Lincoln Aided

Leader Secretive After Inauguration As President

By CLAYTON HICKERSON
Dr. Charles W. Ramsdell, professor of American history, yesterday told his listeners of Abraham Lincoln and Fort Sumter and the part the man and the fort played in the starting of the Civil War.

Lincoln said that the South thought slavery was right and thought it should be extended to the territories, according to Dr. Ramsdell, and the North thought it was wrong and should not be extended to the territories. This was only partly right. The South-erners looked upon the Republi-cans as a menace and a particu-larly sectional party, seeing in the extension of slavery the first step to crush the negro slavery in the South.

When Lincoln was elected in 1860 he said the free states, those not having slaves, were hos-tile to the South and could crush it. Some of the South thought the best thing to do was to secede, but a majority of the people were looking for a com-promise. The border states wanted to compromise as did President Buchanan, but Lincoln and the abolitionists wanted no compro-mise.

Move Thought Hostile

Fort Sumter was not completed when South Carolina seceded. It was to be the strongest fort on the southern coast and was erected in Charleston Harbor for the defense of Charleston. It was not occupied when South Carolina seceded from the Union, but there was a garrison at Fort Moultrie commanded by Major Anderson. Major Anderson moved his men to Fort Sumter, a move which the Governor of South Carolina interpreted as a military move to get control of the harbor. Thinking this was a hostile move, the people of Charleston asked Anderson to return to Fort Moultrie. He refused until he had been instructed by his government. Charleston then called on the troops back to Fort Moultrie and when this failed they continued to press their demands for the evacuation of Fort Sumter.

Lincoln Cautious

"Lincoln was very secretive and cautious in his words after his inauguration and seldom confided in anyone," said Dr. Ramsdell. There were several courses Lin-coln could have followed after the compromise talk had been killed. He could have let the mat-ter drop, with a strong Confed-eracy resulting or he could have sent supplies and men to Fort Sumter, taking the attitude of the aggressor and starting a war, ac-cording to Dr. Ramsdell.

After days of indirect changes of notes and much bickering, Lin-coln finally sent the "Powhatan" and some other ships to the fort with supplies, but informed Gov-ernor Pickens that nothing but food was being transported and that nothing would be done if the contingent was allowed to make its way unmolested. The fort was taken by the South and the fleet bringing supplies to Fort Sumter was not allowed to enter the harbor.

Marfa Men Offer Davis Mountains Observatory Site

Mount Livermore Proposed Location of $800,000 McDonald Plant

A possible site for the $800,000 McDonald astronomical observa-tory was offered to the University yesterday by a group of Marfa citizens, who proposed its location atop Mount Livermore in the Davis Mountains, more than 8,000 feet above the sea level. The mountain lies between Marfa and Fort Davis, near the highway connecting the two towns.

This is the second site in West Texas to be offered for the Wil-liam J. McDonald observatory plant. The other location was on Guadalupe Peak in Culberson County, the highest peak in Texas and which rises more than a thou-sand feet above Mount Livermore. The El Paso Chamber of Com-merce is supporting the move for placement in Culberson County at the site north of Van Horn, Texas, and near the New Mexico state line south of Carlsbad Cavern.

Class Sees Work On Women's Club

Architects Make First Inspection Trip

Seventeen members of the class in building construction in the department of architecture made the first inspection trip of the year Monday morning during the class hour under the supervision of Dr. Goldwin Goldsmith, profes-sor of architecture. The class visited the $100,000 home of the Texas Federation of Women's clubs, which is being built at the corner of Twenty-fourth and San Gabriel Streets. The purpose of the trip was to inspect a practical type of building construction and to observe difficult features.

Those inspecting the building were D. M. Baldrige, P. D. Barnard, R. Q. Biering, R. M. Brooks, Henry Fairchild, Reginald Gunn, Charles Hawn, Karl Kamrath L. C. Kichne, Milford Loyd, Chris Maizwald, Temple Mayhall, Ches-ter Nagel, Lisandro Pena, Garvie Swafford, John Wiltshire, and Marshall Walker.

PASADENA, Calif., Jan. 19.—Albert Einstein last week tempo-rarily abandoned the music of the spheres for melodies he himself produced at a desert resting place south of here.

Enjoying a respite from his work, he spent several days at Palm Springs in the Imperial Val-ley, where several times he enter-tained other visitors with his violin. This week, however, he had resumed his studies at the Cali-fornia Institute of Technology and Mount Wilson.

How U. Will Invest $800,000

Photograph, Canadian National Railway

If plans are carried to completion on the proposed $800,000 McDonald Astronomical Observatory, for which a site on Mount Livermore in the Davis Mountains was offered by Marfa citizens yesterday, a scene such as the one pictured above will not be an uncommon thing to the eyes of University students. The telescope pictured here is the second largest in the world and is located in the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory at Victoria, British Columbia. It is of the reflecting type with a concave mirror 78 inches in diameter, 12 inches thick and weighing 4250 pounds. Its upper reflecting surface is polished to an accuracy of one-four-hundred-thousandth of an inch. This mirror is flexibly supported at the bottom of a tube 32 feet long, more than seven feet in di-iameter and weighing 15 tons. The total weight of the moving part is about 45 tons but is so perfectly balanced that a child can move it by hand. The telescope and spectroscope cost $97,000 to construct.

'WORDS TOO ELASTIC TO DEFINE MORALS'-BROWNE

By A. B. CEIGLER

"Words are too elastic in meaning to be used in defining a code of morals for our present day civilization," Dr. Lewis Browne, well known author and lecturer, said in an interview Monday. "You will not be able to get much information from me," Browne stated. "I know nothing worthwhile for your paper. But before we start I wish to tell you what a wonder-ful psychologist you have here. I have just returned from spend-ing three weeks in New York in an investigation of a bibliography for a certain psychological prob-lem. There I was unsuccessful. I came to The University of Texas and your psychology professor, Dr. D. B. Klein, gave me exact information I was looking for. You should be very proud of him. Now what are the questions?"

Q. "Dr. Browne, in your book, 'Spinoza,' are you treating Spino-za as the man or as the philoso-pher?"

Writes of Spinoza
"As the man. Many books have been written on the teach-ings of Spinoza. Very little is known about his life. In fact, there is very little to say about his life. He did not have any love or adventure in his life as has an ordinary man. He was just cold Spinoza to the men of his times; he was known only as Spinoza the philosopher. I shall endeavor to show in my book that the life of Spinoza was an expression of his philosophy and likewise his teachings were an expression of his life."

Q. "Do you believe that the human being is evolved from the lower forms of life?"

A. "From what is revealed by science, we learn how man has developed. There is no doubt in the question?"

Q. "Do you believe in a life after death in sense of personal immortality (the existence of a soul as a unit)?"

A. "Your words are too elastic. They have no definite meaning. Anyway I shall attempt to an-swer your question. I now have too much to do to worry about my life after death, or better, as you put it, the existence of the soul as an unit in a sense of per-sonal immortality. When I am old and have nothing which might take up my time, then I shall worry about my future life. At the present I am too young to think about such a thing. As far as I am concerned at the present, there might be a future life for man."

'Bible Is Inspiring'

Q. "Do you think the Bible is the infallible and inspired word of God?"

A. "It is more inspiring than any other book of that nature. Being infallible? I should say not."

Q. "Do you believe that God is a conscious individual who knows all the thoughts and feelings of every person?"

A. "In my opinion, God is a limited individual; he does not know everything. If he did, I would like to interview him about. (Continued on Page Four)

Naming Building Not Considered

Geology Structure May Be Named for Udden

A movement started by the Sweetwater Reporter to name the geology building of the University for the late Johan A. Udden, di-rector of the Bureau of Economic Geology, has not been considered by the University. Dr. Fred M. Bullard, chairman of the depart-ment of Geology, said Tuesday afternoon.

If this action is decided upon, an exception must be made to the ruling that a person be dead five years before a building be named in his memory. Such exception was made in the naming of Sut-ton Hall within two years of the death of the late W. S. Sutton.

Dr. Udden was directly respon-sible for the surveys aiding in the discovery of the Reagan County oil field, from which royalties amounting to more than $17,000,000 have been received by the University.

Geology Students Go on Field Trips

Thirteen Geology I sections are taking field trips this week under the direction of H. G. Damon, Dr. R. H. Cuyler, and Gustavus Eifler of the department of geology. The classes are ex-aminating sedimentation and sedi-mentary rocks.

Starting at the bridge under-pass on the Bouldin Creek road, the expedition examined the road cut in the cliff Monday after-noon. This exposure shows the upper part of the Buda and the Woodbine bituminous shale and the base of the Eagle Ford for-mations. The students went up Bouldin Creek and stopped to ex-amine flaggy layers of Eagle Ford which consists of alternate layers of stone, shale, and ben-tonite or volcanic ash. At the base a pyrite layer is also visible.

A member of Dr. Cuyler's group discovered a fossil shark's tooth in this location. Another interesting find of the geologists was a concretion, which, when broken open, revealed fossil wood.

Farther up the trail, the base of the Austin chalk was exam-ined.

Cavalry Troop Hears Sermon By Sam Hill

Headquarters Troop, One Hun-dred Twenty-fourth Cavalry, heard a sermon by Sam Hill, re-cently ordained minister, on "The Strength of Armies," Sunday morning. Lecture Subjects Include 'Goethe,' 'Gestalt Psychology'

"The faculty public lectures during the first semester have been tremendously successful," Dr. Aaron Schaffer, chairman of the public lectures committee, said Tuesday when he announced tentative plans for lectures during the second semester. Several members of the faculty and one visitor have promised to deliver lectures in the spring, and approximately two ad-dresses will be given each month, Dr. Schaffer said.

During the latter part of April or the early part of May, Dr. Or-geun Keuhnemann, a noted stu-dent of German literature, will be in Austin in connection with the celebration of the one-hun-dredth anniversary of the death of the German poet, Goethe. Dr. Keuhnemann is the author of sev-eral authoritative works on Goethe. He is spending this year in the United States under the auspices of the Carl Schurz Foun-dation for the development of cul-tural relations between the United States and Germany. The "Life of Goethe" will probably be the subject Dr. Keuhnemann will dis-cuss here.

Mexican Child Education Told
Dr. H. T. Manuel, professor of educational psychology, will speak February 17 on "Educating the Mexican Child in Texas," and on March 9, Dr. D. B. Klein, asso-ciate professor of psychology, will deliver an address on "Gestalt Psychology."

"Current Financial Depression" is the subject chosen by Dr. R. H. Montgomery, professor of eco-nomics, for his lecture on March 16. Dr. Schaffer announced also that Dr. E. J. Lund, professor of biology and the University re-search lecturer for this year, will give his lectures either the latter part of March or early in April.

Journalists Will Criticize Papers

Press Committee to Study Work of High Schools

This week the high school press committee of Sigma Delta Chi, mer's professional journalism fra-ternity, will send out personal criticisms of a number of high school papers enrolled in the Inter-scholastic League Press Con-ference, DeWitt C. Reddick, ad-junct professor of journalism and sponsor of Sigma Delta Chi, an-nounced Tuesday.

"It will probably be impossible to criticize all 45 papers enrolled this week, but it is hoped that at least twenty criticisms will be sent out by the end of the week," Mr. Reddick said.

Plans are being laid now for the spring activities of the press conference. The convention will be held in Austin at the time of the Interscholastic League meet-ing.

The press conference, composed of staff members and sponsors of Texas high school papers, is di-rected and sponsored by members of Sigma Delta Chi.

Dance Committee Fills Vacancies

Lone Star Five Will Play Saturday Night

Victor Kormeier was elected floor manager of the All-University Dance Tuesday to take the place which will be made vacant by the resignation of Haskell Roberts. Roberts will finish his work at the University at the end of the present term. Kormeier was formerly assistant floor man. Spurgeon Bell will remain as floor man, and Julius Franki was appointed as the other floor man.

Other appointments were of hat checkers. The following were named: David Minter, Barney Skelton, Henry Moore, Ralph Hill, and Milton Schaeffer.

Jowell Neblett, Pre-med Student, Dies at Setons

Succumbs After Illness Of Two Days; Blood Clot Cause

Services Today

Body Removed to Home In Stephenville Yesterday

Jowell Sloan Neblett, 18, jun-ior pre-medical student in the Uni-versity, died Tuesday morning at 4 o'clock in Seton Infirmary as a result of an infected blood clot on the brain. Doctors explained that the condition probably arose from a pleural infection, when blood became lodged in a large venous channel at the base of his brain, producing a condition called "cavernous sinus thrombo-sis."

Neblett was taken from his Austin residence, 403 East Twen-ty-second Street, to the infirm-ary last Saturday, when he was taken sick with pleurisy.

He was listening to his radio at 9 o'clock Monday night, and was conscious for some time later, but before morning came he died.

Services Held Today

Neblett's body was taken over-land yesterday afternoon to his home at Stephenville, accompa-nied by his roommate, John A. Frey, also of Stephenville. Fun-eral services will be held this af-ternoon.

Neblett spent two years at John Tarleton Agricultural Col-lege at Stephenville, graduating last June with second highest honors, before entering the Uni-versity in September.

Neblett is survived by his par-ents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Neblett of Stephenville; a brother, Charles Neblett, Jr., who received his bachelor of business admin-istration degree from the Uni-versity in 1930 and who now lives in Sherman; another brother, Paul of Stephenville; a sister, Mrs. Wade Forrester of Roscoe; an-other sister, Bessie, of Stephe-nville; and two cousins, Gloria and Hugh Yantis, Austin students in the University now.

Second Death in 1932

Neblett's death is the second among University students since the beginning of the new year and the fourth since the opening of school in September.

Robert L. Masterson, student in the School of Law, was killed Oc-tober 31 in an automobile ac-cident three miles south of Hills-boro as he, Nancy Geisting, and Julius Gordon, University stu-dents, were en route to Dallas to see the Texas-S. M. U. football game.

Miriam Elaine Storrs, senior student in architecture, died De-cember 1 at Harlingen after she had had her jugular vein severed in an automobile accident one mile from San Benito.

Wilmer Trainer, who was first ranking freshman tennis player, died Monday, January 11, at his home in Houston as the result of an attack of pneumonia contracted during the Christmas holidays.

V. I. Moore, dean of men, acted as superintendent of the school.

ROGERS RECOVERING

The condition of Roy Rogers, University student from Hills-boro, was reported much improved Tuesday afternoon by attendants of Seton Infirmary. Rogers was reported to be resting easily after receiving a slight fracture of the skull in a basketball game be-tween Little Campus Dormitory and Concordia College last Fri-day afternoon. He received the injury when a player struck him with his elbow just above his nose.

Dean of Women To Give Permits For Residence Changes

Women students should obtain moving permit cards from the Dean of Women's of-fice, Miss Terrill said.

Honoring Dr. Udden

Suggestions have been made that the new Geology Building, which is to be constructed in a short while, be named in honor of Dr. Udden. Dr. Udden, who died recently, was one of the outstanding geologists of Texas and of the South. He worked with the United States Geological Survey and was for many years head of the Bureau of Economic Geology of the University.

A rule passed by the Board of Regents several years ago stated that no building was to be named for a person before he had been dead for five years. This rule has its merits, for it aims at preventing the naming of buildings for persons only because of the recency of their death. Just because a person happens to die at the time of construction of a building is no reason why he should dictate the name.

But it appears that in the case of the Geology Building a suspension of that rule would be justifiable. By the time the building is completed and occupied, Dr. Udden will have been dead two years. Dr. Sutton had not been dead five years when the old Education Building was renamed in his honor. Gregory Gymnasium was named in honor of a living man.

The mere passage of time can not add to the conviction that Dr. Udden's work is worthy of naming the building for him. But if there are those strict constructionists who do not feel that it should be done, the Regents should not name the building and should reserve the name Udden Hall, to be given five years from now.

Systematic Study

Studying from now until the end of final examinations can not make the student a successful student unless there has been a good deal of effort expended during the past eighteen weeks; but the correct division and utilization of time for the next ten days can aid the student much in his reviewing for the finals.

Some students may have succeeded in graduating from the University by studying eight weeks in the four years, but it seems most likely that they regretted their waiting until dead week to amass the knowledge that had been parceled out by the instructor during the semester.

There is no denying the fact that reviewing, or what some students call cramming, is an essential factor in passing courses creditably. There is a great mass of rather insignificant facts that must be put down on the examination paper which can not be retained very long. So long as this type of examination is required the student must burn the midnight oil.

But, on the other hand, the student who has been prepared each day will need far less review. He will be so well acquainted with the subject that a very few hours will be sufficient to remember all the petty details that may be asked.

'What Is Truth'

Thought provoking, entertaining, and a trifle irritating was the recent address of Dr. Lewis Browne. Life is an irritating matter to begin with, and any discussion of it that jars our accustomed course of thought is likely to be more irritating still.

Dr. Browne at the outset disclaimed any intention of trying to set up a standard of conduct or a system of values. On the contrary, he seemed to leave the impression that the only thing we can really determine about ethical standards is that they are changing and that we must be prepared for the change.

The world has the custom of moving down a river bounded on the one side by the flinty banks of conservatism and on the other by the muddy shores of liberalism. Many of Dr. Browne's audience no doubt felt that he would beckon the world to ground itself upon the latter side. This does not seem to be an entirely correct interpretation of the speaker's point of view.

Dr. Browne seemed more to represent what might loosely be termed the scientific attitude which asks for judgments only when they are based on the facts. Wherever our changing standards of life are leading us, it seems better to await the outcome with our cards exposed and with our eyes open. Only until we do this may we have the hope of eventually reaching that day when we can truly determine, "What is truth?"

The first step, my son, which one makes in the world, is the one on which depends the rest of our days.—Voltaire.

TO THE CZECH COURSE RESCUE

There is a very tiresome habit that many people have acquired throughout the ages, and a very bad one too; that is to discuss something that they know very little about. Thus the Czech course has suffered.

Someone has made the statement that Czech is an easy course. I venture to say that that person has never taken the course. In the first place it is not an easy course. Try learning and remembering all the accents on the words. It is one of the foreign languages that can not be spoken or read correctly unless you do.

Then you ask, "Why do so many students make good grades?" or "Why do so few students fail?" There are good reasons—many of them.

First of all, nearly all of the students who study Czech are of Czech origin. It is not a strange language to them. Still the most important thing is the outstanding fact that our Czech course is very, very interesting. Our instructor is a native of Czechoslovakia and is very capable of presenting facts about the country as well as the language. Only those students that show an interest in the study are encouraged to continue the course more than one semester. This is the reason for so few failures.

Like many other studies, Czech is easy to those who study it. An interesting subject is easy to study. That is the truthful answer to any question that may be in one's mind. Remember one thing, however, to receive an "A" in Czech, a student must work. It is indeed a well-earned premium.

Let me add that there are only sixty-two students enrolled in the Czech classes. The other eighty-eight who have not made themselves known are welcome. They are invited to enroll in the classes this next semester.—Mary Ann Krumb.

OLYMPIC GAMES AND WORLD PEACE

Because the disastrous havoc wrought upon the peoples of the civilized nations by the recent World War, it is the noblest aim of every modern statesman to establish a bond of good-will between nations. To this end, various means have been employed. One of the most efficacious, but highly efficient, means of accomplishing this factor will be the Olympic Games this year in Los Angeles.

Due to the present economic depression which has gradually enveloped the world-at-large, nations have become more dependent upon each other, thus necessitating more than ever before, the establishment of closer harmony between nations. The Olympic Games, although generally looked upon as solely an athletic event, will undoubtedly materially strengthen the bond of fellowship between the competing nations.

Nations not only will be represented by their respective athletes, but also by statesmen and good-will ambassadors. Besides the athletic competition itself, the countries will be represented at various other activities, such as banquets, dances and other social functions, as well as exhibitions of their various cultures, all of which inevitably culminate in sealing the greatly sought pact of friendship.

It is a well-known fact that any athletic event tends to establish a friendly rivalry between the competitors, and also to establish a feeling of admiration for one's rival. This attitude of fine sportsmanship, as evidenced by both the participants themselves and by the spectators, only goes to prove that such events as the Olympic Games will materially aid in fostering the good-will movement. Further than this, the mutual respect for each other which is created between these fellowmen due to their athletic prowess will be transferred by the Olympic Games' representatives back to their respective countries, there to be spread among the entire group of inhabitants as a message of respect, admiration, and good-will from their fellowmen of other lands.—Daily Trojan.

ALUMNI RESEARCH CORPORATIONS

Plans for the establishment of an alumni research corporation are in the making at Ohio State University to promote a program of research at that institution.

Prominent faculty members and alumni interested in research are sponsoring the project. They plan to organize a non-profit corporation which would benefit the students as well as alumni interested in research.

The project is a worthy one and well worth the notice of the Indiana University alumni council, faculty members and graduates. Such an organization would make available more modernly equipped research laboratories, and would give students and alumni the expert advice and co-operation of those Indiana graduates who have been successful in their respective fields.

Then, too, there is the important consideration that students would come in closer touch with the practical side of research. Although the corporation would not be expected to yield profits to its owners, it should be expected to pay its own way. Matters of commercial importance brought out in its laboratories would be placed on the market, thereby giving the student an opportunity to get his start under the guiding hand of a benevolent and friendly organization. Indiana University would benefit greatly from such a progressive and important step as this.—Indiana Daily Student.

STEERS TANGLE WITH TOADS TONIGHT

CHAMPION FROGS CONFIDENT OF VICTORY OVER TEXAS

Kubricht, Dietzel In Fight For High Point Honors

By WELDON HART

With three conference contests past history, the University of Texas Longhorns receive their first crucial test at 7:30 tonight when they act as unfriendly hosts to the current Southwest Conference champions, the Texas Christian University Horned Toads. Marty Karow's freshman five and the Schreiner Institute quintet will make the affair a double-header, for the two teams swing into action immediately after the conference go.

Ed Olle's charges went through their last work-out yesterday and have announced their readiness for the Frog encounter. The Schmidtmen left Fort Worth early this morning after two days of work-outs and will arrive in Austin this afternoon. The Toads are in high spirits as a result of their convincing victory over the Owls. The Owl triumph has re-instated them as favorites to repeat this year.

Steers After Win

Can the Texas Longhorns make it three upsets in a row? That's the question Steer basketball fans ask themselves as they look forward to the visit of the Horned Frogs tonight. Wins from the Arkansas Razorbacks and the S. M. U. Mustangs have stamped the Longhorns a more dangerous outfit than pre-season dope showed, and Ed Olle hopes to give the Frogs a hard-fought battle when the '31 champs invade Gregory Gym.

The Frogs' topheavy defeat of the Rice Owls makes them favorites to knock the Steers out of their second-place berth without too much difficulty. Although the work of Ed Price and Bennie Rundell, Steer guards, has been excellent this season, Texas fans fear they will more than meet their match when they encounter Doc Sumner, Ad Dietzel, and Flash Walker, Christian scoring threats.

An individual duel for scoring honors will be waged by Dietzel and Bill Kubricht, Texas center, who are now tied for the conference leadership with 33 points each. Dietzel is expected to give T. C. U. a great advantage on the tip-off, his six feet five looms above Kubricht's six-two.

Coach Olle will start his regular combination of Elkins and Tullis, forwards; Kubricht, center; and Price and Rundell, guards.

'Students Mature,' Says College Head

President Lowell Compares Two Generations

(By College News Service)
CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 19.—The opinion of President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia notwithstanding, President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard University believes that modern students are more mature than their predecessors of a generation ago.

In his annual report made public last night, Dr. Butler maintained modern youth is "careless and inconsiderate in dress, in speech and in personal habits."

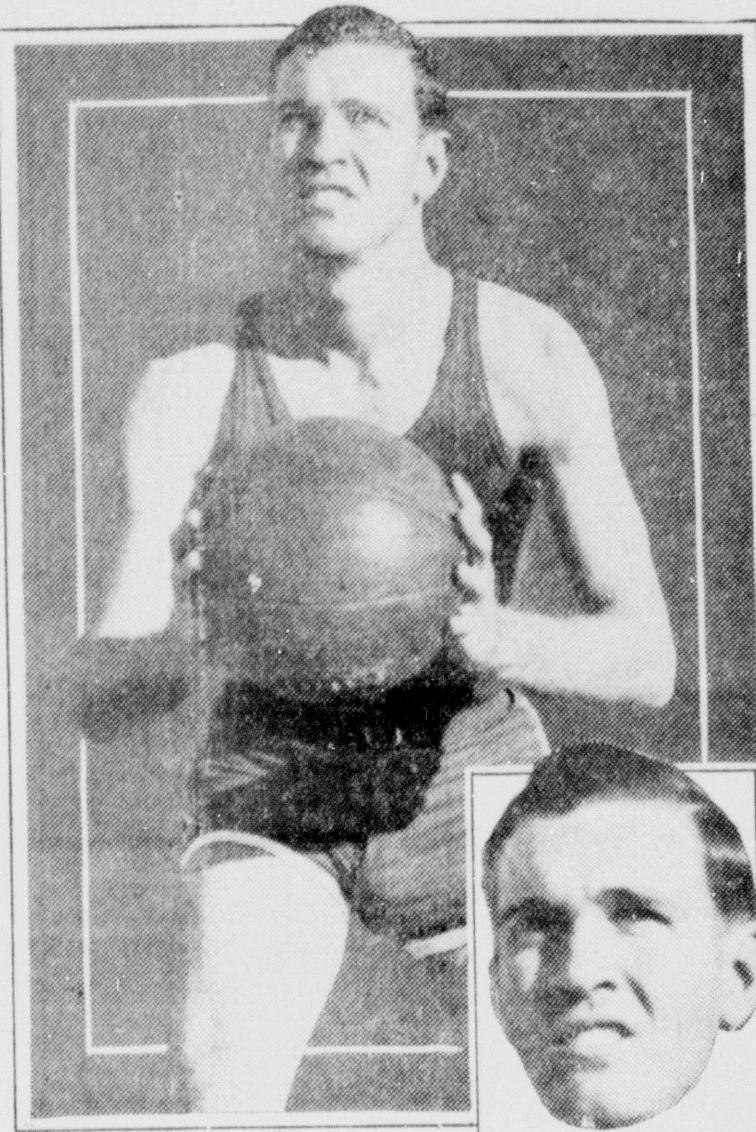

While not in the nature of a reply to the Columbia executive, President Lowell's own report maintained that marked progress has been shown by the American college student in recent years.

President Lowell's report also included the statement that instruction in the best American colleges "corresponds with, and in some subjects at least is quite equal to, that of Oxford and Cambridge."

and semi-weekly, and with an ample use of those three w's, wim, vigor, and vitality. More power to him.

Sport crumbs... the main floor of Gregory Gym has ten baskets... Six hang along the balcony sides, two are up on the stage, and two more are of the movable type... Little Joe, nee Joe Hornaday, knows the individual athletic record of all Varsity men during the last two years... he can give you the dope on the stars just as quickly as you can sing the Rumba song... Dexter Shelley, 1930 Longhorn football captain, showed Northerners that the football can be played down here as well... he starred professionally this year (1931)... so did Lester Peterson, former spectacular Steer end who was instrumental in our gaining the conference championship in 1930... Hill and Osborne Hodges, brothers, have both played football for Texas this year... Hill played on the Varsity while his other half, Osborne, proved to be the "slime" luminary... the latter's leg injury may keep him out of the line-up next season.

Dietzel Here Tonight

Adolph "Too Tall" Dietzel, the Southwest Conference champion Texas Christian Horned Frogs' 6 foot, 5 inch all-conference center, is playing his second year on the Christian varsity. As a sophomore last year the lanky San Antonio Dutchman carried off more honors than any first year man has in many seasons. He tied the conference record for points scored in a single contest against Texas when his offensive efforts were cashed in for 26 points; his season's total of 168 points in 12 games set a new conference mark, and he topped off the season by being selected almost unanimously for all-conference and making several all-American teams. His most worthy all-American selections were from the New York Sun and College Humor.

Steer Netters to Meet Randolph Field Fliers

The University tennis team will meet a team from Randolph Field, near San Antonio, Saturday afternoon in the first of a series of matches to be played between the two teams, Coach Penick said yesterday. The University team will be composed of Karl Kamrath, Martin Buxby, Sterling Williams, and one other to be selected for the men, and Eugene Sampson and Mary Bedichek for the women. The team from Randolph Field will be composed of Dolf Mulheisen, Johnny Helms, Lucien La Coste, and Bertram Weltons for the men and Annie Mae Reichert and Mrs. Miner Burnett for the women.

Ranking Star
Mulheisen was ranked as the twenty-seventh players in the United States by the United States Lawn Tennis Association in 1930. Helms was the star player for West Point last year. The other two members of the team are University students.

Weltons is a freshman and is ineligible for the Varsity team. These games will be played on the Penick Courts if the weather permits, but if the weather is bad they will be played in the gymnasium. There will be an exhibition doubles match in the gymnasium Saturday night before the dance.

Rice Strong
Commenting on the conference race of this year, Coach Penick stated that he expects Rice to give Texas the hardest fight for the championship, and he said that both teams have a good chance to win.

Texas will play dual meets with all the conference teams except Arkansas. They will play one match with the University of Illinois, and two or three with the San Marcos Teachers.

Sumner Will Start Game Against Steers

By STANDARD LAMBERT

Special to The Daily Texan.

FORT WORTH, Jan. 19.—Following a regaining of confidence after their sensational 47-to-22 victory over the Rice Owls, the Texas Christian Horned Frogs will invade Austin where they will meet the highly improved University of Texas Longhorns. In spite of the fact that there is no way of comparing the way that the Schmidtmen looked in their first and second appearance in conference competition, they are thoroughly sold on the idea that the youthful Texas mentor, Ed Olle, has injected a new spirit in the 1932 aggregation and has an excellent team of sharp-shooters to contend with.

Spotlight on Centers

As usual, the spotlight of the game will fall on the center of the court where Adolph Dietzel, the Horned Frogs' giant all-American center, and Bill Kubricht, will not only vie for the tip-off, but for high scoring honors. In Dietzel's last appearance on a Texas court, he tied the conference scoring record with 26 tallies. With this in mind, the Texans may concentrate on him, and in that event, Captain Doc Sumner and the brilliant sophomore, Flash Walker, will be left in the open.

Steers Taller

A comparison of the height of the two teams gives neither the advantage as both average 6 feet plus, and there is but two inches difference in the total height of the two teams. However, the Texans have the best average height man for man, Elkins and Rundell, with 5 feet, 9 inches and 5 feet 11 inches respectively bring the Longhorns' average down. Dietzel's 6 feet 5 inches is the only thing that keeps the Frogs' average up, since Brannon is the only other man on the quintet that is above the popular six foot standard.

Captain Doc Sumner's hand still refuses to heal, but he managed to eke out 16 points single handed against the Owls. All the rest of the squad is in excellent condition and will be determined to go into its next tilt with Texas February 6 with but one conference loss.

No definite announcement has been made concerning the starters, but it is highly probable that Captain Sumner and Walker will be at forwards; Dietzel at center, and Brannon and Green at guards.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—The soul of an artist often expresses itself through several mediums.

This homely truism was borne out this week when it was discovered that Thornton Wilder, famous author and English professor at the University of Chicago, has joined the University's symphony orchestra. He plays the triangle!

places the scheduled showing of "A House Divided" with Walter Huston, which was to have been shown Thursday through Saturday. "Emma," a human interest play concerning a nurse-housekeeper who raises a bunch of children only to have them turn against her when they grow up, is a fair vehicle for that grand old actress, Marie Dressler. The star is given able assistance by Richard Cromwell, in special, and Jean Hersholt, Myrna Loy, and Barbara Kent.

Opening Today

"FORBIDDEN" is the title of the picture to be presented on the Paramount Theater screen today through Friday. Barbara Stanwyck and Adolphe Menjou are featured, with Ralph Bellamy in a leading role. The story is one of love, a woman marrying a tabloid city editor although she loves a district attorney. The sacrifices for her child, faithfulness to her love, and eventual tragedy to protect his good name when her newspaper husband threatens to attack him through scandal columns are highlights of the theme. The role makes demands unusual for even Miss Stanwyck, covering, as it does, the years of a woman's life from the ages of 25 to 76 and the dramatic events through which her life passes.

"THE MALTESE FALCON," a mystery melodrama featuring Bebe Daniels as an adventuresome woman who manipulates men and murder for the reward of a maltese falcon statuette filled with jewels but who receives a sentence of

Aggies Prepare For Bears Saturday Night

Special to The Daily Texan.

COLLEGE STATION, Jan. 19.

Discouraged by their lowly cellar rank in Southwest Conference standing and disheartened by their thorough trouncing at the hands of the Centenary College Gentlemen the past Saturday night, Coach John Reid's Texas Aggie cagers are working out in a fog of gloom this week in preparation for their game with Baylor University's Bears Saturday night on the Memorial gymnasium court.

A heartening factor is found, however, in the slim possibility that Lester (Squawk) Veltman, veteran guard from San Antonio may be able to play in the game. Veltman injured an ankle in early season practice and has been missing from the Aggie line-up since the Christmas holidays. His eventual return to play is expected to aid materially both the Cadet morals and team strength.

Lost to Owls

The Aggies so far this season have appeared to be "in and out" quintet. After breezing through a pre-season schedule, the Cadets lost to the Rice Owls by a margin merely twenty years of imprisonment instead, will be on the Hancock Theater screen today through Friday. The picture has been noted as the one in which Ricardo Cortez, once a romantic actor of some prominence, made the come-back that by A. D. 1932 has brought him even more prominence. Others seen are Thelma Todd, Dudley Digges, Una Merckel, Robert Elliott, Otto Matiesen, Oscar Apfel, Dwight Frye, and J. Farrell MacDonald. Addicts to seeing and enjoying such films will know what to set their teeth for.

"DANGEROUS AFFAIR," playing in Austin for the first time, will bring Jack Holt and Ralph Graves to the Texas Theater screen today only in a mystery yarn adorned with the elements of romance and comedy customarily accorded such films to make them all the more acceptable to motion picture audiences. Mr. Holt is a police captain, Mr. Graves, a newspaper reporter. They perpetrate a jewel theft for the fun of it, then discover murder, kidnapping, and general alarm is the result, not through their innocent prank but through the fact that the stolen necklace holds the secret to a fortune. This he-man team has surmounted greater difficulties than this, and nothing less may be expected here. Sally Blane and Susan Fleming have assisting roles.

"Dead Week" ends Saturday night with a Mid-nite Matinee on "Hell Divers" at 11:30 p. m., Queen Theater.

of 11 points. Then after defeating the Centenary Gentlemen decisively Friday night, they were beaten even more decisively by this same opposing team Saturday night. Although comparative scores in basketball usually mean less than nothing, the Aggies can get no encouragement from the fact that Baylor beat Texas Christian University by eight points, T. C. U. beat Rice by twenty-five points and that Rice defeated the Aggies by eleven points.

The Aggies' passing game so far this season seems to have left much to be desired and their follow-up work after long shots has been noticeable because of its absence. The Cadet forwards so far have failed more or less to live up to expectations and the brunt of both defensive and offensive work has fallen on the shoulders of Captain Charlie Beard, a guard from Fort Worth. Beard now ranks among the leading high point scorers of the conference and has been high point man or has tied for high point honors in two of the Aggies' past four games.

Lineup Uncertain

Aggie lineups for the past several games give no light on what the lineup for the Baylor tilt will be. In all probability, however, the Cadet starting five will be selected from the following players: "Pete" Robertson, Austin, forward; Clarence (Bull) Marcum, Estelline, forward; E. T. (Shep) Shepherd, Port Arthur, guard; Joe Moody, Corpus Christi, forward; B. M. (Honk) Irwin, Kosse, center and guard; Oran (Dooley) Dawson, Crockett, center and guard; Captain Charlie Beard, Fort Worth, guard; Clifford (Frenchy) Domingue, guard.

Following Saturday night's game the Aggies will meet no scheduled competition until their return clash with the Baylor Bears at Waco February 1.

COURSE IN ALBANIAN

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—a course in Albanian will be offered at Columbia University during the spring session, it was announced this week by Clarence A. Manning, assistant professor of Slavonic languages.

This, says Professor Manning, is an example of Albanian: "Pty! Suiqetar eshte i pelqyer-shme!"... which means—more or less—"Howdy! Albania's not such a bad place after all!"

"Dead Week" ends Saturday night with a Mid-nite Matinee on "Hell Divers" at 11:30 p. m., Queen Theater.
