary doctorate degrees from several institutions. He has held various offices in state and national teachers' organizations, including the vice presidency of the National Education Association.

M'DONALD JURY IN DEADLOCK OVER EVIDENCE

No Verdict Reached in Six and One-half Hours

UNABLE TO AGREE

Pollard, Benedict and Clark Leave For Home

Special to The Daily Texan
PARIS, Nov. 22.—Possibility that the McDonald will suit, which has been in progress here nearly four weeks, would end with the jury deadlocked loomed here tonight when the foreman sent word to Judge Newman Phillips that it would be unable to reach a verdict tonight. Judge Phillips left for his home in Cooper, Texas, 30 miles away, with instructions to the sheriff to notify him when the jury had reached a verdict on the evidence of the case.

The communication that it had not so far been able to agree came after six hours of deliberation on whether the late Paris financier had testamentary capacity when he bequeathed more than $1,000,000 to the University of Texas for an astronomical observatory.

Attorney General Claude Pollard and Assistant Allen Clark left for Austin Thursday afternoon, while President H. Y. Benedict of the University and Dean I. P. Hildebrand of the law faculty left later in the afternoon.

KUEHNE TALKS ON PHILOSOPHY NEED

"One of the greatest needs among American physicists today is a knowledge of philosophy," said Dr. J. M. Kuehne in his talking of the Philosophy Club last night. Physicists are inclined to think of statements as facts which may be proved by theories. The attitude of past physicists of the "classical age" was that time and space were absolute and independent of each other, but events occurred in both. By this theory time on Mars was the same as on earth. The subject matter was divided into dynamics under which came length, time, mass, charge, magnetism, and temperature.

In the "romantic period" came the theory of inter-relativity by and space were inseparable. How-which it was shown that time and ever, it is more simple to teach centrifugal force; therefore, only advanced students work with relativity.

There has been a movement lately against mechanical models but only the German physicists have been able to do without them to any great extent.

At the conclusion of Dr. Kuehne's talk, questions, criticisms, and suggestions were offered by members of the club.

STUDENT OVERCOME IN ROOM BY GAS

Virgil H. Herald, who was found seriously ill late yesterday afternoon in his gas-filled room at 1211 Parkway, was recovering satisfactorily last night at Seton's Infirmary and will suffer no serious effects from the near-asphyxiation, according to a report from Dr. C. P. Hardwicke, head of the University Health Service.

Herald, it was said, was found in his room by friends who rushed him to Seton's where resuscitation was successful.

A gas jet had been left open, accidentally, it was thought. Herald is an editorial assistant on The Texan.

Baylor	4	2	2	0	.500
A.&M.	4	1	2	1	.375
Rice	4	0	4	0	.000

The Thanksgiving games will be the best of the year for every school. The Texas-Aggies game in Austin will draw the largest crowd in history, while the T. C. U.-S. M. U. clash in Dallas will rank second in drawing power. The Baylor-Rice tilt at Houston will hardly draw a record-breaker, but then the Houston fans will fill the stands. The Texas-A. & M. game has always been the main event in the southwest on Thanksgiving day.

The work is getting heavier and heavier. Each afternoon has seen the Texas mentors bear down a bit harder than they did the day before, as they groom their charges for the Aggies. Yesterday a pass defense was the subject of nearly an hour's work. This came after the squad had been running signals for over an hour. The frosh came over and displayed Aggie plays for the benefit of Varsity.

Texas has four men and possibly more this year who will in all probability rate all-conference honors. Gordy Brown, Bill Ford, Mac Burnett and Dusty Rhoads are the four most likely to get the ratings, while Big Jack Cowley, Harry Phillips, Tex Hughes and Rufus King will all get mention from the various experts. Red Wray and Dexter Shelley would have made anybody's all-conference had they not been forced out

STEER CAGERS WORKING HARD UNDER WALKER

Mentor Stresses Speed In Pre-season Practice

Coach Fred Walker has clamped the lid down on his cagers, and is putting them through the hardest work they have ever done this early in the season. Each afternoon at 2 o'clock, he gathers his would-be basketball stars in the Freshman Gymnasium. A squad of some 15 men report daily for some of the stiffest workouts handed any team.

Walker is stressing speed more than anything else right now. Speed in dribbling, speed in passing and more speed in covering the floor is what is hammered at the men from the time they get on the floor until the leave.

This year Texas will play her home games in the gymnasium of the Texas silents. This gymnasium has one of the best basketball floors in the South, but the seating capacity is rather small, seating only about six hundred persons at one time, and the more important conference games will draw in the neighborhood of 3,000 fans. It is hoped to increase the seating capacity of the gymnasium before the season opens.

Coach Walker is using a unique method of teaching his men to dribble low. He has stretched strings in squares about four feet above the floor. He then has the candidates to dribble about under the strings, and about 30 minutes of this work each afternoon is enough to keep any man low when he is dribbling.

with injuries. Redman Hume, the greatest back in the conference, will not make the all-conference selection this year because of injuries which have kept him out of important conference tilts.

STEERS START HEAVY WORK-OUTS

Texas Works On Defense For Air Game

Driving the Longhorns as they haven't ever been driven before, Coach Littlefield Thursday put his charges through the hardest workout they have received this week in preparation for their hardest game of the year Thanksgiving Day. Emphasizing speed, fight, and determination, Coaches Littlefield, James, and Karow kept the entire squad hard at work until late in the afternoon.

The first part of the afternoon was taken over with signal practice. Littlefield divided the backfield men and ends into three squads, and sent them through a stiff half hour's signal practice. The quarterbacks of the three teams called every play in the Steer repertoire during the 30 minutes.

While the ends and backs were making merry in signal practice, Bill James had the linemen and centers down in one corner of the field, telling just what was wrong with their tactics.

Littlefield called the squad together in the middle of the field for a brief talk in which he emphasized clean and hard playing, and constant preparation. He further stated that their mental and physical condition was the determining factor in their playing ability.

Still stressing a powerful pass defense, Littlefield took over the job of hurling passes at the regular backs, who were playing on the defense. The rookie ends and backfield men found it pretty hard to get away with any completed passes, though Littlefield was shooting the passes with unerring accuracy.

Shorty Alderson brought his stars over for dummy scrimmage, and they gave the members of Varsity a good half hour's work in breaking up Aggie passes and running plays.

The air of care-free youth which has been pervading the Steer squad all year has given way to an air of determination. Every member of the squad realizes what has to be done, and they have settled down to do it. Fight and nothing but fight will win for the Steers, and they are getting around to where they are all fighting mad.

Red Wray and Dexter Shelley were taking full part in the workout, neither showing any ill effects from their recent injuries. Shelley was flinging passes with wild abandon, while Red was galloping all over the grid. Probably the greatest amount of zest was shown by the reserve guards, with Jim Beard and Pete Peterson furnishing the big noise.

Fern Helscher of Corpus Christi, formerly a student in the University, was the guest of Mrs. Anita Storrs Gaedcke last week.

CONFERENCE HARRIERS MEET HERE SATURDAY

Rice Favorite In Race for Southwest Title

By STUD NASH
TEXAN SPORTS STAFF

Texas will act as host this year to the Southwest Conference cross country meet, which will be held Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. Rice, A. & M., S. M. U., and Texas have already signified their intention of entering and it is possible that Arkansas and T. C. U. will send teams. It has been definitely decided that Baylor will not compete.

The Texas course, which is 3.3 miles long, is mostly over gravel and, with about a quarter mile of tarviated road included. It is not affected by rain; so there is little chance that bad weather may hamper the meet.

Starting at the Men's Gymnasium, Twenty-first and Speedway, the runners will follow a rectangular course to the north and east, finishing on the track of Memorial Stadium. The athletic department has arranged to take the teams over the course sometime Saturday, so that all the contestants may be familiar with it.

Each team will be allowed to enter seven contestants, with the first five finishing to count on the score of that team. Prizes for the first five men and for the winning team will be presented at a dinner to be given at the University Commons Saturday at 7 o'clock.

Rice, with victories over Texas, S. M. U., and A. & M. in dual meets already tucked away, is favored to win the meet.

Coach Roy McLean stated late yesterday afternoon that he had not yet made up his team but that it would be selected from the following men: S. S. Bowen, B. H. Caldwell (captain), C. W. Cole, Westerfeldt, Clifford Cate, M. A. Johnson, Frank Guffin, J. J. Schmidly, and J. O. Levi.

WISCONSIN PLAYS MINNESOTA SAT.

Special to The Daily Texan

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 22.—From their commanding position at the peak of the Big Ten grid ladder, the Badgers have yet to meet and conquer a great team in the Gophers, Wisconsin's traditional foes who will invade Camp Randall for the season's finale on Saturday next.

Two unfortunate defeats have left the strong Minnesota eleven in anything but an affable mood. There would be nothing more pleasing to Dr. Clarence Spears and his Scandinavian football players than to atone for their recent reverses by upsetting the Badgers, whose slate has yet to be marred.

Glenn Thistlethwaite, who today could have the State Capitol building for the asking, is not prone to rejoice until there is sufficient excuse for contradicting the many scribes who know him best as "Gloomy Glenn." Consequently, the Cardinal is looking forward to a terrific battle on Saturday, and forgetting as much as possible their wonderful victory over the Hawkeyes.

It has been 12 years since a Wisconsin football team led the Western conference one week before the schedule's close. Not only are Cardinal fans acclaiming the 1928 team as the greatest in Badger gridiron history, but they demand national recognition for a squad that has survived such a difficult playing chart without loss.

FROGS PREPARE FOR PONY TILT

Special to The Daily Texan

FORT WORTH, November 22.—Coaches Matty Bell and Edwin Kubalew ere busily engaged the first part of the week in getting their Texas Christian University Horned Frogs ready for their last game of the year. The purple team will be idle until Thanksgiving Day, when they journey to Dallas to do battle with Coach Morrison's Mustangs. Neither team has a chance to win the conference race although the Horns can finish second and the Frogs third.

Several Frog veterans were taking well-earned rests during the first days, recovering from bruises and strains sustained in the battle with the Texas Longhorns last Saturday. While none of the Purple crew is sufficiently crippled to stay out of the game, the Frog mentors want to give their men a thorough rest before the Turkey Day go.

With only one game to play, all-conference selections are already being talked of. On the Purple squad, the names of Williams, Brumelow, Atkins, Griffith and Grubbs are among those receiving the most mention. The work of the big Frog tackle has called forth special attention in almost every game this year, and he appears to be certain of a berth on the team. Atkins ranks with the best centers, while Brumelow is undoubtedly one of the best guards in the loop.

LEAGUE ROLL IS INCREASING FAST

The Interscholastic League Bureau is rapidly enrolling schools from all over the state, according to Roy Bedichek, chief of the bureau. Enrollment for the current year will continue until January 15. Last year there were 5,000 schools enrolled in the Interscholastic League, Bedichek stated, and already enrollment for the current year has exceeded by 200 the enrollment for this time last year.

The League is receiving many calls for bulletins and other material used by the schools, and last year it sent out to different schools over 300,000 pieces of printed matter carrying the University imprint.

The Interscholastic League is 18 years old, Bedichek said, having been organized in 1910 with an enrollment of 28 schools. It has since increased steadily from year to year, with the exception of a year or so during the war, to the present enrollment of over 5,000.

Fifteen More Juniors

The Junior Section of the 1929 Cactus will close when fifteen more members of that class sign up for their pictures.

The production schedule of a book the size of the Cactus requires a very definite time limit on the various sections.

The first fifteen juniors applying after publication of this announcement will have a place in this year's book and the section will then close.

What Do You Know About—

By J. C. WATKINS

1. Stocks drop?
2. Hoover fishes?
3. Student death?
4. Mae Murray?

A "bull" is one who buys stock and holds it in anticipation of the price going up.

A "bear" is one who sells stock in anticipation of its going down, so he can buy it again at a lower price.

Knowing this much, we might understand how a fear of a crash in the New York stock exchange is bringing a decline in stock prices. A hurricane of selling orders struck the market with terrific force yesterday, checking the "bull" movement which has been moving along with considerable violence since election day. Although the "bull" forces succeeded in staging a moderate recovery from the low levels, financial quotations disclosed a long list of net declines ranging from $1 to $5 a share, and a few specialties down $5 to $20 a share.

Total sales crossed the 6,000,000 share mark for the third time, but were well below the record established Wednesday.

Herbert Hoover has reverted to the presidential type—he has gone fishing. The president-elect, who has waded in many a trout stream, late Wednesday afternoon started out in search of bigger game—tuna, swordfish, and jewfish, on the coast of lower California.

Before he put off in a motor boat from the battleship which is carrying him southward for a good will tour of Latin-America, further arrangements of the itinerary were announced. The president-elect expects to visit Havana and probably Mexico. He will also visit Montevideo and Santo Domingo, these steps having just been added to the schedule.

The air service claimed another life yesterday. A student flier at Dallas lost control of the training biplane which he was driving, and fell 2,000 feet to his death. The plane was of the "jenny" type, which has been ruled obsolete by the government.

Football rivalry was declared the cause of the slaying of a Birmingham Southern College student by a Howard College student in Birmingham yesterday.

Saturday the schools are scheduled to play their annual football game, and the two boys got into an argument over the merits of their respective teams. The altercation followed, in which one student was killed.

Mae Murray, that actress whose stage of late has been more in the courts than in motion pictures, had another legal matter to think over today. Two automobiles of an expensive foreign make, her bank account, and much of the furnishings of her home were in the hands of the sheriff, who arrived at the star's home and departed quickly after serving a writ of attachment at the behest of a Los Angeles bank.

The bank alleged that Miss Murray had failed to meet a foreclosure action.

Jumping a few hundred miles to Oak Park, Illinois, you read about a lady who swore in her application for divorce that her husband was an active prohibitionist, positively dry and drank heartily, while she was wet and did not drink at all.

And over in Colorado Springs, Colorado, an automobile struck and seriously injured L. R. Hofer, a city employee, while he was painting a sign on the street pavement warning pedestrians and motorists to be careful.

THE SOCIAL REGISTER

An Associated Press dispatch informs us that for one short year the fistic marvel, Mr. Tunney, has broken into the social register. In the 1928 edition, his name is bracketed beside the maiden name of his wife. The doleful report has it, however, that the only excuse for mentioning a prize fighter at all was that he married into the Four Hundred, and that hereafter both he and his spouse will be consigned to social oblivion as far as the register is concerned. As if anybody cared.

We call this a democratic country. We boast that our only aristocracy is that of brains and achievement. It may be, as some cynics say, that the sounding brass and the tinkling cymbal are not to be surpassed by those statements for pure bunk. The way in which the American populace bows down before visiting dukes, duchesses, and visiting European royalty lends color to the contention, but the fact remains that most of the people who mean much to these United States never manage to be mentioned in the social register.

It is without even an apology to the gods who rule the pages of America's list of the social elite that we refuse to commiserate Mr. Tunney on his hard luck. But be it remembered that our good friend Abe Lincoln never made many debutante dances, and was often among those uninvited to magnificent receptions. Herbie Hoover, another home town boy who has made good, is even worse off than friend Gene, because he has not yet been mentioned even once. Al Smith, the idol of the hoi polloi of the eastern seaboard, never will be among those included. Most of the names inscribed in the halls of literary, artistic, governmental, scientific, and popular fame never soil the pages of the social register. May we be pardoned for expressing our preference for being able to sock them on the jaw, like Gene, to leading the list of the Four Hundred?

MAN TENDS TO BECOME CARELESS WITH KNOWLEDGE OF HIS POWER

The first news of the Vestris disaster vividly brought to the minds of readers the thought of the sea's danger; brought the thought that a trip over the sea is not merely a luxurious and necessary means of getting from place to place, but a dangerous adventure. It recalled the horror and hopelessness of the Titanic's sinking and the old helplessness of man before the fury of the elements.

But such thoughts are no longer valid; there is no longer need for the horror and hopelessness which used to accompany a shipwreck.

Facts which later have been brought to light regarding the sinking of the Vestris indicate that it need not have been a disaster. They bring to us the realization of how near man has come to conquering the sea, and that great loss of life need not accompany a wreck.

Man has the radio. He has ships which can travel 40 miles an hour to the rescue. He has ships, which, with competent handling, can stand against almost any storm.

The danger comes, not from the sea, but from man himself. He is prone to become careless; he neglects to train his seamen to make proper use of the safety devices which he has invented.

It is difficult to understand how, in these days, a disaster can take place in a regular shipping lane without it being the fault of the crew.—Daily Californian.

IF I SHOULD START OVER

William H. P. Faunce, president of Brown University, in an article to the Associated Press and printed in the Gazette Times, has hit the nail on the head by giving us some ideas as to how some of our collegiate problems may be settled. If he were young and again about to enter college—this is one of the topics he takes up on this one, and this one only, is there any chance for a disagreement.

President Faunce, if entering college, would not try to enter every organization in sight. Many college organizations seem brilliant only to outsiders, yet does it not seem quite as brilliant to the student? Organizations offer students a pin to wear, a foolish ritual perhaps, and an opportunity to get his picture in the college annual, and another chance to fritter away his evenings.

As for foolish rituals for any of the ceremonies of groups on the Oregon State campus, they are practically nil. Solemnity and sincerity mark all rituals, and although they may seem foolish to more mature minds, are at the same time when a student goes through the most sacred things in his mind. There should be no question that any organization has some value and that anything of some value is worth working for.

"The process of selecting freshmen is now one of the most difficult and delicate problems before our crowded colleges. No longer can we rely on a mere number of 'points' as certifying that a man is fit to profit by a college education. He may present points without number, but if he is lazy or vicious, if he is a loud mouthed nouveau riche, if he is destitute of the instincts of a gentleman or loyalty to truth and honor, we do not want him."

His solution, evidently is psychology, for if psychology has any place in the modern world, it is vitally needed in the freshman year. We agree that it is hard to find out all about a new student, but after he is here it is our duty to put him on the right track or let him go back for more training.—Oregon Barometer.

WHEN FERMENTED WINE IS DE-STILLED

Almost all of the inhabitants of Oradour-sur-Vayres, France, lost their voices recently when wine found later to have contained arsenic brought a hush upon the little city. The local wine dealer has been exonerated, but the people are still indignantly searching for the culprit who put the poison in the wine dealer's supply. It was doubtless some political enthusiast who was trying to nip a "whispering campaign" in the bud.

DISILLUSION

MY SOUL is dipped in dark despair

I sigh, "Alas, alack!"

I've left my soul-mate in the lurch

And I shall ne'er come back.

I thought my flame a joyous child

Both innocent and mild

I thought she'd never pull a stunt

That was remotely wild.

She was delicate of feature and she Looked like Peter Pan

She gave her kisses to me but not

To any other man.

She sought me for protection from

The evils of this sphere

And just because she loved me so

She'd cry a little tear.

I shielded her from every grief

I kept her pure from sin

I knocked a fellow sprawling who

Had kissed her on the chin.

But I have found her wanting and

The reason is, to wit:

I left her flat and all because

The light of my life got lit.

"THE WIND." Picturization of Dorothy Scarborough's famous book, with sound. A good one. Lillian Gish's always are, aren't they? Or do you care for tears and crazy spells? We do. This picture was made on the Mohave desert. Has the Mohave desert moved to Texas? If you get what we are aiming at. At the Queen.

"DETECTIVES." In which Karl Dane and George K. Arthur get funny, as is their wont. They couldn't possibly be any other way. With Marceline Day for romance and rivalry. Some say it's a comedy knockout. At the Majestic.

"THE FIREFLY." Musical comedy, second of the season. Think this also is a revival. May Valentine in person directing the special orchestra, which includes a harp—boy, we're going to hear that harp, we like 'em. One performance only. Tonight. At the Hancock.

"RIN-TIN-TIN." This is a first run picture, and not only that but a pre-release meaning that you get a chance to watch this most famous of dog stars and his human accomplices do their stuff before anybody else in the world. At the Crescent.

"DANCING DAUGHTERS." Probably the best movie in town. Joan Crawford, Anita Page, John Mack Brown, Dorothy Sebastian, and Nils Asther in a "modern youth" thing which has taken the world by storm. It's a fine picture, though it isn't exactly the kind that makes a list of the ten best. If you haven't seen it, by all means do so now. We're gonna see it again. At the Texas.

MUSICAL COMEDY TAKES STAGE AT HANCOCK TONIGHT

'The Firefly' Presented With Famous Cast, Special Orchestra

The second musical comedy of the season, "The Firefly," takes the stage at the Hancock theater tonight at 8:15, bringing with it a special orchestra under the personal direction of May Valentine and a notable cast. The leading role in this extravaganza of the tropical Bermudas is taken by Lillian Gish, who will be remembered here for her part of Mitzi in "Blossom Time," one of the greatest musical plays of all time.

Irwin Johnson, who is rightfully termed "America's sweetest tenor," plays the role of Jack Travers. Mr. Johnson has played the leading tenor role in all the Gilbert and Sullivan operas and has a repertoire of 60 operas at the tip of his tongue.

This production of "Firefly" is produced as it was originally produced a number of years ago in New York at the Lyric theater under the management of Arthur Hammerstein. Charles H. Jones, who directed the original company, and who is considered today the greatest director of opera and musical comedy, is directing this production and is traveling with the company. This assures it of being a finished production in every way.

May Valentine conducts her own ten piece orchestra. With her is Miss Jean McElroy, the accomplished harpist, who carries a harp valued at $3,000. "Firefly" has been revived because of its abundance of beloved and lilting melodies, its quickly moving story, its quickly moving story and its colorful background. This is a gorgeous musical production the theater managers are praising to the skies and are highly recommending to their patrons. Don't miss it.

'DANCING' MOVIE NOW SHOWING AT TEXAS THEATER

Unusually Well Done Film Portrays Modern Youth

"Our Dancing Daughters," preferably called simply "Dancing Daughters." At the Texas theater today and Saturday. This picture has been reviewed previously in these columns and has been found to be everything that could be desired in the way of motion picture entertainment. It concerns modern youth, you know, in its almost unbelievably flagrant aspects, and stars Joan Crawford, among several other good ones. This is the picture which causes mothers all over these great United States of America to write in to first this authority and then that one and pray for that picture "Our Dancing Daughters" to be stopped. It's—well, it's doing things to the youth of America. And by all means go see it and let it do things to you. Aside from that, it's a fine picture in itself, although most of what it portrays is extreme and therefore improbable.—C. B.

being shown in Austin as a pre-release, whatever that is, and it offers an unusual opportunity to see the famous dog star in one of his superior parts. He is ably assisted by a corps of stars of the homo sapiens tendency.

AT TEXAS

GOOD old serious Mack Brown is the luck dog that plays the lover of Joan Crawford in "Dancing Daughters," showing at the Texas theater today and tomorrow. Remember that kiss by the side of the sea? Just about the best that's ever been on the screen except the one in "Seventh Heaven" eh, what?

Norma Paylor, Theta pledge, spent a few days in Waco, where she attended the Cotton Palace.

Lois Williams of the Pi Phi house is in Bryan, attending the queen of the rodeo as her maid of honor.

'THE WIND' NOW PLAYING AT THE QUEEN THEATER

Lillian Gish Stars in Excellent Role For Her

"The Wind," now playing at the Queen theater with sound effects furnishes Lillian Gish with one of the most highly dramatic roles of her career. Miss Gish, to date, has encountered and combated almost every known force of man and nature. There was the ice flood in "Way Down East"; in "The White Sister" it was a volcanic eruption; and she has struggled through the Civil War, the World War, and has had tuberculosis; but never before has she come in contact with anything that could in any measure compare with a West Texas wind storm. Miss Gish goes crazy more beautifully than ever before. Wind—sand—sand—wind! It howls and beats against the window panes. Then you find it in your coffee.

The picture is really very well done and is quite effective. We feel that Lillian Gish was the one person capable of so vividly and forcibly interpreting the emotional character of Letty. The picture is extreme, but it is produced with such a knowledge of technical and dramatic values as to make it convincing and vital.

Dorothy Cummings gives an excellent performance as the hardened, jealous wife whose passionate love for her husband generates her hatred for the girl who she believes is taking him away from her. Lars Hanson's work is also worthy of comment.

The ending of the picture, though unlike the book, is very good. It is one of those possible-two-ways endings that leaves us wondering whether she did kill that man or didn't she. You may take your choice, depending upon how blood-thirsty you are.—B.B.

DANE-ARTHUR COMEDY NOW AT MAJESTIC

Karl Dane and George K. Arthur, famous comedy team of the screen, invade the underworld and enact the role of a pair of amateur detectives, in their latest hilarious experience, "Detectives," now playing at the Majestic theater. The Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer comedy is a thriller with laughs injected by the pair as "thick" detectives, blundering into a serious underworld plot. Marceline Day plays the heroine, and Tenen Holtz, Clarence Lyle, Polly Moran and others of note are in the cast. It was directed by Chester M. Franklin.

THE RED DANCE HERE NOVEMBER 26

The humble "Chico" of "Seventh Heaven" and the almost equally humble artist of "Street Angel" is now a grand duke. At least that is the role Charles Farrell plays in "The Red Dance" which is coming to the Hancock theater commencing November 26.

Dolores Del Rio is the star with Mr. Farrell.

Ina Sessions, head of the English department of Westmoreland College, is the guest of Miriam Gordon Landrum, and will be here over the week-end.

FELSIING TALKS TO FIRESIDE FORUM GROUP

"Science and Religion"
Subject at Lambda Chi House

Dr. William A. Felsing addressed the members of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity Thursday night on the subject of "Science and Religion." The talk was one of a series of the Fireside Forums that is being sponsored by the Y. M. C. A.

"People can be divided into three classes according to religious beliefs," said Dr. Felsing. "There are those who have a child-like faith in the veracity of the Bible, those who believe that it is all wrong, and those who pursue the proper course, according to my ideas, and who take the Bible and its teachings as a number of stories that all have something to teach one if the lesson is dug out."

In closing Dr. Felsing paid a tribute to the so-called "modern youth" when he expressed his belief that they were not as wild as they were ten or 20 years ago.

"The youth of today has views on life and does not fail to express them," he continued. "The thing that makes me for them is the fact that they are open and above-board in their actions. In this respect they differ from those of other generations and to my mind this characteristic is a wonderful one."

LOTA SPELL ISSUES MUSIC BULLETIN

"Making Friends in Music Land" is the title of a bulletin by Lota Spell issued by the Inter-scholastic League of the University as a classroom test in music appreciation for the purpose of supplying teachers and pupils with material to be used in the state music memory contest for 1928-29.

Radical changes in the rules and regulations for the contest have been made this year. Hereafter much emphasis has been placed on writing and spelling. This year stress will be placed on the ability of the contestants to discriminate along the lines of form, theme, and tone of instrumental selections.

The bulletin contains a table of pronunciations, a list of composers, and material in story form to be used in connection with the musical selections to be studied in the state music memory contest.

JUNIOR ARCHITECTS HAVE NEWS SHEET

Junior students in the department of architecture began issuing a daily news sheet Wednesday, according to J. A. Mora, editor.

The sheet is to contain editorial matter as well as art, and is to serve as a medium between the faculty and junior students in the department.

Three prizes are being offered for the best names submitted for the publication. "Why Many Promising Architects Change Their Vocation While in College," by E. F. G. Grades, will be first prize; "History of My Life," by Samuel E. Gideon, second prize; and one free lesson in Theory and Design from K. D. Vernor, third prize.

MONTHLY BULLETINS PUBLISHED BY U. T.

The University publishes bulletins four times a month which deal with humanistic and scientific subjects. These are prepared by the Division of Extension, by the Bureau of Economic Geology, by the Bureau of Engineering Research, and other bureaus of general educational interest. These bulletins with the exception of special numbers will be sent free to any citizen of Texas on request.

The Bureau of Engineering Research has issued a bulletin on the relation between the strength of portland cement mortar and its temperature at time of test. This pamphlet gives the scope of investigation, the materials, fabrication and testing of specimens, and results.

Another bulletin that this department has edited is a report on the testing of motor vehicle headlighting devices and a report on the investigation of certain aspects of the headlight glare problem.

GIDEON EXHIBITS CHRISTMAS CARDS

Following his custom of the past few years, Samuel Gideon, associate professor of design in the department of architecture, has placed a display of Christmas cards in the junior drawing room on the second floor of B. Hall. The exhibit consists of Christmas cards sent to Gideon by former students and friends and are exhibited as an incentive to the students of architecture to make their own Christmas cards as most of those on display are original drawings.

In the collection now on display are found cards sent by many prominent men, and the card arousing most interest is that by Gutzen Borglum, the sculptor of Stone Mountain fame.

Among the block prints done by California artists is a remarkable one by Berger Sandzen. Other notable artists whose cards are included in the collection are: John J. Bull, Philadelphia artist, and Wayman Adams, portrait painter of national fame.

LOAN LIBRARY HEAD NOW IN COLUMBIA

Miss Lenoir Dimmitt, chief of the package loan library bureau of the Division of Extension of the University, is on a year's leave of absence, and is doing graduate work in Columbia University in New York.

She expects to receive her M.A. degree in library science in June.

She will return to the loan library next summer. Miss Dimmitt has been chief of the package loan library for several years. She received her bachelor of arts degree from the University in 1911.

Miss Mary Blomeyer of Kansas City who represented Missouri in the Texas Cotton Palace is the guest of Dorothy Fentress at the Pi Beta Phi house. She expects to remain for the Thanksgiving game.

Elizabeth McKinnon and Betty Colt, Pi Phi pledges, spent the week-end in Waco.

BOOK CLUB ORGANIZATION COMPLETED AT UNIVERSITY

The organization of the Book Club of Texas has just been completed, according to Dr. W. J. Battle, one of the members. The Club was formed for the purpose of fostering fine arts pertaining to the production of books.

The club will function in two ways: first, it will publish books that will typify the best standards of bookmaking, in regard to subject matter, printing, binding, and typographical design; second, it will sponsor exhibitions and lectures pertaining to these interests.

The club has 11 directors who will conduct the club on a non-commercial and non-profit basis. Books will be published three or four times a year and will be sold to members only.

Membership is open to book collectors and all who are interested in fine books. Besides Dr. Battle, the members in Austin are: President H. Y. Benedict, R. L. Batts, Miss Fannie Ratchford and John Mayfield.

There are about seventy members of the club.

MODERN SINS DENOUNCED BY REV. FATHER QUINAN

Modern sins and wrong and dangerous ideas which smooth them over were denounced by the Rev. Father Quinan, one of the two Paulist priests conducting a series of services at St. Austin's Chapel in a sermon he gave Sunday evening on "False Philosophy" before a capacity audience at the beginning of the mission now in progress.

He said in part, "The modern world with its false systems of philosophy and its distorted ideas of religion and life has a far different view of sin than the Christian view. There is indeed a decline in the sense of sin that is very noticeable. Some there are who profess to believe in no eternal law giver, no God.

"But God's idea of sin is far different. Any wilful thought, word, or action contrary to his commandments is sin and the mere fact that men are trying to evade the idea of sin, trying to justify their moral sin does in no way change Christ's view and standard of sin.

"The soul that sinneth, the same shall die."

The mission, conducted by two visiting priests, will continue for two weeks, until Sunday, December 2. The first week consists of a series of sermons at 6 o'clock and 8 o'clock each morning, and at 7:30 o'clock each evening. The second week is devoted to lectures, particularly for non-Catholics, held at the same hours.

FUNDS MAY BE AVAILABLE FOR ZOOLOGY WORK

Board Offers $65,000
To Graduates in Proposal

Funds totaling $135,000 will be available for graduate instruction and research in zoology at the University provided the University is able to meet the General Education Board half way in securing funds for such an undertaking. The General Education Board offered the University $65,000 for such work, on condition that the University supplement this sum with $70,000. Acceptance of the offer has been made by the Board of Regents.

The General Education Board offers an initial sum of $10,000 for the year 1928-29, an equal amount for each of the four years following, and $7,500 for each of the two years thereafter, provided an equal amount is forthcoming from University sources in furtherance of zoological research and graduate instruction in the University.

The University was selected by the General Education Board, which is contributing a very large sum for the promotion of sound education in the United States, because the Department of Zoology in the University is one of the outstanding departments in the country. It is one of a few state institutions considered by the General Education Board as worthy of a donation from the Board for research work, and is one of only four such institutions in the South.

Application for a fund from the Board was made last year, and an investigator from the Board spent some time here in investigating the Zoology department, returning a very favorable report to the Board, according to Dr. J. T. Patterson, director of the fund granted the University.

Although application for the fund already had been made, the immediate incident focusing attention of the General Education Board on the Zoology Department here was the work done last year in the field of genetics by Dr. H. J. Muller, professor in the department, whose discovery that the X-Ray when applied to fruit flies causes mutations to occur 150 times faster than they do under ordinary natural conditions was declared by leading scientists attending the Fifth International Genetics Congress held in Berlin to be one of the greatest discoveries ever made in the field of science.

The funds made available to the Zoology Department will be utilized in the best way possible to develop graduate instruction and investigation within the next eight years, according to Dr. Patterson. It is the hope of the department that this fund will be followed by the donation of a similar character to other departments.

FELLOWSHIPS FOR STUDY IN FRANCE READY

$1200 a Year Awarded
In Five Branches
Of Study

American Field Service Fellowships for French Universities, Inc., announces that a limited number of fellowships for advanced study in France will be awarded for the year 1929-30. Each fellowship will carry a stipend of $1,200 and will be ten-ments of the University for graduate and research work.

"This should set an example to possible donors of funds to the University for such investigations," he said.

Members of the department faculty will carry on the research work in addition to their regular work, but a part of the fund will be used in securing technical help, and so far as possible this technical help will be selected from University students who show sufficient qualifications for such work, Dr. Patterson said. Applications from about half a dozen students from foreign countries already have been received, and some of these applicants possibly will be selected as technical helpers in the research.

"Technical helpers showing proper qualifications for research work will be granted stipends, and there will be a combination of the technical help and the fellowship idea," Dr. Patterson pointed out. "We are watching out for men who have an aptitude for this kind of work," he added.

This research work will bring to the University well-trained men from other institutions on the basis of high-grade fellowships for the purpose of carrying out the investigation of specific problems under the direction of the staff, it was declared. It was pointed out that faculty members of other universities may possibly take advantage of the research facilities here to carry out investigations.

"It is the hope of the faculty that young men and women of ability trained in other institutions of the state may be attracted to come to the University of Texas," Dr. Patterson said. "There are two such students in the department this year."

able for one year with a possibility of renewal for a second year if circumstances are favorable. In general, the fellowships are offered in the following fields of study: sciences, social sciences, mathematics, literature, and languages.

The fellowships are open only to men, and a candidate must have practical ability to use French books, both in general subjects and in his own special field, and be able to speak French and understand lectures delivered in French.

Applications must be received at the office of international education not later than January 1, 1929. Full information and application blanks may be obtained from Archie M. Palmer, assistant director, Institution of International Education, West Forty-fifth Street, New York. Further information may be obtained also from Dr. H. W. Harper, dean of the graduate school.

EX-LAW STUDENT GETS APPOINTMENT

M. Hendricks Brown, graduate of the School of Law in June, 1926, has been appointed an assistant city attorney under Robert Stewart, recently elected city attorney of Fort Worth, according to an announcement received in Austin Wednesday.

Brown has been practicing law in Fort Worth since his graduation. While on the campus, he lived in B. Hall.

FLOREY HOLDS H. E. CLUB SCHOLARSHIP

The scholarship which is given annually by the Home Economics Club of the University is held this year by Janie Florey. This scholarship amounts to $300, of which $200 is a loan to be paid within three years after graduation at the rate of 6 per cent interest.

The scholarship is open to students of junior standing or higher who are majoring in home economics, and who have an average of B or higher. Applications for the scholarship must be made by June of each year.

Alton S. Harry of Port Arthur will be in Austin for the Thanksgiving clash with the Texas Aggies.
