VOL. XXX AUSTIN, TEXAS, TUESDAY, APRIL 2, 1929. No. 157

Quorum and Changes. Raw and a Bit Chewy.

The Students' Assembly met last night. That is, those who attended the meeting met.

It seems to Good Morning that when the Assembly was to meet to consider the recommendations made by the Constitutional Convention, which was itself appointed by the Assembly, that the occasion would prove of enough moment that all the members of the Assembly would have been present.

Instead of that, however, only enough members to constitute a quorum were present. At one time the meeting was threatened with having to adjourn when a member stated there was no quorum present. When the roll was called, it was found that there were just enough to transact business.

Perhaps one reason why so many members were originally selected for the Assembly is that the very fact of the largeness of the body would almost make for enough being present to do business.

Good Morning thinks that this is no state of affairs for the law-making body of the student government to be in. When matters of such extreme importance as that of acting on proposed changes in the constitution of the Students' Association arise, every member of the Assembly should be present, all other matters to the contrary notwithstanding.

However, the part of the constitution which was approved by the Assembly last night for submission to the student body needed changing and there is no doubt that the changes recommended by the convention and by the Assembly are wise ones and should be considered with utmost care by the students of the University. When the changes have been recommended by the convention and by the Assembly there should be some good reason for the changes.

Good Morning wishes to impress the fact that no several members of the Assembly is being condemned for his absence from the meeting last night. Perhaps there might have been some good reason. However, if there were no good reason, and the student member of that body merely neglected to be present, such an act is an injustice to the student body. We hope that a full membership will be present at the Thursday night meeting.

FATHER HELD STRANGE IDEAS SAYS TOLSTOY

Russian Modeled Life On 30 Special Laws

AIDED PEASANTS

Works Guided by Idea Of Divine Power Over Man

By TILLIE IMMEL

"The longer I live in this beautiful world the more I realize that truth is only won by those who want it. And those who want it can find it. My father wanted truth and found it," were the words of Count Ilya Tolstoy, in his lecture at the Austin High School Monday night.

"My father was born 100 years ago, about 120 miles south of Moscow. He belonged to an old family that had come to Russia 22 generations ago. As a child he was known to have peculiar ideas all his own. For instance, he did not like the shape of his eyebrows, so one day he shaved them off. Another time he had an idea that he could fly, he went upstairs and from the second floor jumped out with his knees in his hands and hoped to fly. But he never tried it again.

"For him the ten commandments were not enough to live by. He created 20 others by which he modeled his life. One of these was, 'If you think, use all powers of your brain, do not think superficially.' Only when you are able to relax your brain, to clear it of all forms of thought, will you be able to concentrate.

"At the age of 21 my father volunteered as a soldier, and was transferred to Sebastopol. In 1861 he went back to Russia and took part in liberating the peasants of that country.

"It was at the age of 35 that he married, and here begins the second period of his life. My mother was his secretary, and he was very happy with his family.

"The third period of my father's life was his moral struggle. This began when he was about 48 years old. He realized that there was nothing in money that family lives and loves pass away leaving nothing, but the great thing that remains always is religion. I believe that the 'Resurrection' is the best example of his religion in literature. The guiding idea of all his works is that the Kingdom of God is in all of us, and in our lives. The Golden Rule works in all relations, in the political and scientific as well as international.

"My father once said that he envied Robinson Crusoe. He had a desire in his later life to live away from everyone. One night he left his home and on the train he became sick. At a little station he was put off and taken to a bed in the home of the station master. My mother came with two physicians but he died a week later.

"When we asked him where he wanted to be buried he said, 'Bury me with the little green stick.' Near his home he had often shown me a spot where he said a little green stick was buried. On it was written a magic word, which would make all happy. My father found that stick, and found the word. It was love."

Count Tolstoy was introduced by Mrs. George Nalle, president of the American Legion Auxiliary, which sponsored the lecture here.

DAVIS GIVEN $1200 COWLES FELLOWSHIP

Charles Edwin Davis, graduate student in the University, has been appointed for the Cowles Fellowship of $1,200 for study in Yale University in 1929-30. He has been a member of the debating team, and won first place in the state oratorical contest last year.

'Retreat' of Star Caused by Weird Sounds in Closet

One night a star quarterback of the Longhorn football team returned home rather late and proceeded to bed in due course. As the young man was just dosing off into the arms of Morpheus, the midnight air was broken by weird groans, moans, and screams which issued unmistakably from the interior of the clothes closet.

Young Eddie did not wait to determine the cause; his mind thought "ghosts," and his feet said, "retreat," and therewith acted accordingly, much to the amusement of certain of his friends who had put the Speakophone record on the well concealed portable victrola.

NEW ARTICLES PASS MONDAY BY ASSEMBLY

Part of Constitution Accepted; Meet Thursday

Suspending the rule whereby measures should have several readings before the Students' Assembly before a vote is taken, the Assembly last night voted to approve Articles 1, 2, 3, and 4 of the constitution of the Students' Association as revised and approved last Friday night by the Constitutional Convention. The assembly adjourned at 10 o'clock until the regular meeting of that body which will be called Thursday night.

Articles 5 and 6 of the revised constitution, dealing with the Texas Student Publications, Inc. and with provisions of a general nature, were read before the Assembly by Robert Eikel along with the other articles of the constitution, but no action was taken by the legislative body on the new changes proposed to be made in regard to the student publications. Barely a quorum of the Students' Assembly was present at the meeting, and the body at one time was moved to adjourn when one member stated there was no quorum present. However, upon a roll call it was shown that enough members were present to transact business of the Students' Association.

Members of the Constitutional Convention which was recently authorized by the assembly were present at the meeting. The most significant change from the present portion of the constitution dealing with the executive department is that of centralization of financial powers of the association in the president. Another change made in this division is that of moving the date of the student elections from the first Tuesday in May until the second Tuesday in April.

The changing of three seats of office in the Assembly is the most significant change shown in that division dealing with the legislative department. Abolition of two councils, and the setting of one Students' Council to be composed of a chairman, four men, and three women, in its place is the major change made in the judicial department by the proposed constitution.

It is likely that the Students' Assembly will vote to have published in full the revised constitution when they have finally approved the recommendations of the Constitutional Convention.

TOLSTOY GIVES INTERVIEW FOR DAILY TEXAN

Spiritual Refinement And Materialism Discussed

By LOUIS SHAPIRO

"America is like a huge star hovering between two worlds, gravitating slowly toward the one of spiritual refinement but still saving of the material degeneracy of the other," Count Tolstoy, son of the great Russian novelist, forcefully declared in answer to a question concerning the progress of this nation.

"The college boys and girls particularly emphasize this tug-of-war between materialism and spiritualism," he continued. "When I lectured at some of the universities in this country, I met many intellectual students deeply interested in spiritual problems. But when I saw these girls more interested in the length of their dresses, smearing their faces with power and rouge and their lips with lipstick, and indulging in freakish dances, my heart became sad."

"I saw the need of encouraging the individual in them to supersede their social tendencies to materialism and imitation. Their civilization was of the kind that made them want to look alike, act alike, and finally think alike. And that is why I am here today—to change their tendencies into a love of what is spiritual and individual, regardless of how abstract."

In general appearance Tolstoy is decidedly heavy-set. His face shows a full rotundity, but has a sharp chin. He has a long, grey beard. His forehead is of the Socratic cast, being very broad.

By BOB CANTRELL TEXAN SPORTS EDITOR

Combining seven hits with eight errors and three bases on balls, the Steers won a raggedly played fray from the Northwestern Wildcats by a 7-6 count Monday afternoon. Even though they won, the Steers lost heavily when Dusty Rhoads' right hand was broken when he swung into a curve ball in the fourth. The ball took Dusty on the right hand, and an X-ray revealed that several bones had been broken.

The Steers counted a tally in the second on two errors, a perfect sacrifice by Rees, and a one-base blow by Raitton. Dumb base-running on the part of Do-Leach cost them another marker, when he loafed on the way from third to home, and was caught by Rojan's perfect whip to the plate. The visitors had a last chance to tally in the first when Jacobs, who opened the affair with a double, pulled a "boner" and was chased down between third and second.

In the third, the Longhorns added a trio of tallies on four errors and a single by Rees. Hughes was safe when Schwartz booted his roller, stole second, and scored when Kadison threw Higgins' roller into the wide open spaces in the immediate vicinity of the initial sack. Hopkins waited out a pass. Walker got to first easily when Kadison uncorked another, allowing Higgins to score, after the Steer left fielder had pilfered second. Oliphant then booted Leach's drive, and Walker scored, but Hopkins was headed for the plate and run down between third and home. Rees then uncorked a single into center field but Raitton went out Schwartz to Oliphant.

Peoples went to the mound for the Dischemen in the fourth and was greeted with a salvo of base blows by Vandenburg, Oliphant and Kadison which netted a brace of tallies. Things "rocked along" like this until the sixth when the Steer infield blew up, and the Wildcats chased a duo of tallies across the platter. After Schwartz had popped to Walker, Honk! Wet Vandenburg's roller dribbled through his underpins. Peoples lost the location of the plate, and Oliphant strolled down to first.

Rojan sent Hughes back to the cliffs in center field for his drive. Kadison shot a single between short and third, scoring Vandenburg, and Oliphant took third when Hopkins booted the drive. Dr. Leach then committed his first miscue when he booted Izard's easy roller. Higgins, now playing third in the place of Rhoads who was injured in the fourth, tossed Pamosh out at first to end the frenzy.

The Steers chased three count-ers across in the seventh on three hits, a fielder's choice and two sacrifice hits. Carter Bussel, a rookie outfielder, opened the fireworks with a double to right center, and Higgins counted the Amarillo lad with a double off the left field boards. Hopkins was safe at first on a fielder's choice, and Walker advanced both runners on a perfect sacrifice down the first base line. Leach sent Turn to Page 2, Col. 3

What Do You Know About—

By J. C. WATKINS

1. Jones Law?
2. Mexicans?
3. Storms?
4. Louisiana?

Dean Christian Gauss of Princeton defines "collegiate" as "bump-tious social immaturity, sometimes complicated by acute class consciousness."

Like the governor of Louisiana, the Jones law won't be long now, if a new movement which is under way accomplishes anything. Senator Millard E. Tydings, democrat of Maryland, is the father of the new uprising, which would modify the penalties carried under the Jones law. The amendment which he has under consideration would be presented at the special session of congress, which convenes in two weeks.

Tydings declares that the present penalties, unclarified as they are, make matters worse instead of better. He says that a tougher class of bootleggers is being developed and that it is harder to obtain convictions. Tydings is considered a wet.

Mexicans are paving the way for culture on this continent. They have made air battles on the western hemisphere an established fact. Now it's about time for them to begin using poison gas. But maybe they're not mad enough for that.

Rebel planes, manned largely by American aviators, staged another bombing expedition over Naco yesterday. It's evidently doing a lot to wreck federal morale, for you also read where a considerable portion of the federalists at Naco are in mutiny.

Things look dark for loyalists in other sections. On Easter Sunday Escobar's rebels, aided by 15 airplanes, met and claimed a victory over the huge federal army near Escalon. The battle waged all day. When the federalists were finally put to rout they left 400 dead and 1,500 prisoners behind them. A rebel detachment was reported as pursuing the demoralized federalists toward Torreón.

At the same time a group of rebel generals were holding a meeting to elect a successor to General Escobar, who they said had been running too much and fighting too little. What action they took, if any, has not been reported.

Certain Economists aren't the only ones who prophesy a not-so-far-off demise for this nation. Count Ilya Tolstoy told an Austin Statesman reporter yesterday that we were "riding for a fall."

All in all, Sunday was not such a pleasant day the world over. In Paris, Ambassador Myron T. Herrick died suddenly from heart attack, casting grief over the two nations which he had done much to bring together.

While Easter storms blanketed six states in this nation, injuring scores of people and disrupting rail and telephone connections.

Louisiana and its governor were doing "as well as could be expected" over the week-end. Politics, fanned to a white heat by charges and counter-charges, was scheduled to blaze forth in all its glory last night when the legislature met to consider the 19 impeachment charges.

If a majority of the house believes the charges true, the arena will then shift to the senate, which will conduct the trial. If the governor is found guilty he will be succeeded by Lieutenant Governor Paul N. Cyr.

ONE-EYE BENTLINE
A Story of the High Crime of Piracy

SYNOPSIS:

One-Eye Bentline with his piratical crew succeeds in capturing a Spanish galleon and robbing it of its treasure among which is a little golden-haired treasure called Seraphina. Tabi-tha Smith towards whom One-Eye makes evil advances. He discovers her fiancé and throws him overboard as Seraphina lies in a faint.

CHAPTER V.—In Which There
Is Mutiny on the High Seas.

That evening Seraphina succeeded in locking the door of the room into which she was locked from the inside and try as he might he couldn't get in. Later as he stood with his shoulder to the door making a last effort to budge it he was called away by a member of his crew.

He went into the cabin next to our unfortunate heroine. She heard the following conversation through the narrow partitions:

"Listen here, One-Eye, the crew has come to a decision."

"Yeh, you lousy land-lubbers, what you got now?"

"We're going to proposition you peaceful-like. We get part of the swag you know whenever they is any. We decided we want the girl and we'll let you have the rest of the swag."

"The h—l you say, you * * *
! * ! * !," said One-Eye in characteristic dot-and-dash style.

"Yeh, we say so you —,"
said the pirates answering him in kind.

Since they had the drop on him with knives and pistols One-Eye was forced to acquiesce but he did so with a bad grace. Seraphina's heart sank into her boots.
One pirate was hard enough to cope with but twelve pirates. . . .

then doubled into right to score Jacobs, and went to third when Basset played croquet with the pellet. Schwartz went out Leach to Walker, and Wanita scampered across the plate. Vandenberg singled, but Oliphant ended the series when he sent a pop-up to Higgins back of second.

Smoker
Tips 16 on Big Secret

Norwood, Ohio
Oct. 8, 1928

Larus & Brother Company
Richmond, Va.

Gentlemen:

In the past twenty years I have been a consistent smoker. I was always anxious to smoke a pipe; but no matter how often I tried, I soon changed my mind. I have tried all kinds of pipe tobacco, but not once was I satisfied with the taste of any of them until just recently I gave my pipe another trial.

It was my luck to choose Edgeworth this time, with the results that I am still using it and will continue to do so.
I only hope that you will continue to give that same mild, high-grade quality in the future.

I have started not less than sixteen men to start or give Edgeworth a trial, and they are still using that same unequalled non-biting tobacco to this day. I can recommend Edg-worth tobacco to anybody who enjoys a cool non-biting brand of good tobacco; and as long as I enjoy same, you can rest assured that I am going to be a good ad., and many a pipe smoker will be asked to give it a fair trial, and they themselves can act as judges.

I always give praise where praise is due. After I was convinced of the wonderful quality of Edgeworth I could not help but tell you people the same as I have been telling and will in the future tell others.

Hoping that you will continue with the same quality in Edgeworth, I am Very truly yours,
(Signed) Joseph J. Stahl

Conquering the Cascades

SNOW falls every month in the year where the Great Northern crosses the Cascades. Steep, tortuous grades increase the difficulty of the railroading problem.
Nature has stubbornly resisted man's effort to conquer the range.

In January, 1929, the new Cascade tunnel was opened. Man, with electricity as an ally, had conquered the Cascades.

The eight-mile bore was driven in three years—a record impossible without electric power.

And electrification has been extended to the entire 75-mile route through the mountains.

The conquests of electricity on the land and on the sea, in the air, and underground, are making practicable the impossibilities of yesterday. As our vision encompasses wider horizons, electricity appears as a vital contribution to future industrial progress and human welfare.

THEATERS

WITH W. B. S.

"THE DUKE STEPS OUT."
Just about the best thing college you've ever had a chance to see. Not as good as the story, of course, but still plenty potential. Everything that's going, including road-house brawls and football. William Haines acts an ass as usual, and what is more, he gets by with it. Joan Crawford—well, Joan Crawford. What do you want for four-bits? At the Majestic.

"THE SINGING FOOL."
More of Al Jolson's "You ain't seen nothin' yet." Davey Lee, the kid in the picture, is the star by an easy yard or two. Plenty of thrills, heart-throbs, singing, and talking of the kind that Al Jolson glories in. At the Hancock.

"THE IRON MASK."
Douglas Fairbanks swashbuckling around in tights and a plumed hat. Aged in the wood history of three hundred years ago brought up to date with sound effects and whatnot. There's a prologue spoken by somebody. Doug? Anyway, it's a great potpourri of court intrigue, and dazzling bravado on the part of Mr. D'Artagnan and his Three Musketeers. Somehow death doesn't mean a thing to them. They go prancing off into the clouds in the last shot. At the Queen.

"JAZZ MAD."
Passion and pathos scattered around promiscuously—that is about all. Youth vibrates and does all that sort of thing. Jean Hersholt is supposed to walk away with the show. George Lewis looks handsome. Marian Nixon looks—well, how do you say it? Or do you? At the Crescent through Thursday.

"RED LIPS."
Buddy Rogers and Marian Nixon get all messed up and arrange for a few clinches. Just another idyl wasted away, perhaps, but it gets there just the same. Today only. At the Texas.

The Duke Steps Out

"The Duke Steps Out," finishing its run at the Majestic today, is a picture with a punch, and I am not referring solely to Joan Crawford, although she is the biggest knockout in it; and Billy Haines, of course, wallows 'em simply loo-loo with his bright cracking personality-plus. But besides all this and the usual moonlight rassels, there is some honest-to-gawd prize fighting.

Billy plays the part of a prize fighter and a millionaire's son, whose weak moment arrives when he sees Joan on a train returning from a college football game. He immediately decides to trade in his mittens for a spelling book and to direct all his training toward a title match with said callorie co-ed; and so next we see them side by side in a psychology class studying "the brain of the pugilist as compared to that of the mouse."

There is quite a bit of clever humor in the picture and some rather exciting action. The prize fight is one of the best the movies have put out; some of the shots of the fight are very unique. I think you'll like Karl Dane—we did, and that's admitting a lot. Haines is also more likeable in this than in anything so far, and if you saw "Alias Jimmie Valentine," you'll think that's piping an earful too. —B. B.

Jazz Mad

Romance and good acting will feature the presentation of "Jazz Mad," Universal picture starring Jean Hersholt, which opens at the Crescent today. Marion Nixon and George Lewis supply the romance and Hersholt the acting. The picture is said to rank among the best shown here in a long, long while. It has everything to please an audience. Human interest abounds in the story of the old musician whose greatest sympathy won't sell and who has to earn a living by playing in a comedy jazz band. Tearful scenes and mirthful ones occur in the right place. The resulting impression on the audience is highly pleasing, and it goes home calling "Jazz Mad" a good picture at every place it has been shown. Hersholt adds to his reputation as one of our greatest

The Iron Mask

Douglas Fairbanks manages in some fashion or other to give another characterization of the already famous D'Artagnan, the fellow who was so derved popular in France about three centuries ago for no reason at all. The picture is called "The Iron Mask," and they actually put it on a wear it—the mask, I mean. It will be here all week.

Doug gets things going by stepping out of a piece of tapestry and speaking a prologue. The Three Musketeers supply their support, of course. It is announced as a story of undying love and adventure on the part of the four men who preserve the glory and integrity of France, and believe it or not, it is.

As the tale of medieval adventure unfolds, Richelieu soliloquizes, explaining the devotion to France which actuated his plottings in the intrigues of church and state. Twin brothers arriving at a most inopportune time cause all the trouble, and maybe you think they don't do a good job of it. There's not much acting, of course, but there's plenty of action. —S. B. W.

The Singing Fool

"The Singing Fool" is back again playing at the Hancock with Al Jolson, and Sonny Boy, and audible sniffls in the aisles where saddened patrons have fallen prostrate in sobs. Really, it's awfully sad.

And confidentially, this is one of the best pictures that has been shown here. If you haven't ever seen it—why shame on you, you dirty such! And if you did see it showed here before, it can be seen twice.

Al Jolson is, of course, the picture. He acts, sings, shouts, whistles and yells continuously through the entire six or eight reels of this production. And while I won't go so far as to say that Al Jolson has no art: I will say that I cannot see it. His performance seems to me to be marked with ponderous egotism.

Davey Lee, you will remember, is the original cause of all the exercise of the tear ducts. And even on second seeing, he appears as appealing and as human as he ever did. Josephine Dunn turns in a beautiful piece of work and wins all our sympathy in the death scene. Betty Bronson was mildly disappointing. Don't miss this. There will be a day when the two Jolson films will be in museums. And think what pleasure you can derive from telling your grand-children "Yeh, I seen that way back yonder in the good ole days." —B. D.

Red Lips

Buddy Rogers has done more to make co-eds get emotional hysterics than any other fellow who ever had a chance to "tote" a textbook. And now he has his chance to get Marion Nixon all riled up over at the Texas. There is no reason on earth why you shouldn't go to see it. It's one of those idyllic things that people just love and love and love. "It's called 'Red Lips.'" —S. B. W.

GUARD BEAUTY AT THE DANGER LINE

MOUTH hygiene is so important these days! Not only for the charm of a pleasant smile—but also because decayed teeth and irritated gums can often destroy the radiant beauty of health.

To be safe, guard The Danger Line—where teeth and gums meet. In its tiny V-shaped crevices acids form that cause the most treacherous form of tooth decay and gum irritation. No tooth-brush can reach into all these crevices to rub the acids away. But Squibb's Dental Cream, made with more than 50% Squibb's Milk of Magnesia, effectively neutralizes them.

Squibb's contains no soaps, grit, or anything that could injure the delicate mouth tissues. Its use, together with regular visits to your dentist, will give you the best protection possible. 40c a large tube.

'Burning House'
Joke Ires Victim
On All Fools' Day

"Your house is smoking! It looks like it's afire!" A frenzied student rushed up to a married friend of his yesterday and yelled these words with much gusto. They are not friends any more, for yesterday was April Fool's Day and the married friend couldn't stretch his sense of humor far enough to cover the occasion.

April 1 furnished a day of paradise for the practical joker. On this day of untruth and fabrication the imaginations of young and old work overtime and usually to no especially good end. If George Washington were only alive he wouldn't approve of it at all, unless he has changed a lot lately.

But after all the official day of the fool is over and gone. If you can't be a fool on April 1, then why be a fool at all?

475 CO-EDS FAVOR
SWIMMING, TENNIS

Swimming, golf, tennis, archery were the most popular courses of the spring physical training registration for women which was held March 28 to 30. Of the 1,200 girls in the department, 250 registered for tennis, 225 for swimming at Deep Eddy, 175 for pool swimming, 100 for golf, and 80 for archery.

All except 30 of the 200 students who took correctives in the winter quarter raised their health and posture grades enough to be eligible to enter a sport class.

Fence-Busters Headed by Gehrig, Durst

When the Steers swept their two-game series with the Northwestern Wildcats, they turned their attention towards their one-day stand against the Yanks here Wednesday at 3:30. The Yankees have been divided into two clubs, and are making a sweeping road trip through the state. While one club is playing at one place, the other is several miles away engaged in putting the skids under another foe.

Columbia Lou Gehrig, first sacker, will lead the Yankee gunners when they attack the Steer stronghold and will hit in clean-up position. His "fence-busting" teammate, George Herman Ruth, will not accompany the Gothamites to Austin, but this Gehrig person will furnish plenty of fireworks. Gehrig gave the Babe a big fight for home run honors last season, and critics look for him to give the houses in the neighborhood of American League parks plenty of broken windows this summer.

Cedric Durst, Austin's pride, will accompany the team sent to Austin, appearing in the right garden. Durst is a sweet fielder, and as heavy a hitter as can be found in the Majors. Were he with another Major League club, he would be playing regular. Funck, a rookie from St. Paul, will lead off for the Gothamites. Funck has played with St. Paul for the last four years, and is a mean "fence-buster" himself.

Byrd, another rookie, will be in center field, and follow Funck to the plate. This youngster has been hitting the apple to all corners of the lot in the Yammigan-Reggie games this spring, and will take his share of the rocks off the cliffs which surround the Longhorn outfield. Durst hits, third, while Columbia Lou, himself, is clean-up man.

Ben Paschal will appear at second, his old station. Before being shifted to the outer gardens, Paschal was one of the best key-stones in the game, and his work at second will be well worth looking over. Paschal is a slugger himself, and the outfielders are assured of plenty of exercise.

Lyn Larry, the $75,000 rookie from the Pacific Coast loop, will "cut up" at the short field position. It was rumored that Lyn was a holdout, but the youngster thought better and mended his ways, and the fight for the short stop job with Douracher is getting tighter every day. Larry was one of the leading hitters of the coast loop, and his bat will ring merrily this season in the American League.

Robertson, the third sacker, is the Yank's regular hot corner guard, and is a veteran of several major league campaigns. Robertson is a fair Big League hitter, and gets his share of extra base taps. Jorgens, the catcher, is a rookie but is plenty good, according to reports. It is hardly possible that he will make the grade this year, and will be farmed out to a minor league club for experience.

Three hurlers, Sheeley, Thomas and Van Pelt will appear on the local lot. Sheeley and Thomas are veterans of the Majors, while Van Pelt a rookie from Hollywood, is one on whom the Yanks are pinning a great deal of faith. As one glances down the list, he is faced with the realization that the Steer outfielders will get plenty of exercise chasing up and down the cliffs, but then the Steer pitchers will be working with a vengeance that afternoon.

Bertha Weber spent the week-end at her home in Fredericksburg.

Emmie Kallenberg spent the week-end at her home in Fredericksburg.

RHOADS

Dusty Rhoads, stellar Steer third-sacker, will be out of the game the rest of the season with a broken hand received when he swung into a fast-breaking curve in the fourth inning of yesterday's game. Two bones in his right hand were broken, and Dusty will be on the bench for the remainder of the season.

Higgins to Take Third; Lamm Moved to Left

The Steers were hit a heavy blow yesterday when Dusty Rhoads, stellar hot corner guard, received a broken hand when he swung into a fast curve ball. It was thought at first that the hand was only bruised but subsequent investigation proved that the bone in the hand was shattered so badly that Rhoads will be out of the game for the remainder of the current season.

The loss of Rhoads means the rebuilding of the Texas infield, but this will not be as hard as it may sound. Pinky Higgins, who has been performing in left field the last four games, will be shifted to the hot corner to finish out the year, or Gordon Sullivan, a rookie, may be used at that position during the remainder of the season. Higgins was an opponent of Rhoads for the hot corner last year, but played second fiddle to Dusty when the latter uncorked a sensational fielding game to beat his roommate out. Higgins saw plenty of action in the last stages of the season, and his work with the hickory proved a big factor in the sweeping of the Aggie double-header which cinched the loop title for Texas.

With Higgins cavorting around the hot corner, Van Lamm, a rookie, will break into left field, and Bill Ford or Carter Basset will scamper over the greensward in right. In the last Northwestern game, Lamm started in right, and Basset went into that field when Lamm was shifted to left to fill Higgins' place when the latter came to third. Basset swings from the south side of the pan, and packs a wicked swing in his timber, while Ford swings from the other side of the pan.

Rhoads was just swinging into form, and his fielding in the early season games had been nothing short of phenomenal. The lad hadn't got his eye on the ball, but was rapidly getting where he could crack out safeties with impunity.

Frances Tarleton, inter-group manager, is to have charge of the tournament.

Dormitory, sorority, and independents are the groups which are to take part in the tournament.

The entire first round in the independent schedule is to be run off Thursday afternoon. Drawing paired the eight entrants as follows: Dorothy Underwood and Winifred Wright; Jean McMullen and Marian Seiders; Tillie Immel and Mary Bedichek; and Ella Sallorn and Lill Rabh.

In the inter-dormitory schedule two matches were scheduled for Thursday. Scottish Rite Dormitory and Grace Hall representatives are to play in the singles tournament. Newman Hall and Scottish Rite Dormitory representatives are to play in the doubles tournament.

No sorority matches have been set.

Intramural Stars Twinkle in Three Contests Today

Baseball, Tennis, And Golf Hold Interest of Officials

By CAL HUFFMAN
TEXAN SPORTS STAFF

The intramural contests are in full swing today with tournaments being held in three sports, tennis doubles, golf, and baseball.

This afternoon, beginning at 2 o'clock, the quarter finals in the golf matches will be run off at the municipal golf links. The Kappa Alpha trio, who won from Omega Beta Pi by forfeiture last Tuesday, will play the Theta Xi team, winners over Half Moon by 3-0. Kappa Alpha, last year's champions, are hoped to win this year if they can low point the Sigma Alpha Epsilon men who are next in favor.

Delta Chi will make the rounds with Phi Gamma Delta. In last Tuesday's matches, Delta Chi beat Delta Kappa Epsilon two matches out of three. The Phi Gam's took all three matches from Phi Kappa Psi.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon, who beat

Kappa Sigma 2-1, will play against Beta Theta Pi, victors over Delta Tau Delta by a plurality of two matches.

Alpha Tau Omega is matched with Phi Delta Theta this Tuesday afternoon. Alpha Tau Omega beat Delta Sigma Phi in the last contests by taking all three matches. Phi Delta Theta low pointed Pi Kappa Alpha unanimously in their set-to.

Four intramural baseball games are scheduled this Tuesday afternoon. Sigma Alpha Mu will tangle up with Sigma Alpha Epsilon; Delta Tau Delta and Delta Chi will cross bats; Phi Kappa Psi will contest with Phi Gamma Delta; and in the Departmental League, the engineers and the pharmacists will have their "death" struggle.

The first round of tennis doubles in the independent and departmental leagues will probably command the greatest attention today. The matches will be held on the southeast stadium courts beginning at 4 o'clock. The contestants for today in the Departmental League are:

E. R. Nuenschwander, Walter Bock, (eng.) vs. R. B. Anderson, R. L. Crozier (pre-law); Sol Black, Glenn Pasmore (pharmacy) vs. B. Wilkinson, C. Emerson

(academ.); J. Williamson, S. L. Morris (law) vs. Marshall Walker, John L. Walker (eng.); Raymond Waters, J. K. Avera (eng.) vs. Jack B. Hudson, M. Shelby (eng.); J. T. Keeville, William Butz (B. B. A.'s) vs. Millard Turner, W. H. Jones (pre-laws).

E. A. Richards, G. Woodburn (pharmacy) vs. A. P. Jones, Joe Gordon (laws); J. S. White, Homer Cox (academics) vs. Ivan R. Edwards, Milton M. Mosely (eng.); J. T. LeBlanc, P. P. Burnside (pre-meds) vs. Charles D. Bates, F. Burton Jones; Hale O. Schelaben, Grover C. Harris, (pre-laws) vs. Walter E. Lowe, A. Minor (academics); W. G. Kendall, H. W. Deaux (pre-laws) vs. Tyler Baker, J. D. Neal (pre-laws); Marion Smith, Weldon Litsey (academics) vs. R. E. Dabney, Julian Cate (academics).

In the Independent League five matches are scheduled for this afternoon. The Wichita will play Winder; Roberts and Nixon duets will have a match, Hussy house will play Little Campus "A"; the University Cafeteria and Brown House will "mix it up," and Newman Club and Gullette house will "get hot," all matches to be played on the stadium and faculty courts starting at 4 o'clock.

GOLD WATCHES TO GO TO WINNERS

Special to The Daily Texan.
LAWRENCE, Kans., April 1. A small treasure chest of gold wrist watches, gold, silver and bronze medals, golden bronze plaques, and silver loving cups has been received by the University of Kansas athletic office for distribution to winning relay team members and individual event winners in the Seventh Annual Kansas Relays which will be held here the afternoon of April 20.

Drake Netters Next Foe for Longhorn Stars

Two sophomores from Drake University of Des Moines, Iowa, the place where the famous Drake Relays are held every year, will be in Austin Wednesday to represent their university in tennis matches with Steer netmen. These two men are Frank Brody and Max Everett, and they will probably be pitted against Berkeley Bell, the Varsity ace, and Bruce Barnes in two singles matches and a doubles match on Penick Courts at 3 o'clock.

Brody was second ranking player in Iowa last year, placing next to Coggeshall of Grinnell College in ability, and Everett was fourth ranking man in his state. From all indications, they should make an effective combination against the Steers. Unlike the Grinnell netters, who were in bad form from lack of practice due to the late spring in their state, the Drake men have been practicing indoors for the coming tournament and should make a good showing.

Bell and Brody are not unacquainted with each other, as they were doubles partners in the Boston meet several years ago, so the contest tomorrow, according to Coach Penick, should have added interest because it will show which of the two has developed the more since their last encounters.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT BEGINS THURSDAY

The inter-group tennis tournament for girls is scheduled to start at 5 o'clock Thursday, April 4. The tournament is intended to create interest in tennis and not to emphasize skill, according to Miss Margaret Kirkner, faculty adviser for inter-group activities.
