SEASON TICKETS TO BE SOLD FOR ORATORY EVENTS

Oratorical Association Is in Bad
Financial Condition and Strong Campaign Will Be Made to Better Matters.

In order to get the public speaking contests of the University on a sound financial basis, the Oratorical Association has inaugurated the plan of selling season tickets, similar to those sold by the Athletic Association. These tickets admit the bearer to all oratorical contests held in the University during the year, including the contests of the High School Interscholastic League.

In the past the members of the literary societies have been called upon to bear the burden of financing these contests. These men have responded willingly, but they feel that the student body should support them.

A prominent member of one of the literary societies said recently: "It is unjust to ask the men who give their time and interest to make University forensics a success to dig down into their pockets and pay the expenses of keeping them up. It would be just as fair to ask the football team to pay all the expenses of the football games."

The Oratorical Association is $400 in debt. This means that $800 must be raised to finance this year's events.

For this purpose 2000 season tickets have been put out, which will be sold for $1 each. As the tickets admit to ten contests, to each of which a single admission of 25 cents will be charged, those who purchase these tickets will get a $2.50 value for $1. All public speaking students and members of literary societies will be required to buy season tickets.

A vigorous campaign is now being carried among the faculty. Five committees have been appointed to make a personal canvass, and next Thursday afternoon three committees will canvass the downtown district and endeavor to sell a season ticket to every business man in Austin.

The following are the events to which these tickets will admit:

Saturday, December 5—Final Preliminary for Intercollegiate Debates.

2. Monday, March 1—Evans contest in Oratory.

3. Monday, March 29—District Peace Contest.

4. Monday, April 5—Freshmen Declamation Contest.

5. Friday, April 9—Debate with University of Louisiana.

6. Friday, April 16—Debate with University of Colorado.

7. Monday, April 19—State Peace Contest.

8. Saturday, May 8—Final debate of Interscholastic League.

9. Monday, May 10—Intersociety Debate.

MANAGERIAL SQUIBS.

This space will be used from time to time to acquaint the students with the business end of The Texan. While it will neither be harsh, nor altogether soft soap, we intend to state a few facts occasionally. Bouquets will be in order, but we will not be sparing with brickbats if they are needed. At present we merely wish to call your attention to the fact that the merchants who advertise in The Texan are the ones who make it possible. Tell them you appreciate it when you make a purchase. E. L. H.

BARACA CLASS IS LARGE.

Mr. R. P. Shuler's Baraca class had 139 students present last Sunday. Hugh Porter, a well known student and an old Baraca, was elected president. Mr. Shuler is planning a series of lectures on "Men of the Bible," drawing practical lessons from their lives. The class is planning to hold the loving cup won last year, and it has the best line-up of men it has ever had. Every student is urged to come out and join the class. It meets every Sunday morning in the auditorium of the Y. M. C. A.

ENROLLMENT WILL PASS LAST YEAR'S

Late Registrations Bring Total Enrollment Exactly Even With Last Year's.

The University of Texas is holding its own against universal adversity, and the total enrollment Tuesday night showed that it has exactly as many students as on this day last year. The registrar's books show that there are 2020 students in the University, the same number as had matriculated by the end of the sixth day last year.

Many well informed people have expressed the belief that before many weeks the number of students will have increased over the total number of last year, even though the commercial world is paralyzed by the war in Europe and the almost negligible demand for cotton, the State's staple product.

Among those who believe that the University of Texas will not lose because of the condition that confronts the people, is Senator Willacy, chairman of the Senate finance committee, who has always evidenced a faith in the institution and who believes that the people of Texas will surmount any difficulty where education of the sons and daughters of the State is involved. Senator Willacy has a boundless faith in the people and believes they will manage to give their sons and daughters a University education notwithstanding the business outlook. As a result, he expects the next few weeks to bring additional students until the record of former years is surpassed.

GLEE CLUB WILL HAVE BIG CROWD

Much New Material Appears at First Try-Out—Good Prospects for a Strong Club.

Great enthusiasm was shown at the first tryout of the Glee Club yesterday afternoon, twenty new men and most of last year's club being present. Most of the new voices are second tenor or baritone, first tenors and second basses not being very much in evidence. A number of the second tenors, however, have unusually high voices, and may be able to join the first tenor section. Director Metzenthin and President Holmes both expressed themselves as exceedingly well pleased with the new material, and believe they have unearthed several "finds" who will make valuable additions to the club. As all of the old men but three are back, the club this year promises to be the best in the history of the school, and will probably number between thirty-five and forty members.

Following the tryouts a business meeting of the old members was held. Mr. W. E. Metzenthin was re-elected director, and George T. Holmes was chosen assistant director, which position he will hold in addition to his office of president of the club. A second tryout for the new men was set for next Thursday at 5 p. m. in the main auditorium. The old men need not attend this meeting.

The following members of last year's Glee Club are again in school:

BIBLE CHAIR HAS GOOD ENROLLMENT

Over Eighty Have Now Registered for Courses With Dr. Jewett, and More Are Expected.

Notwithstanding the war bugaboo, the Texas Bible Chair of the University of Texas opened under the most auspicious circumstances. The registration has reached eighty students—a considerable increase over that of last year. It is especially gratifying that of this number twenty-three are men, while during the last session only seven or eight men enrolled in this school.

The most popular class, judging from the number in attendance, is the class which is studying the life of Paul. Fifty students are on the class roll. So large has it become that it is necessary for the students to meet between the hours of 8 and 9 in the morning in order not to have any conflict with their regular University classes.

Dr. Jewett has planned a great work for the present term, and he is very much pleased with the progress made by his chair since its establishment. He is expecting to have at least ten more registers for work in the Bible Chair before the winter term commences.

FRESHMEN URGED TO ENTER CONTEST

Lomax Hopes Four Hundred Students Will Enter Contest and Send Letters Home.

"We would like to see 400 pupils try for the prize of $50 offered by the University to the freshman who writes and has published in his home paper the best series of four letters regarding any phases of the University life," said J. A. Lomax, secretary of the faculties and head Division of Public Lectures and Publicity, Extension Department.

"Last year Paul Adams wrote four articles that were published in the San Antonio Light. He was given the prize. There were some fifty others that tried out for the prize, but we would like to have a great many more try this year. Both young men and young women alike are privileged to

LONGHORNS HAVE GOOD SCRIMMAGE

Both First and Second Teams Do Fast and Snappy Playing—The Freshmen Also Star.

Coach Allerdice put his men through the second scrimmage yesterday afternoon, the principle feature being the fast and snappy playing displayed by both the regulars and scrubs. The first touchdown came as a result of a twenty-yard pass from Barrell to Edmonds, and Barrell kicked goal, while the second score was made by Halbert on a line buck, but Leftwich failed to kick goal.

In the latter part of the practice a team made up mainly of freshmen was pitted against the scrubs and made an excellent showing, with Hudson, of last year's Missouri University squad, urging them on. Hudson seemed to put some pep into the freshmen, but attracted considerable attention on the side lines on account of the driving power of his voice. Williams, at full, made the best showing for the freshmen, while Nielson was the star for the scrubs. Nolan and Duncan also showed up well for the second team.

Carlton, who has been on the hospital list for several days, will probably be back at fullback for the regular tomorrow, and it will be nip and tuck between him and Nielson to see which will play on the Trinity game. Dittmar may replace Keck at center, and if he does, will be the choice for that position in Saturday's game.

Mr. Brandon Trussell, B. A., '13 of the University of Texas, was elected last July the Superintendent of Public Instruction for Wise County. He is residing now at Decatur.

VARSITY PLANS FOR STATE FAIR

Boy Scout and Girls' Campfire Cooking Contest Will Be the Principal Feature of Show.

In connection with the University of Texas exhibit at the Dallas Fair, there will be conducted a Boy Scouts' cooking contest and a Campfire Girls' cooking contest on Saturday, October 17. Both contests will be held in the open space of the fair grounds, just west of the sunken gardens. The Boy Scouts' contest is limited to ten boys, two boys in each group. In this contest each group will make a campfire and prepare a camp stew in a Dutch oven. The stew is to be compounded from one variety of meat and not more than three vegetables. A first and second prize will be awarded, and the boys will be tested on the rapidity and neatness of the work and the palatableness of the stew. The girls' contest is likewise limited to ten groups of girls, two girls in each group. Each group must prepare a campfire breakfast of omelet, toast and bacon. Each is limited to one-eighth of a pound of bacon, three eggs and four slices of bread. They will be scored on the rapidity and neatness of the work and quality of the breakfast. Suitable prizes will be given.

A model farmyard in miniature is to be a feature of the exhibit of the Extension Department at the Dallas Fair. This is now being prepared by Miss Jessie P. Rich of the School Improvement division, and when completed will show the most up-to-date and practical way of arranging the farm house grounds. The exhibit consists of a sand table on which are shown models of a modern farm house, barns, chicken coops and other farm buildings, and the best arrangement of the garden, orchard, shade trees, drives, etc. A wall map, showing the farm landscape, with the fields arranged according to the most up-to-date scientific principles, will complete the exhibit.

A second exhibit showing a model schoolhouse and grounds will be prepared as soon as the first is completed. These exhibits are to be accompanied by bulletins on their respective subjects, which will be distributed among the farmers of the State, the aim being to improve the conditions of the home and school in the rural communities.

George Hexter of Dallas has returned to enter the Law Department.

CLASS HAS LARGE ATTENDANCE

The Student's Sunday School Class had over a hundred present last Sunday, and it is hoped by those interested in this work that the attendance will reach a hundred and fifty before the term is far advanced. Dr. Jewett, in speaking of this class, said that its purpose would be threefold: First, he hopes to give the students a practical interpretation of the gospel; second, to take up the study of the modern man and the world and the application of religion to the modern man, and third, the social side of Jesus.

DENTON NORMAL TO PLAY SCRUBS

Authorities Have Accepted Challenge of Normal and Will Go to Denton November 2.

Realizing the necessity of providing a schedule for the men who constitute the second team, Coach Allerdice and Director Belmont have decided to accept the offer of the Denton Normal as to a game to be played in Denton on November 2. The men who will go to Denton will not be decided until the first game of the regular schedule has been played with Trinity Saturday. Fifteen men will go on the trip, and all the coaches say that this is just the beginning of the "scrub" season.

J. W. Pender of the Normal stated that they would entertain fifteen men, paying expenses both to and from Denton, including the coaches in the fifteen. Mr. Pender stated that he hoped to have a large delegation in Dallas to witness the Texas-Oklahoma game, and expressed a desire that the railroads would make reductions in North Texas as well as in South Texas for the game.

TEXAN STAFF MEETS.

Yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock a preliminary meeting of The Texan staff was held. Quite a number of the old staff members as well as several aspirants were present. Lynn Landrum made a short talk, outlining the work to be done and the editorial policy of the paper. Fred Cotten also made a few suggestions as to the preparation of copy and the writing of heads. As yet the staff has not been divided into daily squads, but it has been planned to do this as soon as the work becomes more settled. The list of issue editors is also incomplete and will remain so until the Advisory Board is able to pick men for the vacancies from those now competing.

FIRST BIG RALLY WILL BE FRIDAY

Rooters Will Gather for Season's First "Pep" Producer—Yell Leader to Be Elected.

The first rally of the season will be pulled off in the auditorium Friday night in grand style. The new men will have the first real opportunity to learn the college yells and instill into them a little of the Texas spirit.

Several things of interest will take place. The new medals offered by the Athletic Council will be awarded. These medals are in the shape of a watch bob and have one bar on them for every letter earned by the individual in the respective sports in the University.

The blankets given to the players by Luther Stark of Orange, Texas, will be given to the squad. Then there will be the speech by "Benny," which, as usual, gives great promise to be a show in itself.

The band will make its first appearance for the year, and will add to the merriment of the occasion. The election of a chief yell leader to succeed T. B. Reese, who graduated last year, will demand the attention of the enthusiastic rooters.

It has long been the custom of the students to assemble in mass meeting preceding each of the games of the season and give vent to their oversupply of "pep" in the songs and yells of the University.

It is rumored that there will likely be a slight contest between the engineers and the laws to see which have the strongest vocal chords. Leaders in each department are claiming that they have the other bested.

LONGHORN CLUB IS LATEST INVENTION BELLMONT CLAIMS

Some Twelve Boys Have Become Sleuths to Stop Petty Thieving. Have Chosen Own Officers and Have Organized.

For the purpose of stopping the petty thieving, destruction of property and other malpractice on Clark Field by boys of the neighborhood that were observed last year, L. Theo. Belmont, acting as a representative of the Athletic Council, together with a representative of the Varsity Y. M. C. A., are organizing a Boys' Longhorn Club among the worthy boys of the neighborhood. The membership limit is twenty. Eleven boys have already joined.

Each of the members will be given a bronze badge with the words, "The University of Texas Boys' Longhorn Club" around the edge. Within the circle is a five-pointed white enamel star having the letters "T-E-X-A-S" on the points and the monogram "A-C" in the center. They will be at the football games, acting as ushers and juvenile police in return for free admission. They will look after lost articles, returning them to the rightful owners. They will keep boys from jumping the fence or crawling under the grandstand. In short, they will do everything they can toward keeping order and assisting the University officials.

"Acting as sleuths," said Mr. Belmont, yesterday, "the boys will always be on the lookout for violations of the law. If youngsters are found breaking lamp globes, stealing or committing other petty crimes, they will be turned over to Lyman Bailey, Austin's probation officer."

"The requisite for entrance into the club is cleanliness. They boys are required to pledge themselves against swearing, cursing, smoking, chewing or using unclean language. The members will be given an opportunity of practicing self-government. Edgar Lawhon has been elected captain; Franklin Stacey, first lieutenant; B. S. Yarrington, second lieutenant; Kenneth Brush, secretary-treasurer. The boys will be apportioned off into squads under the various officers. If any violation of the rule demanding cleanliness, if any case of insubordination or disobedience or failure to perform the prescribed duties develops, the offender will be tried by a jury of club members. Punishment will vary from 'a few paddles' to suspension for a month."

The members of the club are: Carl Benedict, Bleso Payne, Richard Hill, Max Kluge, Fred Junkin, Richard Hutchings, B. S. Yarrington, Roger Harris, Edgar Lawhon, Franklin Stacey, Kenneth Brush.

NEWMAN CLUB RECEIVES.

The Newman Club, which is an organization made up of the Catholic students of the University, held its annual reception last night in honor of the freshmen. The beautiful new club rooms adjoining St. Austin's Chapel were thrown open for the occasion. The ladies of the parish assisted in the receiving. Later in the evening dancing was enjoyed, after which light refreshments were served. The registrar's books show that as many Catholic students have registered this year as last.

Steve Pinckney came over from San Antonio to spend two days with his family and help open the University.

CHAPEL NOTICES.

The first devotional meeting of chapel pleased some of the people who were present very much. There was nothing but the simplest service. The large crowd sang with much feeling and power two old songs. Everybody sang. Then the whole assemblage joined in reading some selections for responses in the back of the new hymnal. That is the only way to get people to hear the word when it is read. The service was brought to a close by a prayer by the leader, Mr. Currie.

This introduction to the day will do you good. Come and see.

A man may lead a double life, but that doesn't entitle him to a double funeral.—Texas Citizen.

But surely a double cross would be appropriate to mark his last resting place?

Where is Theodore with his proposition of peace by military preparedness?—Daily Nebraskan.

It's a cinch he's not on page one, anyway.

A recent article on the war situation is accredited to Dr. Bernhard Dernberg. It was not stated that the proofreader was of French nationality.

You never miss the yard dog till the polecat gets the chicks.—Waco Times-Herald.

Well, it would take a mighty bad cold to keep you from being able to find him only too easily thereafter—that is, if he really is a watchdog.

Our freshmen friends have painted the sidewalks. Some of them must be figuring that if the class is ever to be writ large on the annals of the University it will be only with a paint brush.

The Dallas Evening Journal does not need any floral tribute at our hands, we know well enough, but we can't help admiring the stride it has struck in so short a time. It sprang full-armed from the brow of A. H. Belo & Co., as it were. Incidentally, its make-up artist is an Elberta, and no mistake.

We have received the Marlin High School annual. It is well printed and remarkably free from the flubdub so often found in publications of this kind. The Marlin year book contains a number of handsome full page cuts. It is well edited.

SECRET PRACTICE.

We hope that there will not be too much secret practice this season. Half the game, for the spectator's standpoint, is in having followed, day after day, in good weather and bad, the progress of the men on the practice field. To know the men by name, to recognize them by their build, by the way they handle the ball, by the way they circle the opposing ends or root up the opposing line—that is the joy of the game. It's on the practice field, where the scrubs and the regulars wear pretty much the same dirty uniforms, where the sport is uppermost and there is no foe. There's where the real football fan is made, and there's where is born the spirit that will carry the grandstand into a thunderous swell of support for our boys on the big day.

There will be no secret practice at all at Yale this year. A newspaper sporting writer of note says he "has seen nearly all the championship football games of the eastern colleges in recent years, and hardly 1 per cent of the effective plays were the result of secret practice. Perfect execution of the rudiments of the game will win ninety-nine games out of a hundred."

Let it be our team, not only on match game days, but on scrimmage days as well. There are no traitors among us. Let the play be for all, not for the squad alone. If football has any merit over other sports, it is in the breadth of its appeal and in the strength of its hold on the whole University. It makes us one in heart and one in hope. Give us a chance to know the team, and watch us respond to the confidence placed in us.

IN OUR OWN DEFENSE.

"There are knockers on cubs
And the typesetting dubs,
But they all take a swipe at ye ed."
—Offset Sam.

Our editorial dignity is assailed. From within and without the attack has come, and we scarce know which way to turn in defense. Some undiscovered and undiscoverable reporter managed to slip under our very nose, and yet without our notice, an account in a recent issue of a certain journey made by the writer in the general direction of Austin. In this story it is represented that we peregrinated in a side-door Pullman in company with a cow and a cargo of household goods, subsisting on the extract of the udder the while.

Now comes our old friend, Harry Hampton Williams of the Manor Enterprise, with this most unkindest cut of all:

"We went over the Main Building and visited with Lynn W. Landrum, editor of The Daily Texan, the University daily paper. Lynn was hard at work, collarless, sleeves to elbows and the lower half of his short half out of position. (There is a shorter way to say it, but we hated to use it.)"

We do not undertake to deny that we have in our time journeyed in unconventional fashion, nor are we ashamed of our fondness for a milk diet, but we protest at the insinuation that we do other than keep out shirt on—and in.

WHY ARE WE HERE?

Some come to college as to a place of pleasure where mental activities serve as a background or as an excuse for other activities. Not so ought you to come. Some come as to a shrine where they may worship the departed and the holy with a sort of brain ritual, because it was thus their ancestors worshiped. Rather ought you to come as to a great workshop, where, indeed, there be models beautiful and great to be admired, and perhaps to be imitated, where there are master workmen who can teach you, and therefore are to be respected, but where, above all your talents, such as they may be, can best be shaped or edged or polished as may be required.

At college you begin to know. You learn something of the unfathomable immensity of knowledge and become tolerant of others, as you perceive how little it is given to man to compass with his reason the riches of learning. At college you begin to do and to feel out that which beyond all others you do best. Discovering that "all things have two handles," you learn to "be-ware of the wrong one." And for these beginnings college is worth while.

But remember that you are here first to think—think for yourself. If you can think, independently and well, you can get knowledge, and if you have character you will then be bound to do something in the world. While you are here you can not hope to learn all you will need to know in after life, or to do all that you will have to do. But train your mind to wrestle now with problems, with conditions, with ideas of leaders in thought, and you may be sure that mental sinews you are developing now will not fail you in struggles of another nature and of another time.

Be your own thinker if you would be your own man. A crabbed old New Englander it was who said, "I had better never see a book than to be warped by its attraction clean out of my own orbit and made a satellite instead of a system," but he said no more than the truth. Live out that idea and you won't go far wrong.

EDUCATION AND EFFICIENCY.

Dr. A. Caswell Ellis of the University of Texas has just completed an investigation for the United States Bureau of Education in an effort to determine the economic value of education. The report furnishes interesting comparative statistics to show the effect of education on National wealth and efficiency, and conclusion is drawn that the Nation, with the most liberal educational facilities is a winner both in war and peace. To this advantage is attributed Japan's success in the war with Russia and Germany's victory in 1870, as well as her astounding progress during the past thirty years. Dr. Ellis points out that as a result of industrial training, Germany already puts four times as much labor value into her manufactured articles as the United States, and declares that if this country equaled the efficiency record of Germany we would be manufacturing each year from the same raw materials not twenty billion, but eighty billion dollars' worth of finished articles. Comparison is made of the achievements of those nations which make liberal provision for education and of those which make niggardly provision, and the illiteracy and poverty of Russia, Spain, Turkey and Mexico are cited as results of neglect which has perpetuated ignorance. As applicable to American conditions the following significant declaration is gleaned from the report:

"Even in our own United States," says Dr. Ellis, "the earning capacities of the citizens of various States are in direct proportion to the efficiency of their school systems. It has been shown, for example, that the average schooling offered the citizens of Massachusetts for a given period was seven years, while that of the United States as a whole was only four and four-tenths years, and that of Tennessee three years. Correspondingly, the daily production of the citizens of Massachusetts during the same period was 85c, while that for the United States as a whole was only 55c, and that for Tennessee only 38c.

Dr. Ellis is one of the most distinguished educators of Texas, and his views, as expressed in the report to the National Bureau of Education, should prove of interest to every citizen of Texas. It is shown that a generous educational system increases the efficiency of a citizenship and augments the wealth of a State. And Texas, which is shown by comparative figures to rank low in educational advantages, would do well to take the suggestion thoughtfully to heart. Appropriations for educational purposes in this State have been all too niggardly in the past. The public school system, University of Texas, Agricultural and Mechanical College and the various State normals have scored progress despite the restrictive policy which has prevailed. But the time seems at hand when greater liberality should be manifested in furtherance of the cause of education in Texas. Every extra dollar expended to this end will add five to the wealth of the State, and increase immeasurably the efficiency of the rising generation of citizens.—Dallas Evening Journal.

BELL TO CAPTAIN FARMERS

Election Necessary as Last Year's Captain Failed to Return.

We Wonder Where?

Dr. Beck says that our shacks save him from having to cut a lot of grass—but he would just as soon they were somewhere else.

It's a wise stude who knows where to find his own shack.

Last night we saw a vaudeviller balance a billiard table on his bean. We think that is a lot of weight for a person to have on one's mind.

We are glad that open house and the circus are not coming on the same night.

The man who tells you how glad he is to see you back, ranks in the same class of originality with the nut who carves his frat letters on the campus benches.

Wife—Is my hat on straight?
Hubby—Naw; it's on you now, and on the first it will be on me.

The Funniest Ever.

We saw one of the sororities bid a freshman yesterday morning.

HUNDRED FROSH EXAMINED.

Five Physicians in Charge—Physical Condition Good.

All freshmen physical examinations are now being held in the handball court from 9 to 11 daily. Directors Henderson and Scurlock are in charge of the candidates for examination and are continually on the ground. During Monday there were 144 men examined, and out of this number there was only one whose physical condition prevented his taking physical training.

Any person who is able to pass the examination given this year is able to enter any school where good physical condition is a prerequisite. Those physicians in charge are among the best in the State. Dr. Joe Gilbert is in charge, having as his assistants Drs. H. Gilbert, Dr. R. V. Morrow, Dr. Eikhardt and Dr. Sam Key, who is the specialist who examines the defects of the eye, ear, nose and throat.

Mr. Henderson stated that gym work would begin in earnest next week, and that he hoped there would be no more first-year men overanxious to be excused from the work required of them.

RUSK ANNOUNCES PROGRAM.

The first regular meeting of the Rusk Literary Society will be held Saturday night at 7:30 in the basement of the Law Building. President Seaberry says that prospects for the Rusk were never brighter. Nearly every old man is back at his post, and the array of new men includes some of the best talent in the University. Among other things that are especially appealing to members of the Rusk is their anticipation for a third successive victory in the inter-society debates. A victory this year gives them permanent possession of the W. T. Wrote silver loving cup. Quite a number of old men are already preparing for the intercollegiate contests.

Saturday night the following program will be rendered:

Welcome Address—V. T. Seaberry.
Traditions of Rusk—E. H. Lawhorn.
Freshman vs. Debating Society—Sam Baggett.

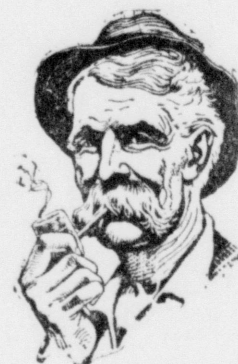

Ideal of Rusk—T. D. Smith.
Talk—Dr. Pelsma.

More UNDERWOODS are used in Austin than any other machine, and not one dissatisfied user. The State of Texas has purchased more UNDERWOODS in the past four years than all other makes combined; there's a reason.

Are you taking advantage of what the University is offering its students in the way of table board? The Cafeteria is now managed by a former caterer to the elite. System is completely changed. Cooking is unexcelled. Service complete with a daily change of menu. Cleanliness is our watchword. We do not want to make money, but we must be self-sustaining. The more we feed the less the cost to the students. Be patriotic.

The University CafeteriaPARTY HAS THRILLING EXPERIENCES

Party of Texas People, Including E. O. Thompson, Is Caught in Europe During Outbreak of Great War and Experience Several Thrilling Adventures.

BY ERNEST O. THOMPSON.

We had been touring Europe by automobile, and while we had seen much display of military forces in every country we had visited, we never once thought of the possibility of our being made refugees over night by the general war that is now raging in Europe.

Down in Italy we saw much rioting. In Naples the local trams were out of operation for two weeks during our stay on account of a general strike. In Rome we had the experience of seeing a mob form in the Corso that blocked our way, and soldiers with bayonets fixed pushed the crowd back to let us get away. We saw men smash the fronts of store buildings just because they were rioting and for the time being were beyond the control of the authorities. But these exciting experiences were to be as nothing when compared with the things we saw and underwent after the general declarations of war had been passed by the contesting powers.

We were at Villach, Austria, when the Archduke Franz Ferdinand and his consort were murdered, and we were fortunately in Vienna during the period of official mourning. Vienna presented a strange sight. Every building of consequence in that large city was heavily draped in black. Long, narrow black banners hung from the flagpoles, and almost every window in the buildings had a flagpole. It reminded me of the story of the old negro woman who went to the dry goods store in search of black undergarments. She was told that articles of that kind were not to be had in black. The clerk was curious, and asked the old colored auntie why she insisted on having black, whereupon she explained that she was about to go in mourning.

The clerk told auntie that it was not customary to mourn to that extent. The old negro woman retorted, "Young man, when I mourn I mourns."

Vienna was unmistakably in mourning. Before the customary period of seven days had passed I longed to see a gay colored flag or banner once more. We stayed until after the funeral—it was a grand military procession—and then proceeded to Munich.

We arrived at Munich, July 12, and remained in Bavaria nearly two weeks, during which time we motored over a large portion of the country, visiting the royal castles built by Ludwig II. During our stay in that part of Germany we saw no signs of preparations for the war that was to commence so soon after that time.

From Bavaria we went back into Austria, visiting the Tyrol country. It was in Meran, South Tyrol, Austria, that we heard of Austria's having declared war upon Serbia. We were just ready to leave Austria, and I assure you that after the declaration of war we made haste to get across the Alps and down into Italy.

We stayed at Lake Como, Italy, until July 31, when we crossed into Switzerland. At the Italian-Swiss frontier we heard the first reports of the great war scare that was going to develop into our most terrible war of history.

When we arrived at the little town of Tasso, where both the Italian and the Swiss custom houses are located, we noticed that a most unusually large number of men and boys were collected in the one street of the little town. They were divided into groups of varying size. At each group some dominating person was talking rapid fire and sending home or helping out each sentence with frantic gestures.

We at first supposed that they were excited over some internal Italian disorder, but we soon learned the real cause of their uneasiness. A well-dressed Italian approached our automobile, where we were waiting in front of the Italian custom house while an official signed our triptyque, and said in French: "Surely you will not dare go into Switzerland now? They will certainly take your car. France and Germany are at war, and Switzerland is mobilizing her army to protect her frontier from invasion by either of the contesting armies." Thus we were informed of the impending war.

We decided to proceed to Lucerne anyway. Our obliging friend did his best to get us to turn back. He really thought we were going to get the automobile taken from us as soon as we were over into Switzerland. But such was not the case.

We spent that night at a hotel on the summit of the St. Gothard Pass, where snow covered the ground and the air was clear and sharp. The next morning after we got down off the pass and into the smoother country, we began to see crowds of uniformed soldiers at the railway stations, and occasionally a train loaded with soldiers would pass us. Along the highway we met soldiers in bugles, soldiers on horseback and soldiers on foot; sometimes three or more together, other times there would be a single soldier trudging along on his way to the nearest railway station.

The Swiss people have no standing army, but every man between the ages of 18 and 48 is ever ready on a moment's call for service. They all belong to the army while they are between the above mentioned ages, and they keep their uniform and equipment right in their homes all the time. At every farmhouse we passed there would be always one and sometimes three uniforms out on the clothesline or on the yard fence, getting aired out a bit before the owners donned them and marched to the mobilization centers. Everywhere in the country the people were busy getting in what harvest they could before all the men left for the frontier. The women would have to harvest the remainder. At the wayside inn where we lunched the landlady talked to us with tears in her eyes. A soldier would pass the inn on his way to the depot and our good hostess would look at him and murmur, "Trieste, Trieste." It was, indeed, a sad day for those people. They were not at war with any nation, yet they must get out their little army of 200,000 men to try and protect their neutrality.

A little after 2 in the afternoon of August 1 we drove into Lucerne and stopped the car in front of Thos. Cook & Son's office. We had expected to get mail there, but we found the place closed. There was a great crowd of Americans about the front of the office, and we learned from one of them that the Swiss government authorities had closed all the banks and banking offices to keep the people from making "runs" on them. It was a clever stroke. In a few minutes of conversation with excited Americans we learned that all of Europe was at war. There was war and rumors of war a-plenty. Everybody was anxious to go somewhere, many of them knew not where, just so they could get started they would be happier; but the one great hindrance was that they could get no money. Men of great wealth were just as hard up for cash as the school teachers who had come over on a "prearranged round-trip-everything-included ticket," and with only a small sum for incidentals.

We decided to go directly to Geneva, and then to cross France and sail for home on the first boat we could get from Havre or Cherbourg. The idea was theoretically all right, but in practice it fell short. We drove to a garage to replenish our supply of gasoline, and found to our great dismay that the Swiss military authorities had beaten us to the gasoline supply and had gobbled up the whole of it. They had issued an order prohibiting the sale of gasoline. They wanted it themselves for their army motor trucks and such other motor cars and motorcycles and air craft that used gasoline for fuel.

After trying many garages and fuel stations, we finally found a hardware dealer who had some gasoline that he would part with at the rate of 1 franc a litre if we would be very quiet about it and would guarantee to not say where we got it. Just think of paying 80 cents a gallon for gasoline and not being permitted to make a "holler" about it. We bought $19.20 worth of the precious fluid and started at once for Lansonne and Geneva.

Bishop Henderson of Northern Methodist Church Has Been Secured.

Bishop Henderson of the Northern Methodist Church has been secured to lead the evangelistic campaign which will be carried on from January 12 to 17 by the Young Men's and Young Women's Christian Associations. Bishop Henderson was, for a number of years, at the Northwestern Students' Conference at Lake Geneva, Wis., and is considered one of the strongest speakers to college men and women in the United States.

ENGLISH INFLUENCE.

The passing of King Edward of England marked the end of a reign unique in one particular at least. He practically dictated the details of men's correct dress, and while the English influence in men's apparel is strong today, it comes rather in the form of a suggestion than a dictation.

The rage for the decided English cut coat of last season has passed, but the influence is seen in the modified English model that Moore & Morrison find by far their most popular style. Garments made on this line avoid the ridiculous extremes and combine the good points of both the English and the American tendencies.

NEW EQUIPMENT IS SECURED BY THE CAFETERIA

Various Improvements Make Cafeteria
More Desirable Place in Which to Dine—New Manager and Chef Employed.

After five days of service under its new management, the University Cafeteria is assuming a normal aspect, and is daily putting out in the neighborhood of 850 meals. F. F. Veazey, under whose management the "caf" is now running, states that they are now prepared to serve 2500 meals a day if the patronage runs that high.

Several hundred dollars has recently been expended in improving the serving department and in purchasing new dishes and trays. The most serviceable and sanitary dishes and equipment have been bought. The aluminum trays on which the meals are served cost over $1 each. The improvements in the serving department alone amount to over $100. The serving is now done more rapidly and with less help than heretofore.

The student help utilized by the "caf" consists of seven students, one of whom is a co-ed. They serve the food to the line of patrons and clear the tables. One chef, a pastry cook and a helper comprise the kitchen force, while two negroes do all of the dishwashing. This will compose the permanent force unless a material increase in the patronage occurs.

Mr. Veazey gave out the following interesting figures concerning the present daily consumption of food by the patrons of the "caf": Meat, 100 pounds; eggs, 20 dozen; sweet milk, 30 gallons; buttermilk, 5 gallons; butter, 10 pounds; potatoes, 3 bushels; 40 pies, 125 loaves of bread, 600 corn muffins, 600 rolls, 600 biscuits. All of this food, except the lightbread, is cooked in the "caf" kitchen. The rolls, which are cooked fifty to a pan, are as light and fluffy as the kind mother used to make, and is still making for the younger generation.

This food is all served at the same price at which it was sold last year, with the exception of meat, which is one penny higher. As yet, it has been impossible to determine whether or not any profit is being made at these prices. At the end of about thirty days it can be determined whether there is a profit or loss, and the price of various things will be changed accordingly, as it is the desire of those in charge of the University cafeteria to let the students have the food at cost. The greater their patronage the lower the prices.

It was also announced that the breakfast hour for Sunday would be thirty minutes later than on week days, opening at 7:30 and closing at 9 o'clock.

FRESHMAN STUNTS.

The irrepressible frosh seems determined to reconstruct the heretofore satisfactory arrangements in University affairs. First one comes along and tries to upset all rules and enter at the tender age of 19 by having his disabilities removed, so as to be classes as an individual approval student, then another tried to enter without any credits at all; still another attempted to sign up for a "perip" course, and lastly many of them persist in calling the "B" Hall fire escapes silos. But to cap it all, another fish has identified the Y. M. C. A. with the Co-Op. No doubt the impression that the "Y" was in the stationery business arose from the fact that hand-books had been offered him for sale. But this is the way it happened:

A freshman with a particularly engaging and cherubic smile appeared at the desk the other afternoon and fatteringly inquired if they kept stationery, believing, as was natural, that he wished to write a letter and had not found the customary supply of paper on the desks, the man behind the counter picked up three or four envelopes and several sheets of paper, handed them to the fish and busied himself with some other matter. He was interrupted, however, by the inquiries as to the price. He suppressed a smile with some difficulty and replied that the stationery was free and was supposed to be used in the room. "Oh!" said the frosh, "I'll have to give it back; I don't want to use it here." He was assured, however, that he might take it with him this time if he never repeated the offense.
