In Group

Four hundred and twenty-eight students were listed on the honor roll for the 1929-30 spring session, according to the list issued from the office of Dr. H. T. Parlin, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences.

The purpose of this list, Dr. Parlin explained, is to commend officially about one-tenth of the students in the University, whose grades rank them scholastically higher than the remaining nine-tenths. In counting grades for this list, grades are listed as follows: "A" for one semester, four points for each hour; "B," three points; "C," two points; and "D," one point.

The grades are divided into five groups according to the number of points made. In making up the lists, Dr. Parlin said, freshmen are ranked somewhat higher in respect to the number of points they make than upperclassmen, due to the fact that freshman grades as a rule run lower than others.

The following students are listed on the honor roll for the spring session of 1930:

Board Approves Initial Plans Of New Building

Structure to Replace Shacks
Occupied by Business School

Work Begins Soon

Architectural Style Will Resemble Sutton
Hall

Preliminary plans for the new University classroom and office building were approved last week by the Board of Regents of the University, Dr. W. J. Battle, chairman of the building committee, said yesterday.

George Dahl of Herbert M. Green, La Roche, and Dahl, University architects, met with the Board of Regents last week to secure their approval of the plans, and has returned to Dallas to complete the blueprints. It is believed that the final plans will be completed and approved in time to begin work on the building sometime this fall.

The structure, which is being built to take the place of the shacks and the condemned north wing of the Main Building, will be patterned somewhat on the plans of Sutton Hall. It will be approximately 54 feet wide and 200 feet long, and will have four stories and an attic. Shacks are being moved directly east of Garrison Hall to make a place for the building.

Intramural Eligibility Rules Given for Fall By Director Whitaker

By W. B. COWLEY

"Intramural sports have taken on a greater possible field than ever attempted before at the University; every registered student, if he has not already signed up for intercollegiate work, is eligible to enter into this new and complete organization," B. M. Whitaker, director of intramural athletics, said Monday. "The aim of the department is to have the entire student body engaged in some sort of competitive sport, that is, all of the men."

With the completion of Gregory Gymnasium, and the new intramural program, every real man in the University is given a chance to keep himself in excellent physical shape. Insufficient recreation is responsible for numerous mental as well as physical disorders, and with such athletic facilities at hand right here on the campus, a person should take advantage of them," Whitaker continued.

System Planned
The intramural office, Gregory Gymnasium 114, has planned a new system for keeping track of each man's record. When the city he signs an intramural card, pointing out his preference of the numerous sports listed. This card is filed at the intramural office. If the student belongs to some fraternity, department, or independent group, his intramural manager will enter him on the books under the name of his organization, sometime before October 1.

If the student is new to the University, and has no team to sign up with, his name is placed in a separate file, from which new groups or organizations will be chosen after October 1, when the existing groups have been listed. In this way every man is placed in some group.

Rules Listed
Freshmen and non-fraternity men are requested to get together and form squads of their own, so that they may enter into the tournaments.

Rules for eligibility in the intramurals are as follows:
a. A student will not be eligible to represent an organization unless his name appears on the eligibility list of that organization.
b. An organization's eligibility list must be filed at the intramural office before its first contest.
c. Names may be added to these lists at any time.
d. A student may transfer from one organization list to another one during the scholastic year, but such transfers shall not be made during the first semester, or until the activity in which he is competing is concluded.

A student's name may be dropped from an organization's eligibility list for good reasons by the intramural council.

Instruction For Classes in P. T. Begins Monday

Between 1700 and 1800
Men Enroll For Activities

Swimming Given

Bellmont States New Gym
Increases Interest For Participants

Fifty-one physical training classes with an enrollment of between 1,700 and 1,800 men got actively under way at the new Gregory Gymnasium and swimming pool Monday. Swimming proved to be the most popular sport this year with an enrollment of some 500 in its ten classes. Four of these classes are in elementary swimming and the other six are in advanced work.

The second most popular sport turned out to be handball. There are nine classes offered in this course and the average enrollment is between 32 and 35 students. Basketball ran third with an average enrollment of between 25 and 30 students in eight classes.

"Men Enthusiastic"
L. Theo Belmont, director of physical training for men, stated that he had never seen students of the University more enthusiastic and eager to take physical training than they are this year.

"We have been forced to turn away several hundred men who have completed their physical training requirements, but who wished to enroll for additional training," Mr. Belmont said. "The students never were so aroused, nor showed near so much zeal when they had to take their physical training at the old building," he added.

Major S. N. Ekdahl's corrective training classes show a decrease, despite the new gymnasium equipment. Last year at this time there were 75 students enrolled for his classes; this year the enrollment dropped down to 55, showing that the students who are registering in the University are in better condition physically than they were last year. Only students who have some physical defect are enrolled in his classes.

Girls' Glee Club To Have Meet Tuesday

Important announcements will be made to the members of the Girls' Glee Club Tuesday at 5 o'clock in Main Building 157. Gilbert Schramm, director, will announce the selection of his Varsity Co-ed Quartet and also the second quartet which was organized this year.

A combination of the two groups will compose a glee club octette which will play an important part in the club programs. The soprano soloists for the club will be selected Tuesday from approximately twenty applicants.

The club will buy a piano this year. Among other important business will be the announcement of the advisory board, which is composed of five officers and one member at large. Miss Dorothy Gebauer is faculty sponsor.

President Benedict Speaks at Vespers

President H. Y. Benedict spoke at the first vesper service held Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock in the girls' study hall. His topic was "The University, the Christian, and the Y. W. C. A." in which he emphasized the fact that education was "the coming into contact with the new," and urged that University students realize that intellectual life is serious.

Dorothy Watts, who is president of the Y. W. C. A. this year, presided, and Margaret Grimes led the group in a prayer. George C. Baker sang a solo, accompanied by Miss Beulah Beavers. An invitation to attend the regular Monday afternoon vesper services was extended to all girls of the University.

R. Hall Razing Begun To Make Way for New Classroom Structure

Another of the Speedway shacks met its doom yesterday when demolition of R Hall was begun. This is the second shack of the University shack row to fall, W Hall being razed several weeks ago. The shack which has been used exclusively by the School of Business Administration is being torn down to make room for the construction of the new Classroom Building.

All equipment has been moved from R Hall to Z Hall, which has been remodeled and is now serving as temporary quarters for business administration classes.

"Material from the shacks is being used in repair work on the campus and on Little Campus Dormitory while that from R Hall is to be used in interior repairs on the old power house. This work will begin about Saturday when demolition of the shack should be completed," Mr. C. T. Robertson, said.

Walter Wukasch Given Contract

Ex-Student Will Manage
Concessions at Dance

Walter Wukasch, ex-student of the University, was awarded the contract for the concessions at the University dances at a meeting of the dance committee Monday afternoon. There were several other bids received but none could meet the conditions of Mr. Wukasch's offer. He is to receive one half of the net profits and the dance committee will receive the other half. Because of the ruling that all articles must be sold at standard prices, several concerns did not submit bids, it was announced.

Mr. Wukasch is the manager of Charlie's Confectionery. He has been handling the concessions temporarily for the past two weeks at the same figures as submitted in his bid.

R Hall For History

A WELCOME SIGHT to all may be seen by strolling by the row of shacks on the campus where workmen are rapidly ending the life history of R Hall. One by one this unsightly family of renegade structures is being relegated to the junk heap to make way for a modern classroom building.

Many, however, will regret the passage of these temporary quarters. With them there goes the most potent topic of conversation—conversation in the form of attacks on the University. It is wondered what self-styled critics over the State will now find to use in their efforts to belittle campus and school.

Those who are informed know that the shacks were built in 1918 to meet an emergency created by the great strides of progress made by the University, and only now has it been possible to construct fitting classroom buildings to replace them.

Mature Freshmen

FIVE YEARS AGO almost all freshmen wore their green caps whenever they made an appearance in public. Three years ago a great portion of them still wore their caps; but today the percentage of freshmen with green caps is very small. The freshman of today seem to have lost the distinctness as a class that was present a generation of students ago.

Until recent years, the University was a young school, barely out of its adolescence. The spirit was that of a small school, in which every student knew all the others, and the class distinctions were very marked. Some five years ago the spirit of the school changed; the class lines which had been made evident through hazing began to dim. Hazing was made taboo and now the freshmen are not made the butt of the jokes of those who know the ropes.

Every year the feeling that the student is a part of a college in the University, rather than a member of a class, is becoming more prevalent. The students feel themselves more as students in business administration, or engineering, or pharmacy, more than they feel that they are freshmen or sophomores or juniors.

This feeling of metropolitanism, this development of maturity rather than youthful exuberance, this feeling of a division by colleges rather than classes make the demand for the green caps and the orange shirts less than it was in the past. And it seems that in the future the interest in them will be even less, regardless of the efforts of the Cowboys and the yell leaders.

Diminished

SOME OF US in that stressful period in the month when the allowance has been consumed and a wistful gaze is turned toward the first of the month following. Temporarily the wheels of commerce about the campus turn slowly, for a few days there is some lull in the money-spending activities of the campus inhabitants. The time is now spent in discovering the various and sundry channels through which Dad's cash will pass hurriedly during the first days of the following month.

And then it will all be gone and the same predicament will face those who splurge for a few days then squeeze and squirm as has been done at the same time in each of the many preceding months. It is wondered how it would feel to be sensible at least one time, and to spread the hamburger meat over the whole bun, to make the allowance last the whole month. It would be a decided change; it would save these days of being broke and hungry.

Housemothers

WHEN THE GIRL comes to the University, released from the parental apron-strings and is cast into the cosmopolitan swirl and counter-swirl of a University she is in for moments of panic and the feeling that she is a rudderless ship unless there is some kindly and steady influence to help her over the rough spots.

While there can never be a substitute for mother still and all the University house-mother in her own way can be of incalculable help in charting a clear course for the girl (or boy) who is away from home and family. Upon her rests oft-times the responsibility, a great and important one, of seeing that her charge does not remain without some sort of advice and encouragement which an older and wiser head can often suggest.

Some of the house-mothers on the campus have become part of the warp and woof of University organization. They have seen girls come and go and have been of invaluable service to them.

Fall Elections

FALL ELECTIONS are in the offing. Students of the University are going to be called upon to elect a Student Assembly, a body that has vested in it all the legislative power.

Student government is an important and valuable privilege and certainly wields great influence in matters which are intimately tied up with the student's extramural activities on the campus. It can be a very important factor so far as matters which touch upon prestige of the University is concerned. It should be taken no more lightly than city or national government. Student government assumes that there is a certain amount of responsibility in the individual student that would make him desirous of making his school a great one.

The Constitution of the Students' Association makes provision for the election of six representatives from the College of Arts and Sciences, three from the School of Business Administration, three from the School of Education, four from the College of Engineering, three from the School of Law, one from the College of Pharmacy, one from the department of journalism and one from the Graduate School.

The Student Assembly is an important organization. It merits your co-operation. It merits a few minutes spent at the polls on October 21.

THE PROPOSED STUDENT UNION

What have become of the plans for Missouri's proposed Memorial Union?

With the approach of summer months again the Memorial Tower stands alone on the East Campus just as it did a year ago—symbolic of the noble task yet to be completed. It is unfortunate from every standpoint that the two wings on the Tower were not completed long ago, thereby supplying students of the University the advantages of a student union. During the academic year just ended hopes rose and fell in relation to the immediate construction of the building. At the present time the total amount pledged to the Union project by alumni and friends of the University and by Columbia business men and patrons, including the results of the campaign last fall, is somewhat more than would be required to finance the wings in entirety. Not realizing this situation, subscribers, many of whom live in distant parts of the country, have been reluctant to send in their payments to the Memorial Committee. They believe the Memorial Union idea was a closed matter.

It is a closed matter—the only contingent to the initiation of actual construction being the collection of a sufficient amount of pledges to enable the committee to let contracts. Subscribers are urged to meet their current and back payments promptly.

The need for a student union is too well recognized in Columbia to bear repeating. For the individual student it is a center of common interest free from academic restriction and devoted to student life; man's academic and technical education must be accompanied by an education on the side of humanity, since he is essentially a social being. For the alumni it provides a concentration point for contact with their Alma Mater and a meeting place in Columbia. For the University it enables a complete separation of student extra-curricular life from the classroom so that they may not interfere. For Columbia it means the addition of a beautiful Gothic building as well as providing for an attraction for new students to enroll and for alumni to return.

—Columbia Missourian.

INTRAMURAL ATHLETICS

The start of the intramural athletic season which is approaching brings an opportunity to every man in the University to compete in his favorite kind of athletics.

The directors of physical education especially Dr. Allen are to be praised highly for their encouragement of intramurals. Games like these, for everybody to join, help the participants to keep themselves physically in good condition, a phase of college life which otherwise would be sadly neglected by all but the small number who try out for some varsity team or other.

There is little ballyhoo about intramurals. Winning counts less than playing; good sportsmanship therefore is relatively high, and victory for itself retires to a back seat. That is as it should be; for games are secondary, and valuable only in so far as they provide entertainment and exercise.

At present, of course, intercollegiate athletics hold the public interest. Their decline in favor of less highly publicized sports seems, however, as inevitable as it is sensible.

As We Look To THE BUZZARD

Caught a glimpse of WOODWARD REAGAN loafing, more or less, over on the drag.

JO TURNER alighting and successfully crawling through the parked flivvers.

TEXIE BOGGESS and CHARLES RAMSDELL going thoroughly over the whole "business" over a coke or two.

JIM PERRY feeling his natural self by calling for AUGUSTA MAYERICK who was visiting over at Littlefield.

MARY WALTHAL slamming away at her golf lesson yesterday morning.

SALLY EWART and ELIZABETH BLAKE talking over all the good news from Kansas.

NELL COLGIN and MARY HELEN CASWELL hard at it with French 1.

NOLLY FARRINGTON with a stiff upper lip.

HELEN ENGLEKING, her own sweet self, strolling up by Beck's Lake to the Main Building.

EMILY DALRYMPLE back on the campus for a visit with her ex-roomie, ANAMARY DAVIS.

FRANCES LOCKE and FLOSSIE WEYMOUTH all happy and quite delicious when the Aggie boy friend came up for a little holiday.

There are so many sets of twins on this campus that it is confusing, but we think it was the ROBBIN TWINS, LOIS and LOUISE, that were having a friendly chat with a couple of males yesterday.

CENTENARY GENTLEMEN NEXT ON STEER CARD

ELEMENTARY DRILLS FEATURE FRESHMAN FOOTBALL PRACTICE

By WELDON HART
Texas Sports Editor

Performance of the Longhorns in their initial game gives the Texas fans no cause for hilarious rejoicing and no excuse for gloomy pessimism. The Steers did not look like champions out there Saturday. Far from it. The comparatively weak Miner eleven fought the Southwest Conference entry to a standstill for three quarters, and if Coach Saxon could have thrown a few fresh, capable reserves into the fray in the last period, the score probably would not have been over 14-0. In the first and third quarters, the Steers pushed into Miner territory only three or four times and never threatened to score.

On the other hand, the Longhorns showed vast improvement since their first practice scrimmage against San Marcos little more than a week ago. In that contest the Steers looked like easy picking for any team with a mediocre passing attack. Saturday the same Steers effectively smothered the Miners' overhead game, supposedly one of the strongest in the Southwest. In addition, the Longhorns' passing plays, although still not so good, worked much better than against the Bobcats.

About the most interesting of Saturday's results from a conference standpoint, aside from the Rice Owls' close shave at the hands of Sam Houston, was A. & M.'s victory over Southwestern, who had held Rice to a 32-7 score a week before. This could mean either that the Owls have been overrated or that the Aggies have a championship contender down at College Station. Then again it may not mean anything. These early season practice sessions are generally the bunk as far as getting any real line on the contenders is concerned. Few coaches care to put out much in an unimportant contest.

One cheering feature of Saturday's game was the efficient manner in which the extra points were added after each of the four touchdowns. Ox Blanton, Milton Perkins, and Jimmie Burr each came out with a perfect percentage in this department, with Blanton dropping the first two between the bars. Those extra points come in mighty handy sometimes, as witness Harlos Green's pennant winning placement in the Frog-Pony battle last year, which earned the Christians a draw and brought them their first Conference championship.

Reports from Waco have it that the Dope Sheet's championship aspirants, the Baylor Bears, gave a rather disappointing exhibition in their opening game. Candidly the Bruins did not look so hot as they defeated the North Texas Teachers by a 33-0 score. Morley Jennings' lads were unable to sift through the Teachers' line and skirt their ends as did the Texas Christian Horned Toads a week before, and had to fall back on their overhead attack to run up a decent score. It may be that the persistent jinx which usually trails athletic teams, fishing parties, etc., with which the writer is even remotely connected is already after the Bears. At any rate, we have gone too far to back up now, so the Golden Grizzlies will receive our enthusiastic if unavailing support throughout the season, with the exception of November 8.

Lillian Masterson and Sylvia Gravely of Littlefield Dormitory spent the week-end in San Antonio.

Fay Wilson spent the past week-end at her home in Beaumont.

Bovines Settle Down to Work After Miner Go

Louisianans Boast Veteran Team; Special Train Brings Rooters

By WILBURN VAN FLEET

Their bruising game with the Texas School of Mines over, the Texas Longhorns settled down Monday toward work in preparation for the invasion of the Centenary Gentlemen from Shreveport. The Gents, always troublesome to Southwest Conference teams, will bring a veteran team, backed by a trainload of 500 rooters, to Austin for their first "blood" game of the season.

The Longhorns, although they are still far from a polished team, showed enough power against the fighting Miners last Saturday to make them favorites over the Louisianans. The Miners team was a much harder crew than most critics expected, and the 28-0 score does not indicate the struggle that Texas had to put up to win, nor is one able to appreciate the real power of the Texas team without being familiar with the quality of the Miners.

Defense Shows

The outstanding improvement displayed in the game Saturday by the Longhorns, was the defense against passes. Statistics showed that the Miners, ordinarily an efficient passing machine, tried 12 passes, completed only two, and had six of them intercepted. This is a remarkable contrast to the pitiful showing made by the Longhorns against the San Marcos Bobcats' aerial attack a week earlier, where pass after pass was completed for good gains. Walter Howle, substitute center, played the leading role in the pass defense by intercepting two tosses, and batting down several others. His play indicated that he may beat Nick Gatoura out of a starting berth against the Gentlemen next week.

Another high spot for the Longhorns was the play of "Dutch" Baumgarten, "Ox" Blanton, and Pete Peterson, guard, tackle, and end respectively on the left side of the line. Jeff Andrews, the Miner quarterback sent play after play against this array of material, only to have them stopped for no yardage.

Ends Show Up

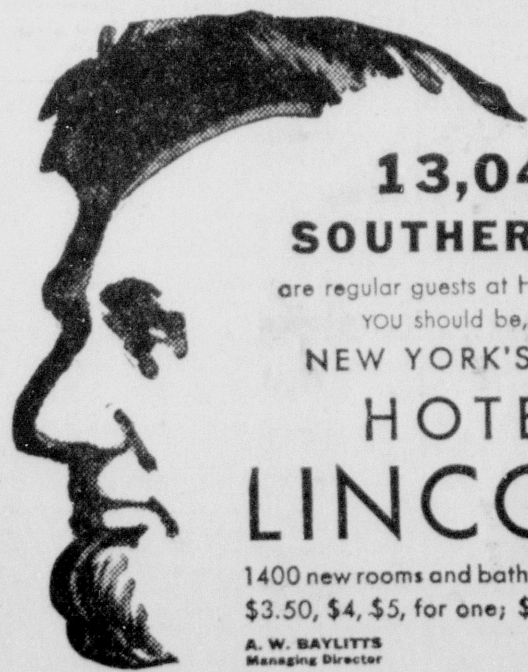

Two sophomore ends, Bill Dubose and Ed Price, also gave the Longhorn coaches reason to rejoice over their work after they were substituted.

The Centenary team, although they have lost the flashy Jake Hanna from the backfield and Willis, the giant tackle who was half the line last year, have probably a stronger combination than the one which was beaten by the Longhorns, 20-0, in Austin last year. Besides the two stars, Coach Norton has lost only two other veterans, and he has enough freshman material to more than offset their loss.

Steer-Aggie Game Seats Sold to 15-Yard Line

If you want to see the Texas-A. & M. game next Thanksgiving from a seat closer than the 15-yard line, the chances are that you are due to be disappointed, for that is where the seats are being assigned at present by the football ticket manager at the Texas Athletic Office in Austin. Advance sales have been so heavy that stadium subscribers, who hold options on a limited number of seats have taken up all seats, other than those reserved for students, down to the 15-yard line, and applications are still pouring in daily. Applications from the general public will not be filled until approximately four weeks before the game, the options held by the stadium subscribers going off at the same time.

Seats for the Texas-Oklahoma game to be played in Dallas, October 18, are being assigned along the 25-yard line. The options held by stadium subscribers for that game has expired, and applications from the general public are being filled. An early estimate places the crowd for the Oklahoma game at between 30,000 and 35,000 people. Last year every seat in the old Fair Park Stadium was sold long before game time. A block of tickets were sent to Sol Dreyfus in Dallas Monday, where they will be put on sale at Dreyfus and Son, October 2.

Tickets for the Texas-SMU game, which promises to be one of the best in the conference this year, have been going rather slowly. The option held by stadium subscribers was due to expire October 1, with only about two sections of Texas Memorial Stadium sold.

Departmental Teams Enter Intramurals

Six departmental teams will enter the intramural contests this year, it was announced Monday.

Letters have been sent to all the deans of the various schools asking them to select student managers. The managers will in turn select the men to compete for their departments. Instructions and announcements will be sent through the mail to the student managers, who will make the announcements to the students who wish to compete.

The School of Business Administration is the only school that has selected an intramural manager up to the present time. Other schools that will be entered in intramural activities are the College of Engineering, School of Law, College of Pharmacy, School of Education and the College of Arts and Sciences.

Tackling, Line Play, Blocking Occupy Slimes

Garrett, Maxey, Kotrala, And Dobbs Show Up In Workout

Elementary drills featured freshman football practice Monday afternoon with Garrett, Maxey, Kotrala, and Dobbs showing exceptional form. The freshmen reported in full uniform, since-tackling the dummy was the main feature of the afternoon.

Jim Beard spent the practice period showing the aspiring backfielders the way to come out of formation and block the opposing tackle or end. The backs looked good in a concealed ball passing drill. The backfield men lined up in two lines; the first man in each line ran toward each other bend low, and when they passed, the ball was either exchanged or faked. "Jelly" Dabbs, bending his five feet, five inches low over the ball, looked extraordinarily deceptive when he had the pigskin.

Passing Drill

The backs and ends also went through a snappy passing drill with accuracy, lead, and swiftness in getting rid of the pellet being emphasized. The warm sun filled the players with snap and pep, and the ends made many beautiful catches of wide passes. The passers showed particular improvement in getting the ball off without any delay, and the throws were much more accurate than at any time during the past days of practice.

Linemen Put Through

The linemen spent a hectic afternoon with Mac Burnett, line coach, showing them how to open a hole in the line, how to hold a man out of backfield, and how to come out of the line to drop in the backfield interference. The linemen also showed lots of pep in hitting the dummy in tackling practice.

"THE BEST DRESSED MAN"

It takes more than a startling array of haberdashery and the impeccable taste of a Beau Brummel to carry off the proud title of "best dressed man" of the senior class. Don't forget that health is a vitally important factor. Shredded Wheat adds that glow of health that makes splendid raiment becoming. Mineral salts and bran to promote a good complexion—carbohydrates and proteins for energy and freshness—vitamins for pep and vigor. Try a biscuit or two tomorrow morning—delicious with milk or cream, and a few slices of your favorite fruit.

SHREDDED WHEAT

the husky gridders were hitting the canvas bag low and hard, often carrying the weight up to the top of the rope standard. The thing emphasized most during linemen's practice was the art of opening a hole in the line. The use of arms and shoulders in removing the opposing liner was drilled and re-drilled by the linemen during the afternoon. The centers were drilling on passing the ball back, and their accuracy in snapping the pigskin to the backfield was unusual.

Climb Ropes

The entire team loosened up with a series of calisthenics which included a taste of rope climbing. "Shorty" Alderson, head freshman coach, took charge of the offensive drill for the ends, centers, and backs. The aspirants are still a little stiff and awkward, but with a few more warm days, the frosh will be ready for light scrimmage. The star transfers are finding themselves closely pressed by many hard-fighting youngsters. The most promising feature of the squad this year is that the hardest-contested places on the squad are the positions that will be vacated on the Varsity this year by graduation.

Newman Club Hears President Benedict

"Education is the non-routine side of life, coming in contact with new things, people, and facts," H. Y. Benedict told members of the Newman Club Sunday morning.

He stressed the importance of keeping the mind alive and active with new interests—not to let it become ensnared in a rut or be content with the mere getting of daily assignments.

Miss Mary Faulk, dramatic instructor at St. Mary's Academy, gave a very clever impersonation of a negro preacher delivering a sermon. Henry Wunderlick, organist of St. Austin's Chapel, entertained the club with several piano selections.

After the program a short business session was held in which it was decided to continue the weekly socials. The social this week will be held Friday night from 8:30 to 9:30 o'clock in the Newman Club room.

League Blanks Must Be in by October 1

High schools desiring to participate in Interscholastic League football must have their application blanks filled out and in the mails before midnight, October 1, Roy B. Henderson, athletic director of the Interscholastic League Bureau, has announced.

Most of the high schools in the league have taken steps to participate in Interscholastic League football. About 375 schools have filed their applications at the bureau office, and eligibility blanks are being received daily in great numbers for checking and filing as permanent records.
