EXCAVATION FOR STADIUM BEGINS TODAY

Drive Workers Ready to Start Austin Campaign for Stadium Subscriptions

TWO MEETS OPEN DEBATE SEASON TONIGHT

Varsity to Meet Arkansas U. and Oklahoma Teams

Mather and Gambill Debate
Arkansas Here on League
Of Nations

Other Team at Norman

Green, German, and Kleberg
Will Act as the Judges

Friday night, Edward Mather and Lawton Gambill of the University, will open the debating season when they meet Ward Adams and Phil Deal of the University of Arkansas. The subject for the debate will be "The League of Nations," and Texas will have the affirmative, while Arkansas will uphold the negative.

At the same time that the Texas affirmative team is debating in Austin, the negative team, composed of Ed Gossett and Joyce Cox, will be debating against the representatives of Oklahoma University at Norman.

In the debate, which will be held in the Law Building at 8 o'clock, each speaker will have a main speech of twelve minutes. Affirmative and negative speakers will have rebuttals of five and six minutes respectively. The affirmative will have a final rejoinder of three minutes. The chairman will be W. S. Leslie, of the Public Speaking Council. Dr. George Green, Judge S. H. German, and Judge Rudolph Kleberg will act as judges.

San Antonio Bruins Again Defeat Rangers

The San Antonio Bears again proved too fast for the Austin Rangers yesterday when they downed the local nine 5-0 in another well played game. Winters and Lybrand, hurling for the Bears were exceedingly stingy with their hits, allowing but four of which Bishop Clements collected two.

Pipkin and Cole divided mound duty for the local nine and both pitched fair ball. Pipkin was hit for a long homer in the first by Leo Najo. He held the Bears runless until the sixth when they tallied two. The final brace of runs in the ninth came off Cole.

Score by innings:

Horned Frogs Win From Rice 11-6

HOUSTON, Texas, April 3.—Errors cost the Rice Owls the second of their two games series with the TCU Horned Frogs here today. The score was 11 to 6.

Nine, twirling for the Owls, was touched freely in the first few innings and was taken out in the sixth. Blossom finished the game. Woods worked well in the box for the Frogs.

Hits were equal, each club swatting out seven. Adams of the Frogs smashed out a homer.

Varsity Pre-Easter Festivities Open Tonight

1500 Varsity Co-eds Give PT Exhibition Before Large Crowd

Miss Anna Hiss

Who has been director of physical education for women for three years, has developed a physical training department of the University until it compares favorably with those of other colleges in the United States. She has been assisted by instructors who have been inspired by working with Miss Hiss in giving the girls of Texas the best of physical training.

Mrs. Hiss Visits

Mrs. Hiss of Baltimore, Maryland, is visiting her daughter, Miss Anna Hiss, director of physical training for women. This is Mrs. Hiss' first visit to Texas.

Gymnastic Stunts of All Kinds Follow "T" Formation

Fifteen hundred Varsity co-eds marched onto Clark Field last night promptly at 8 o'clock to the strains of music by the Longhorn Band and before a grandstand filled to capacity with spectators, formed a huge black and white "T" while the crowd joined them in singing "The Eyes of Texas." This was the first number on the program of the annual physical training exhibition of the University women, which was followed by unusual and interesting gymnastic stunts of all kinds.

The success of the exhibition, as shown by the packed stands as well as fences, was due in large part to the untiring efforts of the physical training instructors who have worked persistently and long during the past six months to train the girls for the final demonstration of the work of the department. Applause from the grandstand was testimony to the fact that the exhibition was very successful and that the work of the instructors as well as the efforts of the students was amply repaid.

The Sailor's Hornpipe given by the gym team, composed of sixty co-eds dressed in dark bloomers, white middie, black ties and sailor caps, and the pyramid building by the gym team were enthusiastically received by the spectators. Five hundred freshmen showed excellent form in the mimetic drill which they gave as their part of the demonstration.

Status of Honor System Will Be Considered Today

Students Assembly, Men's and Women's Councils Hold Joint Session

The Students Assembly, the Men's Council, and the Women's Council will meet in joint session this afternoon at 4, in the offices of the Students Association, to consider the status of the honor system. According to S. Eldon Dyer, the discussion will center around the report submitted by the faculty committee on the honor system, which is a tabulation of the results of 1800 questionnaires filled out by students and faculty.

"It is very essential for every member of these bodies to be present," stated Dyer. "Each member of the association has a copy of the report; it will be wise for all to be familiar with the gist of it. The general trend of opinion seems to be in favor of retaining the honor system in some form; but some of the opinions are rather startling."

"Five per cent of Texas students cheat on exams, if we are to believe the results of the students' own reports," went on Dyer. "The big fight will be over the pledge. After the material submitted by the faculty has been carefully considered, there will be opportunity for the expression of individual opinions. All officers had better have recommendations in mind."

Officials of the student government are going to select a committee of five to meet with us concerning

Easter German To Be Featured By Decorations

Marking the opening of the pre-Easter festivities, the Easter German, tonight promises to be one of the premier social events of the season. Extensive decorations, designed by Willis McClure, have been secured for the occasion, and Jimmie's Joys will furnish the music.

Blue and white curtains and streamers have been draped about the hall, while lilies are the predominating flowers. The lights of the hall have been concealed in baskets of flowers to modify the harsh lighting which has previously been a source of complaint. McClure supervised the decoration, which is said to be of unusual quality.

The grand march will be led by Maurice T. Angley, president of the German Club and a member of the Delta Tau Delta fraternity, honoring Linda Bellows of Kappa Kappa Gamma. Arthur Mueller, vice-president of the club and Chi Phi, will favor Zetta Alonzo, of Pi Beta Phi, in leading the cotillion. Chaperons for the occasion include Mesdames J. B. Ashworth, Dan Bellows, O. T. Booth, W. B. Brush, E. B. Hancock, H. G. King, N. N. Lovell, Eva G. Pendergrast, Kate Wakefield, and Misses Ruth Bedford and Gertrude Wroe. Refreshments will be served during the evening.

Philosophical Meet

The Philosophical Society met in room 107 M. B. at 7:15. Dr. F. A. C. Perrin, associate professor of Psychology, lectured on "Behaviorism." The main point that Dr. Perrin brought out was the difference in the attitudes assumed by the psychologist and the philosopher.

Entire Campus Will Be Represented in Very Brief Ceremony

By Granville Price

When four dynamite charges are set off on Brackenridge Field this afternoon at 5:00 o'clock, the actual excavations for the stadium site and the Austin campaign for subscriptions to the stadium will have begun. "According to present indications, the greatest event ever staged on the campus outside of an athletic event," is the way Bill McGill characterized the celebration, which will begin at 4:45, after the Ranger-Longhorn baseball game.

Speakers on Program

Dr. Sutton of the University, Alvin Owsley of the American Legion, Governor Neff representing the state of Texas, and D. K. Woodward representing the ex-students, will deliver short addresses, and at exactly 5:00, these men will set off the charges that will break the ground on the four corners of the excavations. The entire student body, the Longhorn Band, the Orange Jackets, and the Cowboys, will take part in the program, which will be short so that the workers on the downtown campaign will be able to attend the meeting at the Driskill at 6:15.

Governor Neff and his staff, Mayor Yett and the city council, representatives of the faculty, and Sam Sparks and his advisory council of the Austin campaign, composed of Dave Reed, Will Caswell, W. H. Richardson Jr., John B. Pope, Gillespie Stacy, Arthur P. Watson, W. T. Magee, T. C. Taylor and E. P. Cabiness, will be upon the platform.

Excavation Contract Awarded

Max Fichtenbaum announced yesterday that the List-Gifford Company of Dallas had been awarded the contract for the excavation of the stadium grounds at a price of $25,000. R. M. Brooks, superintendent of the work for the company, will arrive in Austin Friday and begin work immediately. He said that 10,800 yards of top soil and 11,300 yards of rock will have to be removed and 75,000 yards refilled on the west side. The company is to finish its work in fifty working days, about June 10.

Establish Camp for Workers

Works said that a camp for the workers near the field would be established and that it would be necessary to bring two steam shovels, an elevator and grader, 25 teams, fifteen dump wagons, two air compressors, caterpillar tractor, and other equipment to the site.

Downtown Workers Given Cards

Workers on the stadium campaign tin will hold an open dinner tonight at the Driskill Hotel at 6:15, at which time they will be given cards bearing the names of the prospective subscribers they are to see. Colonel Owsley of the American Legion, Governor Neff, and Dr. George J. Works of Cornell University, will address the meeting, and a twelve-minute film, showing the Pennsylvania relays being held in the new Pennsylvania University stadium, will be presented. The picture was secured through the courtesy of Manager Faulkner of the Majestic Theater.

An informal breakfast will be given this morning at the Driskill Hotel in honor of Colonel Owsley, who will arrive in Austin at 7:15. The YMCA will entertain him with a luncheon at noon. Dr. Works is in Austin in the interest of the Southwestern educational survey.

Luncheons Each Day

Luncheons will be held each day of next week, from April 7 to 11, at which the captains will report the progress of their teams. Two of the teams of the downtown campaign are composed of University students. The members are: Carl Webb, Virginia Hallman, Ralph Wood, Elizabeth

BIBLE THOUGHT
—FOR TODAY—

Bible Thoughts memorized will prove a priceless heritage.

I am the way, the truth, and the life.—John 14:6.

CONDITIONS DIFFERENT

The University "Daily Kansan" discussing what it calls "wholesale education" remarks: "University students do not need and do not ask for close personal supervision from each and every instructor. But they do ask for and have a right to a part in class discussion. And many never get such a privilege."

"There is no time for students to ask questions about vague sections of the subject, either in the lecture room or after the class in the office. If there is any such time, it is extremely limited, and gives but the very minimum of aid."

Conditions at Kansas must be vastly different from conditions at Texas University. If the Daily Kansan sees as the perfect school one where students may ask any and all questions they desire during the lecture period, most of the classes here would fit that ideal. Perhaps more time is wasted here by students who continually ask questions, usually of little interest to the class, than in any other way.

Of course, it would not be reasonable or desirable to place an absolute ban on the asking of questions by students during a lecture period. It might be desirable, however, to organize a society for the suppression of students who continually interrupt the professor with questions that are more or less irrelevant, unimportant, and of no interest to the other members of the class.

HAS REPUBLICAN
GOVERNMENT FAILED?

In these days of scandal and waste in the national government, deficiency basis in state government, huge overdrafts in municipal governments, and lax enforcement of the law all along the line, many are wondering if the republican form of government is a failure.

Admittedly the republican form of government has serious defects. Voters are often influenced by enthusiasm or prejudice; incompetent men are elected to office because they are good flag wavers or good fellows or belong to this lodge or that church; legislators and officials are corrupted by unscrupulous business men; the public treasury is raided by log rolling and pork distribution; there is waste, indifference and inefficiency in the conduct of public business; business efficiency is hampered by oppressive laws enacted because of popular fear of big business; and the country is burdened with a maze of laws obtained by well organized groups who believe they can establish heavy-en on earth through legislation.

The defects of our form of government are seen most clearly in the local and state governments, which come into close contact with the people. The sources of revenue of the national government are so many and fruitful that great waste and graft can take place without causing a deficiency in the treasury. Then, too, much of the national revenue is gotten through indirect taxes which are less painful than direct taxes. But the periodic outcropping of graft and corruption in our national government brings out disquieting defects there as well.

Admitting, then, that there are two glaring defects in our form of government, two questions suggest themselves: Do the benefits of republican form of government offset the disadvantages? Can our present governmental plan be improved upon?

There is probably little difference of opinion on the first question. It is difficult to imagine an educated people living under anything but a republican form of government. No matter whether people exercise their right to a voice in the government or not, the mere fact that they have such a right gives a feeling of security that no amount of corruption and incompetence in our government will ever dislodge. Regardless of advantages or disadvantages, the people of the United States will never choose any form of government than self-government.

The only question needing serious consideration is that of improving our present form of government. That it is in need of changes no one seriously considering the present situation can deny. Switching from one party to another will accomplish only temporary good, if any. All the crooks are not in one party and all the saints in another. The defects go deeper than party; they lie in some of the long established details of our government. Responsibility is too widely scattered. Legislative bodies are too large. Salaries are too small. Qualification for office is too lax.

All of these things are recognized by students of government, but as yet a realization of them has not been brought home to the majority of the people. The glaring failures in our various governments, however, are gradually forcing a conviction that something is amiss with our governmental machinery. What is chiefly needed now—the first thing that must be undertaken—is a campaign of education regarding the defects in our system and sane remedies that can be applied.

Our people are conservative, slow to change customs, but they are not stupid. Campaigns of education on public policies can and do succeed, as is proven by the prohibition and suffrage amendments. The people are capable of running their own government. What is needed is that they take more interest in running it instead of leaving the job to chronic office seekers. The self-satisfied, snugly disdainful, moderately successful people of the middle class must be waked up to the fact that if they want a decent, efficient government and want to ward off radicalism, they must come off their comfortable perches and devote thought and effort to their government. The job may seem hopeless, but it can be done.—A. J. B.

Opinions of Others

THE COMMON HERD
(Temple University Weekly)

We were born under a terrific handicap. That we have been able to amass a fortune of 100,000 rubles has been due only to the kindness of a friend who decided, recently, to give away part of his wealth before his demise, in order that his friends and relatives might avoid the rigor of the income tax law. Our handicap has been ancestors.

Practically all Americans who have amounted to anything have come from that stratum of society which the other stratum has designed to term "the Common Herd." Lincoln, Mark Twain, Jack Dempsey, Mr. Bok, and probably General Butler came from poor, but honest parents. We say that they were honest because we say they were poor.

If we had said—However, although we were cursed with ancestors, we were not cursed with the type of which so much is said and written—in America. With Mark and Jack, we are proud to state that our descent cannot be traced from an "oldest family." We, as an individual, delight in the fact that our revered ancestors did not arrive in this country as indentured servants, or the masters of indentured servants, as members of a chain gang, or on a furniture boat. Many may have come to avoid the payment of taxes or the consequences of mispent lives, but we are not boasting about it.

Our first American ancestor left England one jump ahead of the sherriff. Who cares? He started in here on an equal footing with every other immigrant. But he happened to be of royal blood. The handicap was too much for him. He married, had children and starved to death before he could forget he was a gentleman. And there is our handicap—we cannot forget we are a gentleman. Therefore, we stay obscure. We cannot overcome the handicap of an inherited aversion to all forms of labor. Therefore, we remain poor.

The girls emerged from a Dutch windmill at the back of the field and forming three circles rendered the simple folk dance with pantomime.

VISITS HERE

Dr. O. M. Voorhees, national secretary of Phi Beta Kappa, famous honorary fraternity open to a certain number of the best scholars in the arts and sciences from the various universities in the country, yesterday visited Texas University in order to gain some idea of the work that is being accomplished in this school. Dr. Voorhees is on an extended tour of the south in the interests of Phi Beta Kappa. His purpose was primarily supervisory in its nature, and it was also his purpose to explain more fully to the members of the organization here the various details of the organization.

Dr. Voorhees is one of the most active and one of the busiest men in the fraternity. In his speech at the banquet last night he told several interesting stories of his experiences in the organization. He claims that his appointment as secretary of Phi Beta Kappa was largely accidental, as it all hinged on the fact that he knew of the existence of some hitherto undiscovered manuscripts that had an important bearing on the rehabilitation of the society after it was practically sundered and destroyed by the ravages of the Civil War.

Engineers Win 11-5 Victory Over Dummies

Hanontree, pitcher for Dummies, was ineffective and the Engineers were able to put the game on ice, getting seven runs off him in the first inning. The final score of the game was 11-5 in favor of the Engineers. After the fatal first inning, however, Akkers took over the mound duty for the Dummies and pitched air-tight ball, striking out seven men. Pope, pitcher for the Engineers, not only struck out eleven men, but he garnered three hits for the Engineers. Batteries for the Engineers were Pope and Trout; for the Dummies, Hanontree, Akkers and Powell.

Chamberlin Speaks to Pre-Law Students

"Ideals and Traditions of the Law School" was the subject of an address by Cecil R. Chamberlin before the Pre-Law Association at its regular weekly meeting Thursday evening. "Ideals make the foreground and traditions the background of an institution's life, and this is especially true with our own school," declared Chamberlin. In enumerating the ideals of the Law School, Chamberlin stated that the greatest one is the desire of the school to make an honest lawyer out of every one of its students.

THEATER ROW

BY E. LEE WYSONG

Hancock: Mosconi Bros., and six other acts in vaudeville.

Queen: Viola Dana in "In Search of a Thrill" and Jimmie's Joys.

Majestic: Walter Hiers in "Fair Week."

Crescent: Anna Q. Nilsson in "Innocence."

Texas: Viola Dana in "The Social Code."

Apache Dancing Strenuous Exercise

Swimming, tennis, golfing, horse-back riding and automobile racing are considered strenuous enough for any girl, but Viola Dana, whose latest Metro picture, "In Search of a Thrill," is now playing at the Queen Theater, says she has found something to put those in the sewing circle class.

It is the Apache dance, "L'Amour," the wildest of all the wild prancings of the lawless French gangs. The tiny star spent five weeks learning the dance for ten minutes of actual "shooting" in the new film.

The steps themselves were difficult, but the gyrations and falls required great physical exertion, so that every night after a day at the studio Miss Dana was forced to resort to the old remedy of Arnica and red flannel.

"Innocence" Well-Staged

Lovers of good literature who read with pleasure Lewis Allen Browne's gripping story, "Circumstances Alter Divorce Cases," will be glad to know that it has been adapted for the screen and is playing at the Crescent Theater now.

"Innocence" is the title that has been given the film version of this swift-moving story of a woman convicted on circumstantial evidence.

Mr. Browne has expressed himself delightedly with the manner in which his story has been made into a motion picture, and especially so with Anna Q. Nilsson's portrayal of the leading role. Earl Foxe, Wilfred Lucas, Freeman Wood, Marion Harlan, Lillian Langdon, William Scott, Jessie Arnold, and Vera Lewis are also worthy of notice.

What Makes a Comedy Funny?

What determines whether a comedy is funny or not is not the number of laughs, but how these laughs are placed.

For example, Walter Hiers, star of "Fair Week," to be shown at the Majestic Theater today, says that in comedy work, thinking up gags has always been the easiest part. "Placing them correctly is what threatens to make me thin," says Hiers.

"Grantland Rice Sportlights" is also being shown in the interest of the Stadium. This picture is one complete reel of the last track meet at Franklin Field at Penn State, and Grantland Rice shows the 100-yard dash, relays, hurdles, shot-put, discus, javelin throwers, pole vaulters, broad jumps, etc., in every angle. Slow motion pictures of all of them is wonderful and highly interesting.

The seven "big-time" acts playing at the Hancock this week seem to embody all the variety necessary to make a perfect vaudeville bill.

Beginning with the headline act, the Mosconi Brothers, Majestic fans will behold the sensational eccentric dancers of the twentieth century. The team is composed of Louis, Willie, Charles, and their sister, Verna.

William Cressy and Blanche Dayne come for another week of entertainment at the Majestic. They offer "The End of a Perfect Troup," and from all reports the act is up to its usual standard of pure fun throughout.

Old favorites return in the personalities of Chester Spencer and Lola Williams. This season they call it "Putting it Over."

Demerest and Collette will offer "Strings and Stringers"; Larry Comer returns; the act of Stewart and Downing is "An Artistic Treat"; and Paul Kirkland and Company offer "The High Stepper."

WORKS OF MODERN ARTISTS WILL BE ON DISPLAY FRIDAY

Showing to Be Open Only to Associate Members of Austin Art League

EVERETT WILL LECTURE

Prizes Are Offered to School Children for Best Essays on Exhibition

By J. LaDelle Baines

For the ninth year the Austin Art League brings to Austin an exhibit of the foremost American paintings. The collection includes some of the best works of such well-known modern artists as Carlson, Frieske, and Consee. Friday evening a private view of the gallery will be held for only the associate members of the league in recognition of their assistance in bringing the exhibit to Austin. Raymond Everett, associate professor of freehand drawing and painting in the University, will lecture at Gregg House Friday evening to the associate members and on the three following Sunday afternoons to the public.

Plans for the ward school children to visit the exhibition in groups are being made. As an incentive to interest in the visit prizes are being offered to the school children for the best essays on certain of the pictures.

The Austin Art League is an organization that has evolved from a small group of Austin women who organized in the interest of art many years ago. The more serious desire for study developed later when the club became considerably enlarged and arranged a program for the study of the various schools of painting.

Two years ago the League went back in its study to the early Greek and Roman schools with emphasis on both modern and ancient sculpture. For the past year the Art League has paid special attention to art appreciation, and Professor Everett has given a series of monthly lectures on "The Appreciation of Pictures."

Composition, technique, color, draughtsmanship, and style have been of especial interest and colored lantern slides have been a material aid in the work. At present the Art Club is undoubtedly of great civic value to the community and the magnitude of its undertaking to bring these yearly exhibits before the public.

Volley Ball Classes Will Be Continued During Spring Term

Volleyball among the co-eds has proved so popular during the winter term that classes will be continued during the spring term, according to Hiawatha Crosslin, physical training instructor. There will be two a day from 8 to 10, and the classes are open to anyone who wishes to sign up either for WAA points or receive credit for the regular PT.

Since volleyball is to be continued the requirements for team have been raised to thirty practices instead of twenty. Other requirements are that each girl who makes the team must play in two series of the tournament and referee at least three games. Another class tournament will be held at the close of the spring term and the Varsity team will be chosen at that time.

ie can easily be understood.

During this year's exhibit Way-Adams, nationally known portrait painter, and his wife are expected to visit Austin. Mrs. Adams was formerly Margaret Boroughs of Austin who was the originator of the idea of organizing the Austin Art League.

Gov. Pat M. Neff and numerous other notables will participate in the Today.

SUMMER WORK IS PRAISED BY OWENS

Students in BA School Hear of Advantages to College Students

Business Administration School met Thursday afternoon at five o'clock in the Law Building, Dean Bell, chairman, introducing the speakers.

B. W. Owens, who is in charge of the sale of aluminum ware, spoke of the advantage of college students in that capacity during the summer. Dr. Frank Crane was quoted as saying "the art of success is simply in making people change their minds."

Rippink spoke on the coordination work. McGinnis told a story illustrating the necessity of practical experience in business. Rader discussed the advantage of having out-of-town speakers for the Commercial Club. One of the probable speakers is the secretary of the New York Exchange.

Bobby Robertson announced that plans would be made for a banquet to be held in May.

Longhorn Cinder Stars Oppose Rice in First Conference Track Meet

STEERS EXPECTING LITTLE OPPOSITION IN SATURDAY MEET

Captain Stancliff Expected to Offer Real Competition in Weights

HACKLER NOT ENTERED

Dayvault and Gilstrap Declared Eligible to Compete in Conference

Twenty-one knights of the cinder path, accompanied by Coach Clyde Littlefield and Manager Russell Dunbar, will catch the H&TC Special at 12:35 today for Houston, where they meet the Rice Owls Saturday in the first conference track meet of the season.

While Rice is stronger in track than in most sports, the Owls do not promise any strenuous competition for the Longhorns. In fact, Coach Littlefield is expecting to roll up nearly as large a score as the 1923 team succeeded in doing. On Clark Field last year the mighty Longhorn team overwhelmed the Owls 101-16.

Rice is expected to offer Texas real competition in at least four events. Captain Stancliff is one of the best shot and discus men in the conference and he will make Frank Dayvault, premier weight man of the Longhorns, who has been recently declared eligible, hustle to take first in both events. It is probable that they will split with Dayvault, winning the shot and Stancliff the discus and it is not amiss to say that a record may fall at Houston.

Fitch is the other Longhorn star and he is expected to press the Longhorn thinly clad in both the 100 and the 220. But while Texas will be weakened in the sprints, through Hackler's inability to compete, Clayton and Jackson and Ritchie should succeed in carrying the Longhorn colors to victory.

Evidently Coach Littlefield was pleased with the results of the triangular meet for he will run Captain McNatt in the half-mile and probably enter Jim Reese in the mile. Both won their events handily in the triangular competition. One of the features of the meet will be the two-mile race between Trout and Coale, the Longhorn entries. Rice is expected to offer the Steers little competition in the distances, but Trout has never placed first in a meet with Rice and Coale will but form additional efforts to win with the aid of the jinx. With Jim Reese a member, the relay team promises to be stronger than the combination that ran against Southwestern.

Following are the Longhorn entries:

100-yard dash: Clayton and Jackson.

220-yard dash: Clayton and Ritchie.

440-yard dash: Ritchie and R. L. Harris.

880-yard run: McNatt and Hawley.

120-yard high hurdles: Thames and Jackson.

220-yard low hurdles: Thames and Jackson.

Pole vault: Barmore and McCorquodale.

Broad jump: Thames and Jackson.

High jump: Barmore and Cowles.

Javelin throw: Shearer and Gilstrap.

Discus throw: Dayvault and G. A. Harris.

Shot put: Dayvault and Sprague.

Mile relay: Reese, Harris, Blonstein and R. L. Harris.

Track Men Ruled Eligible

Frank Dayvault and "Bully" Gilstrap are eligible to compete in track this spring, it was announced yesterday by Dr. D. A. Penick, president of the Southwestern Conference. The announcement was made after the receipt of a report of a special committee appointed to rule on the question.

The eligibility committee, composed of Drs. Wilson of Arkansas, McIntosh of SMU and Casky of Baylor, ruled that the fact that these men had not attended school during all of the winter term did not make them ineligible as they had good reasons for their withdrawal. However, the committee recommended that the case be taken up at the next meeting of the conference officials and the rules relating to this matter be clarified.

The case of the two men attracted wide attention among athletic leaders of the conference as it was the first of its kind to be reported to the conference for a ruling. Heretofore, the individual schools have settled the question as they saw fit. However, Dr. Penick stated, the rules are not clear and he wished to get a conference ruling or clarification of the rules before passing on the cases.

With this idea in mind he refused to rule on the question as president of the conference, but appointed a committee of three athletic heads in other schools to pass on the eligibility of the men in question.

Diamond championship of the city of Austin will be at stake today when Manager Cecil Grigg will bring his Austin Rangers to Clark Field for a clash with the Texas Longhorns. In 1923 the Dischmen twice defeated the Texas Association club and the Rangers are contemplating revenge upon the college nine. The game will start at 2:30 in order to allow the students to attend the game and then the stadium rally at 4:45.

Jack King, who surprised Coach Disch in the Trinity series by delivering a sterling brand of ball, is expected to start in the box for the Longhorns. Manager Grigg will probably elect Dick Whitworth, Austin product who should be among the ranking hurlers in the Texas Association this season.

The other two doubtful positions on the Longhorn squad will probably be filled by Albert Leissner, receiving King, and Adonis Pfannkuche, patrolling right field. But there is a possibility that Charlie Ramsey will catch and that Jack Smith or "Stookie" Allen will work in the pastures. Clements, Eckhardt and probably Ponsford will see service in the box during the nine innings, according to Coach Disch.

The Rangers will present three-fourths of what was the fastest infield in Texas Association last year in Anheier, Chaney, and Clements. The other position will be filled by Mat-

EDUCATION TEACHERS REPORT ON TEACHING CERTIFICATE AT MEET

By Lee Woods

Following a few introductory remarks by the chairman, Dr. Frederick Eby, of the University, the annual session of the professional teachers of Education was opened Thursday afternoon in the Education Building. Most of the meeting was devoted to the reports of several members of the committee on courses in education for freshman certificate, after which Acting President Sutton gave a short address welcoming those attending the educational conference, and praising its work. Then S. M. N. Marrs, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, discussed from various viewpoints the law regarding the granting of permanent certificates by examination.

The first of the committee to report on courses in education for freshman certificate was Professor W. I. Woodson, of the Southwest Texas Teachers College, who presented the straight, unjustified facts pertaining to the percentage of colleges inside and outside of the state requiring the teaching of courses in the psychology of education, and how these schools differ in the content and time of preparation of the courses.

Professor O. A. Ulrich, of Southwestern University, next discussed what should go into the freshman courses and how they must conform to the requirements of the State Department of Education. He also presented the results of his investigation of textbooks appropriate to the instruction of education.

threw, who in practice has shown promise of proving a better man than PeeWee Lewis, Ranger star of last year. Moran Henderson, catching for the professional nine, is a proven backstop. Manager Grigg along with Courtney and Bedford compose the outfield.

arose in the report of President G. P. Winfield, of Alexander College. He gave the names of several good books, and made two recommendations regarding the number of hours that should be devoted to teaching the methods, principles, and other phases of education.

Dr. A. C. Ellis, of the University, stressed the importance of training students to think for themselves rather than letting them accept as absolutely true the observations set down in books. In this connection, he presented seven objectives, which emphasized the value of open-mindedness, practice, attitude, and technique in the instruction of freshmen.

After summarizing briefly the reports of the above men, Dr. C. T. Gray, of the University, and chairman of the committee, gave statistics on the results of the mental alertness tests given the University freshmen last fall, and compared the averages of the education students with those of the class in general.

When Dr. Gray had completed his talk, a representative of the Board of Examiners discussed the report of the committee previously given. The meeting was closed by a general discussion of the various facts and recommendations presented during the afternoon.

Brilliant Texas Novel Goes into Third Large Printing Within One Week of Publication!

The Golden Cocoon

By Ruth Cross

Here is a Texas girl whom all America has, with amazing rapidity, taken to its heart. Dramatic and unforgettable is the story of the life and love of Molly Shannon,—a novel which carries her from a shanty in the cottonfields to an old Southern capital with its gay social life and haunting charm, and from the tragedy of poverty, disillusionment and despised love to the radiant fulfillment of dreams.
