

Legion Meet Aug. 27-30

C. R. Granberry Asks Aid To Greet Campus Visitors

Facilities of the University are being organized to take care of one of the largest groups of visitors ever received on the campus when the American Legion, the American Legion Auxiliary, the 40 and 8 Society, the 8 and 40 Society, and the Sons of Veterans hold their State Convention in Austin August 27-30.

It was estimated at the office of the University Public Relations Committee Saturday that from eight thousand to ten thousand persons would be in the city for the meeting and convention officials have advised the University that the greater part of the visitors will doubtless wish to inspect the University plant.

Staff members and students who are to be on the campus during the convention have been invited by C. R. Granberry to participate in the reception of visitors to the campus. Mr. Granberry is chairman of the reception division of the University Public Relations Committee.

The August Commencement ceremonies will bring a number of guests to the University in addition to convention visitors. Participants in a high school band contest, to be held during the Legion convention, will also augment the number of visitors.

Mr. Granberry asked that staff members and students who can serve notify him by card placed in care of the Public Relations Office, Journalism Building, or by a telephone call to 2-2473, where a message can be left with the telephone operator.

The campus hosts will take their places at different points and in different buildings on the campus. Mimeographed information regarding the buildings that are open, descriptions of collections, and general facts about the University will be furnished the guides.

This is one of the largest groups to ever visit the campus at any one time, Mr. Granberry said. He urged all staff members and students to respond to this emergency call for campus hosts.

University officials have been in consultation with local members of the Legion convention committee and with representatives of the State Department for the past several weeks, arranging plans for the University's participation in the event.

Arrangements have been made to have the University plant open for inspection by Legion visitors at the following hours: Saturday, August 27, 10 o'clock to 12 o'clock in the morning, 2 o'clock to 5 o'clock in the afternoon; Sunday, August 28, 2 o'clock to 5 o'clock in the afternoon; Monday, August 29, and Tuesday, August 30, 10 o'clock until 12 o'clock in the mornings and 2 o'clock until 5 o'clock in the afternoons.

The Comptroller's Office is making arrangements for a special staff to operate the Main Building elevators and to perform other functions necessary in opening the plant at special hours. Vehicular traffic will be allowed through the campus on Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday, and official convention cars and cars of visitors will be allowed to park on the campus during those three days. The Main Building Tower will be lighted each night of the convention. C. D. Simmons, acting comptroller, and George Stephens, assistant to the comptroller, are supervising these plans.

Alexander Moffitt, associate librarian, has announced that the Loan Library and special libraries including the Rare Books Collection, the Texas Collection, the Latin-American Collection, the Archives Department, and the Newspaper Collection will be open at the hours indicated above and Library department heads will be on hand to greet the visitors. Announcements regarding the opening of various other buildings will be made shortly.

Guides will be available on the campus during the four days mentioned to greet the visitors and direct them to points of interest. Bob Kniffin, president of Alpha Phi Omega, and Val Jean Aldred, president of Mortar Board, are co-operating in furnishing guides and campus hosts.

Band Prospects Make Inquiries

High school graduates from all sections of the country have been writing to Colonel George E. Hurt, director of the Longhorn Band, this summer asking information concerning possibilities of their joining the Band during the coming Long Session.

Stating qualifications of experience ranging from military bands to Kansas City dance orchestras, letters have been received from as far away as Massachusetts. Among other states from which letters have come are Tennessee, Missouri, Iowa, and Michigan.

In making preparations for the 1938-1939 band, Colonel Hurt has given attention to all the letters received; however, because of limited resources and Band funds, no definite assurance can as yet be given to the majority of the students inquiring.

One student, writing from Missouri, stated that he had been playing the trumpet for ten years in military and dance bands and would like to enroll in the University and play in the Longhorn Band, play football, and compete in track.

Ten Pharmacists Asking Degrees

August graduates of the College of Pharmacy have yet another intensive examination before they can practice pharmacy, Dean W. F. Gidley, of the College of Pharmacy, explained.

The next step for these graduates is to take the six tests given by the State Board of Pharmacy in Dallas on September 7, 8, 9. One of these tests is a practical examination in which the candidate goes to the laboratory. He may be called upon to fill prescriptions, with the possibility of as many as five thousand items listed.

Those candidates asking degrees in the College of Pharmacy this month are as follows: Fabian Bearden, Harvey Buncie, Lillian Louise Campbell, Clifton Shirley Dunn, William Davis Gamble, Robert D. Harris, Kenneth Johnson, Lohar August Krause, Marie C. Vela, Bill Ellis Woods.

Adams Loses Car To Prospective Buyer

H. Thomas Adams, business administration senior in the University, suffered the loss of a Model A Ford after having let a prospective buyer take it away with him.

The prospective buyer gave Adams $5 as a down payment and said he would be back. That was last Sunday. Neither the man nor the car has come home yet. Adams filed charges of theft in a justice of the peace court.

New Teachers Of Fine Arts Widely Known

Lockwood Painted
Post Office Murals
At Washington

By ROY PENNYQUICK

The men appointed to the College of Fine Arts Faculty by the Board of Regents Saturday, Ward Lockwood, chairman of the Department of Art, and Gordon Minter, assistant professor of drama, are widely known in American art circles.

Mr. Lockwood is listed in Who's Who in American Art for 1938. Born in Atchinson, Kansas, forty-four years ago, Mr. Lockwood has studied at Kansas University, the Academy of Fine Arts in Philadelphia, Pa., and the Academy Ransom, Paris, France.

He is a member of the American Society of Painters, Sculptors, and Engravers, the National Mural Painters Society, and is a Fellow of the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts.

Mr. Lockwood is best known for his painting of murals in numerous public buildings. He received the commission from the Federal government in a national competition for the painting of the murals in the Post Office Department Building in Washington, D. C., several years ago. He also painted the murals in the Wichita, Kansas post office, as another competitive award. His work received the Logan Prize at the International Exhibition of the Chicago Art Institute in 1931 and the Purchase Prize at the Annual Exhibition of Western Painting in San Francisco in 1932.

Much of Mr. Lockwood's work is publicly owned. He has paintings in the Whitney Museum of American Art in New York, the Lambert Collection of the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, the Denver Art Museum, and in the California Palace of the Legion of Honor in San Francisco.

Mr. Lockwood is known as the United States' foremost true fresco painter. Fresco work is that in which paint is applied to wet plaster, which congeals and must, therefore, be perfect at the first attempt.

During the World War, Mr. Lockwood was a captain in the infantry and acted as aide-de-camp to Major-General F. L. Winn. He saw service at St. Mihiel and in the Argonne.

Mr. Lockwood has been president of the Darwin Foundation, a branch of the University of New Mexico, and has been an art teacher at the Fine Arts Center at Colorado Springs, Colo.

Mr. Minter, who will take the post of assistant professor of technical production in the department of drama, comes from the Harvard University Department of Drama.

The 30-year-old professor received the degree of bachelor of arts from Colorado College in 1930. He received the degree of master of fine arts from Yale University in 1937. Since that time, he has taught drama in Harvard University.

Boner Outlines Commencement

Aynsworth to Speak
To August Graduates

Highlighted by an address by Dr. K. H. Aynsworth on "Higher Education and the Democratic Ideal," the University Commencement Exercises August 29 will be short and symbolic, Dr. C. P. Boner, chairman of the Commencement Committee, has announced.

No diplomas will be presented individually. The Commencement will be the third to follow this procedure, the faculty committee on commencement having changed graduating plans last summer to allow for the increase in the number of graduates.

The actual services will begin at 7:45 o'clock on the terrace in front of the Main Building. Processions will begin formation at 7:30 o'clock. In case of rain, the services will be held in Gregory Gym.

The Longhorn Band will furnish music for the exercises and will play the processional and recessional for the Baccalaureate Service August 28.

The graduates of the School of Law may carry out their custom of wearing white suits with sunflower boutonnières, Dean Ira P. Hildebrand has said.

No gowns will be worn by the men on the rostrum, but candidates may dress as they desire, Dr. Boner said.

William L. McGill, professor of journalism, will represent the Commencement Committee in supervising the seating arrangement, ushering, distribution of programs, and other matters relating to the physical set-up, Dr. Boner said.

Physical arrangements for the ceremonies will be directed also by George Stephens, representing the Comptroller's Office. These arrangements will include besides the provision of seats the installation of lighting facilities and loud-speaker equipment.

CALHOUN TO SPEAK

President J. W. Calhoun will deliver commencement addresses at Texas Technological College, Lubbock, and Abilene Christian College, Abilene, August 24 and 25, respectively, he has announced.

Final Exams, Like the Poor, Always With Us

Begin August 25,
Last 3 Days,
End on Saturday

Final examinations, like the poor, are always with us. We will be more sharply reminded of that old axiom when a three-day period of finals will bring to a climax six weeks of study and the Summer Session.

To students, other than candidates for degrees in August, the final exam period, extending from Thursday, August 25, through Saturday, August 27, will mean the completion of the second term and the completion of another unit of work, we hope, we hope, we hope.

Below is a complete exam schedule, as announced by E. J. Matthews, registrar:

Board of Regents Accepts Museum

$600,000 Plant

Texans' 8-Year-Old Hope Realized by New Museum

By MAX B. SKELTON

The 1938-39 student body will be the first to have access to the Texas Memorial Museum, newest architectural structure to be added to the University campus. The building, constructed at a cost of approximately $600,000, including equipment, was officially accepted by University officials yesterday, but will not be open to the general public until September 15.

Six or eight years ago, when Texans began to think seriously of proper observance of the Texas Centennial, there grew a general visualized hope that someday Texas could have a permanent museum building, comparable with the best of other state museums. The Texas Department of the American Legion and Centennial-minded Texans combined their efforts, with the assistance of state and federal legislative bodies, the result being the four-story white limestone structure, the first of three units located on a hill just east of the intersection of Red River and Twenty-fourth Streets, overlooking the campus from the east.

J. E. Pearce, professor of anthropology, was appointed by the University Board of Regents last June as acting director of the museum and at the present time has a staff constructing and reconstructing cases and arranging exhibits. He hopes to have the building in order by the beginning of the Long Session in September.

One million dollars was set as the goal for Texas' first large museum, and with Centennial events also asking for funds, the task seemed almost impossible. Five hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars were to be raised before the first unit could be planned. The American Legion took the first real step toward the funds by securing the passage of a bill by the United States Congress, providing for the coining of memorial half-dollars to be sold to the public for $1 each. President Roosevelt signed the bill in 1933 and Governor James V. Allred auctioned the first ten coins. By November, 1935, nearly thirty thousand coins had been sold.

The assistance given by the legislative bodies made possible an early erection of the building. In April, 1935, $225,000 was appropriated by the Texas Legislature and later in the same year the United States Congress provided $300,000 for the building as a part of its participation in the Centennial celebrations. The balance of the funds was raised by the students of the University and by Texas citizens.

Although minor mechanical contracts for the building proper have not been completed as yet, the only actual construction work remaining is that of the approach to the entrance facing Red River Street. The rocky 200-yard slope will be replaced with a series of stairs leading to alternating terraces backed by walls of white limestone. A small fountain, designed to symbolize the power of Texas' natural resources, will be built below the upper terraces.

Fifteen tons of structural glass were used in the making of the three large windows in the front of the building. The windows, constructed of glass bricks, are twenty-five feet wide and sixty-seven feet high. Natural lighting for the building will be furnished by these windows, aided by only four other very small openings. All remaining light will be artificial. Two separate systems have been installed to keep the air circulating properly throughout the four floors.

The main entrance leads into Memorial Hall, which extends through two floors of the building. The walls are white with a wainscoting of French rouge antique marble. Above the wainscoting are six large medallions representing the seals of the six governments which have ruled over Texas.

There will be an entrance to the building on Twenty-fourth Street, by way of San Jacinto Boulevard.

One division of the exhibits, anthropology, is practically complete at this time. Only sections on the kitchen and the burial remain to be completed. The anthropology division will comprise an entire floor of the building.

The Humble Oil and Refining Company of Houston has had experts in Austin for several weeks arranging the exhibits which that company has given to the museum and which were inspected by thousands of visitors at the Texas Centennial and Pan-American Expositions in Dallas. This exhibit contains a series of relief maps, illustrating the geological strata, particularly that affecting oil in Texas. Professor Pearce, in describing the exhibit, stated that the maps show a very vivid picture of history for over 500,000,000 years.

Besides the relief maps, the Humble Company has also presented to the historical division of the museum a series of dioramic displays showing missions of the early Southwest and presenting mission and frontier life of the early settlers.

Before the Humble Company made definite plans for its participation in the Centennial Exposition, company officials decided that an exhibit which could later be made into a permanent display would be the most logical and beneficial presentation. As a result, many thousands of dollars were spent in the hiring of experts for research, design, and construction of the maps and dioramic displays. Following the conclusion of the Pan-American Exposition, the company immediately decided to present the exhibits to the Memorial Museum and set its experts to work on changing the displays to meet the requirements of the new building's permanent display.

When exhibits have been completely arranged, the geology section will occupy the ground floor of the museum. Arrangements for the geology division are under the direction of Dr. H. B. Stenzel. Included in the exhibit will be a series of relief maps of Texas showing various geological phases of soil production. Wall sections of the geological division will show dioramic displays of sea life during the Cretaceous period in Texas.

Photographs of native Texas wildflowers, prepared on opal glass and mounted in specially lighted wall cases, will form an important part of the botanical division, to be located in the north wing of the second floor of the building.

P.W.A. Makes
Dormitory Grant

By PAT DANIELS

With the formal acceptance of the Texas Memorial Museum Saturday by the University Board of Regents, acting in their capacity as the Board of Directors for the museum, the building officially becomes a part of the University plant.

A dream for many years, the museum was erected at a cost of approximately $600,000, including equipment. The building will be opened in September.

The Regents met for their regular business meeting and did not discuss the University Presidency, Leo C. Haynes, secretary of the Board, said Saturday afternoon.

The Board accepted a P.W.A. offer for building a small men's dormitory. An outright grant of $46,636 was made for the building, and a loan of $57,000 was advanced. Mr. Haynes said that the University still has applications in P.W.A. headquarters for one men's and one women's dormitory.

The Library-Administration Building at the College of Mines in El Paso was accepted. The building was erected at a cost of $100,000.

A budget of $203,388 for the College of Mines, approximately the same as that for last year, was adopted for next year. The budget included two new appointments: J. Perry Steen, instructor in engineering, and J. H. James Jr., instructor in English.

Action was taken on the following matters from the University docket:

The resignation of Miss Louise Hurt as secretary to the Dean of Women was accepted, and Mrs. Martha Blanche Martyr was appointed to the place for the rest of the summer. Miss Lorene Gregg was named secretary to the Dean of Women for the next fiscal year, beginning September 1.

The Regents accepted the resignation of Dale E. Bennett as assistant professor of law, effective July 18.

The resignation of Allen Wheelis as research assistant in Project No. 38, Bureau of Research in the Social Sciences, was accepted, effective July 16, and the resignation of Henry Sheldon as research associate in Project No. 54, Bureau of Research in the Social Sciences, was accepted, effective August 15.

A leave of absence was granted to Dr. H. B. Stenzel, geologist in the Bureau of Economic Geology, in order that he might attend the American Malacological Union at Havana, Cuba.

The resignation of R. R. Beasley as research assistant in the Bureau of Engineering Research was accepted, and A. J. McCrocklin Jr., was appointed to the position.

Miss Eula Whitehouse was named Curator of Botany for the Texas Memorial Museum for the period June 15 to August 31. Howard Marshall was appointed student assistant in the biological sciences at the College of Mines for the second summer term.

Laymon Miller was appointed student assistant in mathematics and physics at the College of Mines for the second summer term.

Dr. B. M. Hendrix was appointed Acting Dean of the School of Medicine for the month of August.

Tom N. Campbell was named instructor in anthropology for the 1938-39 Long Session. Eugene Ennis and H. S. Kaltenborn were appointed instructors in applied mathematics for the 1938-39 Long Session.

Instructors in chemistry and chemical engineering for the 1938-39 Long Session were named as follows: instructors on five-months' time: Charles Kinney Hancock, Shirley Powell Lingo; instructors on half-time: Fred McKee Garland, F. Drew Mayfield, Burl Gordon Rogers; instructors on four-ninths' time: Edward Albert Kelso, Frank Jones Lockhart, Robert George Mers, Walter Annin Quebedeaux, James Josiah Spurlock, George Wash; instructor on two-fifths' time: Ira C. Roberts; instructors on three-eighths' time: Simon R. Alexander, Charles Burt Holder Jr., David Humphreys, James Homer Jones, Chessie. See REGENTS, Page 2

Bear Offense and Defense Better This Year: Jennings

Special to The Summer Texan.
WACO, Aug. 13.—Baylor University Golden Bears will be much more powerful—both offensively and defensively—this fall. You can take Coach Morley Jennings' word for that.

With seventeen lettermen returning from last year's team, the Bruins will pack plenty of power at every position except the center position. Three, only one letterman carries over.

The end play should be stronger this year and it was at end that the Bears became the talk of the nation last year. On one wing, fighting for an all-American berth will be Sam Boyd, the classiest end Jennings ever coached. Sherman Barnes and W. J. Wimpee, both lettermen, will battle it out for the other starting place.

Four veterans of last year's eleven hold full sway at the tackle holes. Frank Marx, Jack Black, Bennett Edwards and Louis Robinson, all who saw plenty of action last year, are ready to fill the gap left by the graduation of Hervey Blue.

Leonard Akin, Bill Foster and Bobby Taylor lead the way in the scramble for the guard slots. David Beck and Jack Willis supply the reserve strength.

Hoyle Williams is the lone returning letterman at center, but will get help from Sherill Bailey and Virgil Cloyd, both squadmen of the '37 team.

The biggest test of the Bruin team will be to fill the shoes of Carl Brazell, outstanding line backer and all-conference fullback of last year. Twelve men were tried at the place during the spring practice session, but none came through. Of the lot, James Witt, a 180-pound sophomore from Kemp, will probably get first chance at the fullback slot.

Bullet Bill Patterson, voted the most valuable back in the conference last season, will be back to guide the destinies of the Bruin eleven. A triple threat, and a passer de luxe, Patterson will carry the chief offensive burdens of the Baylor team.

In another corner will be Elwin Williams, letterman from last year, who was finally uncovered as the man to handle the fourth spot in the Bruin backfield.

A galaxy of backfielders will be struggling for the place left by Bubba Gernard of the '37 team. Milton (Crazy Legs) Evans and Malcolm Lizer, the Floydada flyer, lead the way with reserve help

Class C Teams Get Bi-District Playoffs

At a recent meeting of the state committee of the University of Texas Interscholastic League, a "bi-district championship" was authorized, according to R. J. Kidd, athletic director. Heretofore, Class C teams, that is teams representing schools having an enrollment of less than 150, have played only to a district championship. As a result, many of these teams have exercised the option of competing in Class B, while others have not found sufficient competition to make the effort worthwhile.

"From all indications," Mr. Kidd said, "the new arrangement will greatly stimulate the game among the smaller schools. At the same time it will make Class B competition less attractive for them, and permit a grouping of schools for football competition of more nearly the same numerical strength."

In order to be eligible for this competition, a school must accept the League's football plan not later than September 15.

Rinky Dinks Still Setting the Pace

The Progressive Czechs continued their efforts toward a tie in the second term baseball league when they took a 3-to-1 decision from the Co-Op Thursday afternoon.

The league leading Rinky Dinks kept up their torrid pace by trouncing the Roberts-Hall team, 14-1, on Friday.

The present standing of the teams are as follows:

Rinky Dinks	3	0
Progressive Czechs	3	1
Lone Stars	2	1
Co-Op	1	3
Roberts-Hall	0	4

The only remaining game on the schedule is to be played Tuesday between the Rinky Dinks and the Lone Stars. If the Lone Stars should win, a tie for first place between the Rinky Dinks and the Progressive Czechs would result. In that case, Don White, Gregory Gymnasium manager for the second term, will make arrangements for a play-off with the two managers.

coming from Fred Graham, Odell Griffin, Bob Foster, Durham Bivins, Frank Grumbles and Ted Lewellen.

Hunt Reaches Tourney Finals

Defeats Allison In Semi-Finals

Special to The Summer Texan.
RYE, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Completely outplaying the veteran Wilmer Allison of Austin, Joe Hunt, Los Angeles, went into the final round of the Eastern Grass Courts Tennis championships here Saturday afternoon. Hunt's score against the former Davis Cup player was 6-0, 6-4, 6-2. Hunt, seeded number five, appeared to weaken slightly in the third set.

In reaching the semi-finals, Allison sprang one of the major upsets of the tournament when he defeated Mako, the brilliant partner of Don Budge on the Davis Cup doubles team. Hunt also opened the upset package when he defeated second-seeded Frankie Parker. Riggs stopped Ronald Lubin, and Kramer, the 17-year-old Californian, won on a default from a collapsed Bitzy Grant.

To reach the doubles quarter-finals, Budge and Mako, world's champion doubles combination, defeated Verne Hughes and Mort Ballagh; Allison and Johnny Van Ryn, Davis Cup doubles team of another year, stopped Don McNeill and Hal Surface; Sidney Wood and Joe Hunt defeated J. Gilbert Hall and Brian Finnegan; and Russell Bobbitt and Frank Guernsey defeated Wayne Sabin and Elwood Cooke.

gust 28-29 will also be greeted by the University staff, and will be received in the various University buildings which are to be opened on those two days.

In connection with the convention, the Legion is sponsoring a high school band contest in Austin, and it is expected that a large number of musical organizations will compete.

Miss Bess Hefflin, chairman of the exhibits division of the Public Relations Committee, is supervising plans for special exhibits and displays for the visitors.

The business meetings of the Legion will be held in the Senate Chamber at the Capitol.

The Sons of Veterans will camp at Camp Mabry. It is expected that approximately six hundred will be provided for there.

Distinguished visitors who will attend the convention and who will also be received at the University during their stay in Austin include Josh Lee, United States senator from Oklahoma; Louis A. Johnson, assistant secretary of war; Bruce Stubblefield, executive secretary of the National Rehabilitation Committee; Glen Hill, representing the National Child Welfare Committee; General Johnson Hagood, United States Army, retired, San Antonio, Captain A. A. Nicholson, safety engineer for the Texas Company, New York City; Charles W. Ardery, national correspondent of the 40 and 8 Society.

Ex-Dischman Is Spark Plug Of Dallas Club

Lloyd Rigby, former Longhorn baseball star and all-conference third baseman, is really earning his keep with the Dallas Steers these days.

Since the season began, Rigby has been unable to hit the size of his hat band, but the Dallas club has kept the brilliant little infielder on the roster in an effort to instill some of his aggressiveness into the rest of the club.

A typical Rigby effort occurred in the game between Dallas and Fort Worth last Friday, when he was sent in to pinch run for big Bob Fenner, bulky Steer catcher, after Fenner's double. Rigby advanced to third on an infield out, then, with two down, stole home for the tying run. The Dallas club went on to win the game in the tenth.

Code for Teaching Success Can't Be Rigid, Hymes Says

The Progressive Education Association does not have a set theory all wrapped up in a box ready to mail out to schools or individuals seeking its services, James L. Hymes, assistant secretary of the organization, asserted to the group of University faculty members, public school administrators, and public school teachers assembled at a conference in the Geology Building Monday morning.

Mr. Hymes, who is in Texas to acquaint the educators of the State with the aspects and functions of the Progressive Education Association, was introduced by Dr. Edgar M. Draper, visiting professor of education from the University of Washington.

Practices and specific activities vary with the teaching situation; only the underlying philosophy and the general goals should be alike for all schools. The Progressive Education Association advocates freedom in setting up the type of work suitable to each individual situation, Mr. Hymes explained.

So often teachers who are trying to keep in pace with modern education adopt activities which are simply shells to cover the practices they have been carrying on all the time, Mr. Hymes pointed out.

Stressing that the organization does not advocate any set practices, Mr. Hymes illustrated the theory of the Progressive Education program with a film, "Dynamic Education," showing practices used in the schools in Santa Monica, Calif.

In speaking of the official publication of the organization Mr. Hymes said, "If teachers are looking for recipes and golden rules about what is new in education, they will not get help from Progressive Education." He added that the magazine helps the teacher to formulate goals and an underlying philosophy.

The Progressive Education Association will probably hold a conference in Fort Worth in April of next year, Mr. Hymes said.

Shelby Attacks Use Of School Census

Denouncing it as a "glorious game of getting as many as possible on census rolls and then keeping them out of school," Dean T. H. Shelby of the University's Division of Extension last week attacked the census as a method of distributing state school funds in a paper read before one hundred Texas county superintendents and supervisors convened at College Station. Dean Shelby is visiting in England and will not return to Austin until shortly before the Long Session opens.

"Some districts," the paper told, "collect per capita on more than ten thousand who never enter public schools."

MOVIE MART

By JAMES WILLIAMSON

"THE CROWD ROARS"—At the Paramount. From a screen play by Thomas Lennon, George Bruce, and George Oppenheimer. Directed by Richard Thorpe. A Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture.

Tommy — Robert Taylor The CAST — Maureen O'Sullivan
Jim — Edward Arnold Johnny — William Gargan
Brian — Frank Morgan Lane — Lionel Stander

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER

Set out to make a man's man out of prize-possession Taylor. It seemed that once in awhile the male population went to the neighborhood theater when la belle Taylor was being screened and came out saying something that started out like a hiss and ended with "sissy." Taylor as a boxer should prove something or the other. Little man what next.

If you can take Robert Taylor as a prize-fighter, you can probably take the remainder of "The Crowd Roars." Briefly it tells a tale about a kid who grows up to be a prize-fighter, meets the girl he loves and then gives up his career because he wants the better things in life. Just to complicate things, the girl's father is a wealthy bookie, but the girl thinks he is a stockbroker. The girl gets kidnapped and for awhile it looks like Taylor will have to pull a fight to save her. But he doesn't, and in the end she comes running down the aisle and he scores a knockout. Edward Arnold does a good job as the bookie and Frank Morgan as Taylor's father.

The crowd may roar, but we'll just yawn, thank you.

"GATEWAY"—At the State—Directed by Alfred Werker. Screen play by Lamar Trotti. Based on a story by Walter Reisch. Musical direction by Arthur Lange.

Dick — Don Ameche THE CAST — Binnie Barnes
Catherine — Arlene Whelan Tony — Gilbert Roland

SOMETHING a little different is always commendable in film-fare. "Gateway" has a different setting and a variation on the usual love theme.

Ellis Island supplies the locale and most of the action. Actually the story gets its start on an Atlantic liner and the plot is bound along before the ship reaches New York Harbor. Arlene Whelan is a little Irish miss crossing the seas to marry an American she met in Dublin. She is traveling second class and longs for the music and brighter lights of the top deck. Comes along Don Ameche, a bored correspondent, coming home from the wars. He sees the lass on the second deck and asks her up to dinner in the Grand Salon. There Miss Whelan meets a returning mayor who make a pass. She answers with a right to the jaw. By the time the boat docks, the papers have the story and have played up the wild party angle. 510 CONGRESS

Clear Actions

THE president of a neighboring university is possibly paid to get students to attend his institution—no other explanation for his actions seem likely.

Under the guise of a religious text, this president of a denominational school talked about his institution, and talked about The University of Texas in a "sermon" last week-end at Cleburne.

The "message" which the educator delivered to the congregation told of the "advantages" of attending his college of five hundred students over attending the University of ten thousand students.

The president's main argument was that in the college of five hundred the student has one five-hundredth of a chance of being a "big-shot" on the campus, while in The University of Texas the student has one ten-thousandth of a chance of being a b.m.o.c. Similarly, the president said, the graduate of a small school had the better chance of getting a good job.

The argument is so ridiculous that it can be overlooked.

The main criticism is that the religious sect is possibly making a mistake in allowing this gentleman to compare the two schools. In attacking The University of Texas, he is slurring his own school—fighting a school for which his church members are helping to support. Of course this church is paying for its own school, too... but on a comparative basis, President Calhoun does not chase around Texas making speeches against the religious school, although he may be a member of this same church. President Calhoun does offer constructive criticism of the school of which he is president.

There is another peculiar thing about the speech in Cleburne made by the denominational school president: the time. The University of Texas receives annually approximately seventy-five students from Cleburne. About twenty-five of these students are members of the church in which the educator spoke. Very few of them attend his school. At this particular time many high school graduates, many from this Cleburne church, are deciding which college they desire to attend. The university president chose a remarkable time to praise his own university and to slap The University of Texas.

His actions were clearer than his words.

CLIPPED COMMENT

Tick-Tock

HAVE you heard about the home of Charles S. Mills, of Cleveland, O.? Mills, it seems, got interested in clocks a few years ago and started collecting them. He didn't put them away in glass cases to spend the rest of their lives silently staring, but saw to it that they were kept in running order. And he kept them running.

He has 125 of them now. He has cuckoos and grandfather and music-box clocks and practically everything under the sun, and they're all running under one modest roof. It takes an hour and a half to wind them all, if the winder gets around fast.

When the story about Mills and his clocks reached this office it seemed like a charming idea at first—having a house chock-full of continual ticks and tingles and chimes—but then, after a little meditation, it appeared in a new light.

Twenty-four hours a day of insistent reminders from 125 time-pieces: "You're getting older—life is slipping—you haven't done it—everything passes—one more month to meet that note..."

No thanks.

ALL'S FAIR

Amid the terrible seriousness of the class war, we are proud to see that the American sense of humor marches on. Girls connected with the Golden Gate Exposition are picketing in protest against the publicity department propagandizing their legs (the girls') rather than the fair's oh so more interesting buildings. Some of the placards read:

WE WANT A LEG-ACY
WE ARE OUT ON THE LIMB
THE FAIR IS UNFAIR TO THE FAIR

We can hardly wait to see if this is a Trend of the Times. Just think. Then Johnny Lewis could come out with statements something like: "Mellon Is Ripe for Picketing," "We Are Making Our Marx in the World," or even:

"We can't afford a Ford for Ford
With the N. L. R. Board we're bored
So our solution
Is revolution
Get the capitalists' board for the herds."

ADD ADS

Feeling our irresistible mid-afternoon, non-studying urge the other afternoon we decided to grab a trolley and clank out to Deep Eddy Bathing Beach (we are still looking for the Beach) for a bit of bathing. We were intrigued by the West Sixth Street advertising, of which we offer a sample or two. Over one squat building we beheld:

REFRIGERATED ICE STATION

Before we had quite figured out this gem of our machine age, we glanced at a minute store basking indolently on the north side of the street, and there in the window a pasteboard placard gloated:

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS OF PROGRESS

WILY WILEY

Dr. Wiley, who teaches an edifying course in the problems of modern agriculture and studies them first hand on his 450-acre farm, was explaining to his class the red tape involved in getting a quite dead mule out of a well on a government resettlement farm. Some way or other a truck with a winch got into the dissertation, and Dr. Wiley asked a nice lady schoolteacher just what is a winch.

"In Shakespeare's time," quoth the learned n. l. schoolteacher, "a wench was a serving maid, but the term has degenerated to a wholly different meaning."

After disconnecting the improbable connection of a serving maid and a two-ton truck, Dr. Wiley carefully changed the subject.

DAM THE LAKE

In Lynn Landrum's column in The Dallas News we find this interesting note, to wit: Dean T. U. Taylor of The University of Texas put it bluntly but plainly when he said, "until Buchanan Lake is kept empty there will be repetition of these floods. To afford flood protection a dam must have its gates open and its lake full of air."

Bluntly and plainly we think this is an excellent idea espoused by the Grand Old Man and Mr. Landrum. We can just visualize the signs to attract the tourist trade.

SPEED MOTORCYCLE RIDE ACROSS THE LAKE—ONLY 50 CENTS

RENT YOUR HIKING BOOTS HERE

And what is more we are quite sure that the manufacturers can get all the power necessary from the flow of air—it is being done from day to day. Of course, they may have to run the air through a heating unit.

The more we think of this noble idea the better we like it. Inspecting the dam last Sunday, we were simply amazed at the attraction it could hold for the sporting tourist. A mile or more of beautiful smooth concrete for the bouncing against of tennis balls, and we attest that this sport is good for health and tennis dexterity not to mention the pure enjoyment derived therefrom. We used to bounce tennis balls against our home until the parents pointed out that the screens were falling out and the clapboards coming loose. Buchanan Dam fairly made our old tennis arm tingle.

So don't worry Lynn, the taxpayers will get their money's worth even without the lake; and anyway we see small possibility of the Colorado backing up to Dallas.

Collegiate Clatter

By CY LONG

The University of the Sorbonne in Paris, France, has never had a prom or a football team or a fraternity, yet it is 700 years old. Maybe wisdom comes with age, or vice versa.

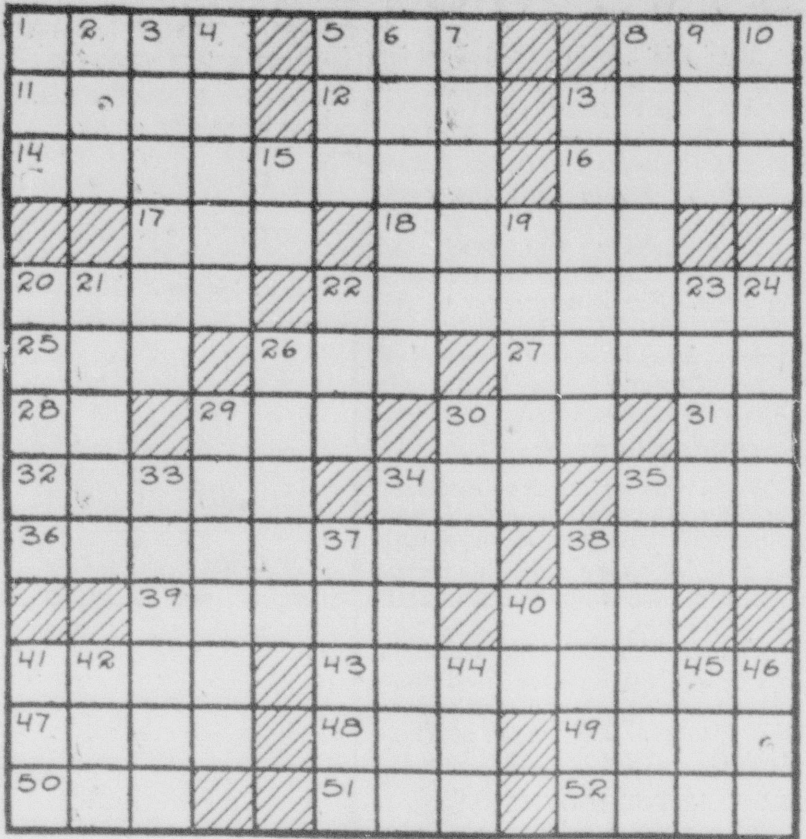

Dr. Dan Freeman Bradley, trustee of Oberlin College for the last forty years, has missed only five out of sixty-eight meetings of the trustees in the last thirty years.

Belated warning: 87 per cent of the graduating girls of Stephens College are married five years after graduation. Wonder if any U. T. students increased the average last year.

If you are excessively stoked with ambition you might try this. Erwin Nemmers of Milwaukee, 21, completed work for three degrees last spring, is taking summer courses at the University of Chicago, and plans to enter Harvard in the fall. The three degrees are bachelor of arts from Marquette University for studies in ancient classics and philosophy, master of music from the Wisconsin Conservatory of Music, and master of arts from the University of Chicago for work in economics and mathematics.

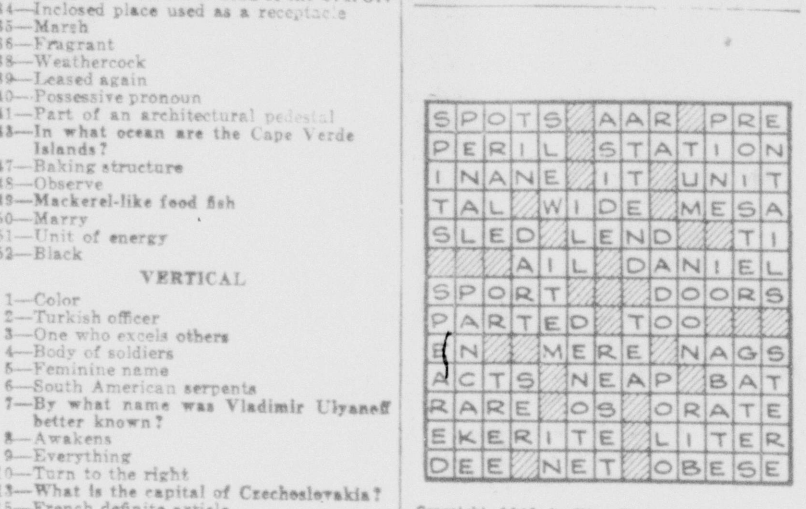

The four-day firemen's college conducted annually at the University of Illinois brings forth the announcement that aluminum ladders will soon replace wood ladders because of lighter weight and resistance to corrosion and rust. Next thing you know, firemen will be clad in bathing suits so they won't get their clothes wet.
