“Good Morning”

World Champion Wall

Journalism Gains at U

High School Press.

Those who attend the Texas-Arkansas game today will have opportunity to see Dan O'Leary, 89-year-old world champion walker, demonstrate his agility when he walks 440 yards in three minutes during an intermission in the game. O'Leary believes in Benjamin Franklin's famous adage, "Early to bed and early to rise," and goes to bed at 8 each evening and gets up about 4 the next morning.

Each birthday since 1874 O'Leary has made it customary to celebrate the event by walking 100 miles in 24 hours. Long miles ahead of him hold no fear to this veteran of the pike. He is on his way now to Los Angeles where he will appear in ball parks as a living example of what health is when years rob most men of their vigorous activity.

He has, during the last six years, secured the seals of 41 states and the signatures of their governors. He is now backing Al Smith for president and believes his champion will be the next to reside in the White House.

Journalism is coming to the fore in the University and enrollments are showing the growing popularity and demand for journalism courses. Two hundred and sixty-six students in this year's journalism classes indicate an increase of 48.6 per cent in the enrollment. "News Reporting" seems to be growing rapidly in student favor. There are 95 students enrolled for this course the first semester, showing an increase of 25 over the number taking the same work last year.

Next to the news gathering classes, advertising shows the largest increase in enrollment. The newspaper field is offering more and more opportunity to the students as it widens with the increased tempo of the country.

High school journalism is being fostered by Sigma Delta Chi, men's journalistic fraternity, and announcement has been made that 100 papers from various high schools of the state will apply for membership in the Texas Interscholastic Press Conference, an organization sponsored by Sigma Delta Chi and co-operating with the University Interscholastic League.

BLAKESLEE SPEAKS AT CZECH MEETING

Father William S. Blakeslee of the University Catholic Church, was the principal speaker at the meeting of the Czech Club held last night, at which the following program was presented:

Singing of the Czech national anthem, "Dke Domov Muj," led by Dr. Edward Micek; duet, Georgia Mae Matejek, piano, and Louette Matejek, violin; reading, Lucy Hermes; impromptu talk, Roman Bartosh.

Father Blakeslee's talk was on the subject of tolerance.

12 GIRLS ENROLL IN LAW SCHOOL

There are 12 girls enrolled in the School of Law this year. The seniors in the school are: Fannie Boyles, Wilmon Morris, in the second year class are: Julia Burrell, Sarah Daniels, and Vida Luttrell; those in the first year class are: Louise Lanham, Zenda Lewis, Hazel Kling, Nelle Swearingen, Louette Heilbrun, Stella Rudersdorf, and Mrs. Ruby W. Beard.

TEAM OPENS CONFERENCE WITH PORKERS

Assembly Postpones Honor System Action

By KAY MILLER

Definite action on the honor system was postponed last night by the Students' Assembly until its next meeting, when a committee will present a bill embodying the sentiment of the students as indicated by the passage of a preferential bill favoring the deletion of the "spying clause" of the honor system pledge.

The committee is composed of Henry Slavik, Bill Glass, Jim Hammond, Jimmy Miller and Alberta Scott.

Consideration of the passage of a bill limiting the number of open houses an organization may hold as also postponed until the next session. The question was brought before the assembly as a result of the practice of employing dance orchestras at the open houses while each organization is limited to one dance a semester.

Arthur Bagby was elected to the "All-University Dance" committee from the Assembly, and Alton Luckett and Thea Goldschmidt were chosen as members from the student body.

Marlin Sandlin was elected to the Board of Publications from the Assembly. Nancy Brandenburg was chosen chairman of the Board of Musical Organizations from the Assembly, and Bess Olsen from the student body.

DEBATE SQUAD PREPARES TO MEET SYDNEY

Three to Be Elected From Group Of Six

Daily practices are being held by the six members of the debate squad working on arguments to be presented October 30, when Texas meets the Sydney, Australia, team in Austin.

From the six members of the squad, three men will be selected to take part in the international debate, according to an announcement made Friday by Thomas Rousse, debate coach. The present members of the squad working on the arguments for the meet with Australia are: Frank Stubbeman, Arthur Sandlin, Ray Bland, Leroy Jeffers, Spurgeon Bell and Bennett Lay.

Stubbeman has been a member of the debate team for two years. He is a senior law student.

Sandlin has been on the team one year. He is also a law student.

Jeffers, who was a champion one year in the state high school debate contest sponsored by the Interscholastic League, and a winner one year in extempore speaking, is a sophomore.

Bell is a senior academic student, and like other members of the present squad, has taken part in inter-society debates on the campus.

Lay is a freshman. Co-Rousse stated that a first year student seldom makes the group of 12 eliminations and Lay had accomplished something unusual in making the group of the best six debaters of 60 contestants entering the tryouts. Lay is the first time in years that a freshman has survived all preliminary contests and has been included in the best six, Lay said.

Brooks Invites Texas Students To Waco Game

Special to The Daily Texan

WACO, Texas, October 18.—The University of Texas was officially welcomed to Waco and Baylor University on November 10, the day the Baylor Bears meet the Texas Longhorns on the Cotton Palace gridiron; Thursday when President S. P. Brooks extended a written invitation to President H. Y. Benedict of the University.

November 10 will be Homecoming Day for Baylor students, exes, and alumni. It is expected that on that day over 5,000 former students will gather on the Baylor campus, as well as a host of University of Texas supporters, to take part in the celebration.

President Brooks' letter to Dr. Benedict reads as follows: President H. Y. Benedict, University of Texas, Austin, Texas.

Dean President Benedict: November 10, the day on which Texas and Baylor are to meet at the Cotton Palace, is a day of great significance to the Baylor students and as "Homecoming Day."

At this time our desire to have a student body courtesy of the student body and faculty and their previous University in advance of our with program. I am not able to offer suggest what the will be, but I hereby extend to your faculty a student body an invitation to our guests and to take such celebration on our ship, social and program committee as may be provided by the was appointed and plans were student body and alumni. nents were served.

The following new members were taken into the club: Freeman, Helen Martin, Jane McCormick, Margaret Tom, Dolores Peavy, Mary Tom Sutherland, M. S. Margaret. STUDENT HOLD PIPING FOR GAME

J. A. M. Warns Against Piping

COACH MAKES Jones Leary in Fmcel Ye

In preparation of a conference gas of with the Arkansas Razorbacks, a pep meeting was held last night in the gymnasium. Pep talks were given by Coach W. A. McCurdy, ex-student of the University and first speaker of the evening, talked against the practice of throwing apple cores at the freshmen at the games.

"In former years students themselves objected to throwing of apple cores at the first year students," McCurdy. "The school was smaller then and those who threw apples could be spotted. Needless to say, they were quickly attended to."

"Casey" Jones, Varsity yell leader the year before the war and the year after, gave a pep talk and led the student body in a few of the old yells. In his talk, Jones stressed the point that the team represented the student body and the student body represented the school as an institution.

"We have the best team and the best coach ever," said Jones. "All the ex-students are behind them and you, the student body, and they want some results."

LITERARY SOCIETY DEBATES TONIGHT

A debate on the subject, "Resolved: that it is more painful for a giraffe to swallow with a sore throat than for a centipede to walk with corns on his feet," will feature tonight's meeting of the Rusk Literary Society in Rusk Hall, Law Building. The affirmative side will be taken by Reed Cozart and Arthur Sandlin, while Edwin Davis and Milton Ayer will uphold the negative side of the debate.

Officers who have been elected for the present term are Arthur Sandlin, president; Nola White, vice president; G. T. Adams, secretary; L. P. Maginnis, treasurer; D. Israel Horowitz, reporter, and Den Davis, sergeant-at-arms. Tonight's meeting is called for 7:15 o'clock.

GARDNER PLAYS AT GERMAN-GYM DANCE

Steve Gardner and his Hokum Kings will play at the first German dance given in the Women's Gymnasium tonight. This is the first regular German to be held in the Woman's Gymnasium.

EDUCATION FACULTY MEETS OCTOBER 23

The fall meeting of the education faculty will be held Tuesday afternoon, October 23, at 4 o'clock, in the Education Building, room 210.

Freshmen to Meet At Stadium This Afternoon at 2:30

"All freshmen who plan to take part in the special stunts and who expect to get behind that Longhorn team with the 'fight yell' must be at the Stadium Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock," Tom Bagby, president of the first year men, announced Friday night.

A special section on the 30-yard line will be reserved for the freshmen, who will march to the stands immediately following their meeting before the game.

Rule About Co-ed Visits Is Stressed

Particular attention has been called at various meetings of the students to a regulation adopted last winter by the faculty at the request of the Student Life Staff and duly approved by the regents. This rule reads as follows: "Unchaperoned visits of women to men's rooming houses and fraternity houses are not permitted. The host groups, as well as the individual visitors, are responsible for the observance of this rule."

Proper chaperons are mature persons of unquestioned character and a sense of responsibility for those under their chaperonage.

This rule will be enforced in all cases brought to the attention of the dean of student life.

WOMEN SPORT CLUB OFFICERS NOW ELECTED

WAA Considers Plan To Assist Stadium Pledge

All women sport clubs of the University met this week and officers of each group were elected for the year.

The following officers were elected: Racket club: Cornelia Hedrick, president; Emma Glenn Vickers, vice president; Clara Mae Arrington, secretary-treasurer; Lucy Neblett, reporter; E. L. Powell, chart manager.

Orchestra: Miriam Collier, president; Nedra Newkirk, secretary-treasurer.

Turtle club: Mae Baldwin, president; Ruth Junkin, secretary-treasurer. Te-WAA-Hiss: Wee Brownie Cocke, director; Lucille Collins, secretary; Frances Laughlin, treasurer; Violet Howard, reporter; WAA representative, Marjorie Vogan.

The clubs are elective, entrance requirements being based on skill in the activities. Members are not voted upon and there are no dues.

CLASSICAL CLUB TO MEET MONDAY

The Classical Club will meet in Main Building 105 Monday night at 7:30 o'clock.

EIGHTY-YEAR-OLD WALKER HITS CINDER TRACK TODAY

Dan O'Leary, 89-year old world champion walker, will appear at the Stadium today during an intermission of the Texas-Arkansas game. He will walk 440 yards in three minutes. From Austin the walker plans to walk to Los Angeles where he will appear in the ball parks there.

O'Leary was born in Cork, Ireland, June 29, 1839. It has been his habit since 1874 to celebrate his birthday by walking at least 100 miles in 24 hours. Last year he covered the distance of 112 miles from Richmond, Virginia, to Washington, D. C., in 26 hours.

O'Leary says "There is no need for anyone to be sick or see a doctor if he will regulate his diet I haven't taken any medicine since 1767. I believe medicine is made to be sold, not to be taken. Study yourself and eat only what you need."

Dan O'Leary also has other suggestions, concerning how to keep well. He goes to bed at 8 o'clock, and gets up between 4 and 5 o'clock. For breakfast he drinks two cups of coffee (from a cup, by the way, which he has carried with him for 20 years). He places three ounces of butter in the coffee and some whole wheat bread. He said, "I'm alone, so I forget etiquette and eat it with a spoon; it's good, too."

In the last six years O'Leary has secured the seals of 41 states, and the signatures of their governors. He thinks Al Smith will be the next president. He added, "At least I hope so."

COMBINED ATTACK

Wray and Nona Rees Out With Minor Bruises

By BOB CANTRELL

Tapering off with a light workout yesterday afternoon, the Steers stand ready to repel the invasion of the crimson clad Razorbacks from the hills of Arkansas brought down to the plains of Texas by Francis A. Schmidt this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

"No doubt Arkansas has a good team, and we are going to face a real job in turning them from their championship aspirations tomorrow," said Line Coach Bill James in a telephone interview last night. "However, I believe that the Texas boys are in the proper frame of mind to go in there fighting and win that football game," he added.

The Porkers will be out after their second conference win, having bumped Baylor 14-0, while Texas will be starting her first conference clash of the present season. The Razorbacks will send a line into the fray that will average around 200 pounds, while the backfield packs plenty of speed with their brawn. This boy Beavers ran the Bears wild last Saturday, and the Texas line has been primed to stop his line attack, while the Texas secondary defense has been perfecting a defense against his passes.

Only two Texas men will be on the side-lines with injuries. Red Wray and Nona Rees will not get the starting call, although Red may get into the game before the afternoon is over. The Texas backs are in good shape, and with Beular, King, Baldwin, Shelley or Hughes in the starting four, the Porkers will have no easy time to stop a combined running and passing attack.

Texas Line-up

The starting Texas eleven will more than likely find Wild Bill Ford and Big "Un Rose on ends. Both these Steers are good pass grabbers, and stars on the defense. At tackles, Harry Mills and Gordy Brown, will get the call. Both Mills and Brown will be hard to keep out of the plays. Curtis Beatty and Harry Phillips will start at the guard positions.

At center Mac Burnett, who has been showing up well all week, will get the call in place of Red Wray, who is out with a bad ankle. Mac is a sure tackler, and will go down under the Texas punts in a way that bodes ill for the Porker safety.

In the backfield, Texas will be able to start any four, and rest assured that the jobs will well taken care of. The probably starting four will find Beular at quarter, Baldwin and Hughes at halves, with Captain Rufus King at full.

With these four in the backfield, Texas will be able to unleash any kind of attack. All four can pass, and carry the ball. Their clash with Arkansas this afternoon will go a long way towards deciding what part Texas will play in the conference race this year. A win over the Porkers will give the locals the proper spirit for the season, while a loss would put them in the dumps for the next few weeks.

What Do You Know About—

1. British Flier?
2. The "Anaphone"?
3. Rum-runners?
4. Atheist President?

The slim hopes for the safety of Commander H. C. McDonald, the daring Briton, are rapidly waning. The silence of many hours has been broken only once, when a Dutch vessel reported sighting the plane 700 miles north and east of Newfoundland. This occurred early Thursday morning, and the flier's fuel would have been entirely consumed by daylight Friday morning. He had only two avenues of escape from the mysterious fate of other trans-Atlantic fliers—that he was able to land on some remote island on the west coast of Scotland, or that in alighting at sea he was picked up by a passing boat not equipped with radio apparatus.

The British people and press are unusually stirred up by the incomplete story of their countryman's unboasted daring. He was still in the apprentice period of solo flying and was handicapped by lack of radio apparatus and floats for landing in water.

And now the "anaphone." A Waco man is at present demonstrating before a meeting of the Independent Telephone Association in Chicago an instrument for the emancipation of the telephone user. In the future when the lady of the house leaves for the day she turns on her anaphone; it receives all of the messages that come in and later transmits them to her in the sender's own voice.

John Collins is the Texan who has invented this device. It might be well to remember his name, for if all experiments prove successful, school boys in the future will read about him and Alexander Graham Bell on the same page of their history books.

The possibilities of the device are unlimited—imagine turning on your "anaphone" some afternoon and hearing Dean Moore's voice tell you that you have been dropped from the rolls of the institution.

Coast guard, immigration, and customs boats were patrolling the Niagara river last night in an attempt to maintain a blockade against rum-runners. Along the Canadian shore were 25 rum boats awaiting a chance to slip through and land their cargoes—Canadian ale at $5.70 a case.

Life for the rum-runners is getting harder and harder. Last night seven of the nine boats running the blockade were caught and their cargoes confiscated. The crews of 18 patrol boats were working in eight-hour shifts in order to keep a constant guard over the American shore.

Charles Smith of New York, president of the American Society for the Advancement of Atheism, Inc., met with a cold reception when he went to Little Rock, Arkansas. He was foolish enough to carry a placard reading, "Evolution is true. The Bible is a lie. God is a ghost."

In Little Rock they don't believe in evolution. Smith, the atheist, is in jail, and announces that he will appeal his fine of $25.

WOODRUFF NAMED TO ALCALDE STAFF

J. W. Woodruff has been appointed Student Life Editor of the Alcade, the monthly magazine published by the Ex-Students' Association of the University, according to an announcement from James L. McCamy, managing editor of the publication. Woodruff will give student opinion on Longhorn athletics each month, according to McCamy.

This is Woodruff's second year in this position, his first being in the long session of 1924-25. Since that time he has been employed in Mexico and Central America and has attended the University of Mexico one term.

Woodruff is a member of the Texas and the Dallas Athletic Association.

POE'S STORY SIMILAR

Almost every daily in the United States bore the screaming headlines that William Edward Hickman had paid life for life for the murder of Marian Parker, and the story of one of the most brutal crimes in recent days. It had for its final scene a young man who could have been but entering his realm of manhood but who looked upward as death hovered near and deigned not to see the crowd that stood to watch him die.

Among the wisecracks was a served-him-right wagging of heads and the ones who are always seeking unusual things said, as they always did, that it was the most unheard of crime ever perpetrated. But a similar story was written once.

There is a striking resemblance to Hickman's tragic deed and a story written years ago by Edgar Allan Poe and named, "The Tell-tale Heart." A crime is committed for no good reason at all. In both cases the victim is dismembered and the murderer rests back with an unruffled conscience and a feeling that his wit has surpassed any investigation. Here the similarity breaks a little. In Poe's story, the victim gives himself up due to the cutting accusations of his own conscience and in Hickman's case he is caught by force.

We have no record of what Poe's fictitious character thought when he was waiting trial for a heinous deed, but we do have Hickman's meditations, and the two, we judge, would run along similar lines. Hickman did not feel the rending pain of conscience which often drives murderers mad. Rather, he turned his thoughts to a retrospective philosophy and moralized to the others who might be tempted to turn to crime and think their wits were superior to those which they conflicted.

But let Poe's stories be enjoyed in their realism and let the actual deeds themselves be born and die in fiction. A book can be thrown away and forgotten without the emptiness which comes to those who have lost their dearest possession, a child.

WHAT IS TEXAS SPIRIT?

(Editor's note: The following was sent to the editor of the Daily Texan; and we print it for what it is worth in our editorial column.)

TO THE EDITOR:

We like the ideas of H. and R. G. concerning the awards, and we want to ask a few things concerning Texas Spirit. Why have profanity at the rallies? Is that the Texas Spirit? Now that the public is invited to the Arkansas rally, what will they hear, profanity or otherwise? Has Texas Spirit changed and now requires profanity to put it over? Or, is it that genteel expressions have failed to put things over? If the latter, then why study the cultural side of English? And, such being the case, we are in favor of establishing a section of English in which the students are taught the cheapest ways to do things. It may be that University students are not supposed to be cultured. If so, there is probably an excuse for profanity. It is all a mystery—not at all bothersome, but a little hard to account for when there are no alibis to give for it.

We co-eds do not intend to criticize the language of any individual on the campus as he exists in every day life, because he has his own culture. But, how can you account for these expressions from transfers from four colleges over the states and freshmen from different colleges—namely, "I came down here to have a well balanced life, going to and taking part in as many of the activities on the campus as possible, and I wouldn't waste my time listening to sacrilegious remarks and profanity at the rallies." Is that representative of the Texas Spirit? Who is back of all this; in the college that I attended, real leaders were at the head of rallies, and subsequent to this expression, let us explain that we have not heard any criticism on our yell leaders except—"Why do they let profanity prevail?" "We believe that the students could be guided by something other than profanity." "Saying 'Hell' should be a private expression and not the key to guidance of pep," (the words of a freshman supposedly sincere.)

After all, what does the student body want? Well, we do not want an alibi for said profanity, etc. This alibi is being used—"Well, it is the way of the mob. Let's go to the rallies and do not let the spirit worry us." We figure that is a good way to excuse it, but after all, is there an excuse for it? But, why not win all the games with the right principles backing up the victory? We owe this to the University.

P. S. What do you eds think?

RHODES SCHOLARSHIPS

Although the benefits from cultural travel and instruction offered by Rhodes scholarships to Oxford University, England, are unlimited, few students from Indiana University have made application for appointment. An opportunity to study at an institution famous for twelve centuries should not be so lightly overlooked.

The dissolved nunnery of St. Frideswyde and Osney abbey is believed to be the nucleus about which the university way built on the Thames river, sixty miles from London, early in the eighth century. Of the many colleges comprising Oxford University college, Balliol, founded by the father of the Scottish king of the same name, and Merton, founded by the first, established in the thirteenth century. Merton was the first educational institution in the world to train laymen, as well as clergy. Christ college, also a part of Oxford, is famous for having several of the original buildings, built by Wolsey and Henry VIII, in 1525, the great bell, "Tom," dedicated to St. Thomas of Canterbury, and an impressive list of Englishmen as former students. The cultural environment is regarded as Oxford's greatest asset.

An unusual feature in procedure is that there are few classes, and students work alone, supervised by tutors. There are no examinations until the senior year, when a comprehensive one is given for a degree. The system is considered as conducive to the highest standards in training.

Proficiency in sports is one of the essentials in winning a Rhodes scholarship, as athletics play an important part in the English educational system. Rowing is regarded as more important than football or cricket and the boating season runs almost unchecked throughout the year. A Harvard Rhodes scholar was amazed when the order for him to learn to row came to him from his gray-bearded tutor. The boy explained that he had tried rowing with poor success at Harvard and had been asked to quit. The tutor insisted the student should master the art, explaining that rowing was an intimate part of college life and not the toil of a chosen few, in England. This broad attitude toward college athletics has won the praise of many United States scholars who were trained abroad.

By careful planning, the Rhodes scholarship stipend of $2,000 a year for three years is sufficient to attend Oxford. As only 32 students are selected each year, Indiana will not have another representative for two years, after the appointment is made from this state, December 6.—Indiana Daily Student.

SHERIFF "UG" BARNABY

SYNOPSIS—

On the wind-swept plains of

Texas we find Sheriff Barnaby wondering who hung the 15 men on one strand of rope. He suspects Gladiola Hoskins because he found her silver spur under the tree on which they were hanged. Gladiola after denying having lost the spur there, goes to Archibald Chauncey Adkins, a tenderfoot, who is in love with her, and persuades him to say that he was riding with her that night.

Chapter IV—In which Barnaby

Questions Archibald.

Archibald stood amongst the cactus watching the departure of Gladiola, with her lonesome form, astride her schooner of the plains.

He stood in the typical English attitude of bewilderment—hands on hips, mouth wide open. God, how he loved that woman! But what a strange request. My word, what a strange request! He was perfectly aware that he had n't ridden with Gladiola last night. In fact he had been far, far from the canyon on business of his own. She had asked him to lie for her. Zounds, how odd!

An Englishman with all an Englishman's sense of form to be asked by this strange person to lie for her. How most irrefragably odd!

But he had little opportunity for quiet cogitation. For about this time a dust cloud came cruising over the lea (I got that word from a cross-word puzzle). And

SMITH'S MISSOURI CAMPAIGN

Missouri will have as its guest the most important half of the Smith-Robinson ticket when Gov. Alfred E. Smith arrives in St. Louis Monday. Gov. Smith will make two speeches in Missouri, one in St. Louis and the other in Sedalia.

The people of Columbia are or ought to be particularly interested in the Sedalia speech. Many have signified their intention of going to Sedalia Tuesday for the governor's address.

All eligible voters owe it to themselves and their country to study as thoroughly as possible the candidates who are up for election. The opportunity afforded by the Sedalia address of getting some first-hand information concerning the issues of this campaign should be seized by all who can possibly get to Sedalia at that time.

This opportunity should be taken advantage of equally by Republicans and Hooverites as well as by the Democrats and Smith admirers. The time has quite passed when votes are cast merely because of the party of a man. Parties are more and more losing the sharp lines that once separated them, and becoming just what they ought to be—merely an excellent medium for the election machinery of the country.

A voter who is not willing to listen to both sides and from the evidence submitted to him cast his vote for the man whom he thinks better, has not the best interests of the country at heart.—Columbia Missourian.

SHERIFF "UG" BARNABY

SYNOPSIS—

On the wind-swept plains of Texas we find Sheriff Barnaby wondering who hung the 15 men on one strand of rope. He suspects Gladiola Hoskins because he found her silver spur under the tree on which they were hanged. Gladiola after denying having lost the spur there, goes to Archibald Chauncey Adkins, a tenderfoot, who is in love with her, and persuades him to say that he was riding with her that night.

Chapter IV—In which Barnaby Questions Archibald.

Archibald stood amongst the cactus watching the departure of Gladiola, with her lonesome form, astride her schooner of the plains. He stood in the typical English attitude of bewilderment—hands on hips, mouth wide open. God, how he loved that woman! But what a strange request. My word, what a strange request! He was perfectly aware that he had n't ridden with Gladiola last night. In fact he had been far, far from the canyon on business of his own. She had asked him to lie for her. Zounds, how odd! An Englishman with all an Englishman's sense of form to be asked by this strange person to lie for her. How most irrefragably odd!

But he had little opportunity for quiet cogitation. For about this time a dust cloud came cruising over the lea (I got that word from a cross-word puzzle). And who should it be? We give you three guesses. It was none other than old Ugly himself. That is, it was old Ugly when the dust had cleared away.

"Hi, there, bo! What ya standin' here thinkin' about? I got somethin' I wanta say to ya."

WHAT'S IN A DEGREE?

The investment of billions of dollars in endowment, and the investment of four or the best years in life on the part of the vast number of college students, causes many to question the profitability, derived from this expense. Among these is Bernard DeVoto, who criticizes the college curriculum of today in an article of the current number of Harpers. He admits that, although the college education is imperfect, it is the best available. And he rather urges the neglect of the degree for the benefit of pursuing a course in which something of definite value in intellectual life is accomplished.—Rochester Campus.

"Why, sheriff, I assure you I know nothing of the affair. I was riding near the canyon last evening with Miss Gladiola but nothing of note seemed to be transpiring."

"Did you hear anything?"

"Oh, no, sir!"

"Nothing that sounded like the cry of an animal? Well, all right. Maybe you didn't."

VAUDEVILLE NOW AT THE HANCOCK

Headlining the vaudeville bill at the Hancock this week, James Coughlin and Company present a good stage burlesque called "The Rest Cure," in which the patient craves a boiler factory that he may rest a little from the din of an eastern bootleg suiter.

Demerest and Deland make a hit with their Cuckoo Opera in which classical renditions are burlesqued. There is plenty of comedy in the bill.

The Three Worcesters, a man and two women, are featured in some clever and daring acrobatic stunts.

Kohn and De Pinto, newcomers in vaudeville, combine violin and accordion in their musical presentation. Completing the bill is "Variety," a song and dance act.

'CRAIG'S WIFE' AT QUEEN THEATER

We have often wondered why and how a picture entirely devoid of acting and plot ever gets over, and "Craig's Wife," showing for the last times at the Queen today, didn't help us solve that problem one bit. Irene Rich and Warner Baxter drag through an hour's showing, and neither improve their reputation. Irene Rich takes the role of one of these wives who hit the ceiling every time hubby smokes in the living room, while Baxter plays the part of the hen-pecked husband who jumps every time wife yells "Frog." Baxter finally does wake up and start a small Central American revolution of his own.

There is only one bright spot in the whole show, and that is when Virginia Bradford and Carol Nye take over the screen. These two really have some life about them, and make the picture move along.—R. M. C.

Recently he came across the manuscript and Sousa audiences are assured that "The Gliding Girl," played occasionally as an encore number this season, and a red-hot bit of jazz, is presented exactly as it was written and played by Sousa almost a third of a century ago. Although Sousa does not claim the honor, it is entirely possible that the "March King" was also the father of jazz.

critics as her greatest role in a long career of great roles.

This United Artists picture is based on the sensational stage play of the same name by Dennison Clift. The story as brought to the screen has lost none of its drama, virility and charm. Gilbert Roland and Arnold Kent, as the two lovers of Norma Talmadge, give the best performances of their screen careers.

One of the outstanding features of the picture is the use of ordinary, though extremely high powered, incandescent lights in place of the Kleigs, powerful carbon arcs almost universally used heretofore in the lighting of motion picture sets. This lighting effect will give the entire picture a softer glow, and much more natural effect.

CRESCENT SHOWS NORTH-WEST FILM

The latest atrocity to be committed upon the movie going public by the moguls of Hollywood comes in the form of "The Old Code," a picture of James Oliver Curwood's great North-West showing at the Crescent for the last times today.

Seats for the entire engagement are now selling.

TODAY'S GAMES

Arkansas vs. Texas.
T. C. U. vs. A. & M.
Rice vs. S. M. U.
Baylor vs. Centenary.

This afternoon will find all seven of the conference teams engaged in games that will cause them to put forth every effort and a devere man to win. Six of the eleven get in the conference mix-up, while the seventh, Baylor, will meet the Centenary Gents on their own gridiron in an effort to break the jinx the Gentlemen have held over conference teams since they were refused admittance.

Texas will start her conference race with the powerful Arkansas eleven, which trounced Baylor last week by a 14-0 score. A 200 pound line, and a fast backfield will give the locals plenty to worry about before the setting sun brings rest to the weary. A hard game from start to finish is predicted.

The Ponies will switch from their vaunted air attack to a running game, built around Redman Hume, in an effort to double-cross Rothgeb's Owls. The Houston eleven has been drilled in a special pass defence, and such an attack might throw them off guard for a few minutes. If reports are true, the Owls have a decent passing attack of their own.

The first tennis tourney of the fall season will start Monday when the All-City tournament will start on Penick courts. This meet will draw large numbers of starts from the University, down-town, and neighboring cities. Wilmer Allison, Berkeley Bell, Bruce Barnes, Jimmie Quick, Earl Taylor, and Lucien LaCoste will be a few of the University and former University stars in the game.

The Aggie-Horned Toad game should be a corker. The Frogs have been a stumbling block in the path of the Farmers for the past three years, and Bible will have his men keyed to a high pitch to bump the Christians. Three-point Johnnie Washmon and Rags Mathews will not be there to deal the Aggie backs misery.

The Vanderbilt Commodores, off on another of their successful seasons, meet Tulane this afternoon in what should prove to be one of the most interesting games of the season. It will be followed with a great deal of interest by Texans, as they remember the work of Armistead and Abernathy last Saturday against Texas.

In the east, Army and Harvard meet in the headliner. Army has yet to taste defeat, though she did barely escape it in the S. M. U. game. The Cadets should come through with a good win. Navy will make her fourth attempt to break her scoreless losing spree, when she meets Duke. She really should do it this time.

PORKERS HURL
'TON' INTO FRAY

the lead they now have in the Southwest Conference circuit. Thirty gallons of water from the Arkansas Ozark hills is included among the Razorback equipment.

The Porkers will start the crucial contest minus the services of their star end, "Gene" Lambert, who is suffering from a badly infected hand since the Baylor conflict at Texarkana last week-end. Razorback copesters have visions on a conference title if the Crimson crew, who startled the entire southern sporting world last week by handing the Baylor Bruins a neat lacing, can duplicate this performance over the Longhorns.

Arkansas will face two conference foes in rapid succession within the next two weeks with Dana X. Bible's Texas Cadets turning a right-about-face for the Ozark hills next Saturday for the annual Homecoming jubilee.

On the following week-end, the Schmidtmens will trek to Shreveport, Louisiana, for their annual clash with the untamed Tigers of Louisiana State University.

Nearly a "ton of beef" will be hurled at the Texas eleven in the opening moments of battle, according to announcement made by the Porker mentor last night at the Hotel Stephen F. Austin.

SMU EXPECTED

ATTACK TODAYReed to Replace Hume
At Quarter in Rice Fray

By JIMMIE LOVELL
Special Daily Texan Correspondent
DALLAS, Oct. 19.—A running attack is expected to substitute the vaunted air attack when Morrison sends his Mustangs against the Owls here today. He hopes to cross up Rothgeb who is said to have drilled his men in the special air defense against the Ponies.

Reed, whose reputation as a quarter gained somewhat in the Army game, is expected to bark signals instead of Hume. It was just revealed Friday that the Mustangs will not present their full strength in the game today.

Fincher is out with a wrenched back, Captain Bacucus is troubled with a bad knee and several others of the team have been complaining with severe "limeburns." The burns were received in the Simmons game at Wichita Falls.

Ten yard lines were laid off with dry lime and several of the Ponies got the lime on their bodies. Coach Morrison withheld this information from news correspondents "because he didn't want Rice to find out about it."

SILENTS, LOBOES
MEET HERE TODAY

The Texas Silents from the state school for the deaf will meet the San Marcos high school Lobos at 9:30 this morning on Freshman Field.

The Silents boast a strong team, not having been defeated in two starts this season, and should put up a good battle against the high school team.

Last week the Silents won 13-0 over Oklahoma school for the deaf in a game played before a State Fair crowd at Dallas.

STEERS WIN!

King and Hughes
Score for Steers
In 20-7 Victory

By BOB CANTRELL
Texan Sports Editor

After trailing Arkansas by a single point at the end of the first half yesterday afternoon, Texas came back behind the offensive work of King, Beular and Shelley and the sensational defensive work of Burnett, Brown, Rose and Rhoads in the second half to score two touchdowns and kick both tries for the extra point, to win out in their first conference tilt of the year 20-7, and get started on the right foot in the conference championship race.

The game was a fast and furious fight throughout, with the ball changing hands with lightning-like rapidity at times. Passes, end runs, off-tackle plays and long punts kept the fans out of their seats all afternoon.

TEXAS SCORES

Texas started the scoring in the second period when Rhoads recovered a punt which Geises had fumbled on Arkansas' six inch line. On the first play, King drove through the middle of the line for a touchdown. The Texas try for the extra point was wide. Arkansas came right back, and went into the lead. A series of passes, line plays, and two penalties put them in scoring position from where Beavers, their powerful back, went across. The try for extra point was perfect. The half ended without further scoring.

SCORE TWICE

The Steers came back to score once in the third and again in the fourth quarter. The Texas backfield opened up in the last half and uncorked some pretty runs and passes. It was a pass that scored the second touchdown for Texas, when King stepped back to his own 30 yard line and shot a 15 yard pass to Tommie Hughes who ran the remaining 15 yards for the touchdown. Previous to that pass, two Texas attempts had been wild. The last Texas touchdown was scored by King when he plowed the line for the score. Shelley kicked both tries.

FIRST QUARTER

Arkansas won the toss and chose to receive at the South goal. Cowley kicks off to Miller who fumbles and returns 5. Miller breaks through for 3 yards. Beavers gets 2 at left guard. Beavers punts 35 yards to Beular who returns 7 yards to Texas' 40-yard line. King hits line for no gain. Arkansas off-side, 5 yard penalty. King gets a scant yard off left tackle. Shelley picks up another bare yard off right end. Geise intercepts a Texas pass from Shelley and runs it back 15 yards. Beavers crashes through line for 5 yards. Beavers picks up 2 yards off left tackle. Dale fails to gain at right guard. Beavers punts 33 yards to Beular on Texas' 5 yard line. Beular returns 15 yards.

Shelley on a cut-back through left tackle gets loose for 17 yards, placing ball on 41 yard line. Beular crashes through line for 7 yards. King broke off left tackle for 17 yards before being run out of bounds by Beavers and Dale. Time out, Arkansas. First down on Arkansas' 33 yard line. Play resumed. King gets off slow, and picks up 4 yards off right tackle. Beular starts around right

On a pass behind the line King to Ford, Ford gets a yard before Gardner busts him. A pass Shelley to Hughes places ball on Arkansas' 11 yard line. King hits line for 2 yards. Texas is marching straight down the field. Shelley hits the middle of the line for 2 yards.

Shelley gets a yard off right tackle. The Porker line is fighting with its back to the wall. Shelley fakes a place-kick, and Beular passes across goal line to Rose who lets the ball slip off finger tips. Arkansas' ball on own 20 yard line. Beavers gets 3 yards through line.

Beavers punts 33 yards to Beular who is busted in tracks on 44 yard line by Schoonover. King carries ball out of bounds for no gain. Ball brought in 15 yards from sidelines. Time out for Arkansas. The Arkansas line held when it had to. A pass Shelley to Ford is incomplete. It was a fake pass. Dale drops ball when he almost intercepts it. Shelley gets 4 yards through line. Shelley punts to Arkansas' 22 yard line where Rose and Ford kill the ball. Beavers back; he punts 40 yard out of bounds on Texas' 40 yard line. Beular gets 3 yards off left tackle, but ball brought back, and Texas draws 5 yard penalty off-side. King breaks through the tackle, held down by Gardner, for 11 yards. He almost got loose. Hughes hits line for no gain, as quarter ends. Texas 0, Arkansas 0.

Victory

Special to The Daily Texan.
SHREVEPORT, Louisiana, Oct. 20.—The Baylor Bears, playing inspired football here this afternoon, broke a two year old jinx which the Centenary Gentlemen have held over the members of the Southwestern Conference, when they slipped a 12-0 defeat into the records against the Gents. Jake Hanna and company were not equal to the task of stopping the sensational attack of Wilson, Noble, Furl and Newberry.

The Texans passed, kicked and ran the ends like demons. They were evidently smarting under the sting of a 14-0 licking handed them last week by a sister conference team, Arkansas, while the Gents were feeling a bit chesty over their 6-0 trimming of the Texas Aggies.

This was the first defeat suffered by Centenary in the last two years, and shattered their string of wins over members of the Southwestern Conference at five straight. Up until this afternoon, the Gents had beaten T. C. U., S. M. U., Rice, Baylor, and A. & M. last year and this year.

Morley Jennings and his Golden Bears leave for the Lone Star State tonight feeling lots better than they did last Saturday night at the same time.

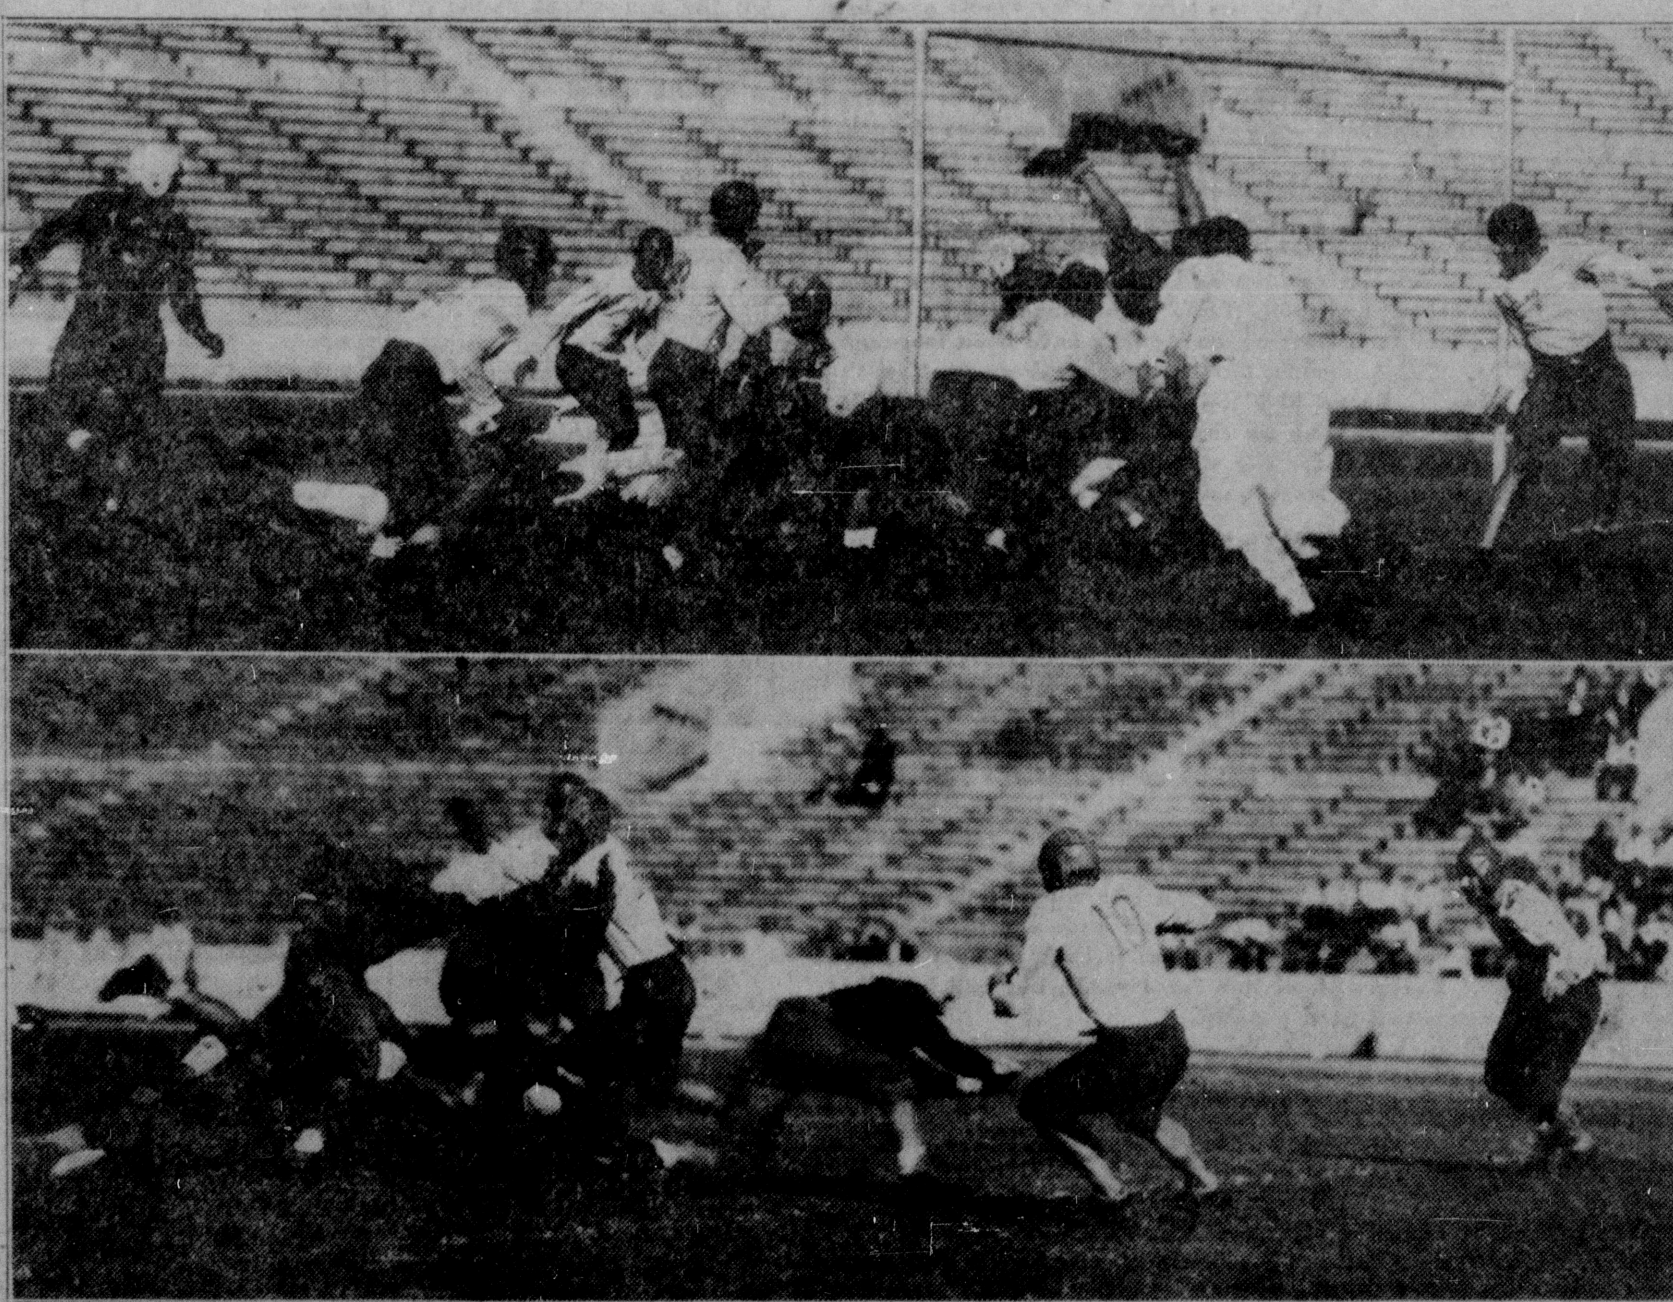

FEATURE STAFF OF
TEXAN ORGANIZES

Feature writers of the Daily Texan held a meeting Friday afternoon to plan the feature sections of the Daily Texan for the year.

Everette Love, head of the department, asked each member of the department to turn in at least one feature story a week, as the Texan plans to put out a feature section at least every third Sunday. The department plans a series of feature articles on members of the faculty to continue throughout the year.

Ponies Desert Air to Run up Huge Score
On Owls

By JIMMIE LOVELL
Special Daily Texan Correspondent
DALLAS, Oct. 20.—Coach Morrison called on his second and third stringers here Saturday before a state fair crowd to show the home town how the Mustangs were able to hold Army as they did. Rice Owls were trampled 52 to 13 in the exhibition. A running attack was used more than the air as a means to pile up the score. Johnson, Pony half made the first three touchdowns, to lead scoring.

During the morning Rice Harriers defeated Pony runners 28 to 27, with Captain Brunson showing the way over the 3.7 mile course.

The photographer caught the Texas-Arkansas game highlights this afternoon. Here are two of them. In the top, we see Captain Rufus King, making the first touchdown of the game with a dive through the piled up Arkansas line. It came a few seconds after Rhoads had recovered a fumbled punt on the Porker 6 inch line. The players are seen converging in while Rhoads of Texas (No. 13) and Schoonover of Arkansas look on.

In the lower is seen Dexter Shelley starting off on one of his numerous long jaunts of the game. Beavers of Arkansas (No. 19) seems to be wanting to argue with him, but a Texas man is doing his best to get him out of the play.

6-0 WHIPPING

Frogs Continue Jinx
Over Texas
Aggies

Special to The Daily Texan.
COLLEGE STATION, Oct. 20.—From out of the north there came a purple clad army, dealing misery and destruction. Such might well describe the win of Coach Matty Bell's Horned Toads from Texas Christian University over Dana Bible's Aggies, here this afternoon. Just as the game seemed doomed to end, as so many A. & M.-T. C. U. games have in the past—a tie, the Toad backfield came to life, and chased across a single touchdown, but that was sufficient to give them a 6-0 win over the disheartened Aggies.

It was the second 6-0 whipping handed the Farmers in as many Saturdays. Last week, the Centenary Gentlemen came up from Shreveport, and plastered a 6-0 loss on the Farmers, in much the same manner as did the Frogs. The Frog mentor was delighted with the work of his charges in the win, and the Toads took a hold on first place in the conference along with Texas and S. M. U.

Passes Thrown
By Longhorns;
Hogs, Total 43

A total of 43 passes were hurled in the game between Arkansas and Texas, with only 13 of them being completed. The Razorbacks were successful with six, netting a total of 86 yards, out of 22 tried, while Texas completed seven out of 21 for 109 yards. Three were intercepted by the Longhorns, and two by Arkansas. Wild passing, and an alert defense by both teams made both aerial attacks weak.

Shelley put on a beautiful punting exhibition, sending nine spirals for an average of 46 yards. Arkansas averaged 35 yards in 12 punts.

Summary: Touchdowns: King, 2; Beavers, 1; Hughes, 1. Points after touchdowns: Dale, 1; Shelley, 2. First downs: Texas, 11; Arkansas, 7 (five resulted from passes). Yards gained from scrimmage: Texas, 169; Arkansas, 66. Yards lost, Texas 27; Arkansas, 7. Passes: Arkansas tried 22, six were completed for 86 yards, 3 were intercepted, and 14 were incomplete; Texas tried 21, completed 7 for a total of 109 yards, two were intercepted, and 12 were incomplete. Punts: Arkansas averaged 35 yards in 12 punts. Penalties: Texas 6 times for a total of 45 yards; Arkansas 9 times for 45 yards.

What Do You Know About—

1. British Flier?
2. The "Ansophone"?
3. Rum-runners?
4. Atheist, President?

The slim hopes for the safety of Commander H. C. McDonald, the daring Briton, are rapidly waning. The silence of many hours has been broken only once, when a Dutch vessel reported sighting the plane 700 miles north and east of Newfoundland. This occurred early Thursday morning, and the flier's fuel would have entirely been consumed by daylight Friday morning. He had only two avenues of escape from the mysterious fate of other transatlantic fliers—that he was able to land on some remote island on the west coast of Scotland, or that in alighting at sea he was picked up by a passing boat not equipped with radio apparatus.

The British people and press are unusually stirred up by the incomplete story of their countryman's untroubled flight. He was still in the apprentice period of solo flying and was handicapped by lack of radio apparatus and floats for landing in water.

And now the "ansophone." A Waco man is at present demonstrating before a meeting of the Independent Telephone Association in Chicago an instrument for the emancipation of the telephone user. In the future when the lady of the house leaves for the day she turns on her ansophone; it receives all of the messages that come in and later transmits them to her in the sender's own voice.

John Collins is the Texan who has invented this device. It might be well to remember his name, for if all experiments prove successful, school boys in the future will read about him and Alexander Graham Bell on the same page of their history books.

The possibilities of the device are unlimited—imagine turning on your "ansophone" some afternoon and hearing Dean Moore's voice tell you that you have been dropped from the rolls of the institution.

Coast guard, immigration, and customs boats were patrolling the Niagara river last night in an attempt to maintain a blockade against rum-runners. Along the Canadian shore were 25 rum boats awaiting a chance to slip through and land their cargoes—Canadian ale at $5.70 a case.

Life for the rum-runners is getting harder and harder. Last night seven of the nine boats running the blockade were caught and their cargoes confiscated. The crews of 18 patrol boats were working in eight-hour shifts in order to keep a constant guard over the American shore.

Charles Smith of New York, president of the American Society for the Advancement of Atheism, Inc., met with a cold reception when he went to Little Rock, Arkansas. He was foolish enough to carry a placard reading, "Evolution is true. The Bible is a lie. God is a ghost."

In Little Rock they don't believe in evolution. Smith, the atheist, is in jail, and announces that he will appeal his fine of $25.

WOODRUFF NAMED TO ALCALDE STAFF

J. W. Woodruff has been appointed Student Life Editor of the Alcade, the monthly magazine published by the Ex-Students' Association of the University, according to an announcement from James L. McCamy, managing editor of the publication. Woodruff will give student opinion on Longhorn athletics each month, according to McCamy.

This is Woodruff's second year in this position, his first being in the long session of 1924-25. Since that time he has been employed in Mexico and Central America and has attended the University of Mexico one term.

Woodruff is a member of the Longhorn football squad.

LONGHORNS BEAT PORKERS IN FIRST CONFERENCE GAME

SECOND QUARTER

Rhoads for Ford, Texas. Looks like passes. Shelley back, he passes wild; ball brought back. Fourth down, 4... Shelley back, he punts 55 yards to Geise, who fumbles. Rhoads recovers for Texas on Porker 6 inch line. King plows the line for Texas first score on a conference opponent. Texas 6, Arkansas 0. Rhoads fails to kick extra point. Texas 6, Arkansas 0.

Texas will receive. Beavers kicks off, but ball is brought back. Texas sends in substitutes—Vining for Rose, Beatty for Sewell, Mills for Cowley. Beavers again kicks to Shelley who fumbles, but picks up and returns 19 yards. A pass, Shelley to Hughes, is busted up by Miller. Shelley rips the line for one yard. Beular runs straight across the field, and is forced out of bounds for a 2-yard loss by Miller. Shelley punts high 55 yards to Geise who returns 5 yards. Meadows for Beular, Baldwin for King, Texas. Arkansas calls time out, with ball on own 18 yard line to talk matters over, and decide what to do about it. Dale plows the line for 3 yards, but ball is called back, and Texas gets 5-yard penalty. Burnett breaks through and throws Miller for a yard loss.

Burnett knocks down a short pass over the line. Third down, 6 to go. Beavers back; Dale gets 3 yards through line. Beavers back; he kicks 32 yards to Shelley on Texas' 45 yard line. Gardner breaks through and throws Meadows for a 3 yard loss. Shelley's pass is intercepted by Geise who runs it back 15 yards before he is run out of bounds by Burnett. Moore for Gardner, Arkansas.

A pass Geise to Beavers is good for 22 yards, carries ball on Texas' 30 yard line. Another pass is incomplete. A bullet pass over the line from the hands of Beavers to Miller is good for 14 yards; puts ball on Texas' 20-yard line. Miller fails to gain on a try at left end, but places ball in front of goal line. A pass, Beavers to Miller, is intercepted by Burnett after about half a dozen men get their hands on it, but fail to hold it. Higgins for Hughes, Texas. Brown calls for a head gear. Higgins takes ball out of bounds for no gain. Shelley back; he punts 42 yards to Geise on own 48 yard line. Burnett downs him in tracks.

A pass is incomplete, when Burnett gets in way. Gordy throws his headgear away. Another pass is incomplete, but Bogges rules pass complete on interference. Beavers is stopped by Mills and Burnett for no gain. Cheatham for Vining, Texas. Burnett busts Dale for no gain on a try at right end. Rhoads throws Dale for a yard loss on a lateral pass. Beavers punts to Meadows who carries ball out on Texas' 8-yard line; ball is brought back, and Texas draws 15-yard penalty, putting ball on Texas' 21 yard line.

Beavers is stopped at the line by Burnett after a 2-yard gain. A lateral pass Beavers to Dale carries ball to Texas' 6 yard line, where Meadows and Hughes get him. Arkansas calls time out. The Texas team is down talking things over. Play resumed. Beavers takes ball out of bounds for a yard loss. Beavers rams line for 2 yards. Ball on Texas' 4-yard. Beavers is stopped for a 3-yard gain. One yard to go. Beavers breaks off tackle for touchdown. Texas 6, Arkansas 6. Dale kicks extra point. Texas 6, Arkansas 7.

Texas receives. Dale kicks to Baldwin who returns 17 yards. Baldwin loses 3 yards off left end when Creighton gets him. Shelley's pass to Rhoads is incomplete, when Shelley shoots over his head. Arkansas off-side; 5 yard penalty. Meadows gets 2 yards on a fake through the line. Creighton breaks through and throws Meadows for a 9-yard loss. Shelley punts 50 yards to Geise who returns 10, shaking off three tacklers. Miller gets 3 yards on delayed buck. A fake spin play results in Miller losing 4 yards. Holmes for Geise, Arkansas. Miller gets 4 yards through line. Half ends. Score: Arkansas 7, Texas 6.

The Texas Longhorn Band takes the field between the halves, and forms the "T." After marching up and then back down the field they return to the center, and spell "TEX." The slimes led by Hooty Hootkins take the field, and start on stunts they have been learning. They form a "T." The Longhorn Band is bearing down on "That's My Weakness Now." Looks like the frosh will pull the whistle yell. The Longhorns start back on the field. The slimes give two yells and then make a break for the stands. Dan O'Leary, 89 year old walker is introduced. He starts around the track.

SECOND HALF

Texas is starting the same line-up that started the game. Arkansas will kick off. Gardner kicks out of bounds; ball brought back, and kicks off again. Gardner kicks high to Beular on 10 yard line. He returns to Texas' 35-yard line. Beular passes to Hughes for 12 yards, and first down. King ploughs line for 5 yards. Arkansas calls time out. Both teams talk it over, and then resume play. Shelley back; he goes around end for no gain. Beular's pass is intercepted on Arkansas' 43-yard line.

Phillips gets Beavers after a yard gain. Miller gets 3 yards around right end; Hughes stops him. Miller gets 2 yards through the line. Beavers back; he punts to Texas' 30 yard line where it is downed by Gardner. Shelley back; King fumbles and loses a yard. Shelley back; he punts 50 yards to Geise who runs it back one yard. On own 20 yard line. Beavers plows line for 4 yards, but ball brought back, and Arkansas gets 5-yard penalty.

Miller gets 7 through line. A fake spin fails to work; Burnett throws Dale for a yard loss. Beavers back; a pass is intercepted by Burnett. Burnett is playing a sensational game. Hughes gets 11 yards, carrying ball to Arkansas' 23-yard line. Shelley back; goes off tackle for a yard. Beular back; passes to Rose, who drops it, a bad pass high-and-wide. Shelley passes, incomplete; Texas gets 5 yard penalty. King passes 15 yards to Hughes who runs 15 yards for touchdown. Texas 12, Arkansas 7. Shelley kicks try for extra point. Texas 13, Arkansas 7.

Texas receives again. Gardner kicks off to Shelley on 5-yard line, who runs it back 30 yards.

King gets 5 yards on delayed buck. Beular loses 4 yards when the Arkansas line breaks through and smotheres on a fake. Moore for Gardner, Arkansas. Shelley back; he punts 35 yards out of bounds on Arkansas' 30-yard line. He barely got it off. A pass is incomplete when it falls short of goal. Another pass is knocked down by Rose. Arkansas draws 5-yard penalty for second incomplete forward pass.

Beavers back; he punts 35 yards to Beular who runs out of bounds on own 39-yard line. King breaks off tackle for 2 yards. Moore stops him. King's pass to Rose is wild. It was far over Big 'U. Beular back; he fails to gain. Shelley back; he punts to Geise, who fumbles. Burnett recovers for Texas on Arkansas' 24-yard line.

Mac is in the middle of every play, and is dealing the Arkansas offense plenty of misery. Beular's pass to Rhoads is incomplete. A basket pass King to Ford gains 7 yards. Another basket pass, King to Ford gains 2 yards. King makes first down, fumbles, but recovers. Holmes for Miller, Arkansas. Ball on 11-yard line in Texas' possession.

King goes through line for 8 yards. It was over guard. Beular gets yard through center of the line. King carries ball to 6 inch line. First down, goal to go. King dives through center of line for his second touchdown. Texas 19, Arkansas 7. Shelley tries for extra point. His try was perfect, sailing squarely between the uprights. Texas 20, Arkansas 7. Rhoads for Ford; Hargroves for Cowley; Tigner for Phillips; Beatty for Sewell, Texas. Texas kicks off as quarter ends. Burnett gets Dale after a 10 yard return.

FOURTH QUARTER

Arkansas' ball on own 32-yard line. First down, 10 to go. Beavers back; his pass was incomplete. Second, ten. Beavers back; another pass behind the line is incomplete. It was broken up by Rose. Arkansas draws 5 yard penalty for second bad pass.

A third pass is incomplete when Beavers throws far over Schoonover's head. They draw another 5-yard penalty. Beavers punts 40 yards to Texas' 40-yard line. Beular returns 20 yards. Meadows

THOUGHT FOR TODAY

VARIETY is the spice of life and change is that thing you have little of after a high-powered date.

—Virgil Herald.

DESIRE WITHOUT THE ELMS

I WANT to drink like Alfred Smith
I'd love to bull like Hoover
If I could fly like Lindbergh
I'd think it some maneuver.

Heflin, John Roach Straton
And all folk of that ilk
Make me long and cry for
A public mob to billk.

I want to fly to poles
Just like Commander Byrd
Or swim the nearest channel
To make my exploits heard.

I'd sit upon a flag-pole
And play a waiting game
Or walk to San Francisco
Or anything for fame.

SHERIFF "UG" BARNABY

SYNOPSIS—

On the wind-swept plains of Texas we find Sheriff Barnaby wondering who hung the 15 men on one strand of rope. He suspects Gladiola Hoskins because he found her silver spur under the tree on which they were hanged. Gladiola after denying having lost the spur there, goes to Archibald Chauncey Adkins, a tenderfoot, who is in love with her, and persuades him to say that he was riding with her that night.

Chapter IV—In which Barnaby Questions Archibald.

Archibald stood amongst the cactus watching the departure of Gladiola, with her lithesome form, astride her schooner of the plains. He stood in the typical English attitude of bewilderment—hands on hips, mouth wide open. God, how he loved that woman! But what a strange request! My word, what a strange request! He was perfectly aware that he hadn't ridden with Gladiola last night. In fact he had been far, far from the canyon on business of his own. She had asked him to lie for her. Zounds, how odd! An Englishman with all an Englishman's sense of form to be asked by this strange person to lie for her. How most irrevocably odd!

But he had little opportunity for quiet cogitation. For about this time a dust cloud came cruising over the lea (I got that word from a cross-word puzzle). And who should it be? We give you three guesses. It was none other than old Ugly himself. That is, it was old Ugly when the dust had cleared away.

"Hi, there, bo! What ya standin' here thinkin' about? I got somethin' I wanta say to ya."

"Yes, sir, Mr. Barnaby. If I can be of service you have only to command."

"Do ya know anything about last night's affair? I know you had reasons for havin' it in for those guys after the razzin' they give you. If you could really

SMITH'S MISSOURI CAMPAIGN

Missouri will have as its guest the most important half of the Smith-Robinson ticket when Gov. Alfred E. Smith arrives in St. Louis Monday. Gov. Smith will make two speeches in Missouri, one in St. Louis and the other in Sedalia.

The people of Columbia are or ought to be particularly interested in the Sedalia speech. Many have signified their intention of going to Sedalia Tuesday for the governor's address.

All eligible voters owe it to themselves and their country to study as thoroughly as possible the candidates who are up for election. The opportunity afforded by the Sedalia address of getting some first-hand information concerning the issues of this campaign should be seized by all who can possibly get to Sedalia at that time.

This opportunity should be taken advantage of equally by Republicans and Hooverites as well as by the Democrats and Smith admirers. The time has quite passed when votes are cast merely because of the party of a man. Parties are more and more losing the sharp lines that once separated them, and becoming just what they ought to be—merely an excellent medium for the election machinery of the country.

A voter who is not willing to listen to both sides and from the evidence submitted to him cast his vote for the man whom he thinks better, has not the best interests of the country at heart.—Columbia Missourian.

$25,000 FOR AN IDEA

W. C. Durant, the gentleman who mixes philanthropy, good citizenship, and automobiles into a rather profitable and interesting career, has offered in the interests of prohibition a prize of $25,000 for a solution to the problem of enforcing the Eighteenth Amendment. In addition to this, he offers to college students another prize of $5,000 for a similar endeavor, the successful student to receive $1,000 and his university the rest of the sum.

Here is a chance for some student on this campus to swell his usually depleted stipend, to relieve the flood of bad liquor, and to provide marble steps, rose windows, or chandeliers for one of the many, many proposed buildings for the Evanston campus.—Daily Northwestern.

WHAT'S IN A DEGREE?

The investment of billions of dollars in endowment, and the investment of four of the best years in life on the part of the vast number of college students, causes many to question the profitability, derived from this expense. Among these is Bernard DeVoto, who criticizes the college curriculum of today in an article of the current number of Harpers. He admits that, although the college education is imperfect, it is the best available. And he rather urges the neglect of the degree for the benefit of pursuing a course in which something of definite value in intellectual life is accomplished.—Rochester Campus.

throw a lasso like any self-respectin' guy should, I'd think you did it. Maybe I do anyhow, I never cared for the sorta ornery critter you are."

"Did you hear anything?"
"Oh, no, sir!"
"Nothing that sounded like the cry of an animal? Well, all right. Maybe you didn't."

The new Buick
is the new Style

If you want beauty—if you want luxury—if you want up-to-the-minute smartness—there's only one choice—the choice of America—the new BUICK with Masterpiece Bodies by Fisher—

From one end of the country to another—in New York, in Miami, in Chicago, in Los Angeles and all towns between—overwhelming praise for the distinctive beauty of the Silver Anniversary Buick with new Masterpiece Bodies by Fisher!

All agree that here is a new style—a new mode—an entirely different and original interpretation of motor car beauty, forecasting the trend of smart body-design for months to come.

Thrilling new lines—sparkling color harmonies—and wonderful new interiors—all combine to form ensembles of rare and distinguished artistry.

If you want beauty—if you want luxury—if you want up-to-the-minute smartness—there's only one choice—the choice of America—the new Buick with Masterpiece Bodies by Fisher. It's the new style—the new mode—in motor cars!

THEATERS

"CRAIG'S WIFE," with Irene Rich in her perfect role. Good picturization of the play. At the Queen.

"THE WOMAN DISPUTED," with Norma Talmadge. Gilbert Roland as the necessary male. At the Majestic.

VAUDEVILLE, headlining James Coughlin and Company in a hokum comedy. Four other acts. Movie on the screen. At the Hancock.

"THE OLD CODE," a James Oliver Curwood special that is intended to be just a movie and is just that. At the Crescent.

VAUDEVILLE NOW AT THE HANCOCK

Headlining the vaudeville bill at the Hancock this week, James Coughlin and Company present a good stage burlesque called "The Rest Cure," in which the patient craves a boiler factory that he may rest a little from the din of an eastern bootleg suiter.

Demerest and Deland make a hit with their Cuckoo Opera in which classical renditions are burlesqued. There is plenty of comedy in the bill.

The Three Worcesters, a man and two women, are featured in some clever and daring acrobatic stunts.

Kohn and De Pinto, newcomers in vaudeville, combine violin and accordion in their musical presentation. Completing the bill is "Variety," a song and dance act.

'CRAIG'S WIFE' AT QUEEN THEATER

We have often wondered why and how a picture entirely devoid of acting and plot ever gets over, and "Craig's Wife," showing for the last times at the Queen today, didn't help us solve that problem one bit. Irene Rich and Warner Baxter drag through an hour's showing, and neither improve their reputation. Irene Rich takes the role of one of these wives who hit the ceiling every time hubby smokes in the living room, while Baxter plays the part of the hen-pecked husband who jumps every time wife yells "Frog." Baxter finally does wake up and start a small Central American revolution of his own.

There is only one bright spot in the whole show, and that is when Virginia Bradford and Carol Nye take over the screen. These two really have some life about them, and make the picture move along.—R. M. C.

first stage attraction of any magnitude for the season in Austin, and Sousa's appearance is heralded with much pleasure.

More than thirty years ago, Lieutenant Commander Sousa, who this season makes his thirty-sixth annual tour with his famous band, experimented with a dance composition in a tempo out of the ordinary. Sousa played it in public a time or two and then put it away because it "shocked" the two-steppers and the waltzers of the day. Recently he came across the manuscript and Sousa audiences are assured that "The Gliding Girl," played occasionally as an encore number this season, and a red-hot bit of jazz, is presented exactly as it was written and played by Sousa almost a third of a century ago. Although Sousa does not claim the honor, it is entirely possible that the "March King" was also the father of jazz.

critics as her greatest role in a long career of great roles.

This United Artists picture is based on the sensational stage play of the same name by Dennison Clift. The story as brought to the screen has lost none of its drama, virility and charm. Gilbert Roland and Arnold Kent, as the two lovers of Norma Talmadge, give the best performances of their screen careers.

One of the outstanding features of the picture is the use of ordinary, though extremely high powered, incandescent lights in place of the Kleigs, powerful carbon arcs almost universally used heretofore in the lighting of motion picture sets. This lighting effect will give the entire picture a softer glow, and much more natural effect.

CRESCENT SHOWS NORTH-WEST FILM

The latest atrocity to be committed upon the movie going public by the moguls of Hollywood comes in the form of "The Old Code," a picture of James Oliver Curwood's great North-West showing at the Crescent for the last times today.

Lillian Rich and a chap named McGrath play the leads in this film, and they do as well as might be expected of them. They have absolutely no chance to display any ability if they have any—at any rate they do not get the audience wrought up over their artistry. And Curwood adds no great honor to his name.

Alberta Vaughan and Al Cooke again honor us with a comedy that is fair, as comedies go. There is lots of mud slinging when an auto gets stuck. This sort of comedy always did remind us of politics. Mediocre bill as a whole.—J. R. M.

ABIE'S IRISH TO RISE AGAIN SOON

"Abie's Irish Rose," the comedy that held its own for six solid years, will come to the Hancock stage next Thursday and Friday with the same cast that presented the play here two years ago. It's a vow, take it from us; the best we can tell you is insure for split ribs and such.

Seats for the entire engagement are now selling.

It is well to bear in mind that this is the original and genuine stage play and not a motion picture.

SILENTS DOWN LOBOES 44-0 IN SLOW GAME

Running and Passing Attack too Much For Visitors

In a featureless game, the Texas Silents completely outclassed the Southwest Texas State Teachers College high school eleven to overwhelm them with a 44-0 score. The Silents scored in every period, while the Lobos threatened only once, and that was in the closing minutes of play, but poor football cost them this chance.

A line attack abetted by forward passes at most opportune moments gave the Silents their victory. The Lobos couldn't tackle, and once a Silent back got under way, he went for a long gain. LaRue, Wyatt, and Dooley led the attack of the Silents, while Ledbetter was the only Lobo who even knew the first principles of football. He was the main cog in the Lobo game, standing out on both the defense as well as the offense.

HIGGINBOTHAM CUTS DOWN SLIME SQUAD

Special Daily Texan Correspondent
COLLEGE STATION, Oct. 20
Roswell Higginbotham, Texas Aggie freshman mentor, is rapidly trimming his squad down to a size which will enable the coaches to devote more time to the individual needs of the candidates. Out of the 212 men who reported, only about 65 gridsters remain.

The squad has been divided into two groups, one working under Coaches Higginbotham and Tucker Lister and the other under Coaches Frank Anderson and "Kewpie" Rektorik. Coach Anderson is track and cross-country coach of the Aggies while Lister and Sprout were members of the Aggie eleven last fall. Both of the former Aggie gridsters are devoting special attention to the line prospects.

CLASSES VISIT BLIND INSTITUTE.
Approximately one hundred and fifty students of "Child Psychology" visited the blind institute Thursday afternoon. The main purpose of this visit was to study the nature of instruction given, the courses offered, and how the school was conducted.

FEW AGGIE TICKETS LEFT IN NORTH END

COLLEGE STATION, Oct. 20
Bob Countryman, Texas Aggie baseball mentor, was among the visitors at College Station for the recent Aggie-Centenary game and while here he spent several hours in the company of the men who were members of the Aggie nine last year.

Countryman will have to depend to a large extent on new material next spring when he begins the work of molding his nine, for not only did the Aggies lose many players by graduation but several good prospects who were expected to return are not in school this year.

Among the latter are Lee Hellums and Harris, twirlers; L. E. Dittmann, infielder; and P. D. Jefferies, catcher and outfielder.

Rolfe Wells of Houston is spending a few days in Austin. Wells has recently returned from Europe and will reenter the business administration school the second semester.
