PLAY PRESENTED BY WINSONIANS PROVES SUCCESS

"A Midnight's Summer Dream" Takes Crowd by Storm—Local Color
Enthusias Audience—All
Roles Well Done.

Last night the first Spring Festival given by the Students' Association took place in the natural amphitheater formed by the University hill and the Law Building steps, the Winsonian play, "A Summer Midnight's Dream," being the feature of the entertainment. A large and appreciative audience was present, and the Festival was a complete success in every way.

The University Band began the program at 7:30 o'clock, and the Glee Club rendered several selections. The Winsonian play occupied the remainder of the evening.

The play proved to be unusually interesting, containing many local hits, which were much appreciated by the audience. The play is a parody upon Shakespeare's "Midsummer Night's Dream." University characters taking the places of the original ones. Deneus, who proved to be none other than Dean Battle, took the place of Theseus, and Pavlowa the place of Hippolyte. The parts of Hermia, Ly-sander, Demetrius and Helena, the mis-mated lovers, were taken by the more modern characters, Flirtia, Frattander, Barbetrius and Jellona. Freshania, the fairy godmother of the freshman class, and Chestytone, guardian spirit of the upper classes, quarreled over the changeling child, Freshman Franchise, and when Chestytone anoints her eyes with the juice of the little flower Democracy, the complications became very amusing. Freshania immediately fell in love with everyone she saw, including the drunken Junior Law, who was dressed according to Judge Simkins's most approved notions. All the difficulties were solved in Peaseparkius Woods, and everything ended happily.

All of the characters acquitted themselves well, some of them showing unusual ability. Crowley English as Pavlowa proved to be one of the most popular actors of the evening. His dancing was full of grace and beauty and received much favorable comment. His costume was in keeping with the occasion. Eugene Hailey as Deneus, dressed in the attire of a Greek prepared for "battle," was also worthy of special mention, acting his part with much dignity. Sol Gordon as Punk showed much finish in his work, and was well suited to his part.

The work of Skiles and Hibbard as the two "co-ed" girls and that of McDonald and Dikes as Barbetrius and Frattander, their suitors, was of a high order. The parts of Chestytone and Freshania, knig and queen of the fairies, were taken by Adrian Levy and Harry Brown, who acquitted themselves with much credit. Kalliska in the part of little Freshman Franchise was quite a success and received much applause.

The freshman fairy ballet, led by Richard Mather and Leslie Flowers, showed much ability and training and introduced some new tango steps, some of which were never before seen in Austin.

A. H. Spann, who was slated to take the part of Golem, a junior law, was operated upon for appendicitis Tuesday, but his place was taken very acceptably by Julian Gillespie.

Francis and Wayne, tango dancers from the Airdome, were also present and demonstrated some of the newest modern dances.

BROWNIE'S HOMER WINS SECOND OF MISSOURI GAMES

In a Thrilling Game, Texas Comes Back and Beats Missouri by Score of 5 to 4—3000 Present at the Game.

Special to The Texan.

Columbia, Mo., April 29.—In an intensely exciting and closely contested game before a cheering crowd of 3000 fans, Texas today came back strong and defeated University of Missouri by the close score of 5 to 4. Not until the last inning was the victory won, and the see-saw game made it look like anybody's victory. So dogged was the battle that both Disch and the Missourians tried out two pitchers in the endeavor to win.

Texas started the scoring by making one in the first on a hit by Massey, a hit batsman and three bob singles.

Missouri tied the score in the second on a hit batsman, a stolen base and a single by Hogg.

Two more runs were scored in the sixth by Daniel securing a single, and by "Little" Brown lifting one over the fence for a homer.

Missouri once more evened the score by taking three runs in the eighth on a base on balls, a two-base hit and two singles.

Texas cinched the game in the ninth by scoring after a passed ball by the catcher, a single by Hooper and a sacrifice fly by Massey.

Texas plays Wabash College, Crawfordsville, Indiana, tomorrow.

of the play made one of the prettiest sights ever seen in a play at the University. The Law Building steps proved to be an ideal amphitheater for such a performance, the acoustics being remarkably good.

Adrian Levy, coach of the play, and J. P. Slusser, director, deserve much credit for the successful manner in which the play was produced. The proceeds of the play go to the Students' Association, which had control of the Festival, and under whose auspices the play was produced.

CHAPEL NOTICES

Dr. Caldwell spoke on the incident of the rich young ruler. He said that this was the most important interview that Jesus had during His career, because it is the only recorded instance of a man's coming to Jesus and returning without satisfaction.

Why did not this young man get his request? He was moral and could honestly say to Jesus that he had kept the whole law. He was honest in his request; he really wanted information; he was sincere in his belief. The answer of Jesus shows what the trouble was. He told him to go sell all that he had and give to the poor and come take up the cross and follow Jesus. That means that he had enthroned in his heart gold instead of Jesus. The conclusion is that it matters not how moral we are or how honest or how sincere, there can be no satisfaction without the complete enthronement of Christ.

TEXAS' TRACK TEAM LEAVES FOR LOUISIANA

Cinderpath Men Will Meet Champions of South in Dual Meet Next Saturday—Texas' Men Disabled.
Entries Made for Events.

The track team will leave for Baton Rouge today to meet Louisiana State University in a dual meet next Saturday. Louisiana won the Southern championship last year in the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association meet at Birmingham, Ala., and the report has been sent to Texas that practically all of the old men are back, with better form than was shown last season. Dutton is putting the shot forty-three feet, and hurling the discus 125 feet. Louisiana has three pole vaulters who are going over eleven feet and one of the best is going twelve. The man who will run the mile against Mathis and Morris is reported to be going in 4:38 time. The high hurdler holds the Southern record. The athlete who will be entered against Matthews and Hamilton in the high jump is going at a height of 5 feet 10 inches. The broad jumper has a record of twenty-one feet. Upton, who beat Tom Hoover in the 100-yard dash last year is back and it is said that he is in better form. Galliger, the man whom Scurlock will meet, ran Hoover a close race here last year in the quarter mile.

Coach Taylor said that the following men would be taken: Melasky, Scurlock, Morris, Mathis, Matthews, Griffin, Tucker, Hamilton, Littlefield, Stanley, Berry, Jordan, Niblo and Dailey. One other man will be chosen today.

When asked as to what chances the Texas team had of winning the meet, Coach Taylor said that it would be the hardest game of the season, but he had all confidence that the team would win, provided the physical condition of the Texas men was improved. At present, he said, two men are practically disabled. Scurlock is suffering with several boils on the ankle, and Dailey has developed a first class "Charley Horse."

The entries have not been made definitely, but Mr. Taylor said last night that if Dailey's condition would permit, he and Melasky would run the sprints for Texas. Hamilton and Littlefield would run the high hurdles, Tucker and Littlefield the low hurdles; Berry, Niblo and Jordan the weights; Morris and Mathis the distances; Hamilton and Matthews would take care of the high jump; Stanley the pole vault; Dailey and Hamilton the broad jump; and Scurlock and Griffin would be entered in the quarter mile.

Having won the meet with Oklahoma, Mr. Taylor said that if the team defeated Louisiana, Texas would be the champions of the South and Southwest.

STACY AND BROAD LOSE.

Special to The Texan.

Chicago, Ill., April 29.—The University of Chicago won both of the singles matches from Texas this afternoon. The doubles were postponed on account of rain and will be played tomorrow if the courts are in condition. Squair defeated Stacy in straight sets, 6-1, 7-5. McNeal won from Broad, 6-3, 6-4. In his match with Squair, Stacy started bad and did not hit his pace until in the second set. He pushed Squair to the limit in that set, but finally lost after the games had gone to deuce. Broad played McNeal a close match, but the latter won in two hard sets.

VARSITY OPENS HER GATES TO PARAGRAPHERS

Royal Reception Tendered Editors.
Prexy Extends Welcome in a Humorous Vein—Lively Response by Ozwald.

The National Editorial Writers, who were yesterday the guests of the Austin Press Club, on their tour of the State after their meeting at Houston several days ago, were given an informal reception in the Auditorium yesterday afternoon. They listened to a talk by President Mezes of the University, who gave them a cordial welcome and addressed them on several points of interest relative to their visit to the University. Mr. Ozwald of New York responded to President Mezes. Lloyd Lochridge presided and introduced the speakers.

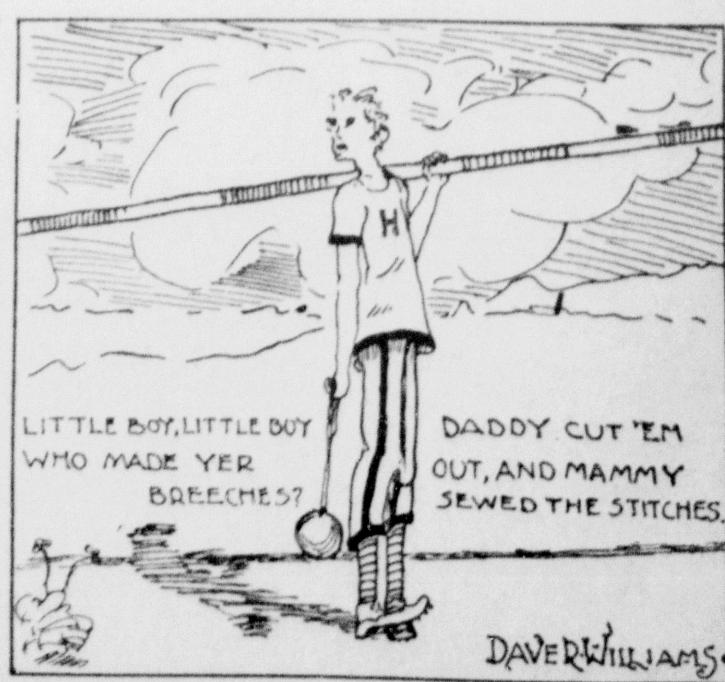

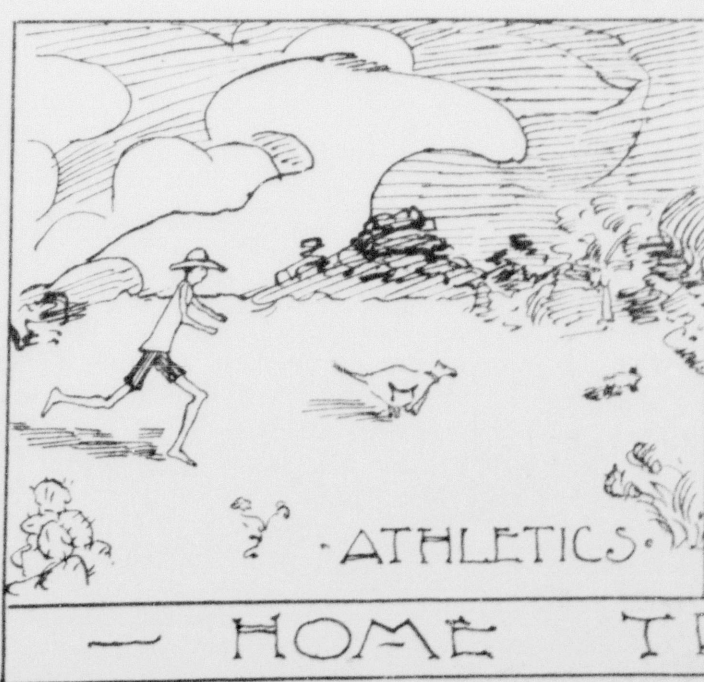

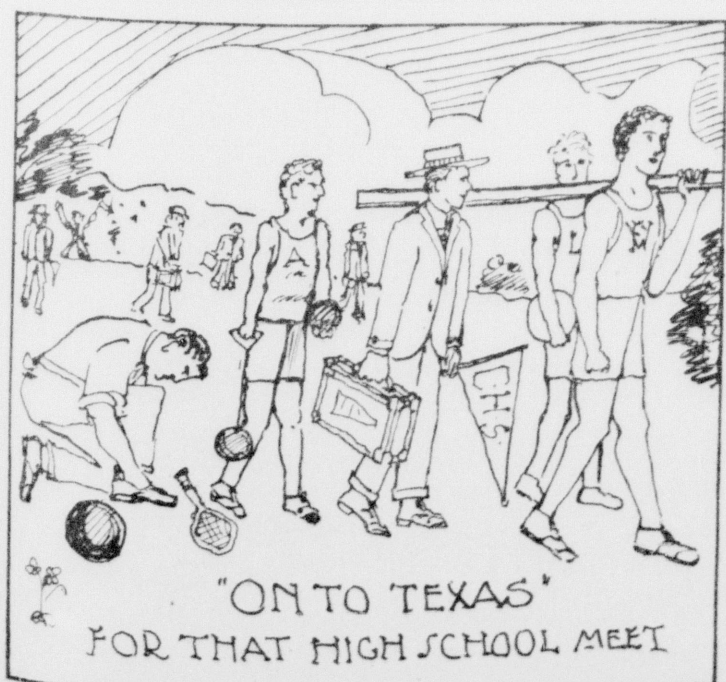

During his talk, which was marked by much wit and humor, Dr. Mezes welcomed the editors, not only in the name of the faculty, 2500 regular students, 1000 Summer School students and 1000 correspondence students of the University, but also in the name of the 1,000,000 people of the State whom the Department of Extension reaches through its bulletins to the daily newspapers. By this remark he brought to the attention of the editors both the work of the Extension Department and the part which the newspaper plays in its accomplishment. He addressed the editors as fellow teachers, in view of the influence which they exert in their editorial columns; and as fellow students, assuming that they are students or they could not hold their position of importance. Dr. Mezes commented favorably upon the selection of Lieutenant Governor Mayes as head of the Department of Journalism to be in the University next year.

In his response, Mr. Ozwald of New York remarked that Texas was not as well advertised as she should be, and that many people had a false impression concerning this State. He said he himself was somewhat surprised at the remarkable development of Texas, and was especially impressed by the vast amount of educational efforts which the people were putting forth. Mr. Ozwald vouched for the National Editorial Writers as an advertising medium for Texas after the present tour. He also commented favorably on Lieutenant Governor Mayes as head of the Department of Journalism. He spoke of the art of printing very enthusiastically as a reform agent, and as an opportunity for men to do service to their fellow men and to be their teachers.

The Glee Club rendered several selections at the close of the talks, and songs and yells were indulged in by the students. The editors arrived in the city at noon and were met by a reception committee, headed by Lloyd Lochridge, editor of the Austin Statesman. They were given a barbecue at the dam at 1 o'clock. The afternoon was spent in sight-seeing by automobile. At 6 o'clock in the afternoon they were tendered an informal reception by Governor Colquitt at the Mansion. Many of them attended the Spring Carnival on the Campus last night.

SCRUBS DEFEAT HIGH.

Coach Disch's Scrubs won their second game yesterday by defeating Austin High by a score of 7 to 4. Parrot pitched good ball for the Scrubs, but their winning was largely due to their slugging ability.

Department of Domestic Economy Equips Young Women for Duties as Home-Makers

BY MISS ANNA E. RICHARDSON,
Of the Domestic Economy Department.

The Department of Domestic Economy was established in the University to give the young women definite training along lines which would better fit them for their future responsibilities and duties as home-makers.

The educated woman of today has no more right to assume the responsibilities of a home without special preparation than has a man to enter untrained into any of the professions.

The knowledge of how to care for a home and children, how to plan and prepare the right sort of food for the family, how to expend the income wisely, does not come by intuition. Our women must be taught these things if our homes are to be run efficiently.

The general work of the department covers the fundamental wants of mankind; namely, food, clothing and shelter. The food work consists in training in marketing, preparation and serving of food. The study of what and how to buy so as to get the best values in foods is discussed, along with the best mode of preparing the food so that its flavor and nutritive value is maintained. The proper service of this food is considered, and there is a well equipped dining room where meals of various prices are served. The students thus both preparing and serving meals get training in table setting, the proper serving of meals and in the duties of guest and hostess. This first course in foods is a year's work and well equips a student to buy, prepare and serve the food of her family.

There is a laboratory fitted up for advanced work in foods and here some special problems are taken up and studied more carefully than is possible in a general course. This laboratory is fitted up with various kinds of fuels, gas, wood, gasoline, kerosene, electricity, fireless cooker and gasoline gas. This gives the students a splendid opportunity to use the various fuels, comparing them as to cost and efficiency. By this means, we are enabled to try out fuels to recommend for use in homes and schools where gas is not available. In this course a careful study of utensils is made. Such problems as the best utensils to use for baking and the use of the steamer as a saver of fuel are worked out. The home-made fireless was taken up and experiments made to determine the best material to use in making a cooker at home. The various food products on the market are tried out, as for example, experiments were made to determine the best and most economical fats to use in pie and cake making. Effort is especially made to use our Texas products, and, where possible, to find new uses for them. Cotton seed meal, kaffir corn, pecans and peanuts were carefully worked with and some interesting uses found for them.

As far as possible this course aims to work on definite problems which the average housewife has not the time for, and thus encourage in our young women a spirit of investigation in home problems and also to arrive at some conclusions that are worth while. We are always interested in having new problems suggested and in giving out to the women throughout the State any information we may have worked up.

Another phase of the food work is the careful study of the proper planning of the family menu. A discussion of the amount of money that should be spent for food, and the proper amounts and kinds of food which should be eaten is taken up. A careful study is made of the feeding of infants and children and of balanced rations for men and women at different occupations. The family is considered with reference to the varying needs of each member of the group and how these needs for food can best be met so as to furnish menus which are attractive, varied and economical, both as to money and the housewife's time, and at the same time furnishing all the food elements needed to promote the proper growth and well being of the family.

The department has a laboratory well equipped for the study of food chemistry. The five classes of food principles, namely, protein, fat, carbohydrates, minerals and water, are carefully studied and the chemical tests used in their determination are made.

This course aims to give the student a better understanding of foods and an appreciation of the fact that cookery is an application of scientific principles. The chemistry of digestion is studied and the composition of some of our common foodstuffs is determined. Tests are made for adulteration, and the laws relating to pure foods are discussed and the importance of their enforcement is emphasized.

With the extravagant pace set by the modern costume designer, the almost inconceivably rapid change in style, the opportunity of the manufacturer to adulterate cloth both in the fibre and in the finished product, no more beneficial study could be given to the women of the State than the study of textiles. This has recently been introduced into the Domestic Economy Department of the University.

In the early history of our country the housewife grew the fibre, wove and spun it into cloth, and developed the garment, therefore she knew the value of her finished product. Today industry has removed this knowledge to the mills, the factory and the garment making establishments. With the removal of textile industry from the home, the housewife or student in order to plan, buy and care for her wardrobe wisely must study textiles as she would any scientific subject. The woman of today to protect herself against fraud and deception must be acquainted with the four fibres from the raw to the finished product; have a knowledge of the chemistry of textiles, and be able to estimate dressing, weighting and detect adulteration in any form.

The manufacturer is meeting the demand for exquisitely finished cloth, crapey weave and dainty but perishable coloring. While these materials are very effective in costumes, they require much care, therefore a knowledge of the use of mordants in setting color in cotton and linen cloth before laundering and the ability to remove stains from the four fibres save much in a year's expenditure. How frequently a dress has to be put aside because it has faded or been stained.

Besides this important study in the chemistry of textiles, the students of the textiles course are much interested in the making of simple dainty underwear both by hand and by machine. Patterns have been drafted and commercial patterns adapted to the figure.

While working on new material is interesting, a knowledge of how to renovate an old garment is valuable. The students have had this practice in darning, patching and remodeling old garments, making them quite presentable. The closing piece of work for the year is the making of a dress. Here line, form, color and adaptation of style to the individual as well as appropriateness of the gown to the needs of the wearer have been interesting studies. Interesting work is done in the designing of the costume. Costumes are sketched from plate; original costumes are designed; color and texture of material are studied in reference to the occasion. Through the study of historic costumes and textiles the progress of modern fashion is shown.

Throughout the year in the selecting of the material and the making of the garment, economic expenditure, durability, laundering qualities and the relation of clothing to the body's needs are considered. Social conditions, wages and hours of women and children working in the textile industry are studied.

That simple becomingness in costume is preferable to fads and fashions is the standard of the textile department.

The knowledge of how to build a house is of great importance to every home-maker. We have left most of our house planning to others, and the result is that many of our houses are anything but homes fitted to the needs of our families. Every woman should know something of the material of which the home is made and something of the cost of such material. She must also understand the principles which make it sanitary.

In the course on "House Structure and Sanitation" the question of plumbing, ventilation and lighting are carefully considered as well as the choosing of a satisfactory location for a home and the adaptation of the style of architecture to the site. The question of water and the disposal of sewage and garbage is taken up and the laws regarding these matters in the home towns are obtained wherever published and discussed. Each student draws the plan of her own home and wherever possible, suggestions as to how the house can be made more comfortable and convenient are offered. The periods in architecture are studied with especial reference to their adaptation to domestic architecture. Following this is a course in "Interior Decoration and Furnishings." Here the student takes up the study of design and color in home decoration and furnishing. The theory of design is studied and practice work in charts is done. A study is made of the combination of colors and the influence of light and climate on the choice of a color scheme. A study of furniture, wall coverings and textiles is made, with particular reference to their adaptation to different uses in the home.

There is a general Home Economics lecture course, in which the woman in her relation to the community is considered. The factors governing production and consumption in the home are studied; the division of the family income as determined by various standards of living is discussed and the student is required to make out her own budget.

The work of the department is not confined merely to the resident students. Through the group-study courses, correspondence courses and domestic economy lecturers from the Home Welfare Division of the Department of Extension, the work is carried to the people of the State. The object of the group-study course is to put before the women's clubs of the State in an organized way the fundamental problems of the home, and to assist the woman not only in organizing, systematizing, directing and controlling her own home efficiently, but also to help her realize her responsibility to the community as well. The course of study has been adopted by a number of clubs throughout the State. It has been found practical and the demand for such work is growing.

The correspondence course is arranged so that many young women at home who are unable to come to the University may yet do work in domestic economy. These courses afford a very good opportunity for those unable to spend the full time at the University and wish to do some of this work at home.

The home welfare lecturers attend county and State fairs, county educational rallies, and through the medium of women's organizations make a limited number of engagements to give specific instructions in subjects of vital interest to the home. At the fairs an exhibit of charts dealing with the various phases of domestic economy are shown, with the idea of helping the housewife improve conditions of the home, family and community. The lectures given deal with these problems of the home and endeavor to improve the sanitary conditions of the home and community as well as the health of the individual family. In demonstrations, the use of food in the body is discussed and methods shown for cooking the food so as to make it digestible, palatable and attractive.

At these fairs large numbers of people are reached and benefited, not only by the exhibits and lectures, but by bulletins given out that deal with these problems. At the county educational rallies all day meetings are held in the rural communities where the people gather from all the surrounding country. Questions of home betterment are discussed, and demonstrations in the proper cooking of food are made by the home welfare lecturers, while the extension lecturers discuss problems of farming and establishment of better schools.

The object of these rallies is to improve the homes, schools and farms, and to bring more closely together the home and the school by a more frequent use of the school building for social and educational purposes. The University publishes a number of bulletins dealing with home problems which are sent free to anyone in the State who desires them.

Another important medium through which the women of the State are reached is the Annual Home Economics Week. This week of school is conducted at the University by the Department of Domestic Economy and the Home Welfare Division of the Department of Extension. The plan of the week is a study of home problems as they relate either directly to the home or to the community interests affecting the home on the same plane of efficiency as that of other progressive institutions. This is accomplished by special lecturers of national reputation and authority in their various lines, assisted by the faculty of the Domestic Economy Department and the home welfare lecturers.

STATE CONTEST ORGANIZATIONS ARE DESIRABLE

Dr. Shurter, of School of Public Speaking, Gives Account of Benefits in Training of Public Speakers in Schools.

By Edwin Dubois Shurter, Professor of Public Speaking.

Note: This article is reprinted from the Public Speaking Review.

Two problems that confront the college teachers of public speaking are, first, the lack of adequate training in oral English in the preparatory schools, and secondly, the neglect of public speaking contests in college, the students' interest often being absorbed by other student activities. My experience is that a Statewide organization of schools for the purpose of contests in public speaking goes a long way toward removing the problems mentioned. There are several such State organizations, especially in the West and Middle West. In Texas three years ago was organized what was then known as the Debating and Declamation League of Texas Schools. Our organization differs in several material points from the usual type of organization in other States, so that a few words as to this organization and our experience with it may be suggestive and helpful to teachers in other States.

In the first place, we aim, through this State organization, to reach every school in Texas below college rank, whereas many other States have simply a high school debating league. Only one question for debate is used yearly, and the students must be prepared to speak on comparatively short notice on either side of this question. This plan has had a far-reaching effect, not only in helping the students participating, but in educating public opinion in the field of the subject debated. Two years ago, for example, we had the question of the initiative and referendum for Texas, last year that of woman suffrage, and this year we are debating the subject of a State compulsory education law.

In addition to the debating contest, we have two in declamation, the senior declamation contest being open to those in the tenth grade and above, and the junior declamation contest open to students in the ninth grade and below.

All the contests among the schools begin in the county as a unit, and county organization is effected wherever possible. Then the winners in the county contest go to one of the sixteen districts into which the State has been divided; the winners in the district contests coming to the University for the finals during the first week in May. This year we have added contests in track athletics, to be held at the same time with those in debate and declamation. Next year we shall doubtless have a separate declamation contest for girls, and also some athletic contests such as basketball and tennis.

The interest in the contests of this State organization has steadily increased since its inception. A membership fee of $1 is required of each school participating in any of the contests. In 1911 twenty-eight membership fees were received; in 1912, sixty-eight, and in 1913, 248.

The contests are, of course, only a means to an end. I find that the teachers of English are giving more attention to oral English in the schools, and that our freshmen come here more interested in the whole in the matter of public speaking. Last year, for example, two of the members of our intercollegiate debating teams had formerly been district representatives in the State Interscholastic League.

Such an organization as I have briefly described requires, of course, in addition to what is received in the way of membership fees, additional financial support in order to promote it effectively. This is accomplished at the University of Texas by placing what is now known as the University Interscholastic League under the auspices of the public discussion division of the Department of Extension. Many colleges may not, of course, have the means or the machinery for effecting and promoting such an inter-scholastic organization, but wherever it is at all possible, it is well worth while both to the schools and to the University.

Miss Ruby Long, who has been visiting Mrs. Speer, has returned to her home in Brownwood.

Miss Ellen Bowie of Waxahachie is a guest of Miss Florence Brownlee for several days.

Bob Lowry has left for Ann Arbor, Mich., to attend the Sigma Delta Chi convention.

"WE HAVE WITH US TODAY"

We have with us today the college newspaper editors of the State, assembled in their first annual get-together meeting. They have met with a serious purpose in view, and the program before them is one of hard work. Problems that confront the college newspaper men will be discussed by men who are experienced in the work, and who are interested in the future of college journalism. The meeting will end with a "pot-licker and buttermilk" banquet — something typical of the real newspaper man.

It is to be hoped that the meeting will prove of practical assistance to the editors, and that it will come to be an annual affair.

TEXAS SPIRIT GROWING.

The one thing about the University of which the student is the proudest is "The Texas Spirit." To those who have never been in the University the term does not convey the full significance that it does to the loyal Texas student. "Texas Spirit" stands for all that is gentlemanly, that is clean, that is sportsmanlike. It is a term that has come to be applied to the University of Texas in all of its departments, athletics especially. It follows our teams and our students wherever they go. Instance this clipping from the Megaphone, Southwestern University:

"We wish to commend the Texas crowd for their gentlemanly conduct while here at the games Tuesday. Full of loyal spirit, yet courteous in every way, they won our hearts and strengthened the close bond of friendship existing between the two student bodies. It was indeed a pleasure to have them with us, and we hope to welcome them again sometime."

STRONG FOR THE MEETING.

Editors of all the college newspapers have expressed their readiness for the "get-together" meeting at Austin next week.

The National Editorial Convention will convene in Austin on April 29, and many old newspaper heads will be on the program for good, instructive talks. April 30 will be given entirely to the college editors themselves. Each editor will present some special journalistic problem and then all will participate in a round-table discussion, in which co-operation and enlargement of the Texas college newspaper field will be the aim.

We are indebted to Editor Feagin and others at State University for the origin of this idea and the successful campaigning of the plans for its realization.

A. & M. was not represented at the Intercollegiate Press Association meeting of recent date. At the Austin meeting, however, the Battalion of A. & M. will be strongly represented. It is hoped that another year will see A. & M. present at all journalistic meetings of this nature.—The Battalion.

COLLEGE NOTES

Ohio U.

The faculty and student committees are making a big effort to have the parents as well as the old students present for Commencement week.

Chicago U.

On May 19 the staff of the Daily Maroon will consist entirely of women students, the managing editor of that issue to be a co-ed who has had considerable experience in this line.

Kansas U.

State eggs, guns, swords, monkey-wrenches and fists formed the ammunition used in the war which broke at Lawrence Tuesday night when the University of Kansas students raided two shows. An attempt was made to arrest several students, but it was unsuccessful.

Drake U.

Last Wednesday the students of the university took a vacation for the purpose of selling tickets to the ball game played on the following day. All money taken in at this game was turned over to the university by the ball club to help along the endowment fund for the University.

Missouri U.

About $200 will be spent by the University of Missouri Ad Club in the next few weeks to advertise the University. Representatives from the club will be sent to their home counties to tell the students in the accredited high schools all about the university.

Minnesota U.

The students of this University will vote upon a petition for the honor system. The president of the University has expressed himself in favor of such a system. The student committee has made an investigation of the operation of such a system in the University of North Carolina and reports that it has proved highly satisfactory in the Southern school.

Stanford U.

A "straw" ballot at the Women's Assembly this morning, following a discussion of the proposed introduction of the "honor system," showed an overwhelming sentiment in favor of the system, many of the women stating on their ballots that they were opposed to including in the honor system the obligation to report fellow students for cheating. At a similar meeting of the men students, 317 votes were cast in favor of the "straight honor system."

MAKING UNUSUAL TEST.

Under the direction of Dr. Sackett, the Education Department is at present making a test in leadership. Circulars have been given out to all English 1 students who have taken the tests in November, wherein they are requested to check those qualities which most appeals to them to be the necessary attributes of leadership, and to name the student in their class who they believe possesses these qualities. Many of the circulars have already been returned, and the results promise to be very interesting. It is hoped that the students will take this experiment seriously, and return these circulars answered as soon as possible.

Another of last year's debaters who will represent his school in the final meet again this year is Wayne Howell, of the Corsicana High School. He has a new teammate in Homer Watson, who takes the place of Finis Senior of last year's team, the latter now being a freshman in the University.

The Britton Training School of Cisco will be represented in the track meet here by a team of seven men, three of whom made the trip last year—Coan, Goode and Horne. Goode won the half-mile last year, Coan won the mile, and the Britton relay team won third place in the academy relay. The new men with the team are Morris, Smith, Strickland and Weatherby.

ENTRIES IN SCHOLASTIC TRACK MEET

The great popularity of the contests of the University Interscholastic League with the schools over the State is shown by the fact that a total of sixty-two high schools, academies and twenty ward and country schools are sending track teams for the final meet. From this total of eighty-seven schools will come upwards of 380 contestants, as compared with A. & M.'s recent meet, in which twenty-six schools, with a total of 120 contestants, participated. In addition to the contestants in track, there will be a tennis team from each district, thirty-two additional students, and a total of thirty-two debaters, sixteen senior declaimers, and sixteen junior declaimers. The grand total of actual contestants, exclusive of visitors, teachers, coaches, etc., will thus amount to 476 students from all sections of the State.

The high schools that will send track teams are as follows: Abilene, Aubrey, Austin, Bartlett, Bonham, Bowie, Brownwood, Buda, Cameron, Campbell, Canadian, Celeste, Center, Clarksville, Childress, Cleburne, Comanche, Commerce, Corpus Christi, Corsicana, Dallas, Gainesville, Garrison, Granger, Greenville, Hereford, Hillsboro, Houston, Hubbard, Indian Gap, Jacksonville, Jefferson, Kaufman, Kerrville, Lone Oak, Longview, Lufkin, Marlin, Marshall, Mineral Wells, Nacogdoches, Nocona, Normangee, Oak Cliff, Oakwood, Orange, Quanah, Richmond, Riviera, Rogers, Roscoe, San Antonio, San Benito, Sherman, Sinton, Snyder, Springtown, Sulphur Springs, Sweetwater, Temple, Waco, Waxahachie, Wichita Falls.

Interesting Items Concerning the Entrants in Approaching Meet

The Temple High School has three good men on her track team in Giles, the weights, Donathan in the mile, and Thompson in the broad and high jumps and the hurdles. All these men showed up well in the recent meet at Temple, and were the chief elements in winning the meet for Temple against Bartlett.

The Taylor High School has a remarkable young athlete in Ralph Frame, an all-round track man, but especially strong in the hurdles and the broad jump. In the latter event, he jumped the extraordinary distance of twenty-one feet in the preliminary meet at Taylor; but, unfortunately, the record was not allowed to stand because of a foul, Frame stepping over the board one inch in making the jump. He has a good chance for a new State record in the final meet here.

Marshall Training School, winner of second place in the academy division in track last year, will have three of last year's team on the trip this year—Prestwood, Starnes and Waits. Waits was last year's individual star in the team, winning first in the discus, first in the hammer and second in the shot. The three men making the trip this year are Ellis, Sherrill and Young.

St. Edward's, first place winner in the academy track division last year, is entering a strong team of eight men again this year. Prudhomme, winner of three first places, one second place and individual star of the relay team, will not be in this year's meet. However, he has a younger brother with the team who is expected to show up equally as well. Eggleston, Schneider and Keller are the only old men on the team this year.

The Overall twins from Campbell, who are here for the final State meet, have been the center of interest in both the preliminary meets in which they have contested prior to coming to the State meet. In the district meet at Greenville, they practically won the meet between them. They did not compete with each other in a single event, and each won practically all the contests he entered. Being twins, they are naturally very much alike, and to those who did not know them it appeared that one man was entering and winning practically all the events.

For the first time in several years, the Dallas High School will be represented by a debating team in the final State meet of the University Interscholastic League. In the district meets the past two years the rivalry between Dallas and Fort Worth has been very strong. Heretofore Fort Worth has managed to win out by a narrow margin, but this year Dallas turned the tables in their favor and will be represented by one of the strongest teams, probably, that will come to Austin. Julien Elfenbein and Jerome Crossman are the members of the Dallas team. During last summer—in fact, about two months after last year's contests, Dr. E. D. Shurter received inquiries from these two boys for material on the question for this year's debate. No sooner was the subject announced than they began earnestly to prepare for the district contest with Fort Worth, so determined were they to break the winning streak of the Fort Worth team. However, it so happened that Fort Worth was eliminated early in the preliminaries, and the two teams did not get to meet directly in debate, the Dallas team winning over the Springfield town team in the final debate to determine the district representation.

The Kirksey brothers, from Waxahachie, who are here for the athletic contests of the University Interscholastic League, have proved themselves to be remarkable athletes for their age. The two boys recently removed to Waxahachie from California, where the older of the two held several Pacific coast interscholastic records. In the Fort Worth district meet the younger Kirksey, entering from Waxahachie High School, won a total of 20 points. He and Sharp of the Fort Worth High School team were easily the individual stars of the meet, Sharp winning individual honors by the narrow margin of one point, scoring 21 points to Kirksey's 20 points. In the recent interscholastic meet at A. & M. the older Kirksey made a sensational record, entering from the Waxahachie Training School. He was the only representative of that school, and, unaided, piled up a total score of 41 points in the academy division, as against 43 points scored by the whole Marshall Training School team, which won the meet. Aside from the relay, Kirksey scored more points than the whole Marshall Training School team, and if it had not been for the fact that his school, being represented by himself only, was unable to compete in the relay, he would easily have won the meet unaided.

Twelve-Year-Old Declaimer Who Contested Here Last Year Again Represents Floresville.

Will Gordon Knox, the junior declaimer from the Floresville High School in the San Antonio district, is making an enviable record for one of his age, and is the pride of his whole county, as is shown by the following extract from his home paper:

"The district declamation and debating contest, under the rules of the State organization, was held at the Main Avenue high school auditorium in San Antonio last Saturday morning, and as a result of the meet Floresville high school again carried off the honors in the junior department. Master Will Gordon Knox, the manly and brilliant little 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Knox of this city, was awarded a unanimous decision over the San Antonio candidate and as a result will represent this district at the State meet in Austin in May.

"About 500 people crowded into the auditorium to hear the young orators, the champions of their respective counties. The first number on the program was the junior declamation contest. William Knox of this city was the first to speak, and in a clear, well-modulated voice and with graceful gestures and perfect poise, delivered a beautiful oration, 'War or Peace.' William Gunn, son of a prominent San Antonio attorney, was the opponent of the little Floresville speaker, and with characteristic forcefulness of utterance interpreted 'Grady's Memorial Address.' While the San Antonio orator delivered an able address, the judges unanimously awarded the decision to Floresville's wonderful young speaker. The little victor was showered with congratulations by the judges and hearers.

"Floresville and all Wilson County is proud of the fact that we won the junior honors and made an excellent showing in the other contests. It is a credit to our schools and our citizens have a right to feel elated. Master Will Knox won the handsome silver cup offered by the Dallas News at Austin last year, and next month he will again represent this district, which is composed of twenty-five counties, and will make an effort to keep the cup here. His host of admirers are confident he will again be the victor and our town is planning to send up a representative delegation to the State meet.

"At least twenty-five citizens of Floresville attended the district meet in San Antonio last Saturday."

WITHDRAWS FROM SCHOOL.

W. P. Crouch has withdrawn from school in order to wind up his father's business. His father died recently, and had been in business here. W. P. and A. V. were both in school, and A. V. has returned to finish the term. The boys have worked their way through the Austin high school, and have been in the University three and two years respectively. Their home is at 809 West Fourteenth Street.

MANY CANDIDATES ARE ANNOUNCING

Williams Puts in Petition for Candidate as Editor of Next Year's Annual.

Those who have been clamoring for politics all the year are now to be satisfied. Petitions have already begun to be dropped into the office of the President of the Student Association. These petitions are mere formalities which have to be gone through with in order to have the candidates' names placed on the official ballot in the election. Several petitions have already been handed in, and it is reported that many others are being circulated.

The provision of the constitution which calls for these petitions is as follows:

"Section 21. Each candidate for any position shall, not less than ten days before the date set for holding an election for that position, personally present to the Secretary of the Students' Association a statement signed by at least fifty bona fide students who are qualified to vote in said election, stating that said candidate is offering himself in good faith for said position, in order to have his name placed on the official ballot."

The first four petitions handed in were:

Raymond Huff, candidate for student member of the advisory board of The Daily Texan.

Ches. Adams, candidate for business manager of the Cactus.

Frank Loftus, candidate for editor of the Magazine.

Dave Williams, candidate for editor of the Cactus.

There are two other men who are known to be candidates who have not yet handed in petitions, Lynn W. Landrum and Fred R. Cotten, candidates for editor and managing editor of The Texan, respectively.

Mrs. S. W. Spence of College Station will be here the latter part of the week to visit her daughter, Virginia, at the Woman's Building.

VARSITY MUSIC ORGANIZATIONS

Several Clubs and Classes Devoted to the Study of Music Have Support of Students.

The impression seems to prevail among the people of the State that their University and its students take little interest in music and musical organizations. However, this is far from being the case. There are four important musical clubs among the students, besides several classes devoted exclusively to the study of music, its history, etc.

Probably the best known organization in Varsity musical circles is the Band. On numerous occasions, especially football rallies and games, the Band has demonstrated its ability to furnish inspiring and beautiful music, to the delight of thousands of students and townspeople. No football or baseball game is a complete success unless "Honey" and his thirty or more disciples are there to enliven the intermissions and keep the spirits of the rooters stirred up. Every year the Band gives a concert, which is always an important and enjoyable occasion.

The Glee Club is forging to the front and claiming its share of attention at the hands of University people. It is generally conceded that the club this year is better than it has been in many years, in point of numbers and individual excellence as well. Director Metzenthin has worked faithfully all year in the effort to work up a creditable program, and, judging from the reception received in the different towns sung in this year, he has succeeded. Much credit belong to Manager Jester also, for the excellent trips arranged this year. Year after year, it is hoped to make the annual Austin concert an important social event of the season, as is the case in the universities of the North and East. The first step in this direction was taken this year, when the concert was given during junior week. However, it was not as well attended as it might have been, and perhaps will be in the future.

The University Musical Club is an organization for the women, which, though not so much in the eyes of the public as yet, has done some very good work. Members of the Musical Club are elected upon merit.

The Violin Club offers an opportunity to those who are talented in that direction. This organization is planning for better things than ever next year.

The school of music, under the direction of Professor Frank Lefevre Reed, continues to grow in popularity. Much interest is being manifested in the different classes in theory, solfeggio, etc. Credit towards a degree is given for certain courses in music, and the University authorities fully expect this department to become one of the best known and most important in the next few years.

Barnhouse, Fitzgerald and Rogers, who were on the Coronal team last year, will return with the team this year.

NECESSITY KICKS

Modern Methods Are Applied to Minimize the Injury.

Elbert Hubbard says that some people do not move until necessity kicks them from behind, as witness a big sale of blankets on a cold day.

Be that true or not, one so propelled usually moves in a hurry. Therefore it is likely that when hot weather, so long delayed, drops upon us in a day, many a man will want lightweight clothing right now. So Moore & Morrison have arranged to wire orders for suits and insure the delivery of perfectly tailored to measure garments in six or seven days.

This splendid service will prove a great convenience for those who for one cause or another have postponed ordering light weight, comfortable clothes, for to be really comfortable a garment must be made for the particular customer that wears it.
