DEAN KIRBY TO BE HONOR GUEST OF CO-ED SCHOOL

School of Domestic Science Entertains in Honor of Mrs. Kirby's Seventy-eighth Birthday Anniversary.

This afternoon, from 4 to 6, Dean Kirby will be the honor guest of the Domestic Economy Department. Today marks the advent of Mrs. Kirby's seventy-eighth birthday, and the occasion planned by the department is in honor of this event.

The entire week has been spent in preparing for the occasion. The Domestic Science classes under the supervision of Mrs. Gearing, chairman of the school, and Miss Pritchett, have been planning the program and arranging some decorative scheme for the lecture hall where the festivities will center. The plans have been consummated so silently that the entire affair will be quite a surprise to the dean.

The hostesses have issued invitations to quite a few of the students and faculty members. Among the guests will be President and Mrs. Mezes, the deans of the departments and their wives, the library staff, and all the women instructors of the University. About a hundred guests will be in attendance.

The following attractive menu will be served:

MENU.

Chicken Forcemeat in Aspic Jelly (served in molds garnished in fancy designs)

Sandwiches Olives
Fancy Cake Pineapple Sherbet

Every arrangement has been in the hands of the members of the Domestic Science classes. These young ladies prepared a massive cake crowned with a large letter "K" formed by seventy-eight candles. During the afternoon this cake will be cut.

Drs. James and Bell Address Business League.

Last night Professors James and Bell addressed the members of the Austin Business League. Dr. James spoke upon the election of a charter commission for the city of Austin provided for the enabling act of the Home Rule amendment. Dr. Spurgeon Bell addressed the citizens of the telephone franchise in Austin, of which he has made a special study. Following the two speeches, Mr. Young spoke on Somers System of Property Valuation. Mr. Young is the state representative for the company that operates and installs the Somers System. The speaker explained how the company operates in valuing property. A distinction is made between business property and residence sites, and consequently the two kinds of property are assessed on a different basis. In valuing business property, the expert first determines the location of the most valuable block in the business district, and in arriving at this conclusion, Mr. Young relies upon the testimony of a committee composed of the prominent business men of the city. The value of this block is assessed at one hundred per cent, and every other block is rated at less than one hundred per cent. The residential property is valued upon a dollar basis.

Each city pays the expense of the installation, and the cost of the venture run into the thousands of dollars. Austin will pay $8,800 for the work, and last night Mr. Young estimated that it would take four or five months to fulfill the contract. Waco's system will be installed at a cost of about $6,600. The plan seems to be gaining wide popularity throughout Texas.

TRACK MEN DO LIGHT WORK.

Yesterday evening Coach Taylor sent the candidates through a light turn at the track. As the season is early, the men are still doing light work, but the next few days will see increasingly hard training in preparation for the Dallas meet. The team will in all probability leave on the night of the 21st. Many of the larger colleges of the state have entered, and the contest promises to be a close one. Twice a week the track men are taking cross-country runs, and in a week or so they will be ready for the sprints and the distance runs.

MAGAZINE BEING BUILT.

School of Chemistry Will Use Building as Store-house for Inflammable Articles.

The contractors have broken ground for the new magazine just north of the old tank. The building will be constructed of reinforced concrete, and the entire structure will be underground. Entrance to building will be through one small door guarded by an iron door. There will be only one key to the door and this will be in the continuous possession of Mr. Duncan of the School of Chemistry.

All inflammable articles now in the Chemistry building will be stored in the magazine. While there is no practical danger of their exploding in their present location, the department feels that it is more advisable to store them in a secluded place. In case of fire, the presence of inflammable and highly explosive chemicals in the building would prove a menace to the firemen, and it is for this reason that the change is being made.

GLEE CLUB WILL GIVE BIG RECITAL

Manager Has Arranged Dates with San Marcos, Temple and Corsicana—Other Negotiations.

Monday, Feb. 2, the University Glee Club is going to give a concert at the Y. M. C. A. In arranging the program, the club will endeavor to make selections that will appeal to an audience of University students. Besides the standard Glee Club numbers, selections from the latest musical comedies and popular songs, never before introduced in the city, will be given as encores.

The outlook for this season is indeed bright, and the club—the largest and best the University has had in many years—will undoubtedly draw a large representation from the student body to its entertainment.

The manager has arranged to give a concert at San Marcos Feb. 16, and soon afterwards, one in Temple. The date of this concert has not yet been definitely settled. Corsicana and other central towns will also be visited by the club.

The prospects for a tour of North Texas after the winter term exams are good. Dates at Sherman, Fort Worth, McKinney and other places seem assured.

PRESS CLUB TO MEET.

Next Monday night at 7:15 o'clock the members of the Press Club will hold their regular bi-weekly meeting in the office of the president of the Students' Association. This affair will be in the nature of a smoker, and several interesting speeches will be delivered during the evening.

Lynn W. Landrum, managing editor of The Texan, will speak on "Press Agency." Talks will also be given by Walter C. Hornaday, graduate of the School of Journalism of the University of Wisconsin, and by R. C. Lowry of the Austin Statesman. After these, talks of general discussion will follow and all members will participate in these.

ORGAN RECITAL AT ST. DAVID'S.

Ben J. Potter and G. A. Sievers Give Joint Recital Tonight at St. David's Church.

Tonight at 8 o'clock, Ben J. Potter, organist, and G. A. Sievers, violinist, will render a joint recital at St. David's Church. This is the third of a series of very successful recitals given by this local talent. Mr. Potter is an associate of the Royal College of Organists, London, while Mr. Sievers has already an enviable reputation as a violinist of note. This recital is free, and all university students are cordially invited to attend. The following program will be rendered: Grand Offertoire in C (No. 3).....Lefebure-Wely.....Durande Gavotte—Pastorale.....Aug. Gavotte Adagio Pathetique.....Benj. Godard Barcarolle (requested).....Offenbach Air de Louis XIII.....H. Ghys Nocturne in B Flat.....John Field Fantasia on Theme.....Ed. Batiste Larghetto in D Flat.....Wm. Faulkes Andante Cantabile.....Tschaiowsky Dervant von Image.....Jeno Hubay Evensong (requested).....Ed. Johnston

DISCH WORKS OUT 'T' BASEBALL MEN

Coach Gives Freshmen Printed Sheet Giving Instructions for Covering Positions.

Coach Disch put his men through a light practice yesterday and then sent them up. About twenty-five new men were out, and these he gave a little fielding practice; but most of the afternoon was devoted to the "T" men of last year's team. A squad composed of Bowles, Francis, Cartwright, C. Brown, Massey, Jones, Gambrell, Hill, and Cone, took turns at batting from the cage, trying to "get their eye on the ball." This afternoon none of the "T" men will be out, and Coach Disch will devote the entire time to his new men. All of these will be put through fielding and batting practice. Even this early it is safe to predict a most successful team in baseball. Almost the entire team last year is back, and several men who were ineligible last year, who promise to become stars.

Coach Disch, before sending his Freshmen up for the afternoon, gave each a printed sheet of "What to Do" instructions, telling how to cover the various position under varying conditions. Every afternoon he gives them a short quiz on the rules.

RUSK CHANGES DATE.

With the change of meeting night of the Rusk Literary Society from Saturday evening to Tuesday evening, ended a long fight between society and oratory. Last Saturday evening that society voted almost unanimously to change, thus ending the controversy which had lasted over a year. The controversy started last year after the assembly passed a bill restricting social affairs to the end of the week. Immediately all the other societies changed their meetings to Tuesday, and a number began trying to change the meeting night of the Rusk. A number of bills offering a change of meeting time were offered last year, and several were offered this year, proposing a change. A majority were in favor of it all time, but the constitution required a two-thirds majority.

Last Saturday the majority grew too big for the minority, and the society voted almost unanimously for the change in time of meeting. It was also voted to skip this week entirely, thus showing that the triumph was complete. Various reasons were assigned for the proposed change, but those who opposed the change lumped them all into one heap—society. No time could be found that was entirely satisfactory, so it was decided to meet on the same evenings with the other societies of the Oratorical Association.

CHORAL WORK GOOD.

That the University classes have developed some very creditable choral work is the statement of Prof. Frank Le Fevre Reed, chairman of the School of Music. Fr. Reed says that the classes have shown remarkable improvement in every line, although handicapped at first by a lack of knowledge in the fundamentals of music. The interest in the class work, says Professor Reed, is highly commendable.

NEW MAGAZINES AT Y. M. C. A.

The reading room of the Y. M. C. A. has recently been enriched by a number of additional standard magazines. The following magazines were added: Country Life in America, Scientific American; Holland's Magazine, Ladies' Home Journal, and the North American Review. Those that are connected with the Y. M. C. A. will more and more find this reading room to be an ideal place to spend their leisure time.

Parker Pace, C. E. '10, now an engineer on the Frisco at Kingsville, is visiting his brother, Nat Pace, a Senior Engineer.

WEATHER REPORT.

University observatory up to 6 p. m. yesterday.
Temperature: Maximum, 66; minimum, 45. No rainfall.
Forecast for Tomorrow: Fair and colder.

Y. M. C. A. TO ENTERTAIN.

Friday Night the Cabinet Will Give a Joint Reception to the First Year Men.

Last Tuesday night, through the efforts and suggestions of the committee interested in the welfare of students, especially of first year men, the Y. M. C. A. Cabinet has decided to give a joint reception to all first year men of the University on Friday, Jan. 30. A short, snappy program will be rendered, which will consist of several short, interesting talks and a number of musical selections. The details of the program have not been worked out and will be published at a later date. After the program, refreshments will be served. All first year men are expected to take advantage of this opportunity to find out what the Y. M. C. A. really is and what it stands for, and to get acquainted with all the new men.

It will be gratifying to a host of friends to hear that Miss Imola Link has recovered from her illness and is again about the campus. Miss Link will resume her studies at the University.

Mr. Ed. Chamberlain was a visitor at the K. A. House yesterday. Mr. Chamberlain is assisting his father at San Antonio.

OFFICIAL NOTICES

To Boxers: All members of the advanced Boxing class are requested to meet today at 5 p. m. in Law building, Room 1. Those who fail to appear will not be given any further consideration.
Reno Eichenroht, Instructor.

There will be a meeting of the Pre-Medical Society at Y. M. C. A. at 7:30 p. m. All those desiring to become charter members must be present at this meeting.
C. E. Watson.

JUNIOR ACADEMS HAD MEETING

Juniors Discuss Plans for Junior Week—Committee Appointed to Draw Up Program.

Wednesday, at 12:30 p. m., the Junior class met to discuss plans for the Junior Week. Several plans have been on foot this term, and the meeting was called to make some definite arrangements for the festivities of the class. Inasmuch as only tentative plans are at hand for the present, President Parks was empowered to appoint a committee, of which he should be chairman, for the purpose of drawing up some definite program for the week. This program will be submitted to the class some time next week. The president announced that he would defer his appointments for a few days. It seems to be the feeling of the class that this term should be made the most enjoyable of the year, and that some arrangement should be made whereby the members of the class shall become better acquainted with each other.

SCOTTY, SOLVER OF KNOTS, HERE

S. C. Scotty, Formerly a Coal Heaver on a Steamer, Was Solving Knots About the Campus.

"Sez I, I'm good. Sez I, I'm not ashamed to tell it. I'm Scotty, 'the Rope King,' an' I come from nowhere an' am bound doon there again."

So Scotty introduced himself to a group of boys at one of the fraternity houses yesterday. S. C. Scotty, as his name shows, is a true "Scotch mon." He travels from place to place about the country, stopping at a fraternity house at about meal time to give a demonstration of his skill as a solver of knots. He never fails to remark, as the boys pass in to lunch, "I'm well behaved at the table."

All who saw Scotty's performance at the University will attest his ability as "the Rope King." He was tied in every conceivable way, hands in front, or hands behind, with every knot that could be conceived, and yet he always managed to free himself. "Ten minutes is the most time I allow myself," he said. "If I ain't free by that time, then you don't need to pay; but if I am free, you won't me passing the hat, will you?"

Scotty is an interesting character. Born in Glasgow, Scotland, he came to the United States seven years ago. Since that time he has gained the title of "Rope King." He served for some time as a coal heaver on a steamer, and his sailor's costume and tattoo marks bear him out. He claims to have visited nearly every college in the United States, and the numerous clippings that he carries with him attest that he is well known in college circles.

PAINTING IN MAIN BUILDING.

For the past two months the Main building has been in a process of re-wiring, and the job is just about completed. The switch boxes are now being installed, and with the completion of this part of the work, the Main building will be relighted under the new system. Manager Lockridge is having the halls of the building repainted. This is in line with the policy to make the Main building more attractive. Thus far the business manager has been unable to dispose of the old tank. If economical arrangements can be made, he plans to take the tank from its stand and set it on the ground. It has not been determined how the tank will be utilized if this idea materializes.

SPEAKERS' CLUB PROGRAM.

The Speakers' Club meets next Tuesday night, Jan. 27, and a parliamentary drill of one hour's duration will constitute the program for the evening, which is as follows:
Speaker of the House.....Rogers
Government Leader.....Russell Scott
Opposition Leader.....Wren
The bill under discussion questions the desirability of the co-educational feature of the university and contemplates the establishment of a separate college for women.

A Correction.

In the report of the Co-op a mistake was made. The rebates and refunds were given as $71.29, whereas it should have been $671.29. This is an especially large item and went back direct to the students.

COACH TAYLOR TALKS TO FROSH ON TRACK WORK

Speaker Explains Details of First Annual Cross-Country Run—Competition to Be by Classes; Each Man Runs Against Time.

Coach C. C. Taylor spoke to the Freshmen gymnasium students Wednesday afternoon, in the Auditorium, on the subject of "Track Athletics."

In the course of his remarks, Mr. Taylor said that a larger number of men had unexpectedly made good in track than had ever failed to make good in college baseball.

In this connection he told several interesting stories of men with whom he had been acquainted whose experience bore out the truth of his statement.

Without speaking disparagingly of the other branches of athletics, he said that it took a man better trained and in better general condition, to make good in track than in any other sport, but that by constant effort and temperate habits, any average man could in time make a creditable showing in some department of track or field athletics.

In conclusion, he mapped out plans for the first annual cross-country which will be run off Feb. 6 over a 3½ mile course.

The competition is to be by classes, each man running against time; and each runner finishing within that time to be scored with a number of points equal in inverse ratio to the place in which he finished. The winning team will receive a banner inscribed with their class numerals, and the winner of the race will receive a gold medal, suitably engraved.

Immediately after Mr. Taylor's address, "Scotty, the Rope King," introduced himself and entertained the crowd for several minutes by releasing himself after being securely fastened with a grass rope.

TREES BEING DOCTORED.

Mr. I. P. Lockridge and his force is now preparing the campus for the coming of spring. The mistletoe, which prefers a diseased tree, is being removed, and better soil and manure is being hauled to the trees. This parasite has given the superintendent of the campus trouble this year; but it has given less trouble this year than heretofore, because of the fact that they have been kept in a better condition than before.

Big Enrollment in Wrestling Class. Instructor Smith reports an excellent enrollment in the wrestling squad, about 32 having signified their intention of taking lessons.

Classes are being held in a small gymnasium in the basement of the Y. M. C. A., that organization having volunteered the use of the room, under certain restrictions.

Lockers have been installed and a heavy sawdust mat has been laid, and under the three instructors, Smith, Berry and Turner, the recruits are making rapid progress.

CHAPEL NOTICES

"The Mind of Christ" was Dr. Caldwell's theme at chapel yesterday, developed from the second chapter of Philippians, "Let this mind be in you which was also in Christ Jesus." This mind to become a part of the man and not to serve simply as an example, and in proportion as the man has the mind of Christ in him, will he be exalted by Christ and given a name which is above every name. The four things which indicate the mind of Christ as pointed out by Paul in this chapter, are unselfishness, service, humility, obedience. The man with these four natural characteristics will have the Christ-like mind and will receive the name above every name given by the Master. Illustrations of such men are mentioned by the speaker as William Carey, Samuel Rutherford and David Brainerd, all of whom have their name written high not only in the world to come, but as well in present day annals.

We are grateful to Dr. Caldwell for his two excellent talks. Today and tomorrow Dr. Vinson will speak.

CIRCUS DAY AND STREET SIGNS.

It has been decreed that all placards, signs and advertisements shall be removed from the corridors of the main building.

Our venerable dean of the faculty—the author of this wholly acceptable edict—is evidently a close observer. More than that, he is the kind of a man who was once a boy, and remembers it, and who remembers that he once went to town on a circus day and most missed the big show because he stopped on the outside to read the signs. Mind you, we do not say that our dean was that kind of a boy. What we do say is that if he had betrayed such traits as that while a boy, he would be dead sure to recall them now in dealing with the freshmen.

One of the temptations that has beset the path of the freshman and diverted his attention from the main show will now be a thing of the past. No longer will his eyes feast upon Curtain Club, Ashbel, and Ibis streamers. He cannot loiter in the corridors and read the glowing announcements of the marvelous attractions that are to come.

Nay, verily, he cannot do these things. He is driven to the dire extremity of passing into class and perusing the columns of The Daily Texan. And yet, we approve most heartily, especially since we are anxious to increase our circulation.

THE TWIN SISTERS.

March 2 is close at hand. It is a date, too, which should be kept close at heart. Texas independence and Texas education are twin sisters. It is really a difficult matter to tell them apart. Back in the early days the struggle for national independence was also a struggle for educational independence. The lack of proper opportunities for educational development was one of the dominant causes of the revolt against Mexico.

It is fitting, then, that on March 2 should be held the celebrations of former students of the University in the various portions of the State. The University is, in fact, the capstone of the public school system of the State. In the light of our history, in Texas especially are independence and education largely convertible terms. The improvement of our system of education bespeaks a greater liberty. The fullness of freedom and the culmination of culture are similarly approached.

Let us bear in mind that our educational heritage has been purchased by the blood of our fathers. Let us in a spirit of loyalty meet and mingle with our pals of old on the second day of March and renew our pledges of patriotic service to our alma mater and our State. Many gatherings appropriate to the day have been planned. If it be your misfortune to be isolated, living alone and apart from the boys and girls you used to know at Varsity, plan a jollification all your own for this memorable day. Throughout Texas let us keep it in loving remembrance. Above all, as we clasp hands and hearts with our schoolmates of old and renew the golden times of the past in chats with chums and cronies, let us bear in mind that upon us rests a responsibility; that it behooves us to be worthy soldiers of peace, striving ever for the advancement and improvement of that system of public instruction for which Texas patriots have fought and died, a system of which our beloved University is so important a part.—The Alcalde.

Texas independence and Texas education—twin sisters in theory and in fact. We endorse every word from the editor of the Alcalde.

The struggle for independence was happily ended many years before our time, but the struggle for Texas education remains yet to be solved. Our forefathers had the pleasure of making the fight for the independence of the State, but it remains for us to achieve the glory of winning the fight for higher education.

GRADES DO COUNT.

One hundred and sixty-two students at the University of Texas failed to make the required grades in the examinations held just before Christmas, and were requested not to return to the institution. It has become an impossible matter for the chronic idler to find room at the University. Each student is required to register for a given amount of work, which is about all the average boy or girl can carry. A definite standard of grades is then insisted upon, and it becomes a simple question of work or leave.—Bulletin.

Items of this kind are calculated to correct the prevailing idea that athletics comprehend the entire curriculum of modern universities.—Houston Post.

Yes, grades do count. We are glad to see, too, that the press of the State is assisting us to inform the citizens of Texas as to the work of the University. The average citizen knows very little about the real work of the University. As soon as the people are educated up to the point where they can understand and appreciate the work of the institution, they will rise up and make of it what the constitution provides that it shall be—"a university of the first class."

NEW VOLUMES ON LIBRARY SHELVES

Many News Books Have Arrived, on Music, History, Biography and Science.

The Library has received a consignment of some seventy-five new books, on a multiplicity of subjects. These books are placed on the shelves reserved for this purpose, along the first panel of the periodical room to the right as one enters from the reading room.

Most conspicuous as to size is a volume entitled "Social Caricature in the Eighteenth Century." This work includes some little text and numerous illustrations, the whole being replete with interest.

Prominent in quantity are books on music. Many of them are biographical; here are the lives of Bach (3 vols.) and of Brahms (2 vols.); of four living composers—Alfred Bruneau, Sir Edward Elgar, Giovanni Puccini, and Richard Strauss; of Haydn, Schumann, Schubert, Brahms, Weber, and Beethoven, this last being from the pen of Richard Wagner. Especially alluring are "The Life and Letters of Tchaikowsky," the great Russian composer, and "The Life of Verdi." More critical and technical are the following: "Symphony Writers Since Beethoven," "The Story of Minstrelsy," "The Story of Notation," "The Harmonies of Aristoxenus," "Masters of German Music," "Mozart's Operas," and "A Book of Operas," containing a number of critical synopses of rare interest. Another little work which should satisfy a demand is "The Beautiful in Music," by Prof. Hanslick of the University of Vienna. A "Biographical Dictionary of Musicians" is a useful acquisition. The list of books on music is completed with the mention of the full score and libretto (in both German and English) of Wagner's great Nibelungen Cycle, consisting of "The Rhinegold," "The Valkyrie," "Siegfried," and "The Dusk of the Gods," of "Parsifal," and of the colossal "Mastersingers of Nuremberg."

There are a number of works of biographical or critical nature. Three of these are in French. A two-volume study of Alfred de Vigny, the poet; a collection of sketches of famous French literary men by the critic and historian, Michelet, and a similar work by Dupuy entitled "The Youth of the Romantics." In English, we find the lives of such men as Geo. Palmer Putnam, the publisher; August Strindberg, the great Swedish dramatist; Hernando Cortes, the explorer and conqueror of Peru; and Washington, Lincoln, and Jefferson Davis. The biography of the last named is a compilation of reminiscences of him by his contemporaries. Of an autobiographical nature are these: "Memoirs of Georgia Politics," "Ten Years on a Georgia Plantation," "Fragments of an Autobiography," by Felix Moscheles, the English artist, an extremely entertaining book; and "The Memoirs of Francisco Crispini," the Italian statesman.

In line with these are several historical volumes. Under the history of our country, there are "Washington and the West" and "Destruction and Reconstruction." Latin America is represented by "The Discovery and Conquest of Costa Rica," and Europe by "The Franco-Prussian War and Its Hidden Causes," "A History of Prussia," and "Europe and the Conquest of Algiers," the two last being in French.

There are no less than five books dealing with London in one phase or another. The most general work, "London," is by the well known author, Sir Walter Besant. Then there are "Clubs and Club Life in London," "London Life of Yesterday," "London in English Literature," and a most attractive volume, "Hogarth's London." Associated with these are two books of histrionic interest: "Tragedy Queen of the Georgian Era" and "A History of the London Stage (1576-1903.)"

Of books of travel, the following may be noted: "Pigmies and Papuans," an exhaustive study of the natives and conditions in the Malay Archipelago; "The Republic of Colombia," and "Impressions of Mexico."

In the realm of poetry, there is a set of three volumes comprising the complete poetical works of Percy Bysshe Shelley. Of a more popular nature are a "Book of Old English Ballads" and "Salt Water Ballads" by John Masefield, the English poet of realism.

Some few scientific books are included. Dealing with physics are "Vectorial Mechanics" and "The Steam Engine," with biology, "Man and His Forerunners" and "Ancient Eugenics;" with mathematics, "A Treatise on the Geometry of Surfaces;" with philosophy, "Mathematical Philosophy" (in French), and "Bergson for Beginners," which ought to prove popular.

Then there are scattering miscellaneous books, such as "Highways of Progress," by Jas. J. Hill; "American Antiquities," published at Albany in 1838; a real critical work, "Lyric Poetry," by Ernest Rhys, the well known critic and editor; and a study on "The Art of Story Writing." Finally, in noteworthy isolation, stands one novel—"The Idiot," by Dostoevsky, a Russian who gives promise of taking a place in the first rank of the world's novelists. His works have been slow in finding their way into English, but "The Idiot" is hailed by critics as a masterpiece.

WORK OF TEXAS MEDICAL SCHOOL IS DISCUSSED

Institution Requires More Equipment to Carry on the Work It Has Launched—Laboratory Room Needed.

(Concluded from Yesterday)

Galveston News.

Some Undesirable Conditions.

"The additions of laboratory courses of instruction during the growth of the institution during the last fifteen years has made it necessary for the laboratories of chemistry and pharmacy to occupy the basement story. In the original construction of the building it was contemplated that the basement would be used for store rooms. It is unsuited in every way for laboratory purposes. It cannot be properly ventilated or lighted and drainage from the chemical desks is almost impossible. The floor, which is more than two feet below the grade, is always damp and often it is covered with water. It has been found necessary to build a wooden floor over the concrete floor in the laboratories of chemistry and pharmacy in order that students may work there without standing in water.

"More space should be provided for satisfactory teaching in the laboratory courses now given, and unless a three-story laboratory building is erected in the near future, it will be impossible for the medical department to furnish the practical teaching that is now done in all first-class medical schools. The medical school of the University of Texas has always ranked among the best of this country, having received high rating by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching by the American Medical Association, but it can not maintain that standing with in sufficient space for laboratories. What was sufficient twenty years ago is totally inadequate today. Unless expansion and development to keep pace with the times are made possible, the institution is certain to fall behind.

Value of Research Work.

"The members of the teaching staff in the medical department have been so occupied with teaching, that heretofore there has been little opportunity for original investigation. The importance of research work done in laboratories is sometimes not appreciated. Perhaps an illustration will serve to show the practical benefit that comes from such investigations.

"During the last few years much attention has been paid to hookworm disease in the Southern states. It is now recognized and successfully being treated, so that thousands of persons are restored from a condition of helpless invalidism to health and lives of usefulness. Formerly a very large proportion of these people were supposed to have chronic malaria. The careful studies of such cases made by Dr. Allen J. Smith in the pathological laboratory of the medical college from 1900 to 1903 made an accurate diagnosis possible and also showed the prevalence of this disease. His investigations were the first to direct attention to the importance of hookworm diseases and formed the starting point for the work on this subject which has grown so rapidly during the last decade.

"Dr. Smith has recently published the results of other investigations concerning the transmission of leprosy, which may be far-reaching in their importance, for they give the first accurate knowledge about the disease. It is necessary to know how a disease is communicated from the sick room to the well before it is possible to prevent it with certainty.

"There are some diseases like leprosy and pellagra, of great importance on account of their prevalence in the Southern states, and investigations concerning them can be carried on to the best advantage here. Practically nothing is known concerning the cause or nature of pellagra. Until it is better understood there is little hope of finding a cure or any means of preventing it. According to newspaper reports, the authorities of the Federal Government are considering the establishment of a hospital and equipment of laboratories for the study of pellagra. There are many problems of this kind which require careful research and the University of Texas ought to provide better facilities for such investigations.

Teach People Hygiene.

"Besides providing for research in matters pertaining to public health, it is desirable to arrange for popular education in hygiene and sanitation. Traveling exhibits and extension lecturers who could visit rural schools, farmers' institutes, etc., would be very helpful in promoting rural hygiene.

"If it is not practicable to enlarge the Sealy hospital in a comprehensive way so as to make it a university hospital, it may be possible for the state to add at least one building that would be of great benefit to this section of the state, namely, a psychopathic ward. For a number of years the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor has had a separate building which is used as a psychopathic hospital for the detention and treatment of acute cases of insanity. Chronic insane cannot be cared for in such wards, but many acute cases of insanity would recover and never become chronic with proper care at the right time. Confinement in a jail is not likely to restore mental equilibrium to one who is mentally unbalanced, but it is pretty certain to make such a person hopelessly insane. A psychopathic ward, erected by the state and maintained by the counties in proportion to the number of patients treated, would be a good economic proposition by lessening the number of chronic insane, aside from the humanitarian consideration of getting at least some of the insane patients out of the jails."

COLLEGE NOTES

Wrestling has become a letter sport in the Missouri Valley conference.

A billiard and pool tournament was held recently at McGill University.

Indoor baseball is played a great deal in Eastern colleges.

The Harvard gym team will have a professional coach this year for the first time.

America will be represented by a soccer football team at the 1916 Olympic games in Berlin.

Mel. Sheppard, one of the greatest half-milers who ever trod cinders, has been on the track for 13 years.

There were three brothers by the name of Holt who won letters on the Oklahoma gridiron this year.

Louisiana State will have an inter-department basketball league this winter.

The University of Missouri is to have a new library building costing $200,000.

Drake University has fine prospects for a wonderful basketball team this year.

There are 170 new men and 21 veterans from which the coaches of the University of California have to pick a track team.

The students of Indiana State held an "Everyman's Two-Bit Banquet" on Jan. 15. Four hundred and fifty-one men were present.

The juniors and seniors at Drake University have entered a mustache-growing competition. What will occur at Drake next?

The University of Pennsylvania has begun baseball practice. Six catchers and ten pitchers reported to the coach for battery positions.

The University of Michigan has a comedy club. They will present a musical comedy, "The Scarecrow," soon.

The students at Columbia are making a desperate effort to have football put back on the calendar of sports. The faculty ruled football out several years ago.

McGill University of Montreal, Canada, has a campus skating rink of ice. Season tickets are sold to this rink, and at the skating parties programs are made out similar to dance programs.

Boxing is becoming popular in the universities all over the country. Yale, Wisconsin, Chicago, Columbia, Dartmouth, Amherst have taken up the sport. Few people around the university know that we have an enthusiastic and growing boxing class.

The student council of the University of Oklahoma has decided to abolish the annual freshman-sophomore scraps. Instead, they have decreed that all "freshies" must wear a red cap of the postage stamp variety.

There are all manner of fraternities from the every-day Greek letter social frat to the journalistic. The University of Missouri goes one better. They have Gamma Sigma Delta, an honorary agricultural fraternity.

There was a total of 1,137 students engaged in different kinds of athletics at Michigan last fall. The sports ran as follows: Football, 212; rowing, 157; baseball, 58; track, 143; cross-country, 78; soccer, 76; lacrosse, 55; tennis, 112; hockey, 113; gymnastics, 118; fencing, 25.

How English Universities Make Statesmen.

University education in England has somewhat different aims and objects from what it has in the United States. England possesses two pre-eminent schools of the highest order—Oxford and Cambridge Universities and no aspiring young Englishman is supposed to have completed his preparation for life until he has lived at one or other of these great schools, for each university comprises a score of colleges. The American idea of an education is to study lessons, to master a given course of subjects, to learn something definite and practical. In the great English educational institutions, while there is plenty of studying, the purpose that is kept foremost in the minds of professors and students is the making of men. The formation of good character and habits is placed even above scholarship. The students take a lively and practical interest in politics and public affairs, which they discuss more like old veterans than like youngsters, or amateur statesmen. Their knowledge is by no means confined to book-learning, but, within their field, is thorough and general. They are encouraged to think quickly and closely and to be ready to state their views in clear and convincing language, at a moment's notice. Set oratory is not honored much, but logic and satire and wit are encouraged. Most of the young men who attend these institutions of learning do so with the firm and definite intention of entering public life in some capacity, either as statesmen or clergymen, or in other high positions. They realize that among their fellow students are to be found the men who are to rule the destinies of the nation, and there is an earnestness and business-like determination in the air which might well be cultivated by American institutions of learning. As a result of the system of English education, where, from the lowest grades up to and through the universities, the object is to make men, the young Englishman is more mature and more earnest, on the average, than the young American of the same age and amount of education. Living conditions and the struggle for success are more severe in England than in the United States, and this makes the Englishman resourceful, alert and self-independent. The debates which are held by the big debating clubs of the universities, such as the Oxford Union, are very spirited and very ably conducted. The questions discussed, of course, are current questions of absorbing public interest. For example, recently Chancellor of the Exchequer Lloyd-George addressed the Oxford Union in advocacy of his proposition to break up the landed estates and adopt a system for redistributing these lands among the people so that they will be cultivated and made to contribute to the nation's food supply. The audience of students gave a "vote of confidence," as the term is in England, favoring the Lloyd-George plan.—Pathfinder.

AVOID ACCIDENTS

Every week, in fact almost daily, accidents occur which could be averted by the exercise of just a little care. Many of these result in injuries—some of which are permanent, others less serious though painful—and in some instances, death occurs.

It is with the hope of lessening these accidents that we have undertaken the organization of the Austin Safety League, of which you are counted a member. You should remember that you are always exposed to and may have an accident when you least expect it, and at times and under circumstances over which you have absolutely no control. You should, therefore, always be on the alert and avoid every possibility of an accident that you can. Just a little forethought and just a little care may save much suffering and many heartaches. The good work along this line should not be confined to protecting one's self. The times frequently occur when you can warn others of danger and save them, and you should take advantage of every opportunity and WARN THEM. Let your slogan be Safety, First, Last and Always.
