AUSTIN, TEXAS, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1928.

“Good Morning”

Rally Tonight.
Absentee Vote.
Sousa Optimistic.
New Drive Soon.

WHAT Lynwood Boyett calls the shortest rally of the year will be held tonight at the Open Air Theater, beginning at 7:15.

Dean V. I. Moore will be the principal speaker for the rally. There are those who will say that since the game Saturday is with Rice that the Longhorns will not have much of a fight. But we never can tell. So-called “dope” about a football game is often upset. And we must stick by the team and let them know we are still there. Spare a few minutes tonight and attend the rally.

IN the totaling of the straw votes received today, it was shown that Al Smith is leading Hoover by a good many votes. The total for Smith is 138 while that for Mr. Hoover is 96.

But while we are taking a straw vote just to get some idea of what the campus opinion is, we should go further in our thoughts and send for our absentee voting ballots today. According to a statement from the County Clerk of Travis County yesterday, today is the last day to send in requests for the absentee ballots. The requests will be answered if the letter is postmarked October 25.

There is no reason why each student in the University who is entitled to vote in the general election November 6, should not exercise his right to suffrage. The vote of the educated person, or of those in the process of being educated, should be worth more than the vote of the illiterate.

ABOUT the most optimistic person we've heard of in a long time is now revealed in Lieutenant Commander John Philip Sousa, who in an interview with a Texan reporter yesterday said that he had signed a contract for 20 years when he is now 75 years of age.

Sousa has made a great name for himself as a band director and we only hope that he lives to fulfill the entire period of the contract—and longer.

TO BRING the total number of men up to the total number of women who are members of the Curtain Club, special tryouts for men will be held tonight. There is little reason why such a small amount of interest in this major organization should be shown that special tryouts will be a necessity. We urge that all men interested in dramatic work, report for the trials tonight.

THAT a drive on the campus among new students to raise the remainder of the fund needed in the ex-students Union campaign will soon be started is evidenced, though a definite date for such a drive has not yet been announced by officials. However, each new student should be thinking seriously about helping out in this huge undertaking, that they may have a part in the building of some of the campus' greatest and most-needed buildings.

DIRECTORY TO BE ISSUED NEXT WEEK

The student directory should be off the press by the first week in November, according to Mrs. Faith Perry, editor of the official publications. Work on the directory is going forward as fast as possible but there is some information which has not yet come in.

Some of the faculty members have not yet turned in their record cards and other information is lacking due to the failure of students to supply it completely upon registration. The co-operation of the people possessing the needed information is asked in getting out the directory on time.

HOSPITAL LIST

Thirteen students are on the hospital list this week; at Seton Infirmary are: Helen Storey, Vivian McCormack, Jacqueline Nisbet, Joe Collier, Jack Burks, Charles Kish, Charles Nichols, Norris Williams; at St. David's Hospital: John Wolf, Tati Loop, Virg Gardner, Gerald Veltman.

MCDONALD CASE RE-OPENS MONDAY STUDENTS ASSEMBLE TONIGHT FOR RICE RALLY

TALK ILLUSTRATED

Members of Faculty Praise Campus Visitor

Miss Frances Toor, of the University of Mexico, will deliver an illustrated lecture at Garrison Hall this evening at 8 o'clock. The topic of the address will be “Mexican Folk Customs and Art.”

“Miss Toor is highly thought of by members of the faculty who are interested in her type of work,” says Dr. Aaron Shaffer, of the department of Romance languages and chairman of the University public lecture committee.

Professor J. E. Pearce, professor of anthropology, thinks her periodical called, “Mexican Folk Ways” contributes greatly to the general fund of information on Mexican customs, and is of value to the student of Mexican anthropology.

Professor J. Frank Dobie, of the department of English, considered an authority on southwestern folk-lore, also expressed himself as being favorably impressed by Miss Toor's contributions to the study of Mexican customs.

COMMUNITY CHEST REPORTS $651.50

Faculty members and students on the campus had subscribed $651.50 at noon Wednesday in the Austin Community Chest drive, a report made by Dean J. Anderson Fitzgerald indicated. Fitzgerald is campus chairman in the campaign.

REQUESTS FOR ABSENTEE BALLOTS FOR NOVEMBER ELECTION MUST BE PRESENTED BEFORE NOVEMBER 3

Today is the last day that non-resident students can request absentee ballots from the county clerk of their home county. In order to be able to vote in the coming election, the application must be postmarked not later than today, according to information received from the local county clerk's office. These ballots must be back in the county clerk's office in the place of the absentee's residence not later than November 3 in order to be counted.

In case of the student not being able to present a poll tax receipt, an affidavit will have to be secured through the county clerk of the county in which the student resides.

STATISTICIANS HEAR ADDRESS BY G. M. LEWIS

University Livestock Specialist Traces Markets

George M. Lewis, livestock specialist of the University Bureau of Business Research, gave a talk on “Cycles in the Livestock Industry,” at a meeting of the Austin chapter of the American Statistical Association, yesterday at 1 o'clock at the University Commons.

Lewis traced the movements of the livestock source to market, showing the seasonal variations; and proved by statistics that the cattle market was at a maximum in the fall, while the market for sheep was comparatively uniform. He showed the value and purchasing power of different forms of livestock throughout a period of 40 years.

“In the case of sheep,” Lewis stated, “there exists cycles of about eight year's duration, due to certain economic and sociological reasons.”

Lewis demonstrated points in his talk by means of mounted charts and diagrams showing the rise and fall of cattle production and values, and maps by which he revealed the differences in the production and consumption of the different areas.

At the close of the talk, an informal discussion was held in which the members were given an opportunity to question Lewis regarding facts he had presented.

Initiation Delayed When Neophytes Fail to Appear

Due to the fact that all the neophytes of the “T” Association did not report at Z Hall Wednesday morning, the initiation scheduled for 11 o'clock was postponed.

The future date of the initiation will be announced later, Bill Ford, president of the Association, stated.

The postponed initiation was due to a misunderstanding of the members about the meeting place, Ford said.

MEN TO TRY TONIGHT FOR CURTAIN CLUB

Special Tryouts Held To Equal Women And Men

Because the Curtain Club wishes to have the number of men in the organization and the number of women in the organization approximately equal and because fewer men than women were taken into the club at the regular tryouts, a special opportunity will be given men who are interested in dramatics to try out for membership in the organization.

The tryouts will be held this Thursday evening in the Curtain Club studio in S Hall and are to consist of a three-minute selection from some standard prose play. If two men wish to try out together, a six-minute selection is to be chosen. For further information, students interested have been asked to call Steele Kennedy, president of the club, at the Pi Kappa Alpha house.

DEAN MOORE'S PEP TALK IS MAIN FEATURE

Thirty-Minute Rally Will Begin At 7:15

TEAM TO TALK

Squad Leaves Friday Morning for Houston

Dean V. I. Moore will be the main speaker on the program for the “Reck Rice Rally” tonight at 7:15 at the Open Air Theater, according to Lynwood Boyett, head yell leader.

“This will be the shortest, snappiest rally of the year, and won't last over 30 minutes,” Boyett said, “and we want every loyal student of the University to be there to show the team we're behind them with the old fighting spirit.”

The band will parade before the rally and will play several selections after they reach their gathering.

“Following the band's selections and Dean Moore's speech, the team will be presented to the student body and some of the grid stars will probably be called on for short talks,” Boyett said.

The team will leave Friday morning for Houston.

TURTLE CLUB WILL MEET AT 5 TODAY

Kinsolving Funeral To Be Held Saturday At All Saints Chapel

Funeral services for the Rt. Rev. George Herbert Kinsolving, 79, bishop of the diocese of Texas, Protestant Episcopal Church, will be held Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock from the All Saints Chapel. The body will be interred at the Oakland Cemetery.

Bishop Kinsolving had been in failing health for several years. He died Tuesday night at 11:30 o'clock, following a heart attack.

Through the efforts of Bishop and Mrs. Kinsolving, Grace Hall, dormitory for girls attending the University, was erected. The hall was named in honor of the wife of the deceased.

Bishop Kinsolving was born in Bedford County, Virginia, April 28, 1849. He attended the University of Virginia, graduating in 1869. Five years later he graduated from the Episcopal Seminary at Alexandria, Virginia, and the same year was ordained a deacon of the Episcopal church. The following year he was made a priest.

He then became assistant minister in Christ Church, Baltimore; in 1875 he was made rector of Saint Mark's, Baltimore, and in 1878, was called to Saint John's Church in Cincinnati, Ohio. He met Miss Grace Jagger, whom he married in 1879. In 1881 he accepted the rectorship of the church of the Epiphany, Philadelphia, becoming prominent in the affairs of the diocese of Pennsylvania.

At the council of the diocese held in 1892, owing to the infirmity of Bishop Alexander Gregg, first bishop of Texas, Kinsolving was elected assistant of the diocese. Immediately after his consecration during the general convention, he came to Texas and has since resided in Austin.

Upon the death of Bishop Gregg on July 11, 1893, Bishop Kinsolving was made bishop of Texas. Until 1918, he had complete charge of the diocese. Much of the growth of the church is due to his splendid leadership.

The Reverend Clinton S. Quinn, now bishop of Texas, became coadjutor bishop of the diocese in 1918, due to the failing health of Bishop Kinsolving. However, Bishop Kinsolving was active in the work of the diocese, attending the Council of 1927 in Houston, and the one held in Austin in 1928.

Bishop Kinsolving's only son, W. Ovid Kinsolving, a graduate of the University and member of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity, is rector of Calvary Church, Summit, New Jersey. The three brothers of Bishop Kinsolving are also in the ministry of the Episcopal church: the Rt. Reverend Lucien Lee Kinsolving, bishop of South America, Brazil, The Reverend Arthur B. Kinsolving, rector of Saint Paul's Church, Baltimore; and the Reverend Wythe L. Kinsolving, a faculty member of Union College, Barbourville, Kentucky.

Dr. Eby attends MEET IN NEBRASKA

A short business meeting of the Zeta chapter of Sigma Delta Pi, honorary Spanish fraternity, is announced for tonight by Fritz Hoffman, president. The meeting is called at 7:15 o'clock in room 100, Garrison Hall. Immediately following the meeting, the chapter will attend Frances Toor's lecture on “Mexican Folk Customs and Art.”

Texan Straw Vote Indicates Students Favor ‘Liquor Man’

If the straw vote now being cast by students of the University is indicative of their desires, the students favor light wines and beers and cutaway coats with striped trousers and derbies.

When the votes were counted last night, Smith was leading by a majority of 40 votes. The count now stands, Smith, 138; Hoover, 96.

The votes are not coming in very rapidly. If the voting is to be representative of the student body, a representative number of students must vote, Texan editors point out.

To vote: clip the ballot in The Texan address it to the Daily Texan, and drop it in any faculty mail box or in the U. S. Mail.

HEIRS CONTEST WILL ON BASIS OF INSANITY

Fund for Observatory Involved in Case

BENEDICT ATTENDS

DuPriest Will Assist Pollard for University

Whether the University will receive a bequest of $1,250,000 for the erection of an astronomical laboratory and observatory, finally may be decided Monday when retrial of the McDonald will case is held in the Sixty-second District court in Paris.

Attorney General Claude Pollard, Assistant Attorney General Allen Clark, and Special Investigator John DuPriest will represent the University in the trial. President H. Y. Benedict also will attend the trial.

The will of W. J. McDonald, Paris banker, left approximately $1,250,000 to the University to be used in establishing an astronomical laboratory in which research work would be carried on. Heirs of McDonald contested the will, claiming that McDonald had been of unsound mind at the time he made the will leaving the observatory fund to the University.

In the first trial the will was sustained in favor of the University, but the contesting heirs appealed the case; grounds for their appeal being that the court refused to submit to the jury the charge that McDonald was mentally deranged when the will was made. The Supreme Court sustained the error made by the trial court, and ordered retrial of the case. Plaintiffs recently requested change of venue, but this was denied, and the case was set for retrial in the district court at Paris August 20.

Postponement of the case until October 29 was necessitated when attorneys representing the contestants of the will were physically unable to participate in the trial.

The contestants were granted a motion of continuance by Judge Newman Phillips, who announced that it would be taken up at a special session to be called in October.

Whether McDonald was mentally capable of making a will at the time he executed it, is the issue in the case. Stating that McDonald had had delusions, the contestants of the will contend that he was incapable of drawing up the will.

SPORT TALK

By BOB CANTRELL
Texas Sports Editor

Talk of an easy win over Rice is about the worst thing that can happen to the Steers this week. It will send them into the game overconfident, and the Owls will be fighting with the opening whistle, and with the Longhorns overconfident, the Owls would have an opportunity to slip up on the Steers. It was in 1924 that the Owls slipped up on a superior Steer team and whipped their ears down. This would be disastrous for the Steers this year, and Owls have been winning every other game—and they lost last Saturday.

Shorty Alderson's slimes start their 1928 season this afternoon in Brenham against the charges of Siki Sikes, former Aggie end. The Brenham club has run up a total of 233 points, while their opponents have been unable to even register a single tally. It certainly looks like a tough assignment for the frosh. Shorty will take a powerful line, a fast backfield, and ends that can tackle and snare passes like all get out.

Harvey Blanton, Steer cross-country captain last year, and a miler on Clyde Littlefield's track team, is going to school at Johns Hopkins at Baltimore this year, and at the same time teaching in one of the institutions. Harvey is working out on the cinder path daily, and reports that he is getting to where the mile seems like a mere dash to him.

This afternoon sees the beginning of another intramural tennis tourney with one of the largest entry lists in the history of intramurals. Naturally, Berry M. Whitaker is tickled. The more men in the race, the better he likes it.

The ranking of the Varsity tennis squad as given out by Dr. D. A. Penick, Varsity coach. This ranking puts Berkeley Bell in No. 1 place with Bruce Barnes, Louis Ferguson, and Hugh Dunlap, captain, coming in the order named. There are 23 men on the Varsity squad at present, and following the four named above come a string of men trying for Varsity for the first time. Among these are two men who will give the rest of the squad plenty of trouble before the year is over; they are Lucien LaCoste and Earl Taylor.

The ranking of the first ten are:
Berkeley Bell,
Bruce Barnes,
Louis Ferguson,
Hugh Dunlap,
Lucien LaCoste,
Earl Taylor,
John Caldwell,
John Johnson,
Piggy Minchen,
John Elmon.

St. Eds travels up to Waco to meet the rampaging Baylor Bears this week-end. The Bears will be the favorites to cop the clash, but then the Saints will be hard to down. Meagher has built up a powerful team on the hill, and is going after the Texas Conference championship.

Justa Cartwright will go to San Antonio for the week-end, where she will visit Miss Maria Taylor, former student of the University and member of the Phi Beta Phi sorority.

Longhorns Work for Rice, S. M. U. Clashes; Owls Not a Set-Up

Rice Develops
Pass Attack
For Steer
Clash

Secret practice and plenty of hard work was the menu handed the Steers yesterday afternoon by their mentors. From the time that they started to work about 3:30 o'clock until time was called out at a few minutes of 6 o'clock, every man on the squad was going at top speed. The trio of Texas coaches were working their charges on defects brought to light in the Arkansas game before scrimmage with a select group of freshmen was started.

A steadfast refusal to take the Rice game lightly has caused the players and coaches to put in one of the hardest weeks of work that they have gone through with this season. Realizing that the Owls will be fighting for an upset and a win, Texas hasn't forgotten when the Owls slipped up and trimmed a superior Texas team in 1924, and Rothgeb has been driving his men hard for the Saturday clash.

The Owls have a varied attack, as was shown in the S. M. U. game last week-end. They opened up a passing attack on the Ponies that netted them two touchdowns, and kept the Mustang line guessing about their line plays. Spud Braden, a south-paw passer, was hurling passes in a way that kept the Ponies in a constant sweat, but his men were unable to get away from the blanketing defense thrown out by the Mustangs.

Besides working for the Rice game, Texas has already started a defense for the pass-throwing Ponies, and an attack, which will in all probability be held in reserve Saturday. Plays which have been worked on all year will be brought to light by the Longhorns when they clash with the Mustangs. Passes, fakes, and line plays that are reeled off with dazzling rapidity will alternately thrill and chill a crowd that is expected to reach 30,000.

The Owls at a passing glance seem to be a set-up, but no team in the conference ever proves to be one for Texas. No matter what kind of ball they may have been playing against other teams,

Margaret Wolsey from Fort Worth, a former student of the University and a member of the Phi Beta Phi sorority spent the past week-end with her sister, Adele Houssels.

Phi Beta Phi will entertain with a dance at the Country Club November 9 for all members and their guests. The Seven Aces from Fort Worth will furnish the music.

TEXAS NETMEN CONTINUE TO LEAD WINNERS

Quarter Finals in Singles; Second
Round Doubles

Second round doubles and quarter final singles will be completed in the All-City Tennis Tournament at Penick Courts today, beginning at 2 o'clock. Members of the Varsity squad continued to take the leading role in the play yesterday, with members of the freshman and ineligible squads coming in for their share of the victories.

The Barnes-Ferguson game, one of the best matches of the day, was called yesterday because of darkness and will be finished today. Barnes had won the first set, and Ferguson the second. Wilmer Allison and Berkeley Bell, famous in national tennis circles, were among the victors yesterday in the doubles matches. Allison and Caswell defeated Goldstein and Mantor, 6-3, 6-3, while Bell and Stacey won over Wukasch and Oliver, 6-3, 6-4. Consolation rounds will probably begin Saturday.

Complete results of yesterday's play were: Singles, Taylor defeated Caldwell, 6-1, 6-0; Darby defeated Caswell, 6-1, 6-2; Doubles, Allison and Caswell defeated Goldstein and Mantor, 6-3, 6-3; Harrison and Scarborough defeated Dunlap and Altman, 6-4, 6-1; Barnes and Kamrath defeated Brazelton and Wise, 6-0, 6-1; Bell and Stacey defeated Wukasch and Oliver 6-3, 6-4; Taylor and LaCoste defeated Anderson and Williams 6-1, 6-2.

Every Steers is in the best of shape, with the exception of Red Wray and Pinky Higgins. Red's ankle is still a bit sore from the injury received in the Vanderbilt game, and Higgins suffered a shoulder injury in the Arkansas clash. Should Red be unable to make the grade, Mac Burnett will be able to step in and fill his shoes acceptably.

In the backfield, Texas will have three all-conference possibilities in Captain Rufus King, Ed Beular, and Dexter Shelley. King is a great passer, and gets more pleasure out of ripping an opposing line to shreds than the average player does out of making a nice tackle. Beular is good at breaking off tackle, and once he gets in an open field—somebody certainly will have a tough time stopping him. Dexter Shelley has taken over the punting for the Steers, and he seems to be doing a good job of it. He booted the ball all over the field Saturday—and then he booted the extra point after two of Texas' three touchdowns.

STAR KICKER

Dexter Shelley, whose kicking, passing, and running in the game Saturday afternoon brought visions of Oscar Eckhardt to Texas fans. Not since the days of Os has there been a man to get off such punts as Shelley sent zooming down the field yesterday.

stein and Mantor, 6-3, 6-3, while Bell and Stacey won over Wukasch and Oliver, 6-3, 6-4.

Complete results of yesterday's play were: Singles, Taylor defeated Caldwell, 6-1, 6-0; Darby defeated Caswell, 6-1, 6-2; Doubles, Allison and Caswell defeated Goldstein and Mantor, 6-3, 6-3; Harrison and Scarborough defeated Dunlap and Altman, 6-4, 6-1; Barnes and Kamrath defeated Brazelton and Wise, 6-0, 6-1; Bell and Stacey defeated Wukasch and Oliver 6-3, 6-4; Taylor and LaCoste defeated Anderson and Williams 6-1, 6-2.

FRESHMEN MEET BLINN IN OPENING GAME OF SEASON

Sikes Develops Mighty
Team in First
Year

By VAN FLEET

Coach C. J. (Shorty) Alderson will leave from Z Hall this morning at 7:30 o'clock with 24 freshmen in a special bus, to go to Brenham, where the Sikes-coached Blinn Memorial College football team will be encountered. This will be the first game of the season for the frosh, and though they are doped to lose, Alderson welcomes the game so that he may find out just how much fight his charges can muster.

The freshmen will be handicapped by not having been thoroughly drilled in their plays, for until the last few days they have been used only for the benefit of Varsity and have not had the time for plays of their own.

The team will be led by Big "Ox" Blanton, newly elected captain of the slimes. Blanton is one of the best freshman tackles seen on a local gridiron in several years, and will be ready to step into a regular berth on the Varsity next year.

Sikes has developed a strong football team at Brenham, and has won all of his first games without letting the opponents score. The total score looks something like 233-0, with the average running better than fifty points to the game.

Those who are making the trip are: Simkins, C. Tyson, Butts and Allen, as ends; Blanton, Moody, Youngblood, and Roschelle as tackles; Van Zandt, Leslie, Calkins, and Wright as guards; Howle, Schultze, and Braley as centers; Priory, H. Tyson, Baumgarten, Brown, Birdwell, White, Lewis, Berr, Bassett, and Rheinstein, as backs.

FEW SEATS REMAIN FOR AGGIE GAME

Frances McClellan, Hazel Mockbee, and Cornelia Gregory from the Phi Phi house will attend the Texas-Rice game in Houston this week-end.

HARRIERS MEET RICE SATURDAY

When that seven-man cross-country team from the University hits Herman Park course in Houston Saturday morning, there is going to be trouble for certain runners of the Institute of the Grain, according to Coach Roy McLean.

"We have one of the best teams in the conference this year," the harrier mentor stated, "and this team to receive favorable tryouts are Caldwell (captain), Guffin, and Westerfeldt."

Only two freshman of last year, Caldwell and Guffin, have a place with the team for Saturday's race, but the five new men are showing up so well in the daily run at the Country Club course that the coach has high hopes for the outcome.

The team selected from the 19 tryouts are, Caldwell (captain), Bowen, Levi, Johnson, Schmidley, Guffin, and Westerfeldt.

What Do You Know About—
By J. C. WATKINS
1. Al Smith's Stand?
2. Hunger Strike?
3. Zeppelin's Trip?
4. Evsiyn?

Much pungent comment and satire can be expected from Governor Smith in the next few days in answer to Hoover's charges, reports indicate. The Republican candidate declared in New York Monday night that Smith was abandoning the tenets of his own party and turning to state socialism as a solution of the present issues confronting the country. This speech closed Mr. Hoover's eastern campaign.
Governor Smith opened his fight in the east last night in Boston. Reports given out to newspapers before the speech indicated that he would challenge Mr. Hoover to present a better plan in dealing with farm relief, water power, and prohibition. He planned to tell his audience that in regard to the prohibition question his stand was unchanged—to allow each state that so desires to permit the sale of liquor. His stand on the public control of water power is also unchanged. He intended to bring out more fully his ideas on farm relief.
A volcanic campaign finish for Smith is forecast by all. He is known as a whirlwind finisher, one who could be beaten a month before election only to emerge victorious in the final week. His last speech will be made in New York City the Saturday night preceding the election.

Charles Smith had to cut a new hole in his belt yesterday. As president of the American Society for the Advancement of Atheism, Smith began this morning the eighth successive day of his hunger strike in a cell of the Little Rock city jail. He was arrested as the result of his activities against a proposed anti-evolution act to be voted on in Arkansas next month.
President Smith yesterday presented a rather disheveled figure, according to reports, with a 12 pound loss in weight and a week's growth of beard. No attempt is being made to force him to eat, and Smith declares that he will continue his hunger strike until the election, two weeks hence. Meanwhile a storm of protest is being aroused over the country by his treatment, and a Baptist minister in Little Rock is undertaking the defense of this man who was jailed because someone forgot that free speech existed in the United States.

The giant Graf Zeppelin is in shipshape condition for its western flight, and only awaits the word of Dr. Hugo Eckener to start. Yesterday Dr. Eckener was on his way from Chicago to Lakehurst, New Jersey, where the air liner is moored.

Navy and Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation mechanics have spent the past week in repairing the damage done to the port stabilizing fin of the great ship. The hydrogen tanks have been inflated to capacity and the fuel tanks filled with the "blue gas" which the engines require. The ship should start west today or tomorrow.

Then there is the strange case of the man who doesn't like to be kissed. No, Dora, he lives in Memphis.

Yesterday Evelyn Lancer, pretty Memphis maiden, tried to kiss him, police report, and she faces a charge of disorderly conduct.

The man faces a like charge because he knocked Evelyn down when she attempted it.

46 STUDENTS LEAVE AFTER REGISTERING
Reports from the Registrar's office show that 46 students went through registration and then neglected to pay their fees, thereby automatically dropping them from the University rolls.
Each fall approximately the same number of students fail to continue in school after registration, it was stated.

Gold Miller, Billy Barr, Jimmy Barr, and Jim Hauser visited at the Phi Gamma Delta house last Sunday.

CLASS OF '32—AN OPPORTUNITY

During the coming basketball season, they tell us, the Longhorn team will play its games in the gymnasium of the Deaf and Dumb Institute, and those who wish to see the team in action will have to attend the athletic contests there. This reminds us that after this season the home of the basketball games will be the splendid new Gymnasium which is to be part of the University Union group. As yet construction has not commenced on the proposed Gymnasium but the structure has been assured by the wonderful success of the Union Campaign last spring. It has occurred to those who participated in that drive that further funds would make possible certain improvements over the already well-developed plans for the three buildings. Those who gave their bit last May, of course, have already fulfilled their obligation as "Texas-minded" students. The new students, freshmen and transfers, to whose benefit the Union will largely inure, have, as far as may be ascertained from the expressions of a great number of individuals, viewed with approval; and have, by their general spirit of enthusiasm, given indications that they, too, are minded to express in concrete form their newly-formed allegiance to the University of Texas.

It would seem extremely appropriate at this time for the future leaders of the campus to sound the opinion of the new group on the subject, and if sentiment favors, for them to take steps leading to the organization of the freshman class for the purpose of furthering the good cause. Moreover, the project would afford an opportunity for the organization of the freshmen as a class. The University has not in the past been noted for any great solidarity of class spirit. The size of the school has been, perhaps, the main obstacle in the way of such organization. And yet, for the freshman class to unite as a group, for them to know each other and learn to work together for a common end, would be of incalculable value to the members individually and as a whole. To combine in a unity of interest and effort and stand as a solid phalanx as the class of '32 would give them a strength and lend them prestige which would mark them as possessing a superiority over their predecessors.

Whether the class can produce the necessary leaders to accomplish this end, whether they are endowed with that initiative which is so essential to the successful achievement of any object, is a matter which remains to be seen. Inactivity, listlessness, and lack of interest can brand them as passive followers, just as energy, aggressiveness, and accomplishment can single them out as men and women of spirit. The opportunity, at any rate, is not lacking. By the results they achieve and the advantage they take, the older generation of the school may judge their worth.

MOVIES AND THE CRITICISM OF OUR SCHOOLS

The ideas of Mr. Average Man as to our modern higher educational institutions would be in every instance highly amusing were it not for the fact that at times those mistaken ideas lead to a serious and destructive criticism. Mr. Average Man goes to the movies. It is a college picture. The Rah Rah Boys of old Siwash are cavorting in ecstasy over a football victory over their ancient and bitter rival, or are drinking themselves to forgetfulness over a minor love affair, or are burning buildings, or in general going awry of the law. They are interested only in "whooping it up." Mr. Average Man laughs heartily, thus assuring the show of its success, and then goes home to think "So this is what I'm spending my money for on that son of mine."

And thus can be perceived the start of much of the adverse criticism that is tearing away the public support of our educational institutions. The movies are out for that laugh. They cannot afford to show the dreary perseverance that it takes in most instances to pass a college course. They cannot afford to portray on the silver sheet the many hours a day each student must put on his books. They must make his every day interesting by boisterous carryings-on. The fact that those who come to college for things other than education are taken care of by rules which call for a high standard of work, giving as the alternative expulsion, is not made known. But Mr. Average man is usually right in sending his highly treasured son to a university. It is not contended that that university will make of his son a book-worm, nor is that the purpose of a school. But that son will usually get from his school training an education that will better fit him for life—a training that will place living in the future on a higher plane.

The fact that the college man is first in line for a responsible position is a criterion of the value of an education. The fact that most people admit that a college education will be a necessity for everybody in the future is another. So, Mr. Average Man, let's get our laugh from the movies and from college stories, but let's accept them only for their value in making us laugh. Let's have that faith in our sons and in our schools that they really merit. Let's remember that the college student is not the cynosure of frivolity. Remembering these things, let's further remember that the difficulty of a task is greatly multiplied by adverse and unjustified criticism and let's support our institutions.

WITH OR AGAINST?

Apparent cold and impersonal countenance of an instructor is often a deception. More often than not that frigid and unappreciative attitude exists only as a product of the student's imagination.
The new student coming to a university, from high schools in most cases, where he stood up every time he was asked to recite, and where he almost forgot that he had any other name than Jack, or more soberly John,—that student makes a big jump. He bridges a gap, the depth of which is seldom realized. Jack becomes Mr. so-and-so. Trivial it seems at first glance, and often at all glances thereafter. The transition is so evident, so expected, and so taken for granted in university that the consequences are often reduced to the modicum of importance.

Coming to college is not necessarily a signification of maturity. There are many who have not passed the proverbial "teen" age group, and observation indicates that every year the average age of the college student is being pounded down. Yet, while college and maturity are far from being synonymous, undeniably the young person entering college is taking a step into different social relationship and into a different age group. Ideas of the individual in that group are less volatile. They are far from being without fault, but there is a general character and import of substantiality.

Instructors realize this but their attentions are so multiple, their duties so far-reaching, and their responsibilities so burdensome, that the cold and impersonal attitude of which they are unjustly accused, is groundless. They are no different inwardly than an ordinary high school instructor. Their sympathies have not been blinked. Their position simply prevents them from displaying that feeling.

To the freshman, sometimes this fact is never clear. The attitude toward transition from high school into college may be the portent of failure in university. Lack of understanding of the situation sometimes creates nothing except a sporting theory of class work, a theory whereby the student plays his cards against those of the instructor, rather than with those of the instructor.—Daily Nebraskan.

SHERIFF "UG" BARNABY

SYNOPSIS—

"Ug" Barnaby is working out the mystery of who hanged the 15 men on one strand of rope. He suspected Gladiola Hoskins because he had found her spur under the tree from which the men were hanged. She was absorbed by the statement of Archie toward whom the finger of suspicion next pointed. Later Gladiola disappears with Cockeye Harry, the cattle rustler. During the man-hunt Archie faints when he sees the Catamount.

Chapter VIII—In which Gladiola and Cockeye Harry are found.

The man-hunt continued. Up hill and down dale they chased like cute little bloodhounds. They poked about among the bushes and succeeded in scaring up nothing but a few listless rattlesnakes, much too sluggish to bother to strike. The men dispatched them with the most blood-thirsty attitude imaginable. They imagined that these snakes were Cockeye Harry. Oh, how they would have liked to nick his bean for him.

They scoured the country-side for miles and miles and finally gathered beside Old Man Hoskins' diggin's to discuss ways and means for further search. A check-up showed only two men missing and that was pretty good for such a desperate party. It was expected that they had lost their way in the hills and would return some time the next week.

As they were standing about outside the cabin with talk of vigilantes and neck-tie parties running through the crowd, a speck of dust could be seen coming down over the nearest hill. The speck of dust moved closer and closer until it was right upon them and then they were able to discover what it was.

It was a buggy from Everett's Stables over at Podunk Center. The horse was stepping high, wide and handsome, and he was hitched to the best rig that Everett could furnish. Visitors were rather rare in these hills and much interest and speculation was manifested by the crowd as to whom this might be.

Guess who it was, children? Guess who. It was Gladiola and Cockeye Harry dressed in their Sunday best. They cantered up and Cockeye jumped out before the lowering crowd and helped Gladiola to the ground in a very flurry of fountains. They sauntered over to Old Man Hoskins and Cockeye spoke. He had to talk quickly or perish.

THE BAND

Looking well and playing well the University band is a very good advertisement for the University. Yesterday at the track meet they made a brave showing, and led a succession of 'James McGills,' each a note in the song of victory, that colored a happy sports day. Today—who knows—they may be able to lead a chant of victory in McGill's second intercollegiate game of the year.
The band has been working hard, and has acquired a repertoire of music that shows a considerable advance over last year. Credit is due to the leader, Ray Caron, and credit is due to the members of the band for their consistent practice. They have earned their annual trip to Kingston—a trip they make to help the red team triumph over the formidable Queens team when at home.—McGill Daily.

NON-SMOKERS ONLY

Because of the edict against smoking on the campus, most of the students are forced to go behind the park building road when they wish to smoke. The smoking ground behind the park building is not actually off the campus, but the gesture of stepping across the road before lighting up indicates respect for the ruling, and is thus equivalent to walking the half-mile from the park to the gates before smoking.

But the students who smoke behind the park are put to great discomfort and inconvenience. For them there are the problems of how to get an inhalation and still make their classes on time; of how to avoid sore throats from dust and dirt in dry weather; and of how to avoid colds from exposure in wet weather. Smokers are denied the relaxation of reclining, or even of sitting as they smoke. The whole system is a major irritation to several hundred smoking students.—Utah Chronicle.

ANOTHER SCHOOL CLAIMS COSMOPOLITANISM

Ohio State's student population of more than ten thousand may well boast of being cosmopolitan. Although 90 per cent of the students are from Ohio, with every county represented, 16 foreign countries, representing North and South America, Europe, and Asia, have helped bolster the University's registration until it is one of the six largest in the nation.

Forty-three American states are represented on the campus. Other students claim Spain, Austria, Czechoslovakia, India, Java, Japan, China, the Philippines, Hawaii, the Canal Zone, Argentina, Peru, Columbia, the Dominican Republic, Mexico, and Canada as their homes.

With 16 students, the Chinese delegation is the largest of those from outside the United States. The Philippine contingent ranks second in size.—Ohio State Lantern.

WE'D LIKE TO MEET SOME OF THESE

The use of hip flasks by Canadian women students was deplored as one of the social plagues of Canadian life by a gathering of French speaking surgeons at their annual convention at Quebec.

The medical men declared that if the new fashion is to prevail, the dignity, virtue, and mental state of Canadian girls is in real peril. They passed resolutions which asked the government to prohibit the sale of hip flasks as it already does the sale of dangerous firearms, and that liquor advertisements be suppressed.—Carnegie Tartan.

marine band and the formation of his own band, which he has directed for many years.

"My profession," he stated, "has at length become established. When I was young, a band was considered the lowest type of musical organization. Now, my organization has 23 college graduates playing in it."

"I wouldn't change my profession at all. Music seems to me to be one of the vital things in life. It takes a part in all phases of human existence. Then, too, I could not afford to change my job. It pays me far better than any other would."

On being questioned as to his political stand, he answered, "Music and politics are poor bedfellows. I will say though that I have been a Republican all my life. My father often said that he could not see how I could be his son and a Republican both. He was a most staunch Democrat."

According to Sousa, his rehearsals are very strict. He tells this story of his own violent temper. "There was a Belgian musician—and a fine one too—in my band a few years ago," he recounted. "He insisted on playing a certain piece of music in a certain way. When I corrected him, he listened superciliously and told me that he had played it with the composer. Losing my customary meekness," he added, with a sly grin, "I shouted at him 'Get the so-and-so out of here and go and play it with the composer.'"

The bandmaster thought a moment, and then added, "He got, too."

Sousa was born in Washington, D. C. in 1854. His father was Spanish-Antonio Sousa, by name. After the interview, and as he rode down in the elevator to the barber shop, he said that he would be 75 years old on his birthday Tuesday week—election day. He added, "And I've just signed a 20-year contract. Surely, why I'll only be 95 then!"

Here tonight, Friday matinee and Friday night. This is the farewell tour (?). The question mark means we hope it isn't, for "Abie's Irish Rose" is a thing that ought to go on and on, just as it has for the past six years. At the Hancock.

"ALBANY NIGHT BOAT," being nothing very much more than a regular old rip snorter of a fight over Oliver Borden, think of it, bettering anything yet canned in celluloid. It's a story about a man who was chivalrous to his wife, and there's something to think about. At the Crescent. Reviewed today.

"THE LATEST FROM PARIS," laughter piece starring Norma Shearer in several intriguing scenes. Bert Roach, the funny fat man, is in it. And the round trip passes to Houston are awarded tonight. At the Texas theater.

COMING: "SUBMARINE," an epic of the underseas. October 30. At the Hancock.

"THE SINGING FOOL." Al Jolson. November 4. At the Queen.

COMEDY CLASSIC PRESENTED WITH STAR CAST TODAY

"Abie's Irish Rose" Is Opener for Drama At Hancock

Anne Nichols' play, "Abie's Irish Rose" is at the Hancock today and tomorrow, definitely opening the season for stage presentations in Austin. It is a stage play and not a movie.

Critics gave it two weeks to run when it first appeared on Broadway, and much to everyone's surprise, it broke all existing records by running six consecutive years and then was put on the road, where it has enjoyed long runs.

"Abie's Irish Rose" is the wonder play of the age and aside from making an immense fortune for its author-manager, has placed her name in the hall of fame for writing and building a play that has and is making more theatrical

ANNE NICHOLS, the girl playwright who did and dared and won. She wrote a play. The darned old producers refused it, so she up and produced it herself. It's "Abie's Irish Rose," opening at the Hancock tonight.

ALL-TALKIE AT QUEEN

THIS ought to remind you of "The Phantom of the Opera." It's a scene from "The Terror," an all-talking movie now at the Queen theater, home of all the talkies. See if you can find May McAvoy being terrified.

history than any play ever written, in that it has made records never equalled and probably never will be, for lengthy runs and financial returns, in the larger cities of the United States and Canada.

The comedy has for its theme the difficulties of a young married couple, a Jewish boy and an Irish girl, whose fathers try to separate them on account of different religious faiths. It sounds simple, but it is a play crammed with laughs and clean humor.

The cast, the same which presented the play here two years ago, is a thorough metropolitan one, believe it or not! We gleam that a complete reproduction of the original New York stage settings and costumes will be used. We think it is a play well worth seeing and personally, I wouldn't miss it. I did two years ago, but this time there shall be no regrets.—J. L. H.

GOOD FIGHT MAKES FILM AT CRESCENT

The very, very best stage fight we have ever seen makes the picture which is showing at the Crescent theater last times today. Olive Borden has the lead and is the one fought over. The picture is entitled "The Albany Night Boat."

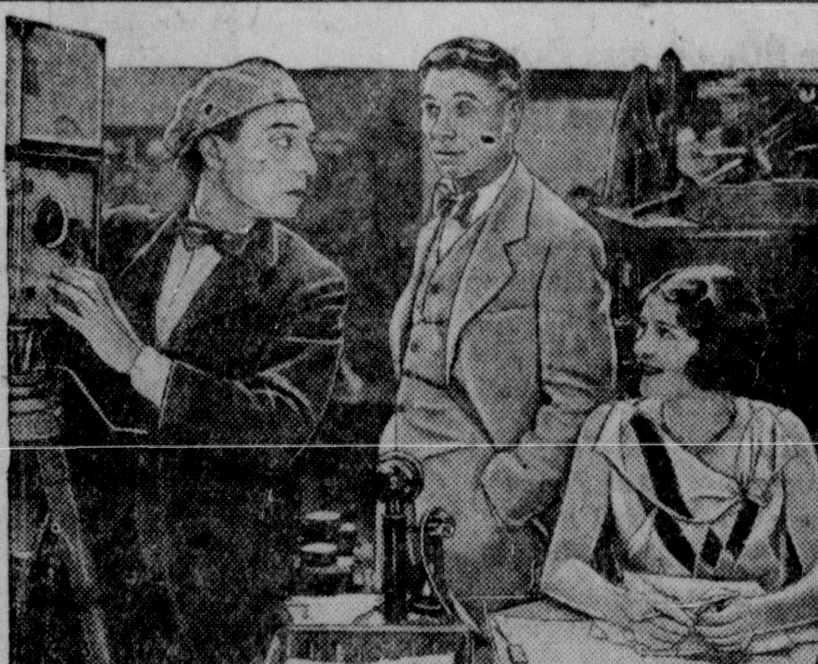

One Ralph Emerson rescues his wife from the clutches of a dastardly villain of a boarder impersonated by Duke Martin, whom he roughed up a bit. Aside from this roughhouse battle, the picture is little more than muddling. It won't exactly hurt you to see it, though, for you'll probably be mildly amused. Olive Borden gives her usual worthwhile performance and Duke Martin makes a splendid villain.—A. N. M.

AT MAJESTIC

STILL-FACE BUSTER KEATON is even more so in "The Cameraman," now at the Majestic theater, of which this is a scene. Marceline Day is the girl. Who is the other man? Go and laugh and see.

TEXAS THEATER TO GIVE HOUSTON PASS

The Texas theater is showing today for the last times, "The Latest from Paris," with Norma Shearer in the starring role.

As a special feature of the show tonight immediately after the Rice rally, the Texas theater will award free passes to and from the Rice game in Houston to the winner. Opportunity's knocking, folks, opportunity's knocking.

"THE CAMERAMAN" WITH KEATON IS AT THE MAJESTIC

Comic Actor Convulses Audiences With Laughter

For the first time, we have seen Buster Keaton make a flop. "The Cameraman," which opened at the Majestic yesterday, failed to register with us, but the audience almost passed out from laughter. Buster does do a few things which are worth laughing at, but for the most part, the rest were too dumb to draw a chuckle from us.

It may be all right to pay tribute to a "news reel cameraman," but why not produce a picture that really shows the life of one, instead of trying to pan one like this off on us. Personally, we always did like Keaton, but if he does a few more like this one, he goes off our list of good comedians.

The picture abounds in crude attempts at humor, even sinks to slapstick to draw a laugh from the audience, and that is an unpardonable sin in our estimation. If the attitude of the audience is to be taken as an indication of the picture, it was a good comedy, but—it didn't register with us. However, if you like crude—we don't mean "dirty"—humor and slapstick, be sure and go see "The Cameraman."

Marceline Day falls below her average, but even at that her work is the best part of the picture.—R. M. C.

All talkie. Incorporating most of the spine tinglers of "The Cat and the Canary," "The Bat," and other well known mystery dramas of the shadow stage, but going a step or two further by the use of surprising humor and excellent sound, every line being spoken. John Miljan, Edward Everett Horton, and Louise Fazenda add gobs of popularity to their already famous selves by some good work. In effect, however, their voices in the movie can hardly reach that of players of the spoken stage, but distinct recording of each word makes up for this defect.

The biggest trouble, so far as we have noticed, is that the picture has about a reel tacked on the beginning that is entirely unnecessary, making the story slow in getting started.

The photography is perhaps the best that we have seen in a talkie, one hundred percent or otherwise. Many freak angles are used to good advantage, and the clearness of the film throughout is exceptional.

Take note of the fact that May McAvoy is the heroine and quite rips the silver screen through and through a time or two with her own silver screams, or golden ones, if you please, and remember, there are three Vitaphone acts with Gus Arnheim and his Ambassadors standing out head and

Only a short time remains in which you can have pictures made for the 1929 Cactus.

With many hundred pictures yet to be made, it is apparent that much confusion will exist as the deadline approaches.

All members of the graduate and senior classes intend to have their representation in the book, but many are postponing the arrangement for same. This is extremely unwise.

To secure better pictures, to avoid embarrassment, to insure a place in this one and only record of the year, graduates and seniors should call today at B. Hall 119 and secure studio appointments.
