

YESTERDAY

Yesterday, my friend Toby Toddlies and I weren't doing a thing.

"Say," I remarked, "this is a hell-uva day."

"So 'tis," Toby replied.

"I don't feel like talking."

"Don't either."

"Let's look at the girls."

"No."

"Why?"

"They're so nasty ugly."

"Harsh words."

"Not harsh enough."

"There's a neat one."

"School teacher."

"School teachers are nice."

"When?"

"There's a sweet mama."

"Felt-over. Likely dumb."

"That one's all right."

"If her nose didn't stick in her mouth."

"Oh—there's a horsey prof."

"So 'tis."

"Let's heave a brick."

"Why—that's my English prof."

"Well—you heave it."

"No."

"You don't like the cabbage, do you?"

"Not as long as I keep my self-respect."

"Is he the one who cusses?"

"And smokes."

"In class?"

"Of course."

"Thinks it impresses people?"

"And is cute."

"Does he impress you?"

"As being a small boy with an inferiority complex and showing off."

"Look at that bull-frog."

"History prof. Down from the North."

"I'll bet he's as proud of himself as his mother is."

"Of course."

"You know, most profs are conceited."

"And ignorant."

"And plumb worthless."

"Good to scare crows with, maybe."

"What decent farmer would have one around?"

"Then sour milk with them."

"And spoil it?"

"There ain't no good in a prof."

"And I think so too."

"Half Back" Heads Features Saturday

Martin Johnston's "Jungle Adventures" and "The Half Back" will be shown at the Open Air Theater next Saturday in the last show of the term.

The booth has been moved to a better position so that all will be able to see the screen. The grounds have been levelled and the seats made more comfortable.

Attendance has been large and unusual interest has been manifested in the theater, according to Mrs. C. J. Moore, movie director. A variety of pictures has been selected in order to offer instructive as well as entertaining programs.

Dr. J. G. Fowlkes, associate professor in the School of Education, will address the University Education Association at 12:10 o'clock Friday in the Cafeteria, M. C. Britt, president of the association, has announced.

Dr. Fowlkes will lecture on a live educational topic, Mr. Britt declared. Time of the meeting originally was scheduled for 12:30 o'clock, but was changed to 12:10 o'clock in order to make it more convenient for the teachers to attend.

7 p. m.—Lecture on Cotton by Professor Todd, of Liverpool, England, Garrison Hall 3.

8 p. m.—Campus Singing, University Choruses, directed by David Griffin.

TEXAS CROPS RULE COTTON FUTURES PRICE, SAYS TODD

Brace Points Out Needs in Schools of Physical Work

Predicts Expenditures for Such Work Is Coming

"It will not be long before the school must justify the expenditure of money for education and physical education," said Dr. D. K. Brace, professor of physical education, in his lecture on "Tests and Measurements" given in Garrison Hall 1 Tuesday afternoon.

"Physical education was one of the first subjects to be scientifically measured, later progress in tests declined until the present day of revival of interests in tests and measurements in all things and especially physical education," Brace said.

Three Purposes

The three main purposes of tests in physical education, according to Dr. Brace, are for classification of pupils for class work according to their inherent motor ability, for measurement of the pupil's achievement in the class, and for improving the teaching process.

Reasons for the existence of tests Dr. Brace finds are contained in the works of educational workers in the field and are contained in five these, namely that everything which exists does so in some amount and can be measured, that it is necessary to measure in education to recognize the achievements of results, that the worth of methods and materials is unknown until the worth is measured, that the extent that any goal of education is intangible it is worthless and that there are other things in education and physical education besides measurement.

List Criteria

The criteria for good tests, Dr. Brace says are validity, accuracy, objectivity, a satisfactory range of scores, easy administration, and standardization. The classification of tests, the procedure and methods of creating interest in and securing statistical data from carefully controlled tests, were points brought out in the lecture.

PERSONALS

Miss Thelma Lee Rippey, Grand View, M. A. Graduate of '25 and Miss Vera Hefner, Phi Beta Kappa, Instructor of Spanish at Southwest State Teachers College at San Marcos, motored to Austin Sunday evening to visit friends.

ALLISON-BELL RATE AS PREMIER NETTERS

Experts Regard Pair Ranking Amateur Racquetters in Country

That Wilmer Allison and Berkeley Bell, University tennis players now touring the East, will be rated as the best two amateurs in the United States by the end of the season is the opinion of Will Caswell, who returned to Austin recently after playing in early Eastern tournaments.

Are Finalists

Bell and Allison have played in every important tournament in the East and they have reached the semi-final or final round in every tournament entered. The game has not made either stale, but they seem to improve their game with every set played, Caswell said.

Caswell bases his prediction of primere national ranking on the method of the tennis authorities in rating players. Statistics showing games won and lost, as well as sets won and lost, tournament play, and championships won are taken into consideration. For example, the fact

Lecture Concludes Second Day Special Cotton Week

Speaking on the subject, "The Price of Cotton," Tuesday before the assemblage of University Special Cotton Week, John A. Todd, pointed out the several factors, local, national, and foreign, which affect the value of the great staple of the South.

"The world could not do without Texas in the production of cotton," he said in conclusion. "On the whole, the Texas costs will rule the market—until things change. The question is how long will that be?"

Texas Rules

"If cotton producers in the United States cannot reduce the cost of production, then it is highly possible that other countries can. It is fast working toward the day when the cotton market will necessarily go to the country that can most reduce the cost of production," Todd continued.

When asked what countries might possibly make a bid for the cotton market, Todd mentioned India, as one out of several others.

War Time Fluctuations

Mr. Todd took the consideration of the price of cotton through the various influences of the past decade, with special attention to the nature of the fluctuations in price immediately before and after the War, and to the closeness of relations between the English cotton market and that in America.

He described to the audience the so-called vicious circle, a big fall in price of cotton followed by a phenomenal increase in consumption, and a fall in price again. It is the same vicious circle which Todd says the world is facing today. The problem is to find a way out.

Myers Plan

Methods which Todd suggested as solutions included the famous Myers plan, which consists of the withdrawal of as much as 4,000,000 bales of cotton out of each crop, to be held to take care of emergencies.

Another way to solve the problem, a method in which Professor Todd says America is leading the field, is what is known as the 12.4 per cent reduction in acreage, meaning a crop of 16,000,000 bales. "This is just about the world's consumption," Todd said.

Speculation, Two Kinds

The part of speculation in the price of cotton was considered under two phases by the speaker: the so-called intelligent speculation, which is carried on under predictions drawn from statistics of some sort, whether correct or not.

Board of Regents Meets Monday; In Session for Week

Committee Report on Athletic Situation Will Be Heard

Stark Saturday

H. J. Luther Stark, of Orange chairman of the University Board of Regents, will arrive in Austin Saturday for the Regents' meeting next Monday, July 18, it was learned last night.

As a number of important matters are to be considered at this meeting, called recently by Mr. Stark, a full attendance of the members is expected.

Athletic Report

Among the most important University business to be considered will be the report of the committee recently appointed to investigate the athletic department.

Regular business of the meeting last May of the Regents will be taken up where left off, Mr. Stark stated when in Austin a short time ago on business.

Building Committee

Additional business will include approval of departmental budgets, consideration of the Ex-Students' Association Memorial Union plan, and hearing of the report from the faculty building committee. Also, the question of the presidency of the University may be taken up, it was learned, as Dr. Walter Splawn's resignation becomes effective September 1.

Resolution Asks for More Judges on Supreme Court

Moody Addresses Association Requesting Change in Form

A resolution that the amendment increasing the number of our Supreme Court Judges from three to nine be passed, was adopted by the Texas Bar Association at its annual meeting in Houston on July 7, 8, and 9. Governor Dan Moody, addressing the association, urged the adoption of this resolution. It was passed almost unanimously, there being only two dissenting votes out of the entire assembly.

The meeting was by far the largest the association has ever held, 1100 members being present. Professors I. P. Hildebrand, R. W. Stayton, F. B. Clayton, Leo Brewer, and D. F. Bobbitt, of the University Law Department, attended the meeting.

Reed on States Rights

In an address to the association on Saturday, Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, discussed the gradual taking over of state rights by congress. He showed how the Supreme Court is permitting the reserve rights of the state to become Federal rights.

"Self Governing Bar" was the subject of an address by Honorable Joseph J. Webb of San Francisco. Ex-Governor Charles S. Whitman, of New York, addressed the association on "Some Tendencies of Law and Law Making" at the meeting on Saturday.

Ride Down Channel

Foremost among the entertainments for the members of the association was a boat ride on Ship Channel, on Thursday. The ride took the visitors to Baytown, where through the kindness of the Humble Oil Company, a barbecue was prepared for them. The program of the meeting was concluded with a banquet at the Rice Hotel on Saturday evening.

HOGG MEETING

Hogg Debating Club held its final meeting of the term yesterday evening at 8 o'clock at which time varied and instructive program was presented. Following the program several new members were taken into the organization.

This organization which is one of the busiest of its kind on the campus intends to resume its activities next term.

Sacred Cantata Ends First Term Work of University Choruses

Play Hours Will Continue Second Term, Brace Says

Director for Session Not as Yet Definitely Selected

Play hours held every Monday evening on Jordan Field will be continued next term, although no one has been definitely secured as yet to take charge of them, according to Dr. D. K. Brace, director of the play hour during the first term of summer school.

Between 50 and 60 people have participated in the activities offered during the play hour this term. Two games of volleyball, field hockey, quiet games and baseball headed the program for the play hours.

Dr. Brace will not be in the University during the second term of summer school but is planning a trip to Portland, Oregon to visit his parents. On his trip he is planning to look over the new women's building for physical education in Berkeley, California, a similar building in Oregon Agricultural College at Corvallis, Oregon, and the women's at the University of Oregon at Eugene, Oregon.

There will be no courses in physical education offered during the second term of summer school, according to Dr. Brace, but non-university credit classes in physical training will be offered in swimming, natural dancing for children and adults, folk dancing and clogging. These courses are fee classes at the regular charge of $3.00.

Former University Student Succumbs

J. B. Osborn, former Texas University student, died yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Carlsbad Tubercular Sanitarium after a two weeks' futile struggle for life, following an operation for appendicitis.

A candidate for a B.A. degree in August, 1927, Osborn withdrew from school during the past winter session on the advice of the University physician and moved to the Carlsbad institution. He was gradually recuperating when stricken suddenly with the attack of appendicitis.

GETS APPOINTMENT

Victor Fields, former University student, has recently been appointed a member of the 1927 high school faculty of McAllen, Texas. Fields, who holds a Bachelor of Arts degree from the University and receives Federal aid under the Smith-Hughes law, will teach manual training, specializing in carpentry. His home is in Brownwood.

PHILOSOPHER'S NIECE TO INTERPRET WORKS

Sushama Tagore to Lecture Here Friday at Open Theater

Sushama Tagore, niece of the famous Sir Rabindranth Tagore, will be one the campus for a lecture at the Open Air Theater Friday at 8 o'clock.

Miss Tagore, whose home is in India, is making a lecture tour of the United States. She lectured recently at the University of Minnesota, where she was well-received.

With "The Ideals of India" as her topic, Miss Tagore will give an interpretation of the works of Sir Rabindranth Tagore. Miss Tagore is ably qualified to interpret the ideals of her native country.

Open Air Theater Is Scene Tonight of Famous Concert

Rossini's famous cantata, "Stabat Mater," characterized by the setting of a text to a most contemplative person, and favored by many renowned composers in their work, will be presented by the University Choruses tonight at the Open Air Theater at 8 o'clock.

The concert originally was scheduled for Thursday night, but was moved up a day. Longhorn Band will appear for the last time this term Thursday in place of the Choruses.

David Griffin, director of the musical organization, declares the cantata most impressive and impetuous. It is, he stated, a most fitting climax to the Choruses' first term work.

Although individual numbers from the work have been given frequently in Austin, notably the "Inflammatus," this is the first time it will be given in its near-entirety in this vicinity. Eight of the composition's ten parts will be presented.

The sacred cantata constitutes with Rossini's "Barber of Seville" and "William Tell" the claim of the great Italian melodist to a place among the musical immortals. At Rossini's funeral in Paris in 1868 numbers from the oratorio were sung by Adelina Patti, Christine Nilsson and Emma Albani.

Griffin is prolific in praise of "Stabat Mater," and declares that it is a fitting memorial to a great and beloved composer.

Soloists for the singing of the cantata are: Mrs. Fred Jones, soprano; Zuleme Herff Simpson, mezzo-soprano; Charles Stone, tenor; David Griffin, baritone, with Norma Owen at the piano.

Following members of the University Choruses will sing the quartet; "Quando Corpus": Miss Pipkin, Miss Lillian Stroberg, Messrs. V. Z. Rogers and John A. Guinn.

The program follows:

Stabat Mater	Chorus
Cujus Animam	Mr. Stone
Quis Est Homo	Mr. Griffin
Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Simpson	Mr. Griffin
Pro Peccatis	Mr. Griffin
Sancta Mater	Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Simpson, Mr. Stone, Mr. Griffin.
Fac Ut Portem	Mrs. Simpson
Quando Corpus	Miss Pipkin, Miss Stroberg, Mr. Rogers, Mr. Guinn.
Inflammatus	Mrs. Jones and Chorus

WILL TEACH

Miss Sarah Whaley, who graduated this past June from the University, has been employed as a teacher in the Marshall public schools within the last few days. As yet she has not been assigned to any particular school but will receive her assignment later in the summer.

Spanish Program at Open Theater Pleases Audience

Folk Songs, Popular Music, and Dances Well-Received Tuesday

Couple Dances

Spanish program consisting of folk songs, popular music, and dances from Spain, Mexico, and South America, was presented last night at the Open Air Theater, under the direction of Miss Dorothy Schons, and sponsored by the entertainment committee of the summer session. The program consisted of two parts, the first performed by Spanish students in the University, and the second by Eduardo and Loy Martinez of San Antonio.

The number "Fado Blanquita," an Iberian dance by Concha Chacon, was perhaps the most enthusiastically received by the audience. "Ay! Ay! Ay!" a Mexican song, sung by the Mexican Club, was encored several times.

Mr. and Mrs. Martinez have appeared in dances at the Palace and Aztec Theaters in San Antonio, and also in special entertainments in some of the finer hotels of the city. The actors were brought to Austin through the efforts of David Griffin, director of the musical activities of the University for the summer.

In complete Spanish costume, the two presented "Paso Doble," a medley dance. Their dancing of the Argentine Tango, of which both are masters, was well received.

The complete program follows:

2. Rapsodia	Dolores Rezog
3. Saeta (Holy Week, Seville)	Ar. Eduardo Torres

COBB LEADS LIONS

Moulton (Ty) Cobb, former student at the University, has recently been elected president of the Lion's Club of Bryan, Texas. Graduating in 1926 with B.A. and B.J. degrees, Cobb was prominent in school activities, representing the University two years on the debating team and winning a prize in extempore speaking in each of his last three years at the University. Cobb was also editor-in-chief of The Texan, manager of the Longhorn baseball team, and was elected to Immortal Hoggdom during his sojourn on the campus.

Daily Texan Staff Meeting Scheduled

Daily Texan editors are of the opinion that summer session should be composed of one term of a full 12 weeks. Otherwise half the staff leaves for home and other points west at the conclusion of the first term.

That's the reason why a Daily Texan staff meeting has been scheduled for this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in J. Hall. Editor Truman O'Quinn opines that 'tis to be an important meeting, at that.

Revision of personnel for the second term's work will be made, and other changes of importance announced.

It is important that all staff members attend, especially the department heads.

TEN YEARS AFTER

THE recent statement of Dr. J. L. Boysen, chairman of the department of Germanic languages in the University, concerning the increasing popularity of the German language among the students of the University of Texas and other schools furnishes food for thought. Ten years ago there were many intelligent people in the United States who looked upon the study of the German language as little short of a crime. Under the stress of war-time excitement, German ceased to be a part of the curriculum of many schools and colleges, and anyone who dared to speak in German ran the risk of being thrown in jail.

This war-time prejudice against the German language seems childish and foolish today just as many of the blood-curdling and horrifying stories concerning the enemy which were believed during the war seem absurd now. Action prompted by emotional excitement and opinions based upon blind intolerance usually appear fatuous when viewed calmly and sensibly. People today are prone to look back with pity upon the people of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries who burned witches and heretics and allowed their fanaticism and intolerance to move them to commit all sorts of cruel and bloody deeds.

The people of the twenty-first and twenty-second centuries will undoubtedly look back upon the prejudices and intolerance of the twentieth century in the same manner. If men would look into the future with the same calmness and rationality with which they look back into the past, the world would be a better and happier place in which to live.

"DO AMERICANS VALUE EDUCATION?"

THIS question was used by Dr. Abraham Flexner as a title of a lecture recently delivered at Harvard. The implication is obvious and a perusal of the material treated in the address further indicates that as a people Americans do not value education. This in spite of the fact that if the question were asked almost anywhere in the United States the answer would be, "of course we value education."

In commenting on the lecture, the New York Times says that, "One could point to our laws compelling school attendance, the number of children in schools, the multiplying high schools and colleges, the crowds that throng them and the immense sums given for educational purposes, not to mention what the States are doing through enormous appropriations. The endowment of all institutions of higher learning in the United States increased from $177,127,965 in 1900 to $814,718,813 in 1924, and doubtless it has now approached or passed the billion mark."

"Dr. Flexner refuses to be silenced by these statistics. They are not conclusive evidence of an appreciation of higher education. We do, beyond a doubt, prize 'educational spread'; we value the prolongation of youth. But these things indicate that 'interests and activities not primarily intellectual in character—though to some extent social and also otherwise valuable—bulk large in the desire to remain in school.' We do value comradeship, fun, sport—happiness at an easy, unproductive, non-energized level—and 'to some extent' intelligence and training, but we do not emphasize scholarship and the capacity for severe intellectual effort. This is shown as the result of the application of two tests."

"In the first place, the scholar as a member of society is held in no such esteem as is the dominie in Scotland or the professor in France, Germany or the Scandinavian countries. To be sure the public does glorify our college and university administrators and executives, but it forgets that it is the scholars who, after all, constitute the university. In the next place, we do not esteem scholarship, for if we did we would seek somewhere and somehow to produce and maintain conditions favorable to scholarship. Scholars and scientists, Dr. Flexner reminds us, are human beings with a human interest in a life and a few children."

ren. As a matter of fact, at a time when large sections of our population are 'living more decently, more comfortably and more humanly' than ever before, the academic class is even less well off than it was in 1914. This means that the great majority of the academic profession in the richest country on earth cannot live on their salaries, having to earn something besides in order to meet their legitimate needs. So long as these conditions continue, whether the remedy be increased tuition fees or increased endowment, we must agree with Dr. Flexner that we do not 'really' value education. If we do, we have not yet focused our effort on making possible an adequate support of those who carry from generation to generation the supreme values of life."

It would, however, appear that there are still better reasons than those urged by the Times for thinking that Americans do not value education. It is undoubtedly true that the lack of adequate reward for scholarly endeavor is an outward manifestation of a more serious inward condition. Anyone who has observed college undergraduates cannot but be struck by their utter disregard for the attitude of exactness that is the soul of scholarship. There is a tendency toward the superficial in all American life except business management, where the national genius has found its most fruitful field, that is incompatible with the ideals of scholarship. In other words, the student too often has no comprehension whatever of what scholarship really is. As long as this incompatibility exists, it is not likely that Americans will value education.

From Other Pens

ALCOHOL AND SCHOOLS

LESS than one-half of one per cent of this year's graduates of colleges and high schools drink to excess and fewer than five per cent drink occasionally, according to a survey by the Anti-Saloon League, and while the New York World, avowedly wet, finds occasion to sneer at the figures as obtained by the simple device of including the scholastic division, it is probable that accurate statistics on college and university graduates alone would reveal a surprisingly high percentage of abstinence.

There is more drinking in the colleges than is good for the undergraduate body. It is quite possible that there is more drinking under the existence of prohibition than before; but in the ten years in which the Eighteenth Amendment has been in practical effect the college population has approximately doubled. Acquisition of a college degree, however, requires a good deal of hard work, and mental effort of a high order runs true in the main to the natural rule regarding other labor—it is done better sober than drunk. The percentage of non-drinking graduates has probably altered little since the days of the open saloon. For, as far as the collegian is concerned, prohibition began with him a good many years before the days of Volstead. The saloon was always out of bounds for him, and there were few States which did not forbid the sale of intoxicants to him along with the minor, in case he happened not to be one, and the habitual drunkard.

For all the spread of drinking charged to present-day college life, the deans have little trouble on the subject, except on occasions of general celebration, when they find the alumnus most at fault, and far more students are dropped from registration because of deficiency in scholastic work than for intoxication. Bootleg liquor still retails at high prices, and most students are more concerned with getting together the wherewithal for board, lodging, and books than for moonshine.—Dallas News.

Is Not Such a Job as It May Seem

University themes, papers and theses should by all means be typed neatly.

You will be surprised to note the improvement in your grade in direct proportion to the improvement in the appearance of your copy. If you do not use a typewriter, you can secure the services of an expert typist for a nominal sum. It will pay.

The Daily Texan is now listing the names of expert typists who are available at this time. This information will be found in the Classified Advertising Section of this issue.

WHY FAIL THAT COURSE?

It is unprofitable and unpleasant to spend an entire term on a course and then fail by a few points to get credit for your work.

Many students find it desirable to secure the services of a coach to give them the extra instruction they need.

The zero hour of the first term is approaching. Students should select a coach and secure the necessary help now.

The Daily Texan is listing in its Classified Advertising Section the names of coaches who are available.

Finch and Mrs. Finch, is a graduate of the University and a member of the engineering faculty. He is a member of Sigma Chi fraternity.

Bridge Luncheon

Miss Berta Lowman, a member of the faculty of S. W. T. C. at San Marcos and a student in the University this summer, entertained Monday at College Inn with a pretty bridge luncheon.

A color scheme of blue and gold was carried out in detail, and prizes of pieces of Dresden China were awarded for high and low score to Virginia Reed and Bernice Green.

Enjoying the attractive affairs were Mesdames T. M. Marshall, Henry Shands, W. C. Vernon, Horace Blades, and Misses Era Vesta Harlan, Lucille King, Alma Kincaid, Bernice Green, Virginia Reed, Helen Reed, Claire Bowers, Ruth Willard, Frances Hardy, Velma Crank, and Martha Lockett. Mrs. R. J. Brackendridge and Mrs. George Green came after the bridge games for luncheon.

Cleo Ratliff of Weslaco, a former student of the University, has been visiting relatives in Austin the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Nick Ferris will leave today for New Orleans, and they will sail from there for a several weeks' stay in New York City and various adjacent summer resorts. Mrs. Ferris was formerly Bolling Harrison, a student in the University.

TEXAS: Wednesday and Thursday, Florence Vidor and Clive Brook in "Afraid to Love"; Friday and Saturday, Raymond Griffith in "Knockout Reilly."

Afraid to Love

THE combination subsequent co-starring of Florence Vidor and Clive Brook in "Three Faces East" was a happy one for the constant movie-goer. Both actor and actress are smooth and sophisticated, and the performances they have since given in "You Never Know Women" (a play which was infinitely more than its title would indicate), and "The Popular Sin" have been as perfect and delightful acting as it will be your privilege to witness. On the strength of their success, do go to see "Afraid to Love."

Miss Weir has been a student in the University for the past two years, where she has been prominent in W. A. A. Kazmar will complete his work in the University at the end of the first term of summer school and will receive his degree in mechanical engineering this August.

Stubbs-Speer

Ann Speer, the daughter of Judge and Mrs. Ocie Speer, and Wright Stubbs, the son of Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Stubbs of Austin, were married at the home of the bride's parents Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, the ceremony taking place in the picturesque setting of the patio at the Speer home.

The bride and bridegroom were attended by Mrs. Lansing Thorne of El Paso, matron of honor; Margaret Speer, maid of honor; Alice Cook and Dollie Hilbert of Dallas and Lucille Duessen of Ponder, bridesmaids; Virgil Childress, best man; Walter Raleigh Smith, Webster Wren, and Charles Keeman of Galveston, groomsmen.

Stubbs is a former student of the University and a member of Delta Theta Phi fraternity.

Jesse Mary Hall, a former student of the University who is now on the Palestine Herald, is spending the summer at Lake Chautauqua, New York, where she is attending the summer chautauqua sessions.

Mabel Cooper, who received her B. A. degree here in June, is attending a business college in San Antonio. She expects to return to the University to work on her M. A. next long session.

Alice Sewell of Marlin and Alice Louise Buckner of Fort Worth are visiting at the Tri Delt house.

Nowlin Randolph, graduate of the Law School, is practicing law in San Antonio.

ing among the supporting cast. Always look up the cast of these pictures before you definitely decide not to go. You cannot judge them by the scarce headline titles.

Man Power

RICHARD DIX gives a very convincing performance in his new picture at the Majestic, and despite the fact that the scenario is sentimental in spots, it is a very good one. The composite effect is as satisfying a production as one sees in a whole movie season. The comedy is infectious, and there is a quality of sincerity in the playing that involves the audience as deeply as the characters in anxiety lest the Big Six should fail to make the grade in time to save the dam from bursting.

The best scenes in the film are the marvelous pictures of rushing water. Water is unquestionably the most thrilling natural force, and in these final scenes at the dam, the realism is so great that one can almost hear the rushing roar and surge of the rising stream. The photography is the more effective in comparison with the rest of the picture in general and of Dix's performance in particular.

Official Notices

of speculation, Professor Todd says, is that it is too likely to be un-intelligent.

"People do not know how to apply the statistics which they have at hand," he pointed out. "And they are very slow to learn how to apply them, even when shown the error of their ways."

This type of speculation Professor Todd set forth as perfectly legitimate, as also the "hedging" done under similar circumstances.

Gambling on Tips

The other phase of cotton speculation which was considered was that carried on by outside speculators on "tips" from "the right places." "These speculators are like sheep," he said. "They do not know what they are doing, and they follow blindly what the others tell them."

Tuesday was the second day of the University of Texas Special Cotton Week. The general topic for consideration being the cotton futures market.

Meadows on Futures

Meeting at the Austin Hotel, east room, 9 to 12 o'clock, Tuesday, the Special Cotton Week assemblage heard three speeches on the general topic. "The Cotton Futures Market, What It Is and How It Operates" was the subject of a talk by W. R. Meadows, manager of the cotton futures market for the Chicago board of trade.

Meadows explained the price making functions in his field, pointing out the nature of "hedging."

Palmer Explains Law

A. W. Palmer spoke on "The Cotton Futures Act and Its Administration." Palmer is in charge of the cotton division of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics of the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Palmer gave the history and development of the act put in force by the federal government to control speculation, grades delivered, and general futures activities.

Youngblood Tells Markets

B. Youngblood told about "The Making of Differences in the Ten Designated Markets." Most of these markets are in the East, but three are in the State of Texas. The lecture concerned in part the difficulty of making the markets.

Other lectures scheduled for the morning session were not presented.

The noon program included luncheon with the Young Men's Business League, and a lecture on "The Meaning of the More Cotton on Fewer Acres Contest" by Victor H. Schoffelmeyer.

Cotton Classing

The cotton school during the afternoon session met at the E. H. Perry cotton classing rooms. H. C. Slade spoke on the "Essentials of a Good Cotton Classer." There was cotton classing practice from 3:30 to 4:30 o'clock.

The lecture by Todd yesterday afternoon concluded the second day's program of the University special cotton school. Today's program follows the same general plan, with luncheon being taken at the Lion's Club.

Today's Program

Todd will lecture on "Cotton Growing in Texas—A Declining Industry?" at the evening session to be held on the University campus at the Open Air Theater.

Other speakers will be W. D. Espy on "Merchandising Spot Cotton in the United States," D. C. Reed will talk on "Selling Cotton to Europe," A. W. Palmer, on "The Cotton Standards Act," Tom Miller, on "Buying Cotton in the Local Market," Ernest L. Tutt, on "Marketing Cotton in South America," and B. Youngblood, on "Cotton Marketing Research."

The noon program will include "The Relation of the Federal Government to the Cotton Trade," by A. W. Palmer, and "How to Teach Cotton Classing" by T. S. Miller.

POP-UPS AND BINGLES

By ABE MEHL

With the football coach problem, still unsolved, Texas prospects for next year look very bright.

With such stars as McCullough, Wray, Cowley, Brown, Phillips, Tigner, Ford, Mobley and many others the Steers forward wall looks mighty good.

And then there will be Baldwin, Allen, Joe and Rufus King, Beular, Ward, Hughes, as a few of the backfield crew. Not such a bad looking team on paper right now.

We read where Sid Cohen of El Paso, brother of Andy, has been added to the roster of the New York Giants. He went to Alabama U. the Alma Mater of his brother, and was an all round star.

This Dempsey-Sharkey battle schedule for the latter part of the month looks up as a real scrap, and the victor will have a chance to swap a few wallops with Tunney some time in the future.

Howard Williamson, playing with Syracuse of the International League picked up last week and hit the ball hard. He played with the Dischem before signing up.

Izzy Zaracov, Harvard's baseball leader and idol came to the bat last week in the last and crucial game with Yale, and with his team one run behind and two outs he gets up and with the count three two slams out a homer.

This star has been one of Harvard's outstanding athletes in the past few years, and his departure will leave a big gap to fill next year.

We received a letter from Harry Phillips, a member of the Longhorn squad last fall, and he states that he is dividing his time in Dallas between hauling ice and life saving. Not so bad for the summer.

In the Ft. Worth-Wichita game last week, few fans realized that Horace Kibbie and Howard Fitzgerald, member of the opposing teams, were two of the greatest baseball stars ever turned out at the University.

Though Kibbie has been on the bench most of the season with a bad leg, Fitzgerald has been a big factor in the success of the Spudders.

Fame came to Fitzgerald when he came to the bat several years ago against T. C. U. It was a crucial game, and the Frogs were leading the Steers 3-2. And just then like many of the stories that we read about, he took the three count and then clouted one of Pete Donahue's offerings over the pailings and scored the man ahead of him for a victory.

People, step up and meet Johnny Sittig of the University of Illinois, holder of the national title in the half mile. He recently copped this race in the national meet with a record time of 1:54.2. This star was a versatile athlete besides running the mile for his team in the four mile relay. Incidentally, his team took this race in their five starts, at the Texas, Rice, Kansas, Illinois, and Pennsylvania Relays.

A Scotchman refused to send his children to school because they would have to pay attention.

With the San Antonio Bears playing poor baseball, Ed Olle continues to hold down the hot corner in first class form. He is sure to remain with the Bruins, and will be a dangerous contender for the berth next spring.

Things look pretty gloomy at the United States Naval Academy as far as athletics are concerned. Graduation hit every sport hard, and coach es will have to work hard to put winners on the field next year.

Every member of the lacrosse twelve left, seven regulars off the baseball nine, eight regular gridiron stars must be replaced, and four basketballers have given up their trunks and jerseys for the neat officer's uniforms. However, the plebe athletes are expected to furnish new strength next fall.

Though the New York Americans are out in the lead in their loop, the Chicago Cubs have been playing bang-up baseball the past few weeks, and as a result are making a close fight for the top rung of the National League closely followed by the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Join the Navy and see the world! Just about be Pensive Pete's luck to enlist and be assigned to a submarine.

Sandi Esquivel is visiting on the campus for a few days. He is at present enrolled at the Medical School at Galveston.

While in the University he was one of the greatest athletes in history. Besides holding the cross country run title, he was selected as all-conference basket ball man. He was co-captain of the 1926 track team, and holds the two mile run with the record breaking time of 9:32 and which is likely to stand for some time.

Esquivel was consistent in his efforts, but was hampered by a bad leg during his last year. In 1925, he finished in the long two mile run at the national meet, and was considered as one of the best in the country.

Since receiving his degree from the University, he has engaged in a number of boxing matches, and has been fairly successful. Fast and smart, he has been able to outpoint many of his opponents. This dark haired star from El Paso was very popular on the campus.

Another Longhorn star has joined the ranks of the local Austin Rangers. "Red" Davis, who patrolled one of the gardens for Uncle Billy Disch last spring broke into the lineup last Sunday for the Rangers and played a nice game.

Though failing to letter by a scant margin, Davis will be one of the mainstays for the team next spring. In the same last Sunday, his hit in the tenth frame finally proved to result in the winning tally.

The New Yorkers, way out in front in the American League are undoubtedly one of the heaviest hitting aggregations in the history of baseball. With such sluggers as Ruth, Gehrig, and Lazzeri the New Yorkers look like a sure cinch for first honors.

Scotty had twins and one day he decided to have their picture taken. But when he discovered that they looked so much alike, he had the picture of just one taken.

Here's one that you can answer for today—

Question—What time will a sprinter make for a yard in running the 100 yard dash in say 9.8?

Answer—He will run at a maximum speed of 11.46 yards a second. He will cover a yard in 36-100 of a second.

On the roster of the Elgin Bricks is found an array of Texas stars. Doug Hogue is one of the mainstays of the pitching staff while Albert Leissner is taking turns about catching and playing in the infield. Hiram Broiles, leader of the Texas Aggies next spring, roams one of the outfield gardens for the Engineers.

Boarding House List Mailed Out

All Freshman Women Required to Live in Dormitories in 1927

An official list of boarding and lodging accommodations for women students at the University during the session of 1927-1928 has been published and is being mailed to many prospective students, according to Miss Ruby Terrill, dean of women.

The list of accommodations has been selected from applications filed with the University and includes houses exclusively for women which have been inspected and found satisfactory in regard to sanitation, comfort and responsible house-mothers.

Six Dormitories

On the list are six dormitories which will take care of approximately 800 women students. A new ruling by the Board of Regents affecting the housing of freshman women goes into effect this fall, according to Miss Terrill.

This rule is that "all freshman women not living with their parents are required to live in one of the dormitories listed in the University catalogue, unless given by the dean of women special permission to live elsewhere."

The new Alice B. Littlefield Memorial Dormitory for freshman women will be opened this fall and will take care of 150 students. In addition, all other dormitories have agreed to accommodate approximately 26 per cent freshman girls, said Miss Terrill.

During the past year, there were about 590 freshman girls in the University, said Miss Terrill. Of this number, she estimates, 27 lived with parents and 25 lived with relatives. The policy of housing freshman girls at the University in dormitories is one that is expected to be of considerable aid in the adjustment and assimilation of first year women students, said Miss Terrill.

Summer Directory Is Placed on Sale

The summer school directory for the first term was released from the press early Tuesday evening and will be available at the Co-op and Texas Book Store. They will also be on disposal.

"The directory is fairly accurate," states Mr. Joseph. "It is divided into two sections—one for the boys and one for the girls."

The entire work of compilation was done by Joseph and his two assistants, Millie St. Wrba, and Bill Amend, University students.

"The directory has been almost entirely financed by advertising," said Joseph.
