

Cactus Divided Into Five Feature Sections by Boyd

Students and Faculty Included in First Division

Ink Drawings Used

Bluebonnet Pages to Give Pictures of Campus Beauties

The Cactus of 1930-31 will be divided into five main sections, all of which contain many interesting features, Roland Boyd, editor, said yesterday afternoon. The first section will be that of the personnel of the University, and will contain pictures of the executives, graduates, seniors, and juniors.

The activities section, which comes next, will include snapshots of campus life, photographs of the Cowboys, Glee Clubs, and other campus organizations. An interesting feature of this section will be a comic strip along the side of the page, the characters of which will make comments at the persons in the snapshots.

The photographs of the members of the football team will feature the section given to athletics. There will be a bust picture of each player, alongside of which there will be an ink drawing of this player in action.

The Bluebonnet Belle section will include photographs of the Cactus beauties. A full length view and a profile view of each girl will be given.

Pictures Made After Christmas

A color scheme of orange and white will feature the section of the fraternities and sororities.

Pictures of the candidates for the beauty sections of the Cactus will not be made until after Christmas, Boyd has announced. There are 101 candidates for the beauty section this year, but only approximately one-half of these have filled out the cards provided for them at the Cactus office. Candidates who have not filled out these cards may do so Monday afternoon at the Cactus office in B. Hall, Boyd said.

Plans for Building Made at Galveston

Plans for the new laboratory building to be erected for the School of Medicine of the University were discussed by Professor R. L. White, supervising architect of the University and member of the faculty at Galveston during Professor White's visit to that city.

Professor White spent three days in Galveston on business, returning to Austin Friday morning.

GALVESTON CLUB MEETS

Plans for a Christmas dance were discussed by members of the Galveston Club at a meeting Thursday night in the Main Building, Lalor Biering announced. Selection of the orchestra and other plans have not as yet been completed.

around the perip

with the buzzard

The Buzzard wonders what "RUNT" WILLIAMS was doing coming out of the Sigma Chi house in such a hurry yesterday morning—maybe it was to get in the game of "warshers" that "DOSS BIBBIE" was trying to get started in the Kappa Sig's front yard.

MILDRED WASHBURN and SARAH ANN LLEWELLYN, the long and the short of the Tri Delta, seemed to have had a hard time of it when they made their first class yesterday morning.

RALPH GREENLEIGH, a little Zetas' question-mark, was seen walking down the drag and kinda laggin' along in front of the local jewelry store. False hopes.

SARAH THOMPSON has told a friend that she is beginning to wonder what's a use—especially in the mornings.

SAM HILL, that big tall blonde westerner bids a friend an affectionate farewell from the top of the Main Building steps.

ERMA LOVELL says that she doesn't see as much nowadays as she used to, but she expects a "change" before long now.

Some people should be more careful: The BUZZARD knows why DORIS POWELL was so anxious to see "DR." ARTHUR BAGBY yesterday morning.

Engineers Hold Second Reunion

Homecoming Dinner For Thanksgiving

Ex-students of the College of Engineering of The University of Texas will hold their second biennial homecoming on Thanksgiving Day, November 27. T. U. Taylor, dean of the College of Engineering, announced that Engineering Building 108 will be headquarters and that members of the Homecoming Association will gather there at 11 o'clock, Thanksgiving Day.

The dinner will be held in the University Cafeteria beginning promptly at 12 o'clock, on the principle of, in the words of Dean Taylor, "Pay as you go and get in free." No expenses will be incurred by engineering exes for the food. This will be a family affair, and Dean Taylor urges each ex-student to bring his wife and children. Members of the present senior class are invited to come and bring their mothers, fathers, and sisters. He gives positive assurance that the crowd will be dismissed promptly at 1:30 o'clock, in plenty of time to see the Texas Longhorns defeat the Aggies.

The Engineers' Homecoming Association was organized in 1928, and the members decided to meet every Thanksgiving Day that the Texas-A. & M. football game is played in Austin. Members of the association residing in Austin will meet in Dean Taylor's office Wednesday night, November 26, to complete plans for the homecoming.

Hogg Society Wins In Debate Series

Hogg debaters became the champions of the University in the fall semester inter-society debates by virtue of their two wins over the Rusk Literary Society and their one win and one forfeit over the Athenaeum Literary Society. The last debate was held Thursday night, November 20, when the affirmative team of the Athenaeum Literary Society composed of John Bell and Frank Knapp forfeited to the negative team of the Hogg Debating Club, composed of Minard Stevens and Orville Booth. The Hogg Debating Club will be awarded the loving cup which is given by the University Co-Op each year to the winner of the inter-society debates.

The two debate teams of the Hogg Club were composed of Lester Boone and Wendell Little of the affirmative and Minard Stevens and Orville Booth of the negative. These four debaters will meet December 4 to try out for the best speaker of the squad, who will receive a watch from the Carl Mayer Jewelry Company.

At the regular meeting of the club Thursday night, Irving Tennant and C. A. Gully were elected to membership. The "weekly grunt" was given by Orville Booth.

THREE STUDENTS ILL

Three students were reported ill at local hospitals yesterday. They were L. T. Spagans at St. David's Hospital and Julian Baldwin and Milton Connally at Seton Infirmary. A home visit was made to Dorothy Nell Ross.

Ayers to Speak To Teachers At Houston Meeting

Children's Age Problem Furnish Topic For Lecture

Work Explained

State Teachers' Association Holds Convention Next Week

Research on the general problem associated with children who enter school at the age of six instead of seven years of age will be the basis of a talk to be given by Dr. Fred C. Ayres, professor of educational administration, at the annual meeting of the Texas State Teachers' Association which will be held in Houston during the Thanksgiving holidays.

Dr. Ayres will speak at the meeting of the department of superintendents which will be held November 28, at 9 o'clock on the first floor auditorium of the First Methodist Church of Houston. "The Six-Year Entrance Problem" will be the subject of his address.

Dr. Ayres will point out that this problem has arisen as a direct result of the new law in Texas, which went into effect this year, allowing pupils to enter school at the age of six instead of seven as formerly without paying tuition.

He will discuss the relation of six-year-old entrance to the seven-year-old elementary school which prevails in Texas. The type of work and the organization best adapted to handling six-year-olds and the rate of promotion which may be expected, will be explained.

Others Speak
Other speakers at the meeting will be Superintendent W. E. Moore of Beaumont who will speak on "Child Accounting Forms for Texas Schools"; Professor George D. Strayer of the Teachers' College of Columbia University whose address will be on "A State Plan for Financing Public Education"; and Professor Charles H. Judd, director of the School of Education at the University of Chicago, who will discuss "The Seven-Year vs. the Eight-Year Elementary School."

Dr. Ayres will also attend the meeting of the teachers and the superintendents of Houston schools which will be held during the first part of the week. He will address the group on "Improvement of the Study Habits of Pupils."

Reports Made By Student Leaders

Hugh Dunlap Re-elected To Athletic Council

Reports of the various committees appointed at the last meeting of the Student Assembly were heard and discussed Thursday night in Main Building 212. A new committee was appointed to determine the possibility of providing orange and white cards for Texas rooters in the rooting section of the Thanksgiving football game with A. & M. If the reports are favorable, the Assembly will appropriate the money necessary for purchasing the cards.

Parent-Teacher Congress Meets

Marrs Speaks at Session In San Angelo

Austin delegates to the state convention of the Texas Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teachers Associations, which met in a four-day session at San Angelo this week, there conducted a conference on the work of Spanish-speaking mothers and teachers. The group, led by Mrs. P. L. Guffin, passed a resolution to publish a handbook of simple Spanish literature, dealing with parent-teachers' work, for the benefit of Spanish students and parents in the state.

S.M.N. Marrs, superintendent of public instruction, was the principal speaker of the evening session of the convention.

Delegates from Austin were Mrs. Noyes Darling Smith, mother of Noyes Smith, who received his master of arts degree from the University in August, 1930, and of Horton Smith, a student in the University; Mrs. Will T. Decherd, mother of Emma Virginia and Mary Katherine Decherd, both students of the University; Mrs. Laura Neal Love, and Mrs. Virginia Scarbrough.

Alderson Appointed Swimming Coach

Plans to develop interest in swimming as a sport at the University were discussed by C. J. Alderson, freshman coach, in a talk before a meeting of the Athletic Council held in the office of the council in Gregory Gymnasium Thursday night. Mr. Alderson was given full authority by the council to arouse interest in swimming as an intercollegiate sport, and was appointed varsity coach for the sport.

Lewis Pollock was elected manager of the University golf team, and will serve for a term of one year.

Dedication Ceremony For Renaming Sutton Hall Held Wednesday

Anne Sutton Nash, 8 years old, and baby Lilian Lucille Nash, 5 years old, will take part in the ceremony unveiling the bronze letters which will officially name the Education Building at The University of Texas Sutton Hall in the memory of their late grandfather, William Seneca Sutton, former acting president of the University and dean emeritus of the University School of Education. This ceremony will take place after a brief program honoring Dean Sutton on Wednesday afternoon, November 26, at 4 o'clock.

At Open Air Theater
The program dedicating the building will be held in the University campus open air theater, or, in case of bad weather, in the University Baptist Church. President Harry F. Estill of the Sam Houston State Teachers' College will speak on Dean Sutton's services to the cause of education in the State; B. B. Cobb, superintendent of the Waco schools and a former pupil of Dean Sutton's, will speak on his services as a classroom teacher; Dr. H. Y. Benedict, president of the University, will speak on his service to The University of Texas. Prof. J. L. Henderson of the University School of Education, will act as chairman of the exercises.

Following the dedicatory service, the audience will go to the front of the Education Building where the unveiling ceremony will take place. Judge R. L. Batts, chairman of the Board of Regents, will represent that body in renaming the building officially. The two granddaughters of Dean Sutton, who live in Austin with their grandmother and mother, will lower the drape from the bronze letters, "Sutton Hall."

The committee on arrangements is composed of Dr. W. J. Battle, Dr. Frederick Eby, Dr. J. L. Henderson, Dr. F. W. Simonds, and Dr. B. F. Pittenger.

The service is being held on Wednesday before Thanksgiving in the expectation that many teachers and former associates of Dr. Sutton will take advantage of the opportunity to stop in Austin to attend the ceremony on their way to Houston for the State Teachers' Association meeting.

Other Topics Discussed
Public utilities, industrialization of the South, the present business depression, and the chain store were topics discussed in the program of the association this year. Among the speakers were Professor Bonbright of Columbia University, Professor Garver of Harvard University, and Professors Kinday and Starnes of the University of Virginia.

Dr. Hawk, who was the only representative of The University of Texas at the meeting, is from the University of Virginia. He is taking the place of Dr. E. T. Miller, professor of economics, who is absent on leave and is in Bremen, Germany, for the first semester of this year.

'Eyes of Texas' Given Over Radio

Fort Worth, Chicago Add Songs to Medley

Songs of The University of Texas and A. & M. will be the first of a program of college songs of the Southwestern Conference to be broadcast over station WBAP, Fort Worth, Thursday night, November 27, from 7:30 to 8 o'clock.

The college songs of Harvard, Notre Dame, Wisconsin, Northwestern, Yale, Baylor, Rice, Southern Methodist, and Texas Christian will be included in the program presented by the Universal Mills of Fort Worth, featuring the Red Chain Dance Band.

"The Eyes of Texas" has recently been added to the medley of college songs which is broadcast each week over station WGN, Chicago, as a result of the efforts of Pete, proprietor of Pete's Place, because the Coon-Saunders Victor recording orchestra did not include the song in their medley. Pete wrote a letter to them asking that it be included in the group, and since that time it has been played regularly.

Changes Considered For Writing Essays

Upon a recommendation of the state grading committee the rules of the Interscholastic League concerning the subjects of essays have been changed. Heretofore a list of subjects has been sent out to the schools, and all essays were written on one of the subjects. As the rules now stand contestants will write on current news and other topics that are better known to the student than were the former subjects.

"The student will be allowed to write on things that he has experienced," said Dr. R. A. Law, chairman of the state grading committee.

"The new plan should stimulate interest on the part of the contestant as it offers a better field for imagination," Roy Bedichek, chief of the Interscholastic League, said. "In preparation for the contest the student should practice mechanics in writing," continued Mr. Bedichek.

CLASSES RESUMED

Typewriting and shorthand classes of Florence Mae Stulken, adjunct professor of business administration, will probably meet Monday, November 24, in the old Press Building, Miss Stulken has announced.

Ranger Contributions Due December 1

All contributions for the "Business Depression number" of the Longhorn-Ranger, which will be substituted for the usual Christmas number and will be issued before the Christmas holidays, are due December 1.

No contributions of any kind will be accepted after that date, Alfred Melinger, editor, has announced. The cover for this number carrying out the idea of the "Business Depression," has already been drawn by Marshall Walker, associate editor of the magazine.

Aggies to Drill In New Stunts Between Halves

Special to The Daily Texan.
COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 21.—Cadets of the A. & M. College of Texas this year will present a snapper and more up-to-date set of features during and between halves of the annual gridiron battle between the Texas Aggies and Texas Longhorns at Austin Thanksgiving Day, arrangements being perfected by Fred S. Buford, Dallas, chief of the A. & M. yell leading staff, indicate.

In addition to the immense human "T" formed in midfield between halves of every conference game for so many years that it has become almost an Aggie ritual, the Cadets this year will present from the stands several novelty acts with cards, bearing the maroon and white colors of A. & M. and the 100-piece band will introduce several new formations.

An additional feature between halves will be a brief exhibition drill by members of the Ross Volunteers, crack honorary military organization at A. & M. The Volunteers, captained by Day P. McNeel, senior student from San Antonio, will feature a silent manual and several intricate maneuvers on the gridiron between halves.

The game with Texas on the years when it is played at Austin is always the occasion of an official trip of the A. & M. cadet corps, school usually being suspended until Monday following Thanksgiving to allow the students to see the game and make a short visit home or to friends before returning to school. The corps will parade in Austin immediately upon arrival there Thursday morning.

'Homecoming' To Feature Ranger
November Number Issued Before Thanksgiving

"Homecoming" number of the Longhorn-Ranger will appear several days before Thanksgiving, Alfred Melinger, editor of the magazine, said Monday. The magazine will contain forty pages, and will have a cover in three colors, black, red, and green.

Names and numbers of the football players, both A. & M. and Texas, will feature this edition. There is to be a double-page layout of prominent campus personages entitled "Folks Who Spend Their Week-ends in Austin—and How!"

The literary features of the magazine include a short story by Gladys Parker, N.E.A. Syndicate artist. Other contributors are George Stuart, Lenore Preece, Joe Steiner, Quenton Gustafson, Lewis Baethe, Francis Cook, Van, George Winterbotham, and Bubba Crowder.

Blue Steele Will Play Two Nights

Regular Admission Prices To Be Charged

Because of a general request of the student body, the dance committee of the University has signed a contract with Blue Steele to play for dances both Saturday night, November 22, and Wednesday night, November 26, at Gregory Gymnasium.

The regular admission price of $1 will be charged for both dances. The dance Saturday night will be from 9 to 12 o'clock. Next Wednesday night the dance will start at 8:30 o'clock and last until 12 o'clock, the additional half hour being given over to special entertainment numbers of Blue Steele's band.

One of the outstanding features of the program will be a short skit by five members of the band. Several other numbers, including tap dancing and soloing, will be presented between 8:30 and 9 o'clock.

Blue Steele and his band travel by bus and they are expected to arrive in Austin shortly before the dance Saturday night. They have engaged eighteen tickets for the game Thursday afternoon.

Blue Steele was formerly a tool-dresser in the oil fields of West Texas. About twelve years ago he organized his band and today his orchestra is nationally known. He plays every instrument himself, but is best known as a trombone artist.

For several years Blue Steele's band played over KMOX in St. Louis. He then went to California for an engagement, and now is on his way to New York.

Recognition for Dr. Agol

FOUR YEARS AGO The University of Texas was brought national recognition in the field of biological science through the work of Dr. H. J. Muller, professor of zoology. His work with the x-ray won for him the honor of the greatest accomplishment in the field of science for the year 1926.

His discoveries made by the use of the x-ray on fruit flies have aided greatly in clearing up many mysteries of biology and inheritance. His work paved the way for further study in the field, and this work is now being continued at the University by Dr. I. J. Agol of the University of Moscow, who is studying here.

Dr. Agol is working on the problem of the divisibility of the gene, which heretofore had been considered the smallest and most basic unit of reproductive cell. The working out of the theory advanced by Dr. Agol is accomplished by the use of the x-ray which was discovered by Dr. Muller in his studies.

The work of these two men, who are now working in conjunction will certainly add greatly to the knowledge of evolution. There have been many mysteries in the matter of mutations of species; and the knowledge of these two men will go far to clear them up. Together they can accomplish much more than each could separately; and the prospects are that The University of Texas, through the research of these two men, will advance another field of knowledge beyond its present boundaries.

Lives of great men remind us we can sell our names for a testimonial ad.

For the Schools

VACANCIES in the public lands of Texas have been virtually given to the public schools of the State by a ruling of the Supreme Court of the state. A suit by an oil company against the University was recently dismissed by the court on the ground that in suing the University, the State of Texas was necessarily a party to the suit.

The ruling handed down by the court virtually declared that the vacant lands of the state are the property of the public schools whether or not the legislature had so designated them. There had been no concerted effort to determine the status of these lands until oil was struck in the territory.

These lands are valuable oil lands and their returns will add greatly to the funds of the public schools. The permanent fund of the public school system is growing from the royalties on oils, and in time it, too, will become a large factor in the support of the secondary schools of the state.

The ruling of the court puts at an end all the proceedings regarding the lands of the state which have not been surveyed to individuals.

Preparedness will prevent war, so they say. It is noticeable how peaceable gangs are, now that they've got machine guns.

Financial Prospects

THE GATE RECEIPTS from the A. & M. game this year promise to be the largest ever known in the southwest. Prospects for the game are that the Stadium will be packed and the supplementary bleachers will also be full. The crowd will very probably be the largest that has ever assembled in this state for any reason.

Students will have until the day before the game to obtain their tickets, and by that time it is probable that the whole stands will be filled. The receipts of the game will be larger this year than they were two years ago, even if the crowd is the same size.

Two years ago the general admission tickets sold for $2.50 for most of the seats, and only the best seats on the west side sold for $3. This year the general admission is $3 for any seat. This difference will add considerably to the receipts, and there is little reason to doubt that they will be the largest in the history of Texas Thanksgiving games.

Some people's brain children seem pretty well spoiled.

Bills submitted to legislatures state and national, each year would end every pernicious activity of man except law-making.

Boston Won't Haze

ANOTHER LEADING university of the nation departed from the traditional idea of hazing when Boston University abolished the practice this fall. Traditional freshman hazing had reigned on the campus of the College of Liberal Arts for 30 years only to be dethroned by the students themselves. It is of peculiar interest to note that the movement was entirely initiated by the members of the sophomore class in pursuance of a new policy in dealing with freshmen. Their plan is to aid the first year students in organizing as a class unit, and in the process of adapting themselves to college life.

It is not to be doubted that this action by the students of Boston University is characteristic of the attitude on other campuses over the country, among them The University of Texas. Not many years ago B. Hall resounded to the clashes of "fish" against "soph." In the memories of many on the campus now there exists remembrances of hazing activities and the many ramifications of the idea. Today there remains but the smouldering ashes which flare up feebly on occasions, but each time with less and less strength. A long discussion as to the merits or demerits of this change would be needless, but observations can be made. In the first place, hazing has gone never to resume its place in college life. It was eliminated in the spirit of progress as one of the things serving no useful purpose. In advancement, neither those things that retrogress nor those things that stand still and thereby hinder are tolerated. Such was the case of hazing and such has been its fate.

Student Forum

—NOR ANY DROP TO DRINK

Somebody has said that you can lead a horse to water but you can't make him drink. This apt expression reminds us of the situation now existing at the Gymnasium-Auditorium during the Saturday night dances, and to paraphrase we might say you can develop a thirst but you can't get a drink—of water.

The fact is this: All fountains except one, which is very remotely located, have been cut off. It is impossible to get a drink of water any place around the dance floor except at this one fountain. Rather than search for it or get injured in the rush, naturally the student will invest his money in a glass of punch. Suggested result: Increased sales should mean increased profits. The students have begun to complain, and rightly so. After all, water is not a bad drink. When a man wants water he usually wants water, and as a friend of ours once said, the person who invented water certainly knew what the people wanted.

Regardless of how the water got cut off and regardless of the motives back of the act, students at the Saturday night dances should be able to drink water when they want it. We are for free speech—free love—and for free water. Turn on the fountains.—P. C.

KANSAS ASKS LEGAL PROCEDURE

Time dragged along, and we are no nearer a solution to the Big Six charges against Kansas than three weeks ago. "What will Kansas do?" asks the public, and Kansas cannot answer because Kansas herself is still wanting to know what has happened.

Right or wrong, Kansas has taken a certain stand, and the other schools in the Big Six have ignored it. Right or wrong, Kansas has asked certain things for her own rights and they have been blandly overlooked.

Kansas asked the Big Six for a specific report of the charges against it and for the evidence which caused the other schools to act as they did. None has been given. Members of our athletic board have conferred with Missouri officials, and they report no satisfaction.

The board has employed a lawyer of Lawrence to investigate. He has done, according to the assurances of the Chancellor, extremely thorough work. He saw every member of the football squad, found out everything about Kansas athletic practices that he could. After his evidence was placed before the Kansas athletic board, that body believed nothing in it was sufficiently harmful to Kansas to merit the Big Six's action.

Whether Kansas is justified or not in the matter, the officials of the Big Six owe it the right of a fair trial with definite charges and evidence, a fair judge and jury, the publishing of the facts, and a just punishment if guilt is found—or complete apology and vindication if innocence is the verdict.

Nobody in Kansas wants to defend it if the other schools are justified. If those schools have made Kansas the goat for their own sins, however, no apology from them can be too elaborate.—University Daily Kansan.

CATALOG DEGREES OF RIOTING

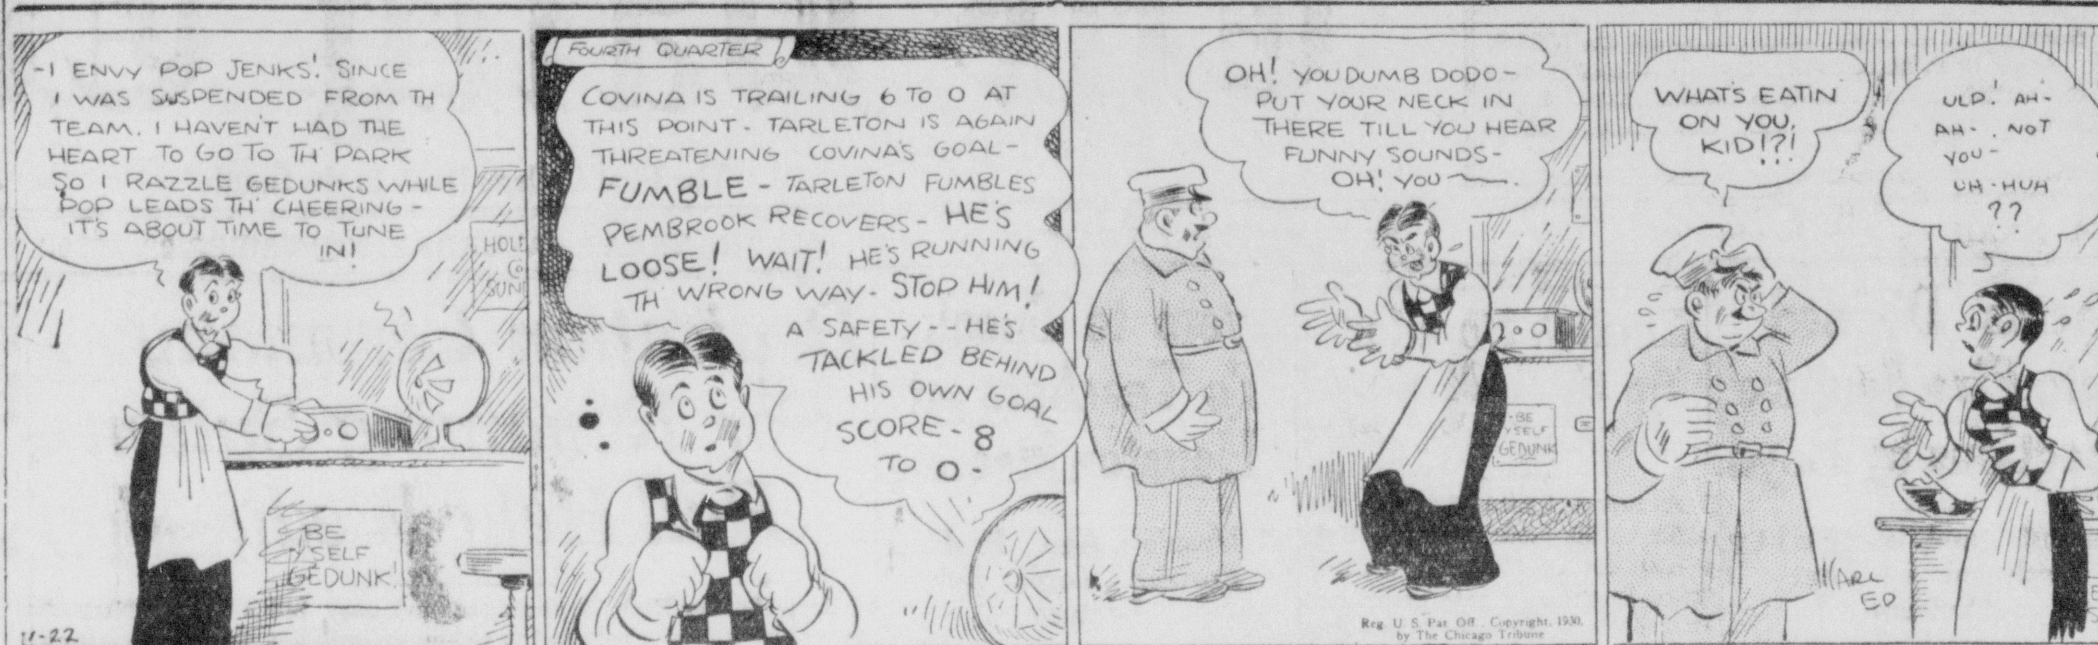

"Irresponsible yahooism" was the charge flung at forty-two Princeton undergraduates who were suspended recently for periods varying from one year to one week.

Suspension of forty-two students was a severe measure, although probably no more so than it should have been for such offenses, but the question that arises is one of the fairness in such discrimination. Can punishment for a post-rally riot be so justly meted out that fourteen may rightly be asked to leave for one week, three for two weeks, five for one month, two until next January, four for a year, and fourteen indefinitely?

It must have been a rare sort of disturbance if blame for the offense could be laid on forty-two students whose shades of guilt in the crime can be met with punishment divided into six categories of suspension. It would seem an impossible task to determine who should be asked to leave for two weeks, and who should be deserving of a month's suspension in such a case as this.

If such discrimination could be justly made the measure would have been wise, but it would be a queer sort of riot in which the guilt could be distributed with such precision.—Daily Californian.

Gutzon Borglum, one of the greatest living sculptors, doesn't approve of Cal Coolidge's English style. He edited the inscription that the ex-president wrote to be put on the side of the Mount Rushmore monument to the most distinguished of our presidents, and when the wizened Republican got back the edited copy he withdrew it. Says Stone-Mason Borglum: "I will say that the monument is to include portraits of Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln, and Roosevelt. The only interest I have in the statement which is to be inscribed on the mountain is that it shall be purely a digest of just what those men meant and that it shall be written in beautiful English. Posterity will hold me responsible for that." . . .

Opening Today

"THE BIG TRAIL," Raoul Walsh's expansive panorama of the advance of the covered wagons from the Mississippi to the West Coast, will be presented on the Hancock Theater screen for one week starting today. It has been hailed, without a dissenting voice, as a tremendous production, "carrying throughout an inescapable sense of authenticity in its reflection of the romantic days of the pioneers." In such a picture, the individuals carrying the thread of the story may be relatively insignificant, but they are John Wayne, Marguerite Churchill, El Brendel, and Tully Marshall. There are also more than 20,000 others, giving some idea of the vast scope of the picture. It has also been dignified with the title of epic, remembering simultaneously that it is aimed nonetheless at entertainment. It is a Fox picture.

"DERELICT" will bring George Bancroft to the Paramount Theater talking screen today through Tuesday in a sea picture designed specially to fit his personality and talents. He is said to carry his role of seaman with his customary ruthlessness and unswerving might, making it perhaps the best part he has ever portrayed. The story is one of the sea and ships and men that sail the ships, and takes its conflict out of the rivalry in love and seamanship of two captains of coastwise freighters. The thrills of the sea in a tropical storm are climaxed by a fight between the two captains for the big punch of the picture, according to press notices. The other captain is enacted by the William Boyd of former stage fame, who helped make the fight in "The Spoilers" so effective. Jessie Royce Landis is the woman.

FACULTY HUNTERS STALK GOBBLERS AS DEER ESCAPE

The faculty huntsmen did not have an overwhelming success, although their spirit still remains, and they will try again this weekend. Gobbler hunters were their victims, while the roving bucks still rove.

Dr. C. A. Wiley, professor of economics, and R. A. Cox, also of the department of economics, hunted together. They report that they killed a number of gobbler, but that the deer on their lease were so well hidden that there was no opportunity to kill them.

Major S. N. Ekdahl, instructor in physical training, with a party of five, hunted Sunday on their lease near Johnson City. Although they saw a doe, three yearlings, and later a buck, they were unable to get close enough to shoot. According to Major Ekdahl, the lease shows signs of numerous deer, and since it is closer to Austin than Kerrville, it affords a shorter trip than the other route.

Disappointed because he could not leave with Wiley and Cox last week, Dr. Robert H. Montgomery, professor of economics, says that he will be on the field of battle this coming Saturday with intent to kill deer and gobbler. Wiley and Cox will not be able to go this week-end, but Major Ekdahl will return to his lease and use his tactics to outsmart a deer.

HARRIERS LEAVE FOR CONFERENCE MEET

SAYS ME--

By ALBERT REESE
Texas Sports Staff

Finals in the doubles of the city tournament will be played today at 3 o'clock. The players will be Barnes and Kamrath vs. Allison and Caswell. There will be no admission charge.

Today is the day when every lad in the Southwest conference who can run 3.5 miles at a good rate of speed will go scampering across the landscape in a state of semi-sartorial discrepancy. As to the outcome, some say this, and some say the other, but regardless of the amount and quality of the conjectures tossed hither and yon, Winders, Perkins, and Smith of A. & M. will probably sneak in under the wire in the order named.

It's very nice and quite commendable to be loyal to one's team, and optimistic as to the outcome of any race or contest in which said team may by accident or design, be participating. But nevertheless, also, and notwithstanding this salient fact, there is such a thing as being too optimistic. Optimism is a trait to be admired in anyone, but don't get the name of being an optimist. But away with the sermon and on with the bull.

To return to the cross country meet, Says Me has the idea that if Blakeney and Cole finish fourth and fifth, they'll be doing quite well. If Blakeney should happen to nose out Smith, that will be most delightful. But not being an optimist, Says Me doesn't look for it.

All things being equal, as we psychologists are wont to say, Winders is the best cross-country man in the conference, and despite past performances, Says Me believes that when Cole is up to par he is next best. Cole didn't finish in the recent dual meet with the Aggies, "everything going black in the middle of the race" to use his own terminology, and he isn't up to snap today. He has a pretty bad toe, and toes, combined with feet, legs, wind and guts, are the things that win cross-country races. Cy has two good legs, two good feet, plenty of wind and insides, but only nine good toes.

As has been so dutifully, painstakingly, and at times laboriously set down in the sport columns of various and sundry newspapers about the state, if A. & M. is "right" on Thanksgiving Day, and the Longhorns in the same listless mood as they were at the time of the Rice disaster, the Aggies will win. But don't go betting any money on A. & M. You will lose it.

Yesterday's game with the Lutheran College Bulldogs showed Jimmy Burr in the light of a wonderful kicker. He got off several nice ones, and one of his boots measured about 68 yards. The Longhorns can use a good, consistent punter next year. Maybe Jimmy's it.

All in all, Hank Clewis was the star ball-toter of the game. Says Me didn't see the game, but Marty Karow says his broken-field running was something beautiful to behold. Andy Brown, Nick Gatoura and Carl Tyson were very much present. Nick made one run of 20 or so yards that would do credit to the fastest backfield man who ever trod the gridiron.

Reserves Trounce Bulldogs, Score 25-7

Special to The Daily Texan.

SEGUIN, Nov. 21.—The Texas Steer reserves came to Seguin Friday to trounce the Lutheran College Bulldogs by a decisive 25-7 score. Hank Clewis, sensational Steer sophomore, ripped the line for long runs to two touchdowns, and O'Brien, Texas guard, blocked a punt for the third marker. The Bulldogs scored their only touchdown when they intercepted a backward pass behind the line of scrimmage and raced to a touchdown.

Nick Gatoura, stellar Longhorn center, played a marvelous game, both defensively and offensively. Once he intercepted a pass and tore 20 yards down the field with the deception and speed of a backfieldman. Carl Tyson played a good game at tackle for Texas.

Jimmy Burr did nice punting for Texas, and Blackburn of the Lutherans got off one beautiful 85-yard punt during the fracas.

Stanley Cox, former University student now attending the School of Medicine at Galveston, will be in Austin for the Thanksgiving game.

Cynthia Connally, Pi Beta Phi, and Johnny Myrtle Mann of Scottish Rite Dormitory will spend the holidays in McGregor.

Given Chance To Take Title

Longhorn harriers, conceded an outside chance to win a conference championship at College Station this afternoon, will leave at noon today for Aggie land. Coach Roy McLean is taking seven men, including Captain Cole, Schiller, Bowen, Blakeney, Deacon, Storm, and Johnson.

The Steers are slated to arrive at College Station about 4 o'clock, with the race starting at 5 o'clock. The Texas Aggies, last year's winners, are favored to repeat. The Longhorns are the only crew in the conference accorded a chance to stage an upset. Captain Cole and Blakeney are Steer mainstays, and they face the unenviable task of beating out Dick Winders, Aggie leader, and outstanding cross-country man of the Southwest.

Aggies Hope To Repeat Victory

Special to The Daily Texan.

COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 21.—Coach Frank Anderson's Texas Aggie cross country runners will appear in the double roll of hosts and defending champions in the eleventh annual Southwest Conference cross country meet at the A. & M. course at College Station this afternoon. Six of the seven Southwest members are expected to have representatives in the meet which will determine the 1930 harrier champions of the conference. Arkansas is the only school not expected to be represented.

Holders of the conference title since 1927, when they captured the flag for the third time since cross country was added to the list of conference sports in 1920, the Aggie thin clads this year again loom as outstanding contenders for the championship, with the Texas Longhorns next in line.

Ags Whip Steers
The Aggies have scored overwhelming victories over the Longhorn and Rice runners in dual meets this season and the Longhorns have been victorious over S. M. U. and Rice. In the A. & M.-Texas meet, however, the running of Cole and Blakeney, who were expected to shine this season, was disappointing and it is possible that with these two men back in their old form the Steers will give the Aggies far more trouble than has been contemplated.

The race will be run over a 3.8 mile course which is virtually level throughout and the harriers will run on gravel during most of the race though a portion of the course is of asphalt. The A. & M. runners last week in downing the Owls completed the course in 19 minutes and 35 seconds, but in practice competitions have registered 19 minutes and 8 seconds. Since the courses of the various schools vary to a great extent there is no official Southwestern cross country record and any time close to 19 minutes may be considered good.

Mrs. Will Evers of Denton will spend the week-end with her daughter Lotta at the Alpha Chi Omega house.

Bears and Frogs Meet Today in Crucial Tilt

Special to The Daily Texan.

FORT WORTH, Nov. 21.—Coaches Schmidt and Wolf have been drilling the Horned Frogs on offense all week, in preparation for the game with the powerful Baylor Bears who come to Fort Worth today for a game that will have direct bearing on the conference championship.

Should the Frogs win, they have only S. M. U. to defeat to attain the heights no other Southwest team has ever been able to accomplish, win two conference championships in successive years.

Coach Morley Jennings will bring a powerful aggregation to Frogland with the sole purpose of avenging the 34 to 7 defeat the Frogs handed the Bears in Waco last year and to eliminate the Frogs from the conference running.

The Bruins boast one of the strongest forward walls in the conference. Neither S. M. U. nor Texas was able to make much progress against such men as Koch, Witcher, Paradeaux, Winton, and Morris. Paradeaux, next to Captain Atkins of the Horned Frogs, is the outstanding center in the conference.

The crowd that sees that Baylor-Christian tilt will be the second largest of the year in Fort Worth, advance ticket sales indicate. It will probably pass the 12,000 mark, according to mid-week guesses.

The Frogs, with all their men in good condition except Hinton, are determined to register a victory Saturday. Reports reaching here indicate that the Bears are just as determined. The showing of the two teams against the Texas Longhorns indicate equality of material. So the game should be one of the best staged in the Christian stadium this season.

Nebraska Wants Games with U. T.

Negotiations for a two game series between the University of Nebraska and The University of Texas football teams have been started by D. X. Bible, football coach at Nebraska, in the hopes that the two teams may be able to arrange games for 1932 and 1933. Bible wired Littlefield, Coach of the Longhorns, asking for the games, but the Texas Athletic Council will have to either turn the games down or accept it.

Indications were that Texas would not accept the game, for two schools from the Big Six are already on the Texas schedule for the next several years, and it is thought that if a third inter-sectional contest is scheduled, the school will be from another section of the country. Oklahoma

Admission to the balcony of the gym will be free. The regular All-University dance will follow the game.

"While the entire squad will see action in the game, I intend to start Earl Taylor at center, Captain James Fomby at one forward post and Tullis or Minton White at the other, and Allan Ingram and Wyatt Taylor at the guard positions," Coach Walker said Friday night.

However, early in the game, Kubricht, Blair, Miller, Harrison Bowers, and the rest of the squad will get their first taste of real cage play this season. The game will be used as a real test of this year's material. Advance reports indicate that the San Antonio bunch has a power team and Texas began a ten-year contract last year, and next year, Missouri, another Big Six school, begins a four-year contract. Harvard furnishes a third inter-sectional contest for Texas next year.

and the majority of the players are big, rangy cagers.

The squad ran through a fast practice drill Friday afternoon with light scrimmaging against the freshman aspirants. Passing and guarding have been emphasized the past week, and the players are getting their first taste of varsity plays.

The entire squad will be on hand Monday following the Thanksgiving holidays as the football season will wind up November 27. The first two weeks of December are to be devoted to the hardest kind of conditioning and practice on smoothness of plays as the squad has several games scheduled before and during the Christmas holidays.

There is a chance that the squad will be able to don their new equipment for the game tonight. White wool sweatshirts with orange collars and cuffs, and white jerseys with an orange "Texas" across the front make up the top half of the new suits. The sweat pants are white and the playing pants are of white silk with orange trimmings.

This game is the first cage encounter to be played in Gregory Gymnasium. The addition of the building to the campus gives the cagers the first definite practice floor that they have possessed since the old gymnasium burned several years ago. The crowd will occupy the balcony that surrounds the playing floor, and the squad and officials have the entire main floor to themselves.
