Dear Henryk:

I have just returned to Lawrence and find your letter of 22 June 1961 stating that you have need for translation of several articles and reports on Ostreidae contained in Russian literature. I am quite willing that Max Elias should undertake this work if he is able and willing to undertake the task on the same basis as in making translations for Teichert on nautiloids. Before this is agreed to, the magnitude of the work needs to be surveyed because you do not say how many pages of Russian text are needed in translation. Also this bears on time required for the job. I believe that Max Elias is now in Europe and does not know the time of his expected return to Norman.

If Max is unavailable do you know of anyone else who is qualified to do this work for us?

With best wishes,

Sincerely,

Raymond C. Moore (19)
