KIWANIS CLUB HONORS SQUAD WITH BANQUET

Moore Lauds Team's Sportsmanship, Loyalty

PRAISES COACH

Rogers Talks to Boys On Power; Defeat; Victory

Members of the Longhorn football squad were honor guests at a banquet of the Kiwanis Club Monday at the Stephen F. Austin Hotel.

Charles Boggs of the Chicago Civic Opera Company sang "Tommy Lad" and "Little Boy Blue." "The Kiwanians, the University, Austin, and Texas are truly proud of the worthy wearers of the orange and white," said Dean V. I. Moore in his address to the team members. "We honor them not because they are the champions but because they are real sportsmen. They took decisions in a sportsmanlike manner, each man giving his loyalty and support to the team as a machine."

"No finer man than Coach Clyde Littlefield could be placed before the student body as an idol and ideal," added Mr. Moore in his unstinted praise of the Longhorn coach. Dean Moore concluded his talk by quoting the poem "Alumnus Football" by Grantland Rice which ends: "Not that you won or lost, but how you played the game."

"Be able to keep your nose up in defeat and your chin down in victory," stated Dr. James Edwards Rogers, president of the National Physical Education Association in his talk on "Manpower."

Dr. S. L. Joekel, vice president of the club, presented a huge bouquet of roses to the team on the condition that they present them to Mrs. Littlefield. The club also presented to the squad the regular prizes. Those receiving prizes were: G. C. Emerson, Thomas W. Mobley, Charles Clark, Henry Mills, and Bill Ford.

Littlefield apologized for the absence of some of the members of the squad and thanked the Kiwanians for their honors. He introduced the squad present: Nona Rees, Gordy Brown, Curtis Beatty, Lewis Keel, Chas. T. Clark, Dusty Rhoads, Thomas M. Mobley, Van Lamm, G. C. Emerson, H. H. Schultz, T. A. Rees, Bill Hargrave, Frank Higgins, Jack Cowley, Line Coach Bill James, Tommy Hughes, Pap Perkins, Mac Burnett, Charles Adleta, and Steve Wray. Dr. H. J. Ettinger, director of athletics, Coach Fred Walker, and Marty Karow and Henry Mills, assistant coaches, were also guests.

"The meeting will be devoted to the consideration of permanent organization, and a means by which practice teaching can be done at the University rather than at Austin high school, as under the present plan."

Wingo only suffered slight bruises.

LIBRARY ISSUES CHRISTMAS RULES

Students who will not be in Austin during the holidays should have their books renewed Thursday, as books charged out on Thursday will not be due until the end of the Christmas holidays.

Those students who will be in Austin during the holidays need not renew their books because the library will be open every day from 8 until 5 o'clock with the exception of Christmas Eve, Christmas Day, New Year's Day, and the afternoon preceding New Year's Day.

FRESHMAN ENGLISH STUDES PLAN O. HENRY MEMORIAL

This morning freshman English classes will hear the following announcement from Dr. R. H. Griffith:

"A Christmas card for O. Henry. He's dead. He won't know anything about it—unless he can look back from the other side. But he has often given pleasure to us and we should like to give him a mark of our respect, and would like to believe that it will give him pleasure. He didn't have any too much pleasure on this side."

"O. Henry once lived in Austin, in a cottage on Fourth Street. You have never seen the home, have you? You could hardly find it without a guide. We want to place a memorial tablet on the wall of this cottage. Students in

Lecturer Speaks at Teachers' Meet Monday

TEXAS LAGGING

Meeting With Marrs Arranged for Today

"Progress of physical education in our schools depends upon five fundamental essentials: credit, facilities, recognition, trained leadership, and pre-eminence," declared Dr. James E. Rogers, director of the National Health Service of New York, in a lecture at the Y. M. C. A. auditorium Monday night at 7:30, to an audience composed mostly of teachers of physical education.

"Although physical education was not given at the 'little red school house' when our grandfathers went to school, it is not a modern invention by any means," said Dr. Rogers. "It was included as a regular part of the curriculum in the culture of the ancient Greeks."

"Education is not a head full of facts, but it is a preparation that will enable a person to adjust himself to the problems of life after he has been graduated. There are four fundamental avenues of education: academic, vocational, art, and physical. But until there has been removed from the eyes of the educators the 'taboo' that physical education is not as much or more important than the others, there will be little progress made in that line."

"In 1918 there were ten states that had athletic directors, compared to 23 states today. This and other situations prove to us that we are making some progress. For instance, Des Moines, Iowa, a city of 150,000, has spent $10,000,000 in the last ten years in the promotion of physical education in the public schools. Every school is equipped with gymnasiums and swimming pools."

"Texas is not among the states that have made progress worth mentioning," added Dr. Rogers.

Prexy-Admonishes Students Against Holiday Overwork

Fearing that some students who do not read the catalogue carefully may overlook page two, containing a part of the calendar for the fiscal year 1928-1929, and as a consequence may fail to go home and sadly remain here throughout the holidays, injuring perhaps their health by overstudy, I beg to call the attention of such students to the following item in the calendar:

"December 23, Sunday, Christmas recess begins."

N. B.—This information is furnished at the urgent request of The Texan.

At the equally earnest request of the faculty, I beg also to call the attention of all students to the next line in the calendar:

"January 3, Thursday, classes resumed."

Wishing all students for all the staff a Merry Christmas, based on the first quotation from the calendar, and as Happy a New Year as possible, based on the second, I remain,

With a faint hope that some may study a little during vacation.

Sincerely yours,
H. Y. BENEDECT.

Fifty-one Cases of 'Flu' Reported Today

"The influenza situation at the University is well under control; there is absolutely no need to close school before the time that has been planned," Dr. C. P. Hardwicke, director of the University Health Service, stated Monday.

"Only two patients have been sent to the hospitals with the 'flu' today, and the total list has been decreased by ten."

Dr. Caroline Crowell also thinks that "the spell of flu" that the University has been having is on the wane.

"Students are coming out of the hospitals faster than they are going in, and the individual cases are not nearly so severe," she said.

"Flu" Worse Among Men

Cases of "flu" among University men outnumber those among University women about three to one, according to Dr. Crowell. "The men do not get well as quickly as the women, and they have more severe cases. Men stay in the hospital on an average of four days, while women usually get out in two. This is probably due to the fact that more women

Other universities and colleges throughout the country may be giving their students an extra number of holidays because of the "flu" epidemic, but that does not argue that the University of Texas will follow suit, the President's office announces.

In denial of the rumor on the campus that classes may be dismissed before the designated holiday period, due to the influenza epidemic, a statement was issued Monday from the President's office that "classes will not be dismissed before Saturday, unless the absolute necessity for such action develops before that time."

University Officials Plan Details of Management

Consideration of the proposition to erect a seven-unit men's dormitory on the University campus is being made, and the legal findings of Attorney General Pollard, together with the plans for administration of the dormitory which are now being worked out by University officials, will be presented to the Board of Regents at its next meeting, according to information from the President's office.

"The dormitory proposition is a very complicated one," said President H. Y. Benedict. "Questions of law are involved, which the Attorney General now has under consideration; and there are questions of finance and details relating to the management of the dormitory which the University officials are working on."

The Regents at their next meeting, which probably will be held in January, will base their decision regarding the dormitory on the legal opinion which will be given them by the Attorney General. The board has given its tentative approval of the proposition, and if the opinion of Attorney General Pollard is favorable, it is thought that the project will be accepted by the Regents.

STEERS MEET SAN MARCOS TEACHERS FRIDAY

Coach Drives Longhorns Before Tilt

By BOB CANTRELL
Texas Sports Editor

University students will get their second chance to see the Longhorns in action Friday and Saturday nights, when they tangle with the Southwest Texas State Teachers' quintet in the Silents' gymnasium in a two-game series. The Teachers have a fairly strong quint, and will give the Steers some trouble, but the Longhorns should give them a neat trimming in both games.

The seating situation for the games will be handled a bit differently from that for the St. Mary's game. Instead of the "first come, first served" idea, tickets will be issued from the office of the Athletic Council in Z Hall Wednesday for the games, and these tickets along with the blanket tax will have to be shown to gain admittance.

Coach Walker has shown no intention of allowing his men to slow down with the holidays starting soon, and continues to put them through hard workouts every afternoon, in order to bring them into shape for the opening of the conference race soon after the reconvening of classes after the holidays.

The San Marcos school will bring over a well balanced club, and will more than likely give the Longhorns a harder fight than did the Rattlers. Walker will undoubtedly give every man on the squad a chance to get into the fray, as he did in the Rattler game, or again he may decide to allow the starting five to complete the battle in the opener of the series, and then shoot in the reserves the second night. The most likely course will be the use of the entire squad both nights.

B. A. PROFESSORS ATTEND MEETINGS

Several members of the Bureau of Business Research will attend conventions during the holidays. Bervard Nichols, editor of the Texas Business Review, will attend a meeting of the American Statistical Association and meeting of the Bureau of Business Research.

Dr. W. J. Reilly, marketing specialist, will attend the National Association of Teachers of Marketing and Advertising. He will also interview heads of chain stores in Chicago in connection with his project in the Bureau of Business Research.

Dr. A. B. Cox will read a paper before the American Farm Economics Association.

EDUCATION LIB TO CLOSE SATURDAY

The Education Library will close at 5 o'clock Saturday, December 22, and will be opened at 8 o'clock Wednesday, December 26. During the holidays, the library will not be open at night, closing at 5 o'clock each day.

Initiates of Delta Zeta sorority will entertain the pledges with a Christmas tree Tuesday evening.

Gentlemen:

As my Christmas present I purchased for myself a pound of your tobacco (Edgeworth) in 1/2 lb. flat tins. This morning on the tram I met a man with whom I am only slightly acquainted, and filling my pipe produced your tin, at which he exclaimed: "I am not a pipe smoker, but occasionally I have a try in that direction and I consider that the tobacco in your hand is the finest made."

I am in entire agreement with his statement.

INTRAMURAL QUINTS SHOW IMPROVEMENT

Marked by a noticeable improvement in playing and by larger attending crowds, the third week of intramural basketball got under way last night, with a card of eight games. As a result of the night's play, Delta Chi and Tau Delta Phi alone are undefeated in League A of the fraternity division, and in League C Alpha Tau Omega and Delta Sigma Phi have perfect records. In League B every team has at least one defeat chalked up, but because of their good showing last night, the Theta Xi's loomed as possible champions. This will be the last games played in the fraternity leagues until after the holidays.

D. K. E. Wins, 17-1
Delta Kappa Epsilon had little difficulty in disposing of Sigma Nu last night, 17-1. The D. K. E. guards rushed the losing forwards off their feet, while their teammates worked the ball down the court for "crip" shots. Sullivan was high point man with seven points.

Betas Lose, 10-6
In a game full of fouls, the Lambda Chi team beat Beta Theta Pi 10-6. Both teams were clumsy in their passing and floor work. Lackland and Carr, both of the winners, led the scorers with four points each.

Theta Xi's Flash Form
Theta Xi showed the best form of the night on the Woman's Gym east floor in their 16-5 victory over the Delta Tau Delta team. Howle and Allen were easily the outstanding men on the court. Howle was high point man with four field goals and two free throws to his credit.

Chi Phi's Loss, 4-2
Keeping their string of victories unbroken, the Delta Sigma Phi team beat the Chi Phi five, 4-2. None of the players seemed to be able to find the basket, and both sides missed many easy shots.

A. T. O. Team Undefeated
The Alpha Tau Omega team turned in the outstanding performance of the games in the west Woman's Gymnasium court, when they defeated the Sigma Chi five, 7-3. The Sigma Chi's were lead-

STEER BASEBALL CARD OF 1929 ATTRACTIVE FOR DISCH

The 1929 schedule for Uncle Billy Disch's ash-welders will be the most attractive that has ever been faced by the gray-haired mentor and his Longhorns. The last meeting of the conference moguls saw the ban lifted on more than three practice games, and Texas athletic officials immediately set about scheduling more games for the Steers.

Prior to the meeting, Texas had scheduled single games with the Ozaka team from Japan, the Giants and the Yanks. After the ruling was lifted, another game was booked with the Nipponese nine, and efforts are being made to secure games with teams in the middle west, and with teams in the Big Ten section.

"Texas fans will see the nine in seven or eight more games than they played this past season, declared Dr. H. J. Ettinger, director of athletics. "We will schedule at least nine games besides the regular conference affairs, and every one of them will be with a strong team, and not with the smaller schools in Texas. We are trying to get intersectional games for the baseball teams," he stated.

Efforts are being made to book games with the Universities of Michigan and Illinois, along with Notre Dame.

ing 3-2 at the half, but the A. T. O.'s put on a spirited rally in the last half to win.

Tau Dels Victors 15-10
The Tau Delta Phi basketballers won their third straight game last night from the Phi Delta Theta quintet in one of the fastest and best officiated games played at the Intramural Gymnasium.

The teams were deadlocked in a 5-5 tie at the half, and a last-minute rally by the Tau Dels, with Sampson and Goldberg doing most of the scoring, brought them out with the long end of a 15-10 score.

Delta Chi won their game last

PUBLISHING OF HISTORY BOOKS IS CONSIDERED

Dr. Hackett Suggests Plan; Mecham Will Translate

Publication of an Inter-American historical series, first suggested by Dr. C. W. Hackett, professor of history at the University, and approved by the Bolivian Centennial Congress held at Panama in 1926, is being considered by the University of North Carolina press. The series will consist of 15 volumes and an atlas of Hispanic-American history.

The 15 volumes will be translations of histories already written, one covering Central America, one devoted to Santa Domingo and Haiti, one a general history of Hispanic-America, and each one of the remaining 12 covering one of the Hispanic-American countries. The volumes have been selected by sub-committees appointed by the Inter-American Historical Commission, made up from the membership of the Hispanic-American history group of the American Historical Association. The one criterion adopted for making selections was that the histories should be those generally used in colleges in the several Hispanic-American countries.

Books by two University professors are included on the list, one on Uruguay, translated from the native language and edited by Dr. Hackett, and the other a similar volume on Ecuador, translated by Dr. J. L. Mecham.

SPORT TALK

By BOB CANTRELL
Texan Sports Editor

The Georgia Tech Yellowjackets yesterday opened their post-season practice for their clash with the California Bears in Rose Bowl at Pasadena New Year's Day. The Yellowjackets have "laid off" training for a week now, and "Modest" Bill Alexander has ordered his men to take nothing but the lightest of light exercise for the first few days of work. Though the influenza epidemic which hit his squad as the race in the Southern Conference drew to a close has lifted, Bill is afraid to be exultant over the outlook. The date for the departure of the Yellowjackets for the coast has been kept a secret.

University students will get their second opportunity to see the Steers in action Friday and Saturday nights when they meet the Southwest Texas State Teachers' College quintet in a two-game series. The admission to the games will be by means of tickets which will be issued on the presentation of the blanket taxes at the office of the athletic department, Z Hall, Wednesday morning. This will be the first time that the plan which has been adopted for the conference games will be used.

Dr. H. J. Ettlinger, director of athletics, has promised that Texas will have the most attractive baseball schedule in her history next spring. Already exhibition games have been carded with the Yanks, Giants and the Ozaka team from Japan. Texas athletic officials are now attempting to get games with a number of the big colleges in the mid-west. Michigan, Illinois and Notre Dame are being considered.

The stars for the eastern eleven have gathered in Chicago where they will work out in preparation for their annual clash with the all-west team in San Francisco December 29. Ken Strong, who was doped to be one of the big guns for the east, will not play because of a recent ruling by the New York University athletic council. Bob Barabee, an end, was also prevented from making the trip by the same ruling.

The high school football race is almost over. It will come to an end Friday afternoon when Abilene and Port Arthur meet in Abilene for the state championship. Though Abilene has been finalist four times in the race, this is the first time that the game has been played in that town. Abilene is picked to win, and playing at home will send the chances of the Eagles a bit higher.

Raymond Parr of McPherson High School has at last been rewarded. He was out for football practice every afternoon for three years, but was a scrub all the time, but finally hard work and faithfulness was rewarded and the steady plugger received his letter this year.

Dallas high school officials are "all het up" over the way the Interscholastic League has been making decisions of late. In some cases they are demanding a complete reorganization of the whole thing from the top to the bottom, especially directing their attacks at Roy B. Henderson. It's just a part of the annual eligibility war.

Hugh Clark of the S. A. E. house left Sunday for his home in San Antonio because of illness. He was accompanied by Tom Hol-lern.

Conflicting Decisions Explained By Head

By M. LACKLAND
TEXAN SPORTS STAFF

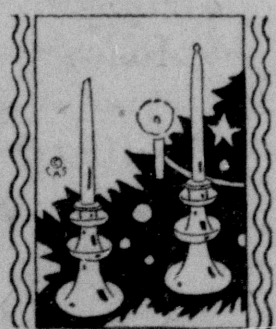

The annual eligibility war that is being waged to determine what school has a clear title to the state high school football championship and that is causing a stir in the northern part of the state was developed over an incomplete interpretation of the Interscholastic rules, according to Roy B. Henderson, athletic director in the Interscholastic League Bureau.

"The whole situation in a nutshell," said Mr. Henderson in an interview Monday afternoon, "arises from the fact that the state committee is prevented by the rules of the football plan from interfering with the actions of the district committee. The action of the state executive committee in ruling Squires of Cleburne ineligible, but permitting the team to continue in the race grew out of a strict following of the Interscholastic rules."

Section eight of the football plan which states: "If a team that is certified as district champion has won any conference game by the use of an ineligible player the said district shall be disqualified in the state race," is the bone of contention. By this ruling Cleburne could be ruled ineligible if it were not for the fact that the district committee in District 4 ruled Squires, the player under discussion, eligible for the district games, and Cleburne did not play the man in the Cleburne-Sunset game. The state committee is prevented by Section 6 of the football plan from interfering in any way with the rulings of the district committee in any questions of eligibility within the district.

"If it had so happened that Cleburne had allowed Seaman Squires to play in the Sunset game the state committee would have had the authority to rule the Cleburne team ineligible. The man was ruled ineligible for participation in conference games by the state executive committee, but this ruling held good only for conference games. Nothing was said about the eligibility of the player before the team entered the bi-district games."

Mr. Henderson explained in closing that the district committee ruled on the eligibility of the players in the district and that the state committee had nothing to do with the question until the team had played a conference game. After the team has played a bi-district game, however, any protest of eligibility of players is referred to the state committee for action.

PORT ARTHUR MEETS EAGLES IN TITLE TILT

Eagles Favored Over Gulf Coast Eleven In Battle

Special to The Daily Texan
ABILENE, Dec. 17.—Port Arthur and Abilene will clash here Friday afternoon to decide the 1928 state high school football title. This was decided in Waco Sunday afternoon when the officials of the two schools met in a conference that lasted four hours before the decision was finally reached.

Various cities styling themselves as being in neutral territory put in bids for the game, but all were rejected by the officials in the session. Most of the cities that made bids for the game were located in Central Texas.

This will be the first titular battle to be waged in Abilene though the Eagles have been state finalists four times prior to this year.

Dope will favor the Eagles in the final clash of the year by their powerful showing in the state race, though the Yellowjackets from the coast are expected to give the locals a hard fight for the honors.

Lucas Named Captain of 1929 Bear Eleven

Special to The Daily Texan

WACO, Dec. 17.—Weldon Lucas, star Bear wingman, was elected captain of the 1929 Baylor football team at a smoker given in honor of the Baylor Bears, in the university cafeteria. Lucas, playing his second year for the Bruins this year at end, was one of the outstanding wingmen in the conference and was named by several scribes on their all-conference teams. Lucas succeeds Pete Jones as captain of the Bears.

Twenty members of the 1928 Bear squad were awarded letters at the same time; those receiving letters were: Louis Paradaux, Barton Koch, S. L. Wither, Ralph Winton, Gale Griffin, Herman Bullock, Charlie Morris, Joe Potter, Weldon Lucas, Lowell Douglas, Weir Washam, Jake Wilson, Charlie Noble, Virgil Gilliland, Ernest McElreath, Gatewood Newberry, Rex Kathcart, Sid Pruitt, Captain Pete Jones and Manager Leonard Green.

Six of the letter men finished their football careers this year.

Lillian Augsperger of Tuleta, of the class of '27, spent the week-end in Austin.

ery game will be the main weapon used by the Eagles in the battle.

100 TRACKMEN WORK OUT DAILY ON STADIUM TURF

There are now approximately one hundred track men working out daily under Coaches Littlefield and Alderson. Only preliminary practice is held at this time; the regular training will begin immediately after the Christmas holidays, when the Stadium grounds will be in perfect condition for track work.

The track team will be led this year by Captain Leo Baldwin, who holds conference records in the discus and shot-put. He also will run the hurdles with Mondrix, last year's star. Two lettermen from last year will be present to represent Texas in the quarter mile as well as in the relays; these two men are Daniels and Harris. Beaty, a dash man, Sandburg, a pole vaulter, and Slaughter, a distance runner, are also stars of last year who are expected to be successful in the coming season.

The track season proper will open March 20, with the Texas relays.

Dual meets this year will be held with A.M., S.M.U., and Rice; the conference meet will start May 10.

C. E. Holloway, a former student of the University, who is now employed as a construction architect in Juneau, Alaska, is visiting friends in Austin.

JACKETS WORKING FOR ABILENE GAME

Special to The Daily Texan

PORT ARTHUR, Dec. 17.—The Port Arthur Yellowjackets went through a light workout this afternoon after their return from Marshall where they bested the Mavericks in a bitterly contested fight which ended in a tie, but the Yellowjackets were awarded the victory on the penetration rule of the league.

The Jackets are in good shape, and will be in first class condition for their battle with the Eagles in Abilene Friday afternoon.

TURTLETES HOLD TRYOUTS TODAY

Turtlette will hold a regular meeting Wednesday at 5 o'clock at the Woman's Building to pass on the constitution.

Any Turtlette wanting to make up absences will be allowed to do so today at 5 o'clock, it was announced.

PORKERS LOOK TO TEXAS FOR OPPOSITION

Porker Mentor Pleased With Showing of Proteges

Special to The Daily Texan

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Dec. 17.—Coach Francis Schmidt was well pleased with the showing his Porkers made in their opening games of the 1929 season here Friday and Saturday nights when they swamped the Oklahoma Teachers 54-34 and 54-28, respectively, on the two nights.

The Porkers completely outclassed the visitors in both games, and were never in danger from the start to the end.

By their impressive showing in the two games, the Porkers served notice on an already worried conference that they will be after their fourth consecutive basketball championship, an honor which no other conference team has ever been able to attain.

A serious threat to the Porker's supremacy will come from Texas where two teams on their pre-season showing appear to be the most serious contenders to the "ever-lasting" rule of the Razorbacks. The University of Texas five will be the biggest stumbling block in the way of the Porkers, and from their showing in their only game, the Razorbacks will certainly have a tough time when they invade the lair of the Steers early in February.

The Longhorns are the only team in the conference that has been able to win a series from the Porkers in the last three years. It was in 1927 that Doc Stewart's cagers whipped the Hogs in two of the most sensational games that were ever played on a conference court.

T. C. U. is the other Texas team that looms as the next biggest menace to the Porkers. The Christians bumped the Denton Eagles off after they had downed S.M.U. and Baylor, and appear to be a dangerous five.

These schools have closed their doors on account of the influenza epidemic, which, starting in California several weeks ago, has now spread across the entire United States to gain a foothold in the east, according to yesterday's health reports.

Unseasonable weather, combined with heavy fogs and dampness, is blamed by authorities for the prevalence of the pneumonia and mild influenza. Illinois and Wisconsin at present are the worst-stricken states, the latter reporting over 20,000 cases of the disease.

Spinal meningitis, the latest threat to the nation's health, is spreading in the Ozark mountain regions of Missouri, where the plague was first noted.

A quarantine of 25 miles square has been declared, and the district is in charge of physicians. Nine persons have died, according to records, and more than 800 are exposed to the deadly disease.

A frenzied Bolivian populace paraded the streets of La Paz shouting its joy over the defeat of Paraguayans in a border battle.

The Bolivian president and foreign minister addressed another note to the League of Nations, containing no appeal for intervention, but merely stating the conditions that exist.

A Bolivian airplane attempted to bomb a small town in Paraguay, but did no damage.

Paraguayan forces are in retreat along the border, in small groups.

The Paraguayan president still refuses to sanction the mobilization of the country's men for war.

Such are yesterday's developments in the South American situation, described by Aristide Briand, French minister and official of the League of Nations, as "very disagreeable and serious."

The prestige of the League is at stake, according to statesmen, and it is hoped that decisive action can be taken before the situation becomes uncontrollable.

"Mr. Hoover is going through South America so fast those countries must be equipped with revolving doors," says Will Rogers.

And yesterday Latin-America's largest city, Buenos Aires, bid farewell to the President-elect as he proceeded on his way to Montevideo, Uruguay. Hoover is reported as receiving a wonderful reception all along his route, and is well pleased with the results of the trip.

Three fliers were killed and one seriously injured in two plane crashes Sunday afternoon.

Two of the men were killed near Los Angeles, when the wing of their plane collapsed. The third was killed in a crash near Bedford, Ohio. All three were burned, as both planes burst into flames as they crashed.

DUTCH DATES

What is this world coming to? Not only are women demanding a position of equality in this world, but now men are beginning to take them up on their own proposition. A group of students at the University of Minnesota have organized a "Dutch Dates Club," with a constitution demanding that its members require their girl friends to go 50-50 on the evening's expense.

The Cornell Sun has the following illuminating remarks to make on the prospects for such a club: "We can easily imagine the results of such an institution. John, having spent the evening with Dolly at the movies and a light lunch afterwards, finds that he has spent $2.22. By the rules of the club, Dolly owes him $1.11 but has only a ten dollar bill. John has only $.04, so he cannot make change. So the two part on the avowals of Dolly that she will pay the $1.11 as soon as she can get the bill changed. On meeting Dolly on the campus next day, John discovers that she has suddenly acquired the vacant gaze of a scholar and gazes serenely through him. Thus it will go, we fear, as the Minnesota lads have claimed, women have usurped the majority of positions held by the men from social activities to the industrial world, we cannot imagine, by any mental gymnastics, the girl friends contributing anything other than their company."—McGill Daily.

TRADITIONS

No portion of college life is so valuable as tradition. Kept alive by song and yell and custom, the past of a college or university lends that necessary air to the college career which distinguishes it from the coldness of the correspondence school course. To be singing the same songs, to be yelling the same yells, and to be sitting on the same sacred fences that were sung and yelled and sat upon by scores of other student generations is a privilege which college students should appreciate in their undergraduate days as well as they will when they are tottering alumni.

Traditions are not made intentionally. They grow, slowly like a small acorn, dropped carelessly along a highway. Too many self-important student leaders these days are illusioned by the impression that they have but to wave their hands and create a tradition. Their motives may be praiseworthy. But to stand up before a group of college students and tell them that "it is hoped this new policy will become a tradition in the institution" is as foolhardy as to set loose a toy balloon and expect that it will land in Africa.

You've seen these tradition-manufacturers—perhaps you've been one yourself. If so, laugh with them or yourself as the case may be, for it is a futile enterprise. Traditions are of the imagination, vague and usually mythical. Their value is in the spirit they produce, not the purpose for which they may be intended. Be sure you can see the distinction between a tradition and a rule. The former operates instinctively—the latter needs outside enforcement.—C.W.L. (I.P.)

WAR IS USELESS

The policy of the Syracuse Daily Orange has had a distinct leaning toward pacifism of late. Here we have war put in its proper place.

"War is about as useless a pastime as could be found. It sometimes benefits a few but always brings hardships to many. In the case of the World War, the only persons benefitted were those who gained material prosperity at the expense of others, while the loss of life and destruction of property will continue to be felt for many years.

"In reality war decides little or nothing. It may determine which country is the stronger of which group of countries can outshoot another group, but this information might be obtained by peaceful methods if anybody had to know.

"Every effort should be exerted to rid the world of war and prospects of war. It is time to think in terms of peace. To that end the Kellogg Peace Pacts are a step in the right direction and should receive the endorsement of the American people.

"The citizenry of the country through its representatives in the United States will soon be called upon to decide whether or not the multi-lateral treaties or so-called Kellogg Pacts should be ratified. Interested students might well voice their opinions on the subject by communicating with senators from their home state."—McGill Daily.

PRINCETON GOES HIGH HAT

"A recent survey made by the Princeton Alumni Weekly shows that the high silk hat or opera hat is being generally worn by Princeton students on formal occasions for the first time since before the War. This recently noticeable trend is indicative of a tendency toward greater formality in dress among the undergraduates, most of whom have for the past year worn the black derby and Chesterfield.

"At the senior prom three weeks ago, 40 opera hats were worn by the undergraduates attending the dances. A week later on the occasion of the joint Yale-Princeton musical club's concert, 22 of the high hats were counted.

"Inquiries of the local hat retailers reveal that Princeton men really are buying the silk hat. One hat man said that he had sold 24 of the dignified top pieces during the past few weeks. None whatever were sold here last year."—Cornell Daily Sun.

THERE IS LITTLE REASON FOR MAN TO BE ALWAYS BELITTLED HIMSELF

We are tired of being humble. Every few days some newspaper editor believes it is necessary to write about the immensity of the universe and of the infinitesimal size of man. And every editor seems to reach the same moral: that man should be humble.

After all it is a relative matter. In Lilliput, Gulliver was a giant, but in the land of the Brobdingnagians his sword was no match for a darning needle. And all the time he remained at the height of six feet.

The "A" brings with it a feeling of expansiveness and power. Recorder's grades, however, are not engraved on marble columns: should a "D" make one humble or merely angry with the instructor?

The tinniness of man is a precept. Is it necessary to dwell on it? Let us rather rank ourselves with Tamburlaine, who, on bad days placed himself "little lower than the angels," and on good days there was no telling.

This attitude will be pleasanter, and in either case, one doubts whether much comment will be stirred in celestial circles.—The Daily Californian.

DAILY SANTA CLAUS LETTER FROM UNIVERSITY KIDDIES

Dear Santa Claus,

As you know, I am a poor suffering University student and I surely do need your aid. The chief thing I want you to do is to spread the "flu" over the campus among the professors so that I can go to Sudan quicker.

And the other thing that I want is to get to wear the frat pin of that good-looking frat man that wears a dark suit and stands down on the corner in front of Scarbroughs. I suppose that is his hang-out as I always see him there. He already knows me because he whistles at me every time I cross in front of a red light.

And before I forget, don't let them change the hour of the University dance because even if I don't go to them I always use the fact that I was disturbed to get out of studying my lessons.

Very truly yours,
FLEW INZA.

BUMPING ABOUT WITH HERBERT HOOVER ON HIS GOOD WILL TOUR

VALPRAISO, Chile, Dec. 17.

(By Insane Press).—Ingredients of Chili cheered wildly when Herbert Hoover appeared to address them wearing his famous brown campaign derby, and greeted him with snatches of "The Sidewalks of New Concrete," all with so much gusto that the president-elect was forced to abandon any attempt to address the mob of admirers on his subject of "The Crying Demand for Garlic in Chili."

After autographing thousands of the finest chili bowls in the land, Hoover distributed arm-loads of good-will among the crowd, but owing to the fact that a consignment from the United States failed to arrive by the time the good-will rider, several thousand had to be turned away empty-handed.

A big reception for the president-elect was held in the Garden of the Andes, where the visitor made merry for a time and then returned to his ship in the harbor to spend a quiet evening alone.

—MIKE MORON.

THEATERS

WITH C. B. "MANHATTAN COCKTAIL." Fair, perhaps good. Especially Richard Arlen and photography. Two songs. And Vitaphone specialties. At the Queen.

"COMPANIONATE MARRIAGE." Good statement of the case for Judge Lindsey by Betty Bronson and Richard Walling. Walling is good. At the Majestic.

"ROMANCE OF THE UNDERWORLD." Slightly slow photodrama of thugs and a pretty girl, Mary Astor being the girl. John Boles also. At the Hancock.

"THE OPENING NIGHT." Enoch Arden brought up to date in theatrical setting. Claire Windsor and John Bowers. At the Crescent.

"WALKING BACK." Good younger stuff in spots but she doesn't walk back—she rides. Sue Carol, Richard Walling. At the Texas.

RICHARD ARLEN AT QUEEN IN COMEDY

Outside of the fact that it has a very, very silly story that has not only been told many, many times before but also here is told even a little worse than usual with insult to your intelligence added to injury by way of hokum on top of implausibility and notwithstanding the fact that it has a totally misplaced though certainly glorious prologue, "MANHATTAN COCKTAIL" is a picture which you ought to see and hear at the Queen theater if you would spend an hour or so's bright entertainment. The only really good things in it are Richard Arlen and some supreme photography, though Richard Arlen sails along just bursting with steam in a part worth too cramped for him, and the photography is used only sporadically in some impressions of New York, a la John Vassos, and of backstage. "Manhattan Cocktail," has, without a doubt, the best backstage shots I have ever seen in the movies. Nancy Carroll plays the part of a baby-face cutie trying to break her name into the bright lights for all that might be expected of her and sings her two songs, "Gotta Be Good" and "Another Kiss," in approved chorus girlie fashion. There isn't any talking besides the songs, but there are sounds and the musical score is occasionally marvelous. It's not a "hot" picture. The rest of the cast, of course, is rather adequate as old familiar types, the lecherous Broadway producer, his gad-about wife, and a young stage-struck Romeo being a little bit better than usually well done by Paul Lukas, Lilyan Tashman, and Danny O'Shea, respectively. And O'Shea ought to go up a step for his work here.

And now about Richard Arlen. He has his limitations, and one of them is not to dress up too much; his rump, for instance, is too big for a dress suit. But give him a youngster to play, a fine, lusty (not lustful, Freshman Ignatz—lusty) whole-hearted youth—perhaps with a beard on his face, like he played in "Beggars of Life," his best picture—and he's splendid. And thank gawd he's not the sleek and handsome type either. Rather, he's masculine with all of its implications. Married? Well, he doesn't look it. And he's the best juvenile in the business, to hear us tell it, so get the general idea that he's good.—C. B.

LINDSEY IDEA AT MAJESTIC

Judge Ben Lindsey seems to be better as a ways and means committee of one on marital happiness than he is as a movie supervisor after the manner of Elinor Glyn, for "Companionate Marriage," now showing its last times at the Majestic theater, didn't get over so big with me as a movie though as a preachment of the latest fashion in marital trimmings it is positively fine and should be seen as such by every blasted student on the campus who hasn't got the flu. Lindsey Himself appears in prologue to warm the hearts of the audience, and then Betty Bronson and Richard Walling proceed to show why companionate way is the only way, with the acting honors going to Walling. He's one of these juveniles with the bloom of youth still fresh upon him. You will recognize the tragic death of the little girl (June Nash, doll face) whose (conventional) marriage went on the rocks as the exact duplicate of the same in Elinor Glyn's "The Mad Hour," automobile wreck and all, down to the last gasp. And the Cactus beauty news reel is positively terrible.—C. B.

"The Book That's Different."

AT CRESCENT LAST TIMES

MORE KISSES. This time it's John Bowers and Claire Windsor in "THE OPENING NIGHT," a story of a theatrical tommy turned Enoch Arden with dramatics, now in its last showings at the Crescent theater.

MARY ASTOR AT HANCOCK

"Romance of the Underworld," showing now at the Hancock, is a slow-moving drama more of the under-dog than of the under-world. Mary Astor, once again in a role that suits her angelic type, struggles in detail from the place of laundress to the position of private secretary of a handsome, influential individual, John Boles, who promptly and in order forgets all business relations and equally in order does not inquire into her past before asking her out to dinner. Then at the marriage ceremony, whom should Mary see but—well, you'd never guess. Be content to know that much drama follows.

The fact that the picture lacks almost entirely the spectacular keeps it possibly from ranking along with a number of the more gaudy, so-called powerful dramas of the underworld that have been showered upon us recently. But I think that few of them have had more sympathetic interest than has this one. A capable cast largely accounts for this interest, and Mary Astor gives a remarkably thorough performance. Her appearance throughout the picture is excellently in keeping with her role—a tired, drawn, im-bittered little thing at first, then as happiness is sighted she trans-pires into her usual, beautiful self.

The picture is retarded by un-necessarily lengthy shots of sin-ister people looking sinister looks and thinking sinister thoughts. That, of course, is to give the underworld atmosphere, but I be-lieve that less tedious means could be used. Good character-ization is the best feature of the production; the cast includes Helene Lynch, John Boles and Ben Bard.—B. B.

'WALKING BACK' NOW AT TEXAS

The chief thing you'll like about "Walking Back," now play-ing at the Texas theater with Sue Carol as the leading attrac-tion, is Sue Carol herself. She's one of these S. Y. T.'s, I guess you've heard me say before, who can "make" a movie by just ap-pearing in the cast. Her hero this time is Richard Walling and this being one of his first feature roles, he doesn't do so big, looking in this one more like he ought to be at home slopping the hawks. But he manages to down a jug of

BESS OLSEN APPEARS IN RECITAL MONDAY

A piano recital of Bess Olsen, Kappa Alpha Theta, pupil of Mi-riam Gordon Landrum, was given Monday night in the studio parlors of the Leo School of Music.

Miss Olsen, who recently had a leading part in the Curtain Club play, "Saturday's Children," and was last year piano soloist for the Longhorn Band, was well received by her audience, and was assisted on the program by Emily Frances Key, violinist, pupil of Anita Storrs Gaedcke, and Hilda Constance Widen, soprano, pupil of Ralph Leo.

DR. ZOLEONIKI SPEAKS AT MENORAH SOCIETY MEETING

Dr. Martin Zoleoniki of El Paso was the principal speaker at the meeting of the Menorah Society Sunday night in the main dining room of the Driskill Hotel. The invocation was given by Rabbi Meyer of Austin. Herman Gloss-erman, president of the organiza-tion, acted as toastmaster for the evening. Dr. H. J. Ettlinger wel-comed the group, and Dr. H. Y. Benedict gave a brief talk on "Consolidation."

Dr. Zoleoniki's subject was "Be-ing a Jew."

"The greatest discoveries of the coming world are spiritual; religion and science are pathmates," said Dr. Zoleoniki, as he men-tioned outstanding personages of the century. "Although Jews have no creed, we are governed by two propelling thoughts: universal brotherhood and the conception of a progressive revelation."

A round table discussion fol-lowed the dinner which was given by the Patrons' League of the Menorah.

Miss Fannie E. Ratchford, Wrenn librarian, is still away from her work in the library on account of illness. Miss Ratch-ford has been sick since the mid-dle of last week, but is expected to return to the library today.

M'KNIGHT TO WORK HERE ON TEXAS POTASH

Ex-Student Discusses Development of Potash Fields

Mr. and Mrs. David McKnight, alumni of the University, have arrived in Austin for an indefinite stay while Mr. McKnight continues his work with Dr. E. P. Schoch of the bureau of industrial chemistry, on the development of Texas potash fields.

"We have 44,800 acres under lease in Midland County, and have been prospecting there since 1925," Mr. McKnight stated. "We have been watching the oil wells because, from the kind of strata found in this manner, we can tell what to expect in the way of potash."

"Heretofore, 96 per cent of this material has come from Germany and Alsace. Although there were small amounts to be found in Nebraska and California, we were practically dependent upon other countries. During the World War the supply was cut off, and this put the United States in a very difficult situation, but this deficit naturally afforded a stimulus for the search for potash in our own country."

"Potash has now been found in Midland County, and we are preparing to sink a shaft. The deposit is 2,000 feet down in the earth, and is in a layer eight feet thick. It seems to be spread out over practically the whole county."

"Our problem now is to find out how to refine the ore, and it is upon this problem that we are working in the laboratory. The deposit is composed of sulphate of calcium and magnesium with only 15.5 per cent of potash. We want to extract all that we have, and raise the percentage of the potash up to 45 per cent."

"The University owns practically all of Crane and Upton counties, which border on Midland. We have little hopes, however, of finding any considerable amounts of potash in the University territory. Experiments have been made there but to little avail."

"We expect to finish with this work in February, but will take longer if necessary," Mr. McKnight concluded.

Mr. McKnight was graduated from the University in 1925, and is now working on a master of science degree. Mrs. McKnight, who was formerly Miss Lee Hewitt, was in the University last year.

ROGERS DIARY IS ADDED TO GARCIA COLLECTION

The Garcia Library has recently added to its archives the diary of Samuel Rogers, written about 1880, containing reminiscences from childhood and giving many pictures of early Texas life during the days of the Republic, stated Mrs. Mattie Austin Hatcher, archivist. Mrs. Hatcher obtained the diary from Mrs. R. L. Sutherland of San Marcos, a daughter of Samuel Rogers. It was completed a few months before his death, and some parts are in his daughter's handwriting, as she was accustomed to helping him when he became very tired.

The document will have to be restored before it can be read thoroughly, as some of the leaves are fragmentary. A service that can be rendered by the University, stated Mrs. Hatcher, is the restoration and preservation of original documents which otherwise might be destroyed or lost. Many families in Texas have just such documents, giving interesting sidelights on the early history of the state, and it was through the chance visit of a student to the Garcia Library that Mrs. Hatcher heard of the Rogers diary, and made a visit to Mrs. Sutherland which resulted in the diary being placed in the Library.

From Mrs. Sutherland Mrs. Hatcher also learned that three of Rogers' daughters married three Sutherland brothers, descendants of Major George Sutherland, who likewise played an important part in the making of Texas history.
