REPORTS SHOW 'FLU' EPIDEMIC NOW BROKEN

Hospital Lists Point Out Decrease of Illness

59 NOW CONFINED

Signal Improvement in Situation Shown

Influenza, which has threatened to become as devastating as the epidemic in 1918, seems to be on the "run" in University circles, according to indications of the hospital list.

Friday's report, given out by the University Health Service, showed a total of 67 students in Austin hospitals, while the list Saturday included only 59 students. A reduction of eight patients is considered by the Health Service as indication of a break in the threatened epidemic, and with each student exercising only reasonable care, the number of "flu" cases should steadily decrease, the medical officials stated.

Seton Infirmary, in which a majority of the students are being cared for reports the following names on the University list: Adolph Jockush, Wesley McDonald, I. L. Vaughn, Gordon Tackaberry, Norman Meyer, Moradus Shaddock, Alton Keesee, Edmond Blitch, J. F. Adams, Ben Segal, Emmett Sheffield, Evans G. Bradley, Julia Ptacek, Dorothy Abbott, Winona Glascock, Estelle Dahl, Anita Gruesen, Julia Bell Deutz.

Elmer Witherspoon, Sam Maas, John Kevill, F. J. Stevenson, Harold Malone, Otis Dyer, Sol Black, Frank Stubbeman, W. L. Jones, James Harris, John B. Herring, Carl K. Mount, Edwin Engbrock, Dorothy Underwood, Gladys Sauvignat, Mary M. Glascock, Annie Pearl Wiggins, Onah Jacks, and Frances Cox.

Those in St. David's Hospital are: Jack Krueger, Jean Scharlock, C. T. Hightower, Du Bose Murphy, Driskell Roberts, Ramona Goen, H. B. Streeter, L. F. Hackel, J. M. Burke, R. L. Tolles, Joe Jonak, Once Woodward, Virginia Curry, Wilma Milligan, E. A. McNatt, Frances Campbell, and Cora Guin.

The S. R. D. Infirmary list includes the following: Christine Ellis, Virginia Allen, Helen Wood, Birdie Walker, and Laura Hathcock.

CACTUS CLOSES SIX SECTIONS COMING WEEK

Many Parts of Year Book Already Closed

Section closings for the Cactus this week will include the graduate, the senior law, the fraternity and sorority, and the academic, education, and pharmacy, according to Burt Dyke, business manager.

Only 18 more students of the Graduate School can be represented in this section, due to limitations of time and space. The senior law section is complete with the exception of two spaces which will be assigned to the first two members of the class calling at B. Hall 119 Monday.

There are but five social fraternities and sororities that have made arrangements for their representation. Pictures are now being taken at the Cactus Studio at the rate of 30 individuals a day.

The section assigned to academic, education, and pharmacy seniors has but 95 spaces open, Dyke said, and it is expected that these will be taken quickly this week.

Graduates and seniors who expect to get their degrees in August as well as in June are being represented in the book, as this will be the only permanent record of the University that can contain their pictures.

Perigrinus to Attend Annual Law Banquet

By SOPHIE FAVERMAN
Perigrinus, patron saint of all the "laws" vult is in attendance at the annual banquet of the School of Law Monday night, December 10, in the Stephen F. Austin Hotel.

Many are the tales of Perigrinus. Every one has a different idea of its origin, but few have the right one. Perigrinus, the patron saint of the laws, the most conglomerate of conglomerate creatures, was the brain child of a sleep-drugged mind.

In the days when beer was still the most popular drink of the campus, and when young women did not take courses in business administration, and when law students from Corpus Christi slept in Equity classes, a certain Judge Simpkins was lecturing to a class in Equity one day. It happened that on this day while the lecture was going on, a young lawyer-to-be, slumbered in that very class. The judge was showing the relationship between the Praetor-Perigrinus, a Roman judge who settled cases of foreigners in Rome; and the young student who was from Corpus Christi continued to sleep.

The following day Judge Simpkins asked the young man, who had slept, to define "Praetor-Perigrinus." This was indeed an unfair question as the young man had never heard of that term before. The musical name remained with him, however, and after class, without any explanation of his action, he walked up to the black board and drew Perigrinus. (Neglected to say that this young man was an expert cartoonist.)

And it came to pass that Perigrinus became the patron saint of the laws. He was cast in supposed bronze, but two years later during the test of his real metal, he was discovered to have feet of clay, and one foot even broken off. It was the afternoon before the annual law banquet and Perigrinus was being carried from his place of abode to the University, when suddenly he and his conveyors were blockaded by a group of engineers in the Capitol grounds. Perigrinus, after being badly bruised, was captured by the engineers minus one leg. That was the only time since Perigrinus has been in existence that he did not grace the festive board of the annual law banquet. The defeated laws attended the banquet that Turn to Page 3, Col. 5

GLEE CLUB TO APPEAR TODAY IN BROWNWOOD

University Gleemen Give Second Program

The Men's Glee Club made the second appearance on its annual winter tour Saturday evening, in Brownwood. This Sunday, the club will present a sacred concert in the same city.

The program Saturday night consisted of eight numbers. Three divisions of the program were sung by the glee club in chorus. The songs used by them were of classical or religious nature.

In one of these groups incidental solos were carried by Wray Ryan and by Kenyon Douglas, respectively. John Guinn, C. L. Turbeville, Jr., and Stanley Addington appeared in solo numbers.

The Longhorn quartet sang "Out of the Dusk," by Dorothy Lee, and "Uncle Moon," by Charles P. Scott. Last came the "Vodvil Skit," headed by Alex Lilico, "The Eyes of Texas," given by the entire club, concluded the program.

Twenty-four singers, chosen from the membership of the Glee Club, in addition to Gilbert Schramm, director, compose the traveling personnel of the group.

BROWN PICKED AS OUTSTANDING STAR

The present gridiron season has produced an unusually large number of outstanding stars that have gained nation-wide recognition of fans and newspaper critics. One of these is Texas' fighting captain-elect, Gordy Brown. Since the first game of the season, Brown's slashing tackle play has been the talk of the southwest. Fans, sport writers, and officials were quick to note the Longhorn star's sensational line play. His fame has spread over the nation and one prominent eastern critic has described him as "one of the three greatest tackles in the nation."

Others have been just as complimentary to the Steer linesman.

ARKANSAS NOT TO BE OUSTED, OFFICIALS RULE

Membership Depends On Observance Of Rules

SCOUTING LIMITED

Only Three Games May Be Scouted Say Rules

Special to The Daily Texan.
DALLAS, Dec. 8.—Rumors that Arkansas University would not be a member of the Southwestern Conference for another year, were dispelled Saturday afternoon following a meeting of conference officials here, when President D. A. Penick announced that "Arkansas was still a member."

The President announced that the policy of the conference was to consider membership "permanent as long as they observed regulations," and that the Razorback school was likely to remain in the circuit as long as officials of the school desired.

It was written in the rules of the conference that "a movement for retention or elimination of conference members must originate within the faculty board." Since newspaper men were not allowed to attend the meeting, the rule was interpreted to mean that the "ouster move" against Arkansas was started by some official other than a faculty member. Dr. Penick informed scribes that this action was adopted unanimously.

Some agitation was begun and adopted to enforce the conference rule which stipulates that four conference games must be played annually and that each member of the organization must play every four years on the Fayetteville campus. It was announced that the Louisiana State game will not be counted in the future as a conference game as bouts have been tentatively booked with Texas, Baylor, Rice and A. & M.

The scouting rule of the conference, which limits scouting to three times a season, was amended which provided that the scout must be a member of the coaching staff of the school he represents. Only one man can scout a team at a time. It makes no difference whether the team scouted has already been played or not, only three times a season are permitted.

The action of the Texas association of colleges at their recent meeting in Fort Worth, which disapproved of the commissioner plan and offered as a better method of controlling athletics a special commission composed of presidents of the five conferences in the state was adopted.

Thus the Southwest Conference, as well as the T. I. A. A., the Texas Conference and the two junior conferences will band together in forming the commission. The president and secretary of the Texas Association will serve on this committee, making it a body of seven men.

While it was reported that both Centenary College, Shreveport, and Texas Tech, Lubbock, Turn to Page 4, Col. 4

Peace was restored once more—until—

In the year of 1924, on a certain evening during an annual banquet of the engineers, an army of avenging laws invaded the banquet hall, captured old Alex, the patron saint of the engineers, abducted him, and executed him. The remains were divided among the avengers. Today several of the ex-law students are said to have among the relics in their studies, pieces of wood with one word carved on them, "Alex."

Last year at the law banquet, Engineers had bribed a negro waiter to grab Perigrinus and throw him out of the window at a given signal. The plan failed because the engineer, who was to turn out the lights failed to find the switch and the patron was saved.

Perigrinus was created once more by Mansbendel, an expert carver of wood. He has been guarded very carefully since.

Three years ago, many years after the tragic kidnapping of old Perigrinus, a certain dean of the School of Law was summoned to a meeting in the Engineering Building one afternoon; in which meeting a certain dean of the School of Engineering read a formal document, requesting that the hatchet be buried between the laws and the engineers. As a token of their sincerity, the dean of the School of Engineering presented lame Perigrinus to the dean of the laws.

What Do You Know About—

By KATHLEEN EILAND

- 1. Anti-war treaty?
- 2. Mexican immigration?
- 3. Report of I. C. C.?
- 4. Aviation company?

Consideration of the Kellogg anti-war treaty is occupying the attention of Congress. The treaty, which takes a stand against war as an instrument of national policy, has already been signed by 60 out of 64 great nations of the world.

President Coolidge is supporting the treaty as is also Secretary Kellogg. One point of dispute over the treaty is the probable effect it would have on the Monroe Doctrine. Secretary Kellogg was questioned Friday by the Senate foreign relations committee, and expressed his belief that the signing of the treaty would in no way interfere with the Monroe Doctrine in regard to North and South America.

Senator Borah is supporting the signing of the treaty without reservations.

So far no open opposition to the treaty has developed, though some believe that a sharp fight on the issue will take place and that Senator Jim Reed who retires voluntarily in March will fight his last congressional battle in opposition to it. Reed fought the world court and now opposes the anti-war treaty as tending to entangle this country too deeply in European affairs.

Restriction of immigration, particularly from Mexico, is favored by Secretary Davis of the Labor Department in his yearly report. Davis states that after restriction of immigration from Europe, immigration from Mexico increased and now amounts to about 80,000 a year. He believes this number should be reduced to slightly more than 7,000 each year.

Broadening of its powers to control and direct consolidation of railway systems, as well as other changes in federal laws relating to railroads, was asked by the Interstate Commerce Commission in its annual report this week.

Elimination of wooden passenger cars and permission for American railroads to make joint through rates with Mexican and Canadian lines, were among other changes asked.

A decline in the number of passengers carried by steam lines—a fact due to competition from other modes of transportation—was shown in the report of the committee.

Undeterred by frequent casualties, the business of aviation continues to grow. Formation of North American Aviation, Inc., a $25,000,000 aviation investment company, has been announced by the president of the Curtiss Aeroplane and Motor Company, Inc. Aviation men and bankers from all sections of the United States and Canada are associated in the undertaking.

The American Institute of Toy-makers is holding its annual session in New York. Even toy-makers have troubles peculiarly their own for they insist on complicated toys while the psychologists hold up their hands in horror and insist on simplicity; so the toy-makers hold their conference and the press dispatches call it "sol-emn."

LEO TO RENDER SPECIAL SOLO

The feature of the 11 o'clock service Sunday at the All Saint's Chapel will be a special solo by Ralph Leo, "Oh God, Have Mercy," from Mendelssohn's "Messiah."

This year Ralph Leo is in charge of the All Saint's Choir which has 30 members, and has recently organized under the name of All Saint's chorists. Plans have been made for various programs to be given during the year.

Mrs. Roberts D. Stewart, reference librarian at the Main library, has returned home from Seton's Infirmary, where she underwent a tonsil operation. It will be several days before she will be able to resume her work in the library.

LET THERE BE LIGHT

While the theorists theorize in an effort to decide whether the action of the Assembly in abolishing the honor system was a personal insult or not, a few other students are considerably more concerned with other things. One of them is the lack of a light between Garrison Hall and S Hall.

It is extremely discouraging to the industrious student to have to pick his way through a sea of blackness after spending a busy evening in the reserve library and cramming his brain with facts and figures. Not only is it disconcerting but it is also often dangerous, especially considering the slope of the landscape in that particular region and the fact that there is no indication when the luckless student wending his way homeward may step off into space at the bottom of the walk.

To say the least, it slows him down to the extent that he loses not less than a full minute that might otherwise be spent in studying. And the effect on his moral condition is not all that the clergy would desire.

All in all, it seems that a light—even a dim one—just east of Garrison Hall would do a great deal to encourage studious habits in those who do not possess them and to bolster up the courage of the remaining few who still study until the library closes, despite the fact that they may break their neck on the way home and spoil a lot of perfectly good knowledge. For their sake and for that of others, let there be light.

FACULTY INDEPENDENCE

The University of Washington professorate exhibits startling originality, if slight magnanimity, in dealing with the annual healthy supply of undergraduate blarney. At least, Professor Stevenson Smith of the psychology department has a "sure kill" method of squelching handshakers who ask him to dinner, says a recent issue of the Oregon Herald.

When a girl telephones him and says: "Oh, Dr. Smith, we would love to have you come to dinner tomorrow," he always replies:

"No, thanks, my room and board are paid for in advance."
"It always gives me a pain," remarked another professor, "to have a student hang over my desk and coo about how she simply adores this course, and the way I lecture is simply divine. I don't like flattery anyway. I am suspicious of it."—Cornell Daily Sun.

WHAT'S WANTED IN HUSBANDS

The following bit of information on model husbands appeared in the Oregon Daily Emerald:

What would you look for in a model husband?
One senior says: "I think first of all that he should be a companion. He should like the same things that I would enjoy. He should be refined and of such a personality that he would be well-liked by others. He wouldn't necessarily have to be handsome but should be intelligent looking."

This from a junior: "I would look for kindness, not only to myself, but to others, thoughtfulness, and respect for elders, in a model husband."

And a freshman: "I think the model husband should be clever, good-natured and an all-round sport."—Cornell Daily Sun.

COMMON SENSE

Diplomatic circles in Washington are suffering from an acute attack of common sense. Representative Britten of Illinois, chairman of the house committee on naval affairs, has cast a bombshell into the state department by proposing to Prime Minister Baldwin an inter-parliamentary conference for a frank exchange of views on naval armaments. Not caring to realize, perhaps, the benefits of such a discussion as opposed to the formal, reserved, and dilatory tactics of diplomacy, Secretary Kellogg has resented the encroachment on his field of endeavor, and President Coolidge, with his 15 new cruisers at heart, has rebuked Britten for overstepping the authority of his office.

The common sense of Britten's proposal is manifest. Just for the sheer pride of possession no nation wants to burden its taxpayers with 150,000 tons of floating fighting power. Obviously Coolidge's 15 new cruisers are for national defense—defense against superior naval power, meaning Great Britain.

Great Britain, in turn, has shown that she means to remain the world's premier naval power. Her blocking of constructive results in the Coolidge naval arms parley and the much-mooted Anglo-French compact to secure France's support in all disarmament haggles with the United States have clearly indicated her determination to retain the naval supremacy she wrested from Spain in 1588. The time has passed when we can bluff Great Britain into accord with our views by merely threatening to build more ships.

There is no reason why the United States and Great Britain should engage one another in an expensive and disastrous race for naval hegemony. The ties of blood and language and trade that bind the two nations should not be threatened for the sake of preserving diplomatic regularity.

Representative Britten's proposal has been most favorably received by Premier Baldwin and Parliament. It most certainly deserves America's support, for it will pave the way to new and more representative understanding, probably eliminating the necessity for the new Coolidge cruisers.—Minnesota Daily.

WHERE DELAY IS UNKNOWN

Long, long ago some students agreed that a student union building would be a mighty good thing for the University of Washington and its student body. Whereupon they set about to make that building more than a proposal, more than a possibility.

Last year plans for the Union building assumed definite shape. Committees were formed, plans were discussed, locations were considered. The project was definitely under way. The Student Union was no longer a possibility; it had entered the realm of the probable, and was well along the road to actuality. The Stadium and the Pavilion had been completed. Logically the Union was the next step on the building program. The beginning of actual construction was expected within the year.

That was last year. Today the Union building plans are at a standstill. It is still a thing of the future, far-off. Unfortunately for the Union building as well as other things, the A. S. U. W. is suffering considerable financial embarrassment.

And so it is with amazement mixed with pleasure that The Daily looks at the University of California at Los Angeles.

Says the U. C. L. A. student citizenry: "We want a Student Union building. And we want it ready for occupancy by October, 1929. Let's have it."

The students of that school have translated their words into action. They are working on plans and methods of finance. They seemingly have refused to know the meaning of delay. And they're willing to bet their hats they'll have their Union building by next fall.

Such things, it seems, really do happen.—University of Washington Daily.

Dean Santa:

I know a lot of little girls will be asking for a lot of things from you so I won't bother you much—(that ought to go over—I know GOLD-DIGGERS aren't POPULAR). All I will ask you to bring me, Dear old Santa, is a sable coat, a little ROLLS-ROYCE, a diamond necklace, a few diamond bracelets, a few Paris model outfits (a sample or two from each modiste shop), hats to match, a platinum wrist watch, bids to the following proms: Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Dartmouth, and a few of the better prep schools thrown in, about twenty pounds of the nicest kinds of French imported chocolates will do I think, a dozen mauve orchids every day for a year. (By that time I hope I will have a MILLIONAIRE HUSBAND and maybe a few MILLIONAIRE GENTLEMEN FRIENDS. I saw a movie about that last night.) Centenary, it was announced has four games with conference teams scheduled.

Championships for the year were officially awarded, Texas University taking honors in football, tennis, golf and baseball. A. & M. and Rice tied for the cross country flag, while Arkansas captured the basketball title. Rice won the track pennant.

The 1929 track meet was awarded to S. M. U. to be held the second Friday and Saturday in May, the tennis meet to be held at Texas the following week.

FEWER REQUESTS MADE FOR TEACHERS

One thousand three hundred and forty-six requests for teachers were received by the teachers' appointment committee during the year 1928, according to statistics announced by Miss Miriam Dozier, secretary of the committee. This number includes 16 calls received in November and five during the early part of December.

Requests filed this year are somewhat below the number made during the same months of last year, the total for that time being 1,460; in all, 1,498 petitions for teachers were received by the committee in 1927-28.

Statistics compiled over a period of nine years show that the least number of requests were received in 1922-23, when only 1,254 calls were tabulated. The greatest number was reached in 1924-25, during which time 1,553 requests were made. As a rule the total usually amounts to about 1,455.

The heaviest work of the committee comes during the spring and early summer months when the greatest number of requests and applications are received. There is never a month, however, when some calls for teachers are received, Miss Dozier stated.

TEXAN SPORTS

BASKETBALL
NEXTSPORT
TALKBy BOB CANTRELL
TEXAN SPORTS EDITOR

Judging from some of the All-American selections we have been seeing of late, we have come to the conclusion that all one has to do is to pick up a paper, glance over the headlines, and then put the team down. That seems to be the process gone through with the so-called experts in the country. Personally, we think it perfectly absurd for any one person to attempt to name an All-American. The expert hasn't seen half of the men he places on it in action; he merely takes the word of some other writer, and writers aren't beyond the pale of prejudice. No, we don't ever intend to pick one, and we hate to pick an all-conference team in anything. They don't mean a thing under the shining sun, either to the writer or to the reading public. All they do is swell the vanity of some football player.

The academics did something that they don't do very often yesterday afternoon. They won the intramural cross-country meet by a wide margin over the engineers, who wandered in second, while the pre-meds strolled in third before the afternoon ended. The time of Storm, academy, who finished first, broke the old record by some 32 seconds. His time was 18 minutes, 28.3 seconds.

The intramural handball tournament is fast drawing to a close. The semi-finals were run off yesterday afternoon, and two of the best matches of the tourney were dishd out to the fans when Sandlin and Williams disposed of Wells and Bradt, respectively. These two men will meet in the finals Tuesday afternoon.

Goldsmith's Deserted Village has nothing on Z Hall. With every coach out of town, and Dr. Ettlinger confined to his bed with a slight attack of the "flu," the place seems like a small college campus during the Christmas holidays. One can wander through the long dreary halls for hours without interruption.

Gordy Brown has found his counterpart. We were out to see the Sam-Huston-Prairie View Normal battle yesterday afternoon. Several times during the game, we heard one of the dusky females rise up in her seat several times, and yell "Watch that black Gordy Brown get in there."

Basketball work is holding the center of the stage at every conference school right now. Every mentor has his men hard at it every afternoon, and will soon

STEERS REST
WITH WALKER
AT MEETINGLettermen Hope of Texas Mentor
In Race

Coach Fred Walker attended the meeting of the conference basketball coaches in Dallas yesterday and his Longhorn cagers got a day's rest. Hard work and then some more hard work has been the daily routine of the cagers since November 5, when Walker took charge of the squad. The rest was not exactly unwelcome to the thinly-clad. The Steer mentor is bringing his charges along rather slowly, and is reviewing them in the fundamentals as well as the more advanced principles of the court game.

At present the squad numbers 30 men, seven of them being lettermen, and six of them squadmen. The others are graduates from last year's frosh quintet with the exception of one or two former intramural players. The hopes of the Steers are mainly placed upon the veterans, Captain Holly Block, "Sugar" Camp, Red Wray, Jake Looney, Frank Cheatham, Nona Rees, and Big Un Rose; these men are all of known quantity. They have been tried and not found lacking and of course have the edge on the rest of the squad. Among the others, "Rut" Vining, squadman, is showing up well. Among the former freshmen, Harrison, Miller, and Taylor show promise. White, a former intramural player, is also looking good.

As yet the schedule of pre-season games has not been announced but some intimation of the early opponents may be given by Walker upon his return from the Dallas meeting.

be ready to unleash their cohorts on the rest of the field.

The Interscholastic League race has certainly narrowed down. Only four teams remain in the race after this week's play. Marshall, Cleburne and Abilene appear to be the strongest teams in the race.

Sandlin Plays
Williams in Handball
Finals

Fast sensational recoveries and long, hard-fought games featured the semi-finals of the intramural handball singles yesterday afternoon. Arthur Sandlin, law, whipped Wells, academy, in straight sets 21-2, 21-10, 21-11, but Paul Williams, academy, had a tougher time with Collis Bradt before he could win in five games, 21-7, 8-21, 10-21, 21-17.

The Wells-Sandlin watch was decided by the time the first game was over, with Sandlin clearly outclassing his opponent. Sandlin doesn't have a serve, but he is a "wow" on returning.

The Williams-Bradt match was the best that has been staged during the entire tournament. Bradt had a baffling serve that kept Williams in hot water during the entire match, but the latter would stage sensational rallies. Williams' serve was inferior to that of Bradt, but the academy was a better player in the other branches of the game. In the last game, Williams was trailing Bradt by about ten points when he staged a rally to take the lead, and win the game a few minutes later. His terrific "kills" were just too good for Bradt.

Williams and Sandlin will meet Tuesday afternoon in the finals. Both are the same type of player. Neither has a serve to rave about, but both play a great return game, specializing in "kills."

Special to The Daily Texan.
The Interscholastic League race drew a step nearer its end yesterday when Abilene eliminated Amarillo 26-21 and Port Arthur and Main Avenue of San Antonio battled to a 6-6 tie. Friday saw Greenville and Sunset High eliminated by Marshall and Cleburne in well played games. This coming week-end will see the race get still closer when two more teams will fall by the wayside.

ABILENE, Dec. 8.—The Abilene Eagles fought their way into the semi-finals of the State Interscholastic League football race here this afternoon when they handed the Amarillo Golden Sandstorm a 26-21 walloping. The Eagles were the class of the day, but the Sandies put up one awful fight for the game, and the result was in doubt until the final gun had been fired.

PORT ARTHUR, Dec. 8.—Main Avenue High of San Antonio battled Port Arthur to a 6-6 tie here this afternoon. The two teams were evenly matched throughout the clash, both unleashing powerful attacks only to be stopped

CLARA BOW SHOTS IT TO 'EM IN SHOW AT MAJESTIC

Would you believe that Clara Bow could acquire several degrees more IT by merely dyeing her hair some three or four shades nearer a light orange and becoming just a bit more rotund? Well, that's what she's done, and you may see for yourself at the Majestic, where she's now playing and displaying in "Three Week Ends." She is more intriguing than ever — if you can imagine that.

The story is not worth mentioning—decidedly trite, but there are scenes that will simply knock you ga-ga, especially one love scene that reminded us of the one —you know the one—in "Bardelys the Magnificent." They might really just as well have added one more "weak end" to the title and made it four, because the picture certainly has an ending that fairly quavers. Now why should we stop to criticize the plot of one of the Bow pictures—who could keep his mind on the plot, anyway? But Clara is the one person to put a deal like that over. I think you'll like Neil Hamilton, who has a role similar to the one he played in "Hot News." He does the William Haines stuff a bit mechanically, but he is not at all lacking in the collar-and-quality, and he is such a likable cuss. Harrison Ford remains in a daze throughout the picture, so consequently could not register very heavily. The cast quite makes up for the plot.

You need not dread the Billy Dooley comedy; it's pretty hilarious. —B.B.

FLO ROBERTS ON VODVIL

FLO ROBERTS STOPS SHOW ON HANCOCK VAUDEVILLE

The vaudeville bill now showing at the Hancock is like a hundred-year-old quilt—it's all ragged. There are two comic acts that are as good as one can expect, but there are three acts that are nothing short of terrible.

Roy Cummings with Flo Roberts is the best the bill offers. He runs to eccentric comedy and trick back drops and he is silly enough to convulse any audience. After climbing a back-drop tree and sitting in a back-drop chair, he bounces around the neck of the little lady with him and chews her head. The lady herself is plenty warm, oh, just plenty and the local boys made sounds like a steam caliope every time she came on the stage.

Hurst and Vogt have a nifty line of chatter which is funny, although it's usually off-color. If the tall boy's name is Hurst, we'll say he's no hearse because he wows 'em plenty. Vogt works, for most of the act, straight. Although it wasn't their act Hurst and Vogt stepped over into the headline act, "The Wedding Gown," and almost put it over. The chorus girls aren't very noble looking and without the two boys named above I can't imagine what the act would have been.

The Monge Troupe are splendid tumblers but they are evidently not used to working on the stage.

I've saved the worst till the last, children. O'Connor and Vaughan, the personality girls, whether you like it or not, are absolutely terrible. They would look bad enough if they didn't try to sing; they would sing bad enough, if they didn't try to dance, and nobody could dance worse. Their costuming is no better than their dancing, the hems of their dresses weren't even pressed. Of course, one of them wasn't quite as bad as the other; I think it must have been the Vaughan part of the act, anyway she was dressed in pink and sang "I Got to Get Myself Somebody to Love" in the approved hony-tonk manner. They were virtually hissed off the stage at the afternoon performance.

The picture, something about gang wars, wasn't much better. —A. N. M.

Esteban's Pailo crowded with dark-haired and flashing-eyed Senoritas, "The Floating Cabaret," "The Spanish Shawl," "Black & White Ballet," "The Flying Squad," the Moonlight Triple Wedding, Romero's Mexican String Band, Roger Wolfe Kahn's Serenader, and the Aztec Goddesses, Lorelei of long ago clad as diaphanously as their mythological sisters. A history-making stage performance if ever was one produced since civilization first awoke to the glamour of theatrical spectacles.

ALL-TALKIE NOW ON QUEEN SCREEN FOR ENTIRE WEEK

'On Trial' Presents Stage
Experienced Cast
In Drama

Can you imagine a character in a motion picture being killed before the story even starts, but still appearing on the screen throughout the film?

That is just what happens in the case of Holmes Herbert, who plays an important part in Warner Bros. latest all-talking Vitaphone production, "On Trial." Herbert is murdered before the picture opens but the method of telling the story brings him into almost constant view until the thrilling denouement.

"On Trial" comes to the Queen theater today for a run of one week.

The film adaptation of Elmer Rice's remarkable play, "On Trial," brings to the screen one of the most sensational melodramas of theatrical history, and the fact that every line in the play is audibly spoken vastly heightens its effect on the audience.

The all-star cast appearing in the production includes Pauline

BERT LYTELL AND EITHER Lois Wilson or Pauline Frederick, we don't know which, so take your choice. In an all-talkie called "ON TRIAL," at the Queen theater, home of all the talkies, all this week.

Martindel, Fred Kelsey and Franklin Pangborn. "On Trial" is directed by Archie L. Mayo from the scenario by Robert Lord.

TEXAS THEATER SHOWS BEST AIR MOVIE TWO DAYS

'Legion of Condemned'
Now Playing; 'Free'
Day Tuesday

Without a doubt one of the best movies ever put out by Hollywood, "The Legion of the Condemned," will be showing at the Texas theater Sunday and Monday. Don't miss it. The story concerns war and more war, but don't mind that, it's well done. Gary Cooper and Fay Wray act out the story in a manner almost inspired, but the fatalistic and pessimistic philosophy of the thing is what counts most. You get an intimate view of the personnel of an air squadron bent on its way to death, every damn man of them, to put it approximately in language they would appreciate. Incidentally, this is the best air picture that has been put out, counting "Wings," "Lilac Time," both of which it exceeds by miles and miles. Don't miss this show.

Tuesday will be "merchants' day" at the Texas, free passes being given by places of business in the University neighborhood. Esther Ralston's "Something Always Happens" is the show. Thursday, "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," a perfectly cast picture, takes the screen.—C.B.

GLEN TRYON AT CRESCENT

Glen Tryon, one of the screen's newest comedy finds, takes the silver sheet through Monday at the Crescent theater in a rip snorter called "How to Handle Women," as if anybody could. His accomplices in this hoax comedy are Marion Nixon and Raymond Keane, not to mention Bull Montana, just what his name says he is, and Cesare Gravina, one of the most excellent character actors of the screen.

The show Tuesday through Thursday is the great John Barrymore's "The Tempest," being his latest masterpiece, which you will want to see. Ricardo Cortez follows Friday and Saturday in "The Gun-Runner."

"The Book That's Different"

MAJESTIC PICTURE WEDNESDAY 'SKIRTS'

The Majestic show scheduled for Wednesday through Friday of this week is Sid Chaplin in "Skirts." That's where he's made his biggest successes as far as movies go—in feminine characterizations, and this one is expected to be no exception.

Storm Breaks Record as Academs Win

With Dan Storm leading the way with a time of 18 minutes, 28.3 seconds to shatter the old record by 32 seconds, the academs swept through with four places in the first five yesterday afternoon, to win the intramural cross country meet, with the engineers trailing in second, and the pre-meds finishing a poor third. The victory of the academs was overwhelming when they placed six men in the first ten to finish. Killingsworth, academ, who finished second, also broke the old record.

The victory gave the academs a commanding lead in the race for the intramural trophy.

FENCING CLASS CHANGES PLACE OF MEETING

Morning Groups Meet At Doom House This Week

All morning fencing classes for women will meet at the Doom House on Twenty-fourth Street, beginning this week, according to announcement by Miss Anna Hiss, head of physical training for women. Locker space, dressing rooms, and maid service will be provided members of the classes, it was explained.

Afternoon fencing classes will continue to meet at the Woman's Gymnasium on Tuesdays and Thursdays, Miss Hiss said, but floor space will not be provided the morning classes in the gymnasium because of the change in schedule of the various winter sports. Girls who wish to transfer to beginner's or advanced afternoon classes may do so this week by reporting to Mrs. Tec Lynn, Miss Hiss said.

A 20 per cent increase in enrollment was shown by the fencing classes this term over last term, and extra classes had to be organized to care for the added fencers.

The classes meeting on Fridays and Saturdays are one-hour classes for beginners and advanced; the Saturday morning class being limited, however, to advanced students. A beginner's afternoon class meeting twice a week, Tuesdays and Thursdays, for three hours credit has been organized and meets at 4 o'clock. A place has been reserved on the program for the advanced class meeting Tuesdays and Thursdays at 3 o'clock for three hours credit. Transfers from the one-hour classes may be made to either of these, Miss Hiss said.

The morning classes meet at 10
