Fite Nite March 16 Tops Intramurals

Intramural athletics will reach a climax Wednesday night when the eighth annual Fite Nite is staged. A capacity crowd packs Gregory Gym each year to see the champions of various sports perform, and a colorful program promises to furnish plenty of action again this year.

Berry Whitaker, director of intramural athletics for men, describes the affair as a "three-ring circus," since several events will take place at the same time. On the program will be boxing, basketball, wrestling, fencing, ping-pong, and volleyball to provide a sport to suit almost any taste.

One highlight of the night will be the basketball game between the intramural champions of the University and those of Rice Institute. Kappa Sigma will represent the University against the Engineers, winners at Rice. Remembering the heated rivalry between the two schools, fans are expecting a hard-fought game.

Boxing and wrestling have proved popular in the past, and spectators this year will see eight contests in each sport. Preliminary bouts have eliminated the field to the finals of each weight class.

SHARE SPOTLIGHT

Fencing and volleyball will also share the spotlight with the better-known sports. Richard Balingier and Sam Greer have gained the right to enter the finals in the fencing contests. The Progressive Czechs will face Sigma Phi Epsilon in the volleyball game. Ping-pong has been added to the program this year. Allen Weatherby and Curtis Clark have emerged winners from a large field of entries and are matched for the Fite Nite finals.

Because over-flow crowds attend the contests, tickets will be required for admission so that students and faculty members may be assured of seats. Blanket tax holders will be required to present their cards for entrance. Students who did not pay the tax may secure tickets from the Co-Op by presenting their auditor's receipts.

TICKETS MAILED

Members of the faculty and state officials have been mailed tickets, and the remainder will be placed downtown where Austin citizens may secure them by calling the Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Whitaker has pointed out that since intramurals are wholly student activities, the department has put the student first in giving preference to the limited number of seats. With a capacity crowd of 8,500 expected, Mr. Whitaker urges that students get their tickets as early as possible to avoid a last-minute rush.

Forum To Discuss San Antonio Strike

An open forum on the San Antonio pecan strikers' situation will be held at the University Y.M.C.A. Monday night at 7:30 o'clock. Bill Leonard, chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements, announced Saturday. The forum is being sponsored by the Austin Peace Council, the Women's League for Peace and Freedom, members of the Civil Liberties Union, and others.

Leonard explained the purpose of the forum as being to focus attention on the background and conduct of the strike, which is now nearing mediation.

The chief speaker on the program will be the pastor of the First Christian Church of San Antonio.

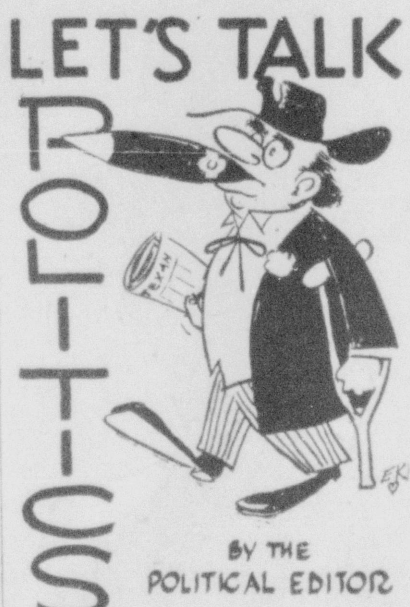

Several persons interested in the pecan situation also have been asked to speak, and several of the Mexican workers will present their side of the story, Leonard said. The meeting will then be thrown open to the forum.

SKETCHES SHOWN

George Staples, of Auburn, Ala., is exhibiting a display of water colors of Alabama scenes in the Architecture Building. In a fresh, direct manner Mr. Staples presents Alabama life in his sketches of Negroes, Negro shacks, landscapes, and water scenes. "Midday Exercise," "Negro Home in the Oaks," and "Railroad Yard" are especially representative of Mr. Staples's region.

Establish Fine Arts School

BY THE POLITICAL EDITOR

THIS YEAR there seems to be no scarcity of Ranger editor candidates. First it was Mr. Bill Edmondson who tossed his hat in the ring; now it is Miss Alice Mary Adams and Mr. Bobby McKinley.

Miss Adams is a senior journalism student and wants to try her hand editing a first-rate college magazine.

Contrary to some notions, Miss Adams would not be intent upon purifying the Ranger. She hopes to be able to edit a spicy magazine something like the New Yorker, but, as she puts it, "it's definitely not going to be a sissy magazine."

Which is a very commendable objective. Miss Adams hails from a little town down on the Mexican border called Presidio. Presidio, she says, is a pretty lively town, what with one or two killings every Saturday night and silver mines located in the nearby hills. But, we'll have you know, she doesn't participate in the killings, and is quite a sane young lady without homicidal instincts.

She's got a sense of humor, and probably the most humorous writing she's done were some "Alice in Wonderland" satires in the Ranger last year. She writes a column in the Texan entitled "Tacks Free," and she's written columns and feature stories for several Texas newspapers.

Right now, she's vice-president of Theta Sigma Phi, honorary journalism fraternity for women, and of Scribblers, an organization of writers. She's been on the staff of the Ranger for a year and a half. We are glad that Miss Adams has entered the race for Ranger editor. She has a very nice smile.

PRACTICALLY half of the Department of Journalism is off to the political wars, and along with the rest, Miss Elizabeth Kniveton has announced her candidacy.

Miss Kniveton wants to be secretary of the Students' Association. Backed by her sorority, Alpha Delta Pi, she's on her way.

She's a product of the City of Roses, Tyler, and has some claim to be known as a "beauty." Last year she was one of the Texas Relay queen nominees and this year she's a Bluebonnet Belle nominee. Miss Kniveton's looks may not serve her badly in the forthcoming debate at the ballot boxes.

Miss Kniveton is not involved in any way with the local Y.W.C.A., as both Miss Bates and Miss Fisher are. Neither is she an Orange Jacket, which gratifies us tremendously, for the prospect of internecine strife in those organizations seemed just too dreadful for words. See POLITICS, Page 2

Political Front Quiet As No New Candidates File

Ten Announce For Four Offices In First Week

Saturday was a quiet day on the political front, Sally Lipscomb, secretary of the Students' Association, indicated last night after no candidates filed for office during the day.

After a week-long flurry which saw ten candidates file for four offices, prospects for a peaceful week-end seemed certain.

Political observers, however, anticipate a new rush next week. Last year twenty-five filed for the eleven offices at stake, but, with ten candidates having filed for office in the first week, it seemed that that number would be surpassed.

Those who have filed so far are:

President
James D. McCutchan III
Tom Price
Secretary
Margaret Fisher
Mary Sue Bates
Elizabeth Kniveton
Texas Editor
Pat Daniels
Joe Belden
Ranger Editor
Bill Edmondson
Alice Mary Adams

Editor Credits Due March 22

Statements of qualifications for the offices of editor and associate editor of the Texan are being received by the Board of Directors of Texas Student Publications, Inc., William L. McGill, director, said yesterday.

These statements should be addressed to the board and must be received not later than 11 o'clock on the night of March 22.

Candidates for editorships and associate editorships of the Cactus and Ranger do not have to be submitted to the board, Mr. McGill said.

Qualifications for the Texan editorships are as follows:

1. Seventy-five hours of college work with a C average, forty-five of which must have been received at the University. (A signed statement from the Registrar will be evidence for this requirement.)
2. Three semesters' work on the voluntary staff of the Texan. A semester's work is done on at least fifteen issues during a semester or the Summer Session. The candidate should give dates and capacity in which he served for this requirement.
3. One semester's work as associate editor, sports editor, society editor, or night editor.
4. At least nine semester hours of journalism work, including Journalism 12 and the first half of Journalism 24.
5. Twelve semester hours of English with at least a C average.
6. Credit for or registration in, during incumbency, Journalism 65.

Further attempting to catch the proper play-going atmosphere of the turn-of-the-century, peanuts, popcorn, candy, and soda pop, will be sold in the lobby.

Kay's College Band Stops Here On Tour

Herbie Kay has played for universities all over the United States, including Wisconsin, Michigan, Indiana, Purdue, Ohio, Illinois, and Virginia, but he still maintains, "The University of Texas is one of my favorites."

Beginning with a band and a band of campus talent at Northwestern University in Chicago, Kay got his start under Karza on relief bands. In spite of the fact that none of the original band members are with him today, his band is chiefly made up of university talent. Claude Kennedy at the piano is a Sigma Nu from the University of Oklahoma. Fuzzy Combs, a Delta, Jimmie Williamson, Phi Delta, and Bill Epplie, Delta Upsilon, are all from Indiana University. Including Kay, the band now consists of fourteen members.

The band has made an extensive tour over the United States during the last eight years. Before playing at the Drake Hotel in Chicago Kay filled an engagement at the Arcadian Restaurant in Philadelphia. The University of Texas is the band's intermediate

'College Widow' Begins Monday For Five-Day Run

With a cast of about seventy people, the Curtain Club will present Idanell Brill and Wade Lewis in the leading roles of "The College Widow," which opens at Hogg Memorial Auditorium Monday night at 8:15 o'clock for a five-night run.

Miss Brill, who was Texas Relay Queen last year and University representative to the New Orleans Sugar Bowl last January, will have the role of the "campus widow," Jane Witherspoon, who vamps Wade Lewis, in the role of Larry Bolton.

A star football player, Lewis is on his way to enter school and perform on the gridiron for the rival college, until he falls victim to the wiles of Miss Brill. The play then unfolds with all the melodrama that made plays of this period a target for satire.

Included will be between-acts specialties under the direction of Burt Dyke. They will include variety turns, songs, dancing, ladies' sports and athletic drills, and a community sing with the song being flashed on the stage by slides. The play, which the Curtain Club says on its handbills is "the grandmother of a long line of college comedies," will be presented in the costumes and dramatic stage mannerisms of 1904.

To keep in the atmosphere of the period in which the play is laid, a colorful curtain drop has been constructed. Vari-colored handbills announcing that the play-goer will see "a carefully selected company of ladies and gentlemen whose hearts are in their work," have been printed. The handbills declare it to be a play for old and young, but hasten to add that babes in arms cannot be admitted. They advise that those admitted cannot smoke or use intoxicating beverages, and that "parties found disobeying these rules will be forcefully ejected from the premises." They promise that performances will be given rain or shine and that carriages may be called for at 10:45 o'clock.

200 U. T. Girls Are Bluebonnet Belle Nominees

Photographs Must Be Made Saturday For Beauty Section

Two hundred girls, one hundred less than last year, have been nominated for Bluebonnet Belles and are now being photographed, George Chamberlain, editor of the 1938 Cactus, has announced. Most of these girls were nominated by campus organizations and the rest were nominated by the editorial staff of the Cactus.

When requested to cut down on the number of nominees for the honor, the editor and staff decided upon two hundred as the most representative number and devised a plan whereby, if each organization, fraternity, sorority, and dormitory nominated, no more than two hundred girls would be selected. It was decided that the editorial staff would nominate enough to make the number come to two hundred if the nominations fell below that number, Chamberlain said.

Photographs for the section are being made now and all nominees who have not made their appointment should come to Journalism Building 108 immediately and do so, Chamberlain said. All appointments must be made by 6 o'clock Friday and all photographs must be made by Saturday afternoon.

The Bluebonnet Belle nominees are as follows:

33 Protest Allan Talk Cancellation

Protests were signed by thirty-three University professors and students and Austin ministers and presidents Saturday against action of the Austin School Board in withdrawing use of the Allan Junior High School auditorium for the last of six lectures presented by the League of Industrial Democracy and sponsored by the Austin Trades Council Tuesday night.

The lecture, in which Roger Baldwin, founder and director of the American Civil Liberties Union, will discuss "Putting the Constitution to Work," will be given in the Labor Temple Tuesday night at 8 o'clock. Use of the school auditorium was withdrawn Thursday because of protests by Travis Post of the American Legion.

The Rev. S. Marcus Houge, one of the signers of the petition against the School Board, said the protests were not mailed directly to either Allan Junior High School or to Travis Post. The protests were, in part, as follows:

"The banning of the Trades Council speaker, Roger Baldwin, director of the American Civil Liberties Union, from the John T. Allan Junior High School is contrary to the spirit and practice of free speech and free assembly. We deplore and protest all such acts."

The protests were signed by the following: Dr. D. E. Griener, minister, First Presbyterian Church; Dr. Edmund Heinsohn, minister, University Presbyterian Church; Mr. Houge, minister, First Congregational Church; and Rabbi Abram Vossen Goodman, director, Hill Foundation.

Also the Rev. H. M. Ratliff, presiding elder, Methodist Church; the Rev. Carol Moon, assistant pastor, University Methodist Church; Dr. O. D. Weeks, professor of government; Dr. E. S. Redford, assistant professor of government; Dr. Charles A. Timm, professor of government; Dr. George W. Stocking, professor of economics; R. A. Cox, instructor in economics; and E. E. Samples To Be Sent To San Antonio

Twenty seniors will have a chance to take their $1 Wassermann tests Monday morning between 8 and 9:30 o'clock.

Dr. Joe Gilbert, director of the University Health Service, said Saturday night that tests will begin at the Health Service in B. Hall about 8 o'clock. Blood samples will be sent to Dr. B. J. Stout's laboratory in San Antonio until Dr. Stout can obtain the necessary equipment and assistants to open a laboratory in Austin. All reports will be confidential.

"I will feel bad about it if no one is over there Monday to take the tests," Jake Pickle, president of the Students' Association, said Saturday. "The chance has come for students to take advantage of the tests for which they voted. I think they should take them if they are able to do so, as they may not have such an opportunity again soon. Since the Regents have made them available, taking the tests will only be carrying out the program students asked for."

Only seniors will be given the tests until the Austin laboratory is opened, Dr. Gilbert said, as they would not have an opportunity to take the tests after school is out.

Previously planned to begin next September, the tests were made available immediately after adoption by the Board of Regents March 5 through use of Dr. Stout's laboratory, recommended by President J. W. Calhoun and Dr. Gilbert.

Led by MICA, independent men's association, Inter-City Council, and Inter-Fraternity Council, an anti-syphilis educational drive on the campus early in February was culminated by a student vote of 2,771 for and forty against voluntary Wassermann tests after a Bureau of Student Opinion poll showed 94.5 per cent of the students favored the tests. Approved by the Students' Assembly, petitions for the tests were presented the Board of Regents by President Calhoun.

Dobie's 'Ideal' Tower Shown In Miniature

The Tower laid on its side, as J. Frank Dobie once suggested it should be and as visualized by Chester Wallace, junior in the University, is on exhibition on the second floor of the Architecture Building.

A tiny sketch of Mr. Dobie, nonchalant with cigar in mouth and legs crossed, sits on the side of a miniature cardboard tower made by Wallace. Beside Mr. Dobie's "bungalow" Wallace has constructed an upright tower on which is perched a miniature of Dr. W. J. Battle, who enjoys campus-wide fame because his twenty-seventh floor office suite is the highest in the University.

★ ONE RARELY finds European students working their way through college. Even if one could get a job, it is very probable that he would not get any money for it. "Our pay would be the valuable experience we received from the job," says Robert Foster, foreign exchange student from Switzerland at Ohio State University in praising the initiative of American students who work their way through school.

At The University of Texas he would have many praises to give when told that more than 70 per cent of the men work for all or part of their expenses. Twenty-four per cent of the girls work also.

Hitler Tightens Grip On New Addition To German Reich

Neighboring Nations Fortify Borders As Political Refugees And Jews Flee

VIENNA, March 12—(INS)—Absolute master of his native Austria Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler tightened his grip today as the armies of five neighboring nations encircled the borders of the "New Reich" with a ring of bayonets.

Crack troops of Italy, Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia, and Hungary massed at the frontiers north, east and south, while in the west grim-visaged French soldiers manned the border emplacements.

The whole 32,000 square miles of long-independent Austria, with its 7,200,000 population transformed overnight into subjects of the Nazi regime, went under domination of the swastika.

Heinrich Himmler, chieftain of the dreaded Gestapo, the Nazi secret police, arrived in Vienna to lead a sweeping purge of dissident elements while Hitler himself moved down to Munich from Berlin to keep in close touch with the situation.

Throughout the early hours of the morning, large forces of German troops—infantry, cavalry and the highly mechanized and motorized units which are Hitler's pride—poured across the border into Linz, Innsbruck and other frontier towns.

In every town and hamlet jubilant Nazis waving the swastika flags which until twenty-four hours ago were banned in Austria, greeted the armed symbols of Hitler might dispatched into this ancient country in militant disregard of heated protests from Great Britain and France.

The invasion of Austria, threatened by the Fuehrer if Kurt Schuschnigg refused to resign as chancellor and turn over his government to an 80 per cent Nazi regime, became a reality.

Members of the Austrian Legion, exiled from this country after the assassination of Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss in a Nazi uprising in 1934, accompanied the Reich troops in smart marching order.

For every German soldier who marched into Austria at least one or more panic-stricken refugee in fear of his life fled for safety across the borders.

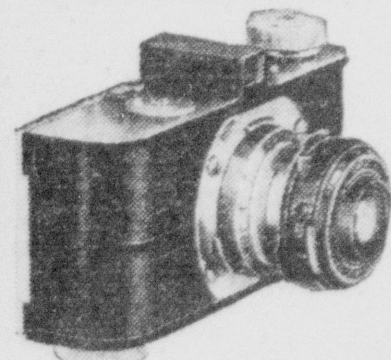

In the Jewish sections of Vienna, where rioting and window-breaking occurred, there was serious apprehension over future developments, particularly when it was learned Himmler had arrived here and that creation of an Austrian Gestapo could be expected.

Hundreds and hundreds of Jews, aristocrats and once-prominent democratic personages fled into Czechoslovakia and Hungary. Among them were relatives of the Archduke Otto, pretender to the Hapsburg throne, as well as the widow of Dollfuss and her two children.

So far as could be learned, Schuschnigg himself is still in Vienna but his departure is expected shortly.

Meanwhile, the Nazi-sympathetic residents of this capital who welcomed the German invasion were handicapped in their celebrations by a lack of Nazi flags and bunting.

WITH PRECISION FOCUSING MOUNT

(All other specifications same as Model A)

Argus engineers have developed a new precision focusing mount which will be standard built-in equipment on the Model AF. The advanced design and precise construction of the Argus focusing mount makes it possible to obtain critical focusing from infinity to 15 inches with perfect ease and simplicity.

This new type of focusing mount adds no cumbersome distraction to the general appearance of the Argus and is so designed that complete folding position of lens is possible, and it may be used in the present Argus carrying cases or with Model E Argus enlarger without further accessories or changes. In view of the extreme range of this type of focusing mount, it is not necessary to use supplementary lenses such as the portrait or copying lens.

U. S. Spurns Austrian Crisis

WASHINGTON, March 12—(INS)—The United States tonight firmly declined to take any step toward intervention in the Central European crisis, while Republican spokesmen warned that Asia—not Europe—presents a menace to American peace.

The American position of strict non-intervention in European affairs was conveyed to Sir Ronald Lindsay, British ambassador, and Rene Saint-Quentin, French ambassador, when they called at the State Department.

Secretary of State Hull gave like assurances personally to Hitler's representative, the German ambassador, Dr. H. Dieckhoff.

Warnings to Americans to forget Europe and watch developments in the Pacific were voiced by Senators Charles L. McNary (R) of Oregon, and H. Styles Bridges (R) of New Hampshire. Both declared American peace was threatened in the Far East—not in Central Europe.

Senator William E. Borah (R) of Idaho, meanwhile declared the national boundaries, which the Allies created by force at the end of the World War, were subject to destruction by force. He recalled International News Service's disclosure of the Balfour document last November which revealed how Britain entered secret treaties for a general partition of European territory among the Allies.

foto--by J. R. palm

DISTORTION is not ordinarily desirable in a photograph, but if controlled by the photographer some very humorous effects may be obtained. A fat person may be made to appear fatter, or skinny, or fat in some parts and skinny in others.

The subject's forehead may be raised so as to make him look intelligent, or it may be lowered until he looks like Alley Oop. It can even be swelled to look like he has a hangover.

The most simple and easily controlled method of distorting the image in a photograph is by curving the printing paper laterally while the photograph is being enlarged. The curves may be made horizontally, vertically, or diagonally. For example, if you want to make the forehead on the image appear very tall, bend the paper across the forehead while the print is being made. Of course, this method demands that an enlarger be used.

It also has the disadvantage of getting the part of the print that is curved partly out of focus. This will result in the print being a little fuzzy. When making a print this way it is best to use as small an opening as possible on the enlarger. It is also best to make the image of the subject as large as possible, because the printing paper will bend easier in a large curve.

To determine the amount of distortion that is practical, use a sheet of plain white paper before putting the printing paper under the enlarger. You can see just how much bending can be done without getting the print entirely out of focus and how much and what kind of distortion will appear in the print.

If you do not enlarge your own photographs, the commercial photographer who does probably will do it for you if told what you want. Or if you do not want to have the prints enlarged, you may distort them by holding an imperfect piece of glass in front of the camera lens when making the picture. This method is not very desirable because the negative then has the distortion, which can never be removed.

Neither can the exact type of distortion desired be obtained.

All in all, this type of photography is not desirable except for the humorous effects that may be obtained, although it is used quite extensively in advertisements; an example may be found in most popular magazines in an advertisement for a supposed cure for hangovers.

club during the school year through a series of monthly meetings, banquets, and dances; and contact with ex-students during the year by an active committee to be composed of Dallas exes which will be part of the club's executive organization and co-operation with exes on matters affecting interests of both.

Downs has gone to Dallas this week to confer with the Ex-Students' Association on details of the plan, but he will return in time for the luncheon.

Politics --

Now all the members can cast their ballot for a third party.

Miss Kniveton wants to be a drama critic one of these days, and she dances in the right hand middle of the dance floor at Germans.

As a reporter of some capability we believe Miss Kniveton will be able to receive some very beneficial publicity. Also, and scarcely to be overlooked as far as political considerations go, she has A. D. P. behind her. And then she was a Relay Queen nominee last year.

SEVERAL WEEKS AGO, Mr. Bobby McKinley was amusing everybody with his antics as a tumbler in the Theta Sig production, "Time Staggers On." Wearing about ten vests, which he discarded from time to time, he proved himself a very good clown tumbler.

Mr. McKinley is another candidate for Ranger editor—but not "just" another one. He's already started working for the job pretty hard, and hopes to give a good account of himself April 5.

He is on the Ranger staff and draws cartoons that are pretty good. He also has some ability at serious art and has studied in Dallas, which is his home.

If elected to office, Mr. McKinley proposed to clean up the magazine and make it more literary and finer artistically. The Great God Sex has no particular allurements as far as Mr. McKinley is concerned. Like Miss Adams, he wants to model the magazine after the New Yorker.

Mr. McKinley is not a boxer, if you have any doubts on the subject. Another Bobby McKinley does all the boxing around these parts. Our Mr. McKinley is more concerned with the finer things in life, such as tumbling and the Ranger. He is also an actor and has done professional stage work.

Back of Mr. McKinley is Mr. Joe Whitley, producer, reporter, dancer, and jack-of-all-trades, who may be able to garner votes from wide and varied places. Otherwise, Mr. McKinley has no political organization behind him.

We are glad that Mr. McKinley has entered the race for Ranger editor. He has a very nice smile. (Hooray and three cheers!) The political editor is still impartial!

OFF to the wars again this year is Mr. Joe Belden, who Friday announced his candidacy for the editorship of the Texan. Mr. Belden is again combatting an old political foe in the person of Mr. Pat Daniels, who gave and took with him last year at the polls. And the Daniels-Belden race will probably be one of the most violently partisan ones held this year.

Mr. Belden is familiar with the business of politics. Last year he ran for assemblyman from the College of Arts in the fall (unsuccessfully) and for associate editor of the Texan in the spring (successfully). In the latter race he was supported by the Old Guard group of fraternities and he has their backing again this year. Mr. Belden is not a member of a social fraternity, however.

He favors paying the Students' Association president, expansion of the Judiciary Council's functions, and does not favor election at large of assemblymen. He thinks the constitution should be revised to be in keeping with changing circumstances.

He says if he is elected to the office he will continue the present aggressive policy of the Texan. He wants to make the paper mirror the opinions of the students at the same time.

Mr. Belden comes from Eagle Pass, another border town, and speaks Spanish fluently. Year before last he was a translator in the University archives.

Activities in the realm of journalism have been many for Mr. Belden. He worked on a paper in Eagle Pass several summers, and his service on the Texan has been spread over a period of four years. He is a former sports editor, night editor, and has conducted a politically-profitable column this year called "Eyes of Texas."

Like his opponent, Mr. Belden belongs to a good many organizations. He has held the presidency of the Newman Club, the University Press Association, Sigma Delta Chi, and the Press Club. The Bureau of Student Opinion, however, is the institution of which he probably is most proud. Mr. Belden and his assistants have done some very good work finding out just what the campus thinks about current problems, and our suggestions that Mr. Belden find out very soon who will be victorious in the race for Texan editor.

This must end with the birthday song, and we suggest that the reader carry on from this point.

For on this day Mr. Joe Belden is 23 years old.

BAER READY FOR LOUIS

NEW YORK, March 12—(INS)—"One or two more fights for me then Joe Louis for the heavy weight championship—and please quote me on this—I'll fight Loui this time as long as I can see and beat him," Max Baer said today following his dramatic, colorful and upset victory in a 15-round decision over Tommy Farr last night.

With that Mr. Magnificent was reiterating what he said last night in his dressing room, while blood oozed slowly from his nose and from a cut inside and outside of an eye that no longer was an eye.

"All you newspaper guys please get this: You thought quit last time against Louis. Regardless of that, I want him again more than anything else."

Longhorn Trackmen Turn In Excellent Performances

New High Jump Star Discovered

Relay Quartet Improves Time

By CLYDE LA MOTTE
Texas Sports Staff

The discovery of a new high jumper highlighted the intrasquad competition of the track team yesterday. Louis McDonald, who has been running the hurdles and the quarter-mile, tried out in high jumping and cleared the bar at six feet, two inches. With practice and an improvement in form, McDonald should develop into a consistent point winner.

However, high jumpers were plentiful at Memorial Stadium yesterday afternoon. Five men leaped six feet or better. Milo Cox, winner of the Laredo meet last week with a jump of six feet, six inches, stopped at six feet, two inches in order to compete in other events. Henry Chovance, Emmett Rowe, and Red Barefield, freshmen, were others who made the six foot mark.

Hugh Graves, co-captain, made the brilliant time of 21.2 seconds in the 220-yard dash. In another closely contested 100-yard dash, Graves beat out Cox in the time of 9.8 seconds. He topped off his day's performances by running on two winning relay combinations.

Two fast-stepping relay teams caused fans to quit worrying about the apparent weakness of the Longhorns in the running events. Wendell Siebert, George Morris, Milo Cox and Hugh Graves made the 880 relay in 1:28.8, faster than their record winning time at Laredo.

Morris, Cox, Graves, and Jud Atchison ran the 440-yard relay in 42.3 seconds. Had it not been for a bad pass of the baton at one time, they probably would have made the distance in 42 flat.

Kibbe Porter was spiked in the 440-yard run when he and George Delavan collided in making a curve. Porter was not badly hurt and will be in condition for the Fat Stock meet at Fort Worth next week-end. Siebert won the race in 51.9, second place going to Riddle.

Boyce Gatewood won both the hurdles races in fair time. He finished in front of Coleman Pack in the high hurdles, being timed at 14.8. Gatewood is rapidly improving and as the season progresses, giving him more experience, he will be a definite threat.

A strong breeze that aided the sprinters was a handicap to the distance men and caused the times to be slow in those events. Tom Law won the 880-yard run in 2:45.5. Leo Graves was second. Sam Pattillo, regular miler, was not out yesterday and that event was won by Bardwell Odum in 4:46.

In the field events Beufus Bryan and Gilliam Graham again stood out. Bryan vaulted thirteen feet and Graham tossed the javelin 206 feet.

Freshmen Challenge Varsity In Swim Meet Tuesday

By BILL NEWKIRK
Texas Sports Staff

Feelings ran high in Gregory Gym pool last night as rival members of the Varsity and Freshman swimming teams went through a stiff work-out in preparation for the dual meet Tuesday, March 15. Taunts and cries of disdain filled the air as the mermen, Regulars and Yearlings alike, swam their time trials. As the practice was drawing to a close, Thurman Talley, captain, was heard urging a group of Varsity men to "beat these cocky Freshmen or drown in trying."

And, as if to cement his utterance, Talley stepped up to the make and splashed through a 50-yard sprint in the fast time of 23.9 seconds. Bill Morris, another Varsity sprinter, served notice that he will have to be reckoned with when he swam the same race in 24.3. The conference record for the event is 25.2, set by Talley in 1936.

Harris McClamroch, crack Yearling free styler, matched the performances of the two Regulars by turning in a 52.9 for the 100-yard free style race. McClamroch will be on even terms with Bill Ploch, Freshman dash man, who won the 50-yard event in the opening night of the Texas Aquacade. Both men have repeatedly bettered the Conference record of 56.6 for the 100-yard free style.

The 50- and 100-yard dashes, along with the 220- and 440-yard swims, promise to be the closest and most exciting events on the program. Other races, however, for which the line-ups have not been definitely announced, will be heated contests all the way through.

Mike Papich and Merrill Hickey, Freshman springboard artists, were diligently practicing their dives along with Carrol Church, Varsity diver. Hickey, however, is still handicapped with injuries received while diving in a shallow pool on the Florida trip during Christmas vacation, and will not participate in the meet. Bill Brink, who gave a fine performance in the Aquacade, will be the other Freshman diver.

The announcement that James Willis, former Austin High School swimming captain and Gul. A.A.U. 440-yard champ, will swim untethered in the 220- and 440-yard events was received with considerable interest by the Longhorn swimmers. This will match him up with Adolph Kiefer, who is also competing in the same events untethered. Willis, it was learned, plans to enter the University next fall.

Admission will be free.

Czech Team Wins Handball Title

Taking two matches out of three, the Progressive Czechs, club champs, won the intramural handball team title yesterday in Gregory Gym when they defeated the Independent champions.

The Czechs took both singles matches but dropped the doubles encounter. Rogers beat Wagerman, 21-6, 21-6. O'Connell beat Voss, 21-15, 9-21, 21-10. Hoffman and Rios defeated the Czech team of McKinley and Townsend, 21-19, 21-15.

This year's handball entries, 118, was three above the previous record and is an indication of the popularity which handball has attained in recent years.

The Progressive Czechs won the Club championship, by beating Little Campus. Rogers won over Leonard. O'Connell defeated Kelly, and Townsend and McKinley lost to Anderson and Voss. The Tau Deltas lost to the Betas in the final of the fraternity division. The Betas took a singles match and the doubles encounter when Juneman beat Meer, and Cullen and Griffith defeated Kalmans and Blumenthal. The Independent champs beat district 10 in the final, three matches to none.

In the playoffs, the Progressive Czechs drew a bye. The Independents won the right to face them for the University championship when they defeated the Betas. Weyerman won by default over Van Zandt. Hoffman and Rios beat Cullen and Griffith in the doubles.

Joe Bowling Will Compete

Authorities Say Star Is Eligible

Joe Bowling, T.A.A.F. diving champion for three years and a mainstay on the Longhorn swimming team for two years, was declared eligible for Varsity competition by a majority vote of the seven Southwest Conference schools, Dr. J. C. Dolley, chairman of the Athletic Council, announced last night.

Bowling's reinstatement means that he will participate in the Varsity-Freshman meet Tuesday night. Regarded as the outstanding diver in the South for several years, Bowling's appearance on the Varsity slate will strengthen the Regulars' weakest event. The Varsity now has the talents of Bowling and Carrol Church, who has been improving greatly in the last four meets.

A knee injury kept Bowling out of the Texas Aquacade, but last year's swimming fans remember the fine performances turned in by the Longhorn springboard artist.

Regulars Beat Reserves Again In Baseball

Scoring two runs in the last half of the ninth inning to overcome a one-run deficit, the Varsity baseball Regulars defeated the Reserves, 7-6, on Clark Field yesterday.

The game was close throughout, with the lead changing hands several times. Johnny Hill sent a clean hit over the shortstop's head to drive in the tying and winning runs after the Reserves had counted in their half of the ninth to tie the score.

Pulling a double steal to tie the score, the Reserves showed the Regulars how it should be done. It was a beautiful play that drew the applause of the fans. Uncle Billy Disch, master of baseball tactics that he is, has a difficult job in directing both offense and defense. He has to give them both orders, but at the same time he can't let one side know what the other is doing.

Lefty Garnett and Kirven Fields pitched the first five innings for the Regulars and Reserves, respectively. Both looked good and few runs were scored while they were on the mound.

Clarence Pfeil got a double and a triple to lead the Regulars' batting attack. Hill and Smith also got two hits for the Regulars. Smashing out two doubles, Cotton Evans led the Reserves. Armstrong and Lawhon also pounded out two hits for the Reserves.

Garnett and Fields kept the scoring down during their tenure on the mound. Charles Still went in for Garnett and Guy Aldridge replaced Fields. They pitched the rest of the game, which found both sides getting more hits as the contest neared its close and the teams fought for the lead.

The infield and the pitching staff remain Uncle Billy's chief problems. Both infields looked ragged at times as they let grounders go through their legs.

Golfers Begin Team Try-Outs

Three Lettermen Return This Year

By GUY WITHERSPOON
Texas Sports Staff

Candidates for the Varsity golf team will begin a 72-hole medal play qualifying round for the six positions on the squad Monday afternoon over the Austin Country Club course.

Any student who is scholastically eligible may compete, free of charge, by filing his entry with Harvey Penick, coach and professional at the club, not later than noon Monday. Pairings will be made in threesomes and play will begin immediately thereafter.

After the first 18 holes Monday, another round will be completed Wednesday afternoon. The low eight players will continue in the tournament for the remaining two rounds to determine the six squadmen.

Jack Fouts, captain-elect, J. Ward Fouts, and Wayne Middleton, returning lettermen from last year's Southwest Conference championship team, will qualify with the candidates, but will be placed on the team regardless of their scores.

The three have been consistently near par in practice rounds. Middleton, the only member of last year's team to qualify in the championship flight at the National Intercollegiate meet, has had four consecutive 73's. The Fouts brothers had a pair of 72's Saturday.

Bob Battle with a par 70, and Jack Cameron, Walter Benson, Andy Chilton, and John Myers are others who have been near par in practice.

The Longhorns have scheduled the national champion Louisiana State team for a duel match here April 9, Ed Oile, business manager of intercollegiate athletics, has announced. Last year the Tigers sent two of their men, Fred Haas and Paul Leslie, to the finals of the National Intercollegiate tournament. Leslie is back to lead the team this year and their match with the Longhorns should prove a measuring stick of the local's potential strength.

Steer Netters Win; Kamrath Returns To Team

Playing at three different places, the Longhorn tennis team put in a full afternoon yesterday.

The second squad beat the third on the freshman courts. The first twelve spent the afternoon practicing on the Penick Courts. Two members of the Varsity joined with two girls from the Racket Club to play a visiting team from a San Antonio club.

The San Antonio club brought four players, headed by Eunice Dean, nationally famous woman net star. Bob McGinnis and Bub Murphy played Hamilton and Hickman, the two from San Antonio and had little trouble in defeating them. The matches were purely for practice. Miss Dean beat Marjorie Murray, best of the University girl netters.

On the Penick Courts the Varsity team turned out in full force for practice and a few matches. Both singles and doubles were played, with much time spent in practicing smashes. The Steer's overhead game improved considerably after a long period spent in smashing lobs. Wilmer Allison, former Steer net star, continued his comeback training as he opposed Edgar Weller. Two years ago Weller was one of the most promising players to perform on Penick Courts.

Bobby Kamrath, number one man, returned to the courts yesterday after a long lay-off caused by the removal of his tonsils. Still rather weak from his stay in the hospital, he took things lightly.

Austrian Putsch A Peace Threat?

LATE FRIDAY night in a small South Texas town, a young man paused over a soda and the night's edition of a newspaper to remark:

"Looks like we'll all be fighting pretty soon."

Occasion for this one man's trepidations had been the one-day coup d'état of Adolph Hitler and Nazism in Austria, a stroke which reportedly plunged Europe into a "new crisis," and presaged graver war threats.

Yet was the crisis so vital that an already harassed World peace looked almost to snap?

True, Germany virtually annexed Austria. Chancellor Schuschnigg resisted German Nazification of little Austria; the German iron fist fell upon him.

German troops marched at least to the Austrian border; German planes were in the air over Vienna. Hitler's ultimatum demanded the Austrian chancellor's resignation from office in favor of Austrian Nazi friend, Seyss-Inquart. Refusal meant invasion.

THE GERMAN stroke was complete, and Germany now maintains an apparent hegemony over her neighbor.

But is Peace violently threatened?

It seems more likely that German control in Austria is only open now. The two nations are both of Teutonic content, both long sympathetic. Since the Austro-Prussian War, the neighbors have been constant allies; they would be allies in all probability in the future.

In this case, the means are probably much more spectacular than the end—Austria's annexation openly rather than under the table as traditional.

Hitler has, for all his convolutions, done little for himself or against the interest of peace.

He had an ally; he still has one. His ally was neither powerful nor steeped in resources and population; German management will help in neither case. In all probability he has fewer Austrian friends than he could boast two weeks ago.

So why should European peace totter because Austria has apparently entered the Nazi corral? Little of the publicity Germany received on the "annexation" can change the fact that Austria has been inside that corral for almost half a century.

By ALICE MARY ADAMS

O Student, of the too-modest mien, enroute to Garrison Hall or points beyond, where is the spring in thy step befitting a new-crowned king? Read ye not the papers? Know ye not that which has befallen to make the world thy oyster, and this in a month of "r's"—and politics?

The whale, O Student, for his ambergris alone, commands respect; but thee! how much more the reverence due thee. For thou hast——a vote!

What? No light of understanding dawns in thy gentle eye? Seest not the gold mine rich at thy very feet?

Then hear me. Each year, when the March cocoon unfolds, a swarm of baby candidates crawls out into the sunlight of public gaze, there to bask and stretch untired wings.

Anon, warmed and strengthened, the tender young insects become aware of gripping hunger which sends them buzzing across the Forty Acres in search of food.

Here, O Student, is where thou comest in. For the candidate-bug feeds upon a honey known as votes, without which he must surely sicken and die. And thou, Gentle One, art the only flower possessing the food of their lives.

Since thou, unlike the rose, trailest thy roots about upon the Earth's surface, and since thou hast come upon the phrase "free will," the candidate-bug may not wrest honey from thee, but must seek it through thy good will, that he may grow about him yet another cocoon, called "support," and natch presently into an "office-holder."

So thou shouldst now see, Student, that the Forty Acres hums with thy servants. Thou dropst a book? Strain not thy back to pick it up, for a score of candidates e'en now is rushing to retrieve it for thee.

Members of Alpha Phi Omega, mourn ye at the cow-paths which rib the campus? Say the word, and an army of candidates will seek to restore the grass—even by plowing the ground with their finger nails, if ye will it, and dropping the fertile seeds from between their teeth.

Hast a 2,000-word paper to write, and no time in which to write it? Grieve not, Student. Find thee a swarm of candidates where they sit buzzing in booths along the Drag; voice thy urgent need, and thou mayest choose the likeliest-looking of them to prepare thy paper while ye rest, and smoke the cigarette proffered by a second candidate, and extend thy shoes to be fresh blackened by yet a third.

A candidate, O Student, bears passing resemblance to Aladdin's lamp, and differs only in that thou need press him not, but only murmur "vote," that thy wishes may be fulfilled.

Therefore walk ye not with downcast face, nor sigh for the curls of Taylor nor the curves of Henie. Upon the Forty Acres in the months of March and April, Taylor and Henie would go unnoticed, as two possessing voltage perhaps—but not votes.

the Texas Negro Press Association which was held in this city last week.

Had more of the responsible citizenry, both white and colored, attended at least the closing session of the convention Friday night at Mount Gilead Baptist Church, there would have been afforded a needed clarification for them of the vital interracial problem. Napoleon Edwards of Prairie View Normal, president of the Negro Press Association, and colored editors who spoke on the program are all well educated men with a full realization of the ethics underlying their vocation and with an enlightened, tolerant comprehension of the racial problem.

Toward a solution or at least an amelioration of difficulties and hardships that fall upon both whites and negroes by reason of racial misunderstandings, the only successful avenue lies in each side fully grasping the viewpoint of the other. This is the sole purpose of inter-racial conferences, in which are involved no arbitrary or unfair concessions toward the negro. The white person in Fort Worth with a proper sense of public responsibility should take advantage of any future public occasion to clarify his mind on the racial problem. Negroes such as attended the press meeting in Fort Worth last week are useful citizens, entitled to sympathetic consideration and a better understanding. —Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

The Poet's Release

A POET'S NIGHTMARE

Sibilant death is everywhere, It slowly stalks life with a scowl, Searching for senile weaknesses, And striking with a silent howl.

It's in the air, hovering near, In the screech of an oaken door, In the sharp ticking of a clock, And the screech of a shaky floor.

Its sepulchral voice serenades With a hissing sardonic tone. Its icy breeze crushes a life And with a fetid sigh is gone.

Slipping through the silvery night, On wispy wings of suffusion, Sending another shivering soul, Toward its earthly conclusion.

CHESTER E. LEDBETTER.

APOLOGIES TO A BELOVED CRITIC

I beg your pardon, Dear, for you must read These foolish lines I pen with my true soul: Your criticism, Darling, do I need To reach my goal.

Oh, speak the truth, do not my feelings spare, Be not partial to my silly token— Mine's not exception! But if you say "fair," My heart is broken.

The Steer Standard

By BOYD SINCLAIR

SAD STORY OF A SON AND SOME SWINE

1. Now it came to pass in olden times that there dwelled in the Land of Yeomany a righteous man, a man who upheld himself and all his house with pillars of wisdom, who kept the commandments, who sought honor in the land, and who committed much industry in the market-place, and who had a substance of many flocks and herds.

2. Yet this man had a son who always gave sleep to his eyes and slumber to his eyelids. This son cried unto his father from his bed of coverings of tapestry and fine linen, "Father, yet a little sleep, a little slumber, a little folding of the hands to sleep." And all the people about the city were exceedingly sympathetic with the old man in that he was snared with riotous offspring. The father was called Whitley in the land, and his son, Joseph.

3. And it came to pass that the Goodman went a long journey with certain of his goods into the periphery of Yeomany, and that when he had returned, a pestilence had been cast into his swine, and one of the swine went down into the chambers of death.

4. And the father said unto the son, "A pestilence hath fallen into the swine herd. Get thee to the pig pen, my son, and remove the dead hog and I will give thee a talent of silver. Keep my word and lay up my commandments with thee."

5. And the son more than kept his father's commandments. Even so, he was hidden with the cords of roguery. When darkness was upon the face of the earth, he dragged the dead swine forth, but also one that yet lived. And it came to pass that he sold the one that yet lived to a keeper in the market place and before the light of morning, he dragged the dead swine back into the pen.

6. And before ever the sun was

LONG RANGE—LETTERS

To Stuffed Shirt Syers

Sir:

The Daily Texan is guilty of bias, prejudice, and suppression of news in the current political campaign.

Editor Syers, Protector of the Poor, who thinks he holds office by Divine Right, has slipped a cog in deciding arbitrarily (and without the advice of his much touted Editorial Advisory Council) as to which candidates for office shall be given publicity and which shall be entirely ignored.

The time has come for Editor Syers to take a few journalism courses—particularly the one dealing with ethics in journalism. Having decided what and where we shall eat, and having disposed of our problems to his own satisfaction, Editor Syers has made the mistake of thinking he can also mark our ballots for us.

A bona-fide candidate for the office of President of the Students Association filed his petition several days ago—to the certain knowledge Syers and Political Editor, who is so controlled by editorial strings that he even walks in jerks, but not one word concerning the candidate has appeared in the Texan.

Personal finickiness should be manfully controlled in such a contingency, Mr. Syers. Read the definition of news in any book of journalism or ask anyone on the Department of Journalism Staff what you may be justified in suppressing. Listen instead of talking, for once.

Is the Texan to be the impartial reporter of campus news, or the self-appointed wet nurse of the Students' Assembly and any other campus organization on which Editor Syers wants to force his peculiar standards of judgment?

Editor's note: The Texan may print only those announcements released daily by the Secretary of the Students' Association.

Disreputable as the Texan is, it is responsible for its statements; its ethics are probably little worse than those of this reader-critic who believes in anonymous letters.

high on the morrow, the son came forth from his bed and sought his father. And he said unto him, "Father, the pestilence hath stricken another of thy yearling shoats. O Father, shall I be given another talent for his removal?"

And the old patriarch was sore troubled at the loss of his razor-backs, but he was a man good in heart, and he answered straightway, "My son, take him away, and I will give thee thy talent."

7. And the son repeated the process.

8. And the father was famed in the land as a man who loved the flesh of swine upon his table. And it came to pass that he did

Cupid's Trail Starts Here, Ends In Tokyo

Miss Elizabeth Ann Rall, ex-student, and Truett Ellis were married yesterday. Another ex-student was married in Tokyo, Japan, not long ago, and several other recent marriages of ex-students have been announced.

Miss Rall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Rall of Austin, and Mr. Ellis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Ellis of Avondale were married yesterday at the home of Miss Rall's parents in Austin. Miss Rall is a former student of the University and a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority, and Mr. Ellis is a student of T.C.U.

KINNAN-PATERNOSTRO

Miss Emma Paternostro was married to Roy F. Kinnan, ex-student, March 8, at the Oak Cliff Methodist Church in Dallas. Miss Margaret Ann Paternostro was her sister's only attendant, and Carl Kinnan attended his brother as best man. The bride is a graduate of the Hockaday Junior College, Mr. and Mrs. Kinnan will make their home in Dallas.

PEAL-SKIPWORTH

Miss Joy Skipworth, ex-student and a member of Chi Omega sorority, was married to James T. Peal of Austin at her home in Dallas March 5. Miss Skipworth is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Skipworth of Dallas.

Mr. and Mrs. Peal left for a short wedding trip in South Texas directly after a reception at the home of the bride's parents. After their return, they will make their home in Austin. Betty Putnam, Nell Dear, Maryann Gustine, Mary Dodd Kincaid, Helen Warner, Robert Dunn, and William Weyerman, University students, attended the wedding.

WITHERSPOON-McDAVID

Miss Betty McDavid, ex-student and member of Pi Beta Phi sorority, was married to Claude Witherspoon Jr., March 5 at 8:30 o'clock in Christ church, San Antonio. Bishop W. T. Capers and Reverend Samuel Capers officiated.

The church altar was banked with white gladioli and white stock, and the church was lighted by tall white wrought-iron candle holders holding single white cathedral tapers. Miss McDavid wore a gown of white illusion, full-skirted and shirred of bodice, which was banded with narrow satin ribbons tied with little bows. Her veil of illusion fell from a bonnet worn on the back of her head and which had real orange blossoms under the brim in front.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Robert Thomas; the maid of honor, Miss Virginia Schneider, and the bridesmaids, Misses Hettie Witherspoon, Ann Harley, Martha Wiggins, Josephine Schreiner, and Mrs. William Lyons.

Immediately after the ceremony, a reception was held in the home of the bride's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. McDavid.

WYNNE-EVERETT
Miss Regina Edith Everett was married March 4 to Elmer Staten Wynne, senior in the College of Arts and Sciences, at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. W. C. Raines. Dr. Raines performed the ceremony and Miss June Ward accompanied Miss Tina Stevens, who sang "I Love You Truly." Miss Amy Louise Everett, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Frank Edens of Grapeland, cousin of the groom, was best man.

A reception at the home of the bride's parents followed the wedding. Informally arranged around the room were pink and green spring flowers.

After the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Wynne left on a short wedding trip. They will live in Austin. Wynne will receive his bachelor of arts degree in June. He was recently elected to Phi Beta Kappa and is also a member of Alpha Epsilon Delta, honorary pre-medical fraternity. Wynne is the son of Mrs. Mary Wynne of Elkhart.

GRAHAM-DUNCAN
Thomas Graham, formerly a student of journalism in the University, married Miss Ruth Duncan in Mission March 4.

Mr. Graham, formerly of Paris, received his degree in journalism from the University in 1934. Miss Duncan attended Texas Christian University for two years.

The couple went to Monterrey and Saltillo, Mexico, after the wedding. They will make their home in Mission, where Mr. Graham is associated with the Mission Times. He is a member of Delta Tau Delta fraternity.

WOOD-ROMBACK
Miss Helen Romback of Littlefield, ex-student, and Max Wood were married in Plainview March 1. Mrs. Wood was graduated from the University last August and was a Bluebonnet Belle nominee in 1935. Mr. Wood is a former student of Northwestern University in Chicago and of the Houston Dental College. Frances

Smartest, Most Up-To-Date Co-Eds Lead Sock Brigade

By ELIZABETH KEENEY

Texas Society Editor

They're doing it! And I'm proud of them! Almost half of the U. T. co-eds have gone sensible and are wearing socks, and they're even wise enough to wear them with flat-heeled shoes that are not only girlish looking, but smart. The legs on our co-eds are surprisingly beautiful, too. We have not seen a single girl who did not look well in socks, and when it gets warmer and all the girls can get plenty of those violet rays that end in a rich brown suntan on backs and legs, suntan socks will look even better.

These girls that are wearing socks are what we call brave. They've really started something, and deserve to be congratulated. Do you out-of-date (?) stocking-wearers realize that the ankle-wearers are saving just gobs of money? They're very much in style too. You stocking-wearers who wear flat-heeled shoes are really beginning to be behind the styles. Come on, wear socks just as a favor to us, because your legs are pretty too, more than likely.

Good taste, becomingness, and suitability are three of the greatest assets you can have about your dressing. Socks show good taste in that they are up-to-date and they can match your different dresses. Socks are becoming to your legs, to your flat-heeled shoes, and to your dresses. Socks are suitable for school wear because they are economical and practical.

So let's all of us wear socks instead of just half of us, huh?

ARKANSANS VISIT HERE

A group of students from El Dorado Junior College of El Dorado, Ark., visited the campus Saturday afternoon as guests of Sydney Reagan. The group was in Texas attending the convention of the International Relations Club in San Antonio.

'Don't Tread On Me' Say Campus Signs

Next time you take your favorite short cut across the campus, you may be stopped by a sign reading, "Don't Tread on Me."

Tricky signs and posters placed at campus trails formed by careless students are part of the campaign of Alpha Phi Omega, national honorary service fraternity, for a more beautiful campus. This week has been set aside as "Campus Beautification Week."

Charles Clark, president of the fraternity, believes that when University students are reminded of their carelessness, they will quit walking across the grass. If the students will co-operate, new sidewalks will be made to help them on their cross-campus trips, Clark said.

O. J. Herrington, University gardener, has promised to help carry out the plan.

"My force and I will do all we can to eliminate the paths on the campus," he said. Clark pointed out that a drive to make the student body "beauty conscious" has often been discussed, but has never before been the object of a united effort. President J. W. Calhoun and approximately one hundred and forty campus organizations have received requests to co-operate with Alpha Phi Omega's drive.

Flower Lecturers

To Be Here Monday

The lure of oriental flower arrangement will be brought to Austin women when Mrs. Hazel H. Gorham and Mrs. Josui Oshikawa present a demonstration lecture Monday night at 8 o'clock in Home Economics Building 105.

Home Economics Club members and their friends will meet Mrs. Gorham and Mrs. Oshikawa after their lectures. Coffee will be served. Miss Lucy Rathbone and the faculty of the Department of Home Economics will receive the visitors.

Mrs. Gorham is the wife of an American engineer who has been in Japan for twenty-five years. During this time she has been an observer and student of Japanese life and has known Japanese women in their homes. She has lectured before a number of groups in Japan and has written for leading Japanese periodicals.

Mrs. Oshikawa is founder and director of the Shofuryu school of flower arrangement in Tokyo and is the only woman member of the examining board of flower arrangement experts under direct supervision of the imperial board of education. She is a lecturer and demonstrator and a leader in art circles in Tokyo. She has 120 teachers of her method under her direction.

Mrs. Gorham and Mrs. Oshikawa have collaborated on several books on flower arrangement, among which is "Manual of Japanese Flower Arrangement." They will be guests of the home economics faculty at a luncheon in the Home Economics Tea Room at 1 o'clock Monday.

Tickets for the lecture will be

Manless Dance To Entertain Celebrities, U. T. Girls Friday

Junior Prom's New Night Club Has Floor Show

The Main Ballroom of the Texas Union will be a No-Man's Land Friday night when the Junior Class girls entertain with a Celebrity Prom. This is the only dance during the year that no men are allowed to attend. Instead of the regulation college boy escorts, half the girls come as boys and bring dates. It is at this time every year that a boy friend with a tux your size is at a premium.

This year the Junior Class Council, headed by Edith Hardey, is opening a night club, the Bluebonnet Room, and is inviting every co-ed in the University to come to the gala opening dressed as some famous person. Admission is $1 per couple. Carnes Weaver's orchestra will play.

The Grand March will begin at 10 o'clock, and will be led by Miss Hardey, president of the Junior Class, and Dorothy Matson, president of the Senior Class. A floor show will be presented during the evening with Gus Levy as master of ceremonies. Levy and Harold Brady will entertain with a dramatic skit, Leah Nathan will dance, and Val Jean Aldred and Jimmy Valentine will sing.

The Junior Prom is a tradition that is more than thirty years old. At the first prom, only senior and junior girls were allowed to attend, and escorts wore dark skirts and white blouses, and carried canes. It was not until several years later that the dean of women allowed trousers to be donned.

Advance notices indicate that everybody mentioned in Who's Who, the Social Register, and the New York Times Index will be present this year. A whole host of film celebrities, headed by Clark Gable, Greta Garbo, and Carole Lombard, will meet dignitaries from Europe, Asia, and Africa in the Bluebonnet Room. Guests will be announced as they enter so that their fellow dancers will be able to recognize them. Although they are allowed no part in the dance, boys have their fun sitting in front of the Texas Union and passing their approval or disapproval with boos or cheers as the co-eds arrive. Joe Belden is the only man on the campus who has a permit to come. He and a photographer will gather material for the Texan.

A prize will be awarded to the couple best representing a pair of celebrities. The chaperons will also be the judges.

The Junior Council will have a luncheon Monday in the Home Economics Tea Room to discuss final plans for the prom.

Ex To Address Kiwanis Club Monday

Mrs. R. D. Henderson will be the speaker at the regular meeting of the Kiwanis Club in the Stephen F. Austin Hotel Monday afternoon at 12:15 o'clock. The subject of her talk will be the raising of scholarship funds for the seniors of the New London school, which was destroyed last year by an explosion.

Mrs. Henderson is an ex-student of the University and former national president of Theta Sigma Phi, honorary and professional journalism fraternity for women.

U. T. Students In Favor Of Roosevelt's Rearmament Policy

72% Men, 47% Co-Eds Want Proposed Program

By WALDO NEIBUHR
Bureau of Student Opinion

In February President Roosevelt's rearmament program was introduced into Congress. The Vinson Bill, as it was called, recommended additions to the army and navy estimated to cost $1,200,000,000. Immediately, in Congress and throughout the nation, a controversy was aroused that extended into an investigation to determine just what the United States foreign policy is, and whether this foreign policy warrants such a program.

Answering isolationists, pacifists, and other opponents of the bill, President Roosevelt and the state department have declared that the bill is purely a defense measure. The additions, which would provide for a 20 per cent increase in the navy, making it second to none in the world, are not for the purpose of waging an aggressive war, they asserted.

In an effort to determine the opinion of students in The University of Texas on this problem, interviewers for the Bureau of Student Opinion asked this question, "Do you favor President Roosevelt's rearmament program?"

Yes, answered 65.0 per cent,
No, answered 17.6 per cent,
No Opinion, answered 17.4 per cent.

Differences in opinion between members of the opposite sex were apparent from the poll's results. Of the men interviewed 72.8 per cent favored rearmament although only 47.3 per cent of the co-eds favored it. Similarly 15.8 per cent of the men opposed the program while 21.9 per cent of the women were against it. For the men 11.4 per cent gave no opinion as compared with 30.8 per cent of the women.

Wide differences in opinion were found between students registered in different divisions of the University. In the College of Engineering 86.5 per cent of the students favored the president's rearmament program as compared with 60.5 per cent of the students of the College of Arts and Sciences who favored the plan.

A noticeable increase over other polls in the number of students registering no opinion may be attributed to the general lack of information which exists in the matter of what size army and navy actually is necessary to wage defensive but not aggressive wars.

Most students who favored rearmament said that they believed in preparedness as the best policy. Some said that they considered our present defenses inadequate and favored the additions. Others advanced the theory that a big army and navy would discourage invasion by foreign powers.

Students who answered "No" to the question gave as their principle objection the expense of such a building program. Closely following those who objected to the expense item were the numbers who questioned the necessity of rearmament for adequate defense purposes. A small percentage of those questioned summed up their objections by simply saying that they were "dyed-in-the-wool pacifists."

Whether students favored the proposal because it had the backing of President Roosevelt is not known, but the figures taken on the rearmament question compare favorably with those obtained when the Bureau recently asked students if they were generally in favor of the President's policies. That poll revealed that 69.8 per cent of the students favored the administration's policies while 20.1 per cent opposed them, a difference of only a few points from the percentages in this week's question.

Results of recent polls taken by the American Institute of Public Opinion show a similar nation-wide drop in the disarmament sentiment which has been prevalent for many years in the United States. In June 79 per cent of the nation's voters favored a stop in American armament building "IF OTHER NATIONS AGREED TO HALT THEIRS," but the results of a poll released last week showed that this sentiment had dropped to 52 per cent. This registers a distinct change in American public opinion, because in the past two decades the United States has been one of the leading instigators of conferences and treaties to limit armaments.

And the hog doctors could show him no manner of disease.

10. And it came to pass that the whole herd was taken in this manner as the days passed, and when the dead swine lay desolate in the pigsty for the last time, the father cried out, "The wastes are builded and the pigpen goes uninhabited. My son, take this talent of silver and take the last beast forth which layeth yonder."

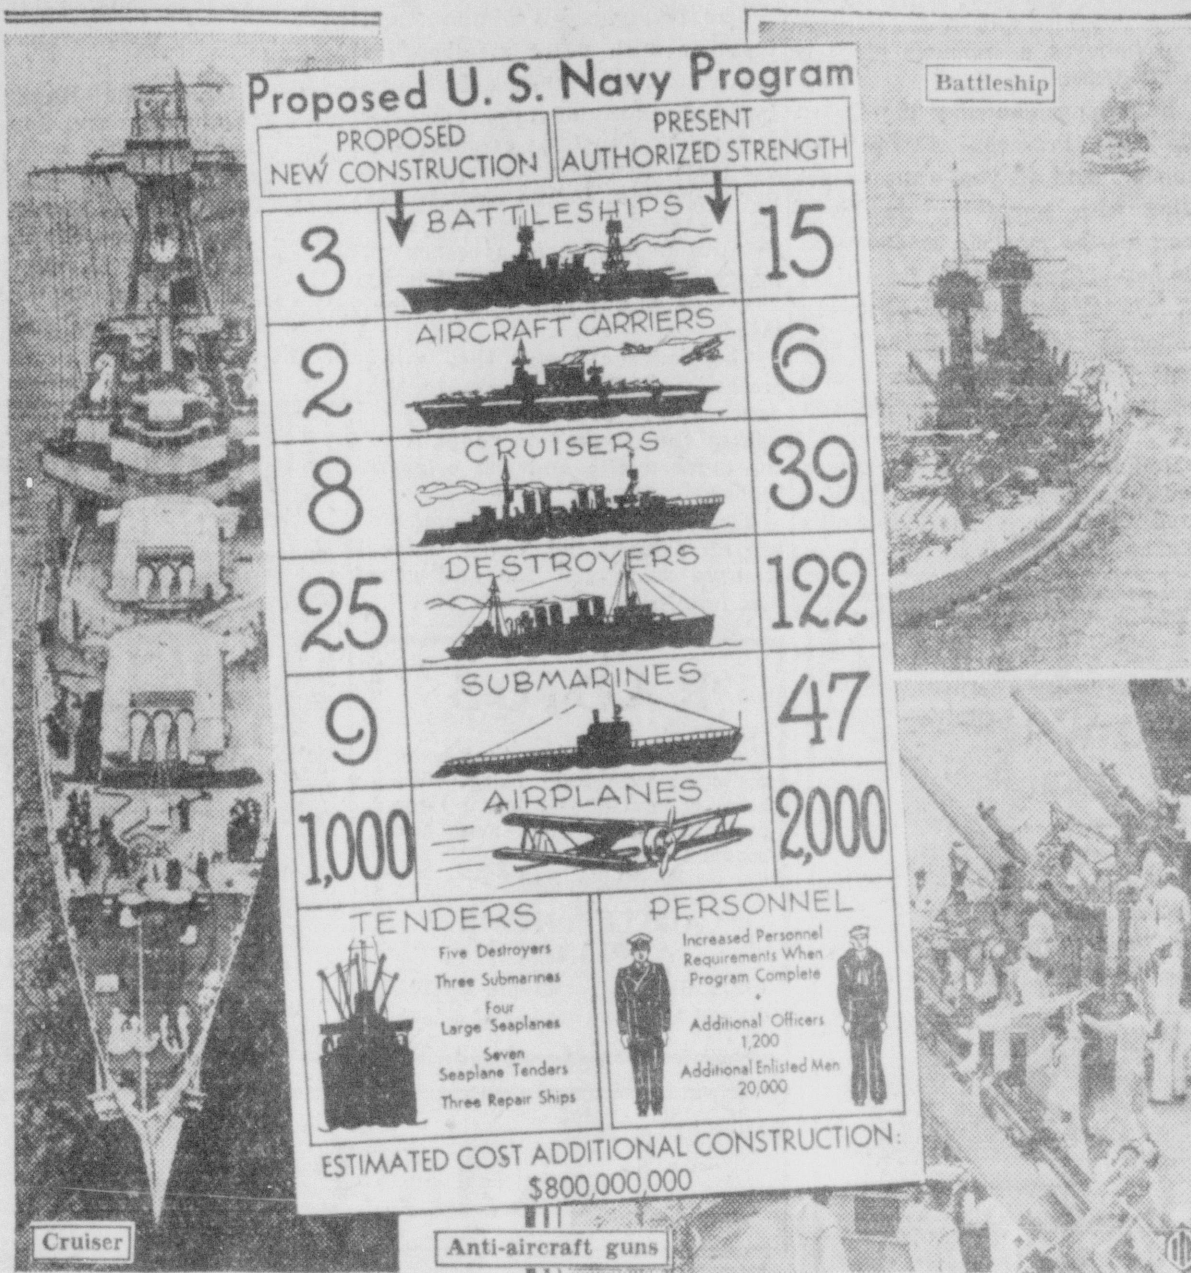

11. And the son carried the swine forth and skinned him and tanned the hide with tallow and for exchange of pieces of silver did give it to urchins for gaming upon the gridiron.

12. And it came to pass that when the flesh of the swine had all rotted away, there came a junk dealer into the Land of Yeomanry, buying rags and bones and hanks of hair. And the son carried the merchant round and about and there showed him the dry bones in an open place.

13. —And the junk merchant did buy, and the son went away with a shekel of silver and one bekal of copper. And the father began dealing in cattle, and favored swine no more.

Campusites Sanction Armament Plan

Proposed addition to the army and navy to cost approximately $800,000,000 recommended by President Roosevelt, is arousing much debate in Congress on the subject of extent and scope of the United States' foreign policy. A bill introduced by Representative Carl Vinson, chairman of the House naval affairs committee provides for construction of three battleships, two aircraft carriers, eight cruisers, twenty-five destroyers, nine submarines, twenty-five auxiliary vessels, 2,000 airplanes, 1,200 officers and 20,000 enlisted men. On the army side the President seeks heavy appropriations to improve anti-aircraft defenses, Army Reserve Corps, army materials and to expand the National Guard.

Seven Campus Days

By CHARLES O. HUCKER

Spring politics bloomed again on the University campus this week, and with it came a perennial activity which does its annual bit to herald the approach of spring.

With odds pointing toward one of the most hectic campaigns of recent years, filing of candidacies began Monday with three announcements, two for president of the Students' Association, one for its secretary. An avowed "vice-buster," James De Loache McCutchan III, one of the first presidential candidates, opened the season with the instigation of a slot machine raid by police on the drag; the other, Tom Price, opened his campaign with the confessed intention of making politics look "as silly as hell." Mary Sue Bates was the very first person to file for office and the first candidate for secretary.

As the days passed other candidates struggled into the race—Joe Belden and Pat Daniels, old political enemies, for Texan editor; Margaret Fisher and Elizabeth Kniveton for secretary; and three would-be wits, Bill Edmondson, Alice Mary Adams, and Bobby McKinley, for Ranger editor.

With the end of the week it was obvious that the fireworks had just started. No one had as yet announced for the editorship of the Cactus or for any of the three associate editorships—of the Texan, the Ranger, or the Cactus.

Fine Arts

Coming as a climax to a form of whispering campaign which had been going on over the campus and the state for several years, a College of Fine Arts was officially established at the University Saturday by the Board of Regents at an all-day session, and Dr. William E. Doty of the University of Michigan was named its dean.

During the week, arrangements were hanging fire, pending the arrival of Dr. Doty to take office April 1. Three departments are contemplated, art, music, and dramatics, for the opening of the new school at the next long session.

Tests Begin

Partially submerged in a flow of political news, announcement was made Wednesday that Wassermann tests, installation of which at the University was approved by the Board of Regents last Saturday, would be given on the campus beginning Monday.

Previous to the surprise announcement, it was supposed that the tests could not be given until the next long session, but arrangements were made with a San Antonio laboratory for testing blood samples in the meantime, and twenty seniors will be handled daily for a voluntary fee of $1.

Relay Queen

Election of a University co-ed to serve as queen of the eleventh annual Texas Relays on April 2 was held Thursday following the election Tuesday morning of five nominees. Marjorie Anderson, Doris Dickinson, Anne Painter, Kathryn Spence, and Mary Lou Weyman were the girls selected by the nomination election, but the results of the election for queen will not be announced until the day before the Relays. The four unsuccessful candidates will serve as duchesses.

Cultural high spot of the week was the Gilbert and Sullivan work, "Yeomen of the Guard," produced by the University Light Opera Company Wednesday and Thursday. Bonnie Ruth Taylor, George Pierce, John Hubbard, and Kendall Mullin had the leading roles.

Sports

Sports enthusiasts, a bit anxious for the baseball season to start, met with a pleasant surprise during the week in the announcement that the Universities of Florida and Wisconsin had been added to the 1939 football schedule.

Willie Tate was elected captain of next year's basketball team by the squad Monday, and Jimmy Britt, Elmer Finley, Bob Meers, Tommie Nelms, and Max Skaton were initiated into the T-Association Tuesday night.

Spec Townes, the famous Georgia hurdler, declared early in the week that he would enter the Texas Relays in April, adding to an already long list of celebrities expected to compete.

Odds And Ends

Pre-med students in the University held their annual banquet Friday night, preceded by an afternoon showing of a medical moving picture show in the Geology Building.

The Longhorn Band made its annual awards at its banquet Thursday night in the Driskill Hotel, with Mayor Tom Miller of Austin presiding.

Bright spots of the week for many scholars were the announcements of honor rolls of the College of Arts and Sciences and the College of Engineering Wednesday and Thursday.

Expand Texas Union

A display of native products of West Texas in the Texas Union March 21 to 28 was planned by the West Texas Club in its meeting Thursday night. George Hall and Colby Jones were elected representatives to the Inter-City Council. An attendance committee composed of Etta Baugh, chairman, J. W. Sailors, and Thomas Head was appointed.

Intelligence First Quality Desired In Marriage

Pre-Marriage Sex Relations No Detriment, Majority Says

If University students are not making plans for immediate marriage while attending college, they are at least formulating their ideas on matrimony. College students the nation over, surveys show, are doing serious thinking along these lines.

Just what qualities do University of Texas students—today—say they believe to be the most important qualities in a wife or husband? When asked by the Bureau of Student Opinion, students rated them as follows:

- | Men | Women |
|--------------------|----------------------|
| 1. Intelligence | 1. Intelligence |
| 2. Personality | 2. Considerateness |
| 3. Fidelity | 3. Faithfulness |
| 4. Beauty | 4. Business ability |
| 5. Honesty | 5. Dependability |
| 6. Education | 6. Sense of honor |
| 7. Mutual interest | 7. Ambition |
| 8. Virtue | 8. Honesty |
| 9. Congeniality | 9. Loyalty |
| 10. Sense of humor | 10. Companionship |
| 11. Domesticity | 11. Mutual interests |
| 12. Character | 12. Sincerity |
| 13. Good sport | 13. Personality |
| 14. Common sense | 14. Character |

Other qualities were named only a few times. The list above indicates the descending order of first choices named by the students.

Dr. Maurice A. Bigelow, teacher of biology at Teachers College, Columbia University, when he visited the campus recently, stated that surveys made by means of questionnaires at various colleges are in line with these results. He stated that intelligence was desired by college men a great deal more often than among those less highly educated.

SEX RELATIONS BEFORE MARRIAGE NO DETRIMENT TO MATRIMONY, 63% SAY

Students throughout the United States have shown that they are interested in sex hygiene. In a number of colleges student movements have been responsible for the inclusion in the curriculum courses on sex education.

Campus students, interviewed in a scientific cross-section, were submitted the question, "Would you marry a person you knew had had sex relations before marriage?" They voted:

Yes 63.9 per cent
No 24.1 per cent
No opinion 12.0 per cent

There is a difference in the polling taken among co-eds and their fellow classmates.

MEN SAID

Yes 61.1 per cent
No 25.1 per cent
No opinion 13.8 per cent

WOMEN SAID

Yes 69.9 per cent
No 21.6 per cent
No opinion 8.5 per cent

The opinions registered by the students in this poll represent a point of view held at the present time. Changes in religious attitudes, further education, and many factors may make the students change their minds either way; so the results of the survey are not to be considered a permanent opinion of the individual students, although further polls under the same circumstances and of the same kinds of students would more than likely show the same results.

Dick Rubottom Was Wanted At U. T., And Was Got

By R. M. WHITE Jr.

After meeting and talking to Dick Rubottom, new assistant dean of men, it is easy to understand why Dean V. I. Moore once said of him, "I wanted that man at the University, and I worked hard to get him."

Mr. Rubottom believes the popular belief that deans are elderly bespectacled men with sharp features and stern expressions. He is a well-built man of 25 with light hair, a resolute jaw, and a high forehead. He is handsome and is capable-looking. The word "capable" exactly fits him, for you could expect him to know what to do in any sort of an emergency.

Born in Brownwood, Mr. Rubottom lived there until he was graduated from high school and went to S.M.U. Before receiving his master of arts degree in 1933, he had become a leader on the campus. He received many honors, was editor of the Semi-Weekly Campus, student newspaper; president of Lambda Chi Alpha, social fraternity; and president of Sigma Delta Chi, journalism fraternity. Mr. Rubottom also received letters in tennis and track intramurals.

After graduation, he became traveling secretary of his fraternity. This work gave him a better understanding of people, and taught him to handle the unusual situations which arose.

For example, he arrived in Washington University to find the entire campus in an uproar.

"Just before I had arrived," Mr. Rubottom said, "a group of boys, nearly all officers in Lambda Chi Alpha, had stopped while walking home from the picture show and thrown a rock through the window of the Dean's home. Besides breaking the window, it struck the Dean's wife on the head. The boys had been caught, kegs, trying to pin a murder upon misunderstood Ex-Convict Jevries.

With solution of the mystery comes a let-down for the audience. One suspects that if the cast had included a butler, the killing job would have been given to him. Roger's officious treatment of Jevries leads one also to suspect that the scenario writer had his own nasty opinion of the Military Intelligence.

Though Boris Karloff isn't given the opportunity to exercise any of his talent save that of looking like an ogre, he comes through nobly on that. Marie Wilson, the only other actor worthy of comment, is likewise saved the necessity of exerting herself. As the rattle-brained bride, irritated at the interruption in her honeymoon, she provides both comic relief and relief in general.

'Tom Sawyer,' Twain Classic At Paramount Saturday

MRS. VENUS and her young son, Cupid, will have to take an aspirin if there is anything to the title of Wednesday's opening at the Paramount, which is "Love Is a Headache." The featured actress plays an actress, none other than Gladys George, who once toured Texas when tank towns were a headache. Franchot Tone is a newspaper columnist. Mr. Tone, who should be the favorite actor of Charles William Hrisikopoulos, as he is the chess champion of the M-G-M. lot, plays a newspaper columnist. Mr. Tone has played everything from copy boy to publisher, it seems. The late Ted Healey, Houston actor, plays a press agent. Mickey Rooney and Virginia Weidler play brother and sister adopted by the actress. The Weidler lass made her picture debut in the only picture Pauline Lord made for the screen, "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch."

Mark Twain's immortal classic of American boyhood, "Tom Sawyer," comes to the Paramount screen Saturday with a new discovery as Tom, 12-year-old Tommy Kelly, lad from Brooklyn. He and 11-year-old Ann Gillis, the latter also a new find who is in the cast, were entertained last Monday in Dallas by city officials, as they were on the way to Hollywood from New York, where they had been making personal appearances. The children are to be starred next in "Heartbreak Town," the story of a child in Hollywood, and production plans call for the frank, honest, and faithful approach to the theme that was made in "A Star Is Born." The last film based on "Tom Sawyer" was made with Jackie Coogan seven seasons ago.

It would probably take less space to tell who is not in "Manhattan Merry-Go-Round" at the State Tuesday, but that would be negative and non-newsworthy, so here is who is in it. Cab Calloway, Ted Lewis, Phil Regan, Ann Dvorak, Leo Carillo, Joe DiMaggio, James Gleason, Kay Thompson, Gene Autry, Smiley Burnette, Louis Prima, Luis Alberni, and Henry Armetta, to name a few. It's another musical, but whether it hath charms or not remains to be seen.

"Radio City Revels," which opens at the State Friday should be a charm, for it's the third time in a row for musical films at the State. Hal Kemp's Orchestra, Bob Burns, Jack Oakie, Kenny Baker, Ann Miller, Victor Moore, and Helen Broderick, act the story of an Arkansas hill-billy who composes songs in his sleep, but is unconscious of the fact when he is awake.

"Change of Heart" is the Tuesday opening at the Queen. Michael Whalen is the hubby who believes a woman's place is in the home. Gloria Stuart is the woman

Weidman To Show Terpsichore Moods

Just why a dancer dances as he does will be explained by Doris Humphrey and Charles Weidman in a lecture-recital on the modern dance, presented by Orchestras, Wednesday, March 23, at 8:15 o'clock in Hogg Memorial Auditorium.

The Humphrey-Weidman team, together with other members of the troupe, will present their own interpretation of the modern dance. The dance, as explained by the team, is neither contemporary nor American. It was imported to this country and necessitates a definite technique as a means of interpretation, in order that it be thoroughly enjoyed and understood.

The dancers apply the same methods of interpretation to the dance as has been done in music, poetry and drama—to adopt it to the modern life and the original scene.

Tickets for the performance are on sale at the Texas Union. Reserve seats are 75c and general admission tickets are 50c.
