Communist Merchant Vessels Sunk in Submarine Attack Following Almeria Bombing

Conjointly with a warning issued by France and Great Britain to Hitler that his acts of reprisal against Spanish Loyalists may plunge Europe into war, reports from Valencia announced "foreign submarines" had sunk two Spanish merchant vessels and attacked a third. About 200 lives were reported lost.

The Franco-British joint demarche, following a day-long consultation between foreign offices in Paris and London, was precipitated by the destructive bombing by German warships of Almeria on the Southern Spanish coast.

Proposals of establishment of a neutral board of inquiry to fix the blame for the bombing of the German "pocket battleship," Deutschland, which was held responsible for the German reprisal, also indicated by France and Britain.

LONDON, May 31.—(INS)—While Great Britain strove to forestall the international conflict threatened as a result of the bombing, Germany and Italy this afternoon officially withdrew from the Committee for Non-Intervention in Spain.

Both governments advised the committee they would no longer participate in deliberations of the committee until they receive full guarantees there will be no repetition of the Deutschland incident.

The "pocket battleship" of the Nazi fleet was bombed and set afire by Spanish Loyalist planes in the Balearic. Twenty-three sailors were killed and scores wounded.

Joachim Von Ribbentrop, German ambassador here, notified the committee of Germany's withdrawal.

In his letter, he asserted the

Court Bill Pro Ideas Changed

Justice's Resignation
Gives More Liberal
Aspect to Supreme Body

WASHINGTON, May 31 (INS)—With opposition leaders boasting of impending victory, administration spokesmen today found a lessening enthusiasm in their own ranks for President Roosevelt's Supreme Court bill.

The retirement Wednesday of Associate Justice Willis Van Devanter and the Supreme Court's recent liberal decisions on the Social Security Act served to dampen the ardor of administration senators for passage of the presidential bill. A sign of the break within administration ranks was given by Senator Pope (D) of Idaho. He came out heartily two months ago for the bill giving the President authority to name six new justices to the high court. Today Pope said:

"The main reason for the President's bill was to have a court that would not obstruct the program for social justice. I have a feeling that since a majority of the court has adopted a constitutional view that is sensible, it makes the President's proposal less necessary."

"If we adopted it, it would be all right, but there is not the compelling necessity for it that there was, parts of the bill, dealing with lower courts, are still highly desirable."

This came in direct contrast to Pope's original endorsement of the bill. Then he argued that the President's social program would fail unless the conservative majority on the court was overthrown. He pointed out that a change of sentiment on the court itself had eliminated this obstacle to the New Deal.

There was no immediate prospect of action on the President's bill.

Sardine Out With Humor And Pictures

The Sardine for 1937, fifteenth annual yearbook of the Scottish Rite Dormitory, was released Monday. The book is dedicated to the girls of S.R.D.

The first section of the Sardine is devoted to the foreword and includes pictures of the front entrance to S.R.D. and a section of the dining room during lunch. Individual pictures of the directors, business manager of the dormitory, and members of the S.R.D. staff, follow the dedication in the first section.

The next section includes individual pictures of each resident of S.R.D. during the year. Members of the honor societies, and honor roll who are residents of S.R.D. are also listed. A group picture of the house council of which Naomi Childers is president, concludes this section.

Snapshots of the girls at work, rest, and play, mostly play, make up the next section of the Sardine. This is one of the favorite sections of the book since it is that section which will bring back

Wesleyans Attend Summer Meetings

Leaders of the Wesley Foundation are planning to attend several conferences this summer. Carroll Moon, assistant director, has announced.

The Methodist Young People's Conference for the South Central Texas District, of which Austin is a member, will be held at Kerrville during July. About twelve of the members of the Foundation are planning to attend. The Young People's Conference for the Southern United States will be held during August at Mount Sequoyia, Fayetteville, Ark. Moon and five or six of the student members will attend.

Several members will also attend the Y.M.-Y.W.C.A. convention in June at Hollister, Mo.

Wanda Graham and her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Graham, are driving to New York City this week, where Miss Graham will study dancing during the summer with Ted Shawn.

George V Notes Wester's Story

Having her news story read and acknowledged by the King of England is an honor achieved by Miss Lillian Wester, instructor in Romance languages in the University.

At the time of the death of Edward VII, in 1910, Miss Wester was a reporter for the Mexico Herald in Mexico City. The British minister arranged a special mourning service in Christ's Church, Episcopal, in Mexico City, and Miss Wester was sent to cover it.

"A month later," Miss Wester recalls, "the British minister asked me to come by. He had a letter from the prime minister, Earl Grey, stating that the new king, George V, had received the account I wrote and was duly grateful for the minister's action."

Research Post Given Dr. Painter

Dr. T. S. Painter, professor of zoology, was appointed as research professor of The University of Texas for 1937-38 at a meeting in Galveston Monday. Dr. E. H. Sellards, professor of geology, held the position this year and Dr. R. H. Griffith, professor of English, last year.

Each year the Regents appoint a member of the faculty of the main University on the basis of important achievement in research or for distinguished work in the arts. The person to whom this is given is relieved of one semester's teaching work in order to spend a considerable time in research. At the end of the year he gives a series of lectures of general and technical interest embodying the results of his research, and the work is published.

Since 1916 Dr. Painter has been with the University. He received his bachelor of arts degree in 1908 from Roanoke College and his master of arts degree from Yale in 1909. He later entered Harvard Medical School. In 1913 he did his first outstanding work in cytology.

He was awarded an honorary doctor of science degree by Yale at the 25th graduation exercises of that university June 17, 1936, as a result of his important discovery on the pattern of genes three years before and subsequent work. The degree is the highest honor a professor of science of the University has ever received and it is one of the highest honors that can be received. At the same time the degree was conferred on Dr. Painter, eleven other persons received honorary degrees, among them being Sinclair Lewis, the author, who was awarded an honorary doctor of letters degree.

In April, 1937, Dr. Painter was appointed as one of the advisory members of the Richmond Bicentennial Commission in Virginia. He was a member of the committee on students' use of English in 1935-36. At the annual meeting of the Technicians' Institute of the State Clinical Laboratory May 24, 25, and 26 on the campus, he spoke on "Recent Advances in the Cytology of Genetics." He is listed in the American Men of Science.

Madame Margarita Slaviansky d'Agreffe, conductor and teacher of voice, has opened a studio of voice at 2330 Guadalupe Street, directly across from Hogg Memorial Auditorium.

Mme. Slaviansky's chorus presented a concert under her direction earlier this season. The concert was under the auspices of the University cultural entertainment committee. She has been connected with the music department of Southwestern University, Georgetown.

Mme. Slaviansky's father was Dimitri Alexandrovitch Agreffe, singer and choral director. Prince Agreffe, because of his royal birth, entered politics, but he left the court of the Czar for music.

Prince Agreffe decided to record the folk music of Russia which until that time had been looked upon as absolutely without merit.

Budge Takes Fourth Straight Davis Victory Over Australia

Bromwich Stops U. S.'s Straight Sets

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., May 31. (INS)—Don Budge, American bell-weather, won America's fourth straight victory over Australia in the North American Davis Cup Zone finals by defeating John Bromwich by 6-2, 6-3, 5-7, 6-1, Bromwich coming from behind in the third set to break America's string of straight sets at eleven.

The 18-year-old made a surprising showing, all told, forcing Budge to play his best tennis and then, at least in one set, topping it. Budge, in spite of the excellence of his game, wasn't getting his first cannon-ball service in with any great regularity but, when he did Bromwich got a surprising number of them back. In fact, he proved one of the best men of the generation in hitting a ball for clean aces while on the run.

He so upset Budge that the latter lost five services and committed four double faults.

However, having at last gained for Australia a set victory, Bromwich was an easy victim to Budge's speed and accuracy in the fourth set.

Nevertheless he gave a surprising reversal of his exhibition in losing to Betsy Grant in straight sets on Saturday.

Local Mat Card Has O. U. Star

A man who helped the University of Oklahoma Sooners lace the Longhorn football team by the score of 9 to 0 in 1933, the first time the Oklahoma aggregation had defeated Texas in more than a decade, will return to Texas soil Friday night, but he will be wearing wrestling trunks instead of football trousers.

On his victorious invasion of Texas in October of that year in the traditional battle at Dallas, the football player, Ellis Bashara, did not wear football trousers either. The Sooners shocked the Dallas fans by appearing in tennis shorts and knee pads—attempting to offset the usual hot weather at that time of the year.

The arena is constructed of new material throughout, and will seat approximately 2,000 people.

Mr. Edwards will have two other bouts on his "wrestling revival" card Friday night besides the Goon Henry-Ellis Bashara bout. In the semi-final, Tom O'Mahoney will meet Karl Davis; Dough Wycoff, also a former football star, and Angelo Cistoldi will meet in the curtain raiser. Each weighs more than 225 pounds.

The bouts will start at 8:30 o'clock.

Judiciary Committee, may not complete their work until the end of this week. Senator O'Mahoney (D) of Wyoming, one of those helping write the report, said: "I am hoping the report will be completed and presented to the Senate this week."

Administration leaders, meanwhile, showed no desire to call up the bill. They anticipated a long-drawn out debate unless some plan is adopted to eliminate discussion and obtain a prompt vote. At any rate, they were hastening final action on all appropriation bills and other legislative matters urged by the President.

This course could lead to one of two goals. It could be designed to clear the path for early adjournment without action on the court bill or to clear the path for a finish fight on it.

Tarlton, Frosh Star, Is Best Waterman

Bob Tarlton, freshman swimming star, ran up the greatest number of points ever made in the annual Best Waterman trophy contest, to win the silver statuette for 1937, Tex Robertson, swimming coach, announced yesterday. He finished the seven-event test last week, gathering a total of 658 points, bettering four conference records.

Tarlton's all-around aquatic ability brought him a good margin of victory over the other entries, which included Walter Hoffrichter, Jack Nendell, Adolph Kiefer, Rollin Baker, and Mike Sojka, all Longhorn stars.

Tarlton will be eligible for varsity competition for the next three years, and Robertson expects him to be tops in free style in the conference, already having established himself as one of the most promising stars when he made lower than conference times in the 50, 100, 200-yard free style, and 100-yard back stroke. He missed bettering the only other conference event on the program, the 100-yard breast stroke, by less than 2 seconds.

His record follows:

Event	Time	Points
50-yard free	24.0	95
100-yard free	56.2	96
100-yard back	1:05.5	97.5
200-yard free	2:08.1	100
100-yard breast	1:13.0	88
Distance plunge—49' 4"		89
Diving, 6 dives		91.5

The final section is titled "Humor." It contains all the inside dope on the residents of S.R.D., including a Snooping Susie column and one supposedly by O. O. McIntyre entitled "S.R.D. Day by Day." There is also an article on the "Musings of a Front Room Gal" which is written by an unknown girl who can't sleep if she gets to bed before 11 o'clock because she has to listen to all the goodnights that come floating into her room.

"As an interim President it should be and will be my aim to conserve the assets, intellectual, spiritual and physical, of the institution and to assist the Regents and the staff in forwarding, as well as my brief tenure and my limited ability will permit, the program of our late beloved and

He overtook Bill Swanson, driving for Ralph Hepburn who came in second after leading most of the afternoon and past the 350-mile distance. Shaw had led most of the race.

Plaudits for the New as U.T. Turns Again to the Future

"Everything that looks to the future elevates human nature; for life is never so low or so little as when occupied with the present."

These lines could be the ideal companion piece to the University's parable now astride the columns of the new Main Building.

Yesterday the Board of Regents elected, with consideration and due consultation, a new president pro-tem for The University of Texas. At almost the same time, and by his own statement, the president-elect precluded himself from permanent duty in the post of presidency. For Mr. J. W. Calhoun on notification of his election, yesterday said he would not be available for permanent presidency.

To the Board of Regents as well as Mr. Calhoun and the University, congratulations are due. A fitting successor to the University's late beloved Benny has been chosen. And unanimous regental choice can only indicate that the new president will fulfill his stated aims: "to conserve the assets, intellectual, spiritual and physical, of the institution and to assist the Regents and the staff in forwarding, as well as my brief tenure and my limited ability will permit, the program of our late beloved and very able President."

President Calhoun, as a far-seeing man, implies that his tenure will not be lasting. The bulk of the regents' burden, as vested representatives of the people of Texas in search for the brightest lamp of education, is yet to be assumed.

The permanent president of the University is still to be chosen, and the temporary president, as he should, recognizes this problem as the most paramount facing the future of this state's greatest educational institution.

In filling the permanent administrative post and in accomplishing whatever executive adjustments deemed necessary, the University's choice necessarily and unfortunately must be linked by human frailties. Truly great men are relatively few; and the University demands an executive of this caliber to fulfill its ultimate promise.

And although only those men vitally concerned with the University's future can disseminate all the elements entering into such a choice, even the layman can determine roughly the attributes the future executive post demands. In this respect qualifications apparently resolve themselves into a few, but vital generalities.

The University will need a man who can split the middle between the path of scholar and that of the leader. The University will demand from its future president at once a rare insight in educational curriculum, and the twin attributes of vigorous and fearless leadership. To this end the University has secured $17,500—monetary insurance for the best in executive guidance.

The president must be versed at once with all the machinations of Twentieth Century education, with political knowledge sufficient to cope with his duties as envoy to the State Legislature. He must possess at the same time that rare leadership that will knit the University faculty once more into a coherent, cooperative whole, and simultaneously suffuse the University's hundredth million student body with the spirit an educational institution of this state demands.

These general demands insist upon many more of a minor and more detailed nature. In toto they, in turn, clamor for the finest in executive and diplomatic genius.

The man can be found. With a steady hand again at the helm, time becomes a little less important element in the choosing. The burden of the choice and the future of a potentially great University fall with a heavy hand on the shoulders of the Board of Regents.

U. T. Presidents Attended Harvard

Of the eleven presidents the University has had, five have taken some kind of degree from Harvard University. These five include David F. Houston, Sidney E. Mezes, W. J. Battle, H. Y. Benedict, and J. W. Calhoun, acting president.

Before 1895, the only head of the school was the President of the Board of Regents. Since then, the following presidents have served: Leslie Waggener, 1895-1896; George T. Winston, 1896-1899; W. L. Prather, 1899-1905; Mr. Houston, 1905-1908; Mr. Mezes, 1908-1914; Dr. Battle, 1914-1916; Robert E. Vinson, 1916-1923; W. S. Sutton, 1923-1924; W. M. W. Splawn, 1924-1927; H. Y. Benedict, 1927-1937; and Mr. Calhoun, the new president.

Mr. Houston, Dr. Battle, Mr. Vinson, Mr. Splawn, and, of course, Mr. Calhoun are now living.

there are several little odds and ends this department wants to get off its chest before hibernation for the summer begins, things it's been wanting to talk about but somehow didn't get around to.

not the least of these odds, or maybe I should say ends—no, ends ain't the word, either—is John Ben Sheppard, that is, a report of his carryings on for this year, which I am sure is of universal interest to everybody.

John Ben is, I believe, one of the many old settlers of Glade-water who didn't get a gusher on his land, he is, though, making the best of what God did give him—a gusher of personality and ability.

to begin with, he was elected president of the old inter-city council and built that organization into one of prominence on the campus, he, along with several friends (read Carnegie's "how to win friends and influence people" for details), led the council through a successful flood relief drive in which hundreds of articles of old clothing and considerable cash was collected for flood sufferers.

along about then was when the fun and trouble began, the council refused to say anything one way or the other on the Alsup bookstore bill, certain members of the council felt that matters of state politics should be left to the students' assembly.

it was time for new officers and the opposition packed the council with formerly inactive members who refused to come to any agreement on who should be president, too, the constitution was missing, and the meeting ended in a dither of parliamentary squabbling, John Ben being too tired to do any further pounding of the gavel.

the spring elections were not far away and Sheppard was planning a campaign for George Chamberlain for cactus editor. He had to proceed cautiously, so Jimmie Brinkley was finally decided upon for a compromise president.

the council then became inactive until...

toward the end of this semester a series of meetings was called, at none of which Brinkley presided, the majority were in favor of electing temporary officers to tide things over until next year, after endless debate (the constitution still being lost, tee-hee), all but about six walked out, under the leadership of Sheppard, and in an adjacent room formed a new organization, the inter-city council, with Edmond Cleybough as president.

"if it's not one thing, it's another," Sheppard says, "but there's always a way out."

and, the missing roses.

another thing I didn't get around to telling you about is why the taylor club, the club of the city of roses, hadn't but a few roses at its banquet the other day, as you probably heard, they planned to have enough to pin a rose on every student the day of the banquet.

Vernon Childers, one of those in charge of arrangements, reports why the roses never got here. "the drought caused a shortage that week," he says, "earlier in the year, on the date of the club's fall formal, a huge bouquet of the best taylor roses was sent to each sorority, roses were more plentiful then."

and, how to follow suit.

on April 14, this department had the pleasure of being quoted in the Sul Ross skyline, now it can quote the Sul Ross skyline.

"while our esteemed colleague, the DAILY TEXAN's most interesting columnist, Mack Robertson, has a pithy paragraph well worth lifting (his lack of capitals is his own business and we can only follow suit): 'life is sometimes almost unbearable, spring, birdies singing, trees coming to life again, dust storms and poetry.'"

I haven't the slightest idea what to do about it.

AIRWAVES

By EVERETT SHIRLEY
Hear the 500-mile Indianapolis Speedway race yesterday, and consequently have to give credit to CBS for a fine job. Somehow at these big sport events the networks nearly always manage to do good radio work. Rarely, if ever, do they mix things up and make a bad broadcast. And it is impossible for the average layman to appreciate the time and preparation that CBS and NBC had to spend on this broadcast to make it successful. And, of necessity, it was expensive. We, the public, sit back in our chairs and hear the broadcast. We should do something else. We should realize what a bunch of lucky fellows we American radio listeners are.

Start off today's radio bits of information with Hammerstein's music. Guests on the 6 o'clock CBS program will be Alan Roberts, Mrs. Patrick Campbell, Stuart Churchill and Lucile Lannan. And the orchestra will play modern tunes—and nothing else.

Al Jolson will offer a dramatic sketch on his program at 6:30. Also over CBS. It will be a play by Arthur Caesar, called "Napoleon's Barber." Martha Raye will do the rest—and most—of the entertaining. Victor Young's orchestra furnishes the musical background.

One sentence note about Ben Bernie's program at 7 over WOL: it will have Efrem Zimbalist, violinist, as its guest.

The last opportunity for some time will be given air fans to-night to listen to Fred Astaire, for when he and Charles Butterworth make their appearance at 7:30 over WOL it will be on their last program of their current series. Johnny Green, orchestra leader, will have charge of the show for the summer. His plans are indefinite at the present.

Astaire's set of programs have been successful from a listener's standpoint, but not from Astaire's standpoint. He thinks radio work is not worth the trouble. So off the air he goes.

France --

Deutschland bombing was the "final link in a chain of similar events."

German Statement
"Red aircraft," he said, "have attacked with bombs British, German and Italian ships belonging to the international sea control."

"In retaliation for a similar criminal assault upon the Deutsch and by Red bombing airplanes under direction of the Valencia authorities, German vessels this morning shelled the fortified port of Almeria."

An official communique issued by the Loyalist government here declared five German warships, including the Admiral Scheer, a sister ship of the Deutschland, took part in the bombardment. The statement follows:

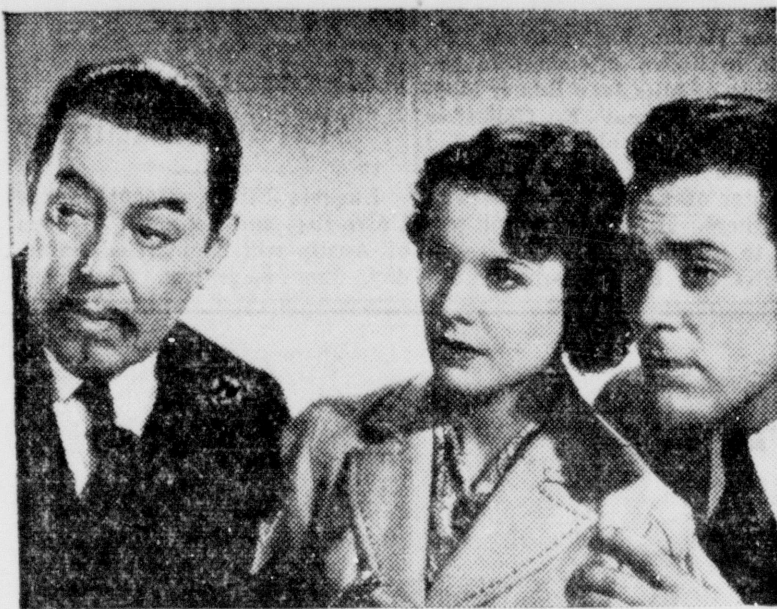

"The military commander of Almeria has reported that at 5:45 a. m., today one battleship and four destroyers of German nationality were observed off the Spanish coast."

"The five ships turned into battle formation twelve and one-half miles off the port of Almeria. They advanced to a position seven and one-half miles from the port and opened fire without warning."

Two Hundred Shells Fired
"About two hundred shells were fired by the warships. The shore batteries replied with twenty shells, and it is believed one of the German destroyers was hit."

"At 6:50 a. m., the Germans

The detecting of Mr. Chan and the love-making of the young pair are all of the adventures with "Charlie Chan at the Olympics," now at the State.

"Numerous buildings were destroyed and casualties were great. In addition to attacking the shore, the Germans also fired on several small Spanish ships in the harbor, two of which were obliged to beach."

Bombardment of Almeria today was the second direct act of reprisal by Germany against the Loyalist government.

On January 1 the German cruiser Koenigsburg seized the Loyalist merchant ships Aragon and Soton in the Bay of Biscay in reprisal for the confiscation of the allegedly contraband cargo of the German steamer Palos at Balboa.

The Aragon and Soton were escorted to rebel ports and turned over to the insurgents.

British Announcement
Great Britain, it was announced in the House of Commons, has appealed to Germany to take no further action in reprisal.

At the same time, it was announced that a scheduled meeting of the full non-intervention committee had been canceled and the complex question left to the chairman's sub-committee to handle.

This step was believed taken in an effort to forestall a possible clash between opposing delegates on the committee floor.

A full meeting of the international committee for non-intervention in Spain was called for 4:15 o'clock this afternoon, in London.

The meeting was called at the request of Joachim Von Ribbentrop, German ambassador, who announced he would head a statement from the Nazi government regarding bombing of the battleship Deutschland by Spanish Loyalist airplanes in the Balearic Islands.

Text of the German official communique on bombing of the battleship Deutschland follows:

"An unheard of and scarcely credible incident has happened. Spanish Bolshevik planes have without any reason bombed a German warship lying off the Spanish coast."

"Twenty brave German sailors were killed."

"The German government will know how to give a proper answer to this unheard of provocation of the Spanish criminals. The German Reich government has issued the following statement on this incident:

Airplanes Attack

"Following the incident a few days ago when Red airplanes attacked with bombs, British, German and Italian ships flying in the harbor of Palma, Mallorca Island, killing six officers on an Italian ship, German vessels were forbidden to call at this port."

"On Saturday, May 29, the battleship Deutschland lay in the roadstead of Ibiza (in the Balearic Islands). The ship belongs to the naval forces engaged in the international sea control."

"Nevertheless, it was suddenly bombed between 6 and 7 o'clock in the evening, by two airplanes of the Valencia government, which swooped down on it."

"The ship was stationary, and the crew were in their quarters, unprotected in the forepart of the vessel."

"Just as the officers' mess on

Sutton Has Files of Old Newspapers

When finals are over and the weary student settles in his most comfortable chair to read that mystery serial that's been waiting, he might remember that now on the fourth floor of Sutton Hall and soon to be moved to new quarters in the Main Building, are back numbers of some of the most entertaining newspapers ever printed in Texas.

E. R. Dabney, who is in charge of the old newspaper files, has copies of the first Texan, which was printed in 1901, a weekly instead of a daily paper.

The first paper ever published in Texas was the Texas Gazette, a four-page, four-column venture, the first issue appearing September 29, 1829. Goodwin Brown Cotton was its editor and proprietor.

Brazoria was the birthplace of the next paper in Texas in 1830. This paper was the Texas Gazette and Brazoria Commercial Advertiser, the effort of D. W. Anthony.

Although a few issues of the Texas Republican were missed during the Mexican invasion, the paper lasted from 1834 until 1836.

Many of these early papers struggled for existence in the turmoil of the stirring events of the early Texas life. After the Battle of San Jacinto the Telegraph and Texas Register hand press and type were fished out of Buffalo Bayou, where Santa Anna had thrown it, and were used for many years.

First Daily in 1839
In 1839, Monday, April 8, the first daily newspaper ever published in Texas, the Morning Star, was brought into being.

At this time newspapers began to spring up like toadstools. Matagorda had its bulletin, Brazoria boasted a paper, and Galveston had a thriving Civilian and Galveston City Gazette, later known as the Civilian. This paper lasted through the War Between the States, and helped the Village of Galveston grow into a prosperous city.

In Austin the first paper was the Austin City Gazette, a weekly, owned by Samuel Whiting, in 1839, being published until 1842, at which time all Austin papers were suspended because of the threatened invasion of 1842 by Mexico. In November, 1841, G. H. Harrison established the Weekly Texan and a little later, The Daily Texan. This paper published the proceedings of Congress.

Six Survive
Of all the papers started before the annexation of Texas to the Union, only six of them lived until 1850. These were the Telegraph and the Morning Star of Houston, the News and Civilian of Galveston, the Red Lander of San Augustine, and the Standard of Clarksville. And of these six, only the Galveston News lives today.

There were several German papers under the old regime, notably the Zeitung in San Antonio, in 1853; the Zeitung in New Braunfels, in 1853, by C. M. von Ross; and Der Texas Democrat in Victoria by F. Dietzel.

"The leaves of Vallombrosa were never thicker," says Mr. Dabney, University librarian, "nor the emerald and tenebrous rustle of their gay lives never more pleasing than the happy-go-lucky days of many of these brief journalistic ventures."

French battleships are steaming to the Mediterranean near Toulon and Bayonne, it was stated in a Reuter dispatch from Valencia today.

Bombardment of Almeria was characterized in Soviet circles today as the "final and inevitable open disclosure of Fascist aggression."

The incident will serve to precipitate a showdown in the Spanish conflict, it was said.

Meanwhile, the Soviet press made no mention of the Almeria affair, which was regarded as ominous in view of the fact Russian newspapers had devoted much space to every incident of alleged Fascist aggression.

Should the Deutschland bombing lead to war between Germany and Spain the American neutrality act would have to be extended to include Germany.

It was pointed out, however, that because of the wording of the Neutrality Act, before an embargo is declared by the President, he is placed in a position of ruling that a state of war exists. This brings up a delicate international situation which conceivably might cause great resentment on the part of the nation which is found to be a belligerent.

The course of the United States' action in the present situation, observers said, probably would follow a similar line taken in the Italo-Ethiopian war, when the United States for the first time invoked an embargo against belligerents.

At that time, the President took no definite step until it was officially ascertained that the Italian invasion of Ethiopia had actually begun.

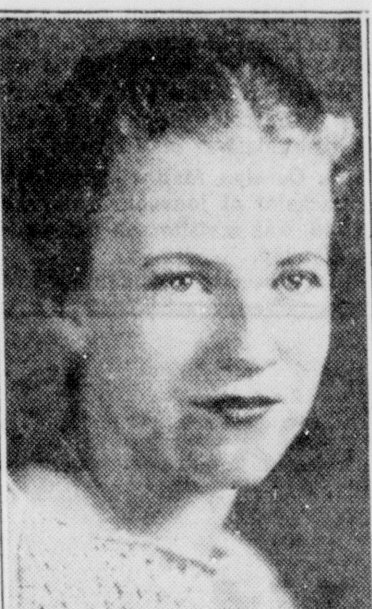

Under the Permanent Neutrality legislation recently passed by Congress, it rests in the discretion of President Roosevelt to determine when a state of war exists between two or more nations or there is civil war within a single nation.

When this has been determined, the President then must embargo shipments of arms, ammunition and implements of war and ban all credits to the belligerents. American merchantmen and American citizens are forbidden to travel in the war zone.

MR. CALHOUN retired from the board of directors of the Texas Student Publications in October, 1928. That the growth and prosperity of the publications are attributed largely to the policies originated by him was expressed in a letter to him from the board at that time. The letter, read in part, as follows:

"Each member of the Board is fully aware that the growth and present prosperity of the students' publications are attributable in a large measure to your energy, tact, good judgment, progressive yet sound

Outstanding

Katherine Pittenger, above, is one of the outstanding seniors this year. She was twice president of Curtin Club, is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority, Phi Beta Kappa, and Pi Lambda Theta, honorary educational fraternity for women. She is also a member of Ashbel Literary Society and Orange Jackets. Miss Pittenger has played a number of leading roles in Curtin Club productions during the years she has been a member. She is enrolled in the School of Education and is a candidate for the degree of bachelor of science in education. She is the daughter of Dr. B. F. Pittenger, dean of the School of Education.

"Before your appointment to the Board in 1922, the Publications were unorganized and managed—if they can be said to have been managed at all—in a haphazard, utterly unbusinesslike fashion."

"Today they stand upon a sound financial basis and have a clear-cut, definite policy. For this change you are chiefly responsible. It is no small service to have rendered, and the Board wishes to place itself on record as recognizing in you the chief instrument in effecting these changed conditions."

CALHOUN, BENEDICT SHARED MATH 'JOYS'

J. W. Calhoun is one of the few who really love mathematics. He once gave a series of lectures on the "Beauties of Mathematics."

Geometry holds no fears for him. He spends hours constructing elaborate designs with circles and triangles. His friend and co-worker, the late Dr. H. Y. Benedict, was his constant companion on his mathematical researches.

The two men were former professors of applied mathematics, vitally interested in their work.

While professors, they were co-authors of two mathematical works—"The Teaching of Plane Geometry" was published in 1914 by the University in the form of a bulletin. "Unified Mathematics," by Dr. Benedict, Mr. Calhoun, and Louis C. Karpinski, appeared in 1918.

Mr. Calhoun has written a number of other articles, bulletins, and other text book. All pertain to the teaching or studying of some form of mathematics. "Algebra for Junior and Senior High Schools" was published in 1930, and two University bulletins on "Developing Number Sense" were printed in 1925 and 1926.

In addition, Mr. Calhoun, with C. D. Rice, is editor of "The Texas Mathematics Teachers' Bulletin."

CALHOUN FOUND COIN COLLECTION IN SAFE

J. W. Calhoun was the first person to view the famous S. M. Swenson coin collection last spring when it was removed from a safe which had not been opened in twenty-five years. Since his student days, Mr. Calhoun has been interested in the collection and wanted to see it. When he became Comptroller of the University, he set out to find the combination.

It had been left in the keeping of Dr. Eugene C. Barker of the Department of History, who had written the combination on the inside of his desk drawer. But his desk had been replaced by a new one and Dr. Barker couldn't find the combination. Mr. Calhoun had every desk in the University searched in an effort to find the combination, but with-

Stokowski and Ellington Plan Close Harmony

A DIGNIFIED PATRON strolled into the Cotton Club in New York City recently. Upon being seated, he expressed a desire to see Duke Ellington, the dance band leader, at his table. The Duke obliged and was immensely surprised to learn that it was none other than Leopold Stokowski, director of the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, who had sent the invitation.

Following the night's performance, both musicians went to Mr. Stokowski's apartment, and it is not improbable that the eminent classicist will introduce an Ellington suite, now being written, next season.

All of which raises the question, "How long are the locks of long-haired music?" Though we won't attempt to answer it, it should cause the few who condemn all classical music on general principles to pause momentarily while we bring up a fine list of new phonograph recordings for consideration.

Coming in the wake of the nationwide tour of the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, a new recording of Tchaikovsky's "Symphony No. 6, in B Minor," made by Eugene Ormandy and the Philadelphia group has a timely as well as a musical interest. This is the first major work which the young conductor has made with the philadelphians, though he has recorded extensively with the Minneapolis Symphony, of which he was previously the regular director.

WORTHILY representative of Mr. Ormandy's ability, this is a superb performance of the "Pathétique." He has realized fully the moods of this last work of the emotional Tchaikovsky—the serious first movement, the almost waltzing section in 5-4 time, the triumphant march, and the tragic "adagio lamentoso." And once more the higher fidelity of which Victor boasts not without cause makes this a technical achievement, too.

When we hear Jascha Heifetz "go to town" on such a thing as the capriccio section of the Vivaldi "Suite in A Major," we are reluctant to admit that the fiddle has a peer for brilliant musical entertainment. This is the kind of music that can properly be called classical, for it was composed by the great Italian master who flourished at the earlier part of the Eighteenth century. But for all that, every turn of the two sides of this tiny disc is grand music even for today. As usual, Mr. Heifetz plays with impeccable taste and glowing eloquence.

THOUGH no longer a young man, John McCormack still is the distinguished exponent of bel canto. "Were'er You Walk" by Handel, one of the loveliest songs ever written, is coupled with another Handel air, "Caro Amore," on a new twelve-inch record furnishing additional evidence of Mr. McCormack's ability; both songs are marked by delightful smoothness.

Marian Anderson, one of the truly great contraltos, thrills us with a rendition of the Sibelius setting of Shakespeare's "Come Away, Death" from "Twelfth Night." For some, this music may be a bit severe. All one needs to do in such a case is to turn to the other side. The two Scandinavian folk songs on the reverse are respectively gracefully flowing ("Summer Night") and blithely gay ("The Little Shepherdess"). Whatever the reaction to the Sibelius and the "Summer Night," the last inch of the second face containing "The Little Shepherdess" is worth the whole price of the ten-inch disc. We want more Marian Anderson.

out success. Finally he called a Dallas locksmith who drilled a small hole in the mechanism and opened the safe.

The collection, valued at $75,000, will be housed in the new University Museum upon completion of the building. It was given to the University in 1891 by S. M. Swenson, Texas cattleman and New York banker. It contains more than 5,000 coins and medals, which took Mr. Swenson almost a lifetime to collect. He presented them hoping that they might form the nucleus for a great coin collection for Texas.

Less Prisoners Are in Texas

Despite the fact that fewer prisoners were received by the Texas prison system in 1936 than in the previous year, the average daily population of the prisons reached a new all-time high of 6,050, the report of the prison board, made to Governor James V. Allred showed today.

Chairman W. A. Paddock, Houston, said in the report that during the year 2,829 prisoners were received, 336 less than the previous year. The average upkeep of each prisoner, he reported, was $231, less than in 1935.

The system is now providing 85 per cent of the food consumed, which is "better and more wholesome than is usually provided for prisoners." The board also asked for additional appropriations for the classification department.

The system's operating loss of $429,824 for the year was a decided decrease from that of the 1935, $852,178. Manager O.J.S. Ellington said. He added that the license manufacturing plant made 3,085,000 plates and delivered them to all counties.

Ellington, reporting on the prison's segregation program, said it "has tended to instill" a more confident attitude toward prison discipline, especially among the promising rehabilitation class, and they seem actually doing more work willingly and are more congenial than ever before."
