U. T. DEBATERS GET WIN OVER OKLAHOMANS

Audience Decision Is Favorable to Texans

'JURY' IS TOPIC

Advocates for Change Of Present Usage Gain Point

In a heated debate, which closed Frank Stubbeman's career as a member of the squad, the University team defeated Oklahoma University's orators last night by an audience decision of 56 to 43, on the question, "Resolved: That Some Substitute Should Be Adopted for Trial by Jury." Stubbeman and Arthur Sandlin upheld the affirmative side of the argument, opposing George Copeland and Haskell Paul of Oklahoma University.

Stubbeman of the affirmative opened the debate with the remark that, "The American jury is responsible for many amusing dramas of the court room." The affirmative advocated trial by a tribunal of judges rather than by a group of men skilled only "in butchering the bull, shearing locks, and driving nails."

George Copeland opened the negative of the question wherein he exemplified the failure of trial by a tribunal in the case of the star chamber of England. "Shall we go through those experiences of England?" he asked.

He was joined by his colleague, Haskell Paul, who advocated that jury service is the service of the citizen who is out in life where he can ascertain the real facts and not the dusty records of ancient law tomes.

"There is a democracy in Texas," Paul asserted, "but it is tending toward a centralized government and only the continuance of trial by jury can avert this danger."

The debate closed with a very stirring rebuttal by Sandlin.

A. P. STATE EDITOR TALKS TO SCRIBES

William S. White, state editor of the Associated Press, made a talk Tuesday night at a meeting of Sigma Delta Chi, men's honorary journalism fraternity. The subject of the talk was "The Method Used by the Associated Press in Gathering News Over the States."

At the meeting an organization was adopted for the management of the Interscholastic League Press Conference for a permanent director to hold office at his own pleasure. Arrangements were made for a board of three members which will be appointed each year by the director and the president of the fraternity. This board will have the executive direction of the conference.

Texan Capitol Correspondents

Submission to the people of Texas of a constitutional amendment broadening the scope of securities in which the University permanent fund can be invested was made possible Wednesday when the House of Representatives joined the Senate in approving the measure.

The resolution calling for submission of the amendment was passed by the House by a vote of 101 to 1. It now goes to the Senate for concurrence in a corrective amendment adopted by the House and then will be presented to the Governor for his approval.

As the law now stands, the permanent fund of the University may be invested only on bonds of the State of Texas and of the United States. Since the bonds of the State of Texas outstanding (amounting approximately to $3,400,000) are owned by the permanent public free school fund and the permanent fund of the University, the University must now invest its permanent funds in bonds of the United States, which ordinarily are at a premium. As a result, before any of the interest received from bonds thus purchased becomes available, an amount equal to the premium paid must be applied to restoring the permanent fund, which otherwise would be impaired to the extent of the premium paid. As time passes, it is expected that the United States Government will gradually retire its bonds, with the result that purchasers of those outstanding must pay an ever-increasing premium and get an ever-decreasing interest rate.

This amendment seeks to correct this and allows the permanent University fund to be invested "in bonds of the United States, the State of Texas, or counties of said State, or in school bonds of municipalities, or in bonds of any city of this state, or in obligations and pledges issued by the Board of Regents of the University of Texas, or secured by such obligations and pledges, for the construction of dormitories and other buildings for the use of the University of Texas, or in bonds issued under and by virtue of the Federal Farm Loan Act approved by the President of the United States, July 17, 1916, and amendments thereto."

The amendment will be submitted to the people at the general election in November, 1930.

The present session of the Legislature of Texas will adjourn sine die Thursday, March 14, under a concurrent resolution agreed to by both houses Wednesday. A determined effort was made by several members to adjourn Saturday, March 9, or Friday, March 8, but the majority of both houses preferred the later date. Several hundred bills remain on the calendars of the two houses and it is expected that the concluding days of the session will be hectic ones, with every member endeavoring to get up "pet" measures.

The Governor has indicated that he will call a special session to consider appropriation bills and other matters 30 days after adjournment of the regular session.

MCDONALD WILL CASE REOPENS IN PARIS TODAY

Magistrate Over-ruled Motion for Change Of Venue

TRIED THIRD TIME

Pollard Expected to Participate in Hearing

Special to The Daily Texan. PARIS, March 6.—The William J. McDonald will contest case, involving a bequest of a million and a quarter dollars to the University of Texas for an astronomical observatory, will be tried a third time at Paris, beginning Thursday at 1 o'clock.

Motion of contestant relatives asking change of venue from Lamar County was over-ruled Wednesday by Judge Newman Phillips. Attorneys for administrators of the McDonald estate announced ready and proponents indicated they would be ready by Thursday afternoon. Selection of a jury was expected to get under way by mid-afternoon.

In support of their motion for venue change, the contestants' counsel introduced 45 witnesses from various parts of Lamar County and the proponents, without introducing any witnesses, asked that the motion for the transfer of the case be over-ruled because of insufficient evidence that it would be impossible to obtain a fair and impartial jury here. After the argument which lasted most of Wednesday, Judge Phillips sustained the proponents' contention.

The case has been in the courts three years and has attracted wider attention than any civil case tried in Texas in several years. A decision in favor of the W. J. McDonald estate in 1926 was reversed by the State Supreme Court on a writ of error. In the second trial here last November witnesses took the stand to testify as to facts which bore on the contention that the late Paris capitalist had insane delusions as to the possibilities of astronomy. The jury failed to agree and the voluminous evidence is expected to be introduced again in possibly even greater scope than heretofore.

Attorney General Claude Pollard who represented the State's interest in the case in November, is expected to participate again in the trial, according to John D. Priest of the attorney general's department, who has been here for the venue change hearing.

SCOTT HUGHES WINS SPEAKING CONTEST PRIZE

Hamblen Is Awarded Second Place At Meet

Scott Hughes, former president of Athenaeum Literary Society, won first place in the after-dinner speaking contest which featured the annual banquet of the organization held at the Driskill Hotel Tuesday night. Hughes was awarded the $15 prize given by United States Senator Tom Connally, former Athenaeum man, while Billy Hamblen was awarded second prize of $10, also given by Connally.

Hughes' winning speech consisted of an appeal given in defense of Ray Bland on a charge of bigamy. Hamblen's talk on "Democracy in Athenaeum" was a denunciation of political combines in the organization. Other speakers in the contest were Benet Lay, Tom Bagby, Edward Reichelt, and Spurgeon Bell.

Tom Rousse, debate coach and old Athenaeum member, acted as toastmaster. Judge I. P. Hildebrand and Arno Nowotny acted as judges of the contest. Frank D. Stubbeman, senior member of the society, and Ray Bland were among the speakers.

BRAMLETTE, FIRST M. A. OF U. T. DIES

Word has been received of the sudden death of Dr. Edgar Elliott Bramlette, 66, the first master of arts graduate of the University, Wednesday morning in Louisville, Kentucky. Dr. Bramlette was born in Paris, Texas, in 1865.

Dr. Bramlette was graduated from Vanderbilt University and received his master of arts degree from the University. Following his attendance at the University, he was a student at the University of Leipzig in Germany. While in Germany, he held the position of American consul under the administration of President Grover Cleveland.

He is survived by his widow and two daughters, Mrs. Roy West and Mrs. E. G. Bischoff, both of Austin, and one son, E. L. Bramlette of Beaumont.

Burial will be held in Austin Friday. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Facts About Former U. T. Students Who Now Fill Solon Chairs

The distinction of being the youngest member of the Legislature goes to Elwin Gerron of Waxahachie, who attended the University from 1923 to 1925.

He entered the University in 1923 after graduating from Austin High School, and attended the academic school until he withdrew in 1925. After working in the state comptroller's office for two years, he resigned to enroll in Cumberland University at Lebanon, Tennessee. In June, 1928, he took his bar examination and received his license to practice law September 11, 1928, when he was only 21 years of age.

Y M C A TEAMS MAKE REPORT AT LUNCHEON

'MARINES' SECOND

Campaign Workers to Hold Second Meet Thursday

The annual financial drive of the University Y. M. C. A. got off to a good start, with workers reporting pledges amounting to $630.75 at the daily luncheon Wednesday, which closed the first day of the campaign. This amount represents pledges and cash subscriptions of 231 students.

The "navy gob" division led by John Minter is leading all other workers with a total of $237.75. The "marine" division, captained by Ed McCollum, is second with a total of $149. Shady Searles' team reported $54.

The second report of the campaign, which will continue through Friday, will be made at a luncheon at the University Cafeteria this Thursday. The goal of the campaign has been set at $3,200.

Couch Fred Walker made the main talk at the luncheon Wednesday. He emphasized the value of working in the campaign to the men and told them that there must be no let-up at any time during the drive.

The annual budget of the University Y. M. C. A. is $20,000.

SETTLEMENT IN LEASE PROBLEM APPROACHES

Membership of Control Committee Forms Grievance

Settlement of the controversy over who is to have charge of the leasing and selling of University lands seemed near Wednesday when the free-conference committee met and discussed the points of difference between the House bill and the Senate bill.

The principal difference has been concerning who shall compose the commission. The Senate bill would give full supervision to the Regents while the House bill would create a commission composed of two Regents and the land commissioner.

The final solution will likely be the forming of a commission which will have two Regents and the land commissioner. The Senate, however, is known still to insist upon a majority vote ruling the commission instead of the unanimous vote which the House bill required.

An agreement has been made to eliminate provisions continuing certain oil and gas leases. The Regents objected to this, declaring that they did not know whose leases would be continued or the extent of same. Other minor difficulties were adjusted in the meeting.

Final action will probably be taken when the free-conference committee meets this morning, it was announced by members of the committee.

Students at S. M. U. Do Not Throw Trash on Campus, Says Co-ed

"The campus at S. M. U. is always clean," says a co-ed transfer who attended that school for two years before coming to the University.

"Students do not throw trash or rubbish on the campus and refuse which blows there is immediately disposed of," she states.

When asked about the general appearance of the campus, the student continued:

"The campus is unusually large for that of a University, and is lined with hackberry trees. All of the streets on and bordering the grounds are paved. A concrete drive and parking lot for cars have recently been constructed at the rear of Dallas Hall, the main building. The esplanade in the center of the boulevard leading up to Dallas Hall is covered with numerous shrubs and trees.

"The mother's club of the university has set trees along the walk in front of the girls' dormitories, Snider Hall and Virginia Hall, and has also beautified a portion of the campus facing Dallas Hall.

"Diagonal walks have been laid between the buildings so that it will not be necessary for the students to walk on the grass when going to and from classes.

"Arden Forest," a natural beauty spot on the university grounds, is located at one end of the campus apart from the buildings.

"Shrubs are planted about all of the buildings, and the head of the art department has landscaped a flower garden by the art shack where many Texas flowers are grown.

"Although I am a loyal student of the University," the student concluded, "I think that S. M. U. has a much prettier and cleaner campus."

Giants Gain Through Ten Longhorn Errors

TEX HUGHES STARS

By BOB CANTRELL

TEXAN SPORTS EDITOR

Pounding four Steer pitchers at will for a total of 19 safeties, and taking advantage of 10 Texas miscues, the New York Giants, Gotham's entry in the National League pennant chase swamped the Longhorn by a 23-3 score in the first exhibition game of the 1929 baseball season yesterday afternoon before a crowd estimated at 6,000. The Giants started their merciless pounding of Texas hurlers in the second frame when they hopped on Johnnie Raiton for five hits and six runs, and they never let up throughout the entire fray, hopping on Browning and De La Fuente in the last fray for seven hits, and chased across 10 runs.

All members of the 1929 Varsity baseball squad, W. J. "Uncle Billy" Disch, and Dr. W. H. Ettingler, athletic director will be guests of the Queen theater tonight at 7 o'clock.

Things started off very well with the Giants going out in one, two, three order, and Texas did not have much better luck, though Tommy Hughes did dump a single into left field. Lindstrom opened the second with a drive over the left field fence, and then a press to Crawford, singles by Jackson and Veltman, and a sacrifice fly by Hogan, an error by Lamm and a single by Reese scored six runs before Johnnie could retire them. From then on, the Giants scored whenever they took a notion and the storm started breaking again in the fifth, and reached the proportions of a hurricane in the ninth.

Ten of the Giants' 19 hits were for extra bases, four home runs, one triple and five doubles, while the Steers had to be satisfied with a single extra base blow and a round-trip clout by Captain Hopkins in the fourth. It was big Tex Hughes, who led the Steers at the plate. This big husky center fielder garnered three safeties out of four trips to the plate, and stopped one of Hubbs' in his ribs on his fifth trip to the plate. Dusty Rhoads and Bill Ford, the Gold Dust Twins, each garnered two hits for the day, and Red Davis came through with two bingles after he replaced Lamm in left field.

Never before did a Steer machine play as rotten baseball as the Varsity nine turned in yesterday afternoon. Time and time again, they threw easy chances to the wins, and let easy rollers go between their legs. Hop Hopkins, usually as steady a fielder as can be found, committed three miscues that materially aided the Giants Turn to Page 2, Col. 4

A FAIR SOLUTION

Must higher education in Texas be advanced only at the expense of education in the lower grades and high school? Unhesitatingly the average citizen answers, "Certainly not!" Yet, in 17 counties in West Texas the public schools are being sacrificed to the cause of higher education. It is the heritage of public schools, since they have come to play such a tremendously important part in the up-building of a state's citizenry, to have, at least, a normal growth. But the schools in these 17 counties are denied this heritage. Today they are stunted—dwarfed. And why? Because nourishment which was rightfully theirs has gone instead to the State's highest educational institution.

The University of Texas has large holdings in these 17 West Texas counties, much of it being very valuable oil producing land. In 1927 the land was assessed at a value of $7,473,758. Taxes on this land cannot be collected by the counties; it is, according to law, non-taxable. For several years it has been maintained that these counties cannot adequately take care of schools and other local activities because of their inability to collect taxes on this land.

When it is noted that these 17 counties pay one and a quarter million dollars yearly in taxes, and get back only a half million dollars for school apportionment, leaving an excess for the State of over $700,000, it is easily seen that they have a right to cry, "Let there be justice." The percentage of University land lying within these counties runs from as low as one per cent in one county to as high as 29 per cent in another county. When a county cannot collect taxes on almost a third of its land, it is evident that its schools must surely suffer!

On the other hand, is it fair for the University to pay taxes on this land, since it would have to pay such taxes from its permanent fund, which is devoted to buildings for the institution, and which fund now yields an interest inadequate for constructing much needed buildings? How to relieve the West Texas situation without retarding the University building program is the question that state officials and citizens have been trying to solve for several years. A solution now seems near at hand.

A measure has been drafted by Representatives Penrose B. Metcalfe, Coke Stephenson, and Charles McCombs, which would tax University lands, the taxes to be paid out of the general funds of the State instead of University funds. This bill has been passed by the House and will be acted upon by the Senate within the next few days. The bill, if enacted, will give relief and afford normal growth to West Texas schools, and not retard the University's growth in doing so.

HIGHLIGHTS GIVEN ON LEGISLATURE

A vote of 26 to 84 a proposed amendment to the constitution that would make the comptroller, the state treasurer, and the commissioner of the general land office appointive officials. This had been advocated in the message of the Governor at the opening of the session.

The House refused to concur in the Senate amendments to the prison relocation and centralization bill as passed by the House and requested appointment of a free conference committee to iron out the differences. The House bill would centralize the prison system of the state on two farms in Brazoria County while the Senate bill, which has the approval of the Governor, would vest in a commission the right to relocate the system after membership of the Legislature had been duly informed of the recommendations and given an opportunity to change the plan if desired.

 Both fighters, who meet today to decide the title of head of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, were confident yesterday, on the eve of the big battle. Each claims to have control of enough proxies to defeat the other. Rockefeller's "seconds" state that he can swing 59 per cent of the votes.

It all started when Colonel Stewart, some time ago, formed a "company" with three other oil magnates. They are said to have bought several million barrels of oil for $1.50 a barrel, and re-sold these to their companies at $1.75. The scheme was discovered, and Rockefeller demanded Stewart's resignation as chairman of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana. Stewart refused, and the battle was on. The two $100,000,000 fighters will decide the issue today at the stockholders' meeting at Whiting, Indiana.

The latest Mexican revolution, which began Sunday, promises to be more serious than anything in the last decade. Late developments include:

More than 3,000 federals, under command of General Jesus Garcia, are concentrating in Tamaulipas for an attack on Monterrey, which revolutionists now hold.

At Nuevo Laredo a loyal army was massing, also for an attempt on Monterrey.

The federal government announced its first important success in the campaign to crush the revolt, when a rebel garrison at Orizaba, numbering 500 men, surrendered to loyal troops under General Andreu Almazan.

Officials estimate that not more than one-sixth of the army, or about 10,000 men out of more than 60,000, have joined the rebel movement. Authorities point out that in the De La Huerta revolution in 1923 more than half of the army revolted, and yet the government won.

Lindbergh, apparently losing little sleep over being in dangerous territory, inspected his damaged plane at Valbuena flying field, and so far as is known still plans to fly the inaugural plane in a Brownsville-Mexico City air mail service.

Holbrook's prison bill was voted on for final passage Wednesday afternoon. The same members of the Senate voted for the final passage of the bill that had upheld it all of the time. Members of a free-conference committee were appointed by Lieutenant Governor Miller to confer with members from the House on the bill. The House passed a prison bill, similar to the Cousins' bill, that the Senate refused to pass.

Speaker Barron is improving after his successful operation for appendicitis Tuesday night. Fred H. Minor of Denton occupies the chair in Barron's absence. Barron was operated upon after an unsuccessful attempt to avoid an operation had been made. He continued to occupy the chair until noon Tuesday.

The Senate spent Wednesday afternoon considering House bills. Among the bills was House Bill Number 313 by Sanders, creating a nine months closed season for all fur-bearing animals.

Spencer wrote a lot of bunk
 That I've never understood,
 And Donne wrote many a poem
 About why we should be good.

Burns wrote some red-hot stuff
 That dealt with simple love,
 And Milton wrote a ream or two
 About the joys above.

Kipling wrote of battles red
 And soldiers' life at ease,
 So I will follow them
 And write just what I please.

I'll pen my lines to dizzy blondes
 And brunettes' lines so sleek
 And rough and ready campus boys
 And their approved technique.

I'll sing my songs of many things
 The dance, a drink, a date
 Of moon-light rides, of moon-shine drunk,
 And why she got home late.

In short, I sing of what YOU do
 I sing a song of praise—
 I sing a song, both loud and long
 Of Texas campus days.

Finally a nightmare came around and stepped on his face. Bosco told us that old man Morpheus is gonna' cause him to bust all his courses if he don't lay offa him.

The girl friend wanted us to take her to the ball game the other day. When we got there she said, "Aw those Giants ain't no bigger than ordinary people."

We hear so much about "Farm Relief" these days. What are they going to do to relieve the "busted stude"? We reckon they will leave that up to peppa.

There was a picture of Coolidge in the paper today headed "SEVEN YEARS IN THE WHITE HOUSE." Well, we know lots of people who have lived in white houses longer than that and ain't bragging about it. Our house, by the way, is a pale purple.

Bunk whispered to us that just because some people have a swelled head is no sign they have grown some more brains.

We think that the office cat can yodel a whole lot better than that guy who was trying to imitate Al Jolson at the Majestic. And the cat wouldn't have to wear a dress suit either.

OLD LAVENDER AND TORN LACE.

A Little Moral Tale

By Bill Eilers

In a corner of the dim, musty smelling old room knelt an old man. His hair was a yellowish-white and his faded blue eyes were twinkling with a kindly light. He was rummaging in an old cedar chest and occasionally he would stop to push back the frayed sleeve of his coat, which seemed to be a little too long for him.

One by one he removed the articles from the chest. A lock of blonde hair whipped up in a scrap of yellowed newspaper, a dried bunch of violets, baby clothing—Now and then the tears rolled down his aged cheeks as he handled these mementoes of the long ago.

The sight of them seemed to in the scoring; and when the Giants would get a man on, they would score him with a safe blow.

The Giants turned in an airtight game of ball, only Travis Jackson failing to go through the fray without committing an error. This fielding flash juggled one for 36 minutes, and then tossed another one into the bleachers down the right field foul line. Melvin Ott, Giant right fielder turned in some nice catches in this garden as did Veltman out in left.

Reese, who is battling Andy Cohen for the second base berth, turned in a cracker jack defensive game, and cracked out three hits in six appearances at the plate. Veltman, the Giants' rookie left fielder, led the New Yorkers in their clouting with four bingles in six trips to the platter, while Crawford, the first sacker, rapped out three out of four.

General view of the United States Military Academy, West Point, N. Y.

PROBABLY no single spot in this country is more widely known than West Point, where our future army commanders receive their education and training in the arts of war.

As an army post in the Revolution, West Point's fortifications were the works that Benedict Arnold attempted to deliver into the hands of the British. Later the United States Military Academy was established and is now composed of magnificent buildings, parade grounds and athletic fields.

It is a source of pride to the Otis organization that most of the famous buildings of the world are equipped with Otis Elevators and West Point is no exception to this rule; five Otis Elevators are installed in various buildings of the Academy.

Throughout the world, in far-off places and at home in familiar surroundings, we find that people everywhere depend upon Otis for safe, speedy Vertical Transportation.

JOAN CRAWFORD
IN MAJESTIC SHOW

It took a great deal of will power to miss the Steer-Giant ball game at Clark Field yesterday in order to see Joan Crawford and Nils Asther gaze ardently at each other at the Majestic, but it had to be done. Given the option a second time, the Giants would have another spectator, but the film isn't bad if you go in heavily for Graustarkish romance.

You are thoroughly familiar with the type of picture which "Dream of Love" turns out to be. It belongs to the Romantic period, when Byron, Goethe, Scott, and the rest of the Romantic School turned out reams and reams of similar material. Even the scene in which the Prince is saved from the firing squad at the critical moment by revolutionists is present—you see, such a picture must be done according to formula.

There is a wealth of interior decoration done in the best movie manner—mirror-like floors, high ceilings, gorgeous hangings, and all that sort of thing—and quite a bit of good acting which comes at odd moments. It is too bad that there is a dearth of material upon which to work.

And as for the fade-out: well, the King might have made the gypsy girl his Queen, but did he? Not if we know our Nils Asther! —A. N. C.

SINGING PICTURE
NOW AT HANCOCK

Al Jolson continues to enthrall patrons of the Hancock theater, where his first singing picture, "The Jazz Singer," is showing through Friday on a program that also includes Movietone news. In the form of songs and sentiment, Mr. Jolson presents a picture as appealing as any which has yet come out of Hollywood, and one which no one should deny themselves the opportunity of seeing. —C. MYSTERY TALKIE
NOW AT QUEEN

Because it is an intelligent mystery, made without any of the customary encumbrances of spider-webs and screeching winds, "The Canary Murder Case," an all-talking picture now playing at the Queen theater, is just about the best mystery ever to take shadow form on the screen, and as such it is earnestly recommended. It is not only a highly faithful transference of the famous book to the film, but has been done in such a superlative manner that even when one has read the book, the picture still retains a rich flavor of interest. William Powell heads a thoroughly capable cast.—C. B.

BASEBALL MEN GUESTS OF QUEEN TONIGHT

Coach Billy Ditch and his squad of some thirty baseball men and Dr. H. J. Ettlinger, director of athletics, will be guests of the Queen theater tonight at 7 o'clock following an invitation Wednesday by the management to see "The Canary Murder Case."

ALI RAJAH
AT CRESCENT

You girls who want just a man—here's your chance to get a Rajah! Ali Rajah, crystal gazer led by the spirits all the way from Bombay to the Crescent theater, in answering all kinds of questions, including embarrassing ones, told one University girl yesterday that if no one would marry her for her to come up to him—he would take her himself! What more do you want?

Besides the special added attraction, there's a picture, "Hey, Rube" that gives you the lowdown on carnival life. If you haven't seen "The Barker," you better go down to find out what the title means. Wait—"Hey Rube" is the rallying cry of circus men when a fight is on. That's the story. —J. A. B.

'MAD HOUR'
AT THE TEXAS

As one of the army that preaches the doctrine "the woman payee and payees," Elinor Glyn, authoress of the story of "The Mad Hour," now playing at the Texas theater, makes poor little Sally O'Neil pay for a good many things she really didn't get, although she got practically everything she wanted when she finally became Mrs. Somebody, Jr. But alas, her marriage turned out to be a sleigh ride and she lost it all. But Sally got a few breaks; she got to star over Alice White through the first half of the picture and would

SPORT
TEXAN SPORTS EDITOR

If the boys keep plugging away at those clay cliffs all season like they did in the season opener yesterday afternoon, they'll undermine the fences before the season is over. The Giants kept up a perfect barrage of base hits on the cliffs all afternoon, and then added a bit of variety to the occasion by taking a couple of long pot shots at the fence which did considerable damage to property beyond the railings. Freddy Lindstrom started the whole business in the second frame when he booted a shot over the left field palings, and Welsh sent it to its climax when he took a pot shot at the Stadium that fell short by feet. Veltman ended the bombardment with a blast into the left field cliffs in the ninth off De La Fuente.

Even though the Steers did lose by an overwhelming score, they learned a few things about baseball—pointers which will be useful to the boys as they advance through the season. Besides learning a few things about the game, Disch learned that his catchers will need plenty of developing before they will be ready for the conference season.

The Legislators have a hard time of it. After being invited to the game, and making themselves comfortable for an afternoon's grand time, members were routed out by the sergeant-at-arms and returned to the House where they found plenty of work facing them. Some dozen or maybe even more were rounded up by the sergeant-at-arms and yanked away from the game. Oh, well, they wouldn't have enjoyed the slaughter much anyway.

Yesterday brought to an end entries in the departmental and fraternity leagues of the intramural baseball race, with every department and the majority of the frats putting a club in the field. Right now the dope points to one of the tightest races in the history of the intramural organization.

Butler Enters
Seven-Man
Team in Relays

Butler University at Indianapolis, Indiana, will send a track team composed of seven men to the Texas Relays March 29, according to information received here by "Ox" Higgins, manager of the relays, from Hermon Phillips, Butler track coach. The team is entered in the four-mile relay, two-mile relay, and the medley relay.

Those to make the trip south for the relay carnival are: Captain George McCormack, miler and half-miler; Joseph Sivak, miler and half-miler; Ray Urbain, miler and two miler; Berwyn Jones, miler and two-miler; Ivan Yeager, 100-yard dash, 220-yard dash, and 220-yard low hurdles; George Whesinand, 440-yard dash, Kenton Gardner, 440-yard dash and mile run. Sivak, Urbain, Yeager, and Gardner are the outstanding men on the team. Sivak, a sophomore in school, has been consistently running the mile in four minutes, 17 seconds, and the half-mile in one minute, 54 seconds. Urbain won the Indiana and Kentucky A. A. U. cross country meet in 1927. Yeager won the state championship in the low hurdles, and Gardner has been running the 440-yard dash in 50 seconds flat.

United States Military Academy at West Point wrote and asked "Ox" Higgins for further information about the fifth annual Texas Relays and intimated that they might enter a team this year.

GRADS TO ATTEND

"Indications are that the University summer school will have in attendance this year nearly one thousand graduate students," it was stated Wednesday by Dr. Frederick Eby, director of the summer session, in discussing the plans and arrangements for the 1929 school.

He comes from Beaumont in the Texas League. McGraw brought only fourteen men over with him. The aged veteran of baseball campaigns did not suit out. SCHEDULE TO BE MADE FOR FROSH

Coach Marty Karow announced yesterday that as yet no schedule had been made for his freshman baseballers. However, he expects to have one arranged within the next day or two. The freshmen have been practicing for the past two weeks. Coach Karow thinks that his men will be in tip-top shape when their schedule begins.

Katherine Ketchum of Newman Hall has returned after a few days' visit at her home in Greenville.
