Italy Prepares for Possible War in Mediterranean Sea

Half Million More Soldiers To Be Conscripted

By International News Service

With application of economic and financial sanctions against Italy less than a week away, Premier Benito Mussolini Tuesday prepared for a possible Mediterranean war as a result of these League of Nations penalties.

Il Duce by decree erected machinery for conscription of 500,000 more soldiers in Libya. The conscription would be automatically effective in the event of a declaration of war, other than the Ethiopian, involving Italy.

H. R. Knickerbocker in the second article of a series tells Tuesday of interviewing at Dessye the first war-wounded victims reached by a reporter on the Ethiopian side, revealing a bloody clash between native Eritrean troops who had deserted to Ethiopia and Galla tribesmen who attacked them believing them enemies. Dessye authorities sent Knickerbocker off to the front for the first inspection made from the Ethiopian lines.

Italy's threats against the League's application of sanctions failed to avert Britain from her planned course of definite action. On the contrary, British officials felt they had Italy definitely on the defensive, regarding the Italian warning note on sanctions as evidence Italy is feverishly apprehensive regarding the imminent penalties.

Italian advance forces advanced steadily southward on the northern front, sending four columns down to extend the Italian front line west from Makale. The Italians also advanced on the southern front up the Fafan River Valley North of Gorrabel. A dispatch from the southern front inferentially denied the previously reported Italian capture of Daguh Bur and Sasa Baneh.

2 Pre-Meds Faint as Movie Of Operation Is Shown

Premedical students can't take it!

Two students taking courses preparatory to entrance in medical college fainted last night at the first medical movies presented on the campus in two years.

While the majority of the three hundred pre-meds who jammed into every seat in the Chemistry Building auditorium and sat on the floor and stood in the doorways were cheering the surgeon as he probed after the bullet in the abdominal wall of a gunshot victim, and then as he ripped out the gall bladder of another victim without batting an eyelash, two of the audience decided it was best that they not stay around any longer.

One of the girls prepared to leave, but just as she neared the doorway, she crumpled and was carried out of the auditorium. The boy fainted calmly sitting in his seat. The number of sick patients was not taken.

For the most part, the students who hope to wield the scalpels someday themselves seemed to take the whole thing as a big comedy. They cheered as the appendix came out. They cheered again as it was forced back into its original hole.

Four pictures were shown last night, "Malaria," "Emergency Operations," "Appendectomy," and "Movements in the Alimentary Tract of Experimental Animals."

All casualties reported came during the projection of "Emergency Operations." A slight note of sarcasm was noted in Charles Herndon's goodnight—"I hope that everybody enjoys his meals!"

Band to Continue Symphonic Work

Rehearsals on symphonic selections will continue in full time this week for the Longhorn Band, Burnett Pharr, director, said yesterday.

New players are being selected from the freshmen to add to last year's concert group.

The exact date for the first concert is not known as yet, but the performance will be given before the first semester is over, Mr. Pharr said.

Girl Hit by Car Will Recover

Polly Hill, sophomore student from Amarillo, was in Seton Infirmary yesterday recovering from cuts and abrasions received when she was struck yesterday morning by an automobile driven by Edward Henry Rowley of Dallas, also a student in the University. The accident occurred at the intersection of Twenty-first and Guadalupe Streets.

Miss Hill was running across Twenty-first Street when Rowley's car, making a left turn into Twenty-first from Guadalupe, struck her. A front wheel of the car passed over her chest.

Rowley took Miss Hill to Seton Infirmary where Dr. H. L. Klotz, University physician, reported her injuries were not serious. She will remain in the hospital several days for observation.

40,000 Pounds of Bells to Ring from Tower

36-Bell Carillon to Play Chimes and Offer Variety of Music

From New York to the University—18,600 pounds of bells, soon to ring out from the Library tower. The five bells that have come are only the first in a carillon which will ultimately include thirty-six, playing Westminster's chime tunes, hit a deep B-flat note for every quarter hour, and offer anything else in the way of bell music.

The tones of the bells are as follows: 7800 bell, B-flat; 5600, C; 2400, F; 1600, G; 1200, A. In a short time eleven more bells will be added to the five that arrived last week. The sixteen bells will be raised by derrick to the twenty-eighth floor of the Administration Building, and they must be placed before completion of the floor since their size would not permit their being put in after the walls of the floor had been completed.

The bells will be placed at an elevation of between 874 and 894, about fifty feet above the present point of construction. The bells will be twenty-five feet above the fourteen-foot, four-faced clock. With the completion of the Administration Building about June 1, 1936, the bells will be put into use. Plans at the present include an ultimate carillon of thirty-six bells. Until all thirty-six of the bells have been installed, they will be regulated to chime mechanically. At the hour the famous Westminster Peal, copied after the peal of the chimes in Westminster Abbey, will be played by all of the bells. At the quarter hours the huge B-flat bell will chime. The bell system will be electrically operated and synchronized by the clock just under the carillon. When all thirty-six of the bells are installed a keyboard will be used, and tunes of all sorts can be played with the bells.

Selection of the type of carillon to be installed in the tower was submitted to the study of a committee composed of Luther Stark, chairman of the Board of Regents; Dr. W. J. Battle, chairman of the building committee; Mrs. I. D. Fairchild, member of the Board of Regents; and R. L. White, supervising architect of the University. This summer the committee made a trip to listen to bell chime systems in various parts of the country. They tested the chimes at Valley Forge, and at Dartmouth College, and selected the type used at Valley Forge.

The bells, which were cast by the Old Menely Bell Foundry of Watervliet, N. Y., are five-point tuned and are made of Bell metal, a composition of 78 per cent copper and 22 per cent tin. Each bell is covered with a bronze finish. The hammers of the bells are iron, covered with a coat of

The motion for the creation of such a committee was made by Dr. H. T. Parlin, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences and the members of the body are to be appointed within the next few days by President H. Y. Benedict.

Redford, assistant professor of government, T. H. Shelby, professor of educational administration, and Miss Lillian Wester, instructor of romance languages.

The committee to study the question of awarding fellowships without stipends will be headed by Dr. E. S. Redford, assistant professor of government. W. P. Boyd, assistant professor of business administration, Dr. C. M. Cleveland, assistant professor of applied mathematics, Dr. Hob Gray, assistant professor of the art of teaching, and J. A. Wickes, professor of law, are members of the committee.

On the recommendation of the secretary, Dr. M. R. Gutsch, a resolution was adopted to have the committee on patriotic celebrations re-examine the question of suspending classes on November 11.

Dr. W. J. Battle, professor of classical languages, reported that the Regents had approved $30,000 for furniture for the New Library Building. Dr. Battle also requested that members of the faculty submit information of interest to the special committee on fine arts.

Geologist Heads Science Academy

Dr. W. A. Price of Corpus Christi was elected president of the Texas Academy of Science at its annual meeting November 8 and 9 at Texas A. & M. College. The organization will convene next year in San Antonio.

Officers in addition to Dr. Price, who is the first geologist to become president of the academy, are as follows: executive vice-president, Don O. Baird of Huntsville; secretary, F. A. Burt of A. & M.; treasurer, Wayne Longnecker of S. M. U.; and sectional vice-presidents, J. G. Sinclair, W. T. Gooch, W. R. Horlacher, S. B. McAlister, and Olin G. Bell.

A state-wide research council known as the Texas Academy Conference, which will include delegates from each of the affiliated societies of the Texas Academy and the executive committee of the academy, was organized at this session.

"This conference is to act in regard to fostering and promoting scientific projects of merit and scientific research within the state. It is especially interested in cooperating with and fostering a state museum in Austin and a state-wide biological laboratory to be located at some point on the Gulf coast." Professor F. B. Plummer, delegate from the University at the convention, said.

"This is a very forward step in developing state-wide interest in the promotion of scientific projects," he added.

J. G. Sinclair acted as chairman and Wayne Longnecker, as secretary at the first meeting of the conference.

Band Practices Drill Routines

Practice was begun Tuesday on the Longhorn Band formations to be used in the Texas-T.C.U. game Saturday. Leonard Smith, president of the advisory board of the band, stated.

A modified form of the "staircase" formation used in the S.M.U. game will form the background for letters honoring T.C.U. and the University.

"The effect of continuous movement at all times has been the purpose of the band formations this year," Smith said. "In the past, letters have been formed in a standing position. By moving letters we make the formations more difficult but hope at the same time that the movement displays more color and life."

ONE-HOUSE

The Texas House today tabled, with little discussion, a resolution which would have placed it on record as favoring a one-house legislature. The resolution, offered by Wilson Fox of Georgetown, was tabled 63 to 57. A similar resolution was defeated in the senate.

Hofheinz Dubs Senate Tax Bill A Monstrosity

The Texas House Tuesday afternoon voted not to concur in Senate amendments to the omnibus tax bill and decided to instruct its conferees to keep out any sales tax provision in the final measure which will be drafted by the conference committee.

The Senate approved substitute which was presented to the House Tuesday morning included a 1 per cent selective sales tax, a 25 per cent increase in occupation taxes, and a graduated income tax levy.

It would raise about $23,000,000 for old age pensions, the available school fund, and the general revenue fund, sponsors estimated.

Herman Jones of Decatur favored concurring in Senate amendments. Jones, a proponent of natural resource taxes and an opponent of the sales tax, thought the House should swallow the selective sales tax in order to pass the income levy. To send the bill to committee, he thought, would doom the chances of the income tax.

W. E. Jones of Atascosa, chairman of the House Revenue and Taxation Committee, was in favor of adopting the Senate bill and moved that the representatives accept it.

Roy Hofheinz of Houston denounced the substitute as a "monstrosity which burdens the laboring man." He objected vigorously to the sales tax, but also to the income levies and to the occupation tax increases. He said that 25 or 30 per cent of the revenue produced by the measure would be required for its effective enforcement.

The motion by W. E. Jones was tabled, 117 to 23.

House members of the conference committee include Hollis Frazier of Franklin, Jesse James of Cameron, A. T. McKinney of Huntsville, R. H. Good of Cooper, Harold Hankamer of El Paso.

He notified Rabbi Abram Goodman that business matters would call him back to New York after his lecture in Houston yesterday.

"I am profoundly grieved to have to break the engagement," his telegram read. "This has never happened to me before in ten years of speaking. Business crisis in New York of which I have just been notified by long distance complete. Flying back from Dallas tomorrow. I assure you I am dejected and disappointed and that nothing but a real emergency would have made me yield to the demand for immediate return. CAST
Mrs. Smith... Margaret Lindsay
Mr. Smith... Warren Hull
Miss Ambercrombie... Anita Louise
Mr. Kent... Frank Albertson
Lizzie... Ruth Donnelly
The Butler... Arthur Treacher

Amusing in spots. This improbable story of a maid who pilots her master's family to fortune and social success is so fantastic that even when no laugh is intended, one is usually forthcoming. To make the situation even more unusual, the maid is the mother of Park Avenue's most prominent debutantes, which fact she magnanimously conceals till the proper moment.

The performances are much better than the plot, which makes them average. Margaret Lindsay and Anita Louise are calmly beautiful and Ruth Donnelly has a major part in the title role. When she is in her comedy moments, she's okay. Otherwise, thumbs down.

The men of the cast measure up well: Warren Hull is an ingratiating newcomer, Frank Albertson does well as the brother and Arthur Treacher is once more a devastating butler.

Some fun, some not-such fun and Miss Donnelly... and very little plot.

Estimate: B minus —bh

Varsity Begins Drills for Game with Undeclared T.C.U. Frogs

Jack Chevigny Will Stress Pass Defense

Working until nightfall, the Longhorns began the series of arduous preparatory drills Tuesday for the Southwest Conference game with the Texas Christian Horned Frogs here Saturday. The field was shrouded in darkness when Jack Chevigny called a halt.

(FORT WORTH, Nov. 12.)—Pointed toward their crucial game with the Texas Longhorns this week-end the T.C.U. Frogs were at work today perfecting defense and planning something to bewilder the Texans.

In expectation of competing against a brilliant aerial attack Saturday the Texas board of strategy will stress pass defense in the workouts this week. Individual blocking review and dummy scrimmage will also receive much attention. All of these phases of the game were on the practice program Tuesday.

enabled Bobby Wilson to do his stuff. Texas looked very weak and could not even score on the third team."

R. A. CROSS.

The action shot of the touchdown is labeled: "Pictures do not tell lies!"

Thanks for the information Mr. Cross. We might add that the Longhorns do not tell lies either and they report almost unanimously that they didn't think Shuford played such a whale of a game against them. Most of them are of the opinion that Sprague was the better blocker and that Finley was the better ball carrier. It is our firm conviction that Bill Pitzer, mainstay of the Texas backfield, is the better choice for all conference honors. On the other hand, perhaps Shuford's press agents had built him so high that he failed to be impressive, even with a commendable performance.

PARENT CLASS TO MEET

The parent education class of University Junior High School will meet Friday morning at 8:30 o'clock at the school with Mrs. Virginia Sharborough in charge.

The Mustangs will go into the conference fray without the services of Harry Shuford, its star fullback, for he got a badly twisted knee in the game here yesterday afternoon, and may be forced out of most of the remaining Methodist schedule.

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Nov. 12. (INS) The Arkansas Razorbacks today had started intensive drill with the idea of smearing the tired but undefeated Southern Methodist University team here Saturday.

Without chance of finishing high in the conference race the Razorbacks, nevertheless, want to stop the Pones if they can, and spoil the record the Mustangs hold. The Pones were through stiff practice yesterday and have several more days of similar work before them while the Methodists who played at Los Angeles yesterday will have little chance for drill between the two long train trips.

The battle here saw the Pones resort to their famed overhead play, which had not been used to any great extent so far this year. The aerial game seemed to befuddle and bewilder the Uclans. The Pones went to the air 29 times, 17 times successfully, making almost half their yardage by passes.

The Mustangs scored in the first quarter. The Bruins rallied and held them for the next two periods, although the ball mostly was in California territory. In the fourth period, by which time several second string men had gone in for the Methodists, the Pones broke loose and scored two times.

A crowd of 50,000 witnessed the game.

Texas Christian Boasts of Ace Aerial Offense

By WALTER BEACH

Saturday's football game here might well be dedicated to the "God of Flying Footballs," if there be such, as both the T.C.U. Horned Frogs and Texas Longhorns go to the air in search of touchdowns. Neither team has demonstrated consistently more than an average running game, but both have employed such dazzling passing attacks when in need that spectators have come to expect a forward or lateral pass on any down and from any point of the field.

HAIL THE PASSING SHOW! Hoist a flag to the "aerial game."

With Froggie Baugh to heave the leather. Send up a cheer for the famous name. At tossing footballs there's no better.

But ho! Here comes another lad. Whose flips, folks say, are not so bad. Jurecka too, shoots far and wide. It's alive by gosh! That old hog's hide.

Soon they'll both be aiming. Now down the field and now across. As frantic fans stand up exclaiming: "Boy, oh boy! What a dandy toss."

It looms as the greatest passing game. The Southwest ever saw. As these two lads take deadly aim—Longhorn Bus Jurecka and Horned Frog Sammy Baugh.

Nor is it surprising that both should use this offensive weapon freely. The Horned Frogs have in Sammy Baugh one of the greatest passers of all time, as his record to date shows. The Longhorns, in turn, depend for their passing success upon several men, but place their main confidence in the accurate and long range arm of Buster Jurecka, handsome, black-headed senior from Robstown.

Baugh Holds Edge

From the standpoint of actual accomplishment in the matter of gaining touchdowns, Baugh has by far the better record. Considered, however, from the angle of form and dependability at strategic moments, the Longhorn passer is probably as good as any in the business today. But since the Christians use the passing game more than the Longhorns and since Baugh has not been on the injured list this season, his record of completions far surpasses that of Jurecka.

So far this season Baugh has swung his trusty baseball arm in an arc 81 times and has connected perfectly in 45 of those attempts to some flying end or halfback, 11 of these flips being good for touchdowns.

His most perfect single game accomplishment came against Loyola last week when he completed every one of five attempts to Lawrence, one being good for his eleventh touchdown.

As a rule, however, the Frog star is not choicy in the matter of his receivers. Mantion Diggs, Needham, Kline and all of the other eligible receivers on the T. C. U. squad have at some time or other gone out to accept his bullet passes.

Nor has Jurecka of the Long-

Pony Win More Impressive Than Ivy-clad Legends For Rose Bowl, Says Scribe

By DAVIS J. WALSH I.N.S. Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Nov. 12. (INS)—It may be North Carolina, Texas Christian, Southern Methodist, Dartmouth, Syracuse, Holy Cross, or Marquette. But it won't be Princeton.

The Tiger, hailed by eastern critics as the "greatest team in the country" (it will be Lebanon Valley next), evidently are going to take it out in advertising. To every apparent and practical purpose, they will not be at the Rose Bowl, even if invited. Semi-official sentiment at Cambridge and New Haven indicated today that Harvard and Yale would be willing to waive the Big Three code, if Princeton was in the mood to accept.

"It would be up to Princeton," was Harvard's sentiment.

"Ditto," echoed Yale.

But Princeton says it is not open to argument on the subject. It has its studies to consider, and, besides, post season football smacks of "over-emphasis" and other sordid features. The freshmen, it seems, being young and ingenuous and not yet subject to the piping rock influence, are all for it. But the upper-classmen are quite certain that, at best, it would be a bit "undignified," to say the slightest.

So, as I said yesterday, the Rose Bowl people would be well advised to forget the Big Three legend. There may be no ivy-clad tradition about Syracuse, Marquette, North Carolina, Holy Cross, Southern Methodist, or Texas Christian. But they play real foot-on-the-face football, and, if I'm wrong again, it's only because of my extreme youth and the fact that I'm so readily impressed.

Nothing, as a matter of fact, could be more impressive than the score that came in over the wire.

Zetas, Tri Delt In Tennis Final

Zeta versus Tri-Delt will be the cry when these tennis teams, who eliminated their respective opponents Tuesday afternoon in the semi-finals in girls intramural tennis, face each other in finals next week.

Shudde Bess Bryson and Glenn Appling, playing for Zeta Tau Alpha, defeated the Kappa Alpha Theta team of Irma Cline and Jc Nash with a score of 3-6, 6-4, 9-7.

The Tri-Delts, Jane Anderson and Inez Granau, won their right to the finals by winning over Bernice Blackshear and Elizabeth Hord, independents, 2-6, 6-1, 6-2.

The semi-finals in tennis singles will be played Thursday at 2 o'clock on the terrace courts at Women's Gym, featuring Zeta vs. Theta, and Zeta vs. Tri-Delt.

Glenn Appling, Zeta, will be across the net from Dorothy Baldrige, Tri-Delt; Irma Cline, Theta, will oppose Shudde Bess Bryson, Zeta.

Presbyterians Win Title, 14-4

The Presbyterian ten won the club championship in intramural playground ball from the Tinnhorns yesterday with a 14 to 4 score. The fraternity division finals between Alpha Tau Omega and Phi Delta Theta are scheduled for today.

The Tinnhorns had a 2 to 1 lead over their opponents until the fourth inning, when the Presbyterians made 4 runs to change the pace. After that it was a one-sided show.

David Stitt, Presbyterian pitcher, was consistently steady in the box.

It read: Southern Methodist—21; U. C. L. A.—0.

The University Will Never Advance If It Walks Backwards

When one speaks of a machine he usually means a purely technological apparatus composed of things—cogs and horsepower—and operated by men.

But there is another kind of machine, just as evident in this generation, of a more monstrous and unthinking sort. This is the machine composed of men and operated by things. (Witness: "Things are in the saddle and ride mankind.")

The first type of machine functions under a system in which it is started, stopped, and directed by the individual human. The latter type operates under a system in which the machine controls the individual. It is most notorious in politics, but it exists throughout institutional society.

Its existence places a premium on authority dictated by a few over the many—on obedience of the many to orders by the few. It has no regard for the intelligence of masses. Those at the top know that to stay at the top they must be smarter than those at the bottom. Consequently, a chump rather than a scholar is chosen for fuel for this human machine.

A herd of sheep is a pretty good analogy for this kind of machine. An army relying on troops for power is an example.

The University was not established to prepare men for machine fuel—to fit humans into institutional grooves.

Rather was it built to be a reservoir for human character... individual initiative, creation, self-discipline, and personal leadership. The University is supposed to prepare men and women to solve the problems of a peaceful society; to follow the ideal of democracy and to furnish the conditions under which democracy might exist and be practical. Individual character is produced by freedom which will allow self-discipline. It is the basis of democracy.

Laws and rules of conduct do not generate character. They can only bridle action born out of a lack of character. Militarism is based on authority and rules of conduct. It was not designed to generate character. If it does so in some instances, that is secondary. Its primary purpose is to make a machine out of a mass of men. Militarism is only effective when men are submissive to the voice of authority.

We do not know that character can be taught, but we have been shown that character can be acquired—that it can be acquired in institutions of higher learning.

The University may not be able to teach character, but at least it can provide the conditions under which individual character can be acquired. Militarism can not even do that.

To be great, the University must go forward, not backward.

But the University will never go forward by weakening its ability to furnish the conditions under which individual character can be acquired. It cannot go forward through a process of restricting its academic freedom. It cannot advance by walking backward under the banner of conservatism or reaction.

To go forward the University must follow the light of liberalism. To advance it must walk forward, towards the ideal of academic and intellectual freedom.

From Our Readers

A GOOD SUGGESTION TO WAR ENTHUSIASTS

I want to take this opportunity to compliment you on the editorial "The Forgotten Soldier" on the front page of Sunday's The Daily Texan. I think it is most expressive, and very nearly conforms to the actual experiences of the soldier in war times. It should serve as a setback to the enthusiasm of those people who are interested in war and its calamities.

A GOOD SUGGESTION TO WAR ENTHUSIASTS

I want to take this opportunity to compliment you on the editorial "The Forgotten Soldier" on the front page of Sunday's The Daily Texan. I think it is most expressive, and very nearly conforms to the actual experiences of the soldier in war times. It should serve as a setback to the enthusiasm of those people who are interested in war and its calamities.

I would like to suggest for those people who are in sympathy with wars and who are anxious to fight or to see this nation engaged in war that they jerk targets during a rapid fire on a rifle range sometime.

GEORGE A. DAVISSON, JR., representative in the Legislature from Eastland.

chairman of the division on participation in meetings and exhibits.

Views of the University will be used as place cards at one of the dinners of the Federation, these having been furnished by Miss Heflin's committee through W. D. Hornaday of the department of publicity.

The Campus Reception Committee, of which Read Granberry is chairman, is arranging for the reception of groups of visitors who wish to inspect the University. Campus guides will be available at the office of Charles Zivley, manager of the Texas Union.

A greeting to the Federation from the University, prepared by DeWitt Reddick of the printed matter division, has been distributed to the visitors. The greeting carries a map of the University campus, views of the campus, a list of the museums and collections which may be seen, and the following greeting:

"We are pleased to have you again in Austin for your convention, and we are sure that you will find your visit a pleasant one. The University of Texas is, in a sense, your institution just as it is the institution of all who contribute to the upbuilding of the State through support of its government and its educational program. We would like for you to know it as we know it—its purposes and ideals as well as its physical aspects.

"We hope that during your visit to Austin you will find time to see some of the more interesting places on the campus. You are invited to visit the buildings and exhibits. If you would like to have a guide, one will be placed at your service free of charge at the manager's office in the Texas Union Building.

"Welcome!"

Convention Shows On Screen Tonight

Motion picture shots taken during the International Luther League Convention held on the University campus last August and attended by more than a thousand young people of the United States and Canada will be shown tonight at 8 o'clock at Saengerunde Hall, Carl Edward Bock, national treasurer of the International Luther League, announced Saturday. Mr. Bock is an ex-student of the University.

Cameras recorded the entire proceedings of the convention. The pictures are of special interest in that they show in full color principal points of interest in the city, including the Capitol, the O. Henry Museum, the old French Embassy, the Old Land Office, Lake Austin, Riverside Park, and Zilker Park.

An entire reel of the picture shows the flood of June 15. It includes views of the dam and of the torrent, the flooded sections of the city, and other interesting and unusual shots. The pictures will be used through the courtesy of the Austin Chamber of Commerce, and the showing of them tonight will be their first exhibition anywhere since they were made.
