U. Enrollment Increases 306 Over Last Year

Freshman Increase of 131 Surprises Registrar

Transfer List Also Grows

An increase of 306 in the University's enrollment this fall over the registration figures of last fall, with a total of 4934 students registered for this semester, was reported in a statement issued by the University registrar yesterday. The enrollment last year was 4628.

This year's increase was traced by the registrar to three main sources, chief of which was the freshmen who show an enrollment of 131 over last year. There were 120 more college transfers with this year's registration, while the figures on old students returned to school stand 73 above last year. The freshman increase this year came as a surprise to University officials, since about 12 junior colleges over the state have opened their doors within the past two or three years, the registrar said. Junior colleges in the following cities were named among those which were expected to draw the freshman increase away from the University: San Antonio, Houston, Hillsboro, Tyler, Texarkana, Victoria, Brownsville, Temple, Beaumont, Gainesville, Paris, and Wichita Falls.

Every school in the University showed an increase, except business administration and the graduate school, the former showing a loss of 14 and the latter losing 22 students. The registrar explained these losses by the fact that the entrance requirements are more rigid this year than last. The School of Pharmacy accounts for an increase of 47 students at the Main University, but only an increase of 16 over the enrollment at Galveston last year. A decrease of 18 was noted in the class of individually approved students.

S. R. D. in Pajamas Gives Midnight Fete

Annual opening pajama party of Scottish Rite dormitory was held Friday night from 11 till 12 o'clock. This was the beginning of a series of pajama parties which will continue throughout the year. Certain girls from each floor of the dormitory under the direction of the matron of that floor presented novelty acts.

The following numbers were given. "A Night in Madrid" by Josephine Pollard and Florence McCullar; a song by Thelma Spaack and Josephine Pollard; a reading by Mae Baldwin, a black bottom feature by Arlys Chenault; a dance specialty by Esther Rae Goldstein; a pantomime act, and reading of "The Wreck of the Hesperus" by Jean McMullen, Elizabeth Carl, Ethylene Cahn, Margaret Baker and Mildred Johns.

Griffith Drug Company presented each girl with a miniature box of Martha Washington chocolates; and refreshments consisting of candy covered peanuts, apples, pretzels, and punch were served.

Executives Discuss Ex-Stude Memorial

Matters pertaining to the Ex-Students' Memorial will appear for consideration at the banquet given members of the executive board by the Ex-students' Association, Wednesday, October 5, according to an announcement made yesterday at the executive board meeting, by Robert Eikel, board by the Ex-students' Association.

No business was taken up at the called meeting of the executive board Monday, but was deferred until the next meeting, which will be held after the banquet. Official action may be taken at this time in regard to the memorial, Eikel said.

Low Heels Gain in Popularity

"By their heels ye shall know them,"—and the higher they are the closer they are to Texas, observed several co-eds who traveled in the Northeast and West last summer, and who are, contrary to former custom, flaunting low heeled shoes on the campus this year. Those who wish to appear "traveled" will have to buy a pair of low heeled shoes to give the proper impression, it seems.

"You absolutely cannot buy high heeled shoes in California except for evening slippers," one co-ed remarked. "A pair of high heeled shoes on the campus in Oregon was a phenomenon," another observed.

Oil Royalties Total $257,000 For September

University Fund Now Contains Over Seven Million

Royalties from University oil lands for the month of September, 1927 amount to $257,025.50, according to W. Gregory Hatcher, state treasurer. This money has been added to the permanent University fund, which now contains $7,672,050.60 in United States bonds besides a small amount of additional cash.

The royalties for August, 1927 were $271,875.70, while for August and September, 1927 they were respectively $249,408.15 and $241,616.58. During the period of October 1, 1926 to September 30, 1927 inclusive $2,569,583.15 was added to the fund as a result of oil royalties.

Only the interest on the bonds is available for use, but there is considerable agitation for an amendment to the constitution which would convert $5,000,000.00 to the available fund. In such a case, this money would be used mainly for building, and the maintenance of the University would be taken care of by the interest on the remaining permanent fund.

Law Society Meets for First Time

Tuesday evening at 7:30, the McLaurin Law Society will hold its first meeting of the year in the court room in the basement of the Law Building.

Olind Pitman, president of the society has appointed David Heath, Dyer Kirk, and Cecil Rotsch on the membership committee. This committee will recommend that the 32 members of the society be divided into eight law firms composed of four members each. These firms will hold trials just as those held in the court rooms over the state. At the end of the year, the names of those in the most efficient firm will be announced and awards will be given to them.

The trials which will be held will have associate members for the juries, and the witnesses will be selected from law students and associate members.

Work Progresses in Potash Search

In an effort to discover large potash deposits in Texas, work is progressing rapidly in drilling for the ore in Ector county, according to Dr. E. H. Sellards of the University's geological staff. Authorization for the work came from the United States Senate when the Sheppard bill was passed providing for the expenditure of $500,000 to uncover potash deposits. Of this appropriation, $100,000 is to be spent annually.

At present, Ector county is the only district being drilled but several other Texas counties, which are supposed to contain potash in large quantities, will be the scenes of later activity if present plans materialize, Dr. Sellards said Monday.

The drilling is under the control of the United States Department of Commerce through its Geological Survey Department.

Texas Looks to Vanderbilt in Training Grind

Tigner and Wray Are Back in Varsity Lineup

Trinity Is Next on Card

With conference standing the worse for a tie game with T. C. U., the University football team has turned its mind from conference games and is pointing toward Vanderbilt, ancient rival of the Orange and White. Trinity faces the Steers before the Commodores do, but the team is actually thinking of Vanderbilt as it trains away.

Recuperation of Herb Tigner and Steve Wray has cheered the squad, and Texas will soon be able to take the field and fear nothing from lack of ample material in the line. With Ike Sewell and Harry Phillips in good condition, there are four good guards now on the roster.

Lose Many Games

Texas first played Vanderbilt in 1899, and in that year lost the first of a long series of games. In 1900 Texas beat Vandy 22 to 0 and the next game in 1903 resulted in a tie. Since that time the team has never been able to get an even break with Dan McGugin's men, losing seven contests, winning two, and tying one. In 1921 Texas defeated the Commodores 16 to 0. The last game, played in 1926, resulted in Vandy winning 7 to 0.

With not less than three fairly good men for every position, the Longhorns are afraid of nothing except injuries that may again sap the strength of the squad.

Gillespie Speaks to Business Students

Julian E. Gillespie, United States commercial attaché at Constantinople, will address the students of the business administration school in their first assembly meeting of the year Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock in the Garrison Hall auditorium. Subject matter of the address will pertain to foreign trade; and it is expected that Mr. Gillespie will point out many interesting features of foreign trade to the students in assembly.

Ernest L. Tutt of the United States bureau of foreign and domestic commerce at Houston, who is a graduate of the School of Business Administration, class of 1921, will also be present at the initial meeting of the assembly. Another graduate of the School of Business Administration, Mr. Avery, with the United States bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, will speak to students at assembly.

Sections Are Tested for Observatory Site

A site for McDonald Observatory has not been determined according to information received from Dr. Kuehne, one of the committee for the selection of a suitable location. It will be a year before anything definite can be done since it will take that long to test out various sections. Altitude, vegetation, contour, humidity, and steadiness of temperature have to be studied for at least a year for possible irregularities in climate. A site near Austin would be very desirable as it would be near the University but a better one may be found, he said. The Davis Mountains and the country around El Paso have rather settled climatic conditions and the observatory may be placed there.

McDonald Observatory is under the jurisdiction of the regents but it is not to be connected in any direct way with the University. The regents will pass on the site and building plans and will appoint a director.

HOSPITAL REPORT

The following are in the Seton Infirmary: Hallie McFarland, Melba Collins, William Acker, O. E. Cannon, Albert Hervey. Those in St. David's Hospital are: Clarence Rapp, William Henry Jones, John Hughes.

Student Council Announces Violations of Honor System

Announcement of regulations of the honor system of the University was made Monday by Bob Eikel, president of the Students' Association, in an effort to acquaint students with those rules which constitute violations of the honor system.

Ignorance of the law excuses no one, according to the men's and women's honor councils. President Eikel urges that particular attention be given the rules by the student body.

Violators of the rules will be arraigned before the students' honor council, which governing body will make necessary penalties should the violator be convicted on sufficient evidence.

The following constitute violations of the honor system:

1. Plagiarism: (a) Incorporation of material in a paper from an author without giving due credit to that author by (1) quotation marks, (2) footnotes, (3) or simply stating "Mr. X says," etc.
2. Use of another's theme in preparation of a theme.
3. Use of or reference to forbidden material for themes.
4. Collusion on laboratory reports; the improper working together on reports that are supposed to be done independently.
5. Cheating on examinations and quizzes. (a) Collusion: One student assisting another one in answering questions on examinations or quizzes.
6. Collusion on any written work which is supposed to be done independently.
7. Offering or soliciting aid in any of the above cases.
8. Failure to report known violations, to appear when summoned as a witness, and to answer all questions.

Ignorance of the law excuses no one.

Alecs Organize; Elect Officers

Courter of Fort Worth Elected President of College

Organization of all classes in the College of Engineering for the first semester has recently been completed with officers elected for the college at large as well as for each class.

College officers for the first semester were elected as follows: J. W. Courter of Fort Worth, president; J. L. Bruns, Seguin, vice-president; J. L. Bonowitz, Dallas, secretary-treasurer; J. E. Callahan, Austin, sergeant-at-arms; P. M. Netzer, Laredo, yell leader; Felix Callahan, Austin, representative on intramural athletic council; J. W. Ramsay, faculty trustee engineers' loan fund.

Officers of the senior class for the first semester are: B. I. Thorgren, Kenedy, president; Max J. Hangartner, Henrietta, vice-president; H. L. Land, Santa Anna, secretary-treasurer; C. M. Cutbirth, Big Lake, sergeant-at-arms.

Junior class officers are: A. W. Straiton, Fort Worth, president; W. C. Klett, Fort Worth, vice-president; Cornelia Coltharp, Newlin, secretary-treasurer; V. S. Murphy, Fort Worth, sergeant-at-arms; J. W. Winfrey, Austin, trustee of the engineers' loan fund.

Sophomore class officers for the first semester are: Howard Dunaway, Midland, president; Joe Boyer, Amarillo, vice-president; Sam M. Scales, Dallas, secretary-treasurer; Earl Toepferwein, Austin, sergeant-at-arms.

Officers for the freshman class in the first semester are: W. H. Grasty, Austin, president; C. W. Evans, San Antonio, vice-president; O. K. Irvine, Jacksonville, secretary-treasurer; and J. A. Dorsett, Giddings, sergeant-at-arms.

Garrison Hall Ground To Be Improved

Although as yet no plans have been drawn up for the grounds about Garrison Hall, Mr. H. B. Beck, foreman of the campus grounds stated that he would do the best possible to overcome this discrepancy. The land will be leveled and sodded with Bermuda grass; shrubbery and flowers will be added at an opportune time. He intimated that the site of old G Hall would be prepared for the poppy field, a time honored custom, and would be sown thickly with these flowers. According to Beck the disreputable old shacks will not be painted for, as he explained, they are in a state of disrepair, and are being done away with as quickly as possible to provide space as needed.

SPARKSK MANAAGES DORM

Grace Sparks was elected president of the Grace Hall house management committee at an election held Monday. The council consists of a chairman and a representative from each class. Audrey Kern, freshman, Frieda Barker, sophomore, Eleanor Weber, junior, and Vivian Grey, senior are members of the council, which will make plans for the fall dance.

No Petitions Filed Yet For Vacant Offices

Thirty Vacancies To Be Filled October 18 in Election

Petitions Close Saturday

No petitions to fill the 30 vacancies occurring in the various organizations of student self-government have been filed, according to a statement made by Robert Eikel, president.

Twenty of these vacancies are in the Students' Assembly and are to be filled by six members from the College of Arts and Sciences, by three from the School of Law, by three from the School of Business Administration, by three from the School of Engineering, by three from the School of Education, by one from the School of Journalism and by one from the Graduate School.

Assembly Needs Nine

The Woman's Assembly has nine vacancies that are to be filled at the coming election October 18. Members of this assembly are elected according to classes. One freshman girl is eligible. Pauline Knuckles, member of the Woman's Council, did not return to the University this year and leaves a vacancy in that organization.

All petitions for candidacy must be turned into Frances Foster, secretary of the Students' Association, by 12 p. m., Saturday, October 6. Voting will be by schools and the usual election procedure will be carried out. Ballots cast in the wrong ballot box will be thrown out.

Dean Makes Effort for Closer Contact

An effort is being made by the Dean of Men to come into closer contact with the men students of the University. Letters are being sent to the parents or guardians of all freshman and transfer students in order to acquaint them with the rulings of the University.

Letters are also being sent to the superintendents of every high school represented to discuss any problem which they might be able to help solve because of their previous contact with the boys. A representative of the office is visiting all the boarding houses, some 200 in number, to investigate the conditions under which the boys are living and to get acquainted with them.

Houses are graded on a basis of health, cleanliness, and unless they come up to a certain standard or show a marked improvement they are dropped from the approved list.

There are a few instances where boys with petty excuses such as, "they can't get along with their roommates," apply to the Dean for permission to change their boarding place. Usually cases of changing locations are due to the boys' finding a place where they can get work, moving into the frat houses to live, or out of an undesirable place.

Last term grades of fraternity pledges are now being passed on in the Dean's office.

A. S. C. E. MEETS FRIDAY

A regular monthly meeting of the American Society of Civil Engineers will be held Tuesday night, October 4, at the Engineering Building. The speakers of the evening include Robert Coltharp, Robert Lowry, H. J. Speer and J. W. Courter. The purpose of this meeting is to get all sophomores and new students interested in civil engineering projects throughout the country.

ENGINEERS PLAN BANQUET

A meeting of the entire engineering school was held in the Engineering Building Sunday afternoon, October 2. At this time plans for the annual engineering banquet were discussed, and it was decided to hold this banquet before the Christmas holidays, instead of later in the school year as has been the custom heretofore.

Hamilton President of Y.W.C.A. Cabinet

Co-eds Rally To Prepare for Football Games

Misunderstanding at T. C. U. Rally Discussed

A co-ed mass meeting and rally was held in the Woman's gymnasium Monday night at 7:00 o'clock to discuss the part University girls are to have in rallies and games. Another meeting was called for Thursday night at 7 o'clock to decide whether girls should sing or yell or participate in whatever manner they so desired at the games and rallies, by Mrs. Tex Lynn, girls' song leader.

Girls Must Yell

Mrs. Lynn explained that the girls didn't yell at the T. C. U. rally because of a misunderstanding and that the rally Monday night was being held to find out whether the girls wanted to sing or yell. Questions as to whether the girls should yell with the boys or alone, whether they should sit in the same section with the boys or not, and whether or not there should be a girls' yell leader were raised at the meeting and discussed. Advantages and disadvantages of yelling singing were discussed by various girls present at the meeting.

German Talks

"If we are going to yell, we must put on a rally which represents the entire co-ed student body and teach the girls the yell," Gene German said at the rally. "If the girls can get a rally like that and learn the yell, then the boys are in favor of the girls' yelling. The men want to cooperate with the girls more this year than ever before."

Benedict Featured in November Alcalde

The next issue of the Alcalde alumni magazine of the University of Texas, will be largely devoted to the new president of the University Dr. H. Y. Benedict, according to Harry Moore of Austin, managing editor of the publication.

The Alcalde will next appear November 1. One of the contributions will be an article by A. B. Flanary of Dallas, a roommate of Dr. Benedict when the two were students at the University. Judge R. L. Batts, member of the University Board of Regents, has written a character sketch of Dr. Benedict for the magazine, and Dr. Benedict himself will write an article discussing the University as it is and the relation of ex-students to the school.

In addition to the space given to Dr. Benedict, the new University coaches will be introduced in this issue, said Moore. William B. Ruggles of the editorial staff of the Dallas Morning News who is editor-in-chief of the Alcalde will write the editorials.

BAKER VISITS CAMPUS

Neal Baker, star pitcher on the Longhorn team last season, is on the campus for a short visit. Baker has been with a Milwaukee club for the past two months, and will probably return to it for next season. He is stopping while in Austin at the Half Moon fraternity of which he is a member.

Curtain Club Semi-Finalists Chosen Monday

Twenty-one Selected from 57 Entries in Contest

Ten to Be Picked Thursday

Twenty-one candidates out of 57 tryouts were elected to be given a chance to go to the final tryouts for membership into the Curtain Club which will be held Thursday night October 6, in room 312 of the Education Building.

According to George Wolfe, president of the club, many good candidates were turned down on account of the fact that no one of their particular types was needed in the club, but it is expected that many of these may be admitted in to the club at later tryouts which the club plans to hold sometime during the spring term.

From the elimination tryouts the following survive to go to the finals:

Jaqueline Blackwell of Cushing, Mary Katherine Boon of Brownwood, Catherine Johnson of San Antonio, Ellen Lanham of Dallas, P. H. Candler of Dallas, Allen Shivers of Port Arthur, Fred Meredith of Terrell, Mason Bodley of Henrietta, George Red of Houston, Elizabeth Cooper of Wichita Falls, W. H. Evans of Lubbock, Thelma Smith of Westlaco, Sarah Leal of Laredo, Virginia Griffin of Victoria, Ewell Bagwell of Haskell, Christy Johnson of Houston, Gover Emerson of Orange, Mary Ryan of Laredo, Horace O'Kain of Nashville, Tenn., Elizabeth Leach of Weatherford, Bob Snell of Iowa.

Journalism Classes Grow 100 Per Cent

There is an increase of almost 100 per cent in the enrollment for journalism courses at the University of Texas this year over last fall, according to Paul J. Thompson, chairman of the department. Last year there were 84 course enrollments and this fall there have been 171 course enrollments, Mr. Thompson said.

Instruction in news gathering and reporting is given by W. D. Hornaday, lecturer in journalism and director of the office of publicity of the University. The copy is edited by A. N. Carter, of Austin, assistant Mr. Carter is a graduate in journalism of the University.

The increased enrollment for courses in journalism in the University can be accounted for by the favorable attention given to the reinstatement of the department with the opening of this year and the agreement of the department with The Daily Texan, the campus newspaper, whereby the class in news gathering and reporting collects news for that publication, said Mr. Thompson.

Greenhorns Elect Officers for Year

Miss Maretta Talbot of San Antonio has been elected president of the Greenhorns, organization of freshman girls at the University. Other officers elected to serve this year are Miss Allie Angel of Dallas, vice-president, Miss Natalie Mathews of Dallas, secretary and treasurer, and Miss Sarah Turk of San Antonio, reporter.

These officers, with the aid of the Cap and Gown society of senior women on the campus, will elect a council of four or five members to help in furthering the interests of freshman girls during the year. The last year's officers of Greenhorns were Miss Nancy Brandenburg of Dallas, president; Miss Mary Hamilton of Fort Worth, vice-president; Miss Elsie Lee Sheffield of Galveston, secretary-treasurer; and Lillian Urbanovsky of West, reporter. Council members last year who will be replaced are Miss Eunice Green of Mason, Betsy Ross of Fort Worth, and Louise Huggins of Houston.

Predatory Politics

All questions concerning the effects of the Pollard Fee Bill have been answered. According to figures furnished by the Auditor, each student in the University saved, on the average, a little less than two dollars apiece. A total of $150,369.45 was collected in fees in September, 1926, during the first five days of registration, with 4494 students enrolled. This year it is estimated that $150,063.80 was collected during the first five days of registration, the enrollment reaching 4749, or 255 more than last year. It is also estimated that 300 students in the Medical Branch of the University at Galveston were saved a total of $20,000 by the operation of the bill.

When it is remembered that it is the freshmen and sophomores of the University who take most of the laboratory courses and who would have been forced to pay the matriculation fee of $30 under the old system, it becomes obvious that those groups along with the advanced students who major in the sciences or prepare themselves for the professions that require expensive laboratory work are the ones who profit. The sophomores just about break even, in some cases saving nearly $5 per capita, as most of them had already paid $15 of the $30 previously required. By forcing all students to pay the maintenance fee of $30 regardless of previous condition or degree of servitude, juniors, seniors, graduates, and students in the law school are forced to carry an additional burden. All of them have paid the $30 matriculation fee; and most of them have taken the required laboratory courses and paid for them at the rate formerly in effect. It has been urged that all students profit alike from a University education and should be made to pay at the same rate, thus maintaining that students who take laboratory courses are merely unfortunate. Though this argument might seem to carry considerable weight, it cannot be taken at its face value. For instance, law students have to pay a great deal more for books than most of the science students; graduate students have to pay for the typing of theses as well as for a great many books that are usually not needed in undergraduate courses.

The only possible conclusion, therefore, is that particular groups of students benefit at the expense of the others. The income which the University derives from its fees is only slightly less than would otherwise have been the case. And for such meager results, a bill was passed through the legislature of the state of Texas. The price that has been paid for increasing the political capital of one man is an untoward amount off fruitless meddling. What a price.

Man Pays the Price

"What Price Glory," which finished its first run in Austin at the Hancock with the Saturday performances, is not only the most thoroughly admirable war picture yet produced but in its whole conception and execution is one of the most thought-provoking that the movie public has yet had the opportunity to witness. The perfect balance that is constantly kept between the comedy and tragedy, the generosity and selfishness, the grandeur and sordidness, of emotional conflicts between men under the influence of violent passions, all portrayed against the sombre and fearful background of a war whose magnitude transcended the comprehension of many of those who were hurled into its vortex and which certainly transcends that of any individual of the human species who was not, is unequalled by any work of art yet called forth by the same stimulus.

It has been difficult to explain why no great art has been produced as a result of the experiences of the World War. Perhaps if a Rupert Brooke had survived the war he would have given the world poetry of unequalled power and beauty. But none did. Or it may be that the composition of the play on which this movie was based, which was slightly delayed, and the picture itself, which has been still further delayed, show that the creative genius of the men who suffered in the conflict was temporarily stunned, blunted by too poignant an experience. If that is the case, it may be that a renaissance is in the offing.

But it is not merely as a work of art that such a production is important. By showing war without sentimentalizing, by showing hell itself without moralizing, an effect is achieved that surpasses that produced by all the preachers of the world. It is not to be inferred that this picture or any other like it will create a sentiment powerful enough to stop the next war; for that event will find just as insane a humanity, one just as emotional and patriotic, just as sensitive to the stimuli of propaganda, as the last. On the University of Texas campus during the hectic days of 1917, a man who was admired and loved by the entire student body shouldered a musket, marched in a parade, and, standing before a group comprising almost the entire male population of the campus, held before them a white feather and an American flag. To follow the flag of their country or that of the white feather. There was no choice. Under the same circumstances most of the men on the campus, no matter what they might think in their more rational moments, would act in exactly the same way. In such a situation with all the social, moral, and economic forces of a nation compelling him to go in a given direction, man is not a free agent. His will is as nothing. For the moment, however, "What Price Glory," by the very weight of the terror it portrays, answers the question that it asks; and for that moment too the answer that comes exposes in all its ugliness the fact of war.

From Other Pens

A Good Start—How About the Finish?

If the University of Nebraska freshmen do not get the proper start in school this year it will not be the fault of the faculty or older students. Never was a more impressive freshman initiation presented to a first-year class in this institution.

Some 2,500 students crowded the coliseum; about 700 more than were expected. The acting-chancellor, the dean of men, the dean of women, Mortarboards, Innocents, and impressive members of the "N" club decorated the stage. Every actor and member of the audience behaved admirably. If the "N" blanket decorating the speaker's stand had not been turned upside down, the affair would have been perfect.

A new chancellor and dean of student affairs addressed the throng. The new students, of course, had no other such officers to compare these new ones with. Nevertheless, two pointed, plain-word talks were shot across that platform yesterday morning which must have impressed the new students with the seriousness of the undertaking they have just begun in this university. Every face seemed interested in catching the purposeful intent of the messages these members of our faculty had to deliver. In fact, none of the old-time "rah-rah-college" boisterousness was evident.—Daily Nebraskan.

THE CINEMA

Vaudeville at Hancock

The vaudeville this week at the Hancock takes with an audience. And that ain't all either. There is enough pep in the program to make the proverbial wooden Indian burn his hands up. The audience last night did. Combining a dash of sly, subtle, and sophisticated humor from beginning to end, a generous helping of grace, and a delve into the classics, the bill is one that must not be missed.

The Original Cavaliers, sharing headlines with Charles Stuart and Harry Lash, stage a travesty on Spain, Cuba, and Austin, which Stuart characterized as the hottest town in the South (Editor's note: since he got here) and put on a real party with the aid of the audience and artists drawn from other acts. In Stuart and Lash's personal act, they start with one of those comedies of errors which result when two people are talking about different things and build up to a momentum that is irresistible. Incidentally, Stuart is the first sophisticated type, and he is remotely so, whom I have ever had any use for; he is not afraid to lose his stiffness and dignity in a wild dance to music in the blood.

Helen Carson opens with some aerial stunts that produce some shadows which you'll like, and Irene Hayden and Billie Taylor who is a girl with "It" who doesn't know whether her beau dresses like a gentleman or not because she has never watched him dress, are good. Walter and Betty Reddick put on a dance with a story that has an O. Henryesque surprise ending with a punch.

The film sandwiched between bills stars George O'Hara in a fast automobile story. Personally, I think he was best cast as the sneak brother in "Sea Beast," and he has a crooked nose.

But you have three chances to see the vaudeville today.

Cabaret

The Texas opens the week with a presentation of the famous and beautiful Gilda Gray in a movie of night club life called "Cabaret." Miss Gray gives a very nice performance which includes some of her exquisite dancing, the sort of thing at which she has no rival. The scenario itself is very trivial, and the support is nominal except for the characterization of the heroine's taxi-driver father by Chester Conklin, which is notable, as are all this veteran's roles, no matter how slight. On the whole the show is one of those casual affairs with which to while away an evening pleasantly. And there is always Gilda's lovely dancing.

Soft Cushions

The Queen is showing Douglas McLean in his latest Paramount picture, "Soft Cushions," for the first three days of this week. It is said to have taken three years for this picture to have been made. We feel sure that this report is not correct, for if it is true, the producers wasted about two and one-half years of this time. Don't understand us to say that the picture is not entertaining—for it most assuredly is entertaining. But it is far from a three years' work.

The picture is of the type of "The Thief of Bagdad," but it is not in the class of the Douglas Fairbanks production. The scenes of "Soft Cushions" are in the Far East. The settings and the costumes are exceptional, but the plot is very weak. The usual McLean farce is present, but he is playing a new character and it doesn't seem to us that he had the opportunity to display his usual gags in this show.

The most pleasing part of this show was to see Sue Carol, a newcomer to the screen, play the part of the ambitious slave-girl. This young actress will be heard from in the near future—and we predict that it will not be in the capacity of a supporting role.

Tau Delta Phi
Has Open House

Tau Delta Phi held open house Sunday night from 8 to 10:30 in honor of their new pledges. The affair was held in their new home at 102 West 20th street. The house has been entirely remodeled and was decorated in the fraternity colors of blue and white. Refreshments of blue and white sandwiches and angel food cake with the fraternity name written on them in blue were served to about 300 guests.

Several out-of-town alumni were present for the formal opening of the new home.

Mike Oyfinger of Yancey spent the week-end in San Antonio.

Henrietta Mayer and Sadie Waldman, who attended the University here last year, are attending Washington University at St. Louis.

Mary Sue Moseley of Weatherford spent the week-end in Austin. Miss Moseley was on her way home from a visit in San Antonio.

Julia Cockrell spent the week-end at her home in Hillsboro. Mary Katherine Boone spent a few days in Abilene last week. She attended the celebration in Abilene as the duchess of Brownwood.

Dr. C. W. Ramsdell of the history faculty returned home Monday. Dr. Ramsdell spent the month of September in Europe.

Dr. T. W. Riker returned to Austin Sunday and has taken up his work again as a member of the history faculty. Dr. Riker has been in England since last April, where he has been doing research work.

John Boone of Harlingen has returned to the campus this fall to complete work toward his master's degree. He received his B. A. last June. Last year he was an assistant in advanced chemistry but is now a tutor in chemistry and is also doing research work with Dr. Felsing. Boone is staying at the Omega Beta Pi house.

Cornelia Gregory, Pi Phi of Houston, arrived to enter school Monday. Miss Gregory spent the summer in Europe.

Epsilon chapter of Omega Beta Pi announces the pledging of Mark Duncan of Floydada, Texas, and Frank Rudgley of Wichita Falls.

Margaret Cunningham and Bentley Wagner of Southwestern University spent Monday at the Alpha Delta Pi house.

CHANGE B. A. 811 HOURS

Changes in class hours of B. A. 811, a course in accounting, have been made as an experiment, according to J. Anderson Fitzgerald, dean of the School of Business Administration, reducing the hours from seven to six each week, three being set aside for lecture and three for laboratory work, the department is expected to be carried out in a more uniform manner than before since students will be given liberty to work up class problems at home, or in the laboratory without an instructor's supervision.

ACTIVITIES HEADS CHOSEN

Heads of the several non-curricular activities have not yet been selected for the current year, but a meeting is to be held next Monday or Tuesday for the purpose, according to Dean V. L. Moore.

Tutors in Physics
Announced by Brown

Dr. S. L. Brown, chairman of the physics department of the University of Texas, has recently made public the list of tutors and student assistants who will work in the department during the coming school year. New tutors are R. E. Thompson, R. E. Shelby, L. R. Peurifoy and R. R. Bush.

Undergraduate assistants are the following: Jack Cooper of Austin, Thomas S. Edgington of McGregor, Maidie Butz of Fort Stockton, J. G. Adams, of Cleburne, R. C. Briggs of Austin, Elizabeth Sinclair of Marshall, Loraine Decherd of Austin, Eugene Feenbush of Dallas, Max Oppenheimer of San Antonio, Bruno Winkler of College Station, Sidon Harris of Austin, Noyes D. Smith of Austin, Marian Oldfather of Cleburne and R. R. Williams of Seguin.

TE-WAA-HISS MEETS

Camp Te-WAA-Hiss held its initial meeting of the year Saturday, October 1, at the University Commons in the form of a camp luncheon. Essie Roots, director, presided at this meeting. Miss Thelma Dillingham, faculty advisor, briefly related the history of Camp Te-WAA-Hiss. Miss Hiss then welcomed the newcomers into Te-WAA-Hiss. After these talks the new staff and council were introduced. Tentative plans were made for the next outing, the gift offering service. After singing the camp songs, the meeting adjourned.

Donald Piper and P. K. Stanley are in school here this year. Their home is in New Hampshire.

Co-eds Barred from Midnight Matinees

Requirement of the Board of Regents of the University of Texas that all girl students must be in by 11 o'clock except when attending dances, excludes midnight matinees. Many students have been looking forward to these with much joy and may no longer doubt object to this ruling. This not only means girls in the dormitories but all girls that are not residing with their parents.

According to Miss Ruby Terrill, dean of women, the girls in the University make up two-fifths of the total enrollment, one-third of this number living with their parents. The ruling affects only two-thirds of the girl students.

New Classes Added
in Aquatic Sports

According to "Shorty" Alderson, who has charge of the classes in swimming that are being given at the Y. M. C. A. pool, swimming is increasing in popularity. Last year one class was given in swimming, the class being filled to capacity; this year in order to relieve the congestion, it was decided to hold three classes. This was done but the classes have proven so popular that they are now well filled to the limit and new applicants are being turned away.

Alderson said that it was his opinion that if a larger pool were available, swimming would soon be the most popular physical training course on the campus. The class this year differs from those given in preceding years in that there are a greater number of men who desire to improve their swimming than those who are already expert swimmers.

B.B.A. SCHOLARSHIPS GIVEN

Scholarships have been awarded to four men for work in the Bureau of Business Research of the University for the coming year, according to Dr. A. B. Cox, director of the bureau. These men, all former students of the University, are Herschel C. Walling of Mission, Sidney Adams of Marshall, Frank Wayne McLarty of Vernon, and Matthew J. Kavanaugh, Jr., formerly of Terrell. The scholarships vary in amounts from $400 to $600, according to Dr. Cox, and the work which the students do with the bureau during the year will yield master's theses.
