State Association Considers
Austin for 1933
Meeting

In a letter from Dr. H. Y. Benedict, president of the University, to faculty members, is expressed the hope that the 1933 Thanksgiving meeting of the Texas State Teachers' Association will be held in Austin. He has urged faculty members to do their part in getting the association to convene in Austin.

The association is thinking of meeting in Austin because it has not met here in several years, because Austin now has ample hotel facilities, and because members of the association desire to join in the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the University. President Benedict said.

Professors of the University are asked to cooperate with the association by joining as soon as possible. A large membership of University professors would help in bringing the meeting here, Dr. Benedict continued. Travis County teachers can be depended upon to do their part, President Benedict said.

Personality, grades, and leadership are taken into consideration in selecting the person to receive the scholarship. The candidate must have a senior academic standing and twelve hours in education to his credit. This scholarship cannot be held by one individual over three years. The Peabody fund has a permanent endowment of $6,000. The interest, which is approximately $300 a year, is used for the scholarship, Dr. Gray added.

'Holiday' First Play Under New Club Direction

Hardin Emphasizes New Talent in Future
Productions

"When 'Holiday' is presented by Curtin Club this week, it will be the first play of the club under its new director, Ernest R. Hardin," Joe Munster, president of Curtin Club, said Monday.

"The University is fortunate to have Mr. Hardin here. He is one of the leading directors of dramatics in colleges today, and should enable us to improve the standing of this Curtin Club in many respects."

"Speaking for the members of the club, I may say that we have full confidence in him as director. We'll give him full cooperation to make the season a success," he explained.

Mr. Hardin, in a discussion with Dean Arno Nowotny, faculty advisor, and reporters Monday, indicated his policy with the University dramatics players, thus:

"No possible advance could be made by putting on plays with actors who are already good. Therefore, I'm going to pay much attention to developing new players from among our members. We've got the talent here, plenty of it. And I'm going to use it."

From Southwestern
Mr. Hardin, who came here from Southwestern University where he was head of the department of public speaking, is an ex-student of the University. He attended also Southern Methodist University, Southwestern University, and Columbia University. At each place he was connected with dramatics club and took part in play direction.

In April, Mr. Hardin directed the Mask and Wig Club of Southwestern (Continued on Page Four)

Law Graduate Dies At Galveston Home

Miss Julia Arthur Burrell, graduate of the School of Law, died Saturday at her home in Galveston.

Miss Burrell received her bachelor of arts degree from Rice Institute in 1920. She then entered Columbia University where she received her master of arts degree in 1926. Later, she became instructor of mathematics in Ball High School of Galveston, from which position she resigned to enter The University of Texas.

She received her bachelor of law degree from the University in 1930.

Upon her return to Galveston, she became affiliated with the law office of Brantley Harris, but because of ill health she gave up active practice. She again became a member of the faculty of Ball High School, and continued to teach until a few days before her death.

Four New Friars To Be Initiated Sunday Morning

Bankhead, Bibby, Connally,
And Walker Selected
For Membership

Seniors Chosen

Student Leaders Satisfy
All-round Tests Of Eligibility

Four new members have been elected to Friars in the annual fall election. They are:

Charles Bankhead
Dause Bibby
Ben Connally
Ruel Walker

Initiation for these four newly-elected men will be held at 9 o'clock Sunday morning, November 6, at the Driskill Hotel.

Friars is a senior honor society of the University, which was founded in 1911. Its object is to confer the honor of membership upon the eight most eligible men, chosen on the basis of leadership from each senior class of the various departments and schools in the entire University. The organization provides these men a medium of associating together with members of the faculty of the University, prominent citizens and alumni invited by the society to meet with it at the formal banquet for the discussion of events, affairs, problems and tendencies within and outside the University.

Elect Semi-annually
Friars elect members twice each scholastic year. In the fall term four men that stand out as the most eligible for membership are elected from the senior classes. In the following spring term four more eligible men are elected from the junior class who will enter upon their senior year the following fall.

Election to Friars is honorary. Membership in social organizations, affiliations, and popularity are not qualifications upon which election to Friars is based.

The society elects those candidates for any degree who stand out from the members of their class and represent the most well-rounded type of college man.

Present Membership
Friars of the University are Burt Dyke, W. L. McGill, Arno Nowotny, James Parke, Claude Voyles, A. W. Walker, Jr., Ed Olle, Bob Payne, Earl Toepfer, Ole Riley, John Craig, Louis Pollock, Allan Shivers, Bob Baldridge, B. D. Organ, Dalton Cross, Hill Hodges, Tom Abell, and Louis Baethe.

Bankhead is a senior in the College of Engineering, an assemblyman, and president of his school. He is a member of Beta Theta Pi, social fraternity, and a member of the Interfraternity Council this year. He is a football letter man.

The Future of Bevo II

Bevo II has brought about a little more spirit among the students for the time being. This huge steer has answered the problem of giving the pep squad something that will bring them to life—something that will make them laugh and yell and take a renewed interest in things about them.

However, there are several problems that must be solved if Bevo II is to remain one of the high spots in school life of the University. One cannot expect to make a collection at each rally and acquire enough cash to purchase board and room for Bevo during the coming week. Even if the students were generous enough to provide for the new mascot during the football season through the weekly collection method, what would be done about the big fellow's welfare after Thanksgiving?

Another question arises concerning Bevo II. The animal is wild, and it will be weeks and maybe years before he can be tamed, if that is possible at all. Special care will have to be taken of the Steer, or else serious trouble is certain to result from his attendance at the games. No estimate can be made of the damage that would possibly result if Bevo were to break loose in a large crowd. And even more disastrous would be any trouble that might break out between the student bodies of two rival schools. Witness the little incident of last Saturday, when the yell leader of S. M. U. came near causing trouble by striking Bevo II with his megaphone as the steer rode by in a trailer. This act of the yell leader was done on the spur of the moment and without any intent of causing trouble. But the Texas steers were peeved at the act and it appeared that several fights might break out at any moment. It was not a serious accident that started the A. & M.-Baylor fight, but the result was heart-breaking.

With these points in mind, it would be well to work out some definite plans for the existence and proper handling of the new Longhorn mascot in order that the steer may be well cared for and, more important, to make certain that our friendly relations with other schools do not become strained through any slip in connection with Bevo II.

Every Day School Spirit

Every year about this time there is bally-foo at college institutions about "school spirit." It usually appears at this time because of its connection with football. Seldom does a student hear of "school spirit" except in an athletic way. Pep leaders urge the students to back the football teams; prominent ex-students plead with the undergraduates to attend games, sit in the rooting sections, and yell for the university to defeat this or that team. And it is a good thing that they do. What would a football game be without "school spirit"? But backing the team at athletic games is only a part of "school spirit." In its broadest sense "school spirit" is a symbol for respect of your college. It means regarding your college as a part of yourself and making it best in a purely collegiate way. Students are a definite part of the University just as the University is a part of the students.

What can be done to improve "school spirit"? Be friendly on the campus. Treat your classmate or the student on the campus as a part of the family. Speak to all, and "high hat" no one. The best "college spirit" is where students respect the university and the university respects the students.

Chimes Play School Song

For the first time this semester students, citizens of Austin, and visitors on the Forty Acres were privileged to hear the sacred song of all true Texans—"The Eyes of Texas," which was played from the chimes in the tower clock of Main Building. The chimes played this song at every hour Saturday and Sunday. Many a freshman heard these chime notes for the first time. Many a visitor was thrilled with their sound. Many an upper-classman enjoyed hearing this tune as played by the tower chimes. 'Tis not often that the students, faculty, and people of Austin get to hear these chimes play the song so well known to all and so greatly revered by those of the Lone Star State. In fact, the occasions on

Student Forum

The Daily Texan invites the writing of free-lance editorials or "tiring line" articles to be published in the Student Forum columns. Such editorials must be written by students of the University and must pertain directly to some phase of student life. All contributions must be signed, but the contributor's name will not be printed if he so requests. Unsigned articles will not be printed. Those of 200 words or less will receive preference.

THE COWBOYS ANSWER

From the point of view which might be called prejudicial, I should like to advance some evidence that the Cowboys are not actually the organization that has been represented to the student body of The University of Texas in recent contributions to this column.

In the first place, the Cowboys, having been organized, not as a "pep organization," primarily, but as a service unit to its school, it is not concerned as extensively with demonstration as with the less obvious manifestations of loyalty to our school. Being organized and principled on such a basis, the Cowboys necessarily disregard chances of public effect when there is a duty to be done. At the S. M. U. game, for instance, there was criticism about the "breaking up" of the Cowboys before the game was over. In that particular case we were acting upon a request by Mr. Disch that we spread out over the stadium and try to keep the fans from throwing cushions and bottles after the game. Incidentally we managed to stop three fights besides keeping some of the cushions from being thrown.

It is not my desire to leave the impression that we feel that we are a perfect organization, for most certainly that is not true, but we do feel that we should not have been subjected to criticism from individuals who did not attempt to get the information they should have before their Firing Line criticisms were made. The Cowboys may have made a mistake in not getting before the public the things that they accomplish. We naturally do not broadcast the facts that a group of the members paid Coach Morrison a visit upon his arrival, extended him a courteous greeting, and offered him the services of the organization; that the "A" students of the organization coach promising freshman athletes who have trouble with their studies; that the Rice bonfire was made possible by the Cowboys who arranged for trucks and personally escorted at least three-fourths of the timber from alleys and basements to the Cavanaugh tract.

Since we perform dozens of acts of this kind with no desire for public praise, we do not want public criticism. If any student or member of the faculty has suggestions to make in regard to the Cowboy organization, I propose that they make them in private to some member of the group. We will make an honest effort to conform to them. Please remember that we want to cooperate with, and have the respect of, the student body. We want to be a group that you will be proud of. Try to help us instead of discouraging us.

College Press

Much is heard at the opening of the university year about working one's way through a college. Much advice, good and bad, has been offered about the chances and necessities of self-support, whole or partial, but until recently, one question was still doubtful.

That question was answered by a national survey recently completed; it shows in certified figures what actual percentage of students "work" their way. In a survey of 175 American colleges, which was conducted by Professor Van Sickle, of the University of Illinois, it was found that one-half of the male student population earned part of their expenses, and that 15 to 25 per cent were entirely self-supporting.

All this is true in spite of some sentiment, perhaps a growing sentiment, that permission for registration should be refused a man who cannot complete a college course without resort to himself for support. It is to be hoped that such a sentiment is not a growing one.

At Stanford, 60 per cent of the men work; last year 15 per cent of the institution's students paid their tuition with notes instead of cash. A sum of $1,200 was raised by the university community to provide students with work. Incidentally, President Hoover worked his way through Stanford.

At the University of Chicago, 65 per cent of the students are self-supporting; the university granted 1,500 student loans in the last year, more than ever before. The university hunted student jobs by telephone and house-to-house canvass, and instituted class training to fit students for the jobs available. Students who were more prosperous raised a fund for needy students.

At the University of Iowa, 2,228 students obtained aid through the university employment service from September 1, 1931, through June 1, 1932.

Perhaps it is true that no college student can rely on himself for support, and still reap the full benefit of culture offered him. At least, professors will likely find that the working students are not day dreaming in their classes or using the room as a convenient place for sleep.

When you can't do what you like then like what you do.

which the chimes play "The Eyes of Texas" are indeed rare. Many months have passed since this famous melody floated over the campus from the tall tower clock. Why are the times on which the piece is played so far apart? Why are these chimes played only on very special occasions? Real Texans, students and citizens of Austin, love the song and its significance. They want to hear it more often. And they would like to hear the chimes play it more frequently. Every student, if he is a real loyal one, is thrilled by its words and its tune. Every student would be pleased to hear the chimes ring out every week with the one song above all others which is dear to them—"The Eyes of Texas."

BUSINESS: Stock prices were up slightly in a quiet session yesterday. Grain sank to new lows, but regained a few points at the close. Cotton lost a few points, and bonds were irregular. The Guarantee Trust Company says that the acute phase of the depression has now been passed, but that recovery will be slow and hesitant. Last week's downward trend in market prices was due to political more than economic forces.

AGRICULTURE: If the election had been held in September, Governor Roosevelt would undoubtedly have carried the Middle West. However, a shift in sentiment toward Mr. Hoover occurred during October, due partly to the farmers' disappointment with Roosevelt's farm speeches, to the renewed efforts by G. O. P. workers, and to a Republican promise of higher grain prices. But during the past week, grain prices have dropped to record-breaking lows. On the exchange, wheat is the lowest since 1922, and buyers were hard to find during Saturday's session. A South Dakota correspondent informs the writer of this column that in his state corn is bringing from 2 to 4 cents a bushel, and that it costs a bushel to haul the stuff to market. Oats are not even quoted on the Omaha grain market; they are not wanted. Good beef brings one and a half cents a pound.

Mr. Hoover did not willfully lie when he promised higher grain prices. China was on the market for 15,000,000 bushels of our wheat, the sale of which would have removed much of our surplus and probably raised the price from 6 to 10 cents a bushel. But, as is true with most of us, China could not pay. Hoover planned to get them the money from the R. F. C., but, unfortunately, that horn of plenty cannot loan to foreign governments. Therefore, a middleman was necessary. But search as he might, Hoover was never able to find anyone who would underwrite that Chinese paper. The deal fell through, grain prices fell with it, and Republican chances in the Mid-West are going in the same direction.

CAMPAIGN: Last week Republican newspapers shouted that the Democrats were obtaining financial support from Canada. However, the Montreal Sun clears up the matter for us. It appears that Democrat leaders sent a form letter seeking contributions to all members of the large social clubs in New York City. One member is a Canadian citizen who spends some of his time in our country, and so he received one of the letters. He thought it was a great joke, and told some friends about it. Immediately politicians became "amazed" that Canadian interests were financing Mr. Roosevelt's election.

GERMANY: Germany is in the throes of the campaign which will terminate in next Sunday's congressional election. Most commentators believe that no party will gain a majority, and that as soon as the new Reichstag is organized, it will vote to overthrow the Von Papen regime. However, before it has time to do so, the Chancellor may declare its dissolution.

lution on the basis of some new issue, perhaps constitutional reform. Then, after another Reichstag is elected, the new year will have arrived, and the constitution will permit him to dissolve it on the basis that he used last time; the emergency decrees. Therefore, it looks like the present military government will continue in Germany for some time yet.

ENGLAND: Today's municipal elections in 300 English towns will indicate the popular feeling toward the present coalition government. Some reaction is expected, but how much is not known. Meanwhile, London's jobless army (like our bonus marchers) are causing some worry, though we may expect the situation to be met with the traditional English tact.

Whose Face Is Purple Now?!!

(Editor's note: This is the first of a series of "enlightening" information on the cherubic students who infest this University. Irving Israel has a corps of secretaries working with him; therefore it is very likely that if you are seen more than once—or even once—with the same girl or boy, you will have your face turned purple. If you object to this kind of publicity, there isn't a thing you can do about it for Irving is on friendly terms with all of the football players. However, the writings herein are printed with no nasty object. On your mark! Let's go!)

I hear that a romance is budding may nicely in the Helen Donovan-Phil Bernard tepee. . . . Gerad Kinney will ring Esther Mae Tarver's hand shortly? . . . And Bill Hall has begun to P. You can look behind chairs, under table lamps, in elevators, and at football games, and you will always find Jane Marie Hill and Henry Moore Adam-and-Eveing. . . . Jackie Saunders and "Nick" Nichols are drinking cokes out of the same straw. . . . Of course, you know that Jack Sparks is that way over Beulah Campbell, but they've never been cold-typed in this rag, you dope!! . . . And how Hal Armstrong does hold Ruth Haskell's hand!! . . . Hetta Jockusch and Tom Bunkley are saving for a wedding day, eh wot?? . . . You

When you're around, you'll see Ed Murray busily huzzing Mary Ellen Hunt's doorbell. . . . Some day Dick Turner hopes she will be Mrs. Martha Delay Turner. . . . And if my sec'y is oke, Margaret Jefferson and Hugo Allen are plenty ga-ga about each other. . . . The recent Ida Barr-Ed Barlow consolidation is getting along nicely in spite of the depression.

Sphinx Club Begins Monday Luncheons

Plans were made for the continuation of luncheons for members of the Sphinx Club, organization for students of architecture, on every other Monday to be held at the University Commons, Charles Page, vice president, said Monday.

Arrangements were also made for obtaining an announcement board for club notices to be placed in the Architectural Library. Chris Maiwald, president, and Howard Barr are working on the project.

The business discussion also contained plans for a club historian to take care of the public action of the club. His work will include announcements of contests and prizes, Page added.

Opening Today

TOM BROWN OF CULVER. The story of life at an American military school, opens today at the Queen. Tom Brown, a juvenile newcomer, himself plays the title role. Young Richard Cromwell, star of "The Age of Consent," plays the part of Tom Brown's friend. The cast also includes Slim Summerville of Universal comedy fame, and H. B. Warner. The story and the cast hold possibilities for a thoroughly enjoyable picture. Cromwell seems to be making more progress than any of the other younger male stars. His acting is unstilted and has a freshness of appeal that is most pleasing. This show will give him a chance further to prove his acting ability.

THREE WHO LOVED. with Betty Compton, Conrad Nagel, and Robert Ames, opens for today only at the Texas. The film tells the story of a young Swedish immigrant girl who comes to this country to marry her fiancé. Here she is thrown into the company of another man, a trifter who finds her interesting and amusing. Both he and her fiancé work as tellers in a bank, where the latter embezzles in order to give Helga, the girl, the things she desires, thereby forestalling the advances of the friend. The trifter friend is suspected and convicted while the embezzler holds his silence, marries Helga, and tries to forget his past. Ultimately, the husband is exposed, and the convicted though innocent man escapes and makes a dramatic entry into the home of the two he believes wronged him. A dramatic conclusion is assured.

Games This Week

T. C. U. vs. Simmons University at Abilene.

Saturday

TEXAS-Baylor at Waco.
S. M. U.-A. & M. at Dallas.
Arkansas-Rice at Fayetteville.

WE

The Longhorns journey to Waco Saturday to do battle with the Baylor University Bears on Carroll Field at 2:30 o'clock.

WE

BACK in 1930 Ernie Koy, Harrison Stafford, Hank Clewis, Jimmy Burr, Ox Blanton, "Cheesy" Cook, and several other Steers made their first football visit to Carroll Field. That day, November 8, the Steers had their eyes on the conference flag and left the field victors over Baylor's Bohey Koch and Jake Wilson combination. On Saturday these same Steers reinforced by Bohn Hilliard, sophomore sensation, Bill Smith, "Oochie" Earle, Charlie Coates, and Arthur Niebuhr will make another visit to Carroll Field.

This game holds the Texas football spotlight this week-end. Baylor has not defeated Texas since 1926, when the Bears defeated Mack Saxon and Co. 7-0. It was Sam Coates, brother of our Charlie, that caught a pass for the only touchdown of that game. Perhaps a Coates will be instrumental in the victory Saturday. Baylor has its poorest chance to defeat Texas since the 1926 season.

Here is what Jinx Tucker said when the Steers made their last trip to Waco: "Down in Matagorda County, noted perhaps as a hunting and fishing resort, but certainly not for its football teams, was reared trim Harrison Stafford. He may have been a high school sensation down in Wharton for all the average critic may know, but he went to The University of Texas unheralded and unsung. . . . Yesterday he made his debut against Baylor. If he never comes back again, it will be too early."

The Wharton Flash is raring to go back to Waco, and Saturday night the Golden Bears will probably be thankful that they will never have to play against him again. Stafford was the big show against S. M. U., if there was any show. He has been a steady player all season, his playing being of all-conference calibre in every contest. He was being watched in the S. M. U. game too.

WE

STRIKE up the band for "Oochie" Earle, Ox Blanton, and Bill Smith. The entire Texas line played good defensive football Saturday, but the above three were outstanding. Time after time Earle and Blanton broke through to throw the Pony backs for losses. Earle will get a chance this week to prove that he is worth all-conference honor. He will be pitted against Petty and James, Bruin wingmen, and two of the best in the conference. Both men showed up well against T. C. U.

WE

TWO other conference games are scheduled for this week. S. M. U. and the Aggies tangle at Dallas, and Rice goes to Fayetteville to do battle with the Hogs. Displaying a rejuvenated lineup that looked particularly good on the defense, the Aggies gave the Gents a much closer game than fans had anticipated. The Aggies came very near tying the score toward the close of the game. The S. M. U.-Aggie game will be a toss-up.

WE

The Battle of the Birds down at Houston saw the Owls stage a great last half rally to down the Blue Jays of Creighton. Jap Thrasher led the attack with three touchdowns.

The Owls are favored to down Arkansas this week-end, but the Hogs will not be a set-up for them. The Razorbacks were idle last week which gives them two weeks to get ready for Rice.

WE

T. C. U. will end their "practice game" schedule on Friday of this week. They play Simmons, and the Cowboys are not as strong as usual. The Bears were expected to give the Frogs trouble, but the powerful Christians were worn down in the first half. After the Simmons contest, the Toads will have to play Texas, Rice, and S. M. U. on successive week-ends.

Ernie Koy Will Return To Line-up

Forgetting the S. M. U. Mustangs, the Longhorns went to work yesterday in preparation for the Baylor University Bears. The Longhorns were anything but impressive against the Ponies, but with the possibility of Ernie Koy being back in the line-up the spirit of the club is at high ebb.

Had Harrison Stafford, stellar halfback, not intercepted Charlie Heaton's pass on his own ten-yard line Saturday, the Mustangs from S. M. U. might have beaten Texas. The general consensus of opinion is that Stafford's interception and great 90-yard gallop turned the tide in Texas' favor. Be that as it may, Texas turned back the Ponies and looked terrible doing it.

The line play was brilliant, especially that of "Ox" Blanton, who seems to have the same ability that gained him All-Conference recognition in 1930. Time after time Blanton knifed through the Mustang forward wall to smear Pony backs before they had a chance to get started. He opened huge holes for the Steer backs to run through, in fact he did everything a great tackle is supposed to do. He should make the All-Conference team on his play of last Saturday alone.

Earle Stars

Earle played a good game at end, as did Smith at center. Dause Bibby, who finishes his eligibility with the Orange and White this year played one of the best games of his career, as did Seals and Niebuhr. Captain Cook kept the entire line on their toes throughout the fracas, he himself getting a large amount of tackles.

Ernie Koy, who watched Saturday's game from the sidelines, will be ready to go against Baylor Saturday. His presence was sorely missed against the Mustangs, as show by the slow handling of the ball by the Texas backs, and the numerous fumbles. Koy seems to have a very steady effect on the Steer backs. It was the first time Koy has become eligible that he has not played at least two quarters of every game. His passing, plunging, and blocking plus his ability to lead probably would have run the Texas score much higher.

Moody Out

Coach Littlefield will correct Longhorn mistakes this week in preparation for the Baylor game Saturday in Waco. Koy will probably be in shape to play but it is doubtful whether Herchel Moody, stellar tackle, will be in condition, due to an injury he received on the first play of Saturday's game. He suffered an injury to his head and neck. There was some doubt about the seriousness of his injury. It is possible that Coach Littlefield will keep Moody out of the game in order to get him in tip-top shape for the game against the Horned Frogs on Armistice Day.

Prizes Offered For Nation's Best Smiles

Sixteen thousand, seven hundred and fifty persons endorsed the slogan "What this country needs is a smile," by entering the national smile contest last week, according to announcement from E. M. Scarbrough and Sons, Austin store that is participating in the event in this section.

Persons over sixteen having a smiling photograph taken in Scarbrough's studio are eligible to win part of the $3,000 prize money. Wayne McRae, manager of Scarbrough's photograph studio, said:

Student Grid Experts Fall Before Stunning Upsets; Winner Misses 10 Guesses

By IRVING ISRAEL

Texas Sports Staff

WORKING through the wee hours of two mornings, members of the Texas sports staff and your correspondent finally waded through several hundreds of last week's gridiron prognostications of student guessers in the first week of this unusual and interesting contest sponsored by this newspaper and the Paramount Theater.

Need we again say that the response was gratifying? After last Saturday's array of astounding football upsets, you students can easily realize that the life of a sports writer—and particularly one who attempts to pick the results of football games—is no bowl of cherries.

But wait, you do want to know who won. Here are the winners—strike up the band for them, for they really deserved the tickets.

1st—Morris Cannon, 30.
2nd—J. V. Hawkins, 29.
3rd—Fred Cooper, 28.
3rd—Erwin Eilers, 28.

Although only three tickets were to be given to the winners, Cooper and Eilers picked the same number of correct games; Mr. Waite, therefore, has awarded tickets to both.

Sports writers throughout the country were unanimous in their opinion that the results of last week were the most surprising in recent years. You losers, then, have consolation in this turn of events.

The following students received honorable mention: A. Oliphant (27), A. McCrary (27), S. Woolsey (27), Hal Jackson (27), R. Brown (27), T. Turner (27), N. L. Peterson (26), R. H. Spikes (26), Dawson Duncan (26), T. Giddings (26), M. Commins (26), H. Miller (26), C. Weeg (26), T. Leshkar (26), C. Lee (26), J. Cole (26), J. Woodruff (26), H. Pulliam (26), D. Boggs (26), H. Ravey (26), G. Potter (25), B. Kaplan (25), R. Patterson (25), E. Whitney (25), B. Lanagan (25), W. Noreu (25), B. Dozier (25), H. Parry (25), H. Leon (25), M. Bailey (25), and E. Lipner (25).

Highest of the girls were the following: Grace Grafius (25), Flo Smith (24), and Inez Granau (24).

The Drake-Marquette game was thrown out because a typographical error listed these two teams. Drake played Grinnell Friday. Several students Saturday sent in their predictions of the Carnegie Tech-Temple game which was played Friday. They picked the teams to tie. Oddly enough, they did. Yes, they were not given credit for the guess.

Practically all of the student guessers were led astray by the upsetting of Notre Dame, Harvard, Oklahoma, Stanford, Dartmouth, Missouri, Marquette, the Ohio State-Wisconsin tie, Fordham, and Bucknell. Two picked Pittsburgh to beat Notre Dame. One student guessed at the Ohio State-Wisconsin tie.

In order to give youse guys (and goils) an opportunity to display your guessing ability under normal conditions, Mr. Waite has agreed to run the contest again this week. A ticket apiece to the three highest guessers will once more be the prizes. The duets are good for Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday of next week.

Rules of Contest

(1). This week's teams, listed below, will be run again in a later issue of the Texas this week. No person may send in more than one set of selections.

(2). Put an "x" in the () opposite each team you pick to win. Thus: Alaska U. () vs. Hawaii U. (x).

(3). Put an "x" in both designated places if you think the two teams will tie in each case. Thus: Colford (x) vs. Stanfax (x).

(4). Your guesses should be submitted before 1:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Any papers postmarked after that time will be discarded.

(5). Mail your guesses to this correspondent, as follows: Irving Israel, The Daily Texan, Austin. Your guesses may also be left in the Texas sports office, B. Hall 103.

(6). In case of ties, efforts will be made to award duplicate tickets.

(7). Each week's winners may receive their tickets by calling at B. Hall 103 on the Tuesday following each Saturday's games. Last week's winners may receive their duets by calling at B. Hall today between 9:57 and 11 o'clock.

Continuing their string of victories, the Longhorn harriers overwhelmed the S. M. U. Cross-Country team, 15-50, in a dual meet Saturday afternoon on the local course. Seven Texas runners came in ahead of Kelley, the first Pony to finish.

The Steers finished in the following order: Alex Cox, O'Neal Archer, Captain Lane Blakeney, Earl Deacon, Bill Cohen, Woodrow Finley, and Joe Storm.

The runners started in Memorial Stadium just before the second quarter of the Texas-S. M. U. football game ended.

The next dual meet will be against T. C. U. in Fort Worth.

Plenty of Time

Unless an opinion written by C. M. Cuerton, present Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, is overruled, Governor Sterling has more than two months in which to convene the Forty-second Legislature into special session to correct oil proration laws.

Chief Justice Cuerton wrote the opinion in 1914 when he was first assistant attorney general. It held that members of the new Legislature cannot qualify for office until the regular session in the January following their election; and that the old members hold office until their successors have been qualified.

Court Gets Case

The famous Whitesides and California cases, involving boundaries to the great Yates Oil field in Pecos County, were sent to the Texas Supreme Court Monday.

The three cases together have tied up millions of dollars in royalties, rentals and other accruals from the oil produced in the Yates pool.

One semi-official estimate of the amount tied up, made by the Attorney General, was fifty million dollars.
