

'Speech Shows Environment,' Says Linguist

Dr. Smith Traces Early Background Through 3 'Phones'

By GENE FARMER

"Through listening to a person's speech can the early environment of that individual be determined," said Dr. Henry Lee Smith Jr., Director of the School of Language Training of the Foreign Service Institute, Monday night.

Dr. Smith said that there are three steps in determining the early environment of one particular individual. They consist of denoting phones, allophones, and then phonemes in the speech.

The first step, finding phones in the individuals speech, denotes individual characteristics of pronouncing vowels. Dr. Smith showed the different pronunciations of vowels from different sections of the country by actually imitating the manners of speech. In one particular example, Dr. Smith used the Brooklynite pronunciation.

After the basic step of finding phones is accomplished, allophones are then found. Allophones are similar vowel occurrences in different words.

Finding phonemes was the final step. Phonemes may be drawn from the existing phones and allophones of the individual's speech. Phonemes are abstractions taken as a general characteristic of the individual's speech. From these general characteristics, the individual may be placed in a certain locale with which these characteristics coincide.

Dr. Smith is one of the best known American phoneticians and linguists. During the war he was in charge of the Army language program. Prior to that time he was a lecturer and radio star on the program "Where Are You From?"

In denoting the environment of an individual, Dr. Smith uses several words which act as a guide. Such words are merry, Mary, marry, about, house, on, off, water, greasy, and bird. By listening to an individual repeat the words, Dr. Smith can, to a certain degree, place the individual in a particular locale. In many cases, he can tell actual cities.

One particular trouble Dr. Smith finds in pointing out the different locales of people's early environments is the fact that people move from their birthplace and pick up new dialects. Even with that, Dr. Smith, in an impromptu session after his speech, located the birth locales of several members of the audience, many of whom had frequently moved.

As Work at Capitol Ends

Students Breathe Easier

By ROBERTA ANDREWS

When the Texas Legislature adjourns Wednesday, it will be not only the end of the thirty-day special session, but also the end of employment and a chance to return to regular class attendance for the thirteen University students who are members of the House of Representatives and the other students who work in the capitol building.

During the two remaining days, students will continue their part-time work, although some have responsibilities requiring them to be present the better part of a day. They are the members of the House of Representatives.

Having been elected by the people, they represent their home county or town, and can not let the people down. Most of them were able to arrange their schedule so as to be absent as little as possible. Others have found it is difficult trying to be two places at once—the capitol and classes.

Thirteen of the 150 representatives are University students, the majority of them law students. Whether it is that lawyer talent of talking, a way to serve their hometown while in school, or purely for experience's sake, they find the workings of the state interesting and helpful.

Law students include Representatives Raymond T. R. Tatum of Huntington, William B. Teague of Anson, William J. Craig of Roberts, and A. J. Rogers of Childress.

Also John E. Morrison of Quanah, Woodrow Bean of El Paso, James C. Sewell of Navarro, R. E. Blount of Howard, and Jack Hardee of Henderson.

Johnnie B. Rogers, Travis representative, is majoring in journalism. James T. Sparks of Sherman is an arts and sciences major. J. T. Rutherford of Odessa and Jim Norton of Nacogdoches are also representatives.

Bill Darden, second year law student, has the job of assistant clerk of House appropriations committee. Bill has been kept busy since this committee is one of the most important when taxes and money are under consideration.

John Wood, assistant sergeant-at-arms in the Senate, has a full-time job of keeping watch over the young boys serving as pages in the Senate. He tells them where they are supposed to be, and gives them any other necessary instructions. He says he gets a big kick out of "playing father." John also worked at the capitol in 1947 and 1949.

Faye Lloyd, journalism graduate and former associate editor of the Texan, is back at the University taking a few law courses while covering the special session for one of the Beaumont papers.

Students working as senators' messengers are Tommy Barnett, Charles Caldwell, Thomas Creighton, Radolfo Enderle, Robin Forrester, Ben Gould, Will A. Hadden, Elbert Hopper, Henry Johnson, and Frederick Johnson.

Also Fred Moore, Joe Tilley, Bob Womble, Homer Avila, Ivan Barber Jr., Paul E. Barber, Andrew Behringer, Ammy Casledin, Charles Craven, Robert C. Evans, and Jerry P. Fortenberry.

Cesare Galli, J. M. Howard, John H. Lovelace, Leroy W. Lott, W. J. McAnelly, Lorayne Morris, William F. Moeller, J. E. Miller Jr., and Robert J. Pesek are also messengers.

Also Dwight Randolph, Eugene T. Smith, Burk T. Summers, George Tait, Jack Turk, Kenneth Tieman, Sam Terry, Walter Wilcox, Bryson Whitlock, William B. White, Billy Hughes, Bernard R. Bose, and Kenneth Loffing.

Salaries for those working part time in the Senate are $2 a day for messengers and $3 a day for assistant sergeant-at-arms.

Assistant sergeant-at-arms are Jack Antoine, L. L. Bowman, Franklin Jeffers, Terry Keith, Jack Mathews, Lamar Neill, Barefoot Sanders, and Curtis Thompson.

Also Charles Casey, Glen Randolph, Ralph E. Reiner, Joe Bob Gay, Harry Junge, and E. H. Frigg. Richard McVay is employed as a guard outside the capitol. He is sponsored by one of the senators.

Those who work in the House as secretaries of representatives are Mary Gambrell and Elroy Howard for Miller B. Walker, Frances Sharp and Weldon Holcomb for A. J. Rogers, Betty Jean Cook and Jennell Kelly for Floyd Bradshaw, and Jeanine Eminian for Cloyd D. Young. Jeanine also writes stories for the Houston Post. This is by no means a complete list.

Secretaries in the House are paid every two weeks on a seven-day-a-week basis. The regular pay is $7.50 a day, but most of the students work on a part-time basis.

John Greer, Jo Mac Walston, and Jim Mays are employed as assistant sergeants-at-arms in the House.

Bill King, first year law student, works in the contingent expense office. H. K. Allen is in the calendar clerk's office of the House.

Ronnie Dugger is reporting the capitol happenings for International News Service.

House Okays Funds For Cancer Hospital

University scientists experimenting with atomic energy as a possible remedy for cancer were given a $1,350,000 boost by the Legislature Monday.

The house passed the appropriation for the M. D. Anderson Cancer Research Hospital at Houston.

The appropriation for the University's M. D. Anderson Hospital for Cancer Research at Houston was passed by the House, 110-2, and sent to Governor Shivers.

The measure now needs only the Governor's signature to become law.

He submitted the appropriation as emergency legislation.

Other loose ends were bundled up Monday as the Legislature plunged headlong toward Wednesday quitting time.

A compromise on the telephone co-op bill that kept the House in session more than twenty-three hours Friday and Saturday was agreed upon by both chambers and sent to Governor Shivers.

Ten amendments were added in the Senate to the House-passed proposal. They prohibit duplication of the federally-financed co-ops where "reasonably adequate" telephone service exists; a provision calling for "liberal interpretation" of the bill by the courts was slashed; and members of the co-op boards of directors are required to be members of the co-ops.

The Senate version passed the upper house, 27-0. It was returned to the lower house and received 120-2 approval, and was forwarded to the chief executive's office.

A change in one of the five new sex crime laws caused only four to receive final approval in the Senate and submission to the Governor for signature.

A Senate amendment was appended to a measure establishing a $200 penalty for exposure. It was then returned to the House for concurrence.

Representative Peppy Blount of Big Spring, a University legislator, withdrew a bill to establish a Board of Examiners for nurses of tubercular patients to "grant them recognition for an otherwise thankless job." Opposition on the basis of "setting up another board" caused the withdrawal.

No official reason was given for the postponement, but Associated Press reports say that "the action was taken to give Associate Justice Douglas more time before returning to the bench."

Justice Douglas has been on his Arizona ranch recovering from injuries suffered when he was thrown from a horse.

Hazlewood Is Troubled With Colonels

By the Associated Press

Governor-for-the-day Grady Hazlewood grinned and declared Monday morning: "By gosh, this office is gonna be run right today."

The senator from Amarillo, who is acting lieutenant governor, took over at 9 o'clock when Governor Allan Shivers crossed the state border for a visit in Reynosa, Mexico. It's his first time in the Governor's chair.

In a message from the Governor to the Senate he declared: "A serious shortage of blanks for honorary Colonel commissions faces the Governor's office. Only two are left. Therefore, I, Acting Governor of Texas, ask the Senate for an appropriation of $5,000 for more blanks."

He was worried for a minute lest the Senate take him seriously. But he had no worry when the message was read to the Senate; they roared with laughter. And did nothing about it.

Mrs. Shivers has asked Mr. and Mrs. Hazlewood to spend Monday night in the Governor's Mansion in the Sam Houston Room.

State Bar Exams To Be March 7-8

State bar examinations will be given March 7-8 in the House and Senate Chambers, H. P. Steidle, clerk of the Supreme Court, said Monday.

Mr. Steidle said the location for the examinations will have to be changed if the Legislature is still in session at that time.

Applicants will be interviewed Monday, March 6, to check eligibility.

Exams will be given on wills and estates, trusts, equity, and real property on Tuesday morning, March 7.

Corporations, criminal law, negotiable instruments and constitutional and administrative law will be covered Tuesday afternoon.

Topics for Wednesday morning, March 8, are contracts, agency and partnership, evidence, and pleading, and practice.

Torts, conflict of laws, legal ethics, domestic relations, and personal property are scheduled for Wednesday afternoon.

Custom Retards Advance Of Negro, Ashbury Says

By TOM CATLOW

Showing additions to American culture by the Negro, the Rev. H. D. Ashbury, professor of sociology at Samuel Huston College, pointed to the postage stamp glue made by Washington Carver, which "many Americans lick every day."

"The American Negro Versus an American Custom" was the subject of Mr. Ashbury's speech before a regular meeting of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People Monday evening in the YMCA.

Mr. Ashbury said that he did not intend to try to solve the race relations problem in one evening, but merely planned to give a background, or history, of the Negro race in its "strife for recognition."

By giving a short Biblical reference to the situation of Jesus when Pontius Pilate condemned him by a custom, Mr. Ashbury drew a parallel between Negroes of the United States and Christ.

Mr. Ashbury gave an historical sketch of the Negro from his heritage as an "agricultural expert" to the vast achievements of Washington Carver.

"In studying the contributions of the Negro to American culture, we cannot say that Negroes did not contribute years of agricultural background which they had learned before being brought to America as slaves" said Mr. Ashbury.

Indicating that the Negroes have made vast progress in some fields of science, Mr. Ashbury pointed to the postage stamp, for which Washington Carver created the glue.

The Negro professor emphasized the contributions made by Negroes during the revolutionary war, the civil war, and both world wars. He showed that there were about 3,000 Negroes in the American Revolution.

"America found no fault with the Negro when he was working and fighting for America, but custom compels his discrimination" said Mr. Asbury.

"Negro women have also taken their place among those who have distinguished themselves, for it was Mrs. Sojourner Truth who struck out for American women in the suffrage problem" Mr. Asbury continued.

Union Council Asks For Expansion Vote

By RONNIE DUGGER

A campus-wide vote on expansion of the Texas Union with funds provided by a compulsory student fee was called for Monday afternoon by the Union Expansion Council. Student approval is required under terms of a resolution passed by the Board of Regents Saturday.

Expressing "keen disappointment" at the decision of the Board to ask the Legislature to authorize the program, the council unanimously agreed to ask the Student Assembly to set a referendum on the date of the general student election April 26.

Berry Boyd, assemblyman from BBA school and a member of the council, said that he will propose the referendum to the Assembly.

The referendum issue tentatively would be stated:

"Would you favor an expanded, modernized student union, financed by a compulsory student fee levied after the expansion is complete?"

President T. S. Painter said Monday night, "I should be very much interested in student reaction to a compulsory fee to amortize the cost of the Union's expansion."

"The only pressure we have left is student opinion," Barefoot Sanders, council chairman, declared. "Although other courses were open to them, the Regents requested the Legislature to pass enabling legislation on the compulsory fee."

"As a result," Sanders said, "the entire issue will be delayed a year or more. The Legislature can't take action until February of next year at the earliest."

The Council considered requesting the Assembly to call the referendum for March 15, the date of the student vote admitting Negroes to the University, but members agreed on the spring election date for these two reasons:

1. Sponsors of the Negro referendum proposal indicated at the last meeting that they did not want any other issues submitted on March 15, and the Assembly upheld this stand by consistent votes.

2. The Union Expansion issue, the council felt, is a distinct question which can best be submitted at a general election, when candidates will have an opportunity to express themselves.

"The only chance we have is a student referendum," John Fry observed. "We have to bring it home more forcefully to the Regents that the students are hepped up about a better Union." Fry seconded Dugger's motion to call the referendum.

Sanders said that at least two other courses were open to the Regents:

1. Levy the fee and amortize the cost of the expansion directly with resulting revenues.

2. Levy the fee and amortize the expansion cost out of registration fees, replacing the drain on that source with the union fees.

"We've been able to find no case in the country where the courts have not upheld the right of a governing board to levy a compulsory fee," Sanders said.

The Regents over the week end passed a resolution requesting the Legislature to authorize them to levy such a fee, subject to the approval of the students in a referendum.

Half a Loaf Beats Experts' Forecast

The season comes to a close for the 1950 Texas Longhorn basketball team at Aggrieland Tuesday night.

And, though a lot of folks might say that it's been a poor one, we kinda like to think of it as a pretty good year.

The Steers opened the year as definite underdogs, and there was much doubt—even in this corner—that they would win nearly as many games as they have.

It's very true that their present record of 12-11 isn't one of the best records ever turned in by a Jack Gray-coached team.

But it hasn't been very often that Gray has had such an inexperienced squad. Only Tom Hamilton, who is closing out a four-year career with his best season, could have been considered a veteran. Pancho Womack had been a letterman, and Bill Huffman, Bobby Joe Clark, and George Cobb had played some, but not much.

Though not consistent, sophomores Joe Ed Falk, Jim Dowies, Don Klein, and Dickie Harris all had moments of glory—the most memorable being Falk's last-second basket that beat A&M, and Dowies' 16 points against Rice Saturday.

And inexperience wasn't all that hurt. The loss of Bill McGee after the first 16 games because of scholastic difficulty hurt plenty. He was the second highest scorer on the team at that time, with 153 points.

The Longhorns gained splits with TCU and SMU, and will do at least that well against A&M. They defeated Rice twice, and gave Baylor two hard games, though losing both tilts in Conference play. The only team to handle them without trouble was Arkansas.

In non-Conference games they defeated Baylor and Alabama at Oklahoma City, and handed Arizona one of its three defeats.

Yes sir, though a victory tonight would give them only a 13-11 mark, we'd say they have enjoyed a pretty fair season.

Watson Moves North

While in Houston this past week end for the Rice-Texas game, we got to see part of the Houston Open.

Bob Watson, former Longhorn star and last year's Conference champion, now playing out of Wichita Falls, is doing all right for himself even though he hasn't nosed out Cary Middlecott, Jimmy Demaret, Sammy Sneed, et al, for any top honors.

As a matter of fact he hasn't won much money at all. His "plunder" of $65 for gaining a five-way tie for 18th among the pros at Houston was the first time he has finished in the money.

Yet, his 289 finish was better than that of such men as Dick Metz, Dave Douglas, and Bill Nary. He tied with Johnny Palmer, Otto Greiner, Lew Worsham, and Jim Turnesa.

The Houston Open also helped even more to make Bob a big-time golfer. As of April 1 he will be assistant pro at White Plains, N. Y. His boss will be Jackie Burke Jr., the Houston boy, who has been tagged the greatest youngster in the pro ranks today by Ben Hogan and Jimmy Demaret. Burke signed Watson at Houston.

Notes on Ex-Steers

Tommy Landry, Bobby Coy Lee, and George McCall, ex-gridmen, and Rex Travis, ex-baseball player, were following Watson around the Brae Burn course in Houston Saturday.

Vilby White, steady cager the last few years at Texas, and Chick Zomlefer, all-Conference shortstop in 1946-48 and 1948 basketball player, were on hand for the Texas-Rice game.

Zomlefer, property of the Cleveland Indians, will report to Wilkes-Barre of the Class A Eastern League this year. In 1948, shortly after signing, Chick was "beamed" while playing for Oklahoma City, and never reached top form that year.

He hit .293 at Spartanburg, S. C., of the Class B Tri-State League last summer.

8 Champions Crowned In 'Mural Basketball

Five Class A and three B league champions were determined Monday night in intramural basketball in Gregory Gym.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon easily eliminated Sigma Phi Epsilon, 33-17, for the league D title in class A fraternity ball. Cyrush Wagner and Bill Archer passed SAE with 12 and 11 points respectively.

Lambda Chi Alpha annexed league C in Class A fraternity division by defeating Phi Kappa Psi, 31-24, with F. I. Brooner pitching in 10 markers for the victors. Bill Putman of the Phi Psi's took individual scoring honors for the night with 20 points.

Galveston Club knocked Czech Club out of the championship running with a 30-24 victory for the league title in the Class A club division. Ray Womack and Leon Hernandez paced Galveston with 10 points each.

Little Campus Dorm slipped by the Rinky Dnks, 26-24, for the Class A league title in the dorm division in a protested contest.

Baptist Student Union captured the other Class A league crown by outlasting AIME, 2-19. David Hayes paced BSU with eight points.

Phi Delta Theta defeated Sigma Chi, 18-11, for the class B league 3 crown in fraternity division. Ed Randall and John Madden hit five points each for the victors.

Phi Gamma Delta edged Sigma Alpha Epsilon, 28-26, for the league 1, Class B fraternity title. George Sladezyk and Ty Cobb paced the Phi Gams with nine and eight points respectively.

Aggies Host Steers In Season Finale

By LEE CRUSE

A team that wasn't given a chance by many of winning much of anything but the sympathy of their partisan fans—Jack Gray's Longhorns—wind up their season Tuesday night at College Station against Texas A&M.

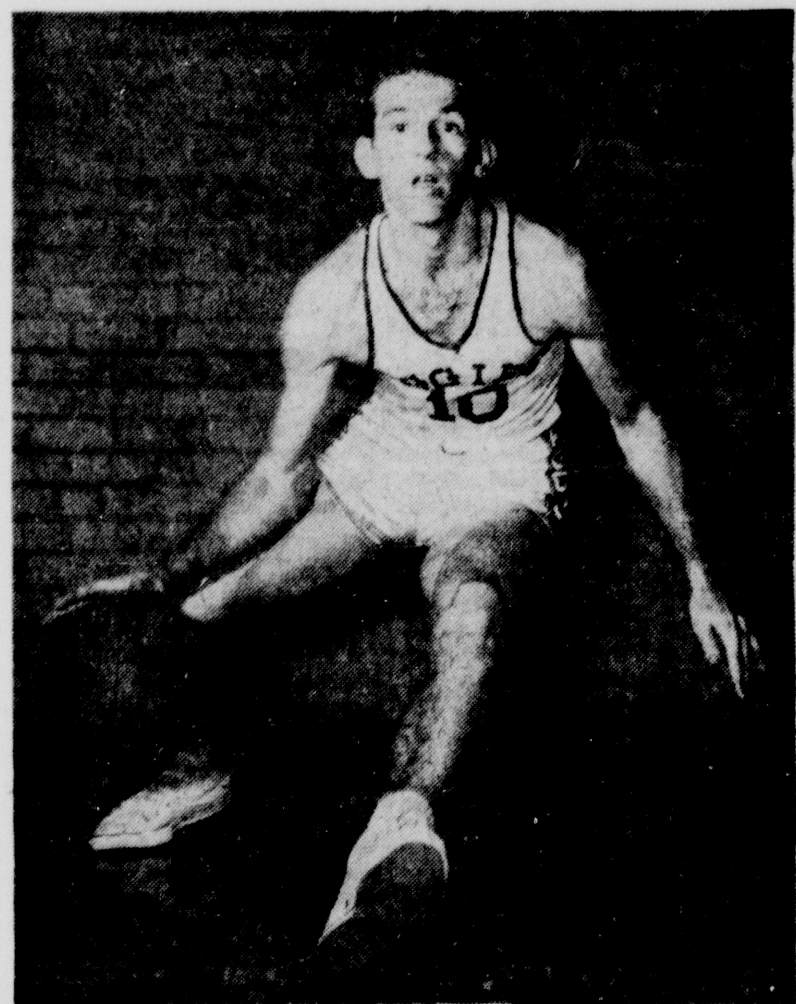

Early in the season you would have been considered a sucker by many if you had accepted a "sure thing bet" that Texas would win half of its games.

The Longhorns can do no worse than a .500 season's record. Texas has a 12-11 mark for the season and 5-6 in Conference play.

Three Longhorns—Tom Hamilton, Bill Huffman, and Bobby Joe Clark—wear the orange and white basketball togs for the last time Tuesday night.

Yearlings Close With Fish Tonight

In a preliminary game at College Station Tuesday night, the Texas Yearling basketball team will close a successful season against the A&M Fish at 6 o'clock.

So far this season the Yearlings have won eight games while losing but two. Among their victims are these same Aggie Fish. Texas stopped the A&M Freshmen at Austin, 51-36, in January.

However, the Fish could prove a much more formidable foe this time than the earlier score might indicate. In that game, the Fish were cold, hitting only 21 per cent of their field goal attempts. The Yearlings held them to only four goals from the field during the first half.

Also, Aggie teams always seem more potent when playing before their spirited fellow students at Aggrieland.

Coach Marshall Hughes is expected to start the same five boys that opened Saturday's victorious performance at Houston when the Yearlings topped the Rice Blue Bolts, 55-46.

Little Leon Black, the all-Stater from Martin's Mill who jumps higher than other team's big boys, is sure to be at his guard post. Black gained the admiration of all the fans at Houston with his all-around play. He led the Yearlings with 14 points in their previous victory over the Fish.

George Sealing, Saturday's high-point man with 22 points, is slated for the other guard position.

Freddie Whillock will be at center, while Cecil Morgan and Kelton Brewer should be the forwards. Wayne Ogden, Dick McCoy, Dick Thurman, Perry Hudel, and Ruby Gonzales may also see action.

Leroy Miksch, tall boy from Waelder who scored 14 points against the Yearlings in Austin, will be at his center post for the Fish.

Other starters are due to be Max Montegut and Don Heft, forwards, and Don Garrett and Joe Guldage, guards.

Hamilton Leads Scorers With 185

The 1950 Southwest Conference basketball race will be history after Tuesday night's three games.

The Arkansas Razorbacks—tied Baylor and SMU for the lead with seven victories and four losses—meet TCU at Fort Worth. Baylor and the SMU Mustangs tangle at Waco, and Texas plays A&M at College Station.

A victory for Arkansas would mean a title tie with the winner of the Baylor-SMU battle. A TCU victory would give the Mustang-Bear winner an undisputed crown.

The Arkansas-TCU tilt was originally scheduled Monday night but was moved to Tuesday by the Conference officials.

Joe McDermott of Rice leads Tom Hamilton of Texas by five points in the race for season's highest scorer—350 to 245.

Cayuga, Bishop Open Cage Meet

Only one team will carry an undefeated record into the Thirtieth Annual State High School basketball tournament to be held in Gregory Gym Thursday through Saturday.

Cayuga, a small East Texas town making its first appearance in the tournament, has a record of 46 straight victories. Cayuga meets Bishop in a Class B game Thursday morning at 8:45 o'clock, opening the tournament.

Three other entries in Class B have suffered only one loss each. They are Waelder (40-1, Marfa (22-1), and Bishop (16-1).

The best Class A record is held by Birdville of Fort Worth, which has won 29 of 31 starts. This is the first trip to the tournament for Birdville.

The best record in Class AA is 29-3 held by Corpus Christi. Ten of twenty-four best teams are coming to the tournament for the first time. New comers in addition to Cayuga, Bishop, and Birdville are Sweetwater, Early of Brownwood, Warren, Ballinger, Forrester, Teague and South San Antonio.

Marfa of Class B is returning for the fifth straight year.

Texas City, defending Class AA champion, is the only 1949 king returning.

Bob Raley, a 1949 ineligible, was moved from left half to fullback. Instead of game condition scrimmage Saturday afternoon, there will be a 90-minute demonstration for the benefit of high school coaches and players here for the State basketball meet.

Coach Cherry will poll the grid squad Tuesday night and let the players decide who are the best and second-best defensive teams. The first eleven will be the Whites in the spring training finale March 11 and the second eleven will be the Oranges. The coaches will complete the two teams from the remaining members of the squad.

'Figaro,' March Production, Once Was Banned in Paris

'The Marriage of Figaro,' the three-act opera to be produced March 7, 8, 10, and 11 in Hogz Auditorium by University music and drama students, was once banned from the Parisian stage for political reasons.

But that was more than 160 years ago. It revealed too much of the life of the nobility, thought Paris officials. France was on the verge of the revolution that came later.

However, Marie Antoinette, the carefree queen, liked the opera so well that she managed to go more or less incognito to private rehearsals.

Paul A. Hickfang and Glenn Dowlan will sing the leading role of Figaro. This Figaro was the barber of Seville in the first comedy of the trilogy. He has come to wait on Count Almaviva, played by Bob Cantrell, and the county has provided that Figaro's bride, Susanna, wait on the Countess Rosina.

Susanna will be sung by Rosalia Crockett and Marjorie Snelling, and the role of the Countess Rosina will be taken by Helen Blount and Elsie Dvorak.

All might be well, but the count is enamored of Susanna. Then Cherubino, played by March Stuttle and Janie Andrews, falls in love with the countess. Two mischief makers, Dr. Bartolo, sung by James Fletcher and Bob Burkart, and Don Basilio, sung by Bill Reynolds, busy themselves in confusing the situation further. One episode piles on top of another until the erring count is glad to promise he will be a faithful husband. Other singers in the cast are Jeanne Widergren, Jean Hank, Laura Mae Cullen, Jane Switzer, Boh Jordhal, Dick Turbyfill, T. H. Worthington, and Bill McFarlane.

gress of America could go forward, unhampered by any custom."

After his speech, Mr. Asbury invited comment and questioning. Dale Higbee, graduate psychology major asked "Do you think that the present attitude of glorifying the past history (of the Negro) is healthy for Negroes?"

"Yes, the attitude is good because Negroes in America do not realize what they have given and this attitude will give them a better outlook on their own contributions to America," Mr. Asbury answered.

Following Mr. Asbury's speech, members of the association elected new officers. They were Bill Shearer, president; Howard Linnard,

'Rights' Leaflet Distributed by Local NAACP

The University chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People distributed booklets and leaflets setting forth their Civil Rights program in front of the Union Monday.

The program of the University chapter of NAACP, "the major civil rights organization in the country," falls under three main goals.

"1. Immediate admittance of all qualified Negroes to the University of Texas on the same basis as regular students.

"2. Hiring of Negro professors and staff members by the University on the same basis as all other applicants.

"3. Abolition of all forms of white supremacy and racist expression.

"4. After Negroes are admitted to the University, the fight for their full integration and participation in all campus activities and against discrimination in University residences.

"5. Immediate addition of a course in Negro history and other courses presenting a truthful picture of the Negro people in America, as has long been needed."

The campus chapter has advocated these principles at the University for over three years, President Bill Shearer said.

"We have forty members on the campus now, but we expect to have many more after our membership campaign," said Shearer.

Faculty sponsors of the NAACP are Dr. C. E. Ayres, professor of economics, and Dr. G. C. M. Engerrand, professor of anthropology.

The organization meets every two weeks.

Tryouts Today For Melodrama

Civic Theater Plans Crossroads

University students who wish to emote in the old-fashioned way may audition for the Austin Civic Theater's second melodrama of the season, "Dirty Work at the Crossroads."

Try-outs will be held Tuesday night at 8 o'clock in the Colonial Room of the Driskill Hotel. Ten characters make up the cast of the gay-nineties play.

"The Civic Theater buried 'The Drunkard' but we are fast reviving its successor," reports Mel Pape, director.

"Unlike Squire Cribbs of our last melodrama, the villain of the new production has a henchman to aid him in his dastardly deeds. Or maybe we should say henchwoman, for it's his wife," explains Mr. Pape.

Besides the sinister pair there is also Widow Lovelace, whom the villain poisons, and her lovely and pure daughter, Nellie.

Adam Oakheart, the hero, is for a time under the spell of the villain, but he recovers in time to rescue Nellie from the standard on-rushing train.

Anyone who is interested in production work should also attend tryouts and sign up for either sets, lighting, costumes, house, tickets, concessions, or properties.

Song, dance, or comic specialists may call Mr. Pape at 6-0541 for tryout dates for entire acts.

Opening date for the spring melodrama is tentatively set for March 30.

Why Be Lawyers, Says Manford to Pre-Laws

"Why anyone would want to be a lawyer is beyond me," said Durwood Manford, speaker of the House of Representatives.

Mr. Manford told the Pre-Law Society Wednesday night, that lawyers are the most overworked and underpaid men of any profession and said that the general public has no conception of the workings of the legislature.

Problems confronting the Legislature were explained to the group.

Former Student of Payne Filling Prof's Place Here

Alexander Wyckoff, new guest professor of drama, is substituting this semester for B. Iden Payne, Shakespearean expert who is on leave to direct "King John" at Carnegie Tech in Pittsburgh.

Mr. Payne will return March 20 to begin work on "The Merchant Venice" at the University. Mr. Wyckoff, a student of Mr. Payne's at Carnegie Tech in 1919, is teaching Dramatic Criticism and Period Play. He has been associated with the drama field both professionally and as a teacher.

After finishing his work at Carnegie Tech, he joined the faculty there. Later he was associated with the University of Michigan where he was a faculty associate of Loren Winship, associate professor of drama. He studied history and drama at Columbia University and lighting and color of stage sets in Munich and France.

Mr. Wyckoff was associated with Walter Hartwig, pioneer in the field of summer theaters, and built a highly technical theater at Ogunquit, Maine, which set a pattern for summer-theater structure.

Shifting from sets and technical work, he served as head of the department of pure design at Philadelphia Museum School of Industrial Art for ten years.

In the war, Mr. Wyckoff worked with graphic designs on petroleum in Washington. "I thought that by putting the theater and statistics together, reasons could be made clear why petroleum was needed. We succeeded in making people realize the necessity of petroleum," he explained.

Mr. Wyckoff's last professional work was "Twelfth Night" in New York. In addition to summer-theater work, he does advertising.

Orchosis Prepares For April Show

Orchosis members are working out dance routines for their annual contemporary dance program April 26 and 27 in the dance studio of Women's Gym.

An abstract dance done to Stan Kenton's "Fugue for Rhythm Section" will open the program.

Lee Allen will play the murderer in the first of two long ballets, "The Legend of MacDowell County," revealing an old man who murdered his wife in a fit of anger.

A second ballet, "Celebrity Comes to Town," tells how a celebrity, invited to a festival in a small Texas town, diverts the attention of girls away from their boy friends.

Mrs. Armatine Douglass is Orchosis sponsor. Miss Gloria Ragus is assistant sponsor.
