Managing Editor of Fort Worth Paper Will Employ
Only University Students

"I recently made a tour of the West and Middle West for the purpose of visiting newspaper plants which issue both morning and evening newspapers," said James R. Record, managing editor of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram and the Fort Worth Record.

"I found that all of these newspapers are depending largely upon schools of journalism of their respective cities or territories for additions which they make to their staffs. This is especially true as to reporters and copy readers. I have already placed that plan in operation to some extent upon the Star-Telegram and the Record, and it is now my purpose to draw recruits altogether from journalism students of the University of Texas in filling future staff positions on these newspapers."

While in Austin Mr. Record called at the University and conferred with W. D. Hornaday in regard to the recommending of journalism students for positions on the two Fort Worth newspapers at the end of the present session.

ORATORIO TRYOUT GIVEN WEDNESDAY

Students Given Second Opportunity to Join Oratorio
Wednesday at Y.M.C.A.

An invitation for new members who wish to join the Oratorio Society will be given Wednesday afternoon at the first regular rehearsal of the term. This is the result of a decision reached at a meeting of the official board at the end of the winter term. There are two reasons for giving a second invitation during the year to those who want to join the organization. In the first place, according to those in charge, the society was formed for every University student who wished to become a member, and as very little publicity was given because of the time spent on its proper organization, it was voted to give the students another opportunity to become members.

In the second place, several members of the various Glee Clubs have expressed a desire to join, but have been too busy with the glee club work to give the required amount of time to the Oratorio Society. As the main glee club concerts are over, it was also decided to give these students a chance to take part in the spring term performance.

The purpose of the organization is to study and then to give in public performance selections from the various oratorios. The spring term performance will include most of the oratorio, Haydn's "Creation," and several selections from other oratorios, one of which will be the Hallelujah Chorus from the "Messiah."

Members of the official board have asked that all who wish to join attend the rehearsal Wednesday afternoon from 4:30 to 6 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A. chapel room. Voice tryouts will be given by Oscar J. Fox, director of the society, to all who wish them, but no voice tryout is required.

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA LOSES BALL GAME TO AUSTIN HI

Playing in ideal football weather, the Lambda Chi Alpha interfraternity baseball team lost to Austin High yesterday at House park, 20 to 7. The Lambda Chi pitchers were wild and showed the lack of practice.

Manager Bob Williford started Harry Ward on the mound, and in turn he was relieved by Bob Gause, Chester Lynn, and Elmer Badders. The fielding of Stokes at shortstop and the base running of Bill Allen featured for the Lambda Chi aggregation.

NEBLETT NAMED PRESIDENT OF MEDIC STUDES

The following officers of the Pre-Medical Society for the spring term were elected Tuesday night: President, Robert Neblett; vice-president, Richard Eckhardt; secretary-treasurer, Mary Catherine Taylor; grand keeper of the skull, W. G. Seale.

On account of the small representation present the greater part of the business was carried over until the next meeting which will be held Tuesday night, April 6.

At this time plans will be made for the spring term social affair which will probably be a banquet instead of a dance as was formerly the custom. Also plans will be presented and discussed for the pre-medical students to attend the monthly meeting of the Travis County Medical Association. Dr. Painter will address the association at this meeting and it is urged that all students interested in the medical profession be on hand, according to Dr. Painter.

FARRELL, DYKE AND WEST ON PROGRAM

Tickets May Be Obtained
With Blanket Tax for 25
Cents at Co-Op

The "famous" Longhorn Band and "Varsity's premier entertainers" are to give a program at 8 o'clock Wednesday and Thursday nights in the Senior High School auditorium.

Bandmen and entertainers returned Sunday morning from Ballinger after giving ten programs in as many days in West Texas towns. According to reports the programs were well received by large audiences, the band giving two concerts in San Angelo to packed audiences.

Parades were also given in all the towns visited and in some towns short concerts were given in the high schools prior to the main concert.

The program consist of forty-five minutes of band numbers and is followed by five acts of vaudeville of the highest class, according to those who have already witnessed the program.

Evelyn Farrell and Burt Dyke open the vaudeville program with an act of song and dance entitled "This and That." Following this Garland Porter and "Foby" Fulcher have arranged a blackface skit entitled "The Simp and the Coon." Miss Farrell and Porter will be remembered as appearing together in an act on the band tour last year.

Next on the program is a comedy farce starring Margaret West. Miss West is assisted in her act by James Parke, Burt Dyke, Evelyn Farrell and Burnett Pharr. Concluding the program is an act of popular numbers by Collis Bradt's Orchestra.

Also on the program is a saxophone solo given by Arno Navratil and frequent "interruptions" as arranged with old time favorites by Collis Bradt.

Students having a blanket tax may purchase a ticket for twenty-five cents from the University Co-op, according to Burnett Pharr, manager of the band. Otherwise the tickets will sell for fifty cents and seventy-five cents and one dollar, if purchased at the door.

ARTICLE ON LONGHORN BAND.

In a recent issue of the Musical Observer, national musical magazine, the University of Texas Longhorn Band was given a write-up, and a picture of the organization printed along with the pictures of the bands of Illinois, Yale, and Wisconsin Universities.

The article dealing with college bands told of the place that the bands had come to occupying in the activities of the schools.

THARP LEAVES ON COLLECTING TRIP THROUGH MEXICO

Head of Botany Department
Goes to Tampico on 3
Weeks' Tour

SEEKS VARIED SPECIMENS

Scientist Will Make Comparison of Texas and Mexican Plant Life

Dr. B. C. Tharp, chairman of the Botany Department, left last night for a three weeks trip through Mexico. Dr. Tharp will spend most of this time in the coastal region near Victoria and Tampico.

The primary purpose of Dr. Tharp's trip is to make an extended comparison of the flora of the Texas coastal regions with the flora of the Mexican seaboard. Dr. Tharp expects to collect a number of specimens for the museum.

Dr. Tharp also hopes to gather many specimens for use in the botanical gardens which are now under construction on the Colorado River. This 500 acre tract, belonging to the University, will contain every kind of plant indigenous to this section of the country. The land varies from swampy along the river to barren in the interior of the tract, thus allowing East Texas and Louisiana plants in one section, and West Texas natives in the other. The more ordinary varieties, such as cactus, palms, and desert flowers, will vie with other less-known Texas plants.

Five years is the time estimated for completion of the project, which has attracted national attention, particularly the interest of the Carnegie Institute for Scientific Research. Gravel walks and winding roads will make the gardens easy of access, and a lodge will be provided for a resident keeper, as well as an office building.

PROF WILL ATTEND CONVENTION SOON

Dr. J. E. Pearce Prepares

Professor James E. Pearce of the Anthropology Department is planning to attend the annual convention of the American Anthropological Association, which is to be held three days, beginning April 30, at Columbus, Ohio.

Prominent anthropologists from all over the country are expected to be present, Professor Pearce stated. Routine business matters will make up the main program. Professor Pearce will address the convention on "Unique Stone Artifacts of Texas." He will illustrate his talk with specimens of ancient implements found in the state during his research work.

DEBATERS START ON TOUR OF EAST

Gossett and Rogers Leave
Soon to Compete With Large Eastern Colleges

Meeting three of the larger universities of the East, the University debating team will leave soon on an Eastern tour, the most extensive which has ever been made by a debating team of this institution. Ed Gossett of Post and Otis Rogers of Canadian will represent the University. They will meet the University of Pennsylvania at Philadelphia on Friday, April 16, Columbia University in New York City on Saturday, April 17, and the team of Dartmouth College at Hanover, N. H., on Tuesday, April 20. The question for debate is the same as that used in the Missouri University Valley debates, the "Mitchell Plan for Air Defense." Gossett and Rogers will uphold the affirmative.

"This trip has been made possible by personal contributions from members of the Board of Regents of the University, the Students' Council and from President W. M. W. Splawn, said Ellwood Griscom, chairman of the Department of Public Speaking."

W. O. Mogre is the debate coach at the University, and the success of the Varsity debate teams in the last few years has been attributed to his efforts.

Fifty University Educators
Plan Study of International Questions

Dr. C. P. Patterson, professor of government of the University, will accept the offer of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace to join a party of some 50 teachers in universities and colleges who will visit Paris, The Hague, and Geneva during the summer of 1926, for the purpose of making what may be described as a clinical study of international associations and international co-operation. A letter from Henry S. Haskell, assistant to the director, was received by Dr. Patterson Tuesday, officially notifying him of his selection to become a member of the party of distinguished educators. The party with which Dr. Patterson will travel, will sail from New York on the steamship President Roosevelt on July 28.

In his letter, the assistant stated: "On behalf of the Division of Intercourse and Education of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, I have the privilege to invite you to be one of a party of some 50 teachers in universities and colleges, who have a special interest in the study and teaching of subjects bearing upon international relations. It is planned that this party shall visit Paris, The Hague, and Geneva during the summer of 1926, for the purpose of making what may be described as a clinical study of international associations and international co-operation."

"These invitations are issued to those university and college teachers who, it is believed, by reason of their training, experience, and special study will gain most from the trip, and will make effective use of the opportunities which the trip affords. As explained in the accompanying Annexes and in the earlier letter, all necessary expenses of the trip will be met by the Carnegie Endowment."

"The Carnegie Endowment for International Peace invites about 50 teachers of courses bearing on international relations in American colleges and universities, to be its guests at a conference of American Teachers of International Relations during the summer of 1926. The members of the conference will visit Paris, The Hague, and Geneva. The objects of the conference are:

- (1) To enable American teachers to become more conversant with the problems of international association and co-operation.
- (2) To enable American teachers to form direct contact with some of the leading personalities engaged in the work of international co-operation.

FRIENDSHIP DRIVE CLOSES AS $400 IS GIVEN BY STUDENTS

Drive Under Direction of Levi
Blasingame of Local
Y. M. C. A.

$48,000 RAISED EACH YEAR

Friendship Rather Than Treaties Is Aim of National Movement

Student Friendship Day finished with a total of approximately $400 raised from the students. The movement was under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A., and was directed by Levi Blasingame.

The drive is an annual affair made among the colleges of the country for the purpose of establishing stronger bonds of sympathy among the college students of the different countries. The organization has for its slogan, "Friendship Stronger Than Treaties." By creating the proper feeling of sympathy and understanding, the supporters of the organization hope to prevent the recurrence of conditions that led to the world war.

Of the budget raised each year, $25,000 goes for caring for foreign students studying in this country. Another sum of $18,000 is spent in holding convention. This summer the international conference of the Student Friendship Federation will be held in Denmark. Sterling Holloway, a student of the University, will be one of the ten representatives to attend the meeting in August.

From the University Miss Quayle goes to points in the north middle-west, thence to Chicago, and will end her campaign in this country by lecturing at universities on the Pacific Coast.

'TALE OF GENJI' WILL BE READING

Dr. E. M. Clark Will Read
From Ancient Japanese
Masterpiece

E. M. Clark will give the regular Thursday afternoon reading tomorrow. His reading will be on "The Tale of Genji" by Lady Murasaki Shikibu. The translation from the Japanese is by Arthur Waley. The reading will be in room 12, Biology Building, at 5 o'clock.

Lady Murasaki was a realistic novelist who lived and wrote in the imperial court of Japan 900 years ago. In "The Tale of Genji" she narrates, the romantic adventures, particularly the love affairs, of Prince Genji, and paints a picture of high life in Old Japan. Competent critics have pronounced the story "by far the greatest novel of the East—one of the dozen masterpieces of the world"; "a story as robust as 'Tom Jones,' as discerning as 'Don Quixote,' and as untrammeled as 'The Thousand and One Nights.'"

ADMINISTRATIVE COUNCIL DECLARES SAXON, STAR UTILITY MAN, INELIGIBLE

Mack Saxon, premier general utility man of the Longhorn baseball team, has been finally declared ineligible by the Texas Athletic Council, it was given out early Tuesday morning.

Saxon's eligibility has been hanging in the balance for the past three weeks, and his case has been discussed from every possible angle, and the final blow came yesterday when the Administrative Council acted on his case. The entire trouble arose from the fact that Saxon was ill while winter term final examinations were taking place. Saxon was able to take but three of the examinations, and the conference rule states that the athletes must pass three and one-third courses before they are eligible to participate in athletic contests. The Administrative Council failed to give Saxon a chance to make up his postponed exams, thereby disqualifying him in baseball.

Saxon would probably have been the best utility man in the conference had he been eligible. He is best behind the bat, although he has shown to good advantage during the early season training at various infield positions that Coach Disch has used him. Saxon is no slouch in the outfield when occasion arises that would cause him to be shifted to the gardens.

Saxon was one of the outstanding members of last year's Shorthorn aggregation, being used on the team mostly in center field, although he caught and played second and short at times. He caught two years at Austin College, but came in under the four-year rule, this making him eligible for two years' participation in athletics at the University of Texas. Saxon is a ball player that plays the game for the sheer delight that it affords him, and this fact helps his natural ability a lot.

Saxon will be eligible for Varsity football next fall, provided he passes the work during this term, and his postponed examinations for the winter term. He is probably better known to football fans than he is to the diamond followers, as he is captain-elect of the Orange tribe for the coming season.

Saxon will continue to work out with the Longhorn squad.

NINE LEAVES ON TOUR THURSDAY

Will Play Two Games With Centenary and One With Mustangs

Final preparations for the tour that will take the Longhorn baseball team to Louisiana for two games with Centenary at Shreveport and a game with S. M. U. are coming to a close, according to Coach W. J. Disch.

The team will leave Austin Thursday and will meet the Centenary team in the first game Friday. Saturday another game will be played and the team will leave that night for Dallas, where they will meet the Southern Methodist University Mustangs Tuesday.

The team will remain idle Monday, and will probably watch the game between the Chicago White Sox and the Dallas club, according to the manager. Definite men to make the trip have not been picked, but from the games so far this season, in all probability the men who will make the trip will include Jack Radford, Ed Olle, Jack King, Howard "Lefty" Williamson, Captain Clyde Pratt, Collie Falk, Frederick Thompson, Potsy Allen, Hustler Ramsey, Leslie Cox, Henry Baumgartner, Neal Baker, and Maurice "Eco" Redfern.

Dummies Are Beaten 8-2 by Fast Frosh

Allowing but four hits while his team-mates were gathering nine, Mueller led his Freshman team-mates to an 8-2 victory over the Silents of the Texas Institute for the Deaf. Mueller, with stellar support from his men, held the Silents to few hits and at the same time pounded the Silent pitcher for nearly a dozen.

Walker, Hopkins, and Ford were the heavy hitters for the Pea Greeners. Dad Burnett's team hit Gambelin at will, although the Silent moundman delivered well and had good control and speed. It was the first game in which Gambelin appeared against the University first-year aggregation.

Ball Room of Stephen F. Austin Is Decorated for Easter German on Friday

Varsity's premier social event of the season, the Easter German, which will be held on the roof of the Stephen F. Austin Friday night, will have the cheapest admittance that any Easter affair has had in many years. The management of the Easter German has announced that a price of $2.20 will be charged, while all other former Easter dances have cost the student $3.30 and $4.40.

"Due to the prevalent idea that the Easter German is a mercenary affair, many students think that it is a group dance, and that it is staged to make money," said Cecil Cook, manager. "This year we are making the price of admission $2.20 in order to make it possible for all students to attend. There should be no one who stays away from the dance because of the price. With one of the best orchestras in the State furnishing music, and with the use of expensive decorations and refreshments that will characterize the affair, the student is assured of his money's worth."

Two days will be required to decorate the roof of the Stephen F. Austin for the occasion, declared Cecil Cook. A force of students will begin work this morning converting the roof into an attractive ballroom, with the Easter decorations as the scheme.

Since the Easter German is the biggest social event of the spring, it will be spring formal. This means that white pants and blue coats, linen suits, or grey spring suits will be suitable for men to wear.

The Grand March will be held at 10 o'clock with Cecil Cook favoring Louise Murphy. In the cotillion Ed Gilliam will favor Emily Anderson.

Patrons for the Easter German are: Mr. and Mrs. Richard Robinson, H. A. Wroe, D. C. Reed, A. V. Riley, Seldon Reed, Albert Taylor, C. N. Avery, W. R. Long, Walter Wilcox, T. H. Bowman, Malcolm Reed, E. S. Swann, Mrs. M. S. White, Mrs. Booth, Mrs. Wells, Mrs. Florence Bell.

VARSITY TRACKMEN MEET GEORGETOWN STARS HERE SATURDAY IN DUAL MEET

In the first dual track meet of the season, the Longhorn "thinly-clads" will be matched against the strong Georgetown University team from Washington, D. C., Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock on the Stadium cinderpath. Featured by the appearance of Big Leo Baldwin for the first time since he injured his leg more than two weeks ago, the Orange and White track team is expected to make a better showing than they did in the recent medley relay games. Leo took a light workout Tuesday afternoon, but will be unable to take any part in running events because of his weak leg. Big Leo will be entered in the discus throw and the shot put.

Georgetown is bringing the same ten-man team here that carried off premier honors in the medley relay games. Six of the Georgetown athletes are Olympic and world title holders. Dowding, who easily took first place in the broad jump last Friday by jumping more than 23 feet, and who duplicated his performance in the Rice relays, holds the world's record for the indoor broad jump. Hines, former Houston high school athlete and national high school javelin champion, will also participate in the meet. Hines took first honors in the big meet last Friday by hurling the spear 192 feet 4 inches.

Other athletes who will be seen in action Saturday include Plansky, national decathlon champion; Norton, second place winner in the last Olympic decathlon; Burgess, national junior quarter-mile champion; Hass, a former national low hurdle champion; Swinburn, member of the national champion two-mile relay team; McClean, 440 yard runner, and Gegan, mile runner.

The Longhorn aggregation will be weakened by the absence of Cockrell, sprint king, who is recuperating from an attack of mumps. Baldwin, one of the best hurdlers in the Conference, will not take part in any of the running events. Atkin, high jumper; Sandburg, pole vaulter; and Stallter, hurdler, are still ineligible for track.

But notwithstanding the absence of some of the Steer's star performers, the Orange and White will give the Georgetown team a fight for first place. Haggard may have to break his own record of 6 feet 3 inches to win the high jump. Captain Stud Wright and Captain Sandy Esquivel ought to annex first place in the hurdles and the two-mile respectively. Landa and Baggett will probably place in one-two order in the dashes with a probability of Neblett nosing one of them out in the 220 yard sprint.

In the pole vault, three Longhorns are clearing the bar at 12 feet 6 inches consistently. Sheppard, Hammond, or Brown should win this event. "Dub" Lindsey will be unable to participate in the broad jump. "Tiny" Gooch, who annexed second place in both the Rice and Texas relays throwing the discus, may surprise some one by tucking away first in this event. Miller and Conner will also give members of the Georgetown team a fight in the distance runs. The Longhorn relay team has not been selected.

Plans Underway to Entertain League Delegates in May

Plans are now underway for the entertainment of the girl delegates to the Interscholastic League meet here in May, by the Woman's Representative Board, according to Miss Ruby Terrill, Dean of Women.

Roy Bedichek, director of the Interscholastic League, has divided the city into sections which will be canvassed by the members, and lodgings for the delegates will be solicited. Some of the girls will be entertained in the women's rooming houses of the campus. The president, Elsie Townes, will appoint a committee to extend hospitality to the girls while they are participating in the contests.

"We hope to make this meet one of the most enjoyable in the history of the school," said Miss Terrill.

Queen: Pola Negro in "The Tower of Lies."
Hancock: "Skinner's Dress Suit" with Reginald Denny.
Majestic: Sally O'Neill in "Mike" and song offering, "Dreams."
Texas: "The Road to Yesterday" with Jetta Goudal and others.

MAJESTIC.

Today for the last times will be seen Marshall Neilan's own production of his own story, "Mike."

The story has everything—humor, thrills, romance, pathos, novelty, and a box office cast.

In fact, the cast is one you can shout about. Sally O'Neill, a newcomer to the screen of rare talent, with a personality you will love, plays the title role. William Haines is seen as the fearless, unjustly persecuted Harlan; Charlie Murray and Ford Sterling come in for a series of uproarious episodes; Sam De Grasse is villain extraordinary, and the remainder of the cast is well balanced.

A novel song offering by John Allen Stevenson, assisted by Nan Bennett, entitled "Dreams," is the added attraction.

HANCOCK.

Opening today at the Hancock theatre and playing there for the remainder of the week is "Skinner's Dress Suit" starring Reginald Denny.

Our advance notices indicate that the whole is centered around the difficulties encountered in Skinner's (Reginald Denny) endeavors to avoid a Hebrew tailor to whom he owes the purchase price of one dress suit.

A press notice says, "Mr. Denny has appeared in many good comedies but none of them equals 'Skinner's Dress Suit' in entertaining values. To begin with, there are as many laughs as there have been in any previous picture of his and in addition, the spectators are held in pretty tense suspense."

Think we shall see it today.

TEXAS.

Holding the screen at the Texas Theatre today and tomorrow is Cecil B. DeMille's production, "The Road to Yesterday."

"The Road to Yesterday" seems to be a rather elaborate sort of story, mixing up occultism, Christianity, and romance.

The cast is one of unusual brilliance and one which should be able to handle a story of this type adequately—the stars being, Joseph Schildkraut, Jetta Goudal, Vera Reynolds, William Boyd, and Julia Faye.

QUEEN.

The Queen theatre will show today the latest picture starring Pola Negri entitled, "The Crown of Lies."

Here's what our advance notices say about it.

"The Crown of Lies" is the story of an immigrant girl who bears an extraordinary resemblance to the missing queen of a small European country. Taken to Sylvania by a group of patriots, she poses as the long lost queen. In a short, exciting reign, happiness and prosperity are restored. Then she returns to her American lover and a tiny cottage in the States.

It is claimed that the picture is a good human interest story which gives Pola ample scope for displaying her histrionic ability.

OUR UNIVERSITY BAND

In a recent issue of the Musical Observer, a national music magazine, the University of Texas Longhorn Band was honored by having its picture printed, along with such famous organizations as the University of Illinois Band, the Yale University Band, and the University of Wisconsin musical organization.

Those students who take advantage of the opportunity of attending the Longhorn Band concert tonight will have the chance of hearing one of the leading university bands of the United States. The rating given the Texas Band by the Musical Observer is entirely due to the consistent and creditable work of the former managers of the organization, and to the very capable work of Burnett Pharr, the director.

The article accompanying the pictures of the few leading college bands of the United States brings out some very interesting points dealing with the relation of the school band to its teams and spirit. It stated that the teams which made the best records in the football season were the schools which maintained the best bands. It pointed out that the University of Illinois, which is conceded to have the best college band, made perhaps the best record on the athletic field in the fall.

Football games, however, are by no means the only justification of a band, the article stated. From all over the country comes evidence that the band serves the various college activities. The conclusion is that a good band is a tremendous asset to any school, not only as an organization that injects pep at athletic events, but as an end in itself. Those who are interested in fostering the growth of bands in the schools are of the opinion that the organizations are very valuable as a publicity feature of unexcelled merit for the school, and as a training course in a professional or cultural capacity.

PARTICIPATING AUDIENCES

Two things are needed to make the American style of debating more interesting, in the opinion of W. O. Moore, coach of debating at the University. One is that the college debates should be judged by the audience. The other is that American speakers should make more use of the English style of speaking which is free and easy, and employs a great deal of humor.

Perhaps the strongest argument that can be advanced in favor of the audience participating is that it gives a person an ideal situation to test his ability as a speaker. This situation is created through the fact that in an audience judged debate, the speaker must talk to every member of the assemblage and not to three or four judges. There is entirely too much inclination on the part of the speakers to bend their efforts to winning the judges, rather than their listeners. It is the result of the American characteristic to win at any price.

Those who attended the Texas-Oxford contest could not but help feel the utter freedom exhibited by the English speakers, and something that was only too apparently lacking in the manner of the University debaters. Standing before the audience, and talking in a slow, humorous vein, with an occasional lapse into the serious delivery, the English speakers established a spirit of personal contact with the audience that cannot be gained by the forced presentation used by so many orators.

There is no better method to establish personal contact than to make the audience feel that they have a part in the debate. In other words, make the audience participate in the debate by giving them the privilege to vote on the winners. Some objection to the popular judged debate may be raised on the grounds that it is not fair to the visiting team. This objection may be neutralized by giving the home team the negative side of the question. People are reluctant to vote for a change. It's a great deal harder to convince people that something needs changing than it is to argue in favor of the thing as it exists.

SOMETHING IN RETURN

In a paper recently read before the Austin ex-students by William B. Ruggles, representing President W. M. W. Splawn, a plea was made for a greater graduate school at the University of Texas, and a plan roughly outlined for the building up of such a school.

President Splawn's paper dwelt upon the University as a fertile soil for the carrying on of graduate work, and as an attraction to the more eminent professors of the country. He also stressed the need for more adequate equipment for graduate work. Another thought he brought out was that of the number of students now doing graduate work in the University and the number expected next summer.

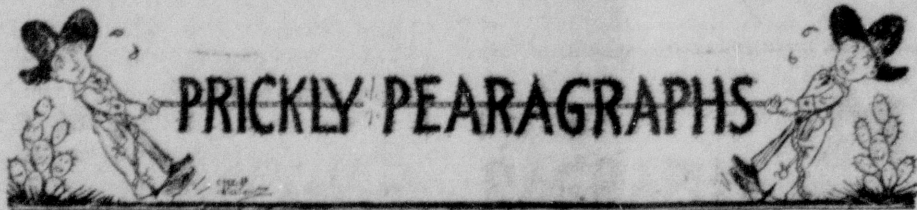

Before the Texas Graduate School can take its place among the foremost of the United States, President Splawn pointed out four things that must be done: (1) increase the number of fellowships between $1,000 and $2,000, (2) obtain appropriations for more professorships, some amounting to as much as $10,000 and $12,000 each, (3) secure a great natural history museum, and (4) make provision that there shall be only one state-supported graduate school.

In closing his message, the president emphasized the necessity of the graduates realizing the need for the school and of their doing what they can to perpetuate it and foster it to high standards of achievement. By encouraging scientific and literary endeavor, by making what contributions they can to the fellowship funds, and by adding to the library and the museum, they will be helping to increase the value and prestige of the graduate school, in the opinion of President Splawn.

Outstanding among these things that the ex-students can do to aid in the development of a surpassing graduate division is that of providing what money they can for fellowships and scholarships, as well as for additional equipment. Very few men and women who come on the campus, stay four years or more and leave, ever realize that they might do something for the institution after they have taken their departure. They seem to forget the opportunity of paying back a part of the good they have derived from the University. They seem not to feel any obligation; they come and go away with an education and leave better fitted for their places among men, but they overlook their duty of giving something back in return for what they are taking away.

Of course the University of Texas is a state-supported school, but that fact does not preclude individuals from making it private endowments. Aside from one or two noted benefactors, there are no alumni who subscribe real worthwhile contributions to the development of the institution. Certainly there is a splendid opportunity to gain honor and esteem, to say nothing of personal satisfaction, by aiding materially in the development of the graduate school. President Splawn has well shown the need of that school, and has pointed out the several ways ex-students may help it—it is now up to the ex-students.—L. W.

HAROLD TEEN—BRISK BUSINESS ON THE AUTO MART

"For sale—An old table, may be antique," says classified ad. There's honesty for you!

AN EXPLANATION.

Some of our readers have said that our jokes are too deep to be easily understood. In order that this condition may be relieved, we will explain the process of analyzing a joke as follows:

Suppose that a student named A (in order to make this discussion short a number of abbreviations will be used. This makes for clearness and elimination of superfluous details or ambiguous statements. Get it?) picks up a joke magazine. A reads the following joke:

"When is a door not a door?"

"When it's a-jar."

Friend A ponders. How could a door be a jar? A door is made of wood or mostly of wood. A jar is made of glass or pottery. How could such a change take place, except by magic?

A asks B (another of these hypothetical guys. We hate to be long-winded by writing out a full name, you know. It's dangerous, too. You might get a name that would not be attractive or something. Get it?) how such a thing is possible.

B replies, "why, you dumbell, that joke is stale. Anyhow it's so evident that anyone could get it. A door is not a door when it's a jar. See? A jar? Think for a change."

"A jar? A jar?" repeats A dumbly. "You mean a shock? I ran into a door once in the dark, and it was quite a shock. Still, the idea isn't clear."

"No, no! A jar in the sense of open, you boob," growls B.

"Yes, the door is open, but that doesn't make it a jar, does it?" asks the perplexed A. "There is no change of physical properties, is there? I don't understand."

"It is a play on words, a double meaning," explains the patient B. "A jar is used in two ways. It means open, and it means a jar in the sense of container."

"Double meaning? You mean it's suggestive? I always avoid suggestiveness," frowns A.

"You're hopeless," shrieks B, tearing his hair.

"I believe I'm going to catch it," smiles A.

"Sure you are," exclaims B, proving his statement by hitting A over the head with an ornamental jar.

(In case you haven't understood the joke yet, come around to the Texan office about ten years from now when somebody else will be your victim.)

HAIL TO THE SHACKS!

During the past several years there has been considerable agitation for the removal of the shacks from the University campus. Such a suggestion is revolutionary, and should not be allowed to permeate the youthful minds of students intent upon the absorption of an education.

Many reasons might be advanced why the shacks should be left alone. In the first place, there is hardly any danger of fire destroying "shack row." The houses are only of wood covered with tar-coated roofing, which of course would resist the attack of flames. Besides, the janitors keep the floors well-soaked with creosote and disinfectant, thereby reducing the fire hazard. And the houses are not costly; if by a miracle one should burn, it could be replaced by two others at small expense.

Nor must the healthful atmosphere of the buildings be overlooked. In the hot summer months, one finds the interior of a shack to be about the coolest place on the campus, and during severe cold weather the excellent construction keeps the icy wind from tearing through the rooms, while ample steam heat keeps everyone comfortable. Furthermore, it would be difficult to improve upon the lighting and ventilating facilities.

Another little point is that if by chance the town might at any time have need of quarters for army mules or some dairyman's herds, the University could furnish excellent stables and milking stalls.

Then there are the natural educational advantages offered by the structures. They make the freshmen resourceful and self-reliant, unless they are financially able to hire guides to aid them in finding their class rooms in the shacks. And they are given no chance to forget their A. B. C.'s, as all the buildings are conveniently lettered.

The shacks also heighten the spirit of democracy among the students. Wooden castles such as these of which the University can boast are not far removed from log cabins; so who can say but what the institution may produce many Abraham Lincolns in the near future?

Lastly in favor of retaining the shacks, is that they distinguished the University. Many persons who know nothing of the Biology building, the Stark collection, and the Wrenn and Garcia libraries, often hear of the shacks.

When exes shake hands in the streets of distant towns, the shacks provide a ready topic of conversation; when old grads wax eloquent over the banquet table, a stale joke about the shack furnishes entertainment; and when the students are in need of sleep, the shacks are ideal for classroom siestas.

For these reasons someone ought at once to put a stop to all this nonsensical agitation for removal of Varsity's heirlooms. Let the oil royalties heap up in the State treasury coffers, for our great-grandchildren may need funds to erect temples to education. In the meantime, hail to Varsity's tradition and to the exes' boast—hail to the shacks!

Resists Corrosion

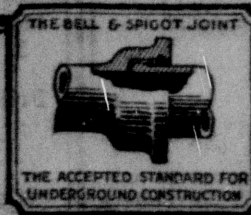

THIS picture, taken in the salt marshes near Kearny, N. J., shows two lines of 30-inch Cast Iron Pipe replacing pipe made of other material. The alternate exposure to the action of salt water and air is a severe test.

While the pipe shown in the picture is subjected to unusual corrosive influences, all underground pipe must be able to withstand corrosion to a greater or less degree. Cast Iron Pipe has this quality. It does not depend on its coating to resist rust; the material itself is rust-resisting. The first Cast Iron Pipe ever laid in is service today at Versailles, France, after two hundred and sixty years' service.

Annual Pi Beta Phi Banquet March 27

The chapter house of Alpha Kappa chapter of Phi Beta Pi, medical fraternity on last Saturday evening, March 27, was the scene of one of the largest and most elaborate of the sixteen annual banquets held in the history of the fraternity. The spacious reception room, beautifully decorated and lighted in the colors of the fraternity and the University, provided ample space for the several large tables upon which a most palatable five course turkey dinner was served.

An initiation ceremony preceded the banquet, and the chapter takes very great pleasure in announcing the affiliation of Dr. Walter J. Masters of Wichita Falls as honorary member.

Dr. W. J. Jenkins of Galveston acted as toastmaster in a most excellent style. Suspended over the toastmaster's table was a large illuminated replica of the fraternity insignia. Vice Archon R. L. Cherry made an address of welcome to the visiting alumni. This was followed by most inspiring and instructive addresses by several of the alumni. Much discussion was given to the very promising future of the chapter. An expression of freshman opinions was given by C. I. Stoner of Altoona, Pennsylvania.

Following the banquet the alumni repaired to the club rooms for a meeting of the Alpha Kappa Improvement Association of which Dr. W. F. Spiller was elected president, and Dr. J. L. Jenkins, secretary-treasurer.

Those attending the banquet besides the thirty active members of the chapter were the following alumni: Dr. W. J. Jenkins, J. L. Jenkins, C. A. Slaughter, W. T. Sadler, J. B. Johnson, W. F. Spiller, and W. T. Garbade of Galveston; Drs. P. V. Ledbetter, Jack Ehlers, J. J. Truitt, W. G. Whitehouse, L. M. Shipp, J. F. Gamble, A. L. Miller, and Geo. Sladczky of Houston, and Dr. W. J. ENTRANCE OF WOMEN IN FIELD OF JOURNALISM HAS UPLIFTING EFFECT, SAYS A. P. OFFICIAL

Cleaner and more wholesome journalism will result from the increasing entrance of women into the profession, according to E. A. Cutter, superintendent of the central division of the Associated Press, who was in Austin Tuesday.

"Women will clean up the scandal pages," Cutter said. "Often-times women are directly responsible for great improvements in the press, whether they are given credit for it or not. They can get more from women than men can, and such feminine interpretation will naturally mean better, more wholesome news. Their reports will give a woman's point of view and interesting stories will be treated from a different angle."

That journalism schools are doing a great bit toward providing able material for the profession is Cutter's opinion.

"I want to commend the schools for their teaching of accuracy, for the way they have instilled the gospel of accuracy into the hearts and minds of the students," Cutter continued. "Journalism students are not careless, despite the fact that they are often said to be by opponents of the journalism schools. They are usually able to succeed simply because they have the proper background of fundamental knowledge along many lines."

But the student must work if he hopes to succeed. And not only must he work, but he must love to work, Cutter said.

"The person who succeeds is one who has enthusiasm and a real motive. He must not wish to write merely for money, fame, or to gain influence, and the person who fails in journalism usually does so because he was not willing to work."

Cutter was in Austin visiting the local bureau of the Associated Press and was accompanied by his wife. He has always been an advocate of journalism schools and addressed the embryo scribes of the University when he was in Austin last year.

San Antonio Defeats Connecticut Quint in Chicago Tourney

San Antonio, represented by Brackenridge High School, undefeated basketball team in Texas survived the first match at the Interscholastic cage meet being held at the University of Chicago. San Antonio defeated Corsicana in the finals of the

In their first meet at Chicago, the Texas team defeated the champion team of Rhode Island in a closely contested game.

Teams from thirty-five states are competing for the national title. Many of the teams are those that made the trip last year. Wichita Kansas, last year's national champion is this year replaced by Newton, a small town in Jayhawk state. Three of the teams that entered the semi-finals last year are in the meet this year: Wheeler, Miss.; Westport High of Kansas City, Missouri; and El Reno, Oklahoma.

Entered along with teams from Chicago, Atlanta, Kansas City, are Oak Ridge, of Louisiana, a town of but 300 inhabitants; Wheeler, Miss., a town of only 222 people. Charleston, for six years undefeated in South Carolina, is represented. This team placed third in the meet last year in Chicago.

E. P. Choice Praises Quality and Make-up of Longhorn Magazine

That the Longhorn Magazine of this year far exceeds in literary value that of any other year since its establishment is the belief of E. P. Choice, donor of the annual $25 English 3 essay prize, who has been in Austin for the past week-end visiting friends.

"I have been especially pleased with the quality of prose in the Longhorn as well as with the make-up of the magazine this year," Choice said.

During his years in the University, Choice took English 3 and became so interested in the course that last year he offered $25 for the best essay submitted by members of the English 3 classes. He is offering the prize money, which is divided into a first prize of $15 and a second prize of $10, again this year and plans to offer it every year.

He is now operating a cotton plantation near Lake Providence, La., and says that the things he enjoys most are The Daily Texan, the Longhorn, and College Humor.
